NAJIBOLLAH ON ROLE OF INTERNAL SECURITY ORGAN

LD311936 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1630 GMT 24 Mar 82

["Shorter version" of speech by Dr Najibollah, PDPA Central Committee Politburo member and director general of KHAD, delivered at the PDPA national conference in Kabul on 23 March -- recorded in Pashtu]

[Text] Esteemed Comrade Babrak Karmal, dear delegates of the first national PDPA conference, revolutionary and militant comrades: Allow me to present to you warm greetings of revolutionary comradeship on the occasion of this great party conference. The holding of this great important and historic conference is the direct result of the political maturity, organizational consolidation and the unity of the party and its influence with the masses of the people. Under the sovereignty of the party, despite all difficult circumstances that international imperialism and reaction have imposed on our people and the revolution, the speedy economic, social and cultural development of the country, the (?coordination) of national tribal and ethnic relations which strive toward maintaining national peace, the consolidation of the revolution and building of a new society and the effective action that had been taken in drafting an action plan appropriate with the new tasks, gives us a message of great revolutionary progress and success. Therefore, I congratulate you and, through you, all militant party members. [applause]

Comrades, since the PDPA Second Plenum, which approved the charter of the PDPA, the party has gained some experiences. New methods of work have been introduced in the party organizations and the completion process of [word indistinct] of the party organizations and committees is continuing. Thus, changes have occurred in the rights and duties of the party committees, so this change should be reflected in the basic party (?charter), which is the organizer of the party's internal life.

Comrades, you know that democratic centralism is a golden principle of the organizational structure of the workers and all toilers and of the revolutionary organizations of the new society, among them the PDPA. Logical and dialectical [word indistinct] comprehension of centralism and democracy and conditions for the alteration of this proportion and under specific situations and circumstances [words indistinct] these complex contradictions and the flexibility of one side is a principled creative approach and a bright factor in the party's [word indistinct] life. Moving in one direction and sitting on (?one side) [words indistinct] brings about diktat, personality cults and the suppression of opinions -- which we have already bitterly experienced -- and until now the people [words indistinct] by its compensation. [applause] If democracy becomes despotic then the party transforms itself into an arena for squabbles and arguments and liberalism and anarchism become widespread inside the party. The KHAD [state information service] leadership, cadres and ranks, with one voice, assure the conference, the Central Committee Politburo and, foremost, Comrade Babrak Karmal, who is the (?symbol) of party unity, that they do not view matters related to unity as unimportant. They honor them with their heart, blood and honor and they will always expose the enemies of party unity. [applause] They will resolutely confront those who want to stain the sacred (?structure) of party unity. The KHAD considers party unity the most effective tool in safeguarding party interests. Long live the PDPA's unbreakable unity and may it be strong! [applause]

Dear comrades, the DRA Armed Forces, the sarandoy and the KHAD have dealt fatal blows to the enemies during the past 2 years. The large groups and bands of counterrevolutionaries are being eliminated and they have lost their collective (?power to act). U.S. imperialism, with the help of Chinese heretic leaders, tried to disrupt the security situation and economic order by imposing an undeclared war against Afghanistan. But fatal blows to the counterrevolutionaries have resulted in the social base of the revolution becoming stronger day to day, in security being maintained and in the economic order becoming protected from disruption. We have gained considerable successes in the struggle against the subversive activities of the counterrevolutionaries, which our militant, progressive and vigilant youths and comrades can recall.

ENVOY TO CUBA SPEAKS ON REVOLUTION'S GAINS

FL061716 Havana Domestic Service in Spanish 1200 GMT 6 Apr 82

[Text] Despite the aggressions of the Yankee imperialists and their puppets, the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan is marching forward and attains successes with the revolution, (Abdul Habib Wiri), charge d'affaires of that country in Cuba, has told the 24 in 15 program in an exclusive interview on the occasion of the fourth anniversary of the April Revolution.

[Begin recording -- in English fading into Spanish translation] Ronald Reagan proclaimed a day as the day of Afghanistan, but it turned out to be a failure for his policy. On that day, 200,000 persons in Kabul, our capital, demonstrated in front of the U.S. Embassy to tell Reagan that they will not permit his interference in our internal affairs. [end recording]

Afghanistan's charge d'affaires in Cuba began by recounting how the Afghan people used to live prior to the triumph of the April 1978 Revolution. At the time, our people were living under feudal production conditions. Nearly 2.5 million persons were living as nomads and 90 percent did not know how to read and write. He noted that there were no schools or hospitals, and the people were enduring the scourge of a cruel dictatorship.

Following the triumph of the revolution in Afghanistan, the diplomat stated, the agrarian reform was carried out, the peasants were given the land at no cost and now the government is making every effort to offer them what they require in their work, particularly to solve the serious problem of irrigation.

As another success of the revolution, he referred to the mobilization of the masses, their integration in unions, the creation of a women's organization and another for the youth, under the leadership of the party. In addition, he said:. One of the fundamental gains in these 4 years is the enacting of a provisional constitution. Another one is the creation of the Fatherland Front, whose essential task is to unite all democratic forces in the country.

Likewise, the charge d'affaires pointed out that there have been some successes in the economic field, such as increases in workers' wages, especially of the poorest. Following the triumph of the revolution when it lost its interests, the United States did what it always does, make propaganda, not only propaganda but counterrevolutionary aggressions. Training camps for counterrevolutionaries with Yankee, Chinese and Pakistani advisers have been set up around our country. The bandits penetrate our territory to murder innocent people, children, teachers, physicians. They burn schools, destroy hospitals.

In the face of such incursions, Afghanistan, using its privileges of a sovereign nation and in accordance with the treaty signed with the Soviet Union, requested the presence of a limited-size contingent of Soviet soldiers to help repulse the foreign aggression. This is in harmony with the UN Charter, the Afghan diplomat stressed. That is why there is a limited-size Soviet contingent in Afghanistan and it will remain there until all aggressions cease. If those aggressions were to cease today, the Soviet troops would withdraw tomorrow. But, as long as the aggressions continue, those soldiers will remain in our country.

The Afghan diplomat noted that his government has made two proposals -- one in 1980 and another in 1981 -- to neighboring countries which are using their territories as bases for the counterrevolution. In these proposals, Afghanistan outlined its readiness to engage in conversations to solve the region's problem and the so-called Afghan issue, the diplomat stated. In these conversations we could talk about when the limited-size Soviet contingent would withdraw, but those soldiers will remain in our country until aggressions cease and we have received international guarantees that they will not be repeated.

MOZAMBIQUE PRESIDENT MACHEL BEGINS VISIT 8 APR

Arrival Statements

BK080754 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0730 GMT 8 Apr 82

[Text] President Samora Moises Machel of Mozambique arrived in New Delhi today on a 5-day state visit. He was received at the airport by President Sanjiva Reddy, Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi, her Cabinet colleagues and diplomats. He was presented with a 21-gun salute and an interservices guard of honor.

In his welcome speech, President Reddy expressed India's concern at the deteriorating situation in southern Africa. He said South Africa's continued refusal to solve the Namibian proglem and its aggression against Mozambique and Angola pose serious threats to international peace and stability. Referring to India's relations with Mozambique, he said these are growing steadily since Mozambique began its struggle for independence.

In his reply, President Machel said that his country has been deeply influenced by Mahatama Gandhi and Jawaharlal Nehru in its freedom struggle. He said his visit symbolizes a tribute to India for its leadership of the nonaligned world.

The distinguished visitor is to have official talks with the prime minister tomorrow. President Reddy is hosting a banquet in honor of the visiting dignitary tonight.

Banquet Remarks

BK090905 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0240 GMT 9 Apr 82

[Text] India and Mozambique have called for demilitarization of the Indian Ocean and early independence of Namibia. Speaking at a banquet held in honor of Mozambique President Marshal Samora Moises Machel, President Reddy expressed concern over the influx of sophisticated arms into India's neighborhood, endangering peace in the region.

Reddy condemned the racist regime of South Africa for its illegal occupation of Namibia and unprovoked acts of aggression against frontline African states. He reaffirmed India's continued support to the liberation movement in southern Africa.

In his reply, Marshal Samora Moises Machel said that India and his country should coordinate their diplomatic efforts with other peace-loving countries to make the Indian Ocean a nuclear-free zone. He accused some Western powers of helping South Africa in carrying out its racial policies and said support from these countries encourages the Pretoria regime to prevent the independence of Namibia.

Meeting With Gandhi

BK090941 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 9 Apr 82

[Text] Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi called on visiting Mozambique President Machel in New Delhi today. The two leaders exchanged views on bilateral and international matters for about an hour. They discussed developments in the Indian Ocean and in Africa.

Referring to the situation in Mozambique, President Machel dealt in detail on the ill effects of colonialism in his country and said very few trained cadres and professionals were left to undertake the development of his country. In this connection, he elaborated in detail the developmental needs of Mozambique and sought India's assistance.

PDPA SLOGANS ON EVE OF REVOLUTION ANNIVERSARY

LD120600 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0439 GMT 12 Apr 82

[Text] Kabul, 11 Apr (BAKHTAR) -- The Central Committee of the People's Democratic Party of Afghanistan has issued calls on the eve of the fourth anniversary of the April Revolution.

These calls reflect the unshakable will of the party to improve the material life of the people, to eradicate illiteracy, to develop education and culture and to maintain revolutionary legality and order in the country.

The party calls on the workers of Afghanistan to participate more actively in the social life and make more efforts to raise production, and to join the ranks of the party.

The party Central Committee's slogans call on the peasants of the country to join their revolutionary party and state and to jointly defend their property, the land and water against the aggressions of counterrevolutionary mercenaries. The party clearly tells the peasants that land and water are their property.

Considering the peasants as the greatest participating force in the country's revolutionary transformations the party calls on them to decisively fight against the remnants of the past epochs and to take active part in the realisation of land and water reforms in the country.

The party Central Committee calls on the women to make more contribution in the country's social, political, economic and cultural life and to consolidate the gains of the April Revolution.

It calls on the traders and craftsmen to take greater part in the revolutionary transformations, to raise their role in meeting the people's needs and to develop the cooperative movement in the interest of the vast masses of toilers.

In a slogan concerning the tribes and nationalities the party Central Committee has said the PDPA and the state of the DRA follow a policy of mutual trust, peace and cooperation which is in accord with the instructions of Islam.

Regarding the foreign policy of the government, the calls reiterate the policy of nonalignment and peaceful coexistence, consolidation of relations and cooperation with all countries and progressive international organizations.

NEW TIMES EDITORIAL ON ANTI-U.S. MARCH IN KABUL

BK110607 Kabul NEW TIMES in English 27 Mar 82 p 2

[Editorial: "Another Blow to Imperialism"]

[Text] The heroic and free-born people of Afghanistan have and are attaining immense victories in socio-economic fields since the national and democratic Sawr Revolution has entered its new phase. Fully confident in their far greater and more revolutionary achievements in the years to come, the toiling people of Afghanistan loudly and explicitly proclaim that the party they have opted for is the path for prosperity and happiness of the toiling masses and will lead the country to the zenith of glory.

The toilir eople of Afghanistan decisively and candidly declare that they will pursue, without hesitation, the path they have chosen and will continue their revolutionary work and struggle until a new society, as is aspired by the toiling masses of this country, is built. Thus, the internal and foreign enemies of our homeland and the revolution ought to bear in mind that the workers, peasants, intellectuals, youth, women and all social strata of this land are defending the gains of the revolution and they are ready to deal heavy blows to the enemy, no matter who it may be.

DOST MEETS WITH UN SECRETARY GENERAL'S ENVOY

LD131826 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1530 GMT 13 Apr 82

[Text] Shah Mohammad Dost, minister of foreign affairs, met this afternoon with Diego Cordovez, the UN secretary general's envoy, at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and exchanged views on topics of interest. Sakhi Daneshjo, deputy minister of foreign affairs, was also present.

Diego Cordovez and a delegation arrived in Kabul this morning. He was welcomed at Kabul International Airport by Sakhi Daneshjo, deputy minister of foreign affairs; the director in charge of UN and international relations in the Foreign Ministry; the director of publicity and information in the Foreign Ministry; the representative of the Foreign Ministry Protocol Department; and (Muler), UN Development Program caretaker representative in Kabul.

The UN secretary general's envoy has come to Afghanistan to continue talks begun by the secretary general and his envoy who had come to Afghanistan twice before.

At Kabul International Airport Diego Cordovez said: Although this is my first visit to Afghanistan, the nature of your beautiful homeland is not strange to me. I was brought up in a mountainous area so the beauty of your country is very interesting to me. Speaking on his mission he said: I hope that I will be able to better understand the position of Afghanistan after I have met with the Afghan authorities. I will not spare any efforts in searching for a way to solve the issues in the region.

The BAKHTAR information committee comments on the visit of the UN secretary general's envoy: Continuing the good-will efforts of the United Nations toward a peaceful settlement of the situation around Afghanistan and the special emphasis which UN Secretary General Perez de Cuellar puts on the solution of these issues, the envoy of the UN secretary general arrived today in Kabul to continue the search for a political solution to the issues surrounding Afghanistan.

The BAKHTAR agency welcomes the visit of the special envoy of the UN secretary general to countries of the region, including our country, and considers it to be an effective effort toward finding a political solution of the issues around Afghanistan through direct negotiations.

The DRA's policy concerning the solution of the issues around Afghanistan is completely clear. We are desirous of a peaceful settlement through direct negotiations on all relevant aspects. The (?position) of the DRA in this regard has been clearly stated in its proposals of 14 May 1980 and 24 Aug 1981: The DRA, while welcoming the good-will efforts of the United Nations, considers the visit of the UN secretary general's special envoy to be indicative of his sincere interest in a peaceful solution of the issues around Afghanistan, a beneficial step toward continuing the search for a political solution to the issues.

The DRA, on its behalf will render every necessary cooperation toward the effectiveness and success of this mission and hopes that all interested parties will make constructive efforts toward the success of this mission.

CORDOVEZ CONCLUDES TALKS IN KABUL, DEPARTS

LD151640 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1430 GMT 15 Apr 82

[Text] At 1000 this morning Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and chairman of the DRA Revolutionary Council, received the envoy to the UN secretary general, Diego Cordovez, at the Revolutionary Council headquarters. Shah Mohammad Dost, minister of foreign affairs, was present on the occasion.

The UN secretary general's envoy spoke about his mission in the region during the meeting.

On the peaceful policy of the DRA, Babrak Karmal stated: As it was emphasized several times on previous occasions, the DRA truly desires a political solution to the situations involving Afghanistan. In this regard the DRA proposals of 14 May 1980 and 24 August 1981 are well known to all. The DRA looks with appreciation to the efforts of the UN secretary general and his representative, Diego Cordovez, concerning the search for a solution by means of dialogue between the interested countries, that is, Afghanistan, Pakistan and Iran.

We believe that the most beneficial way to treat this complex issue will be direct talks between the governments concerned. But it looks like the other side is still not prepared for direct talks, and instead proposes complex and nonbeneficial ways which fall short of the main goal.

Despite this the DRA will continue its efforts toward consolidating a spirit of good will and good relations with its neighbors, pursuing [word indistinct] the solution of all issues in the region and the settlement of present problems for consolidating peace and in reaching an all-round and lasting peace.

Similarly, Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand, member of the PDPA Central Committee Politburo and chairman of the DRA Council of Ministers, met this morning at 1130 with Diego Cordovez, envoy to the UN secretary general. They talked about his good-will mission.

According to another report the UN secretary general's envoy left Kabul for Islamabad this afternoon.

He was seen off at Kabul Airport by: The deputy minister of foreign affairs, Sakhi Daneshjo; the director of United Nations and international relations [of the Foreign Ministry]; the director of information and publicity and a representative of the Protocol Department of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

TRADE COOPERATION DISCUSSED WITH CSSR DELEGATION

LD152300 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1530 GMT 15 Apr 82

[Text] A delegation from the friendly country of the Socialist Republic of Czechoslovakia recently arrived in Kabul to hold preliminary talks concerning the formation of a joint DRA-CSSR commission in the areas of commerce, economics and technical cooperation. The delegation has held talks with the responsible officials of the State Planning Committee and the Ministry of Commerce concerning the joint commission on economic, trade, educational and technical cooperation and the (?consolidation) of commerce and [word indistinct].

According to another report, an agreement on commercial (?payments) between the two countries was signed this morning by the head of foreign trade at the DRA Ministry of Commerce, and by the head of the department of foreign trade at the CSSR Ministry of Foreign Trade.

He went there to explain the resolutions of the PDPA national conference to Afghan students resident in the Soviet Union. He was welcomed at Kabul International Airport by a number of the Politburo members and secretaries of the party Central Committee, some members of the Central Committee and the Council of Ministers and a number of Foreign Ministry officials.

AFP: REBELS DOWN SOVIET HELICOPTER IN PAKTIA

BK211314 Hong Kong AFP in English 1305 GMT 21 Mar 82

[Text] Islamabad, 21 Apr (AFP) -- Moslem insurgents shot down a Soviet-built helicopter gunship and killed 44 soldiers in the latest Soviet-Afghan operation in Paktia Province, resistance sources said today. They added that 23 insurgents died in the fighting, which was continuing.

The massive operation, launched last week, was directed against a rebel stronghold in Jaji Maidan, where the sources said Islamic fighters had dumped "sufficient arms and ammunition". The sources said the rebels had so far destroyed seven tanks with rocket launchers, while the helicopter was hit by anti-aircraft guns. Mines have been laid to stop the advance of Soviet tanks and armoured cars, they said.

The resistance sources said 44 bodies of Soviet and Afghan soldiers were found, and that a wounded Soviet soldier was executed.

Almost all rebels groups based in Peshawar are currently operating in Paktia Province.

Meanwhile PAKISTAN PRESS INTERNATIONAL (PPI) news agency said today that Soviet forces had started building an air base in the area of Pameer, not far from the Chinese border. PPI said "a high number" of paratroopers had reportedly been dropped in Pameer, and in Wakhan area bordering China, during the second week of last month.

It added that Soviet forces had also constructed a concrete bridge over a river on the Soviet-Afghan border, and had piled arms and ammunition in the area. Without quoting its sources, the Pakistani agency said Soviet forces were "quite hecticly busy" constructing roads in the area.

SOVIETS REPORTEDLY BOMB KONARHA, NURESTAN

GF221834 Karachi JASARAT in Urdu 13 Apr 82 p 6

[Text] Chitral, 12 Apr (PPI) -- Hundreds of innocent people have been killed in Nurestan Province of Afghanistan adjacent to Pakistan due to savage bombing by Soviet aircraft. The bombing also killed 6 mujahidin fighters and wounded more than 50 others. The indiscriminate bombing killed hundreds of head of livestock and destroyed a similar number of houses.

According to reports received from across the border, with the change in weather the Soviet forces have begun a new large-scale offensive in the area. One report says the mujahidin beat back a Soviet offensive at (Sarv) village in Konarha Province between Asmar and Naray villages. The offensive was supported by aircraft. However, the mujahidin killed several Afghan troops and their commandant. The mujahidin were supported by the local population. The news of local help for the mujahidin was received from Lowgar Province where Soviet aircraft bombed several suspected mujahidin positions. Soviet and Karmal troops captured several mujahidin in Lowgar Province where mujahidin were busy establishing strongholds. Those captured were flown by helicopter to unknown locations.

'ABDOL QADER SPEAKS ON REVOLUTION ANNIVERSARY

LD272216 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1730 GMT 27 Apr 82

[Speech by Gen 'Abdol Qader, acting minister of defense, on 27 April at the parade grounds in Kabul on the occasion of the fourth anniversary of the April Revolution -- recorded]

[Text] In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. Esteemed Comrade Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee, chairman of the DRA Revolutionary Council and the supreme commander of the heroic and proud Armed Forces of Afghanistan; soldiers, NCC's, officers, generals, comrades and honorable compatriots of revolutionary Afghanistan; toilers of all nationalities, tribes and ethnic groups of our free, independent and proud homeland; friends and respected foreign guests: First, I present to you my warmest and most sincere congratulations on behalf of the Afghan Armed Forces on the occasion of the fourth anniversary of glorious April Revolution.

We celebrate the fourth anniversary of the April Revolution under circumstances in which great victories have been achieved by the revolution and people. (?The formation) of a united and collective system to defend the revolution and people, composed of the army, border forces, sarandoy, security organs, revolution defense groups and voluntary tribal groups, have dealt fatal and decisive blows at the major positions of the enemies of the honor and pride of our people, the enemies of the freedom and independence of our homeland. The counterrevolutionary elements have been crushed and popular power is being consolidated in all provinces and parts of the country.

The new development stage of the April Revolution, the phase of the salvation of the revolution and people, has brought about great changes for the toiling masses of Afghanistan. It has created grounds for a social base, popular power and unity of all progressive forces around the party, the PDPA. It has consolidated the independence of our country and has provided suitable conditions for profound social, economic and cultural changes and the satisfaction and prosperity of our people.

The PDPA national conference has defined the present task of the national democratic revolution on the basis of a scientific study of the social and economic conditions of Afghanistan and has specified the important and responsible duty of the armed forces in maintaining lasting peace on the national (?level). The PDPA action plan and the resolutions of the party national conference open clear and bright horizons before every toiling individual of our country.

The daily-increasing successes of the April Revolution has angered U.S. imperialism, Chinese hegemony, regional reaction and their international collaborators. They are crazily continuing the undeclared war against revolutionary Afghanistan. The stationing of the forces of U.S. imperialism in the Indian Ocean, Gulf and Pakistan has seriously endangered the countries of the region and world peace. Therefore, our revolutionary party and government consider the continuous strengthening of the armed forces for safeguarding the gains of the April Revolution, our national independence, territorial integrity and national sovereignty as its most important tasks. As Babrak Karmal said in his speech to the Seventh PDPA Central Committee Plenum: The enhancement of the militant and political readiness of all categories of the military; and the all-round improvement of the party and political work with personnel in the armed forces and sarandoy, is a central question in strengthening the DRA Armed Forces. Our heroic armed forces, with the selfless aid of the great Soviet Union, are better equipped and stronger today than ever before. The revolutionary discipline, professional and political consciousness and the combat readiness and professional skill of the troops, NCO's and officers have been raised to high levels and are developing further every day. No power in revolutionary Afghanistan [as heard] or in the world has the (?power) to break the determination of our awakened people in renewing the revolution.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

14 APRIL 1982

Temple Mount Incident Aftermath

Supreme Muslim Council Claim -- The east Jerusalem Supreme Muslim Council claimed on the basis of bullet marks that shots were fired from three directions and must have come from outside the area of the Temple Mount, Jerusalem radio reported. At a news conference convened by the council, eyewitnesses said there were three other armed Israelis in the vicinity in addition to Alan Goodman, and that they were responsible for one of the two fatalities, the radio added.

Palestinian Solidarity Day -- In his capacity as current chairman of the Islamic Conference Organization, Saudi Arabia's King Khalid ibn 'Abd al-'Aziz appealed to all Muslims to suspend work on 14 April in solidarity with their brethren in the occupied territories and in protest of "Israel's disregard for the heavenly sanctities," according to SPA. Monitored media reported government announcements suspending work in Saudi Arabia, Lebanon, Jordan, the United Arab Emirates, Qatar, Bahrain, Iran, Sudan, Morocco and Mauritania. Iraq and Tunisia have declared a day of solidarity with the Palestinian people, according to INA and Tunis radio, respectively. Monitored Egyptian media have thus far not reported Egyptian participation in the Palestinian solidarity day, although airline flight postponements have been announced in response to airport closures in other Arab countries.

DFLP Operation -- The Martyr Kamal Nasir Group ambushed an Israeli military vehicle on the main road to Bet She'an in the Jordan Valley, destroying the vehicle and killing or wounding all of its occupants, a Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine communique reported by Damascus SANA announced. This operation was a response to the "Zionist enemy's barbaric crimes, culminating in the spoliation of the Al-Aqsa Mosque" and the firing on its worshipers, the communique said. Jerusalem radio's report of the 13 April infiltration denied any casualties or damage.

Israel

Ehrlich Interview, Shamir Remark -- We have authoritative information that the latest terrorist attacks are the work of the PLO and are not isolated or incidental but rather the result of a well-planned action to attack Israel and Israelis everywhere, Deputy Prime Minister Simha Ehrlich said in an interview reported by the Likud weekly YOMAN HASHAVU'A.

I and my generation will see the PLO disappear, Foreign Minister Yitzhaq Shamir told a Young Herut conference reported by the Jerusalem POST.

Begin Interviews -- The 11-point plan for solving the Palestinian problem submitted by Egypt at the nonaligned meeting in Kuwait includes "hostile propaganda" against Israel prohibited by the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty, Prime Minister Menahem Begin contended in an interview with MA'ARIV. The Camp David accords do not mention a Palestinian state, withdrawal to the 1967 borders or Arab sovereignty over Jerusalem, yet all three elements, "which are extremely hostile remarks," were included in Egypt's proposal, Begin explained. He also described the statement that after the Sinai withdrawal "a period of liberation of Arab land" will begin as "an obvious violation of the peace treaty." Asked in an interview with YEDI'OT AHARONOT whether Israel will complete the Sinai withdrawal on 25 April, Begin replied: We plan to abide by our international commitments. There are some things we must clarify with the Egyptians and the Americans. If we are completely satisfied, there will be no problem. If we are not, we will discuss the situation.

Egypt

Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali has announced Egypt's willingness to work to solve the outstanding problems between itself and Israel before the completion of the Sinai withdrawal, according to the Israeli paper HA'ARETZ. 'Ali stated that Israeli Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon will visit Egypt on 15 April to discuss the demarcation of the border in the Tabah area, MENA reported.

Lebanon

Attack Anticipation -- The convergence of foreign newsmen on Tel Aviv prompts us to believe that the Israeli aggression against southern Lebanon is imminent, UN Information Bureau Director Samir Sarsar affirmed, according to the clandestine Voice of Palestine radio.

Israeli work to set up an infrastructure in the border area is continuing, Tel Aviv's HA'ARETZ reported citing unidentified sources. Two helicopter fields are being completed, one near Shu'bah and the other near Shab'a, the paper said.

Iran-Iraq-Syria Conflict

Military Situation -- Iranian pilots downed an Iraqi fighter plane west of Susangerd, a communique broadcast by Tehran radio reported.

Iraqi antiaircraft units shot down an Iranian fighter plane in the Ahvaz area, according to INA.

Alleged Airspace Violation -- Syrian warplanes violated Iraqi airspace four times on 12 and 13 April in an attempt to force Iraq into a side battle and divert its attention from the Iranian enemy, an Iraqi military spokesman charged in a statement reported by INA. Syria's violation has reached the level of "open aggression, "Bagdhad's AL-JUMHURIYAH claimed according to INA. Begin and Syrian President Hafiz al-Asad are alike, and both are seeking to protect their Persian ally. The Damascus "Zionists" have reached a low level of moral degeneration, AL-JUMHURIYAH concluded. The Arab states should adopt deterrent measures against the Syrian regime, Baghdad's AL-'IRAQ proposed according to INA.

The airspace violation charge is a pure fabrication of the "regime of killers in Iraq," a Syrian military spokesman stated according to SANA.

Mediation Effort -- A Kuwaiti envoy met with President al-Asad and delivered a message from the amir of Kuwait, Damascus radio reported. It was officially stated in Kuwait that the message is part of Arab efforts to end the recent tension between Syria and Iraq, KUNA reported.

King Husayn Trip -- Jordan's King Husayn returned to Amman from visits to Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates, Amman radio reported. The talks dealt with Zionist repression in the occupied territories and with developments in the Iraqi-Iranian war and threats by the Iranian regime which endanger the security, stability and future of the Gulf, according to the radio.

DOST MEETS WITH UN SECRETARY GENERAL'S ENVOY

[Text] Shah Mohammad Dost, minister of foreign affairs, met this afternoon with Diego Cordovez, the UN secretary general's envoy, at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and exchanged views on topics of interest. Sakhi Daneshjo, deputy minister of foreign affairs, was also present.

Diego Cordovez and a delegation arrived in Kabul this morning. He was welcomed at Kabul International Airport by Sakhi Daneshjo, deputy minister of foreign affairs; the director in charge of UN and international relations in the Foreign Ministry; the director of publicity and information in the Foreign Ministry; the representative of the Foreign Ministry Protocol Department; and (Muler), UN Development Program caretaker representative in Kabul.

The UN secretary general's envoy has come to Afghanistan to continue talks begun by the secretary general and his envoy who had come to Afghanistan twice before.

At Kabul International Airport Diego Cordovez said: Although this is my first visit to Afghanistan, the nature of your beautiful homeland is not strange to me. I was brought up in a mountainous area so the beauty of your country is very interesting to me. Speaking on his mission he said: I hope that I will be able to better understand the position of Afghanistan after I have met with the Afghan authorities. I will not spare any efforts in searching for a way to solve the issues in the region.

The BAKHTAR information committee comments on the visit of the UN secretary general's envoy: Continuing the good-will efforts of the United Nations toward a peaceful settlement of the situation around Afghanistan and the special emphasis which UN Secretary General Perez de Cuellar puts on the solution of these issues, the envoy of the UN secretary general arrived today in Kabul to continue the search for a political solution to the issues surrounding Afghanistan.

The BAKHTAR agency welcomes the visit of the special envoy of the UN secretary general to countries of the region, including our country, and considers it to be an effective effort toward finding a political solution of the issues around Afghanistan through direct negotiations.

The DRA's policy concerning the solution of the issues around Afghanistan is completely clear. We are desirous of a peaceful settlement through direct negotiations on all relevant aspects. The (?position) of the DRA in this regard has been clearly stated in its proposals of 14 May 1980 and 24 Aug 1981: The DRA, while welcoming the good-will efforts of the United Nations, considers the visit of the UN secretary general's special envoy to be indicative of his sincere interest in a peaceful solution of the issues around Afghanistan, a beneficial step toward continuing the search for a political solution to the issues.

The DRA, on its behalf will render every necessary cooperation toward the effectiveness and success of this mission and hopes that all interested parties will make constructive efforts toward the success of this mission.

AFP: DEAL SIGNED WITH FRANCE FOR MIRAGE-2000

BK140401 Hong Kong AFP in English 0340 GMT 14 Apr 82

[Text] New Delhi, 14 Apr (AFP) -- India has signed a 3,000 million U.S. dollar deal for the purchase of 40 Mirage 2000 fighter aircraft from France, UNITED NEWS OF INDIA (UNI) reported here today.

Under the contract, India would retain an option to undertake manufacture locally, it added.

The deal, signed between the Government of India and the manufacturers, Marcel Dassault, gives India the right to produce up to 110 aircraft at the Hindustan Aeronautics Limited (HAL) centre in Bangalore, southern India, UNI said.

A well informed French source confirmed today that a document of "intention to proceed" was signed in Paris last week. An official announcement is expected tomorrow at the lower house of the Indian Parliament, according to an Indian source today.

The source said it was agreed between Paris and New Delhi that the first official announcement about the deal should be done in the Indian capital.

The first Mirage 2000 fighter aircraft would be delivered to the Indian Air Force by the end of 1984, UNI said. According to the source, the French authorities have assured that the Mirage 2000 would be inducted into the Indian Air Force almost at the same time it enters service with the French Air Force.

India and France signed a detailed memorandum of understanding on January 23 in New Delhi, under which the French authorities agreed to transfer all technology and a variety of weapons systems to India, including the Mirage 2000.

India and France have also agreed that a team of Indian fighter pilots and aircraft technicians would be sent to France shortly for training on the Mirage 2000 and its maintenance.

UNI said that with the signing of the intention to proceed, India had to make a down payment of 10.5 percent of the total cost of the contract. Meanwhile the French Government has given firm assurance to India, UNI said, that the down payment to be made by New Delhi to Marcel Dassault would be safe and that the full amount would be refunded to India if for any reason the manufacturers back out of the deal to supply the aircraft.

Along with the Mirage 2000, India would also get the Super Matra 530-D missile, the advanced navigation attack system and a host of other modern equipment, UNI said.

GANDHI INTERVIEWED ON UPCOMING TALKS WITH SAUDIS

GF131807 Riyadh AR-RIYADH in Arabic 12 Apr 82 pp 1, 19

[Interview granted by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi to AR-RIYADH correspondent Turki 'Abdallah as-Sidayri in New Delhi -- date not given]

[Text] Question: What kind of talks will you hold during your visit to Saudi Arabia?

Answer: I do not usually prepare an agenda for the talks I hold during my visits to various countries, but issues of interest to both sides are discussed during the talks.

My visit is not aimed at specifying certain demands, but we will try to improve bilateral relations to reach a better understanding.

Question: Developing relations means looking forward to establishing joint cooperation. Does this include the economic and industrial fields?

Answer: I cannot tell anything before the talks. Questions of discussion will appear during the talks and we hope to achieve a better situation. I met the crown prince in Cancun, in Mexico, during the North-South dialogue conference, but that meeting was very short. I hope the expanded talks will allow a wide exchange of views, especially since Saudi Arabia has an important international role and India is of special international importance, which makes me hope that the two countries will agree to a framework of useful cooperation.

Question: What is your opinion regarding the Saudi peace plan for the Middle East crisis?

Answer: The Saudi peace plan represents a new hope and we welcomed it here in India because it conforms with our country's basic principles which we have to stick to in order to bring about a solution to the crisis in the western Asia region, what you call the Middle East.

Question: A few years ago, the Government of Saudi Arabia established a number of projects for the big companies in the field of electricity. These companies cooperated with Indian companies to execute these projects. Do you expect better cooperation in the future?

Answer: Indian companies will execute many projects directly or through other bodies in various countries in the world, including the western Asia region. These projects are in different fields and comprise civil and technical construction, including power generation, communications and industrial establishments. I learned that a project for production of electrical equipment was executed by experts from our country and that Saudi Arabia expressed its appreciation of this project.

Anyhow, we are looking forward to further cooperation between the Indian and Saudi companies in the various fields, especially since the field of cooperation is very wide.

'HIGH-LEVEL' DELEGATION LEAVES FOR SAUDI ARABIA

BK131620 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 13 Apr 82

[Text] A high-level Indian delegation went to Saudi Arabia today [13 April] for discussions with the Saudi Government. The delegation will explore the possibilities of increasing bilateral ties with that country prior to the forthcoming visit of Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi. Mrs Gandhi is leaving for Saudi Arabia on Saturday [17 April].

The delegation, which is led by Minister of State for Railways Jaffer Sherif, includes the petroleum secretary and the commerce secretary.

ARGENTINE AMBASSADOR CALLS ON GANDHI 13 APR

BK131622 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 13 Apr 82

[Text] Argentine Ambassador to India Dr Fernandes Escalante called on Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi in New Delhi today.

He is understood to have explained to her his country's stand on the Falkland issue.

HAQ INTERVIEWED ON SITUATION IN REGION

PM131715 London SUNDAY TELEGRAPH in English 11 Apr 82 p 2

[Gordon Brook-Shepherd report on interview with President Mohammad Ziaul Haq in Islamabad; date not given: "How Ziaul Haq Is Stopping Russia's 'Red Lava'"]

[Excerpt] "Look where this has put the Russians! It's like lava, red lava, and the lava keeps moving!"

General Ziaul Haq produced a piece of thin red plastic cut out to match Afghanistan and suiting deeds to words he superimposed it on a "Brittania" map of Southeast Asia and joggled it around to symbolise what the Red Army's invasion of his northern neighbor had meant. It was, I gathered, a favorite device of his.

I need not have worried however, that the rest of his responses would be just as well rehearsed. That was near the beginning of 3 1/2 hours private talk with him -- one and a quarter in the sitting room of his Islamabad residency followed by two and a quarter more around his dinner table.

It was all spontaneous conversation and not once did he request a single word to be treated off the record (though one anxious aide did plead afterwards for the odd name and sensitive detail to be left out). In more than 30 years of talking to political leaders all over the place, I have never known such candour.

Thus, in the course of the evening, he described at length the Kremlin's various political ploys towards him in the wake of the invasion -- ploys which were a mixture of stick and carrot.

Strong Pressure

There had been very strong Russian pressure on him to go to Kabul and parley with Babrak Karmal, the communist puppet premier there, pressure which he had firmly rejected. The Soviet Union had also tried to wield the stick over the 2,500,000 Afghan refugees on his soil, largely because of the role they still play in the anti-Russian guerrilla war.

"Their first tactic was to tell me to close the border -- just seal it. I told them this was physically impossible for us and asked why they, with far more resources, didn't try themselves. After all, you can shut a door from both sides.

"They had to admit they couldn't do it either. Later on they tried a completely new tack. They suggested that instead I move all 2,500,000 back from the border interior, but first throw all their leaders into jail! Needless to say, I rejected that as well."

The "carrot" has consisted of an offer to Pakistan to "let Russia defend her" by joining the Soviet scheme for an Asian collective security pact which Moscow would guarantee. That way, the siren song went, Pakistan would not need any expensive new American arms at all.

"No thank you! was my answer to that," the general commented crisply.

As for America and the expensive new arms and themselves (the most costly are 40 F-16 aircraft of which a mere six will be delivered before the end of the year), he made it clear from the word go in the talks with Washington that Pakistan would give no quid pro quo through allowing American bases on her soil.

"We will fight if attacked and if 85 million Pakistans cannot defend their country, then nobody can. All we ask for are the weapons.

He had laid down two other arms talks conditions with the White House (which he said he had forewarned, in two separate letters to President Carter in 1979, that the Red Army would soon march on Kabul). These were that Pakistan should be dealt with entirely on its own merits and that India "should not be allowed to veto anything." The Americans had agreed, and had also apparently accepted that what the president called "our modest nuclear programme" should not be a hindrance.

India: The talk always swings back to India, in the president's house as in the ministries outside. At a lunch given for me by one of those ministries two days previously the company had been celebrating their country's 4-0 victory over India at hockey, at which Pakistanis are undisputed world champions.

"Who would you rather beat at hockey," I had asked, "India or the Soviet Union?" To a man they had replied "India, of course!"; and the truth is that on the military field as on the hockey field, Pakistan's most pressing test of strength is still with New Delhi. Russia is known to be building up a strategic infrastructure in Afghanistan which will threaten to dominate the entire region in two or three years' time.

But the here and now is that no fewer than 25 of India's 30 divisions are massed on or behind her frontier with Pakistan and if those Indian divisions marched, they would be doing Russia's military job for her.

In the meantime, Mrs Gandhi, by refusing to accept that the Red Army garrison in Afghanistan are even invaders, is doing Russia's propaganda job for her.

The president seems puzzled as well as worried by this. "The one long talk I have ever had with her," he told me, "was when we met at Salisbury for the Zimbabwe independence celebrations and at the end she assured me that a strong and independent Pakistan was very much in India's interest. And, of course, on the domino principle, it must be. So why then play the Russian game?" Her father, I reminded him, had had the same blind spot.

Ties With China

There was of course the solace and the solid aid which sprang from Pakistan's ties with China. What did the Chinese feel about Afghanistan?

"Oh," he replied, "they are always telling me: 'Don't be afraid of the big Russian bear. Keep shouting at him and he won't go for you.'" But, added the president, even the Chinese had had to admit to him that some of the long-term things the Russians were up to in Afghanistan were "very serious."

While we were in China, I asked him about Mr Brezhnev's latest olive branch to Peking. Would it have any serious effect? "I doubt it. Formal inter-state relations may get closer to normal but the fundamental breach will remain. After all, if China defied the Soviet Union when she herself was so weak, why should she make everything up today, when she is so much stronger?"

HAQ: KASHMIR ISSUE 'INTERNATIONAL PROBLEM'

BK140642 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 0200 GMT 14 Apr 82

[Text] President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq has said that Pakistan is ready to hold bilateral talks with India on all issues except Kashmir, which is an international problem.

In an interview with Indian journalist Kuldeep Nayer, he said that there was not any restriction imposed on Pakistan in the Simla Agreement which could prohibit it from raising the Kashmir issue at the international level.

The president said that should India announce its rejection of our no-war pact offer, Pakistan would consider a friendship pact with it. He said the issue of no-war pact should be considered as a first step and the proposal to set up a joint commission of the two countries can be discussed later.

PLANS FOR CHASHMA NUCLEAR COMPLEX REVIVED

BK140646 Hong Kong AFP in English 0631 GMT 14 Apr 82

[Text] Islamabad, 14 Apr (AFP) -- Pakistan is to go ahead with a nuclear power project at Chashma, with a generating capacity of 937 megawatts, almost 50 percent more than plannned in an earlier project, official sources said today.

The project, costing over 1,600 million dollars, will be completed by mid 1988, they said. Chashma is some 250 kms (160 miles) south of here.

An original project, planned under executed former Premier Zulfiqar Ali Bhutto in 1976, called for a 600-megawatt nuclear complex including a fuel reprocessing plant from France.

The plan was abandoned owing to stiff opposition from the United States, which feared Pakistan might acquire the ability to detonate an atomic bomb. Former French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing suspended the deal despite Pakistan's assurances that its nuclear program was geared at peaceful purposes.

No details were given about the new set up, but official sources stressed that nuclear generation was vital owing to an acute shortage of power. With the high cost of oil, nuclear power was the only economical alternative for Pakistan, the sources said.

Pakistan has a first nuclear power plant in Karachi, the country's largest city.

MINISTER SAYS TERRORIST ACTIVITIES DECREASING

BK110646 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1700 GMT 10 Apr 82

[Text] Federal Interior Minister Mahmud Haroon has said terrorist activities in the country are on the decrease. Addressing a news conference in Islamabad this afternoon he said there were many factors for the decrease. These included the unwillingness of those recruited for the purpose, more security measures and follow-up action. In reply to a question as to whether the government was aware of the Al-Zulfiqar activities in Kabul, he said these might not be the only terrorist organizations based in Kabul. There may be others as well. However, the Interior Ministry was concerned with the checking of terrorist activities inside the country.

Replying to a question, he said no one in authority had ever spoken against elections. He emphasized that holding of elections was imperative and there could be no method other than that of adult franchise. He, however, said elections could be held when conditions were conducive.

In reply to another question, the minister said those responsible for desecration of the holy Koran would be tried according to the new law which provided for life imprisonment.

Replying to another question, he said the number of political detainees which recently stood at 62 has gone down. He said as for the crackdown in various provinces against antistate and antisocial activities, all those against whom there was no evidence had either been released or were being released. He emphatically declared that no detainee was tortured. He said if any case of torture was brought to his notice, strong action would be taken against those responsible.

IRANIANS EXPRESS SOLIDARITY WITH PALESTINIANS

Khomeyni Statement

LD140908 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0655 GMT 14 Apr 82

[Statement issued by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni "in support of the risen people of the occupied lands in Palestine" -- read by unidentified speaker]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The issue of Jerusalem is not a personal one; it is not confined to one country; at this time it is confined to the world Muslims; it is an issue for the world's monotheists and the religious persons of the past, the present and the future, from the day that the foundations of the Al-Aqsa Mosque were laid, for as long as this planet travels in the system of life.

How painful it is for the Muslims of the world today, with all the material and spiritual facilities at their disposal, to witness such an insult to Almighty God and His esteemed prophets by a bunch of criminal hooligans, and how shameful it is for the Islamic governments -- who have a stranglehold on the world superpowers to sit and watch America -- that supercriminal of history -- set a corrupt and worthless being against them, usurp their holy places of prayers and their prime sanctuary with a small group of people, and with the utmost impudence flex its muscles in front of all of them. How shameful it would be to keep silent in the face of this great historic catastrophe; and how beautiful it would have been if the loudspeakers of the Al-Aqsa Mosque had come to life from the very day when Israel -- that corrupt entity -- embarked on this great crime.

Now that the revolutionary and brave Muslims of Palestine, with sublime zeal and a divine slogan, have risen in the ascension place of the last prophet of God, have invited the Muslims to unite and rise, and have staged a movement against world blasphemy, by what justification and on the basis of which aware conscience of humanity can one be indifferent to this Islamic deed in front of the omnipotent God?

Now that the blood of the dear youths of Palestine has painted the walls of the Jerusalem mosque, when their just demands have been answered by the machineguns of a bunch of charlatans, would it not be disgraceful for the zealous Muslims not to heed their meek calls and not to declare their solidarity with them?

Let their shouts of sympathy awaken the governments, so that they will utilize the great Islamic power and sever the hand of America, that criminal of history who from across the seas shakes the evil hands of the Israelis in support of the oppressors, and let them save themselves and the meek nations of the world. It is hoped that the beneficent God will favor mankind and fulfill His Koranic promise as soon as possible and make the world oppressed victorious over the oppressors.

Hail to Jerusalem and to the Al-Aqsa Mosque! Hail to the nations who have risen against the criminal Israel, and hail to the Muslims and oppressed people of the world!

Khamene'i Comments

LD132158 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 2030 GMT 13 Apr 82

[Excerpt] According to the Central News Unit, Hojjat ol-Eslam Malakuti, the imam's representative and the Friday imam of Tabriz, met President Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i today. The imam was accompanied by the Friday imams of the cities and regions of East and West Azarbayjan.

During this meeting Mr Khamene'i spoke on a number of movements in the Middle East, saying: Since the leaders of these movements have not been able to use Islam as their guide in the past, their movements have sometimes leaned toward the right or the left. They lacked the decisiveness and uncompromising character of the revolution, the leader of the revolutionary nation and the Government of Iran. Today, however, the Palestinian people's movement has begun with the slogans: "God is great," or "Unite, unite Oh Muslims." No doubt it will continue and bear fruit.

He said this movement might take a long time because of the situation in the region and the presence of an evil regime about which the East and West have reached an understanding. However, since it has begun in the name of God and relying on Islam's precepts, it will eventually have positive results.

Our country's president said: We advise our Palestinian brothers to beware lest the enemies take Islam away from them and to base every step on Islamic ideology and the Islamic movement. No excuse for failure to set up an Islamic regime -- such as the presence of non-Muslims among the Muslim Palestinian nation -- would be acceptable. In the early days of Islam, Islamic regimes existed in that region which treated non-Muslims very kindly and were warmly welcomed by them.

Mr Khamene'i added: I recommend that the Friday imams deal with the Palestinian issue during this week's Friday prayers. He said: The Palestinian people's movement is today a great movement and we should give the Palestinians -- who are strangers in their own land -- all possible assistance.

Rafsanjani Addresses Majlis

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Today's open session of the Islamic Majlis, which began with a recitation from the holy Koran, was chaired by Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani, the speaker of the Majlis. He made a speech and said:

[Begin recording] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Fortunately, the people of Palestine have found their way after a long delay. As all the people and our champion nation know, Al-Aqsa Mosque is the center of this great movement. The path the people of Palestine have chosen to restore their rights and the method they have adopted for their struggle is (?hopeful).

We advise the people of Palestine not to allow their struggle and the method they are using to be manipulated politically, nor allow their path to be diverted. We have happy memories from our experiences in this respect and the world [word indistinct] knows these experiences. You have started from a good point [words indistinct] and efforts might be made to divert your struggle and steal your slogans.

We advise the Islamic nations, especially the leaders of the Islamic countries, not to take advantage of, or use the struggle of the Palestinian people to their own ends or to save face, or — God forbid -- they might be used by the great Satan to penetrate this struggle and divert the people from their path. We will stand by this advice and [words indistinct]. Of course, it is the duty of all the Muslims of the world, freedom seekers and leaders of Islamic countries to support this movement with all their might. But support is quite different from opportunism, or trying to influence or divert a movement. Further advice we would like to give is that the Muslim nations and governments should support this movement, which will surely result in the liberation of Palestine, this center of [word indistinct] of the world of Islam, and this support should not be limited to verbal expressions.

We suggest that all Islamic countries should further extend support for this movement -- it is rumored that tomorrow, Wednesday, there will be a general strike throughout the world of Islam. We ask the Islamic Government of Iran to take the initiative in this holy act and provide all available facilities to properly present the holy movement of the Palestinian nation and Jeruslaem. The Iranian nation always hoped for this point in the struggle -- this hope is now realized and, tomorrow, the Iranian nation will certainly express its support.

What is more important is that the people of Palestine should note that if they are not present in the arena themselves, no positive action can be taken to benefit them from outside. If they come to the arena, then all others are forced to follow them. The Palestinian movement is one that no Muslim can remain indifferent toward; no Muslim can keep away from it.

Do not be afraid of sacrificing martyrs. Do not be afriad of the cruelty of the Israelis. Israelis helped the [word indistinct] shah of Iran to slaughter the people of Iran in Shohada Square; the people of Iran stood in front of the Israeli weapons in Shohada Square during the revolution. Such cruelty achieved nothing then and will achieve nothing now. This movement which was begun should end with the liberation of Palestine and the holy land. Peace be upon you all. [end recording]

Public Holiday Declared

Marches Urged

[Text] Following the release of the government statement today on the declaration of Wednesday, 14 April, as a public holiday in support of the Palestinian people, the Islamic information coordination council has issued a statement calling on the Iranian people to participate in marches that will be held on 14 April in support of the Palestinian people's uprising against the Zionist occupation.

Guards Corps Statement

[Excerpts] According to the Central News Unit, on the occasion of the uprising of the Muslim and heroic people of Palestine, the Central Islamic Revolution Guards Corps has issued a statement which states in part:

Shouting Islamic slogans, choosing mosques as bases for the revolution and staging general strikes in occupied Palestine show the glory and greatness of the Islamic revolution, which continues its growth and expansion despite the feeble efforts of world blasphemy, and frees all oppressed nations of the world from the bonds of slavery.

A new dimension has been opened in the struggles of the people of Palestine, following the aims of the Muslim and martyr-nurturing nation of Iran -- who from the outset of their Islamic movement have shouted: "Today Iran, tomorrow Palestine."

At this historic time, the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps hopes that soon -- with the ending of the war imposed by the American Saddam on the Islamic revolution of Iran and the downfall of the puppet, criminal regime ruling Iraq -- it can be present alongside the combative Palestinian brothers to fight against the regime occupying Jerusalem, to defend the sublime, Islamic aims to liberate the dear Jerusalem from the claws of the Zionist usurpers and to make true the words of Imam Khomeyni, the great leader of the Islamic Revolution, and the wish of the Islamic nation that: "Israel must be destroyed."

KHOMEYNI ADDRESSES FRIDAY PRAYER LEADERS

LD132028 Tehran IRNA in English 1939 GMT 13 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 13 Apr (IRNA) -- If there were an Islamic government in any one country then the superpowers could not usurp the resources of that country, said Imam Khomeyni, leader of the revolution and founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran, when he received his representative and Friday prayer leader of Tabriz, Hojjat ol-Eslam Sheykh Muslim Malakuti; the prosecutor general of the Islamic revolution, Hojjat ol-Eslam Musavi-Tabrizi; along with other Friday prayer leaders of Azarbayjan in Hoseyniyeh Jamaran in Tehran today.

The imam added that the superpowers could do nothing in such a country unless Islam became weak and the ulema were destroyed.

"In the time in which we are living no one can find a government, a people and an ulema like those we have in Iran, he assured his visitors. He went on to say that no president could be found similar to Iran's, who is an Islamic religious scholar and truly interested in the ulema. Also, he added, no government could be found which was being supported by its people as much as Iran's was.

Referring to (?Friday) prayers Imam Khomeyni said, "the Friday prayers awakened the people and put them on the alert....You realised how the situation of Iran was in the past as well as weighing the position of any government in any country." Recalling the Qajar period the imam said that having seen the Qajar governments, and the one that succeeded them, it was clear that each of these regimes believed that it commanded all the people's lives and properties and brooked no opposition from them.

Imam Khomeyni added that most of the foreign powers were against the Islamic Republic of Iran and were all trying to destroy Islam in this country. For an example he cited, "the Egyptian ruler has said that he would destroy any word in favour of Islam because he didn't consider it expedient."

Recalling what the British imperialists did in Iraq in the past the imam said: "They used to destroy whatever they found harmful to the British in that time because they considered themselves the greatest in the world. And this is what is being done by U.S. imperialism during the present, similar to what the British did in the past."

Referring to Azarbayjan's unique history the leader of the revolution said: "In that region Iran had a neighbour with a particular nature and Azarbayjan stood like a wall always against what might have happened. And so it should remain and even more so." The imam further urged Azarbayjan's ulema to keep the people aware and alert because he said that as long as the people remained in the scenes they could not be harmed.

He said also: "Some say that now the situation is worse than it was in the time of the shah," adding that, "such things are being voiced by the U.S. through those persons' mouths."

TEHRAN ON SADDAM'S DEMAND FOR GUARANTEES

GF130915 Tehran International Service in Turkish 1830 GMT 12 Apr 82

[Unattributed commentary: "About the Speech Saddam Made Yesterday"]

[Excerpts] Dear listeners: The speech Saddam Husayn made over Iraqi radio and television yesterday has not only helped bring to light the inhuman character of the Iraqi Ba'thists but has also revealed the fact that the Ba'thist administration is at an impasse resulting from the recent defeats it has suffered at the battlefronts of the imposed war. The tone in Saddam's speech yesterday has also shed light on the extent that the heroic resistance and struggle of the Islamic fighters have been able to expose the disgusting and inimical character of the Iraqi Ba'thist regime to the Muslim Iraqi people.

Ever since the Iraqi call for a cease-fire because of the prolongation of the imposed war, political observers have been confident that Saddam and the rest of the Ba'thist lackeys had arrived at the end of their existence. One important aspect of the speech Saddam made yesterday is that it has brought to light many facts which have been unknown to the Iraqi people -- one of which is that the fall of the Ba'thist regime is very near because of the latest defeats it has suffered at the hands of the Islamic fighters. Furthermore, the Iraqi people have realized that the victory they expect to achieve through their struggle is also very close.

Saddam's demand for international guarantees against any threat from Iran in the event he agrees to Iranian conditions reveals how much he dreads Iraqi Muslims, but Saddam knows better than anyone else that the Islamic Republic of Iran will never attack Iraqi soil. The Islamic Republic of Iran has given such a guarantee to the Iraqi people by refraining from bombing any target they liked while flying over Iraqi cities. In fact, instead of dropping bombs, Iranian aircraft dropped pamphlets carrying messages of unity and fraternal relations.

The fact that the Iraqi people's economic enterprises have been totally destroyed and their wealth completely wasted and that Iraq has incurred foreign debts in addition to losing tens of thousands of its youths -- some of whom have been killed while the rest have either been wounded or captured -- is not an issue which can be easily overlooked. The Iraqi people, who, as a result of the victories achieved by the Islamic fighters at the battlefronts have become aware of all the crimes committed by the infidel Ba'thists, will undoubtedly not allow criminal Ba'thists to trifle with their fate any more.

Hasn't Saddam, who has currently begun talking about and expressing preparedness to withdraw from the Iranian soil he has occupied, violated the agreement reached in Algeria which stipulates that Iran and Iraq should meet in Algeria in the event of any disagreement between the two sides and reach a negotiated solution? What was the cause of his attack on Iranian soil without attaching any importance at all to the provisions of the agreement reached in Algeria and putting forward unfounded excuses?

The Iraqi people are aware of the fact that Saddam's move to equate the condition of Iraqi prisoners of war in Iran with the situation of the prisoners of war in World War II is unfounded and cannot be described as anything but slander.

The Iraqi people know well that the refuge the Iraqi Muslim troops have sought in Iran constitutes the commencement of a move aimed at ridding the Iraqi people of the Ba'thist chains of captivity. After the disgusting and bad character of the Ba'thists -- particularly of Saddam -- became known, the Iraqi people ceased to believe that the surrender of their sons to Islamic forces meant captivity. The Iraqi people, just like those of Iran, regard them as forces which have rid themselves from the bondage of the infidel Ba'thist regime.

The Muslims of the Iran are aware of the situation of the Iraqi people. In fact, they will not allow the fate of the Iraqi people to become an instrument serving the interests of imperialist forces. No matter how much Saddam has tried to pose as innocent in order to win the Iraqi people's support, he has failed to influence the Iraqi Muslims. The Iraqi people's indifference toward Saddam's speech is indicative of the fact that they have regained their Islamic character at a time when Saddam's fall is imminent and have actually established the kind of regime they want to have in the future.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 853

[Communique 853 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. According to air force reports, the brave pilots and self-sacrificing heroes shot down one of the invading planes of the aggressive Iraqi Army at 1415 yesterday in the sector west of Susangerd. They also neutralized other air attacks by the Iraqi forces in all the western and southern areas and forced them to flee.

The brave soldiers of Islam and the victorious combatants of the Ground Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran on the southern fronts bravely defended their defensive positions. While increasingly strengthening their positions, they returned enemy artillery and tank fire. Along the southern fronts, these forces dealt effective blows at the Iraqi forces, halting the enemy's movements and activities.

On the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts, the gendarmerie returned fire against the Saddamists, destroying five trenches and foxholes, one 82-mm mortar and one enemy truck, setting one enemy ammunition dump on fire in the [word indistinct] sector and killing or wounding a considerable number of the aggressive forces.

Yesterday, as on previous days, Abadan was hit by the heavy-weapon fire of the Saddamist mercenaries. Our forces and the Saddamist aggressors continued to exchange fire on the western fronts, but on the Meymak front the battle was most intense. On all the fronts our victorious heroes silenced enemy fire and inflicted losses and casualties. One cannon and a number of enemy vehicles were destroyed and a number of weapon emplacements were set on fire.

On the Sumar front, one tank and a number of supply depots were destroyed and a number of Iraqi personnel were killed.

Also, on the Sar-e Pol-e Zahab front, one tank and a quantity of ammunition were destroyed.

On the Gilan-e Gharb front, the Islamic combatants destroyed one 106-mm gun and one engineering vehicle, killing a number of their personnel, and damaged one truck and one cannon.

On the Marivan front, fire on enemy positions in the Biarreh sector and on the Toveyleh supply road destroyed one truck and three Iraqi assembly points.

AFP: 90 KURDS KILLED, 33 ARRESTED 12 APR

NC140905 Paris AFP in English 0829 GMT 14 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 14 Apr (AFP) -- About 90 members of the banned Iranian Kordestan Democratic Party (IKDP) were killed or wounded and 33 arrested by Iranian Government forces on Monday in Kordestan, northwest Iran, ISLAMIC REPUBLIC reported today.

The clashes came in police raids on three villages near Miando'ab in eastern Kordestan, part of a "clean-up operation," the ruling Islamic Republican Party newspaper said.

A further 14 dissidents were killed when fighting broke out yesterday between Iranian revolutionary guards and "factions paid by the United States and members of the IKDP" in two villages near the Kordestan capital of Sanandaj, ISLAMIC REPUBLIC said. Two guards also died in the fighting.

VOICE OF IRAN ON BANDAR-E ABBAS CLASHES

NC130815 (Clandestine) Voice of Iran in Persian 1805 GMT 12 Apr 82

[Text] Violent clashes have broken out between opponents of the regime and revolution guards. Travelers arriving in Shiraz from Bandar-e Abbas report that dozens of the regime's opponents have clashed with revolution guards and that several people have been arrested as counterrevolutionaries and handed over to the local revolution court.

So far, the regime's propaganda media have not reported the clashes. According to our correspondent in Tehran, a brief report on the incident appeared in the last issue of the newspaper ETTELA'AT claiming that the opponents were members and supporters of the hypocrites. The newspaper wrote that 50 members of the higher echelons of the hypocrites organization and their supporters have been arrested in Bandar-e Abbas.

AFGHAN INSURGENTS' ATTACK ON HERAT REPORTED

LD110816 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 11 Apr 82

[Text] Sources close to the Muslim Afghan combatants have announced that their forces killed or wounded 80 government soldiers in an attack on the city of Herat in western Afghanistan. According to these sources, a contingent of 270 combatants, after planting mines in the main roads near Herat, attacked enemy positions and severely disrupted the movement of troop columns. The combatants set fire to 30 vehicles, destroyed 8 tanks and seized a large quantity of arms and ammunition as spoils of war.

Another report states that the Muslim combatants attacked the Soviet invading forces in (?Ruzgan) Province, killing 18 of them.

BRIEFS

ARMS ACCESSORIES MANUFACTURE -- The technical committee of the Fars reconstruction crusade has manufactured 10,000 components and spare parts for arms since October 1981. MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

15 APRIL 1982

Lebanon

Security Situation -- "Violent and painful" clashes occurred in the southern suburbs and some other areas of Beirut, according to Beirut radio. Voice of Lebanon radio identified the contending parties as the Shi'ite Amal movement on the one hand and the Palestinians, joint forces and communists on the other. Unofficial sources cited by Beirut radio said 25 persons were killed and scores of others were wounded; other unofficial sources reported 13 dead and 25 wounded as well as great material damage. The Voice of Lebanon claimed that Palestinian camps in western Beirut indiscriminately shelled the southern suburbs.

Ten persons were killed and scores of others wounded during clashes in the Az-Zahrani and An-Nabatiyah Districts of southern Lebanon, according to estimates cited by the Voice of Lebanon. A cease-fire was to go into effect in Beirut and the south at 0600 GMT on 15 April, Beirut radio reported.

Shi'ite Statement, Palestinian Reply -- With concentrated artillery and rocket bombardments, the joint forces "seized" several villages and displaced the inhabitants of others, the Higher Islamic Shi'ite Council charged in a statement broadcast by the Voice of Lebanon. The statement asked all those in the Palestinian resistance and the National Movement responsible for this "aggression" to stop the shelling and to withdraw their gunmen and weapons from the villages. Earlier, Lebanese Forces Commander Bashir al-Jumayyil offered to place "all our social and material potential" at the Shi'ite Council's disposal, according to the radio.

The council's statement "came as a surprise to us because it ignores the role which the Palestinian resistance is playing to end these clashes," a Palestinian Revolution Command statement broadcast by the clandestine Voice of Palestine radio proclaimed. In a conversation with Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan, PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat affirmed that the Palestinian resistance was not involved in the clashes and was trying to contain them, Beirut radio reported.

A prominent Amal leader has threatened to begin bombarding settlements in northern Israel if the PLO does not stop escalating clashes between Amal and its Iraqi-backed rivals, the Jerusalem POST reported.

Butrus, Syrian Leaders' Statements -- After a 2-hour meeting in Shtawrah, Foreign Minister Fu'ad Butrus and visiting Syrian Foreign Minister 'Abd al-Halim Khaddam made statements to correspondents broadcast by Beirut radio. There is coordination between Syria and Lebanon and we will continue on all levels to "prevent an aggression and to confront the Israeli danger and ambition," Butrus said. We in Syria, Lebanon and Palestine must resist the aggression directly and confront it on behalf of the Arab nation, Khaddam stated. Any attack on Lebanon will be faced by Syria, Syrian Prime Minister 'Abd ar-Ra'uf al-Kasm stressed in an interview with Paris radio reported by Damascus television.

Iraqi-Syrian Relations

Syria has confiscated 200,000 tons of oil sold by Iraq and has ordered the buyers' tankers waiting to load the oil to leave Syrian territorial waters, Iraqi Oil Minister Tayih 'Abd al-Karim revealed in a statement reported by INA. As a result of Syrian measures, Lebanon has been deprived of its main source of crude oil and Syria and Lebanon have lost over $150 million in fees paid each year, Al-Karim continued. Immediately after the Syrian foreign minister's recent return from Iran, Syria commissioned four tankers to bring Iranian oil to Syria. Syrian measures are designed to increase the "Persian enemy's" oil exports at the same expense of Iraqi oil, which is similar in quality, the minister added.

When the Syrian people, under the National Alliance for the Liberation of Syria, raise the slogan of military struggle, they will find all the support they need from the Iraqi people, Iraqi Popular Army Commander in Chief Taha Yasin Ramadan told a rally reported by INA.

The masses of the people and army in Iraq will try "the hangman Saddam Husayn" at the appropriate time, Damascus radio predicted. The countdown for the downfall of the "executioner's regime" in Iraq has begun, AL-BA'TH wrote in an editorial reported by SANA.

Israel

Territories, East Jerusalem Situation -- The commercial strike and riots protesting the Temple Mount incident continued in east Jerusalem and the territories, Jerusalem radio reported. The Military Government has closed schools in the territories until 17 April, the radio said. The east Jerusalem chairman of the Committee for the Defense of the Land was "martyred" by occupation soldiers who beat him with rifles and batons, according to the Voice of Palestine.

Stoessel Visit -- U.S. UNder Secretary of State Walter Stoessel arrived on 14 April and met with Prime Minister Menahem Begin on 15 April, Jerusalem radio reported. After the meeting Stoessel expressed confidence that the disputes between Israel and Egypt will be resolved, the radio said.

Egypt

Position on Peace Process -- Egypt will underline its "firm position" in talks with Israeli Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon, MENA reported. Egypt will continue to adhere to the peace process and the Camp David accords, will not yield even an inch of Egyptian territory as defined by the 1906 line and will adhere to the method of settling differences set forth in Article VII of the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty, MENA explained.

Execution of As-Sadat Assassins -- The five persons convicted of assassinating the late President Anwar as-Sadat were executed on 15 April, less than 24 hours after President Husni Mubarak rejected their appeals for a retrial, AFP reported. So far monitored Egyptian media have not reported either the appeal rejection or the execution.

Iran

On 11 April security forces arrested 25 armed counterrevolutionaries and killed at least 25 others in Bukan District, Tehran radio reported. Nine prominent members of the Cherikha-ye Feda'i-ye Khalq's minority faction and the Komeleh organization have been captured, Tehran radio announced on 13 April. They had been actively involved in clashes in Kordestan and in operations carried out in the northern forests, the radio added. About 90 members of the Kurdish Democratic Party (KDP) were killed or wounded and 33 arrested on 12 April, AFP reported citing the 14 April issue of JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI. Another 14 dissidents were killed near Sanandaj on 13 April in clashes between revolution guards and "factions paid by the United States and members of the KDP," the paper said, adding that two revolution guards were also killed in the fighting. Meanwhile, Mojahedin-e Khalq's Paris office announced that 13,000 people have been executed in Iran in the last 9 months, AFP reported.

AFP: AFGHAN FORCES BEGIN FURTHER RECRUITING

BK131644 Hong Kong AFP in English 1311 GMT 13 Apr 82

[Text] Islamabad, 13 Apr (AFP) -- Afghan Army forces have begun chasing potential recruits through the streets of Kabul, following an increase in rebel activity in the provinces, according to Western diplomats in Islamabad.

The new recruiting drive, which includes a law decreasing the draft age from 21- to 19-years old, may have little effect on the manpower problems faced by the army, which has been decimated by desertions. Only 30,000 men remain in an army which counted 90,000 troops in April 1978, according to Western estimates.

The recruiting campaign has included the use of force over the past week, the diplomats said. Some neighborhoods were surrounded, while troops made house-to-house searches for prospective (?young) conscripts.

The diplomats added that trucks used to take recruits to their future units were "more obvious than ever," and that recruiters ignored both the minimum age requirements and the service exemptions that had allowed some people to retain their civilian jobs.

The sources added that even some personnel in a Kabul hospital had not been spared from the forced conscription drive. This apparently has forced the hospital to curtail some of its activities, the sources said.

Meanwhile, the diplomats said, residents of Kabul have been hearing heavy artillery fire just outside the capital. Last Thursday, the sound of battles to both the north and the south could be heard.

The military activity has been particularly noticable in these (?areas) with Soviet military convoys leaving regularly and air attacks on the Shawali region and around the Karabagh dam, 50 km (30 miles) north of the capital, the diplomats said.

The village of Paitawa, near the dam, was completely destroyed last Friday, according to the reports.

Despite the Soviet and Afghan efforts, Moslem rebels were reportedly firmly entrenched in the towns of Guldara and in the Paghman region 20 km (12 miles) north of Kabul.

According to sources deemed reliable by the diplomats, the town of Jalalabad, 60 km (36 miles) from the Pakistani border, was the scene of long battles each night, for the first time in months.

The Jalalabad airport, which is closed to civilian traffic, is now used only by the Soviet Air Force, the diplomats said.

SECURITY FORCES 'CRUSH' 77 'TRAITORS' IN FARAH

LD141840 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 14 Apr 82

[Text] According to a report issued by Farah Province security authorities, 77 traitors to the homeland and the revolution, who disrupted the peaceful lives of the people of Qala-e Kah, Farah Province, were recently crushed by security forces and party activists.

The report says that 22 of these criminals were captured, along with 33 assorted Egyptian- and Chinese-made weapons. Following their capture, 1,700 rounds of ammunition, 3 motorcycles, antitank mines, handgrenades and foodstuffs together with an amount of arms, were completely destroyed.

Another group of terrorists and saboteurs was crushed in Koruch village, Herat Province, by the security forces and party activists. Their weapons were confiscated.

FOREIGN MINISTRY, MISSIONS REORGANIZED

BK150815 Dacca Domestic Service in English 0145 GMT 15 Apr 82

[Text] The government, in keeping with its declared objective of streamlining the administration, reducing wasteful expenditure and increasing efficiency, has taken the first step toward major reorganization of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Bangladesh missions abroad. These measures are expected to result in saving of 50 million takas of foreign exchange.

The government's steps taken in this respect are: Twelve missions are to be downgraded to charge d'affaires so as to lead to a saving of 25 million taka; 9 trade missions are to be shut down, reorganized and merged with economic divisions of the nearest mission. The measure is expected to bring about a saving of 12 million takas.

One consulate general and five economic wings and missions are to be closed, effecting a saving of 10 million takas.

Reducing expense of offices in five major missions abroad is expected to save about 4 million takas.

The government has also decided to retire or terminate the services of 22 senior diplomats, including 15 ambassadors and 7 senior officers. The envoys include eight political ambassadors who have completed their contracts and have been recalled.

AFP: ADVISER TO ERSHAD RELIEVED OF DUTIES

BK140035 Hong Kong AFP in English 0005 GMT 14 Apr 72

[Text] Dacca, 13 Apr (AFP) -- Retired Major General Mohammad Iskander Karim, the special adviser to Bangladesh's new military ruler, has been relieved of his responsibilities, according to an official announcement here today.

General Karim, considered to be senior most Bengali Army officer in the then Pakistan Army during Bangladesh's war of independence in 1971 was repatriated to Bangladesh in late 1973.

Since then he was living a retired life. After last (?month's) army take-over, the new military ruler and Chief Martial Law Administrator (CMLA) General Ershad appointed General Karim his special adviser on March 31 with rank and status of an adviser to the government.

An official announcement tonight said "on conclusion of his task with CMLA headquarters, Major General (retired) M.I. Karim today bade farewell to CMLA Lt. General H.M. Ershad and the CMLA staff [words indistinct] headquarters."

No reason for such "farewell" was given but the announcement carried by BSS agency said General Ershad "expressed deep appreciation for untiring and devoted work done by Gen. Karim despite his preoccupation" and hoped that the retired general "would give his services as zealously as rendered in greater national interest."

PROTEST LODGED OVER HAQ'S KASHMIR STATEMENT

BK141613 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 14 Apr 82

[Text] India has lodged a protest with Pakistan over the reported move to induct three representatives as observers from Gilgit, Hunza and Shardu areas to the Majlis-i-Shoora [Advisory Council]. Pakistan has also been asked for an authentic version of President Ziaul Haq's reported statement that these three areas are not parts of the disputed territory of Kashmir.

A spokesman of the External Affairs Ministry told newsmen in New Delhi that India is not prejudging any issue and that is why an authentic version of President Zia's reported statement has been called for. He reiterated that these areas form an integral part of India.

ISI REPORTS ON INDIA-MOZAMBIQUE COMMUNIQUE

BK150929 Delhi ISI Diplomatic Information Service in English 0834 GMT 15 Apr 82

[Text] India and Mozambique expressed concern over the growing influence and interference of outside powers in South Asia. In a joint communique released in New Delhi on 14 April the two countries also noted with concern the worsening of tensions in different parts of the world. They condemned the aggressive action taken by some nations posing a threat to internal peace and security.

Mozambique shared India's concern over the acquisition of sophisticated weapons by Pakistan which led to a deterioration in the security environment. During her discussion with President of Mozambique Marshal Samora Machel, Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi informed him of India's efforts towards building up peaceful, normal and friendly relations with Pakistan. She reiterated India's resolve to do everything possible to strengthen peace and friendship between the countries in the region. President Machel appreciated India's policy of promoting friendly relations and constructive cooperation with its neighbours.

Reviewing the situation in West Asia, Mrs Gandhi and Marshal Machel condemned Israeli action in annexing the Golan Heights. They called for immediate withdrawal from all Arab territories, including Jerusalem. The two leaders noted that the Nonaligned Movement represented the hopes and aspirations of the great majority of mankind and had become an independent and positive force for world peace.

The two countries also signed a protocol on economic cooperation and a cultural agreement.

POLICE FIRE AT ANTI-ISRAEL DEMONSTATORS

TEHRAN MARCHERS SUPPORT PALESTINIAN 'UPRISING'

LD141232 Tehran IRNA in English 1016 GMT 14 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 14 Apr (IRNA) -- The committed Muslim ummah [nation] of Tehran poured on to the streets from the early hours this morning to hold a magnificent parade holding pictures of Imam Khomeyni and his aides to mark the commencement of a new phase in the revolutionary and Islamic uprising of the Palestinians. This parade was held to praise and declare anew their support for the righteous struggles of the oppressed Muslims of Palestine. The marchers chanted slogans expressing their congratulations for this divine change in the oppressed nation of Palestine and also condemned the occupiers of Jerusalem, chanting "Palestine, Palestine, your freedom is approaching" and "Palestine, Palestine, your leader in Ruhollah" (spirit of God). The masses of Muslim demonstrators marched towards the former American Embassy in central Tehran.

AFP Report

NC141230 Paris AFP in English 1232 GMT 14 Apr 82

[Excerpt] undated [as received] 14 Apr (AFP) -- Government offices, shops, telecommunications and air traffic closed down today in most parts of the Middle East as the Arab world observed a strike call by King Khalid of Saudi Arabia in protest against Sunday's shooting at the Al-Aqsa Mosque in Jerusalem.

The day of solidarity with the Palestinian people was also heeded in Moslem countries of Africa and Asia.

More than 100,000 Iranians demonstrated outside the former United States Embassy building in Tehran. Standing on a wall, Interior Minister Hashemi-Rafsanjani [name, title as received] announced that Iran, despite its war with Iraq, was ready to provide "forces, arms and financial aid" for the creation of an Islamic army to fight against Israel.

The strike was also followed in Baghdad and several other cities in Iraq.

Pledge To Free Jerusalem

LD141320 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 14 Apr 82

["Resolution" adopted by participants in 14 April march in Tehran in support of Palestinians' rights -- read by announcer]

[Text] 1. In accordance with the honorable verse "Hold fast, all together, by the rope which God stretches out for you and be not divided among yourselves," the Muslim and struggling Palestinian brothers and all the world Muslims are urged to follow the principle of "unity of expression," which is the key to success, and obey the instructions of the holy men and ulema of Islam; for, by relying on God and unity of expression, the dawn of victory will come soon.

2. We, the Muslim nation of Iran, inspired by the guidances of the leader of the Islamic revolution, who has been calling for the liberation of the dear Jerusalem for more than 20 years, have called for the liberation of Jerusalem since the very first moments of the Islamic revolution of Iran; today, too, on the day of international solidarity with the Islamic revolution of Palestine, we once again declare all-round and extensive support for the Muslim and revolutionary nation of Palestine and its noble and Islamic movement.

3. We the Muslim nation of Iran declare that the omnipotent combatants of Islam, after achieving victory in the war imposed by the American Saddam, will rush to protect the Muslim Palestinian combatants with all our might, to free dear Jerusalem from the claws of the usurping Zionists.

4. The fresh movement of the Muslim people of Palestine, which started with the monotheistic and pagan-crushing slogans of "God is great" and "There is no god but God," and has dealt crushing blows at the occupying Zionists from within, should continue its divine path inspired by the methods of the Islamic revolution of Iran, and silence those accursed calls that try to deviate the Islamic revolution of the Palestinian nation.

5. In accordance with the instructions of the great leader of the Islamic revolution that if the Muslims of the world were to unite, and each were to pour a bucket of water, they would destroy Israel, we ask the Islamic nation throughout the world to free the dear Jerusalem from the claws of the usurping Zionists, with their organization and unity.

6. We declare to the rulers of Islamic lands that, now that the Muslim nation of Palestine has started its noble movement to fight against the usurping Zionism, they should refrain from anti-Islamic deeds and political and compromise dealings with oppressive superpowers and false slogans, and by turning off the oil valves on the criminal America and its lackeys, they should terminate forever the evil existence of Zionism.

7. In following the guidance of the imam of the nation, we consider world-devouring America, whose evil hands are covered with the blood of the dearest of youth, up to the elbows, as the century's mother of corruption and the enemy number one of the world oppressed, and until the roots of that germ of corruption have been severed and its most evil agent in the region, the usurping Zionism, has been destroyed, we shall continue our divine struggle under the leadership of the imam of the nation, and united we shout "Death to America."

KHAMENE'I ADVOCATES USE OF 'OIL WEAPON'

LD141410 Tehran IRNA in English 1050 GMT 14 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 14 Apr (IRNA) -- President Khamene'i today requested all-out measures to use the oil weapon against the Zionist regime. Speaking to IRNA onthe recent events in occupied Palestine, the president said that declaring Wednesday a national holiday was the least thing Iran could do for the magnificent movement of their Palestinian brothers. Besides these measures against Zionism, the president stressed that political movements throughout the world should be accompanied by economic movements using oil as a weapon as well as military action.

The president called on the PLO to ask for manpower and weapons from all Islamic countries, thereby strengthening Muslims living inside occupied lands. President Khamene'i said that now the Palestinian movement has started on the path of Islam, a new turning point has been created. He further added that the next step should be taken from both inside and outside the occupied territories simultaneously. He concluded that if the Muslim governments exerted the initiative it would pave the way for the Palestinians in obtaining their just rights.

TRADE AGREEMENTS SIGNED WITH TURKISH PROVINCE

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, in the wake of the visit by Foreign Minister 'Ali Akbar Velayati to Pakistan and the agreements reached there, a Pakistani delegation arrived in Tehran this evening. The delegation, led by the deputy petroleum minister and the deputy road and transportation minister [as heard] of Pakistan, arrived at Mehrabad Airport and was welcomed by a group of officials from the Iranian Ministries of Petroleum, Commerce and Roads and Transport; the Iranian ambassador to Pakistan and the Pakistani ambassador to Iran.

NVOI QUESTIONS RELATIONS WITH TURKEY, PAKISTAN

TA131437 [Editorial Report] The clandestine National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran at 1730 GMT on 12 April carried a commentary entitled "The First Step Toward Economic Independence." It said that it has been pointed out that imperialism, headed by world-devouring America, is striving to infiltrate into the markets of developing and emancipated countries through its subservient regimes such as those in Turkey and Pakistan whose economy is totally dependent on the West. Therefore, it is not possible to take steps toward economic independence by establishing and expanding extensive economic relations with such countries as Turkey and Pakistan, particularly since these two countries are completely dependent on America and its allies, and in fact have a hostile approach and policy toward the Islamic Republic of Iran.

It is an indisputable fact that Pakistan's leaders have transformed their country into bases of the foes of the Iranian revolution. Subversive activities in Sistan va Baluchestan are carried out by way of Pakistan. At the same time Iranian counterrevolutionaries and so-called Afghan refugees are trained in Pakistan and then dispatched into our homeland to carry out subversive activities against the regime and the revolutionary gains of our nation.

Without doubt officials of the Islamic Republic of Iran are not unaware of these activities. However, it is not clear why not only has no action been taken so far by the Islamic government in this connection, but also why some officials allegedly take pride in friendship with Ziaul Haq's regime which is dependent on America. Whereas the mere fact that Pakistan's leaders are striving to present themselves as implementors of an Islamic policy and as outwardly the friend of Iran cannot and should not be a reason for ignoring the anti-Iranian plots by Pakistan's regime and its close relations with America.

It is very obvious and numerous documents and evidence confirm that Pakistani's regime participates actively in the plans of U.S. imperialism against the Iranian revolution. America places billions of dollars worth of arms at the disposal of Ziaul Haq's regime in order to exploit that regime for implementing its anti-Iranian aims. We need not say anything about the other aspects of America's exploitation of Pakistan's regime against Afghanistan, India and the liberation movements or nations in the region.

Under such circumstances, in which the enmity of the Pakistani regime toward the revolution and the Islamic Republic of Iran is obvious, there still are certain individuals who ignore so much enmity and hatred and who strive to construe relations between our country and Pakistan as very friendly and fraternal and who strive toward further rapprochement with this regime. Our basis in establishing and expanding relations with any country, be it a neighbor or not, should be the anti-imperialist and anti-American policy of that country, its independence of action and its nondependence on imperialism.

TEHRAN ON EGYPT'S INVOLVEMENT IN WAR WITH IRAQ

GF101940 Tehran International Service in Arabic 1730 GMT 10 Apr 82

[Unattributed commentary]

[Excerpts] World radio networks yesterday reported that an Iraqi delegation visited Cairo recently, met with Mubarak and discussed the Egyptian aid the Saddamist regime requires in its unfair battle against the Islamic Republic. The radios spoke about the type of aid the Camp David regime will offer ignorant Saddam's regime. They said the aid includes various types of arms and additional mercenaries.

Mubarak has previously announced his readiness to support the ruling regime in Baghdad. He also said he sees nothing wrong with offering military aid to Iraq's evil gang.

Saddam and his clique received Mubarak's statement with pleasure and happiness. Their confidence that they still have sincere friends who stand by them at times of hardship has increased. They also believed they should extend gratitude to the Egyptian regime for the brave stand it adopted during the war. Thus it has become obvious to Iraqi public opinion that the holiness of the battle about which Saddam talks stems from nothing but its direct link with the circles of colonialism and their agents such as Mubarak and Jordan's shah and that the battle's honor is nothing but Egyptian arms and the Egyptian mercenaries who are continuously sent to Saddam's black Qadisiyah, whose name he must now change to Mubarak's Qadisiyah thanks to the Egyptian arms. In every hardship Mubarak is always next to his allies in Baghdad.

Let us go back to the story of the cat and the fox, the story of Saddam's regime and Mubarak's regime. When Saddam felt the sincerity of his friend Mubarak, he dispatched a high-ranking delegation to him to offer thanks and gratitude and then to request that he fulfill the promises made in his statements. Mubarak was as Saddam has thought; he spared no support or aid that could rescue Saddam from the fatal defeat he had suffered.

Baghdad radio remained silent and did not report anything about the Iraqi delegation's visit. This is customary for this radio, which utters only what it is allowed. But, if Saddam's trumpets remain silent, the trumpets of his masters have not. The Voice of America and other radios carried the report yesterday.

After all this, the question arises: What are Mubarak's motives in dispatching arms to the comrades regime in Baghdad? News agencies justified this noble action by Mubarak for his friend Saddam as being Mubarak's attempt to get out of the isolation predicament into which he had fallen after signing the Camp David agreement in order to return to Arab ranks. These news agencies ignored Egyptian-Iraqi relations and the Egyptian arms deals with Iraq which definitely confirm that the two sides had never severed relations and that Mubarak did not need Iraq if he wanted to return to Arab ranks. He has been and still is a close friend of Arab reactionary regimes. The Camp David agreements did not in the least disturb his intimate relations with these regimes.

If the news agencies meant by Mubarak's return to the Arab ranks his return to the Arab people through Saddam, this is impossible. Who is Saddam to be able to perform such a task? One that lacks something cannot offer it to others. Saddam himself is afflicted with popular exclusion and thus cannot pull Mubarak out of a similar isolation.

What the news agencies claimed is a kind of veiled deceit. By carrying this report, they want to persuade the public that Saddam is capable of rescuing Mubarak from his Arab isolation. An important fact has been forgotten by these agencies: If Saddam could perform this task, he would have rescued himself from popular exclusion. There is another fact: Mubarak's relations with Arab regimes that are similar to his own are the best they can possibly be. Mubarak does not need anyone to get him out of this isolation. Thus, we find that goals other than those mentioned by the news agencies made Mubarak offer help and aid to Saddam's regime throughout the war. These goals are known to all. The thing that drove the Egyptian regime into the (?furnace) of the submission treaty is the same thing that is driving it today into the furnace of war against the Islamic Republic of Iran.

The reason As-Sadat received the buried shah and furnished the floor beneath his feet is the same reason that made Mubarak send arms to Saddam's regime. It is the motive of malice against Islam and against the Islamic revolution. It is also the instructions which Mubarak receives from the White House. Isn't this the same regime that Baghdad's radio used to say carried out the Pentagon's decisions and instructions from the White House? On whose instructions then did the Egyptian regime offer arms and men to Saddam's regime? Wasn't this also carried out on orders from the White House? This can never be denied by Saddam's trumpets.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 854

LD141816 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 14 Apr 82

[Communique 854 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran honors the auspicious birthday of the prophet of Islam's precious daughter, Umm al-Hasanayn, the holy Zahra -- may peace be upon her -- under whose very blessed name great victories were gained in the massive Fath al-Mubin operations. The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran also offers its congratulations on this precious day, the birthday of Imam Khomeyni, the leader of the revolution, the founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the commander in chief of the armed forces, and offers greetings to the all-risen Palestinian Muslims on the occasion of the Islamic uprising of the people of Palestine.

On the basis of reports received from operational sectors in the south and the west of the country, the self-sacrificing and justice-seeking combatants of Islam, by their relentless efforts on the battlefronts of truth and by their directing intense artillery and mortar fire on the positions, fortifications, personnel and equipment of the Saddamists, continue delivering crushing blows to the invaders and bring the disintegrating enemy nearer to complete destruction.

Yesterday, as a result of artillery fire by the Ground Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran on enemy positions in the Sar-e Pol-e Zahab sector, one ammunition depot and several supply points of the invading units were set on fire and destroyed.

In the Meymak and Salehabad sectors, our forces, while silencing the enemy's tank and artillery fire, destroyed two of their tanks. In the Marivan sector, one tank and several supply points and trenches were destroyed along with the troops in them. On one of the front in this sector, our brave troops penetrated the enemy positions and, by opening fire, destroyed one ammunition depot of the Saddamist forces. Our troops also killed 10 Saddamists and wounded 8 of them.

Thanks to the artillery fire of our ground forces in the Paveh sector, one enemy tank was destroyed and quantities of their ammunition were set ablaze. The enemy artillery units also suffered heavy damage.

In the Kan-e Sakht and Band-e Kabud sectors, the brave and resistant Gendarmerie warriors of the Islamic Republic of Iran opened fire on positions of the Saddamist and destroyed three trenches of the invaders and either killed or wounded a group of them.

On the southern fronts of the country, the forces of Islam maintain their fire superiority and continue to hold the initiative. Our victorious and pride-creating warriors, while defending their own positions, open fire on fortifications of the Iraqi forces, silence enemy artillery and mortar fire, control movements and maneuvers of the Saddamists and prevent them from carrying out any operations.

In the Abadan sector, our forces opened artillery fire on enemy positions and destroyed one mortar and one vehicle of the Iraqi troops. Several Iraqi soldiers were either killed or wounded.

Yesterday, Saddamist forces opened long-range artillery fire on several residential districts of Abadan, inflicting some damage. Several of our Abadani compatriots were martyred or wounded.

During the past 24 hours, several Iraqi aircraft violated the airspace of our country in the border regions to the south and west of the country, but our air defense units' antiaircraft fire forced them to flee the airspace of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

ZAHIRNEZHAD DENIES PLANS TO INVADE IRAQ

LD141646 Tehran IRNA in English 0916 GMT 14 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 14 Apr (IRNA) -- The commander of the Joint Staff of the Army of the Islamic Republic of Iran yesterday reiterated that Iran had no designs on Iraqi territory.

Speaking in a press conference, General Zahirnezhad said that since Imam Khomeyni ordered the army to be a defensive one Iran had no intentions of invading any country. The commander explained that references to opening the way to Karbala' (a shrine in Iraq, where Imam Hoseyn, the third imam of the prophet's household is buried) meant that with the overthrow of Saddam, Muslims could visit Karbala'.

General Zahirnezhad attributed Iranian victories to the fact that they were fighting for God, their country and their integrity and they were happy to be killed in the way of God. He said despite extensive aid from the superpowers the Ba'th army was condemned to defeat.

Commenting on the high morale enjoyed by Iranian combatants the commander of the Joint Staff said that it was a very important element in Iran's victories. He concluded that the war was a war between a nation and a mercenary army and fighting until victory was Iran's motto.

REZA'I ON ATTEMPTED COUP, PALESTINIANS

LD142108 Tehran IRNA in English 2030 GMT 14 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 14 Apr (IRNA) -- Mohsen Reza'i, the commander of the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps, who participated in a rally for showing solidarity with the Palestinians in Esfahan, in an interview with IRNA spoke about problems of the war, the recently discovered coup plot and the latest Palestinian uprising. Reza'i said the problems of the war would be solved either by the toppling of the Iraqi regime or by accepting the Iranian Islamic revolution's just conditions. The U.S., Europe and the Eastern bloc were shocked by the Islamic Republic's progress after the Fath operation. Therefore the peace delegations might show greater flexibility in their following trips.

In connection with the recently discovered coup plot in Iran, he said the guards information section was informed about the coup a long time ago. At the time the plotter wanted to put their evil plot into action the revolutionary guards arrested them. Sadeq Qotbzadeh was arrested while smoking opium, he said. In the early hours all the plotters were arrested.

In relation with the past Palestinian uprising, Reza'i said that after waiting for the Arab governments and the so-called liberation organisations and getting no positive results, the oppressed Palestinian people started an uprising to liberate Palestine taking their inspiration from the Islamic revolution of Iran. Reza'i added: "We hope to go to help the Palestinians in near future and solve their problems."

VOICE OF IRAN: POWER STRUGGLE OVER QOTBZADEH

NC140840 (Clandestine) Voice of Iran in Persian 1805 GMT 13 Apr 82

[Summary] Mehdi Bazargan and his associates have started efforts to prevent the execution of ex-Foreign Minister Sadeq Qotbzadeh. A Voice of Iran correspondent reports that Qotbzadeh's arrest has once again sparked off a power struggle in the Islamic regime. "This report states that many known members of the faction opposing 'Ali Khamene'i" have started efforts to prevent Qotbzadeh's execution and "Mehdi Bazargan, Ebrahim Yazdi, Engineer Sahabi and some other moderates" can be listed in connection with this. "Even names of people like Mahdavi-Kani, Hashemi-Rafsanjani and Hoseyn 'Ali Montazeri" are also mentioned. "It is also said that Imam Musa as-Sadr's family and especially Sadeq Tabataba'i" who have close friendly relations with Qotbzadeh are trying to prevent the execution.

"Clandestine Radio Iran, quoting its correspondent, said that a schism has appeared between members of Hoseyn Musavi-Khamene'i's Cabinet and that during the Islamic Cabinet's meeting on Sunday heated disputes broke out on this topic." Clandestine Radio Iran added that some members of Khanene'i's Cabinet are expected to resign over this issue.

However, despite all efforts, preparations for Qotbzadeh's trial and execution have been made. "A Voice of Iran correspondent says in another report that the regime is using various means to prepare public opinion for the execution of Sadeq Qotbzadeh and his associates" and this at a time when the people have not believed the regime's claims that he intended to stage a coup and kill Khomeyni.

"In Paris ex-Prime Minister Dr 'Ali Amini described the charges brought against Qotbzadeh as imaginary and fabricated and said that the arrest of Qotbzadeh, who was one of Khomeyni's closest associates, was actually instigated by the Tudeh Party. Dr 'Ali Amini told French correspondents that for a long time now the communists of Iran have been trying to remove all moderate (?cadres) of the regime before Khomeyni's death to pave the way to gaining the rule." Dr 'Ali Amini stated that moderates are considered to be the rivals of the communists "and generally speaking the Tudehis consider the ruling clergymen as their weakest rivals, whose removal at an opportune time will be extremely easy for the Tudeh Party. Dr Amini added that Qotbzadeh was not considered as a potential danger for the regime and his arrest" can only mean that he was removed by the communists.

"Meanwhile the clerical regime's claim that Qotbzadeh was in contact with monarchists, members of the democratic Muslim People's Party, the National Front, Mehdi Bazargan's Freedom Movement and the Front for the Salvation of Iran led by Dr 'Ali Amini was strongly denied with the statement issued by (?our country's) ex-prime minister." In his statement Dr Amini says that Qotbzadeh and many other of his associates have been subjected to severe torture to obtain confessions and signed fabricated statements.

NVOI APPLAUDS 'BELATED' ARREST OF QOTBZADEH

TA131703 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 12 Apr 82

[Unattributed commentary: "Traitors Who Are the Implementors of an Anti-Iranian Trend"]

[Text] Dear compatriots: As we have stated, the masked and unmasked elements of imperialism, headed by world-devouring America, have hatched an extensive plot against our revolution and Islamic Republic. The preparations by imperialism, whether within or abroad, for implementing a treacherous plot against revolutionary Iran have been observed for a long time now. The true revolutionary forces repeatedly warned the Islamic government to devote attention to the secret deeds and activities of the elements of the United States and its allies. Proof and documents were also presented in this connection. However, as always, the responsible authorities resort to decisive measures only after the counterrevolutionary elements had been able to deal a blow, though not fatal, to the Islamic Republic by exploiting the tolerant approach of the authorities.

Although the arrest of a group of treacherous and counterrevolutionary elements -- among whom is the well-known agent of U.S. imperialism, the traitor Qotbzadeh -- is a measure endorsed by all the revolutionary forces committed to the revolution, but one can dare say that the measure was taken very belatedly. The feature of some of these treacherous plotters like Qotbzadeh was obvious from the time he loitered in nightclubs in the capitals of Western countries. Since the very first day of the arrival of such persons as the Qotbzadehs, the Entezams, the Yazdis and the Bani-Sadrs in Iran, all the true revolutionary forces warned that these filthy elements, after having been assigned with special missions by their Western masters, were falsely and hypocritically presenting themselves as Muslims and Islamic. They said and we said that the aim of these gentlemen from getting close to the leaders of the revolution was to implement the subversive plans of the U.S. counterrevolution from within the leadership apparatus of the Islamic government, to weaken it, to prepare the ground for the assault of the counterrevolution and to overthrow the Islamic Republic.

The thing is that the overoptimism and boundless tolerance of the leaders of the revolution on the one hand, and the support of some of the authorities inside the governing apparatus for such elements as the Bani-Sadrs and the Qotbzadehs on the other hand not only caused these elements to grasp in their hands the country's sensitive posts for long periods, but also led some of them, even a long time after being dismissed from work, to plot freely in this very Tehran against the revolution and against the leader of the revolution and the Islamic Republic.

A review of the past record of the suspicious activities of such individuals as Qotbzadeh would have sufficed for one to become acquainted with the true feature of this treacherous element and similar elements. Even if we put his distant past aside and review the activity of this ambitious person during the very period of his frantic activities in various government positions and during the period that he had been dimissed from work, the mission of this weak, boastful and hypocritical creature becomes very clear.

During the period he was trusted, this very Qotbzadeh misled the opinion of some of the leaders of the revolution regarding the true forces committed to the revolution by disseminating rumors and by repeating all the statements and writings of imperialist, SAVAK and Mosad writers or of elements such as Baqa'i, and what sedition did he not foment in respect to creating discord among the forces following the imam's line and those loyal to the revolution?

In connection with the foreign policy of the Islamic Republic of Iran, too, the traces of the directives of imperialism and world-devouring America are seen in all of Qotbzadeh's acts, particularly during the time he was in charge of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Qotbzadeh, Bani-Sadr and their clique isolated Iran in the international arena and led others to believe that there is no decision-making power in the Islamic Republic, that there is no law, that allegedly the leaders of the Islamic Republic of Iran cannot tell the difference between good and bad, and that friends and enemies are in the same boat.

We are all aware of that notorious statement and stale and seditious note by Qotbzadeh, and his silly speeches that were full of insults, and his charges and slanders against our northern neighbor. We all know that all these measures by Qotbzadeh in those days and of the masked Qotbzadehs in the present circumstances were and are aimed at carrying our Brzezinski's directives, so that on the basis of the rumors, statements and writings of the writers of imperialist mass media and Western espionage services they would strain relations between our Islamic Republic and neighboring countries, particularly the Soviet Union.

The discussion is not only over the activity of such individuals as the Qotbzadehs, the Bani-Sadrs, the Entezams, the Yazdis and the Keshmiris, sooner or later the true face of these traitors will be revealed to such an extent that there will no longer be any room for doubt, tolerance and forgiveness. The important thing is that we become aware that, firstly, the Qotbzadehs, the Bani-Sadrs, the Entezams, the Keshmiris, the Yazdis and similar elements are the implementors of a certain trend -- a trend whose aim from the domestic aspect is to deal blows in various forms to the revolution, in the garb of extreme leftists and rightists, by sowing discord among the forces committed to the revolution, by creating dissatisfaction, by rumormongering, by subversion and obstruction, and if possible by fomenting disturbances and a civil war. Secondly, from the foreign aspect, they try to strain our Islamic Republic's relations with countries that sincerely defended and continue to defend the revolution and Islamic Republic of Iran, to isolate revolutionary Iran in the international arena, and to place these countries on the same level with world-devouring America and its allies. This trend, whose agents are the Qotbzadehs, the Bani-Sadrs, the Keshmiris and scores and hundreds of masked Qotbzadehs, should be recognized, and it is this trend that should be exposed and crushed.

Sharon Visit

Heading a delegation which included Chief of Military Intelligence Maj Gen Yehoshu'a Sagi, Israeli Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon visited Egypt for several hours on 15 April, meeting twice with Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali and other officials and once with President Husni Mubarak, MENA reported.

The various problems raised in Israel in the last few days were discussed "frankly" and all points were answered, 'Ali stated at a joint press conference reported by MENA. The two states are "determined to implement the treaty in good will," he said and expressed certainty that various details concerning Tabah will be agreed upon during further talks.

'Ali said the two states agreed on three principles: 1) The Israelis will withdraw to the lines proposed by Egypt; 2) the Egyptian authorities will advance to the lines proposed by Israel; 3) Article seven of the peace treaty calling for arbitration will be applied. However, according to AL-AHRAM's account reported later by MENA, these three principles define the Egyptian position only. Egypt also proposed that a joint committee "consider the status of the disputed area until the dispute is submitted to arbitration," and that in the meantime the establishment of installations be prohibited, AL-AHRAM continued. Egypt rejected an Israeli proposal that a joint committee administer the disputed Tabah area until another committee, which would negotiate the differences, ended its work. Instead, Egypt submitted ideas based on the three principles outlined by 'Ali at the press conference, AL-AHRAM added.

Concerning alleged violations in Zone A involving increases in the number of forces and weapons, the sides agreed that the matter be investigated on 17 April by the U.S. early warning station in the Sinai, AL-AHRAM reported. With regard to the smuggling of weapons, Egypt stated that it is fulfilling its commitments out of concern for its security and implementation of the treaty and that it allows no weapons smuggling into or out of Egypt, the paper said.

According to Jerusalem radio, in his talks with Sharon the Egyptian president denied that his country is giving operational assistance to the terrorists and emphasized his awareness that the terrorist organizations are seeking to destroy the peace process. Mubarak also said that neither he nor 'Ali had checked in advance the Egyptian delegate's remarks on the Palestinian problem at the nonaligned meeting in Kuwait, and he expressed several times his "deep commitment" to the peace treaty and the Camp David process, the radio reported. President Mubarak also protested what he called "harmful remarks" made by Israeli ministers which add nothing to the atmosphere of trust, Jerusalem television revealed.

After reporting to Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin in Jerusalem, Sharon told the television that a senior Egyptian Army officer would arrive in Israel on 16 April to deal with Israeli complaints about cooperation between Egypt and the terrorist organizations and about arms smuggling from Egypt into the Gaza Strip. Sharon added that Egypt undertook to correct within a few days all violations of the military annex to the peace treaty as outlined on a map which he presented during the talks. With regard to the border demarcation, Sharon said no agreement had been reached and that 'Ali will arrive in Israel early next week to continue talks on the matter.

Egypt

Israel Week Cancellation -- Israel Week events scheduled for next month have been canceled, Jerusalem radio reported. The management of the Cairo Hilton Hotel, proposed venue for the events, announced that it had not received the necessary permits from the government, the radio added.

Execution Announcement -- At 1617 GMT on 15 April MENA announced that the persons convicted of assassinating the departed leader Anwar as-Sadat were executed.

New Air Force Commander -- President Mubarak appointed Maj Gen Muhammad 'Abd al-Hamid Hilmi air force commander, replacing Maj Gen Muhammad Lutfi Shabanah, who was appointed ambassador at the Foreign Ministry, MENA reported.

Israel

Begin Condemnation -- The prime minister's office issued an announcement vigorously condemning the convening of the UN Security Council to discuss the Temple Mount incident, Jerusalem radio reported. A "human tragedy" has been exploited to convene a session in which "terrible accusations" are being hurled against Israel, the announcement stated.

Shooting Inquiry -- It emerges from the police investigation of the Temple Mount shooting incident that only the guard at the Dome of the Rock Mosque was killed by Alan Goodman, according to Jerusalem radio. The second fatality was caused after Goodman was already under arrest, the radio added. Police investigators complained that east Jerusalem hospitals to which the wounded were taken are "systematically" destroying the bullets and bullet fragments and that when investigators came to one of the hospitals, their vehicle was stoned, the radio reported.

East Jerusalem, Gaza Situation -- A protest rally organized by the Supreme Muslim Council and trade unions in east Jerusalem has called for establishing an independent Palestinian state under PLO leadership, Jerusalem radio reported. The number of incidents in the Gaza Strip dropped drastically on 15 April, but serious riots did take place, ITIM reported.

Lebanon

Violations of the cease-fire proclaimed on the morning of 15 April occurred throughout the day and on the morning of 16 April, according to Beirut radio reports. Nine people were injured in clashes between the Amal movement and the Palestinians near the Burj al-Baranjinah area of Beirut, Voice of Lebanon reported.

The Palestinians and the joint forces attacked the 'Adlun and Lubyah areas in the south, forcing the inhabitants to evacuate and causing heavy losses in property, the Voice of Lebanon claimed. The Amal movement is trying to recover 'Adlun from Fatah forces assisted by Palestine Liberation Army detachments, the radio said citing security sources.

Appealing to all parties to exercise self-restraint, the Palestinian Revolution Command called for a meeting of all sides within the framework of the Higher Coordination Committee in order to reach a solution and restore unity, according to the clandestine Voice of Palestine radio.

Iran

Islamic combatants killed 60 insurgents, wounded 40 others, destroyed 4 counterrevolutionary headquarters and forced the insurgents and counterrevolutionaries to retreat several km from the Baneh-Sar Dasht and Mahabad-Sar Dasht axes, a revolution guards statement broadcast by Tehran radio announced. On the same day, over 25 insurgents were killed by Iranian forces in some villages of West Azarbayjan, IRNA reported. Meanwhile, the Friday imam of Rasht and seven worshipers were wounded when a bomb exploded in one of the city's mosques, according to Tehran radio.

CORDOVEZ CONCLUDES TALKS IN KABUL, DEPARTS

LD151640 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1430 GMT 15 Apr 82

[Text] At 1000 this morning Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and chairman of the DRA Revolutionary Council, received the envoy to the UN secretary general, Diego Cordovez, at the Revolutionary Council headquarters. Shah Mohammad Dost, minister of foreign affairs, was present on the occasion.

The UN secretary general's envoy spoke about his mission in the region during the meeting.

On the peaceful policy of the DRA, Babrak Karmal stated: As it was emphasized several times on previous occasions, the DRA truly desires a political solution to the situations involving Afghanistan. In this regard the DRA proposals of 14 May 1980 and 24 August 1981 are well known to all. The DRA looks with appreciation to the efforts of the UN secretary general and his representative, Diego Cordovez, concerning the search for a solution by means of dialogue between the interested countries, that is Afghanistan, Pakistan and Iran.

We believe that the most beneficial way to treat this complex issue will be direct talks between the governments concerned. But it looks like the other side is still not prepared for direct talks, and instead proposes complex and nonbeneficial ways which fall short of the main goal.

Despite this the DRA will continue its efforts toward consolidating a spirit of good will and good relations with its neighbors, pursuing [word indistinct] the solution of all issues in the region and the settlement of present problems for consolidating peace and in reaching an all-round and lasting peace.

Similarly, Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand, member of the PDPA Central Committee Politburo and chairman of the DRA Council of Ministers, met this morning at 1130 with Diego Cordovez, envoy to the UN secretary general. They talked about his good-will mission.

According to another report the UN secretary general's envoy left Kabul for Islamabad this afternoon.

He was seen off at Kabul Airport by: The deputy minister of foreign affairs, Sakhi Daneshjo; the director of United Nations and international relations [of the Foreign Ministry]; the director of information and publicity and a representative of the Protocol Department of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

KESHTMAND SPEARS AT DYOA PLENUM ON YOUTHS' ROLE

LD160640 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 15 Apr 82

[Excerpts] The Fourth Democratic Youth Organization of Afghanistan [DYOA] Central Committee Plenum concerning the results of the PDPA national conference and the tasks of committees and organizations of the democratic youth of Afghanistan toward the realization of its resolutions and subjects related to that organization opened today.

The plenum, which was opened in the hall of the Amani school, was attended by Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand, Politburo member and chairman of the DRA Council of Ministers; some party Central Committee members who are also members of the Council of Ministers; members of the Central Committee and secretaries; heads of departments of the organization and financial provincial committees; youths in charge in the armed forces; state information services [KHAD] and sarandoy members and party activists of the Kabul city DYOA.

At the end of the positive statements, Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand assessed the work of the plenum as successful and handed over honorary DYOA Central Committee banners to persons in charge of the committees.

Making a statement before the distribution of the banners, Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand said: The Fourth Plenum of the DYOA Central Committee is being held at a time when the toilers of our country are preparing for the celebration of the fourth anniversary of the April Revolution. The youths play an important role in preparing for this great revolutionary festival of the country. At the present time in our revolutionary homeland the youths are the throbbing heart of our revolution. Our party looks with respect and gratitude at the thriving role of the sensitive and courageous youths of the homeland who defended with self-sacrifice and courage the gains of the April Revolution and have created epics.

Describing the role of youth in various areas of the economic, social, cultural and military life of our society and also explaining the successful completion of the party national conference and the results of its work -- the action plan -- Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand said: Great and various tasks are before the new generation of our country. Among these tasks one of the major duties of youth is the new education, the learning of theory and practice of the process of current revolutionary life in our country. The youths of our country, by learning progressive knowledge, and based on the new knowledge and awareness, will be able to play an effective role in revolutionary changes.

Pointing out the profound attention of the party Central Committee to the education and training of youths in the country with a militant and revolutionary spirit, Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand said: Under the present circumstances and conditions, one of the major tasks of youths, on the side of all patriotic and progressive forces of the country, is the struggle against armed counterrevolutionaries and defending the gains of the April Revolution. The fate of the Afghan toilers and the militant youths of the country has an unbreakable link with the fate of the revolution. The youths in the sacred and just struggle against the enemies of the revolution against the enemies of the people and homeland through joining the ranks of the armed forces, including the army, sarandoy, KHAD and the revolution defense groups and (?the gathering of defenders), ought to be increased. The PDPA grants much importance and hope to the role of the DYOA in the consolidation of ranks of the armed forces and the enhancement of combat readiness of the officers and men.

Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand said: The youth of our country, whose outstanding characteristic is taken in work, initiatives in practice and hard work, will be able to take an active part in solving the economic problems in the country. At this moment the major part of the working class is composed of youths. We have many examples of young, proud and militant workers in our economic institutions. Measures will be taken to increase the number of such workers.

Recalling the great tasks in the area of control and the implementation of the socioeconomic development plan of 21 March 1982 and in the area of implementing the evolutionary phase of land and water reform in the country which has been entrusted to party organizations and local organs, the chairman of the Council of Ministers added: The DYOA is an active aid and reliable asset to the PDPA. The PDPA Central Committee lays great importance on the role of the DYOA in the fulfillment of party ranks and hopes this organization will be transformed into a militant and active party aide and a militant shcool and reliable learning place of youth so the new generation in Afghanistan will be brought up and trained with loyalty to the revolution, and with a lofty feeling of patriotic and progressive pride and lofty ideals of the revolution, rallying around the PDPA.

The chairman of the Council of Ministers said: A great part of our youths now pass the best and fruitful days of their lives in the bastion of revolutionary struggle for a bright future of the toiling man of our country. They bring about the most beautiful epics of contemporary history in revolutionary Afghanistan. The enemy is frightened of your heroic and courageous fight; you are the best fighters of the path of revolution; you constitute the great force in our society. Consolidate further and strengthen your ranks to defend the revolution and revolutionary gains of people and struggle against counterrevolutionaries still further.

[Text] Kabul, 11 Apr (BAKHTAR) -- Several counterrevolutionary bands have recently been crushed in Kuh-e Sayyad District and Almar Sub-district of Faryab Province and Sheykh Jalal village in Baghlan Province by the defenders of the revolutionary and the security forces.

Their ringleaders were captured and arrested.

The security forces have recovered a large quantity of assorted weapons, bullets and printed materials from them.

RAO ON GULF WAR MEDIATION, FALKLAND DISPUTE

BK151621 Hong Kong AFP in English 1533 GMT 15 Apr 82

[Text] New Delhi, 15 April (AFP) -- Foreign Minister Narasimha Rao said today that the nonaligned ministerial committee on the Gulf war still had hopes of making progress to end the 19-month-old conflict between Iraq and Iran.

Answering questions in Parliament, he said that the numerous meetings already held by the committee on the Gulf war disproved any suggestion of its "flagging spirit."

Mr Rao said that the forthcoming nonaligned summit in Baghdad "is on" in accordance with the decision taken at the previous gathering in Havana. He did not mention Iranian opposition to the summit being held in the Iraqi capital.

Asked if the Iranian attitude had hardened after its recent battlefield successes and Iraqi President Saddam Husayn's offer to withdraw his troops with a guarantee of territorial integrity, Mr Rao said it would be wrong to base nonaligned efforts on who was winning at the moment.

He said any victories by one side could either produce a harder attitude or a softening toward a "magnanimous approach" which the nonaligned committee was trying to foster.

Mr Rao declined to divulge details of the proposals made by the committee on the fighting, saying it was a sensitive matter and had to be discussed elsewhere.

He ruled out any solo effort by India to mediate between the two warring countries.

In another matter, Mr Rao said that India supported Argentina's claims on Falkland Islands, but wanted to see a peaceful solution to the crisis.

"We do not like the use of force even for a right cause," he said in an interview with some Japanese correspondents on the eve of his official visit to Tokyo.

Mr Rao also said there was no impasse in the Indo-Pakistan dialogue on a non-war pact. He said the discussions had been postponed for the "time being" because the "atmosphere is not quite as it ought to be."

LATEST DISPUTE WITH PAKISTAN OVER KASHMIR VIEWED

BK151203 Hong Kong AFP in English 1059 GMT 15 Apr 82

[Excerpt] New Delhi, April 15 (AFP) -- The diplomatic row between India and Pakistan on the status of three strategic areas in the northern Kashmir region continued unabated today with New Delhi reiterating that the territories were "constitutionally and juridicially" part of India.

The lid on the controversial issue blew off yesterday with the publication here of an interview given by Pakistani President Gen Ziaul Haq to an Indian journalist stating that the areas of Gilgit, Hunza and Shardu were part of Pakistan and were not disputed.

India maintains that the areas are part of the state of Kashmir, claimed by New Delhi.

Indian Foreign Minister P.V. Narasimha Rao told the lower house of the Parliament today that his government had lodged a "serious objection" and expressed "serious concern" to Islamabad over the Pakistani claims.

Mr Rao's categoric statement closely followed an assertion by an Indian official spokesman here yesterday that India considered the territories part of its Jammu and Kashmir state.

"It is our well-known position that the areas mentioned (by the Pakistani president) are part of the Indian state of Jammu and Kashmir, said Mr Rao. He added that he had asked Islamabad for an "authentic version of the Pakistani position on this question."

The Indo-Pakistani territorial dispute involves the entire 222,236-square-km northern state of Jammu and Kashmir, which borders India, Pakistan, Afghanistan and the Soviet Union.

According to Indian claims and records, Pakistan is in "illegal occupation" of a 78,932-square-km area. The three territories fall under this area and are currently under Pakistani control. India also maintains that Pakistan had handed over another 5,180 square km to China under a bilateral boundary accord.

China is also accused of "occupying" a 37,555-square-km area which, India claims, originally was part of the Jammu and Kashmir state.

Independent observers said that though the present row may not effect the actual territorial position, it would adversely effect on-going diplomatic efforts between Islamabad and New Delhi to improve bilateral relations.

GANDHI OPENS ARMY COMMANDERS CONFERENCE

BK151605 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 15 Apr 82

[Text] The prime minister has said defense and development are closely interlinked and one cannot undertake development while being vulnerable to outside threats. Addressing the opening session of the week-long army commanders conference in New Delhi today, Mrs Gandhi said the government is fully conscious to modernize the army and improve its firepower.

Mrs Gandhi asked the army to keep the global, political-economic context in mind while formulating its long-term plans. She underlined the need to absorb imported technology and develop it further to suit our future requirements.

Earlier, in his opening remarks Chief of the Army Staff Gen K.B. Krishna Rao said the army is fully prepared to meet threats to the country's security.

Defense Minister Venkataraman and Deputy Defense Minister K.P. Singh Deo were present at the conference.

AFP VIEWS MOUNTING TENSION IN PUNJAB STATE

BK150305 Hong Kong AFP in English 0219 GMT 15 Apr 82

[By Dilip Ganguly]

[Text] New Delhi, 14 Apr (AFP) -- Tension building up in the strategic and affluent Indian state of Punjab, bordering Pakistan, could snowball into a serious problem for Prime Minister Indira Gandhi if her government cannot resolve differences with the Sikh community.

With the highest per capita income in the country, and a population of about 16 million that makes up the largest representation in the armed forces, Punjab is showing signs of defying Mrs Gandhi's federal government.

Last week talks between the state's Sikh leaders and Mrs Gandhi failed to sort out differences. This week a convention of Sikhs, attended by 8,000 delegates, including some from abroad, set August 15 as the deadline by which their demands for more political and financial autonomy, including a separate constitution for the state, had to be met.

A convention resolution said the Sikhs would continue their "struggle" for an autonomous "des Punjab" -- the concept of a Sikh homeland within the Indian union with greater state powers and a separate constitution, which was first conceived in 1973 at a similar convention. Today the Punjab is governed by the congress party.

The militant, turbaned Sikhs, the richest community in India, seem determined to go ahead with the agitation plan.

Known as the granary of India for its high output of wheat, rice and pulses, Punjab is bounded by Pakistan in the west, the disputed Jammu and Kashmir state in the north, and the Indian states of Himachal Pradesh, Harvana and Rajasthan in the south and east.

The literacy rate is 40.74 percent as against the national average of 36.17 percent.

Trouble started brewing in the Punjab last year when demands for the formation of a Sikh homeland called "Khalistan" were publicly aired.

Numerous clashes took place between Sikhs and Hindus, and tension increased last week with a federal decision that fixed the sharing of river water in Punjab. The affair came to a head this week at the Sikh convention organised by a faction of the Sikh political party called Akali Dal.

The apparently unimportant water dispute blew up into a major issue with Sikh political leaders denouncing the accord and threatening civil disobedience.

Sikhs were asked not to pay government taxes and there were threats of violence, to stop work on a 108 kilometre (67 miles) canal connecting the Sutlej and Yamuna Rivers.

The dispute over water sharing has a long history. In 1962 India paid Pakistan 1,000 million rupees, then worth about 166 million dollars, to secure exclusive rights to the waters of the Ravi and Beas Rivers.

Originally the Punjab enjoyed the unrestricted right to use the rivers' water. But in 1961 the Haryana state was carved out of the Punjab and got a share of the water. Under the accord signed last week, the desert states of Rajasthan [only name as received] were included in the sharing scheme.

Sikh leaders say Punjab has been deprived of its right to use the waters and fear the long-term possibility of drought.

A federal government spokesman here said, however, that Punjab would eventually benefit from the accord. Observers said the Sikh leaders were deliberately using the water agreement as a political weapon to stir up the Sikhs, who are primarily farmers.

This week's "Third World Sikh convention" in the holy city of Anandput Sahib, about 400 km (249 miles) north of here, took a controversial turn from the start because United States-based Ganga Singh Dhillon, a Khalistan movement activist, was refused entry to India on April 10.

The convention was seen here as a concrete step by the Sikhs towards confrontation with Mrs Gandhi's federal rule.

"It is a little early to say which course the agitation will take, but there seems little doubt that political foes of Mrs Gandhi and the militant Sikh leaders will utilise the opportunity to create problems for her," an independent observer said.

Punjab's problems started in the pre-independence days when the Indian national congress and the Akali Dal forged a united front against the Muslim League, and in 1946 the Sikhs rejected a Muslim League offer of a sovereign Sikh state linked on advantageous terms with Pakistan. Instead the Sikhs accepted a "solemn undertaking" by congress promising a "set-up in north India wherein the Sikhs can also experience the glow of freedom."

Newspaper surveys have shown that the majority of Sikhs do not favour a separate homeland and breaking away from India.

Many of Sikhs have migrated to 21 other Indian states, and they have set up businesses which they often cannot afford to abandon, although they want more power and less interference by the federal administration.

"They are caught in a most unusual schizophrenia. They are too aware of their economic strength, but they also suffer from a precaution complex -- that the government in New Delhi does not want them to assert their identity on the national scheme," an observer said.

NEW PROJECT FOR PRODUCING PLUTONIUM LAUNCHED

BK151320 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1230 GMT 15 Apr 82

[Text] The Department of Atomic Energy has launched a new project for producing plutonium fuel. It envisages development of a process to produce plutonium-bearing nuclear fuel for thermal and fast breeder reactors.

The department's annual report for 1981-82 says the atomic reactors operating in the country today use either enriched uranium or natural uranium as fuel. Plutonium is the fuel proposed for the next generation of nuclear plants in the country.

The report says initial studies on the fifth atomic power project at Kakrapar in Gujarat have begun. Ninety percent of the work on the fast breeder test reactor at Kalpakam has been completed. It adds that more heavy-water plants are to be set up in the current period starting with one at Thal-Waishet at Maharashtra. It will have a capacity of 200 tons.

CULTURAL ACCORD WITH HUNGARY -- India and Hungary signed in New Delhi on 14 April a new cultural agreement between them. The agreement, valid for the next 3 years, envisages strengthening mutual relations between the two countries through cooperation in the fields of art and culture, education and science, including medical and agricultural sciences. In the field of sports, the program stipulates promotion of direct contacts between the national sports organizations of the two countries. [Delhi Domestic Service in English 1230 GMT 14 Apr 82 BK]

CRUDE PRODUCTION -- The production of crude from the onshore and offshore oilfields in the country up to the end of February reached an all-time high of 14.52 million tons. This marked an increase of about 57 percent over the production of 9.25 million tons in the corresponding period last year. According to an official release of the Petroleum Ministry, the increase in oil production from the Oil and Natural Gas Commission's offshore projects was substantial -- particularly from Bombay High. It went up to 59.9 percent by February this year. Similarly, oilfields in the Gujarat region produced 3.15 million tons and Oil India Limited produced 2.7 million tons. EXECUTION OF AS-SADAT ASSASSINS CONDEMNED

["Text" of statement issued by the Foreign Ministry of the Islamic Republic of Iran on "the Egyptian regime's execution of a group of Egyptian believers" -- date not given]

given]

[Text] At last, Husni Mubarak -- As-Sadat's fosterling -- has implemented the orders of his criminal masters, the United States and the Zionist entity. At dawn yesterday the executioners of the puppet Egyptian regime executed Capt Khalid al-Islambuli and his four colleagues who executed As-Sadat.

At a time when Palestinian Muslims are facing the Zionist enemy's aggression and are offering martyrs, the Egyptian regime, in order to please the Zionist aggressors and assure them that it will not pose a threat to them after their withdrawal from Sinai, and in order to placate the Zionist criminals and confront the Islamic uprising of the Muslim Palestinian people, carried out this abhorrent crime.

There is no doubt that the Muslim blood that was shed in Al-Aqsa Mosque and the blood of the martyr Al-Islambuli and his brothers shed by the executioners in control of Egypt will irrigate a sapling whose fruit will be the liberation of the region's Muslims from the claws of international oppression.

The Foreign Ministry of the Islamic Republic of Iran, while congratulating and condoling the faternal Egyptian people and the families of the martyrs, is confident that the Egyptian people will continue the march of their martyrs by struggling against the agent regime controlling Egypt and escalating the heroic struggle of the Muslim Palestinian people.

"Faint not, nor grieve; you shall have the upper hand if you are believers." [Koranic verse]

The Steadfastness and Confrontation Front includes Syria, Libya, Algeria, the PDRY and the PLO.

IRNA REPORTS ON KHOMEYNI WOMEN'S DAY MESSAGE

LD151128 Tehran IRNA in English 0942 GMT 15 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 15 Apr (IRNA) -- The flourishing and corruption of societies all emanated from that of women, said Imam Khomeyni in his message today on the occasion of the birthday of the prophet's daughter, Zahra, (May God's peace be upon her), which is designated as Women's Day. In this message, Imam Khomeyni congratulated the Women's Day, which he said was the day of magnanimous being and who was the very foundation of human virtues and sublime values of man, who was God's vice regent on earth.

The imam further congratulated the designating of such a noble day, the birthday of Fatima Zahra, the daughter of the prophet, as Women's Day, for he said Zahra was indeed one of the history's miracles and prides.

The imam then said Zahra was a woman who brought up such human being in a small humble home, whose radiant character shone all over the universe and extended to the celestial world.

The imam stated that women were such unique beings who could bring up people to enable societies to reach sublime human values. The contrary was also true, as the defunct shah and his father perpetrated heinous crimes vis-a-vis women, with the pre-formulated designs of the world's super criminals, unprecedented in the history of Iran, the imam said. Speaking on the super criminals who regarded their survival in the captivity of nations, especially the Islamic ones, the leader of the Islamic revolution noted that they had realised, upon their infiltration into Islamic lands, that the only impediment on their exploitation and colonialism's paths, was the religious populace, the ulema, and women, who served to encourage men with their uprising to fight.

Henceforth, the imam continued, the super criminals realised that they had to undermine the religious bases of societies in order to abuse the natural resources of those countries. To this end, they enacted a series of methods of counter the three afore-mentioned factors, to corrupt women, and to turn them into beings whose raison d'etre was consumption. The imam went on to say that the previous regime committed all those crimes about women, whose missions were teaching and man-building, in the name of progress.

The majority of the deprived Iranian women opposed that status quo dictated to them by the former regime, but only a specific group succumbed to those conditions, the message added. However, the leader of the world's downtrodden people said that after the culmination of the Islamic revolution, the majority of women changed their life styles with the exception of a minority, for whose guidance and moral development the imam implored God.

Imam Khomeyni then stated that he was proud of Iranian women, who had been resisting the former regime and after its fall, the superpowers and their lackeys in such a gallant fashion that had not been recorded in any epoch. Referring to the role of the Iranian women in the Iraqi-imposed war on Iran, the imam said words and pens were all too feeble and ashamed to describe the women's unprecedented sacrifices and resistances in that war.

Imam Khomeyni recalled an Iranian girl, who had offered to marry a revolutionary guard who had lost his arms and eyes in the Iraqi-imposed war on Iran, said to the imam that since she had not paid her debt to the war fronts, the revolution, and Islam she decided to enter that marriage to compensate. He went on to say that the grandeur of such a scene could never be described by any writer.

Speaking of the young women whose husbands had been martyred Imam Khomeyni called on them to follow the tradition of God and marry. He also called on the young men, the soldiers and revolutionary guards to marry such great women. In the end, the leader of the Islamic revolution sent his greetings to women who were invaluable resisting beings and prayed for the well-being of Iran and its people.

MUSAVI MEETS WITH LAND DISTRIBUTION COUNCIL

LD142032 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 14 Apr 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, the representatives of the seven-man Land Distribution Council this evening met and conferred with Mr Mir-Hoseyn Musavi, the prime minister, following their 3-day seminar.

At this meeting, Hojjat ol-Eslam Jahantab presented a short report on the issues raised in the seminar, the status of land ownership before and after the Revolution Council's bill, and on the services rendered by the brother members of the Land Distribution Council during the past 18 months.

Mr Mir-Hoseyn Musavi congratulated them on the auspicious birthday of the great lady of Islam, Her Holiness Sediqah al-Tahirah Fatimah az-Zahra -- may God's peace be upon her -- and also on the birthday of the imam of the nation.

He gave a speech, stating: At the beginning of the revolution, America and the world oppressors pinned many hopes on two sectors -- factories and land issues. With regard to factories, from long before the revolution, many theories had been concocted by those who believed in the East or those who were Westernized, particularly by those who claimed to be Marxist but were in America's service, and they intended to raise the issue of class -- particularly the working class -- in society, and to use it against the Islamic identity of the revolution and to destroy the revolution.

The land issue was first raised in Gonbad; the issue was also raised in the Revolution Council. The oppressed martyr, Ayatollah Dr Beheshti, whose destiny is merged with the fate of this bill, started essential work in two fields. The workers' councils bill -- which we may not now consider very important as in our country in the past 3 years and at present the labor issue has been almost nonexistant -- has played a decisive role in the preservation of the Islamic revolution. Regarding land, the oppressed martyr, Ayatollah Beheshti, examined this issue at a time when he was the target of charges of being reactionary, dependent on America, being the leader of the club wielders and so forth. However, his excellency took a decisive and compassionate line in the Revolution Council in connection with the oppressed, as I witnessed.

In another part of his speech, the prime minister drew attention to the elimination of political roles in society and the creation of an atmosphere in which one can decide about principal issues and move toward implementing Islamic justice. He referred to the morale existing in executive institutions such as the Majlis, the government and other organizations and their alignment with the interests of the oppressed in society.

He said: It is natural that the issues of the Islamic revolution and the preservation of the glory of the Islamic Republic have priority over other issues, as such issues on some occasions prevent the implementation of parts of this bill. However, the original line of the revolution, which is aligned with the rule of divine values and the establishment of Islamic justice in our society, has never been nor will be diverted.

When on such a day our nation takes to the streets and chants slogans for the liberation of Jerusalem, it shows that this line is still alive and that those hearts which beat on such days as 6 September [date of first large-scale opposition to the shah] and 6 June [date of Khomeyni's open opposition to the shah] are still beating, and that this movement and life have found their way. As long as attention to Islam, unity and the defense of the world oppressed exist in our nation, no plan which is in the interest of the oppressed will be rejected.

Referring to the truth-seeking characteristic of the Islamic Consultative Assembly, the prime minister said: The Majlis is the essence of this nation and we know that the main characteristic of the Majlis is its support for Islam, truth and the oppressed; it is natural that the position of the Majlis regarding land will be an Islamic one. We live in the regime of the Islamic Republic and think that any movement by us has an Islamic and religious meaning.

The Majlis will not effect the way our brothers work. If we can have an effect on the spring sowing through our work and by being present in agricultural fields, we must certainly do so.

I am sure that with the raising of the bill in the Majlis, the deputies will have a clear picture of the situation. There is a relatively good understanding in the Cabinet of the great work carried out by the seven-man council. It is natural for the government to have this revolutionary institution.

REZA'I INTERVIEWED ON RECENT VICTORIES

LD152030 Tehran IRNA in English 1635 GMT 15 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 15 Apr (IRNA) -- Commander of the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps (IRGC) Mohsen Reza'i, in an interview with IRNA in Qom on Thursday commenting on the recent victories of the Islamic Republic forces on the warfronts, said that superpowers with their deceitful activities were trying to tell other countries that it was their armaments which gained these victories. However, he added, it was merely the faith of the Iranian combatants which made such a triumph possible.

Continuing on the same subject he pointed out that the recent victories over the Iraqi Ba'thist forces had left such an immense effect in the region that Reagan immediately after the victories announced that continuation of the war would not be in the interests of the United States. "We take this despair of the U.S. President as a good omen, Reza'i said.

Referring to the recent trips of the peace delegation to Iran and conditions for peace, he said as Iran did not accept an imposed war, it would not accept an imposed peace, when the conditions for peace were put forward by the Islamic Republic of Iran was in a weaker position. [sentence as received] However, the IRGC commander stressed, Iran had no expansionist intentions and with respect to the guidelines of Imam Khomeyni, Iran would suffice to the same just conditions for the establishment of a just peace which would be both in the interests of the Iranians and the oppressed. When the enemy was forced to pay such an amount of war reparations and be tried by the whole world, this would be the victory of the oppressed and no country would dare to attack the oppressed, and if anyone thought of aggression he would then know that he would be tried and would have to pay reparations, Reza'i said. Therefore, he stressed, Iran would continue the war till the enemy accepted a just peace and the world realized that the aggressor must be put on trial.

Commenting on the effects of the presence of the popular forces in the battlefields, Reza'i said that these forces were one of the reasons for the victories achieved and that they had been organized in brigades, battalions and other units. He further emphasized that forces of Saddam could not resist spiritual values and high morale of the Iranian forces.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 855

LD151930 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 15 Apr 82

[Communique 855 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The revolutionary Muslim nation of Iran is hereby informed of the outcome of the battle and operations carried out by the combatants of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran in the last 24 hours.

Yesterday battle continued throughout the southern fronts with exchanges of fire between the mighty forces of Islam and the Saddamist forces. In the exchange of fire on the Abadan front, our gendarmerie combatants fired on enemy positions, destroying several trenches, light and heavy weapons and observation posts of the Iraqi forces and killing or wounding 10 of their servicemen.

They also impeded enemy vehicle traffic in the Al-Faw region.

Our naval heroes on the Khorramshahr front opened retaliatory fire on enemy positions and units, inflicting losses and casualties on the Saddamist forces. Yesterday the Saddamist mercenaries again opened artillery fire on some residential areas of Abadan; as a result, several of our dear compatriots in Abadan were martyred or wounded.

Yesterday fighting and sporadic exchanges of fire continued on the Salehabad, Sumar, Gilan-e Gharb and Sar-e Pol-e Zahab fronts, and our self-sacrificing combatants from the ground forces silenced the fire of the Iraqi forces, killed or wounded several of their servicemen on every front, and destroyed an appreciable number of the Saddamists' positions and supply points. In Gilan-e Gharb, they also destroyed one of their tanks and one of their trucks.

On the Marivan front, as a result of the heavy-artillery fire by our ground forces on enemy positions in the Bani Banuk and Kan-e Shiran regions, many positions of the servicemen, weapons and several ammunition dumps and one 50-mm heavy machinegun of the Iraqi forces were utterly destroyed.

In the (Hargineh), Khanom-e Sheykhan, (Kan-e Garmaleh) and Khurmal regions, relatively heavy losses and casualties were inflicted on the enemy to such an extent that one personnel carrier, several servicemen, assembly points and three ammunition dumps of the Saddamist forces were set on fire and destroyed.

During the exchanges of fire on the western fronts, our gendarmerie returned enemy fire, inflicting losses and casualties on the Iraqi forces and, according to a report by the Gendarmerie of the Islamic Republic of Iran, the clashes and exchanges of fire on the Shur-e Shirin and Band-e Kabud regions were more extensive than those on other fronts.

The air defense units of the Islamic Republic of Iran's Armed Forces yesterday frustrated every air attack by the forces of the aggressive Iraqi Army and repulsed the raiding Iraqi aircraft.

IRAQI FIELD COMMUNICATION SYSTEM CAPTURED

LD152032 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 15 Apr 82

[Text] A well-equipped radio communication system has been captured from the Ba'thist aggressors. According to a dispatch by an IRNA correspondent, following the defeat suffered by the aggressive Ba'thist Iraqi Army in the great Fath operations and the rout suffered by the enemy, the forces of Islam, while mopping up the liberated heights, discovered and moved behind the front an immense communication system left behind by the enemy.

According to this report, the communication system is capable of simultaneously establishing communication among units of four divisions. The cost of this immense communications system has been estimated to be at least 200 million rials.

Meanwhile, despite the passage of some 25 days since the successful Fath operations, the burial of the bodies of the Ba'thist aggressors killed by the forces of Islam still continues. According to this report, on the (Barqaziyeh) and (Sheykh Tandi) axis alone in the last 48 hours nearly another 80 bodies of the Saddamist aggressors were buried by the forces of Islam in accordance with Muslim rites.

Also, during mopping-up operations in these regions further quantities of ammunition belonging to the Ba'thist aggressors were taken as booty and were transferred behind the lines.

SUCCESSES AGAINST INSURGENTS IN WEST DETAILED

LD152042 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 15 Apr 82

[Statement issued by the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps Public Relations Office]

[Excerpt] Yesterday, Islam's combatants, including personnel of the Islamic Republic of Iran's Armed Forces, forces of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, Mobilization and Kurdish peshmerga combatants, succeeded in completely eliminating the insurgents and the counterrevolutionaries linked to the world oppressors in several places on the Baneh-Sar Dasht and Mahabad-Sar Dasht axes.

The insurgents and counterrevolutionaries were forced to retreat several kilometers from the said axes. During these operations, in which 4 counterrevolutionary headquarters were set on fire and destroyed, at least 60 insurgents, including their leader, were killed and a further 40 insurgents were wounded. As a result of these operations [words indistinct] heights were mopped up and a number of armed counterrevolutionaries were arrested.

The forces of Islam also mopped up villages in [words indistinct]. During these operations a number of counterrevolutionaries were killed and the rest were forced to flee.

Later on in these operations, the forces of Islam were engaged in a series of clashes with the counterrevolutionaries in the village [word indistinct] under the jurisdiction of Sanandaj. Fifteen counterrevolutionaries were killed or injured and one was arrested.

Also, in the course of a number of operations in the vicinity of Bukan axis, a headquarters belonging to the outlawed Democratic Party was destroyed and a number of armed counterrevolutionaries were either killed or wounded. In the coure of follow-up operations, three villages in [word indistinct] and upper (Safyan) and lower (Safyan) were mopped up. During the said operations, a large quantity of light and heavy weapons, including a jeep with a 106-mm cannon and 3 vehicles, were destroyed and some arms and ammunition were seized.

MOJAHEDIN CLAIM 13,000 EXECUTED IN 9 MONTHS

NC142116 Paris AFP in English 2024 GMT 14 Apr 82

[Excerpt] Paris, 14 Apr (AFP) -- Thirteen thousand people have been executed in Iran in the last nine months, according to the Paris bureau of the People's Mojahedin, the major opposition group to the Tehran regime.

The bureau said that 800 people were executed between February 1 and 11, 100 on a single day, and that a large number of children and young people were among the executed.

These figures, according to the bureau, were given by political detainees who succeeded in smuggling messages out of their prisons.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

19 APRIL 1982

Israeli-Egyptian Relations

Israeli Reportage -- Prime Minister Menahem Begin told the 18 April Israeli Cabinet meeting that the Egyptians are making a "sincere effort" to correct violations of the peace treaty, but that no progress has been made on the 15 border demarcation disputes, Jerusalem radio reported. The previous day, Jerusalem television noted that Egypt had rectified some of the violations after checking Israeli claims in this regard. The Egyptian Army removed several units and installations from the buffer zone east of the Ra's Muhammad-Al-'Arish line in the Sinai, according to another television report.

Prime Minister Begin met on 16 April with Egyptian Minister of State for Foreign Affairs Butrus Ghali, who conveyed a "friendly" message from President Husni Mubarak, Jerusalem radio reported. Mubarak expressed appreciation for the way Israel has carried out its commitments to the peace treaty and stated that Egypt has acted likewise, according to HA'ARETZ. Jerusalem radio reported that in his 16 April negotiations with Ghali and with U.S. Under Secretary of State Walter Stoessel, Begin proposed that Israel, Egypt and the United States renew their commitment to the Camp David accords by signing a document pledging that Israel and Egypt continue normalization and diplomatic relations, that hostile propaganda be forbidden, that ties with the PLO be banned and that Israel complete the withdrawal from the Sinai. However, on his return to Israel on 18 April after 2 days of talks in Egypt, Stoessel told Begin that the Egyptians had refused to receive, scrutinize or discuss the Israeli draft document, the radio reported. The Egyptians said Israel's publication of these proposals had embarrassed them and had caused Egypt to adopt a tough stand in recent talks. Egyptian Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali will arrive in Israel on 19 April, the radio noted, advancing the date of his scheduled visit by 2 days at Begin is request.

Egyptian View -- Confirming that 'Ali will visit Israel briefly on 19 April, MENA said the Egyptian foreign minister's visit is aimed at finding a solution to the Tabah border dispute before the Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai on 25 April. However, in a 16 April interview with Monte Carlo radio, 'Ali said the border issue may require discussions going beyond 25 April, but that this will not affect the completion of the final withdrawal, which he predicted will take place on schedule.

Reporting on President Mubarak's 18 April meeting with Walter Stoessel, AL-AHRAM said Mubarak told the U.S. envoy that Egypt considers the Camp David accords and the peace treaty to be the only documents that contain the basis for achieving peace, according to MENA. Mubarak explained that there is no justification for entering into discussion on pledges and new commitments, particularly since Egypt has not been officially notified of a request for such commitments. Regarding Israel's accusations of Egyptian violations of the military agreements, AL-AHRAM said aerial surveys have confirmed that there are no inconsistencies on Egypt's side and that inconsistencies are being eliminated as they occur. A 16 April Cairo radio commentary opined that while Israel has so far been honestly committed to the peace treaty, Egypt has always been more committed to the treaty.

Israel

Sinai Withdrawal -- Activists belonging to Rabbi Kahane's Kakeh movement threatened to commit suicide if the IDF begins to evacuate Yamit, Jerusalem television reported. However, the IDF began evacuating Yamit residents early on 19 April, Jerusalem radio said, after having closed the entire Sinai to civilians the previous day.

Gaza, West Bank Disturbances -- Two Arabs were killed by IDF patrols during riots in the Gaza Strip on 16 April, Jerusalem radio reported. Citing Palestinian medical sources, AFP said 40 Palestinians were injured, including 5 small children. A policemen and an Arab youth were injured in disturbances near Bethlehem and Nabulus on 18 April, according to IDF and Jerusalem radio reports.

Temple Mount UN Vote -- Prime Minister Begin has called on the United States to oppose the Jordanian-sponsored motion at the UN Security Council that condemns Israel for the Temple Mount incident, Jerusalem radio noted.

Egypt

Citing MAY, MENA reported that the Soviet Union has welcomed the return of its ambassador to Cairo at a time to be fixed by Egypt, which will likewise nominate an ambassador to Moscow.

PLO

The PLO is sending men and equipment across the Egyptian-Israeli borders, but it is doing so "secretly and without the agreement of the Egyptian Government," Hani al-Hasan, adviser to PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat, stated in an interview with the Lebanese magazine MONDAY MORNING reported by Monte Carlo radio. Al-Hasan also announced that in response to the civil disobedience in the occupied territories, the PLO is getting ready to carry out military operations against Israel, adding that the PLO will continue to use all Arab fronts with Israel except the Lebanese border.

Al-Hasan also stated that Egyptian President Mubarak is earnestly working for a return to the Arab ranks, but that the PLO has set the condition that Mubarak stop speaking on behalf of the Palestinians, stop normalizing Egyptian-Israeli relations and close the Israeli Embassy in Egypt, according to Voice of Lebanon radio.

Lebanon

Security Situation -- The Shi'ite Amal movement continued to engage in fierce clashes with Palestinian, communist, Nationalist Movement and Kurdish groups over the weekend, according to Voice of Lebanon radio. Both the government and a higher coordination committee comprising leaders and representatives of the PLO, the Nationalist Movement, Amal and the Syrian Arab Deterrent Forces (ADF) conducted intensive efforts to halt the fighting, which caused another 15 deaths on 17 April, bringing the total killed in 1 week to 60 and the number wounded to 150, according to Beirut radio. The coordination committee decided on 17 April to guarantee a cease-fire in the tense areas of Beirut and the south and to investigate the causes of the fighting.

Syrian Redeployment -- Citing Beirut diplomatic sources, London's ASH-SHARQ AL-AWSAT reported that Syria plans to withdraw its 20,000 ADF soldiers from Beirut by 25 April and redeploy them in Al-Biqa' or another area close to the Syrian-Lebanese border.

Iraq-Syria Conflict

Iraq will ask the Arab countries to impose sanctions on Syria for closing the Iraqi oil pipeline that passes through Syrian territory, Iraqi Oil Minister Tayih 'Abd al-Karim stated in an interview with the MIDDLE EAST ECONOMIC SURVEY reported by Amman radio. He said Iraq will ask the Arab states to adopt firm measures against Syria for violating the principles of joint Arab action. Citing the Kuwaiti paper AR-AR'Y AL-'AMM, the radio reported that Kuwait and several other Gulf countries are examining ways to assist Iraq

Syria will not have any relations with the Iraqi regime from now on because the latter has killed scores of Syrians and committed many crimes against the Syrian economy, Deputy Prime Minister for Service Affairs Walid Hamdun told a SANA correspondent, according to Damascus radio. He said the Iraqi regime must be toppled as a precondition for a relaxation of the situation in the region.

Iran

Coup Plot, Shari'atmadari Situation -- Interior Minister 'Ali Akbar Nateq-Nuri told a 17 April press conference that a group of "so-called ulema of Tehran and Qom" were involved in the recent abortive coup plot led by former Foreign Minister Sadeq Qutbzadeh, IRNA reported. The plotters aimed to blow up Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni's residence, he claimed. Citing Tehran sources, AFP reported that more than 1,000 people have been arrested in connection with the plot, including middle class professionals, clergymen and "dozens" of revolution guards. Citing KEYHAN, AFP also noted that Ahmad 'Adbasi, the son-in-law of Ayatollah Kazem Shari'atmadari, was arrested in Qom on 14 April for supplying money to Qutbzadeh. According to Ayatollah Sadeq Khalkhali, revolution guards subsequently disarmed and replaced Shari'atmadari's bodyguards in his Qom office and discovered "counterrevolutionary" material. However, Shari'atmadari's son said in a Hamburg press statement that "fanatics" and revolution guards had stormed the office on 16 April, attacking and arresting the occupants, DPA reported. Shari'atmadari remains under house arrest, his son said, and cannot receive visitors.

Kurdish Operations -- Revolution guards launched an offensive against Kurdish insurgents on 15 April, recapturing 13 villages in the Marivan-Kamyaran region, according to a Guards Corps statement broadcast by Tehran radio. Citing JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI AFP reported that government forces killed or wounded more than 200 Kurdish rebels in recent fighting.

Relations With Pakistan -- According to an economic protocol signed by the two countries, Pakistan will purchase 10,000 barrels of crude oil per day from Iran, Tehran radio reported. The two countries also agreed to continue cooperation in drilling and exploration, the radio added.

At a meeting with visiting Pakistani Minister of Finance and Commerce Ghulam Ishaq Khan, President 'Ali Khamene'i proposed the formation of an Islamic common market, according to the radio.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Military Situation -- An Iraqi helicopter was shot down on the Abadan front on 16 April, a military communique broadcast by Tehran radio announced. Another Iraqi aircraft was downed by the Iranian Air Force on 18 April, according to a communique broadcast by Tehran radio.

Mediation Effort -- A subcommittee of the Islamic Good Offices Committee left Jidda to hold talks with officials in Iran and Iraq on finding a solution to the Iranian-Iraqi dispute, Riyadh radio reported. The committee, which is being led by Guinea President Ahmed Sekou Toure and includes Islamic Conference Organization Secretary General Habid Chatti, will first visit Tehran and then proceed to Baghdad.

Gulf Affairs

GCC Secretary General 'Abdallah Ya'qub Bisharah said the GCC Ministerial Council will meet in Riyadh on 20 April, QNA reported. The Kuwaiti newspaper AL-ANBA' said the extraordinary meeting is being held to evaluate Arab and Gulf developments, according to KUNA.

YAR

Truce Proposal -- The National Democratic Front (NDF) has proposed a truce to the San'a' Government during which the front would stop all military operations provided government forces returned to their barracks and stopped the arrest of individuals and all military preparations, Monte Carlo radio reported, citing an NDF statement issued in ADEN.

NDF Leader Interview -- NDF leader Ahmad 'Umar Sultan accused North Yemeni authorities of renouncing agreements made with the MDF, according to an interview reported by the Damascus paper AL-BA'TH. He affirmed that the NDF would not be intimidated by the repressive policies and assassinations carried out by the authorities and their ally, the Muslim Brotherhood.

Yemeni-Syrian Relations

A Syrian Ba'th party delegation visited the PDRY from 9 to 15 April, Damascus radio reported. In a joint statement the Yemeni Socialist Party expressed the PDRY's solidarity with Syria in its confrontation of internal and external plots, and the Ba'th delegation asserted Syria's support for the PDRY in its confrontation with "imperialist and reactionary plots," the radio said.

Meanwhile, former Syrian Prime Minister Lt Gen Amin al-Hafiz, who now resides in Iraq, arrived in the Yemen Arab Republic to acquaint himself with the achievements of the victorious September revolution, according to S[illegible]'a' radio.

UN ENVOY LEAVES FOR TEHRAN; COMMENTS ON TALKS

LD181734 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1530 GMT 18 Apr 82

[Text] Shah Mohammad Dost, minister of foreign affairs of the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan, today held his final round of talks with Diego Cordovez, envoy of the UN secretary general. Sakhi Daneshjo, deputy foreign minister, who also present at the talks.

According to reports, Diego Cordovez left Kabul this afternoon for Tehran. He was seen off at Kabul International Airport by Sakhi Daneshjo, deputy foreign minister; the director of international relations at the United Nations; and the director of publicity and representative of the Protocol Department at the Foreign Ministry.

Prior to his departure for Tehran, the UN secretary general's envoy termed the outcome of his visit to Kabul as valuable and useful. He was speaking at a press conference at Kabul International Airport.

In reply to a question as to how he assessed the future prospects of his mission, he said: Unfortunately, I cannot express any opinion concerning the future of my mission. First of all my visit in this regard has not been completed, and at this moment I am going to Tehran, where I will discuss the relevant issues. Second, I would like to inform the UN secretary general about my talks, and he will tell the press about the results of my visit. Let me say I have carried out constructive and useful talks with the relevant Afghanistan authorities in Kabul. I express gratitude for Afghanistan's acceptance of the UN envoy concerning a search for a political solution to the situation. The talks I have carried out in Afghanistan have further encouraged me. I will inform the UN secretary general concerning the results of these talks. I hope positive results will be gained from them.

Answering a question concerning his visit to Tehran, the UN secretary general's envoy said: I expressed optimism at the beginning of my mission in this regard and there has not been any change in my optimism. I hope that in Tehran I will obtain useful results such as I have from my visit to Kabul.

Replying to a question concerning his visit to the region, he said: As I said, I am not in a position to assess the results of my talks, but as far as cooperation has been extended to the UN secretary general and with me personally I can say that I have been highly encouraged. Let me sincerely express thanks for the warm reception accorded to me and my companions. I hope I will return to Kabul and continue my talks.

In answer to a question concerning the flexible position of the DRA regarding the settlement of the Afghanistan issue, he said: As I said, our effort to solve this issue has been completely supported here, and this has been encouraging. I hope these talks will result in the complete political solution to the issue.

AFGHAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP WEEK BEGINS 17 APR

LD180620 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0521 GMT 18 Apr 82

[Text] Kabul, 18 Apr (BAKHTAR) -- The Afghan-Soviet friendship celebration week began in Kabul today on the eve of the fourth anniversary of the April Revolution. Thousands of workers, government civil servants and employees of the various organisations and ministries of the DRA, including thousands of instructors and students, had taken part in many of the meetings held on this occasion.

Dwelling on the traditional friendship and historical roots of Afghan-Soviet fraternity, the speakers expressed their appreciation for the technical, economic, social, education and cultural assistance given by the Soviet Union to the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan. They earnestly called for the further consolidation and expansion of such self-less cooperation between the two countries.

ERSHAD ON RELATIONS WITH INDIA, ELECTIONS

BK181628 Hong Kong AFP in English 1530 GMT 18 Apr 82

[Text] Dacca, 18 Apr (AFP) -- Bangladesh's new military ruler Lieutenant General Ershad has said he hopes the Indian Government will not take any decision which might cause "unnecessary apprehension" among its neighbors.

In a interview with the largest-circulation Bengali weekly BICHITRA, the 52-year old general, who took over as chief martial law administrator and armed forces commander-in-chief late last month in a bloodless coup, ruled out any substantial change in the government's existing policy on outstanding problems with India like the sharing of the Ganges River waters at the Farakka Dam and ownership of South Talpatty (New Moore) Island.

He believed that in resolving such disputes, India would show a good neighbourly attitude and take into consideration the requirements of the neighbouring states, General Ershad said.

Asked if he envisaged any change in Bangladesh's official stand on the Farakka and South Talpatty problems with India, General Ershad said no, but he made it clear that national interests and requirements would not be sacrificed in dealing with such problems.

"Despite being a small country we have never succumbed to any pressure", he added.

This is apparently the first public statement by General Ershad since coming to power on his nation's problems with India.

General Ershad reiterated that his military government would continue a "jihad" (holy war) against corruption and inefficiency in administration, adding that the crackdown on corruption would not stop until the last guilty man was punished.

He said that those who had taken shelter abroad would not be spared, and warned that those planning to leave the country would have to receive additional punishment.

The government was seeking the cooperation and assistance of the press in weeding out corruption and rounding up corrupt persons, he added.

General Ershad said he had fixed a two-year frame-work within which to achieve the objectives for which the armed forces were compelled to take power last month.

Noting that the holding of general elections for the transfer of power was part of the democratic process for which he had great respect, General Ershad said a general election would be held "as soon as the situation turns favourable to public interest", adding it might take two years or more but it was important not to speculate.

He said that his military government might allow national debate on certain national issues and problems including land reforms and issues including the role of the armed forces in national life and the system of government suited for Bangladesh.

General Ershad said he was eager to work out the basis for "a people-oriented government" in next two years, and that the opinions of politicians would possibly be sought some time in future on the problem.

He criticized political parties, which according to him were set up only to capture power. "Our political parties have no ideologies as such and are divided among themselves having no coordinated efforts. That is why they (political parties) have not been able to earn the support of the people," General Ershad said.

Replying to a question, General Ershad said that he would try to fulfill as far as practicable the commitments he had made to the nation.

"After that I will go back to my own place. I do not know what will happen to my fate. But I will not do politics sitting in this chair (of chief martial law administrator) and wearing the uniform. I will not lower the image of my institution (armed forces); I am not ambitious like many others. I have worked for 30 years to become chief of Army Staff, not for anything else", General Ershad was quoted as saying.

GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCES DIPLOMATIC REASSIGNMENTS

BK190738 Dacca Domestic Service in English 1705 GMT 18 Apr 82

[Text] The attention of the government has been drawn to the highly inaccurate and speculative stories published in a section of the press regarding the transfer, termination of services, etc, of ambassadors and other officers of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. This has led to unnecessary speculation and uncertainty. The current position is as under:

Certain ambassadors and other categories of officers have been recalled as their contract had not been renewed or had been terminated. The services of the five officers of Bangladesh Civil Service [BCS] foreign affairs cadre have been placed at the disposal of establishment division for appointment in other ministries.

Justice K.M. Subhan, ambassador to the GDR, has been resorted [as heard] to his current organization, namely the Supreme Court of Bangladesh.

The services of the following officers of the BCS foreign affairs cadre have been terminated under Martial Law Order No 9: A.W. Shamsul Alam, ambassador to Romania; H.A.M. Nizamur Rahman, counsellor in the Embassy of Bangladesh, Ankara, Turkey; Habibur Rahman, second secretary in the Embassy of Bangladesh, Islamabad, Pakistan.

AFP Report

[Excerpts] Dacca, 18 Apr (AFP) -- A total 22 Bangladeshi diplomats, including 15 ambassadors and high commissioners, have been asked by the new martial law government of Lieutenant-General H.M. Ershad to return home within this month after completing necessary diplomatic formalities in their respective countries of posting, press reports said today.

Reports said the 15 ambassadors called back include Ambassador to the United States Tabarak Hussain; Ambassador to the Soviet Union Rashid Ahmed, and Ambassador to France Abdul Momin.

Others are A.W. Shamsul Alam (Romania); Justice K.M. Subhan (German Democratic Republic); retired General Mir Shawkat Ali (Egypt); and Abdul Ahsan (Italy).

In addition, eight ambassadors and high commissioners appointed for political reasons during the regime of slain President Ziaur Rahman have been asked to return home and their terms of contract have either expired or been terminated.

The affected ambassadors are Mahbubul Kabir Chowdhury (Brazil); Shamsul Islam (Indonesia), K.M. Hassan (Iraq), M.A. Barek (Kuwait), Abdul Hamid Chowdhury (Qatar), Sheikh Tayeburar-Rahman (Senegal), Mrs. Tahmina Khan (Sri Lanka) and Mohammad Faiz (Sweden).

The Foreign Ministry in Dacca had already informed the 22 envoys of the government decision and asked them to return home after completing the necessary protocol formalities in their respective countries.

Chief Martial Law Administrator General Ershad, who appointed a 12-member Council of Advisers with different portfolios after overthrowing Justice Abdus Sattar's civilian government last month, retained the Foreign Ministry portfolio.

Minister of State for Railways Jaffer Sherif already proceeded to Saudi Arabia with a team of senior officials to do the spadework for Mrs Gandhi's discussions with King Khalid, Crown Prince Fahd and other senior ministers.

Talking to newsmen before her departure, Mrs Gandhi expressed her hope that her visit will create greater understanding between the two countries. She said India has always been championing the Arab cause.

VENKATARAMAN ON PAKISTAN'S NAVAL BUILDUP

BK171615 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 17 Apr 82

[Text] Defense Minister Venkataraman today applauded the preparedness of the Indian Navy but said we cannot rest on our oars in view of the developments in some of the neighboring countries. They are posing new threats to India's security but our navy is fully prepared to face new challenges and fulfill the responsibilities to defend its maritime frontiers.

Venkataraman was addressing the consultative committee of the members of parliament attached to his ministry in New Delhi. He said Pakistan had been gradually building up its naval strength considerably and was in the course of acquiring additional modern ships, submarines and naval equipment. The projected naval strength of Pakistan will be far in excess of the genuine defense requirements of her limited coastland.

FOREIGN MINISTER COMMENTS ON WORLD PROBLEMS

HK180029 Hong Kong STANDARD in English 18 Apr 82 p 3

[Report by STANDARD managing editor Ernie Pereira: "Arms Buildup Threat to World Peace: Rao"]

[Excerpt] Disarmament is the main issue and the arms build-up poses a grave threat to world peace, Mr P.V. Narasimha Rao, minister of external affairs for the Government of India, told the SUNDAY STANDARD yesterday prior to leaving for Japan with his party.

He said he was going to Japan for annual bilateral talks which will be held in Osaka and Tokyo.

The Indian envoy viewed with alarm the frantic buildup of military and naval presence in the Indian Ocean, the formation of rapid development forces, the general situation in West Asia, the Gulf war between two non-aligned nations, the continuing problem in Afghanistan and the lingering tensions in Southeast Asia.

All this, as he saw it, underscored the fact that "the epicentre of world tensions has clearly shifted from Europe to Asia."

India's role, he pointed out, was to try to arrest the situation which was fraught with danger.

The dangerous international political environment could be aggravated by the failure of the international community to solve some of the basic problems now afflicting the world's economies, especially the developing countries.

He stressed that "the widening disparities between developed and developing nations and disequilibrium in the major sectors of world economic system called for a new international economic order." This remains a major cause for concern and this new international economic order, in view of the inter-dependence among nations, can be achieved and is not something utopian, Mr Rao said.

Being an incurable optimist, Mr Rao said that, despite the arms build-up and what he termed "the continuing downward slide and rapid deterioration in East-West relations," he did not see the superpowers going to nuclear war. There is still enough sanity left in the world and no one wants to see the world blown to smithereens.

In his opinion, however, the worsening of relations between the U.S. and Russia was the "most important political development of 1981-82" and signs pointed to these worsening relations continuing.

The Non-Aligned Movement, which forms the basis of India's foreign policy, has a specific role to play, Mr Rao said emphatically. And the movement is a growing force. Originally, it numbered 25 countries -- now it is about 100 countries who speak with unanimity on issues that affect peace.

As for the role of the United Nations as a peacemaker, Mr Rao said that without the UN, "there is no one else," clearly indicating from his remarks that India fully supported the UN.

Mr Rao also warned of a new cold war which, triggered by fear, suspicion and mistrust reminiscent of the fifties, "has begun to pervade virtually all aspects of international relations and, by vitiating the general security environment, fuels a new wave of nuclear and conventional rearmament."

He added that the old strategic uncertainties, inherent in the doctrines of deterrence and massive retaliation, "are being aggravated."

He pointed out that new advances in science and technology "are also being utilised in improving and stockpiling chemical, biological and bacteriological weapons despite international conventions against their use."

As for India's relations with Pakistan, Mr Rao said there was no impasse. He was optimistic that India and Pakistan would agree to the proposed "no-war" pact, saying that talks on this matter "have entered a crucial stage."

Asked whether India was facing a crisis of any kind, be it demographic, economic, social or political, Mr Rao laughingly said: "Can you name me one country which is not beset by these problems?"

India's foreign policy activity and initiatives, he said, were aimed at strengthening a drift towards war and big power confrontations, arresting the nuclear arms race, reducing regional and international tensions and promoting a dialogue towards a new international economic order.

And Mr Rao believed that India has succeeded in "creating greater international awareness of the dangers of big power confrontation in Asia and to safeguard our national security and interests through non-alignment and the peaceful resolution of differences".

Reports that India was tilting towards Russia following the recent visit to Delhi of Soviet Defence Minister Marshal Ustinov sparked comment from Mr Rao that they were "exaggerated". India has been buying arms from Russia and this has been an on-going thing. But we have also bought arms from France, Britain and Germany, he said.

For Asia to have a stronger voice in world affairs, Mr Rao was of the opinion that there has to be first "an Asian identity and voice," from which to build an eventual Asian consensus.

On Afghanistan, Mr Rao said he believed that no country should occupy another country and the only way for the war to end there was for Russia to withdraw its troops. "We have said this before and our views are known," Mr Rao said.

Though not a member of ASEAN, India, he said he was interested in Southeast Asian affairs and was following them with great interest.

As for India's domestic problems, he said they were formidable and despite economic progress having been achieved, "we still have miles and miles to go." He said population control remains India's main problem and the second was that of power or energy. Economic gains lose their significance if the population continues to grow, he said.

UN ENVOY RETURNS FROM KABUL, HOLDS TALKS

[Text] Diego Cordovez, the UN secretary general's personal representative of Afghanistan, returned to Islamabad this afternoon after completing a first round of talks with the Karmal administration in Kabul. Talking to newsmen at the airport, he said he heard the views of the Karmal administration and became familiar with its stand. He said he cannot speculate on the success of his mission. However, he described his talks with the Karmal administration as useful.

Later, Diego Cordovez met with Foreign Minister Sahabzada Yaqub Khan in Islamabad. The talk lasted for about 1 hour and will be continued tomorrow.

Parties Agree To Talk

BK181345 Hong Kong AFP in English 1332 GMT 18 Apr 82

[Text] Islamabad, 18 Apr (AFP) -- The United Nations secretary-general's special envoy, Diego Cordovez, has succeded in persuading Iran, Pakistan and Afghani groups opposed to the Afghan Government to sit down to talks with the government to solve the Afghanistan crisis, informed sources said today in Islamabad.

Mr Cordovez, who today returned to Tehran after his "shuttle" mission between Islamabad and Kabul, [words indistinct] to bring opposition groups to the negotiating table to prepare the ground for a lasting political settlement to the Afghan problem, to be hammered out at a later date in New York.

Mr Cordovez is the third UN envoy to visit the region since the Soviet Union intervened in Afghanistan in December 1979.

While the content of Mr Cordovez' talks with Pakistani President Ziaul Haq and Babrak Karmal and their foreign ministers remains secret, it appears that the Afghan Government made concessions to speed up negotiations. Observers here said the Afghani Government has agreed to meet with a delegation made up of opposition groups as long as they do not belong to Muslim rebel groups based in Pakistan, with which the government refuses to negotiate.

If a "national opposition" delegation were present at the negotiating table, Pakistan would drop her objection concerning the members of the Afghani Government's delegation, and direct negotiations between Pakistan, Iran and Afghanistan could get under way.

ARMED FORCES DAY MARKED IN TEHRAN 18 APR

Zahirnezhad Speaks at Parade

LD182102 Tehran IRNA in English 1942 GMT 18 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 18 Apr (IRNA) -- Hundreds of the officers and personnel of the armed forces, today marked past the holy Koran at Azadi Square of Tehran to mark Armed Forces Day.

As a number of fighter planes of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran were flying overheads parachuters bailed out of the planes and performed acrobatic feats. During the ceremony, a hoard of artillery impounded from enemy troops in the battlefronts were also displayed to the public.

Meanwhile the chief of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, General Zahirnezhad, today said in a communique on the occasion of Armed Forces Day that three years after the establishment of the Islamic Republic of Iran and 19 months since the outbreak of the undeclared war, the Armed Forces of Iran were still much more capable that what they were during the monarchical regime. The chief of the Joint Staff said in his communique that as a result of the spiritual values of the Islamic revolution, and also as a result of the transformation of ethical values among the rank and file members of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic, the army had turned into an entity of devout and faithful people consecrated to the task of fighting for the cause of God.

He said despite the insinuations of the counterrevolutionaries for dissolving the body of the armed forces immediately after the culmination of the Islamic Republic for incapacitating the defence capability of the Islamic Republic and despite the various and many inroads by leftist and other outlawed groups against the armed forces, the Army of the Islamic Republic of Iran had so far successfully repelled enemy attacks during the undeclared war.

The general recalled in his communique that while Imperial Armed Forces in Iran proved incapable of resisting enemy attacks against Iran in any of the battlefronts in the year 1941, today the army was registering records of astounding triumphs in the battlefronts against the Iraqi Ba'thist invaders. Said he in the communique: "Such is the result of the leadership of Imam Khomeyni of the armed forces, such is the product of the spirit of Islamic brotherhood, such is the effect of Islamic rule, and such is the lord's invisible aid..."

During the march at Azadi Square, thousands of bystanders shouted slogans in condemnation of the United States and Saddam Husayn of Iraq. The ceremony ended at 1100 hours.

Khomeyni Message

LD181054 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 18 Apr 82

[Message issued by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni as commander in chief of the armed forces on the occasion of Armed Forces Day -- read by announcer]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Armed Forces Day is no different from people's day in the Islamic Republic and, thanks to Almighty God, the army is popular and at the service of the people and there is a strong bond of uniformity between the people and the army, so that they are both parts of a united body. Armed Forces Day is people's day.

However, declaring a day as Armed Forces Day provides us with an opportunity to express proper and fitting gratitude and to praise their warlike and combative faces. The honorable nation of Iran wishes to congratulate the armed forces on 18 April, Armed Forces Day.

This year we thank Almighty God for the victories achieved by the armed forces and other forces of the Iranian nation, and for the long-lasting honor gained for the Islamic nation by their victories, especially the Fath al-Mubin victory, which made the proud nation's congratulations this year all the more serious. Long live the armed forces and the army, and honor to the country of the hidden imam -- may our souls be sacrificed for his coming, for having such committed and selfless soldiers.

In this imposed war, fighting for our rights, the Iranian Army and other armed forces proved to the world that the crusaders fighting for their goal of dear Islam and the great homeland enjoy the support of a hidden and supernatural power which exceeds the calculations of the oppressive palace dwellers. This power cannot be gauged by blind-hearted infidels' estimations and cannot be foiled by atheist measures.

What measures and estimations can threaten Fath al-Mubin, and what formula can calculate the outcome of an unequal war, on one side of which there is a satanic power equipped with all heavy and light weapons of war, enjoying the unreserved support of the superpowers and many of the countries of the region who with open arms and smiling faces put all their facilities at its disposal, enjoying the support of all the propaganda machines of the world and possessing all the means of increasing their strength? On the other side, there are the armed forces which were born after the revolution and its victory, when its army had just rid itself of the domination of American advisers and commanders of the oppressive monarchy and had been transformed from a satanic regime to an Islamic and humane regime. Our Revolution Guards Corps and the Mobilization force had just been formed from the people and had just been armed with rifles, not having had proper military education and not having proper warfare machinery at their disposal, and with all the signs of weakness apparent in them. Only their faith in God, love of martyrdom for Islam and a spirit of self-sacrifice assisted them in this unequal war. In a single week they succeeded in crushing the great satanic forces and smashed this well-equipped and well-planned army so that groups of their soldiers with all their equipment surrendered to our forces, fled the scene or were killed.

Which intelligence analysts or those educated in military academies can analyze this miraculous victory? If the army and other armed forces did not enjoy the spiritual divine assistance, how otherwise could this extraordinary affair be explained? Yes, there is a great difference between the youths who spend the night in prayer, reciting the Koran and meditating who begin the war with God's name and cries of "God is great," and those who commit sins at night and begin the day fighting against God. There is a great difference between those trenches which have God's book, religious books and prayer books, and those trenches which according to the account of the victors, house gambling equipment, wine and worse. There is a difference between those who, believing that the hidden imam is their commander, continue their fight and those who are led by Saddam, the archcriminal. There is a difference between those who consider themselves the brothers of the Muslim nation of Iraq and never allow themselves to attack towns or villages of their brothers, and those who open fire on towns and villages, in spite of their Arab inhabitants and, claiming to fight for the Arab cause, slaughter innocent children, women and old men. There is a difference between those who treat the prisoners of war as their own brothers, and those who take prisoner of war among people from Arab-populated villages and towns who were not involved in the war, and treat them so savagely that they are now frightened to let their families visit them.

Thanks to Almighty God, we have an army today that glows with honor in the world. This year, the nation of Iran is observing Armed Forces Day with an unprecedented sense of honor and pride, and the army stands before the enemy with unprecedented success, and we hope that each year its honor will surpass that of previous years.

I would like to make some recommendations here, although you might be aware of them yourselves:

1. Do not forget the hidden divine blessings and all the military and police forces and the armed forces should try to guard these blessings for yourselves and for the nation by acting according to your commitments and sacrificing as much as possible for Islam and the Islamic Republic for Almighty God. Be vigilant for Almighty God and not for your worldly and satanic whims, but for defending Islam and your homeland. Do not allow these victories to overwhelm you and make you forget the divine assistance, since pride and ignorance drive man to destruction and obviously reduce our military might. After trusting in God, trust your own power which comes from God.

2. You know that these victories were achieved because of the unity of all the armed forces, following one plan and one thought. You should maintain this uniformity and unity. Any hesitation in this respect will cause (?weakness) and, God forbid, defeat, and if anyone or any movement tries to create division, you should inform your commanders immediately so that it can be stopped. All the armed forces in the Islamic Republic work for one goal and one destination, and all should operate like a united hand against the foes and enemies of Islam and the Islamic Republic. You should be aware that so long as this unity and uniformity and this supreme Islamic goal exists your country will not be harmed.

I advise the brothers in the armed forces, the guards, the police, the gendarmerie, the Mobilization forces and other popular armed forces to consider each other as brothers, as the holy Koran says, and remain united in your thoughts, your path and your slogans like brothers, both on the frontline and behind it, since you can overcome your problems and enjoy the support of divine hidden spiritual forces only by doing so. May God protect you and support you.

3. One important issue that all the armed forces should follow and which cannot be ignored under any circumstances, as I have mentioned before, is that none of the armed forces personnel, from the higher or the lower ranks, should join any party or group by whatever name or title, even if that party or group is 100-percent Islamic and committed to the Islamic Republic. Anyone who does join a party or a group should resign from the army, the Guards Corps or other armed, military or police forces. Commanders and officials in charge are obligated to advise anyone who joins one of the parties or religious or political groups to leave that party, group or orgranization and, if he refuses, he should be dismissed from the army or other armed forces. All personnel are obligated to report such persons to their commanders. It should be noted that if the armed forces join any parties, groups or organizations they would be weakened, and any departures from this order will be followed up.

4. We all know that the Iranian Armed Forces and all other forces enjoy the unprecedented and unreserved support of the nation all over the country. I do not think that anyone would claim that any country other than the esteemed nation of Iran could support their armed forces, young and old, man or women all over the country and generously volunteer to go to the fronts to sacrifice themselves and be martyred. I do not think that anything other than belief in the teachings [of Islam] and sacrifice for God and the spiritual aim could explain this mystery.

I would like to advise the dear army and others to treasure this divine blessing and try with all your might to maintain the general vigilance of the nation and this great support by being steadfast and constant in following your objective and self-sacrifice for dear Islam, Iran and the Islamic Republic. As long as you remain united and uniform and vigilant in guarding your nation, Islam and the Islamic Republic, you should not fear the conspiracies of the enemies of Islam to topple the Islamic Republic and you should stand before them like a steel barrier. You should hold your heads high, attack the criminal aggressors and crush them. The great nation supports you with its heart and follows the same direction.

God's blessing hand and His unlimited power shelters you. May you be victorious. Go forward with strength and throw the enemies of God out of our country. Cut the internal and external criminal hands from our country and ask for help from Almighty God.

5. The generous nation of Iran has sacrificed many of its dear ones on the fronts and behind the frontline and has suffered many pains and hardships. It has seen many tricks by committed, treacherous enemies in the guise of friends, but it has remained honorable and respectable before God and an example and a pattern before the world, praiseworthy and proud before future generations.

I beseech God Almighty to grant eternal prosperity for the nation; resistance and steadfastness for the combatants on and behind the frontline; blessing and forgiveness for those martyred from the beginning of the movement, now and in the future; health and happiness for those who have suffered; patience and courage for those who have been left behind, and for the oppressed; bravery, sincerity and generosity for the army and other armed forces; long life for the leaders of the Islamic Republic; awareness and [word indistinct] for its ignorant and misguided opponents; abjectness and deterioration for its enemies and those bearing ill will toward it; unity and solidarity for the Muslims of the world; independence and greatness for Islamic countries; liberation from selfishness and rejection of the domination of foreigners for the leaders of the Islamic countries; and a knowledge of dear Islam and its greatness and power for all.

May Almighty God assist the armed forces and all the other combatants of Islam to overcome world blasphemy and bless us with the privilege of serving God. Greetings to the respectable military personnel and greetings to the Guards Corps and other armed forces.

Rafsanjani Speech

LD181334 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 18 Arp 82

[Text] Our correspondent reports on today's open session of the Islamic Consultative Assembly:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. An open session of the Islamic Consultative Assembly started this morning with a recitation of verses from the holy Koran, and was chaired by Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani. In this session the speaker of the Islamic Consultative Assembly said:

[Begin Hashemi-Rafsanjani recording] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Today is the day of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and is also the anniversary of the preservation of Jerusalem by the Muslims in the year 664 Hegira. The coincidence of these 2 days is interesting. We congratulate the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran. One of the most valuable gains of the Islamic revolution of Iran is the great change which has taken place in the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran. The army has been transferred from the service of Satan to the service of God and the people and from captivity in the hands of the Pahlavi family and the shah,has come under the command of the religious jurisconsult and the hidden imam's deputy, the great Islamic character.

It has been freed from the yoke of foreign and American experts and Western satanic advisers and today it is the ruler of its own destiny. It has put aside stagnation and useless jobs and today it is a self-sacrificing, active, devoted and unique army in the world.

It is no longer lacking communication with the people and is no longer in a closed atmosphere. It has been changed into a popular, desirable and likable army evolving from the people themselves.

It has been freed from the empty and human-killing training, which had been programmed to tire and weaken them in the past, and under the teachings of the Koran, Islam and Nahj al-Balaqah [Imam 'Ali's book] and with the guidance of ideological-political brothers it is growing in an Islamic way.

Many discriminations have been eliminated and the army has rid itself of many of the satanic leaders who had divine rule in the army, such as the high-ranking commanders of the army; justice has been enforced there to a high extent and it is moving toward equality faster.

Fortunately, our people have accepted the army, which was under a question mark in the past, and so much change and so much progress in the army is interesting. We hope that in the future this army will become the army of the lord of the era [the hidden imam] and will serve purely Islam and the Koran, as it is doing now. [end recording]

In today's open session Mr Hasan Rohani, the legislative power's representative on the Supervisory Council of the Voice and Vision of the Islamic Republic of Iran, submitted a report on the condition of the organization of the Voice and Vision to the Majlis and described the issues that arose during the past year in connection with this organization and also next year's plans.

Regarding the streamlining of various departments of this organization and the measures taken toward greater mobility, he said: In the year ending in March 1982, 52 low-, medium- and high-power transmitters were commissioned. This figure will increase further this year and nine powerful and 5 medium-power transmitters and 74 television relay stations will start functioning. This will be a great change. In connection with the production of programs, Dr Rohani said: The task of the Voice and Vision in obtaining films becomes more difficult with time and this is due to the growth of the cultural and religious revolution of the people and the fact that foreign films are becoming useless.

He mentioned that the training of the manpower for the Voice and Vision has started and he paid tribute to this organization's producers. Regarding reconstruction in this organization he said: Last year we managed to destroy the two corrupt groups of the Mojahedin-e Khalq and Peykar in the Voice and Vision.

The representative of the legislative power on the Supervisory Council of the Voice and Vision said: We should have made Tehran a news center; last year, Tehran was admitted as one of the Asian news centers by the Asian news, and radio and television union.

Regarding foreign language programs, he said: In all we broadcast daily 37 hours of programs in 12 languages through various transmitters for the people of the world.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUES 856-858

856: 16 Apr Report

LD161842 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 16 Apr 82

[Communique 856 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Yesterday, as a result of the artillery fire of the Ground Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran on enemy positions in the Meymak and Salehabad areas, one fuel tanker and several vehicles carrying enemy personnel were destroyed and the ambulances of the Iraqi forces were busy for hours transporting their dead and wounded.

Our forces' fire destroyed a quantity of ammunition in the Malekshahi area and killed several enemy personnel.

In the areas of Sumar and Sar-e Pol-e Zahab, exchanges of fire continued, two vehicles, one observation post and several supply points of the aggressors were destroyed by the fire of the combatants of Islam in the aforesaid areas, and several Iraqi servicemen were killed or wounded.

In the Gilan-e Gharb area, as a result of the artillery units' fire the enemy's movements were stopped, and one tank emplacement and several trenches of various weapons were destroyed.

Exchanges of fire also continued in the Marivan area. As a result of our combatant units' fire in the Khurmal area and on enemy positions in (Shanderi), (Layadeh) and Bani Banuk, one fuel tanker and several of the supply points of the Saddamists were set on fire and several Iraqi servicemen were killed.

In the (Qanjveys) and Band-e Kabud areas fire by the Gendarmerie personnel of the Islamic Republic of Iran on enemy positions destroyed nine trenches and foxholes and one observation post of Saddam's troops and killed several Iraqi personnel.

In the Khorramshahr and Abadan areas, our forces opened fire on the enemy positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud and succeeded in destroying two ammunition dumps and several trenches and foxholes and in killing or wounding several enemy personnel.

Meanwhile, as a result of the enemy's heavy-weapon fire on the residential areas of Abadan, several of our compatriots were martyred or wounded.

Yesterday the self-sacrificing combatants of the air defense units, by opening timely fire, foiled the enemy aircrafts' intrusions and forced them to leave the airspace of the country's southern and western border cities.

857: 17 Apr Report

LD171846 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 17 Apr 82

[Communique 857 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In the name of God. With greetings to Imam Khomeyni, great leader of the revolution, founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran and commander in chief of the Islamic Republic of Iran's Armed Forces, families of the dear martyrs, the Muslim nation of Iran, the entire self-sacrificing combatants of Islam and with blessings on the pure souls of martyrs of the battle of right against wrong on the occasion of Armed Forces Day, the public is hereby informed of operations carried out by the Islamic combatants on the battlefronts:

On the Salehabad, Sumar, Gilan-e Gharb and Sar-e Pol-e Zahab fronts, the self-sacrificing personnel of the army opened artillery, Katyusha and mortar fire on the positions of the aggressive Iraqi Army and, while silencing enemy fire, they destroyed several enemy supply and personnel positions.

The number of Saddam's army casualties on the Sumar front amounted to 12 and the enemy's losses in Sar-e Pol-e Zahab included the destruction of a 50-calibre field machinegun and one truck with all its occupants. The brave combatant tribesmen of the irregular warfare units continue to defend their positions, answering enemy fire and inflicting losses and casualties on the Iraqi forces.

On the Paveh front, as a result of the army's artillery fire, approximately 15 supply points of the Iraqi Army were destroyed and several enemy personnel were killed or injured.

On the southern fronts from 'Eyn Khosh to Khorramshahr, the victorious combatants of Islam are bravely defending their defensive positions and guarded zones with complete superiority, and with heavy-weapon and artillery fire they are preventing the Saddamist forces from making any move and activity and are inflicting crushing blows and casualties on them.

On the basis of the Islamic Republic of Iran's Gendarmerie report, yesterday an invading Iraqi Armed Forces helicopter was shot down by the Islamic Republic of Iran's Gendarmerie air defense unit stationed on the Abadan front.

As a result of fire from the gendarmerie combatants on the Saddamists' positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud, the Iraqi forces were prevented from moving. During these operations, one Iraqi radar and two bunkers were destroyed and several enemy personnel were killed.

On the Abadan-Khorramshahr front, the valiant navy personnel answered the Saddamists' fire and silenced it, destroying seven Iraqi bunkers, one fuel depot and one ammunition dump. Several of the Iraqi forces were killed or injured in this operation.

Some of Abadan's civilian sectors were once again under the Iraqi mercenaries' long-range artillery fire. The city sustained some losses and casualties as a result.

Following fire from the Islamic Republic of Iran Armed Forces air defense units, the enemy's attempts to violate our airspace were repulsed, and the Iraqi invading aircraft were driven off and forced to flee.

858: 18 Apr Report

[Communique 858 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The fighters of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, relying upon the power of faith and belief, courage and bravery, continue their battles against the mercenaries of world blasphemy and do not for a moment forget their holy covenant with the imam of the nation, the great Khomeyni, the vice regent [of the hidden imam], who continues the mission of the prophets of God and fights against the devils of the age. With their red martyrdom they safeguard Islam and protect the Islamic homeland.

The expressions of satisfaction by His Great Eminence Imam Khomeyni, the leader of the revolution, founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran and commander in chief of the armed forces, concerning the fighters of Islam; and gracious messages of their great eminences the great ayatollahs and renowned scholars, national figures, revolutionary organizations, state organizations and departments; and the enthusiasm and support of the heroic and Muslim Iranian nation on the occasion of 18 April, Armed Forces Day of the Islamic Republic of Iran, are all sources of pride and gratitude to all the personnel of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran. They hope that with the assistance of God, as the result of greater victories, they will give a worthy response to the kindness, affection and legitimate expectations of the struggling people of the Islamic homeland.

According to a report by the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran, at 1030 today one enemy aircraft was shot down by one of our fighter aircraft near Abadan. In the Abadan region, our brave fighters, while destroying enemy fortifications, killed 30 Iraqi soldiers and set fire to one of their ammunition depots.

Also, by opening fire on the Al-Faw-Basrah road, they halted enemy movements and inflicted some losses and casualties upon the forces of Saddam.

Yesterday some residential areas of Abadan were destroyed by enemy heavy-weapon fire, resulting in a number of our compatriots being martyred or injured.

In the western regions of the country, our fighting units continued defense of their positions and repulsed enemy attacks with their heavy and continuous artillery fire. On each of the fronts of this region they inflicted some losses and casualties upon enemy personnel and equipment.

In the Meymak and Salehabad regions, one antiaircraft gun and one ammunition depot were destroyed and 17 of the aggressive forces were killed.

In the Sumar and Sar-e Pol-e Zahab regions, a quantity of enemy ammunition and one enemy vehicle carrying enemy personnel was set on fire and a few supply depots destroyed.

Enemy positions in Panjvin, Biarreh, Tutmal and Toveyleh came under the heavy-artillery fire of the Ground Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran; while silencing enemy fire and destroying the supply depots of the forces of Saddam, 15 trenches and observation posts of the forces of Saddam were destroyed and at least 4 of the Iraqi forces were killed or wounded.

FORCES CAPTURE VILLAGES, OTHER POSITIONS

LD161906 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 16 Apr 82

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the selfless guards of the Islamic Republic, together with Mobilization forces and Muslim Kurdish peshmerga, in an operation called Ansar Ollah and codenamed Ya Mohammad, which began on the morning of 13 April, the combatants of Islam succeeded in recapturing Hill No 101, the strategic (Kaltek) bridge and the village of Dehbagh on the Bala-Sar Dasht axis and have now taken their positions there.

In Bukan, the villages of (Valkov), (Savarchin) and (Qalahkand) were liberated from the hands of infidels and a 106-mm fieldgun was destroyed.

In Saqqez, the village of (Kachalmangan) was captured by the forces of Islam after crushing the rebels and three bases belonging to the mercenaries were completely destroyed by the Airborne Division helicopters. Two 50-calibre weapons belonging to the counterrevolutionaries were destroyed.

OFFENSIVE LAUNCHED AGAINST REBELS IN KORDESTAN

Villages 'Mopped Up'

LD171936 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 17 Apr 82

[Statement issued by Central Islamic Revolution Guards Corps]

[Excerpt] At dawn on 15 April the forces of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, including brother guards, Mobilization combatants and the Muslim Kurdish peshmerga, launched an offensive on the concentration points belonging to the armed insurgents linked to the counterrevolutionaries on the Marivan-Kamyaran axis, killing or wounding a large number of insurgents.

During these operations, 13 villages, including the villages of (Tafheym), (Dehganan), (Gerehgoreh), (Goreydoor), (Bani Golan), (Adiyan), (Naftar), (Tozhang), [word indistinct] (Zineh) and the (Tashtar) and (Sorkeh Kod) heights, which were under the control of the counterrevolutionaries linked to the world of oppressors for the past 3 years, were completely mopped up.

During these operations, at least three counterrevolutionaries were killed, a number injured and some others were arrested by the Islamic combatants. Some light and RPG-7 weapons, radio and ammunition were seized.

Also, on 16 April during a successful operation launched by the guards brothers in Seyyed Sarem, under Baneh's jurisdiction, a large number of counterrevolutionaries were killed or wounded. During this operation, too, some weapons, including RPG-7's and firearms were seized. The village of (Kashkak), under Baneh's jurisdiction, was cleared of counterrevolutionaries.

Operations Continue

[Excerpts] According to the Central News Unit, the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps' Public Relations Office has issued the following statement in connection with the continued mopping-up operations in the country's western region:

The forces of Islam, including valiant members of the Islamic Republic of Iran Armed Forces and Islamic Revolution Guards Corps forces, consisting of guards brothers, Corps Mobilization combatants and Muslim Kurdish peshmerga, while continuing their mopping-up operations in the country's western regions, succeeded in crushing one of the great Satan's operational centers and while clearing some areas in the Marivan-Kamyaran axis area, managed to establish their positions.

During these operations -- which led to the killing and injuring of a further group of armed insurgents -- six vehicles, four bulldozers, eight fuel trucks and some arms, ammunition and supplies belonging to counterrevolutionaries were seized.

The forces of Islam, in operations carried out in the Baneh region, cleared villages of [words indistinct]. At least 12 counterrevolutionary elements and members of Komeleh and Kurdish Democratic Party groups were killed and a further 12 were injured.

Kurds Killed, Wounded

NC170900 Paris AFP in English 0851 GMT 17 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 17 Apr (AFP) -- More than 200 Kurdish "counter-revolutionaries" were killed or wounded during two "clean-up operations" in Kordestan Province in northwest Iran on Wednesday and Thursday, communiques carried by the Iranian newspaper ISLAMIC REPUBLIC said today.

100 "counter-revolutionaries" were killed and 100 wounded during police operations in three villages near Bukan on Wednesday, the report said.

Three members of the government forces were also killed in the clashes and four wounded.

On Thursday, Iranian forces "liberated" strategic hills and 13 villages controlled by Kurdish rebels for three years, the newspaper said. 30 opponents of the Islamic Republic died and many were wounded during the fighting.

DETAILS OF 18 APR CABINET SESSION REPORTED

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, the Cabinet held a session this morning under the chairmanship of Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi. After reviewing the war news, the latest political and social developments in the country and the region were discussed.

Concerning the issues raised in this session, [government spokesman] Ahmad Tavakkoli told our correspondent that Commerce Minister 'Asgar-Owladi first submitted a report on his meeting with the Pakistani economic delegation which is currently visiting Tehran in order to hold some talks, and the progress made in this connection.

Then Foreign Minister Velayati submitted a report on the attacks carried out by the forces attached to Zionism and the left wing in Lebanon against the Muslims and the measures taken to oppose these clashes.

Mr Tavakkoli added that we strongly condemn these movements and know that they are aimed at diverting the main struggle against Israel.

He went on to say that, continuing today's session of the Cabinet, Mr (?Nasri), the governor general of Bushehr, who was present at the session, submitted a report on the situation in the province and the difficulties in connection with water and electricity shortages and also fisheries and smuggling in this region, and decisions were adopted toward combatting these problems.

Concerning the Islamic councils bill, the government spokesman said that today a bill on the formation of the councils of industrial workshops will be sent to the Majlis and we hope that it will be approved as soon as possible.

Then, displaying a quantity of gold and jewellery which has been presented to the Cabinet by our homeland's devoted people, Mr Tavakkoli said that this was given to the Cabinet as a gift by the people of Paveh at this week's Friday prayers. Some ladies gave their ornaments to the Cabinet as a present; their value is obvious. The workers of the Pars alum factory have also given 500,000 rials in cash to the government as a present.

FOREIGN MINISTRY SPOKESMAN ON CORDOVEZ MISSION

LD181900 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 18 Apr 82

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, the UN secretary general's special envoy, Diego Cordovez, who is entrusted with the mission of seeking a settlement to the Afghanistan issue, has arrived in Tehran on a factfinding mission to learn about the Islamic Republic of Iran's views and stands concerning the issue of Afghanistan. Before coming to Tehran the envoy visited Afghanistan and Pakistan.

A Central News Unit correspondent asked the Foreign Ministry spokesman for his views concerning the UN special envoy's visit to Iran.

The Foreign Ministry spokesman said: Any group, body and individual who wishes to mediate and to seek a settlement to the Afghanistan issue within our proposed framework will be supported by the Islamic Republic of Iran.

The spokesman added: Concerning the issue, the principle conditions must be implemented. These conditions include: The Soviet Union's unconditional withdrawal from Afghanistan; the unacceptability of replacing the Soviet occupying force with any foreign force; the return of Afghan refugees to their homeland; and allowing the people of Afghanistan to choose their destiny and their sovereignty.

ISLAMIC CONGRESS DELEGATION RETURNS TO TEHRAN

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that Mohamed Hanifa Mohamed, Sri Lankan official responsible for Muslim affairs, and the secretary general of the World Islamic Congress arrived in Tehran this afternoon. They are here to familiarize themselves with the Islamic Republic's views on the war imposed by Iraq on Iran. They were welcomed by Deputy Foreign Minister 'Azizi.

This report says that this is the second visit to Iran by the World Islamic Congress delegation in the last week. On the first visit the delegation met President Khamene'i, who reiterated the Islamic Republic's earlier terms. The report adds that the delegation has met with the Iraqi authorities in Baghdad in the last few days. On his arrival in Tehran, Mohamed Hanifa Mohamed, leader of the delegation, spoke on the delegation's visit to a Central News Unit correspondent at the airport saying: We have come to Iran bringing positive proposals.

Referring to the delegation's talks in Tehran and Baghdad, he said: We are here to pursue our endeavors.

Our correspondent reports that the mediating delegation this afternoon held a meeting at the Foreign Ministry with Foreign Minister Velayati, his deputy and the ministry's under secretaries.

RAFSANJANI ADDRESSES FOREIGN, DOMESTIC ISSUES

LD161536 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 16 Apr 82

[Text] Political-religious Friday prayers ceremonies were held all over the country today and millions of our Muslim compatriots took part. As on previous Fridays, Tehran University was the meeting place of a great mass of revolutionary people of Tehran who held their Friday prayers -- this eternal tradition left by Muhammad -- under the imamate of Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani, the acting Friday imam of Tehran.

In his first sermon, Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani continued his discussion from previous weeks on the economic dimension of social justice from the points of view of the Koran and Islam. Referring to the issue of overt and covert differences among human beings, Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani said: The point is that people are not similar and equal from every point of view.

Giving some examples, he stated: People have different tastes, ideas and characters. It will always be thus as long as the world exists, and these differences among human beings increase when they exploit nature's resources.

The acting Friday imam of Tehran then referred to the issue of controlling talents in order to make proper use of them in society. Commenting on the (?economic) side of the issue, he stated: The selfish nature of mankind is limitless. Mankind is a creature that demands boundless and unlimited things. Thus a human being is created greedy and selfish. Therefore, he must be controlled by society.

Referring to the extravagance and excesses of Marxism and capitalism in various fields, including ownership, Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani said: Today it is not possible to find a communist country where there is no private ownership; and there is no capitalist country free of state ownership.

The acting Friday imam of Tehran then referred to the teaching of Islam, which turns a selfish human being into a devoted and self-sacrificing person. Giving some examples of self-sacrifices of the various strata of the nation on the battlefronts, he added: These kinds of controls are the main foundations of the work of Islam. Islam believes that people are selfish, but does not deal with mankind with the excesses practiced by Marxism and capitalism. Islam has had both private and state ownership right from the start. The conclusion is that mankind thinks of ways to control the differences among human beings. Control of the profit-seeking motive is one of the teachings of Islam, which controls and properly guides these motives.

In his second sermon, Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani referred to current issues. In connection with the recent move of the nation of Palestine, he said:

[Begin recording] They have shouted the Islamic slogans of "God is great" and "There is no god but God." If they are correct, I am not sure [as heard]. The slogans are similar to those in Iran. They have chanted slogans in support of the imam's leadership.

Of course, we are not claiming that Iran should liberate Palestine. The leadership referred to here is spiritual leadership. That is, the movement that the imam started and launched is understood by every Muslim to be correct. We only expect the imam's ideas, methods and ways to be chosen. Otherwise, Palestine must be run by Palestinians themselves, and at present by the PLO. We do not have any other legitimate and important center for control of these movements. They must run Palestine.

If this statement is true, there are some considerations that arise from it. These considerations should be important. That is, if they rely on Islam, they should understand that the sultans of oil, who are ruling under the name of Islam and have placed oil at the disposal of blasphemy and Zionism, these idols can no longer be considered supporters of Palestine. They must understand that from now on the reactionary Arabs, who have joined hands and united with the United States against the oppressed masses, cannot remain the vanguard of the Islamic movement. If they have realized this and have started this way, then their movement will lead somewhere. It would then be possible to be hopeful about this movement and Muslims of the world could invest and come forward. If the governments do not want to do so, it does not matter. People will go and carry out justice themselves. They will move with justice and governments will be forced to back them. If it is done this way, we shall be near the route for the liberation of Palestine.

I assure you that if they change their slogans, the limited nationalist slogans [sentence left unfinished]. Of course, nationalism includes liberation of Palestine, which itself is an Islamic (?root). But their aim is to liberate Palestine and I am saying that the detonator of this movement and its engine must be Islam. Then eventually we can reach an Islamic government in Palestine. In this case, after the victory there would be no sign of the leftists, the leftists who have dragged Lebanon into this black chaos. They cannot then come and demand to have a share of everything.

The Islamic movement and the Islamic path for the liberation of Palestine is the important issue.

The important point, which is conspicuous now, is that conspiracies have started up again. What is the U.S. representative in the region seeking? What is the aim of the shah of Jordan in going to Kuwait? What are the leftists saying in Lebanon? See how they have employed all their agents. Leftists of Lebanon have moved and waged war against the Shi'a people in the south of Lebanon since it became clear that the Palestinian movement is predominantly Islamic. They avenge themselves against the Shi'a in Lebanon on behalf of the people in Jerusalem.

In south Lebanon people stick portraits of the imam and the flag of the Islamic Republic on the walls of their houses. What is the Islamic Republic doing there? What are the leftists saying in this arena? The answer is clear, they want the same thing that they were seeking in Iran.

The Peykar organization, the Mojahedin-e Khalq and their ilk in Iran were chanting modern leftist slogans in defense of the deprived masses. When the liberal wing was defeated and when Bani-Sadr was deposed they drew their swords against the deprived people. They planted bombs in thoroughfares, mosques and railroad stations. They exploded a bomb in the Khas-e 'Am Mosque in Rasht. They kill Friday imams, the late Dastgheyb and Madani and others.

What is the connection between these things? The connection is that the start of the movement was an Islamic movement and the ferment of the movement in Islamic thinking. Islamic thinking began with the Islamic Republic and the imam. Moreover, the leftists are lying when they claim to be leftists. Of course, even if they are true leftists we still do not accept them. To us left and right are the same. Both of them will go to hell. But the important point is that they are lying. The capitalist strata and the rich are not attracted by any slogan. They are only attracted to opium pipes and braziers.

The fact that they can move, strive for hard work and such things, including, fcr instance the slogan that work is the right of the workers, houses and all such things could be started in motion. [sentence as heard] The same applies to Lebanon and Iran. The Lebanese groups are called leftists but they receive their funds from Saddam, who in turn received from from the United States, for although he has money he receives gifts from the United States.

After 18 months of covert support they were forced to issue orders to give Iraq 12 U.S. transport aircraft, which are among the world's strategic goods. This is coming out in the open now. The result is the same. It begins from the White House, it passes through the oil wells of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Qatar, Dubai, Iraq and to such personages as Saddam, Shah Husayn, Shah Hassan, Khalid and their ilk; and through these people the funds are paid out and the Mojahedin-e Khalq and hypocrites receive their funds from Saudi Arabia, from Saddam, and the same goes for various radios and newspapers.

In short, all these are tarred by the same brush and are working hand in glove. Though the Islamic movement has begun in Palestine these people drop their bombs on the heads of the Shi'ite people in southern Lebanon. Now, who drops these but a communist party which has hitherto issued anti-Israeli slogans? These leftists, nationalists and treacherous groups which dragged Lebanon through blood and mire receive their funds from the Saudi Embassy, from the 'Aflaqite Arab Ba'th and elsewhere and run their newspapers on such money.

I beg to tell the Palestinian people: Dear brothers, stay awake: If you are dragged into talks you will lose; if you are dragged into mediation by the shaykhs, sultans and spurious presidents you will lose. It is only through your own strength, path, blood, martyrdom that you can make progress. If you are on the battlefield and give your blood, lose your lives, give up your properties and suffer losses, the world's people will follow you and the governments, who for years have issued anti-Israeli slogans, would not dare to oppose you. They would be forced to come along. The only thing is that you should not permit them to interfere in your work.

Another important reminder is that you should keep up the continuity of struggle, for piecemeal struggles are fruitless. You should stand up until the job is done, and wherever you stand the dangers are there.

The third reminder is that you need (?more) struggle, but struggle within the limits of protest is not enough, for tomorrow it should be turned into an economic blockade of the enemy. You should bring pressure to bear on the regimes which depend on your oil such as the Mitterrands, the Germans and other places [as heard] with whose weapons, funds and support they are crushing you, and you should finish with these people.

Next comes the fourth phase, whereby the armed liberation crusade should begin, the Islamic forces should come in and you should not accept communist forces, for if these people were to join your ranks they would not add anything to your stock except madness and they would proceed to sow discord in your ranks and they would continuously make demands.

Let the pure Muslims of when we will be at the forefront, come along and give their blood at your side until we crush Israel and liberate Palestine. [end recording]

Tehran's provisional Friday imam, continuing his second sermon and extolling the steps taken by the country of our brother in closing its borders with Iraq, including halting the export of Iraqi oil from that country, referred to the auspicious birthday of the holy and great truthful one, Fatimah az-Zahra -- may God's peace be upon her -- and Women's Day, and addressing himself to our sisters said: The personality of the holy Az-Zahra -- may peace be upon her -- is such that we are incapable of comprehending the profound dimensions of that personality.

Citing examples of the troubled and difficult life of construction of the dear daughter of the most generous apostle -- may God's benedictions and peace be upon him and his scion, the onerous responsibilities of the holy Fatimah az-Zahra -- may God's peace be upon her -- at various dimensions as peerless models which constitute the best example for the life of mankind. [sentence as heard]

Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani then called on the revolutionary Muslims in a Paris jail, who have been on hunger strike for some time in protest against the injustices of the French Socialist Party, to break their hunger strike and be assured that the Islamic Republic of Iran will exact their rights from France.

In conclusion, Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani, addressing our Arab Muslim brothers and sisters, read a sermon in Arabic.

FURTHER DEVELOPMENTS ON ATTEMPTED COUP REPORTED

Nateq-Nuri: Clergy Involved

LD181006 Tehran IRNA in English 0924 GMT 18 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 18 Apr (IRNA) -- Minister of the Interior Nateq-Nuri Saturday said that in the recent abortive coup d'etat, led by Sadeq Qotbzadeh, a group of so-called ulema of Tehran and Qom and a number of the remnants of the former regime in the army and fugitive monarchists had also been involved.

Nuri, who was speaking in Tabriz, East Azarbayjan Province, at a press conference, added that the coup designers had the intention to explode Jamaran (Imam Khomeyni's residence) in order to martyr the imam. Then, under the pretext that officials were not able to protect the imam's life, they would kill all those responsible and take power, the minister remarked.

The plot was discovered and all involved in it, as well as Qotbzadeh, who had confessed the details of the plot were arrested, he said.

Referring to the activities of legal political groups, Nateq-Nuri said that the bill for the activities of such parties had been approved by the Majlis and relevant executive regulations, compiled by his ministry, would be soon published. These groups, he noted, were authorised to be active within the framework of the regulations. Commenting on the delegation of authority of the commander in chief of the security forces the interior minister said that by such a measure the imam had asked for speedy implementation of a series of activities relevant to security issues. Nateq-Nuri added that the Majlis delegated administration of the Islamic revolutionary committees to the Interior Ministry. He hoped that the committees, along with other security organisations, would be independently active since there was still a need for their active presence.

Meanwhile the second day of the joint seminar of Majlis deputies, Friday prayers leaders, governors and heads of revolutionary institutions of East Azarbayjan Province, ended its work with statements of Nateq-Nuri, Saturday. He called on the governors to fully cooperate with the ulema and revolutionary organisations.

Shari'atmadari House Raided

LD171100 Hamburg DPA in German 1017 GMT 17 Apr 82

[Excerpt] Hamburg/Tehran, 17 Apr (DPA) -- The house, main office and theological center of the Iranian Shi'ite leader Ayatollah Seyyed Kazem Shari'atmadari, considered a moderate, are said to have been stormed on Friday in the holy city of Qom by fanatics and revolution guards. This was announced by his son in Hamburg in a press statement given to DPA on Saturday.

According to Hasan Shari'atmadari, the fanatics had been incited by Hojjat ol-Eslam Meshki in Qom. During the storming of the house, several visitors were attacked and two sons-in-law of the ayatollah, who were among his closest staff, and several guests were arrested. Since then Shari'atmadari's house has been systematically watched by revolution guards. The ayatollah was under house arrest and was not allowed to receive visitors.

AFP Report

NC171512 Paris AFP in English 1458 GMT 17 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 17 Apr (AFP) -- Ahmad 'Abbasi, the son-in-law of leading Shi'ite clergyman Shari'atmadari, reportedly supplied money to former Foreign Minister Sadeq Qotbzadeh, now under arrest for plotting to kill Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni, KEYHAN newspaper reported today quoting Ayatollah Sadeq Khalkhali.

Ayatollah Khalkhali said that Mr 'Abbasi, "who takes care of business affairs for his father-in-law, reportedly made 20 million rials (about 250,000 dollars) available to Sadeq Qotbzadeh".

Mr 'Abbasi was arrested Wednesday in Qom, 160 km (100 miles) south of Tehran, and the Qom offices of Ayatollah Shari'atmadari occupied yesterday by "people of the city", KEYHAN said today.

Mr Qotbzadeh's arrest on charges of involvement in an alleged attempt to kill Ayatollah Khomeyni, Iran's spiritual leader, was reported in a communique of the revolutionary tribunal of the Iranian Armed Forces on April 10.

"Shari'atmadari's house was not attacked, but his bodyguards were disarmed and replaced by revolutionary guards. The ayatollah is doing well," said Ayatollah Khalkhali, formerly a roving judge for Iranian revolutionary courts.

According to KEYHAN, "radio receiver-transmitters and tapes with counter-revolutionary contents were discovered" in the office of Ayatollah Shari'atmadari.

Ayatollah Khalkhali, member of Parliament from Qom, said he "had played no role in what happened".

He said that following Friday's prayer and a radio speech by influential Tehran Parliament Member Fakhreddin Hejazi announcing arrests of people involved in the alleged plot, "the people came down into the street" Mr 'Abbasi's name was not released until today, however.

Ayatollah "'Ozma" (the Great) Shari'atmadari, 84, is the spiritual leader of Tabriz, the capital of Azarbayjan in the northwest. He withdrew from Iranian politics after disagreeing with the Islamic Republic's draft constitution, published in 1979.

Revolutionary Prosecutor Musavi-Tabrizi said in a statement in ETTELA'AT newspaper that one should not describe the plot as a "coup d'etat" since the people involved were not "a strong and solid group with army support".

Mr Tabrizi said that among the people arrested, whose total number and identities have not been made public, were "one or two members of the clergy, isolated from Tehran, and two soldiers dismissed from the army, as well as a soldier still in the army".

AFP: Over 1,000 Arrested

[Excerpts] Tehran, 17 Apr (AFP) -- More than 1,000 persons have reportedly been arrested in Iran in a campaign to crush an anti-government plot that has for the first time cast suspicion on members of the high Shi'ite clergy which forms the backbone of the Islamic revolutionary regime.

Former Foreign Minister Sadeq Qotbzadeh is under arrest, charged with plotting to kill Iran's spiritual leader, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni.

Ahmad 'Abbasi, son-in-law of leading Shi'ite clergyman Ayatollah Shari'atmadari, is under arrest for allegedly supplying 20 million rials (about 250,000 dollars) to Mr Qotbzadeh.

Revolutionary Prosecutor Musavi-Tabrizi said in a statement to the ETTELA'AT newspaper that the anti-government plot should not be considered "a coup d'etat" since those involved were not "a strong and solid group with army support."

He said those arrested, without specifying their number, included "one or two members of the clergy, isolated from Tehran, and two soldiers dismissed from the army, as well as a soldier still in the army."

Reliable sources in Tehran, however, said more than 1,000 people had been arrested, mostly middle class professionals from Tehran and Qom, but including clergymen and dozens of revolutionary guards.

Members of the clergy were implicated this week by press statements such as that in today's edition of the Tehran newspaper KEYHAN, which called for "the purge of the clergy and explusion from its ranks of corrupt elements plotting under the pretext of defending either Islam or freedom."

PAKISTANI FINANCE MINISTER ARRIVES IN TEHRAN

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, in implementation of the new economic agreements between Iran and Pakistan, which were reached during our foreign minister's visit to Islamabad, Mr Ghulam Ishaq Khan, a senior minister in the Pakistani Government, who is also in charge of economic planning, arrived in Tehran this afternoon. He was welcomed by Minister of Commerce 'Asgar-Owladi and several officials of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Mr Ghulam Ishaq Khan, who is Pakistan's minister of finance, economy, commerce and planning [as heard], will supervise three Pakistani negotiating delegations in Tehran. Pakistan's deputy ministers of commerce, petroleum, roads and railways are members of these delegations.

On his arrival in Tehran, Mr Ghulam Ishaq Khan told our correspondent: We are prepared to negotiate in Tehran about Pakistan's requirements, things that we want to purchase from Iran and which of Iran's requirements Pakistan can supply. We hope to reach a mutually beneficial agreement.

According to the Central News Unit, Mr Ghulam Ishaq Khan arrived in Zahedan this morning en route to Tehran. He was welcomed by the governor general of Sistan va Baluchestan and other officials of this province. He stopped in Zahedan for an hour and had talks with the governor general of Sistan va Baluchestan.

Economic Talks Begin

LD171930 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 17 Apr 82

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, Iranian and Pakistani delegations opened talks this afternoon aimed at the expansion of reciprocal trade and economic relations. The two delegations are headed by Iranian Commerce Minister Mr 'Asgar-Owladi and Pakistani Finance Minister Mr Ghulam Ishaq Khan. Members of the Pakistani delegation include the petroleum, commerce and communications under secretaries.

Commenting on bilateral relations, the Iranian minister said that Iran is on the verge of economic planning and is pursuing a policy of importing its requirements from its friendly neighbors.

The Pakistani finance minister also stressed the importance of relations between Iran and Pakistan as relations between two Muslim and friendly countries.

According to our correspondent, the current Iran-Pakistan talks will continue until next Tuesday within the framework of three specialist committees of commerce, petroleum and communications. The Pakistani minister is also expected to hold separate talks with top Iranian officials.

Meeting With Velayati

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that Mr Ghulam Ishaq Khan, Pakistani minister of economics, finance and commerce, who has come to Tehran at the head of an economic delegation, this morning met and conferred with Foreign Minister Velayati. The meeting was attended by Deputy Minister 'Azizi and Kazempur-Ardabili, head of economic and international affairs at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Expanding trade, economic and commercial relations between the two Muslim countries of Iran and Pakistan were discussed and subjected to exchanges of view.

Meeting With Khamene'i

LD182244 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 2030 GMT 18 Apr 82

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, the Pakistani delegation led by Mr Ghulam Ishaq Khan, the minister of finance and commerce [title as heard] of that country, today met with Mr Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i, the Islamic president of Iran. Mr Ghulam Ishaq Khan made a speech at the beginning this meeting.

He said that his discussions with the officials of our country were useful and constructive and that he is optimistic about expanding the two neighboring countries' relations in various fields. Referring to the need for Islamic unity, he said: If the Islamic nation is a single nation, then we have drawn only artificial lines on various maps.

Referring to the wealth of natural resources -- especially energy resources -- in most Islamic countries, Mr Khamene'i then said that cooperation between Islamic countries will be useful for Muslim people. He then proposed that a common Islamic market be formed, that the groundwork should be laid to form this market.

At the end of this meeting, Mr Ghulam Ishaq Khan, Pakistan's minister of finance and commerce, presented Mr Khamene'i with Mr Ziaul Haq's invitation to visit Pakistan. He then gave him a copy of the glorious Koran.

Meeting With Namazi

LD181252 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 18 Apr 82

[Excerpt] While the economic talks between Iran and Pakistan are taking place in Tehran within the framework of the oil and transport committees, Mr Ghulam Ishaq Khan, Pakistani minister of economics, finance, commerce and planning, who is heading a delegation from his country, today met high-level economic and political officials of our country.

The Central News Unit correspondent reports that delegation head, Mr Ghulum Ishaq Khan, with a number of members of the delegation and the Pakistani ambassador to Tehran, this morning met with Mr Namazi, minister of economy and finance. This meeting was attended by the deputy minister of economy and finance, the managing director of the Iranian foreign investments and technical aid corporation and the Iranian ambassador to Pakistan. The two sides stressed the need to expand economic relations between Muslim countries and, in the context of the economic and financial programs of the two countries, methods of repayment of loans given to Pakistan by Iran were studied.

Israeli-Egyptian Relations

After two meetings in Jerusalem with Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin, Egyptian Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali said in remarks broadcast by Jerusalem radio that as a result of their talks new ideas had emerged to bridge the gap between the two sides. He expressed hope that a happy conclusion leading to the solution of outstanding issues would soon be achieved. However, no conclusion has yet been reached on the Tabah border demarcation dispute, according to the radio. Noting that 'Ali was returning to Egypt with a letter of reply from Begin to President Husni Mubarak, the radio said the exchange of messages will permit the completion of the withdrawal on time. In their letters, Begin and Mubarak reaffirmed their adherence to the Camp David accords and the application of autonomy to Judaea and Samaria. The radio also reported that Begin was pleased with the outcome of his talks with 'Ali. 'Ali likewise said the talks took place in a "friendly atmosphere" and were "extremely constructive," according to Cairo radio, which quoted 'Ali as stating before his final meeting with Begin that all the existing differences between Egypt and Israel "had almost been settled."

Emphasizing that Egypt adheres to all agreements and treaties, members of the Egyptian delegation said Israel should shake off all fears and worries because the new chapter in bilateral relations will start after 26 April, Jerusalem radio reported. The resumption of relations between Egypt and the Arab world is unrelated to Israel's withdrawal from Sinai, they indicated, and Egypt's contacts with the Palestinians will continue after 26 April, especially in light of President Mubarak's desire to mediate between Israel and other Arab parties, including the PLO. Meanwhile, a Cairo radio commentary said Israel should not allow the border demarcation dispute to affect the withdrawal from the Sinai on schedule, which will encourage other Arab parties to join the peace process.

Abu-Hatzera Conviction -- Labor, Social Welfare and Immigrant Absorption Minister Aharon Abu-Hatzera was convicted of breaching confidence, plotting to carry out a crime and stealing while holding an administrative position, Jerusalem radio reported. He was acquitted of three other charges. If Abu-Hatzera is jailed and dismissed from the Knesset, he can nevertheless continue serving as a minister, the radio pointed out.

Yamit Situation -- The IDF has almost completed the evacuation of agricultural settlements in the Yamit District, according to a statement by the commander of the Southern Command reported by Jerusalem radio. The radio noted that the evacuation process would be interrupted on 20 April due to holocaust memorial ceremonies and that Kakh Movement leader Rabbi Kahane is expected to arrive from the United States in order to persuade his followers in Yamit not to carry out their threats to commit suicide.

Lebanon

A new tactic adopted by the terrorists is to penetrate through UNIFIL-controlled areas in southern Lebanon, plant mines and flee, the Israeli paper HA'ARETZ reported citing southern Lebanese sources. Officers of Maj Sa'id Haddad's Christian militia, who regard these infiltrations as violations of the cease-fire, met on 18 April to consult about possible retaliation against the terrorists, the paper added.

Jordan

King Husayn has accepted the resignation of Interior Minister Sulayman 'Arar and approved the appointment of Ahmad 'Ubaydat to the post, according to Amman television. The king also approved the appointment of Maj Gen Tariq 'Ala' ad-Din as director of general intelligence, the television added.

Iran

Coup Plot -- Forty-five people have been arrested in connection with a coup plot hatched by former Foreign Minister Sadeq Qotbzadeh, head of the Armed Forces Revolution Courts Mohammadi Reyshahri announced at a press conference reported by Tehran radio. Evidence and documents indicate that the coup attempt involved Qotbzadeh and a group called the "Liberation of the Iranian Revolution," Reyshahri stated. He added that Qotbzadeh was not the leader of the coup, but rather that he, along with all of the others who were arrested, had formed this group with the cooperation of Israel, the CIA and the Pahlavi family.

According to an AFP report, Reyshahri said he did not believe Ayatollah Kazem Shari'atmadari had been informed about the plot. Reyshahri said he is convinced, however, that followers of Shari'atmadari were involved. Citing informed sources, SPA reported that revolution guards have taken Shari'atmadari to an unknown destination.

Qotbzadeh implicated Shari'atmadari in the plot in a statement he made on Iranian television, AFP reported. Qotbzadeh said he was informed by two intermediaries that Shari'atmadari had told them that while he could contribute nothing toward carrying out the plan, if it succeeded he would make statements supporting it. Qotbzadeh also confessed to having plotted to kill Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni and admitted that the group had planned to attack revolution guards centers as well as radio and television. Qotbzadeh added that he was seeking to overthrow the government, but not to change the Islamic Republic.

Security Situation -- More than 20 counterrevolutionaries were killed in operations around Mahabad, Tehran radio reported. Six villages were reclaimed in the Bukan area in operations conducted by the Guards Corps, the armed forces and local tribesmen, the radio said. In addition, a large number of counterrevolutionaries were killed or wounded in operations along the Baneh-Sar Dasht axis.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Military Situation -- The Iranian Air Force downed two Iraqi planes in the Abadan sector, according to a military communique broadcast by Tehran radio. An Iraqi military source denied Iranian claims that an Iraqi fighter plane was shot down near Abadan on 18 April, INA reported.

Mediation Efforts -- At a meeting with the subcommittee of the Islamic Conference Organization in Tehran, President 'Ali Khamene'i told the delegation not to tell Iran about Iraq's expectations and not to say that the committee will not make judgments because the objective of mediation is to learn the truth in order to judge, Tehran radio reported.

At a subsequent meeting in Baghdad, Iraqi President Saddam Husayn reiterated Iraq's readiness to settle the dispute in accordance with the principles defined by the Islamic summit conference at At-Ta'if, INA reported.

YAR

Syrian opposition forces in the Yemeni Arab Republic issued a statement calling for the overthrow of Hafiz al-Asad's "traitorous regime," according to Baghdad INA. Meanwhile, former Syrian Prime Minister Lt Gen Amin al-Hafiz concluded his 3-day visit to the country, San'a' radio reported.

Libya

The National Front for the Salvation of Libya, which aims to overthrow Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi's regime, has recently been formed in Europe, according to the London daily ASH-SHARQ AL-AWSAT. Citing front member Ahmad Ibrahim Ahwas, former charge d'affaires at the Libyan Embassy in Guyana, the paper claimed that prominent Libyans, including officials close to Al-Qadhdhafi, belong to the organization.

KARMAL MEETS WITH PAKISTANI PASHTUN LEADER

GF161932 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1530 GMT 16 Apr 82

Also present at the meeting were Dr Najibollah, PDPA Central Committee Politburo member, and Solayman La'eq, minister for tribes and nationalities affairs.

Babrak Karmal said at the meeting that the PDPA, the (?sole) national party, aims to preserve national freedom, democratic social progress, national sovereignty and territorial integrity, and to defend the aim of building a new society in Afghanistan. He said that the PDPA represents the long and continued struggle of the Afghan people, that it acts as the leader of all the democratic and (?working) people, that it serves as a political organization in the struggle against the reactionary and (?imperialist) forces of the world, and that it has emerged as [words indistinct] after the April Revolution.

Babrak Karmal said that this leading party has collected all the freedom-loving and progressive peoples under the banner of the fundamental principles of the PDPA and represents all the national aspirations of the nationalities, ethnic groups, tribes and followers of various religious groups, who have converged and are engaged in common struggle for achieving progress and development. This party, without doubt, works toward achieving the collective good of the various peoples of Afghanistan, and helps to forge unity among various nationalities, ethnic groups and tribes, who had been kept apart in the past due to the intrigues of the now-defunct royalist regimes.

Babrak Karmal said that our revolution is a great democratic revolution and our government is a truly national and democratic government. The April Revolution has indeed liberated the Afghan peoples from the cruel grip of feudalists [words indistinct] and usurers. [passage indistinct]

The April Revolution has prepared the ground for providing conditions for building a new economic and cultural structure within the country in order to protect the achievements of the revolution, to make use of the land (?which provides a basic source of wealth for our people) and to provide (?further means of wealth).

The April Revolution has proclaimed national sovereignty for a united and indivisible Afghanistan and for all the nationalities, ethnic groups and tribes within its fold, and has provided equal rights for all peoples of various origins, races and religions to own property and to follow various pursuits. It has also given full freedom to Muslims in Afghanistan to follow their religion and creed, and the state has already achieved the support of spiritual persons and learned peoples, and has for the first time in the history of the country guaranteed equal rights to all.

Despite the fact that our government has come face to face with bitter enmity from the forces of imperialism and reaction and is waging an undeclared hot war, it is helping the toilers, led by the PDPA, in providing a strong front against these enemy forces.

Babrak Karmal explained DRA policy with regard to the tribes. He said that with regard to the Pashtun peoples and tribes the DRA's policy is based on an overall national policy. The basis of this policy is equality among the citizens.

The revolution, which is guided by Afghan traditions and the sacred teachings of Islam, places the following objectives before it with regard to the Pashtun tribes: to keep peace and order between the various tribes, to enhance the scope of the tribal council, to defend the person and property of every member of the tribal society, to provide better living and working conditions for the tribes. In the matter of [word indistinct] and in educational and cultural matters, the Kuchi tribes [nomads] would also be helped.

With regard to foreign policy, Babrak Karmal said that DRA foreign policy aims at having friendly relations with world states based on reciprocal cooperation. The DRA believes in peaceful coexistence and with that it strives to establish its relations with all countries of the world on the basis of equality, mutual respect, noninterference in domestic affairs and recognition of the right of all people to determine their own social system. Afghanistan rejects the use of forces in settling international disputes and prefers to achieve a solution to them through talks and negotiations.

Afghanistan cherishes its relations with all peace-loving countries, especially its tested friend the Soviet Union, and places a premium on stronger relations with that country. Afghanistan is a loyal member of the (?United Nations) and believes in maintaining its anti-imperialist and anticolonialist spirit. Afghanistan has always supported the struggle for self-determination of the world's nations and supports the struggle of peoples subjected to imperialism and racism. It especially supports the just struggle of the Palestinian people.

Afghanistan, as a developing nation, has a great need for peace and has therefore taken practical steps toward resolving the problems existing around Afghanistan. Babrak Karmal said that the DRA had made peace proposals on 14 May and 24 August in its proclamations that truly reflect its concern for peace. They also demonstrate Afghanistan's efforts to resolve these problems through diplomatic means and activity.

Afghanistan has welcomed the efforts of friendly countries to resolve differences with its neighbors such as Iran and Pakistan and in this connection has welcomed the efforts of Diego Cordovez, the representative of the UN secretary general, who has only recently paid a visit to Afghanistan and thus has continued the efforts by the UN secretary general to restore peace to this region. Diego Cordovez appreciated the Afghan desire for peaceful coexistence with its neighbors such as Iran and Pakistan. The Afghan Government expresses the hope that the good offices of the representative of the UN secretary general will succeed in reducing tension in this region and in the world in general and that he will achieve positive results in this connection.

Later Pashtun leader Khan Abdul Wali Khan in his reply expressed his appreciation for DRA policy as expressed by Babrak Karmal. He said that by listening to the Afghan head of state he had gained the impression that the Afghan national and democratic revolution is being led by a strong and sagacious person.

He said the DRA proclamation of 24 August 1981 that proposes solutions to the problems existing around Afghanistan provides a good basis for negotiations among Afghanistan, Pakistan and Iran. Wali Khan said that the imperialists have distorted facts about Afghanistan and have not disclosed the real situation and are engaged in inimical propaganda.

Abdul Wali Khan said that the continued difference between Afghanistan and Pakistan, whose people desire to continue the historic and traditional relations between them, are detrimental to both.

He said: I, as a Pashtun, cannot but express concern over imperialists and regional reactionaries fanning the flames of hatred between the Pashtun peoples. The April Revolution introduced the Afghan people to progress and development. It does not seek domination and believes in reciprocal good relations with all states of the world, especially those in the neighborhood of Afghanistan.

Wali Khan said: The Pashtun peoples have the right to defend their sovereignty, liberty and territorial integrity. He said that Afghanistan is a multinational society and that the long history of its peoples shows that they cherish and wish to continue their amity and brotherhood. Wali Khan expressed the desire that our region should become a region of peace, understanding and cooperation; that the solution of all differences between the states of this region should be sought through peaceful talks, which is the most humane, easiest and shortest method of resolving disputes.

He said that he will be leaving the DRA with cherished memories and best wishes for the DRA, as well as with the wish that the present political conditions would change for friendship and amity between the peoples of Pakistan and Afghanistan and that the imperialist designs which seek to take advantage of the differences between these two neighboring states would fail and be disgraced.

At the end of his address to Babrak Karmal, Wali Khan said: I appreciate Your Excellency's peaceful, learned and humane ideals and thank you for the deference shown to me and assure Your Excellency that I, to the best of my capacity, will work to forge amity between my country and Afghanistan.

Khan Abdul Wali Khan in conclusion thanked Babrak Karmal, the peoples and Government of Afghanistan on his own behalf and on behalf of his father Bacha Khan [Khan Ghaffar Khan] for the feelings of brotherhood, sincerity and hospitality extended to his father and himself.

WALI KHAN DEPARTS FOR PESHAWAR 18 APRIL

GF191742 Kabul in English to South Asia 1530 GMT 19 Apr 82

BAKHTAR correspondent reports that a large number of (?citizens) of Kabul city, some members of the party (?cadres) and other organizations of Kabul city had lined up on the road to the Kabul International Airport to [word indistinct] the leader of Pashtuns by expression of warm sentiments, [word indistinct] and showering of flowers.

According to another report dispatched by the BAKHTAR correspondent from Jalalabad, the capital of Nangarhar Province, Khan Wali Khan and Mrs Naseem Wali Khan left for Peshawar yesterday via Torkham. They were accorded (?welcome) by Solayman La'eq, the minister of tribes and nationalities affairs, and [words indistinct], secretary of Nangarhar provincial committee, the Nangarhar governor, secretary of the party committee of Shinwar District, and commander of the border garrison. Khan Abdul Wali Khan was accompanied by Solayman La'eq, the minister of tribes and nationalities affairs, when he arrived in Jalalabad from Kabul.

The BAKHTAR correspondent adds that tens of thousands of Jalalabad citizens had lined up on both sides of the street to welcome the (?great) leader of Pashtuns in Jalalabad city.

AFP: AFGHAN REBELS KILL SOVIET PRISONER

BK200429 Hong Kong AFP in English 0357 GMT 20 Apr 82

[Text] Peshawar, Pakistan, 20 Apr (AFP) -- Afghan Islamic guerrillas announced here Monday that they had executed a high-ranking Soviet prisoner after failing to win the release of political prisoners held by the pro-Soviet Kabul regime in return for his life.

Mikhail Yevgeniy Okrimyuk, a 68-year-old Soviet geologist, was shot by a firing squad a month ago after being held prisoner for 7 months in the eastern Afghanistan Province of Nangarhar, said Maulavi (religious leader) Yunes Khales, leader of a militant faction of the fundamentalist Moslem Hezb-e Eslami resistance movement.

Maulavi Khales said the guerrillas had decided to shoot their prisoner after Soviet authorities failed to make any serious offer in return for his release.

The Afghan resistance fighters first suggested a deal in which 50 of their comrades would be freed for the safe return of Mr Okrimyuk. Then they changed their mind on grounds that the Kabul government of Soviet-occupied Afghanistan "could easily free 50 prisoners one day and arrest 100 other people on the day after the trade-off."

This position is shared by Gulbuddin Hikmatyar, leader of the other major Hezb-e Eslami faction, which says it holds five Soviet Army soldiers at its Allah Jirga camp near the Pakistani frontier.

Observers at this Pakistani city near the Afghan border said that the matter of Mr Okrimyuk, who was a senior figure in the Soviet hierarchy, was an embarrassing one for the Kremlin.

His captors had released to the press two appeals the geologist had addressed to a former schoolmate, Soviet Premier Nikolay Tikhonov, pleading for him to intervene and win his freedom.

Mr Okrimyuk headed a mission of 50 scientists assigned to draw up an inventory of Afghanistan's sub-surface mineral wealth after the Soviet military intervention in the country in December 1979.

The geologist was kidnapped in broad daylight in Kabul last September 14 -- his official Afghan chauffeur being a secret member of the Moslem resistance -- and was handed over to the guerrilla group.

A Hezb-e Eslami spokesman told journalists here that the execution of Mr Okrimyuk, being a human-rights violation and an offense against international norms for treatment of prisoners, (?might well) shock Western public opinion.

"But it will not shock the civilians who have survived Soviet bombings in Afghanistan," the spokesman said.

The spokesman added that it was difficult to hold prisoners on Afghan territory, but that if they were transferred to Pakistan the authorities there would turn them over to the Soviet Embassy.

SAUDI PAPER INTERVIEWS AFGHAN REBEL OFFICIAL

PM161141 Riyadh AL-JAZIRAH in Arabic 6 Apr 82 p 13

['Abd al-Karim al-Hizawi interview with Afghan rebel official Maj Mohammad Eshaq in Paris -- date not given]

[Excerpts] Afghan struggler Maj Mohammad Eshaq, who reveals to AL-JAZIRAH the facts of the situation within the Afghanistan resistance, is a field man; he is both a military and an information official with the rank of major in Panjshir District in the northeastern part of the country. Panjshin village is a first-class strategic location controlling the main highway linking Kabul to the Soviet Union.

Major Eshaq, an electrical engineer, is the founder of the Voice of Afghanistan radio, which transmits to Kabul from the liberated areas. Eshaq belongs to Jami'at-e Eslami Afghan party, led by Burhanuddin Rabbani.

Major Eshaq came to Paris to take part in a media campaign which the Afghan resistance intends to launch in the European countries. The campaign will culminate in a European Afghanistan day in the European Parliament in Strasbourg.

Question: What are the most important points in your party's program and what is the state of your resistance organization inside the country?

Answer: Our program can be summed up as follows:

Continuation of the struggle in order to liberate our country and achieve unity in our ranks, without which no victory can be achieved. Although it is premature to discuss the nature of the regime we would like after liberating our country, I can only say that we hope that it will be an Islamic regime based on shari'a laws internally and nonaligned externally.

Question: It is said that the attack which the Afghan regular forces and Soviet forces launched against the revolution areas 2 weeks ago was successful to a certain extent. Can you tell us about this attack, which you saw from the battlefield?

Answer: It is difficult for anyone who does not know the history of guerrilla warfare to understand the present situation in Afghanistan. As long as there is cohesion between the mujahidin and the people, it is impossible for the occupying forces to be in control of the battlefield. This would require the Soviet Union to send 400,000 troops at least. If the occupying forces are today content with controlling the major towns and highways it is because they are unable to extend their control to the rest of the country. There is no better proof than the fact that the government and Soviet forces withdrew to their bases after their recent attack. These forces bank on exhausting our struggle and on our people despairing as a result of the length of the occupation and savage military actions.

In order to thwart this plan the revolution must shift from its present defensive position to that of offensive and strategic resistance. This objective can be achieved through the establishment of a national liberation army equipped with heavy arms.

Question: What steps are the Afghan revolution taking to translate its ideological unity into organizational unity?

Answer: Inside the country and in the fight against the enemy there is a de facto unity dictated by the subjective conditions of the fighting, and the results of this unity on the military and political levels have been splendid.

In Panjshir, for example, we have been able to unify five resistance movements under the control of a unified council. Our operations are now carried out in coordination with the central and eastern fronts.

With regard to the political leadership in Peshawar, in Pakistan, unity is inevitable and unavoidable because it expresses the determination of the fighters inside the country, determination that will necessarily reflect on the actions of these leaderships. I can tell you, for example, that on my recent visit to Peshawar I carried a joint message to Parvan and Kapisa Provinces calling on the political movements to unite.

Question: Let us discuss the international attitude toward the Afghan revolution. The Soviet invasion of Afghanistan caused reaction in two principal fields: The first inside the Western camp, which, within the context of its conflict with the Eastern camp, is denouncing the invasion, and the second in the Southern countries, particularly the Islamic countries, which are opposed to the Soviet invasion out of religious sympathy and fear of the spread of communist influence.

Do you feel that the Western countries have shown and are still showing more firmness in rejecting the Soviet invasion than the Islamic countries?

Answer: Yes, and we are very grieved by this fact, for which we can find no justifiable reason. The Western countries act only from the standpoint of defending their interests.

We had great hopes that [PLO Executive Committee Chairman] Yasir 'Arafat, whose people were thrown out of their country and became refugees in tents, would support us. How often have we felt pain because of what has befallen our Palestinian brothers and how often have we cried over the occupation of holy Jerusalem and the loss of Palestine.

We had great hopes that Algeria, whose revolution sacrificed thousands of martyrs in order to liberate the country, would side with our cause. Our hopes were once again frustrated when, like Indira Gandhi, it refrained from voting at the United Nations [presumably for resolution condemning Soviet invasion].

But reproaching our brothers in religion should not blind us to the present reality of the Islamic nation. The plan to divide this nation is still being carried out. The Islamic world has a tremendous strategic weight in the international arena, so why are the Islamic states afraid of standing up against the Soviet aggression against our country?

History shows that the Soviet Union does not support the Islamic world on a principled and honest basis. Such support has ulterior motives and is calculated, its only objective being to widen the political and ideological influence of Soviet imperialism. Our people are sacrificing hundreds of martyrs every day, yet they do not surrender to one superpower under the pretext of fighting another superpower. Israel would be nothing if the Arab and Islamic world sided with the Palestinian people. We believe that Soviet support for the Palestinian cause is ineffective and only serves its own interests as a superpower.

In Afghanistan the Soviet Union has sacrificed five leaders; it does not hesitate to assassinate a president once it finds a substitute who serves it better.

Question: What are your demands today of the Islamic states?

Answer: Had our revolution relied on the idea of external support it would have vanished long ago. But our struggle has continued, thanks to God and to our people's determination.

I am not talking from a political position so as to be able to evaluate the aid given by the countries supporting our revolution, such as Saudi Arabia and the Islamic Conference Organization.

As a man in the field, I would say that we need everything. We lack many things, such as arms, particularly heavy arms, communications equipment, and equipment for digging shelters for our people, who are daily being pounded by savage bombing. It is impossible to list all the things that we lack because we need so much.

MINISTRY, SOVIET GOSSTROY SIGN PROTOCOL

LD182104 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 18 Apr 82

[Text] An educational and technical cooperation protocol between the Ministry of Public Works and the Soviet State Committee of Construction Affairs [Gosstroy] was concluded this morning.

The protocol was signed by engineer Nazar Mohammad, minister of public works, on behalf of Afghanistan and (Promikoskiy), Gosstroy deputy chairman, on behalf of the Soviet Union. Documents were exchanged.

Under the protocol a link [as heard] toward maintaining extensive educational and technical cooperation between the public works institutes and the planning, scientific and research institutes of the Soviet Union in the area of construction will be secured during the coming 5 years. The Afghan side will benefit, on a wider range, from the fruitful experiences and assistance of the fraternal Soviet Union.

RAO NOTES PROGRESS IN BORDER TALKS WITH PRC

OW200933 Hong Kong AFP in English 0912 GMT 20 Apr 82

[Text] Tokyo, 20 Apr (AFP) -- Indian Foreign Minister Narasimha Rao said here today that Sino-Indian talks on the two countries' border dispute have been "picking up a little speed."

Mr Rao, here on a 5-day visit, told a press conference that New Delhi was "hopeful and somewhat optimistic about the positive direction" toward improvement in India-China relations strained over the border dispute for the past 20 years.

India was analysing the contents of its talks with China in Beijing last December over the dispute. The two countries will hold another round of talks in mid-May, the foreign minister said.

He said negotiations with Pakistan for a "no-war" pact have been "only temporarily postponed" due to Pakistan's recent denunciation of human rights conditions in India. India will wait for "a better atmosphere" to resume the talks on the pact, he said.

On India's policy of diversifying its arms sources, Mr Rao described as "a kind of misunderstanding" suggestions that New Delhi was always buying military equipment from the Soviet Union. He cited India's recent purchases of Jaguar fighters from Britain and Mirage fighters from France.

On his current trip to Japan, he said that he and Japanese Foreign Minister Yoshio Sakurauchi underlined in a meeting yesterday "the common interest and objectives" of India and Japan -- efforts to maintain peace and stability in Asia.

The two foreign ministers agreed to further strengthen "contact and cooperation in different aspects" between their two countries, Mr Rao added.

Mr Rao also said Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi planned to visit the Soviet Union in June and the United States in July, thus continuing her active non-aligned diplomacy.

About the proposed seven-nation Southwest Asian association, he noted that consultations had been held "on a hopeful note to identify several areas of regional cooperation." The proposed association would group India, Pakistan, Nepal, Bhutan, Bangladesh, the Maldives and Sri Lanka.

HAQ: KASHMIR CANNOT BE NEGOTIATED BILATERALLY

GF191214 Karachi DAWN in English 14 Apr 82 pp 1, 12

[Text] Islamabad, April 13 -- President General Mohammad Ziaul Haq said that Pakistan was willing to discuss all matters with India bilaterally but not Kashmir which, he said, "is an international issue".

In an interview lasting 1 1/2 hours, by Indian journalist Kuldeep Nayyar, reproduced by a Lahore Urdu daily today, he made it clear that the Simla Agreement did not stop his country from mentioning the issue in any international forum and he could not "surrender" the right of Kashmiris "for peaceful expression of their wishes".

"I am willing to respect the allergy of India to our comparing Kashmir to Palestine, Namibia or South Africa. In fact, I have not done it for two years, but this does not mean that Kashmir should be resolved in accordance with the Indian wishes", said Gen Zia.

He said that if India did not "tutor" Mr B.R. Bhagat to say what he said at Geneva, "we also did not tutor Mr Agha Hilali to say what he did. It was counteraction to action, the Pakistan president said. "It was spontaneous, he got worked up."

Talking about the no-war pact proposal, Gen Zia said that he doubted the sincerity of the Indian Government, not of the Indian people, "because I know that there is a segment of intelligentsia in India which supports my offer".

Gen Zia said it looked as if India's proposal for a joint commission and friendship treaty had "bowled out our no-war pact". He, however, added that Pakistan was willing to consider a friendship treaty "if India tells us that it has rejected our no-war pact".

Asked if he would consider discussing the joint-commission proposal now that the talks on the no-war pact are off the rails, Gen Zia said: "No-war pact comes first, and we will be willing to discuss the joint-commission later."

In reply to a question why he first thought that the Simla Agreement was no-war pact and later changed his mind to offer a no-war pact, General Zia said when he came to know that India feared an attack from Pakistan after the receipt of US arms, he thought he would offer a no-war pact. "I also wanted to see how far India was sincere in its original offer."

General Zia said that the first offer of no-war pact was made by the Quaid-i-Azam on July 23, 1947, when he said that he hoped that the two countries would live in peace and that they would not have to resort to war. Nehru and others followed it up later.

When told that India believed that Pakistan was only gaining time by offering a no-war pact, Gen Zia said that "it is not the intention of Pakistan that mattered but its capability."

He said: "I will resign my commission if any independent military thinker, given the military strength on both sides, says that Pakistan is capable."

When asked to comment on the impression that Pakistan would be backed by all Muslim countries at the time of hostilities, Gen Zia said: "Pakistan will have unrestricted assistance from the Muslim world but war is not fought with money but with equipment. There was no compatibility of Pakistani forces with those of the Muslim countries."

Gen Zia said what mattered between India and Pakistan was sincerity and desire for friendship. By rejecting the no-war pact, India would be making the same mistake which Pakistan did 29 years ago.

Asked why he did not allow cultural contacts to facilitate contracts, Gen Zia said that he would not allow Lata Mangeshwar or any troupe because singing or dancing by girls did not fit into "present Pakistan". It was not "compatible".

As regards trade, Gen Zia said that the ball was in India's court. There was no discrimination against India. But it would be trade corporation of Pakistan India would have to deal with.

Talking about the domestic matters, Gen Zia said that the "elections are still distant, though not too far." The president was reluctant to fix any date.

Asked if the 25 years of martial law had not created the military "vested interest" in the military rule, Gen Zia said that he and his colleagues were wanting to hand over power. "But they wanted to ensure that the same things should not happen again."

[Passage indistinct] its people. In Pakistan, he said, the participation of the military in the affairs was necessary. There have been three martial laws. One has to find out what goes wrong. He said he favoured an amendment in the constitution on the one hand and a body like the National Security Council including the three chiefs of staff to sort out things. He favoured the separation of the duties of the prime minister from that of the president, who should not be a figurehead, but should have the [words indistinct] under him. -- PPI.

HAQ COMMENTS ON CORDOVEZ AFGHAN MISSION

BK191047 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 1000 GMT 19 Apr 82

[Text] President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq has said that Pakistan is pressing for a political settlement of the Afghanistan issue. He was talking to newsmen on his arrival in Lahore today. He said with a view to achieving such a solution there were three parties, namely Pakistan, Iran and Afghanistan. Since Pakistan did not recognize the present regime in Kabul, these three parties could get together. [sentence as heard] But some representatives from Afghanistan must participate in the discussions under UN auspices. He hoped that something positive would emerge out of the Cordovez mission.

Asked about the progress of the Islamic community peace committee's efforts to resolve the Iran-Iraq conflict, the president said he held talks with the chairman of this committee in Karachi as well as talks with the secretary general of the Islamic Conference Organization. Detailed discussions on the efforts of the committee were held and they were now conducting a tour of the two countries again to bring the fighting to an end. He expressed optimism over the outcome of these efforts.

In reply to a question about the reported harsh language used by the Indian prime minister in Jidda about Pakistan, the president replied: Let us take a positive attitude.

When asked to comment on the Indian reports of an alleged violation of their airspace by a Pakistani plane, the president denied Pakistan ever having intentionally violated the airspace of any country.

Gen Ziaul Haq said that the next federal budget will be discussed in the Majlis-i-Shoora [Advisory Council] after its presentation to the nation.

MINISTER ON TRIAL OF 'SABOTEURS,' IDENTITY CARDS

GF191217 Karachi DAWN in English 16 Apr 82 p 1

[Text] Islamabad, April 15 -- The interior minister, Mr Mahmud A. Haroon, today informed the Majlis-i-Shoora that the trials of 430 detained saboteurs would begin in special courts soon all over the country.

Replying to a question by Malik Fateh Khan during the question hour, the minister said the delay occurred in promulgation of the required law and investigations into different cases. He said the ordinance was promulgated on March 20 last and now trials would start soon.

He said all efforts were being made to apprehend and punish saboteurs infiltrating into Pakistan via Afghanistan.

The minister identified one of the persons involved in the attempt to use the holy Koran as booby trap as Seraj, while he said investigations some time could take a year, but most of the cases were investigated within months.

He said some lecturers of the Quaid-i-Azam University were recently arrested for distributing subversive literature. The three accused lecturers were held in judicial custody and their cases are in the final stage of investigation, he added.

He said all the agencies concerned had been directed to maintain a strict watch and detect the circulation of subversive material and other clandestine literature.

The interior minister told Sardar Enayatur Rahman Abbasi that 3,63,95,000 [number as published] persons had so far been issued identity cards but said final results of the 1981 census were not yet available.

Replying to another question he said some cases of persons having more than one identity card or passport had been detected and actions would be taken against such people under the relevant law.

The minister said the federal government had not withdrawn powers to extend the visas of Indian nationals from the provincial governments.

Mr Haroon told Mr Obaidur Rahman that traffic between India and Pakistan was on a restrictive scale and passport holders are required under the rules to pay a fee for subsequent endorsement on the passport.

Mr Haroon told Mr Zain Noorani that the publication of Mitha Commission report on police was not in the public interest. He said this matter concerned the administration and appropriate action was being taken by the provincial governments within their resources to improve the working of the police in the light of the recommendation by the Mitha Commission. He said recently a committee had been appointed by the Cabinet to review the implementation of the commission's report in consultations with the provincial governments.

The interior minister, who also replied to a question relating to Industries Ministry, said the government have taken several measures to promote small industries in backward areas. These include supply of low cost loans, provision of 5 years tax holiday, exemption of import duty on machinery, provision of infrastructural facilities, establishment of training centres and simplification of procedures.

In the provinces small industries, corporations and handling the work of development of small industries, recently an IDA [International Development Association] credit of Rs. 30 crore has been arranged for distribution through commercial banks amongst people desirous of setting up small industries. -APP

FURTHER DEVELOPMENTS CONCERNING COUP PLOT

Reyshahri Provides Details

LD191222 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 19 Apr 82

[Text] Reyshahri, head of the Armed Forces Islamic Revolution Courts, speaking at a press conference this morning, which was also carried by radio and television, commented on the recent abortive plot and described the arrest of Qotbzadeh and the main elements behind the plot. According to the Central News Unit, at the press conference, which was held at 1000 this morning, Reyshahri announced that evidence and documents indicate a coup attempt by Qotbzadeh and a network named "Liberation of the Iranian Revolution" [Nejat-e Enqelab-e Iran] which aimed to overthrow the Islamic Republic and to destroy the Jamaran area, where Imam Khomeyni resides.

The head of the Armed Forces Revolution Courts added that the network enjoyed all facilities, except popular and military forces, to carry out the plot. We have been aware of the activities of Qotbzadeh and his associates for the past 18 months. Reyshahri added that, following the arrest of the monarchist Pars group, which was engaged in bombing, we realised that there were others involved in matching plots, including Pezeshkpur, the leader of Namara, who was in direct contact with Israel. Fortunately, most of the elements affiliated to this network were arrested.

Later another network, called NIMA, was unmasked. This network was in close contact with the CIA, the U.S. espionage organisation. The liaison for this network was Col. Dehqan Azar, who had certain contacts with Qotbzadeh.

Reyshahri then went on to report on the Liberation of the Iranian Revolution network, saying that it was run by a person named (Il Arrone), a member of the French Socialists, who acted as the liaison between the network and the CIA. He also used to provide cash and even weapons for the network by various means. The network's aim was initially to destroy Jamaran and later, by calling on Qotbzadeh, whom they thought was close to the imam, to achieve its final goal.

Reyshahri added that internal groups working for the same plot, comprised of [words indistinct], that is, thugs. One of these individuals, a member of the Pars group, was executed some time ago. Another group consisted of pseudoclergy, and one of them was a prayer leader at one of Tehran's mosques. Additionally, a number of feudalists and minigroups were also involved in this plot. Details of this will be made clear in court.

Commenting on the number of people arrested, Reyshahri said that 26 people have been arrested in connection with the plot hatched by Qotbzadeh and his network. This, in addition to the arrest of NIMA members, totals, one can say, 45 altogether. Referring to the manner of arrest and trial of Qotbazdeh, Reyshahri said that his arrest was very simple. It took place at his residence.

No specific date has yet been set for his trial. However, considering the available evidence and documents, if he is convicted, then the court's verdict for Qotbzadeh will be the death sentence.

In conclusion, Reyshahri added: The very important issue is that America and its associated agents, having tried for 18 months and having spent considerable sums, failed even to lure five army brothers to join them. This demonstrates the army's links with the people as well as that of other military forces.

Our correspondent interviewed the head of the Armed Forces Revolution Courts:

[Begin recording] [Question] Mr Reyshahri, would you please elaborate on the events leading to the arrest of Mr Qotbzadeh and the subversive network connected with him and the evidence leading to their arrest?

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. [passage indistinct] The first issue is whether Mr Qotbzadeh and his collaborators intended to stage a coup and had planned to topple the regime and kill the imam of the nation. The second issue is whether they had the facilities to carry out their plans. The answer to the first question is positive. They really did have a plan and this plan was coordinated with counter-revolutionary elements abroad and inside the country. They had also spent a lot of money on this plan and put effort and work into it. The cash you see on my desk is the money spent by Mr Qotbzadeh in order to carry out the Jamaran plan, which came to our hands through different channels.

I would like to refer to all those who he thought could carry out the executive side of this plan -- when a number of retired (?pro-Israeli) and bankrupt politicians sit round and draw up a plan they then give the plan to people who can carry it out -- none of those who were supposed to carry out the plan, although they were selected from among dissidents or from among those who had suffered, had the courage to commit such a great crime. The money, 750,000 tomans -- and he had a lot of money besides this -- was given by Qotbzadeh a few days before his arrest to pay for the Jamaran plan. In any case, the possibility of this plan being carried out was very small, and even those he counted on to help him were not strong enough to help him except for their leaders, who have been arrested and who will receive their just punishment.

Now we come to the plan they had. What they intended to do was to bomb the Supreme Defense Council and blow up the imam's residence. After killing the imam, they thought they could use vengeance for the imam's death as a pretext to take over sensitive points and to carry out their plan.

The other issue which is worth discussing is wehther Qotbzadeh was the leader of this movement. The reply is negative; he is a stupid person. If he was not stupid he would not have attempted this crime, despite the fact that he has seen [word indistinct] these people and that he was aware that even if the imam of the nation was to be martyred, this nation would not return to its previous state and that America's interests cannot be imposed here. In any case, I would say that he was not the leader. He, like all the others who were arrested, had formed this group with the cooperation of Israel, the CIA, the hated Pahlavi family, [name indistinct] and the socialist association. He formed the group with the help of [name indistinct] and others in America, Europe [passage indistinct] [end recording]

Qotbzadeh Cited on Plot

[Text] Tehran, 20 Apr (IRNA) -- Sadeq Qotbzadeh, former foreign minister, who was arrested two weeks ago on charges of leading a coup plot against the Islamic Republic of Iran, said in a televised interview Monday night that he would willingly welcome any punishment awaiting him.

Qotbzadeh, who was speaking about the plot and the group involved in it called "Saviours of the Iranian Revolution," said that two members of a cadet organisation, after accepting his viewpoints on the plan, proposed the overthrow of the Islamic Republic by bombing Imam Khomeyni's residence with long-range artillery. He continued that in the confusion and under the pretexts of taking revenge for the imam's assassination, they intended to take over the central HQ of the IRGC [Islamic Revolution Guards Corps], the committees and the TV and radio. He said that although he did not oppose the plan at the beginning, he was going to reject it due to his sentiments towards the imam.

The two, Qotbzadeh added, had prepared a list of the arms they needed and that he had sent the list to one of his friends, Victor Villalon (an Argentine businessman now residing in Paris) who had said that if there was enough money he could arrange them.

Asked about his financial aid to the group, Qotbzadeh said that he had given a total of 22,500,000 Rls [riyals] (about 320,000 Dlrs.) to a few people he had met recently.

Asked if he had discussed the plot with some personalities and religious authorities, Qotbzadeh said that the issue had only been discussed, through a liaison, with Ayatollah Shari'atmadari. He denied the involvement of any (foreign) power in this plot. He further added that Ayatollah Shari'atmadari, rather frightened and taking a very conservative attitude towards the case, had stated that he could not do anything prior to the implementation of the plan but afterwards would support it.

AFP Report

NC192035 Paris AFP in English 2013 GMT 19 Apr 82

[Excerpts] Tehran, 19 Apr (AFP) -- Former Iranian Foreign Minister Sadeq Qotbzadeh today confessed to having plotted to kill Iranian spiritual leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni, and implicated a leading Shi'ite clergyman in the plot.

In a 15-minute statement on Iranian television, Mr Qotbzadeh, who faces the death penalty on a charge of plotting to kill the ayatollah, said:

"Two ranking officers proposed blowing up a house near the residence of the imam (Ayatollah Khomeyni) and bombing his residence when he was receiving the principal leaders of the republic."

He said attacks on revolutionary guard centers and on Iran's radio and television were also planned.

Appearing worn and haggard, seated before a portrait of Ayatollah Khomeyni and the Islamic revolutionary seal, Mr Qotbzadeh said:

"Two intermediaries, Hojjats ol-Eslam Hajj Mehdi Madavi and Abdul Reza Hejavi, told me that Ayatollah (Kazem) Shari'atmadari had told them he could contribute nothing toward carrying out the plan but that, if it succeeded, he would make statements in its support."

Ayatollah Shari'atmadari, the spiritual leader of the northwest Iranian city of Tabriz, is a moderate member of Iran's Islamic clergy who has objected to certain aspects of the Moslem extremist regime instituted by Ayatollah Khomeyni.

At a press conference immediately following the broadcast, military Revolutionary Court President Hojjat ol-Eslam Reyshahri said he did not believe Ayatollah Shari'atmadari had been informed of the plot, a point the official investigation was pursuing.

He said he was convinced, however, that Shari'atmadari followers were involved, noting that the ayatollah's brother-in-law [as received], Ahmad Abassi, had been arrested last Wednesday for allegedly supplying 20 million rials (250,000 dollars) to Mr Qotbzadeh.

Mr Qotbzadeh, appearing evidently ill at ease on television and toying incessantly with a pen and a ring on his finger, said he "was seeking to overthrow the government and not to change the regime of the Islamic Republic."

"I had accepted from the start the proposal to kill the Imam Khomeyni," he said, "but then I reconsidered. I wanted him to be saved, but I did not know how to go about it. The final decision was to have been made in the days following my arrest."

He added: "We had planned to surround the area around the imam's residence, to attack revolutionary guard centers and committees as well as the radio and television."

Mr Qotbzadeh said that the plotters were armed for the attack. He had sent a list of weapons they lacked to "Victor Villalon, who was unable to provide them because he had not received funds."

"In my present situation, I voluntarily accept the punishment that awaits me," Mr Qotbzadeh said in the interview, parts of which had been censored.

The military revolutionary courts president said that a public trial would be held for the 45 alleged plotters, three of whom were Iranian Army colonels.

Shari'atmadari Role Viewed

LD201220 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 20 Apr 82

[Statement issued by Qom seminary teachers association "in connection with the recent coup plot by those subservient to America, and the connections of some pseudoclergymen with this plot"]

[Excerpt] In His exalted name. Those theologians who are self-reliant, who guard religion, who oppose worldly whims and follow the orders of the imam and their Lord can be followed and obeyed by the people; but not all theologians and clergymen are like that -- Imam Hasan Asgari, peace be upon him.

Islamic nation, students and aware members of seminaries, Muslim people, and especially the religious and brave people of Azarbayjan: From the very first days of the holy Islamic movement Mr Shari'atmadari issued many orders which those in charge of the movement, and especially the teachers association, did not consider worthy as a Shi'ite source of imitation. The struggling clergy refrained from mentioning them in order to protect unity and uniformity until, thank God, the holy Islamic revolution became victorious and people gave their hearts to the revolution in complete unison.

But this person, contrary to all the interests of Islam and the revolution, and contrary to his own religious view which had been put forward in the magazine (ALHADI) and in the presence of a number of religious teachers, opposed the principle of theocratic rule; you witnessed what you witnessed and he did what he should not have done. Even some of his own friends and entourage killed one of the guards personnel guarding his house, and thus for a few days he had an excuse to crush the revolution and so he continued his opposition, sabotage and subversive efforts, even to the extent of his participation in the Nowzeh coup and the recent plot referred to in the TV interview, which you have watched, given by the treacherous Qotbzadeh.

Who would remain silent knowing about the plot to kill the imam, destroy the people of Jamaran and topple the Islamic Republic? If we attempted to recount his acts of injustice it would fill a book of many pages.

It should be emphasized that only judicial officials should deal with such affairs. Following our religious obligations, we find it necessary to declare quite categorically that he should be removed as a source of imitation so that those Muslims who were in doubt and in two minds may clarify their positions and thus avoid harming Islam and the revolution by their imitation. Although dear students and knowledgable people have already announced that they will refuse scholarships paid by him, we deem it necessary that everyone should refuse.

SPA: Shari'atmadari Arrested

LD192004 Riyadh SPA in English 1927 GMT 19 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 19 Apr (SPA) -- The so-called revolutionary guards in Iran have arrested Iranian leader Ayatollah Shari'atmadari and led him to an unknown destination, according to informed sources.

The guards had occupied the religious institute attached to the Iranian leader in the city of Qom on charges of participating in an alleged plot to topple the Khomeyni regime.

Madani Statement

[Text] Admiral Ahmad Madani, another nationalist leader opponent of the regime, yesterday broke his silence and issued a statement in Paris strongly condemning the attack on the house of Ayatollah Shari'atmadari.

Admiral Madani's statement says that the Iranian ruling regime should be toppled, and he added that killing, [word indistinct] aggression, looting and mass arrests will not create fear among the regime's opposition, but instead will unify their effort and strengthen their will to topple the present regime.

AFP: CHARGE IN ROME DEFECTS OVER 'MASSACRES'

NC191352 Paris AFP in English 1340 GMT 19 Apr 82

[Text] Rome, 19 Apr (AFP) -- The charge d'affaires at the Iranian Embassy in Rome, Mohammad Hoseyn Naqdi, today announced his resignation in protest over "the massacres" in Iran and called on all "democratic forces" to support "the Iranian democratic organisations."

Mr Naqdi, a 31-year-old geophysicist, was appointed charge d'affaires in August last year.

In a statement, he attacked "the absence of individual and collective freedom in Iran, the summary executions, the massacres (more than 10,000 executions), and the imprisonment of 30,000 political oppositionists."

The statement also attacked "the pressures of the Tehran government on its diplomats so that not only do they report the presence outside the country of politically active oppositionists but also denounce all those who do not make propaganda for Islamic integrationism."

"Those are the reasons that led me to dissociate myself from the (spiritual guide Ayatollah) Khomeyni line," the statement said.

For reasons of personal safety, Mr Naqdi refused to say what his immediate plans are, including whether he intends to seek political asylum in Italy.

IRNA: Charge Dismissed

LD192052 Tehran IRNA in English 2000 GMT 19 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 19 Apr (IRNA) -- An official of the Foreign Ministry said in Tehran today that the statements against the Islamic Republic of Iran, made by the ousted charge d'affaires of the Iranian Embassy in Rome, Mohammad Hoseyn Naqdi, were meant as "a gesture of cordiality" to those who are expected to take care of him in the future.

The deputy minister of foreign affairs, Ahmad 'Azizi, said that Naqdi had been dismissed from his post at the embassy and recalled to Tehran in February 1982 due to his incapability and his "dubious stand," but that he had refused to return to Tehran.

The new ambassador of the Iranian Embassy in Rome is Dr Heydari.

ISLAMIC CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ARRIVES IN TEHRAN

GF190937 Tehran International Service in Arabic 0900 GMT 19 Apr 82

[Text] Ahmed Sekou Toure, Guinea president and chairman of the committee formed by the Islamic Conference Organization to study the Iraqi war that has been imposed on Iran, arrived in Tehran this morning. He is accompanied by Habib Chatti, secretary general of the Islamic Conference Organization.

The delegation was received by President 'Ali Khamene'i, Foreign Affairs Minister 'Ali Akbar Velayati and a number of Iranian officials.

It should be noted that this is the sixth visit made by the delegation to Iran since the outbreak of the Iraqi war that has been imposed on Iran.

Sekou Toure Interviewed

LD191924 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 19 Apr 82

[Text] Mr Sekou Toure, president of Guinea and chairman of the delegation dispatched by the Islamic Conference, granted an exclusive interview today to a Central News Unit correspondent.

Asked whether the proposals of the mission during its recent trip have taken into account the conditions declared by the Islamic Republic of Iran for ending the war, bearing in mind that this mission has made several earlier trips, Mr Sekou Toure replied: We traveled to Iran to contact our Muslim brothers to continue our talks, to reach an honorable peace for the revolutionary nation of Iran and to end this destructive war between the two Muslim nations. My own personal wish and heartfelt desire is to see this war and hostility end as soon as possible.

He added: A year ago the Islamic Conference formed an Islamic peace committee whose main mission is to try to end the war between the two Muslim nations as soon as possible. This issue had been the reason for our many trips to Tehran and Baghdad.

Mr Sekou Toure stated: Our proposals today to our Iranian brothers may not be fully in line with the principles of the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran, because you are aware that these proposals should be submitted to the Government of Iraq also; the views of that government should also be taken into consideration in these proposals. We hope that what we are proposing and what we have submitted to the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran today will be in line with the principles of this government and will be acceptable to the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Mr Sekou Toure also said: I took this opportunity to sincerely thank his excellency the president and members of the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran for the warm welcome that we have received during this and previous trips. And, finally, I beseech God to grant health and long life to the exalted leader of the Islamic revolution of Iran, His Great Eminence Imam Khomeyni; health and long life of His Eminence Imam Khomeyni are vital and essential for Iran and for all Muslim countries on their way to development and prosperity. My hope is to see solidarity and fraternity created in the world of Islam. For this purpose I beseech God Almighty to bestow success on all of us and all you gentlemen.

Khamene'i Meeting; Departure

LD191910 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 19 Apr 82

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that Messrs Ahmed Sekou Toure, president of Guinea and chairman of the delegation selected by the Islamic Conference; and Habib Chatti, secretary general of the Islamic Conference, arrived in Tehran this morning in order to investigate the war imposed on Iran by Iraq, and began their discussions with President Mr Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i.

During these discussions, which were held at the president's office with the participation of Foreign Minister Mr Velayati and several civilian and military personalities, Mr Sekou Toure first expressed gratitude for the warm welcome which he and the accompanying delegation had received.

He then talked about the delegation's mission, saying: We should not forget one thing: All of us belong to the same family and we should be in peace and harmony with each other. It is true that we are anxious that the war should end but not at any price; and we are quite aware of this fact.

We do not wish either of the countries engaged in this war to be imposed upon or insulted. The existence of any kind of difference between two Islamic countries can only help the anti-Islamic forces. Our delegation is prepared for any effort to put an end to the present animosities.

Then President Khamene'i stressed the need for maintaining Islamic policies in all the efforts which are being made in the region, saying: It has been on this basis that we have always insisted in our discussions that this war should be ended in such a way that the aggressor is not encouraged by his aggression. Otherwise, smaller Islamic countries will always be subject to aggression.

The president then said: War is not always bad. A war which is being waged in order to prevent tyranny and aggression is very good. You, Mr Sekou Toure, and we have both fought in order to confront injustice, and we have benefitted from wars. When the French, British, Americans and Australians were fighting against you, we could never have expected you to stop hostilities before achieving your rights.

Mr Khamene'i also said: For the umpteenth time we discuss these principles with you as peace mediators. I hope that in answer to us you will not tell us the following things; First, that Iraq also has some expectations, because the prophet of God, may God's peace and blessings be upon Him, said: Whoever raises a sword in aggression will be killed with the same sword. Second, do not tell us that you are no judge, because every kind of mediation is itself a kind of judgment. In mediation the aim is to learn the truth in order to judge. I believe it is a good opportunity for you to take decisive and definitive measures as the peace delegation chosen by the Islamic Conference.

At the end of these discussions, which lasted for 2 and 1/2 hours, Mr Ahmed Sekou Toure, president of Guinea, and the accompanying delegation went to the airport and left Tehran.

Chatti Returns 20 Apr

LD201102 Tehran IRNA in English 1028 GMT 20 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 20 Apr (IRNA) -- Mr. Habib Chatti, the secretary general of the Islamic Conference Organisation and the spokesman of its selected peace mission to study the Iraqi-imposed war on Iran, arrived back in Tehran this morning from Jidda.

Mr. Chatti, who is accompanied by Guinea Foreign Minister Mr. Abdoulaye Toure was welcomed at the airport by Foreign Minister Velayati, and his deputy and his undersecretary in charge of international and economic affairs, Mssrs. 'Azizi and Kazempur-Ardabili, respectively.

Discussions will start this noon with Foreign Minister Velayati. This mission from the Islamic Conference Organisation arrived in Tehran yesterday morning and after holding a four-hour session with President Khamene'i and Foreign Minister Velayati, left Tehran for Baghdad and, after speaking to Saddam, left Iraq for Jidda yesterday.

ISLAMIC CONGRESS MISSION LEAVES TEHRAN FOR DUBAI

[Text] Tehran, 20 Apr (IRNA) -- The four-member mission of the World Islamic Congress left Tehran for Dubai today after a three-day visit.

Mohamed Hanifa Mohamed, the Sri Lankan minister of roads and transportation and Islamic affairs, World Islamic Congress's Secretary-General Dr Davalibi, Mohammad Ares Rashed Jamshid, and Heydar Kamel Hussein, members of the mission, discussed Islamic avenues to peace to end the Iraqi-imposed war on Iran, with Foreign Minister Velayati and his deputy, Ahmad 'Azizi. This is the mission's second trip to Tehran. Its first visit was on April 8th.

UN'S CORDOVEZ MEETS WITH VELAYATI 18 APR

LD191838 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 18 Apr 82

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that the UN envoy who has come to Tehran in order to continue his efforts to find a solution to the crisis in Afghanistan met this afternoon with Mr 'Ali Akbar Velayati, foreign minister of our country, at the Foreign Ministry. During this meeting, which was also attended by deputy minister and officials of the Foreign Ministry, discussion were held on finding a just and honorable solution to this issue.

In these discussions, the Islamic Republic of Iran stressed its four conditions which must be implemented. These conditions are:

1. The unconditional withdrawal of Soviet forces from Afghanistan;
2. The noninterference of any foreign power in the internal affairs of Afghanistan;
3. The repatriation of all Afghan refugees to their homeland;
4. The determination of the fate of Afghanistan by the people of that country.

Before coming to Tehran, Mr Diego Cordovez, the UN envoy, visited Pakistan and Afghanistan in connection with his mission.

Departs for New York

LD201026 Tehran IRNA in English 0914 GMT 20 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 20 Apr (IRNA) -- Diego Cordovez, U.S. secretary-general's special envoy, who had come to Tehran to solve the Afghanistan problem, left Tehran this morning for New York. In the airport he was seen off by the deputy foreign minister, Ahmad 'Azizi, and the Foreign Ministry's under secretary in charge of international and economic affairs, Kazempur-Ardabili.

In his 40-hour stay in Tehran, Mr. Cordovez was informed about the stances of the Islamic Republic of Iran vis-a-vis Afghanistan in two rounds of talks with Foreign Minister Velayati. Prior to coming to Iran, he had travelled to Pakistan and Afghanistan.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 859

LD191734 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 19 Apr 82

[Communique 859 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. At 0830 this morning the brave and heroic pilots of the Iranian Air Force shot down two Iraqi planes in the Abadan sector.

At 1520 on 17 April, the Al-Bakr and Al-Ummayah jetties inside Iraqi territory were attacked by our fast-flying air force fighters. Heavy losses and damages were inflicted on these two jetties.

Along the southern fronts, victorious ground forces combatants defended their positions bravely and, by opening artillery and other heavy-weapon fire, they controlled enemy movements and operations and inflicted some losses and damages on the enemy.

Thanks to the fire of our brave navy combatants on the Khorramshahr front, four observation posts and two assembly points of the Saddamists were destroyed and a number of Iraqi troops were killed.

On the Salehabad, Meymak, Sumar, Gilan-e Gharb and Sar-e Pol-e Zahab fronts, artillery exchanges continued between our powerful forces and the enemy.

On the western fronts, our brave and self-sacrificing combatants silenced the fire of the Saddamist forces and delivered the following blows to the enemy: the destruction of one tank on the Sumar front along with six assembly points and one mortar.

In the Sayyid Sadiq sector, several enemy positions and assembly points were set on fire and destroyed.

During artillery exchanges on the Ilam front, gendarmerie forces succeeded in completely destroying three gun emplacements and one ammunition depot.

On the Kan-e Sakht front, our gendarmerie forces destroyed four trenches and foxholes and killed several enemy personnel. More than 17 enemy troops were killed on these fronts.

Brave combatants of Islam, while maintaining their fire superiority, opened fire on enemy positions in the Toveyleh and Shushmi sectors and destroyed several assembly points and one enemy truck. A number of Iraqi troops were also killed.

In the Hani Garmaleh and Hasanabad sectors, our forces destroyed four trucks; on the Bani Banuk and Sayyid Sadiq axis our forces inflicted considerable losses.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 860

LD201056 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 20 Apr 82

[Communique 860 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Blessed by the support of God and thanks to the awareness of the defenders of the skies of the Islamic homeland, this morning another fatal blow was dealt to Saddam's army.

According to reports from the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran, at 0648 today, 20 April 1982, four enemy planes which violated the airspace of the country's southern regions were discovered by the ever-vigilant personnel of the antiaircraft defense of the air force and, guided and controlled by them, the fast-flying pilots of our air force followed the planes. Three of these planes were hit by fire from our fighter planes and were downed in the Abadan region. The other plane fled the scene.

We congratulate the courageous pilots and indefatigable personnel of the antiaircraft defense of the air force on their awareness and readiness.

GUARDS CORPS DESTROYS 'STRATEGIC' IRAQI BRIDGE

LD191836 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 19 Apr 82

[Text] According to IRNA, the self-sacrificing Islamic Revolution Guards Corps of Dehloran blew up one of the enemy's most strategically sensitive supply bridges during guerrilla operations last night.

The bridge was on a highway in the city of 'Ali al-Gharbi inside Iraqi territory. Our combatants hoisted the flag of the Islamic Republic of Iran on the remains of the bridge. The brave combatants returned safely to their base after completing these operations.

Warriors of Islam stationed in the Meymak area dispatched four patrol groups and bravely penetrated deep inside enemy positions. Our warriors killed 50 Ba'thist mercenaries, destroyed 10 trenches belonging to the aggressive troops and set an enemy ammunition depot on fire.

GUARDS RECLAIM VILLAGES, KILL KOMELEH LEADERS

[Statement issued by the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps -- date not given]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The powerful fighters of Islam continued mopping-up operations in the western regions of the country against the assailants and domestic elements of world arrogance.

In the early hours of yesterday morning, the fighters of Islam, consisting of heroic members of the armed forces, the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, and Muslim tribesmen succeeded in mopping up the important Mashkur and Dozagheh heights in Bukan. They reclaimed six villages in the Bukan area. In these operations, scores of armed assailants were killed or wounded by the forces of Islam.

Also yesterday in a continuation of operations which started on the Baneh-Sar Dasht axis, the heights overlooking Dolarzan were liberated and two villages were cleared of armed assailants and a large number of counterrevolutionaries were killed or wounded, but no accurate figures are available.

During the recent successful operations by our fighters in the west, one of the high-ranking officers of the former regime named Kamari, who had fled after the victory of the Islamic revolution and was in charge of operations of the American minigroup, Komeleh, as well as another leader of this mercenary minigroup named Sotvanzadeh, were killed by our forces.

During the past few days, five more deceived members of the counterrevolutionary minigroups, including the announcer of one of the mercenary, alien radio stations repented their past actions and surrendered themselves to the members of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps in the west.

20 'COUNTERREVOLUTIONARIES' KILLED NEAR MAHABAD

[Summary] On Armed Forces Day, yesterday, the counterrevolutionaries' strategic positions in Mahabad were conquered by the self-sacrificing forces of Islam. Our reporter has sent the following report on this operation:

Yesterday morning fighters from the armed forces, the Guards Corps and the gendarmerie conquered the highest height overlooking the town of Mahabad and mopped it up. The American mercenaries who have been fleeing the town during the past two months had taken refuge in the villages and passes west of the city and created fear and terror among the people.

More than 20 counterrevolutionaries were killed in these successful operations, and many were wounded while fleeing. One of the Muslim Kurdish tribesmen received a leg wound; no other Islamic fighter was injured.

NVOI CRITICIZES GOVERNMENT PURGE, BAZAARIS

TA161955 [Editorial Report] The clandestine National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran at 1730 GMT on 16 April carried two commentaries.

The first, entitled "The Sublime Aims of Purging and the Incorrect Measures in This Connection," stated: What is certain is that the aim of purging could not have been other than to have governmental organizations, particularly educational ones, be purged of the presence of the drags of the former regime and counterrevolutionary elements. There is no doubt that so far certain measures have been carried out in this respect. However, unfortunately the mentality of superficiality and lack of understanding of the sublime aims of the revolution among some of the authorities and responsible officials have led in many instances to the dismissal of individuals who believe in the revolution and who are loyal to the Islamic Republic and the country's constitution. In contrast, many elements opposed to the revolution and Islamic Republic, and even SAVAKISTS and dregs of the former regime, have retained their positions in government organizations by exploiting the superficiality and one-dimensional attitude of officials by pretending to be Muslims. These individuals not only strike at the revolutionary authorities from within by rumormongering, sabotage and diverting public opinion, but at the same time encourage superficial and one-dimensional officials to pursue an incorrect policy leading to the creation of discontent among the people and government employees, especially among educators.

Among those dismissed from administrative and educational organizations one can point out a large number of individuals who sincerely defended and are defending the imam's line and and who have carried the heavy burden of administrative and educational responsibilities with compassion and concern. The dismissal of such individuals who believe in the revolution and who are loyal to the imam's and the revolution's popular and anti-imperialist line is tantamount to striking at the revolution and to playing games with the destiny of individuals and their families. The crime of these sincere, loyal and committed individuals is that they do not pretend to be Muslims. One must not allow certain individuals, on the basis of superficiality, to raise obstacles on the path of those who sincerely want to serve the Islamic Republic, and by creating dissatisfaction from within to deal blows to the Islamic Government.

The second commentary, entitled "Dispossess the Satans of the Bazaar," said: One of the characteristics of our nation's battle aimed at expanding and perpetuating the revolution in a popular and anti-imperialist course is struggle against high costs. The satans of the bazaar are adding fuel to the situation with all their might in order to create discontent. It is an undeniable and bitter fact that during the past year alone the cost of essential goods increased up to 350 percent compared to the last two years. This is nothing more than a plot by the satans of the bazaar who, by exploiting the support of some of the court preachers and pseudoclergy, are acting against the revolution and Islamic Government. It is true that certain measures are being taken by the Islamic Government to check prices, but the people are also observing that as soon as government officials decide to carry out a decisive measure in this connection, immediately some of the pseudoclergy raise a tumult alleging that this measure by the Islamic Government is contrary to the Islamic faith, thus preventing implementation of that measure.

We have all observed through experience that as soon as the government decides to establish control over the price of any commodity, the next day this same commodity disappears, whether in private or public stores, and its price increases several fold. For example, the price of domestic cigarettes has increased fourfold since the establishment of control over it. It is no longer tolerable to our homeland's toiling people that during the last 2 years the price of bread increased by 100 percent, meat by 92 percent, vegetables by 250 percent, cereals by 166 percent, dairy products by 100 percent and fruit by 87 percent, and still there is no sing of the prices being stabilized. Of course, in connection with other essential goods the situation is the same. The people demand that the satans of the bazaar be dealt with revolutionary decisiveness. By exact implementation of the law of the nationalization of foreign trade, and by removing the hands of these capitalists' middlemen and brokers from commercial affairs, a practical step should be taken toward checking prices.

21 APRIL 1982

Israeli-Egyptian Relations

Cabinet Decision -- The Cabinet decided on 21 April that the Sinai withdrawal would be completed on time, Jerusalem radio reported citing a minister who participated in the Cabinet session. Israel has received appropriate responses to its request for clarifications from Egypt and the United States, and all Egyptian violations of the peace treaty have been corrected, according to the minister.

Mubarak Message -- Egyptian President Husni Mubarak has sent a response to Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin's recent message, MENA reported. In his reply letter Mubarak promised that Egypt will abide by the solution to the Palestinian problem stipulated in the Camp David accords, will cooperate in preventing arms smuggling via Sinai to terrorist organizations in the Gaza Strip and will cooperate in general against terrorism, according to Jerusalem radio.

IDF Attack on Lebanon

On 20 April Israeli planes on a routine patrol over the Sidon area were fired upon by antiaircraft guns and hand-held missile launchers, but the planes were not hit, IDF radio reported citing an IDF spokesman. One Israeli soldier was killed and another wounded when their vehicle went over an antitank mine laid during the night on a dirt road near At-Tayyibah, Jerusalem radio reported citing an IDF announcement. Israel regards the firing on Israeli patrol planes and the mining action as "grave violations" of the cease-fire agreement, according to Tel Aviv's HA'ARETZ and Jerusalem radio.

Citing "clear provocations" the government instructed the IDF to launch a "counterattack" on three "terrorist" targets in Lebanon south of Beirut and northeast of Sidon, IDF Radio reported citing an IDF spokesman. The port of Ad-Damur and "terrorist concentrations" in villages and towns in southern Lebanon were also hit, Jerusalem radio reported. The radio also noted that "terrorist" radar installations along the Lebanese coast were hit. Reports that Israeli Navy boats are attacking Ad-Damur in Lebanon were denied by an IDF spokesman the radio said. A state of alert has been declared in the area of the northern settlements, the radio said. Citing Lebanese radio, Jerusalem radio reported that a Syrian fighter was shot down by Israeli Air Force planes. The radio also said that Syrian surface-to-air missiles were fired at Israeli Air Force planes flying over Al-Biqa. The planes were not hit, the radio added.

Israel

Syrian Missile Firing -- On 19 April, a surface-to-air missile was fired from a hand-held launcher from Syrian territory at an Israeli Air Force plane on a routine training flight over the Golan Heights, IDF radio reported citing an IDF spokesman.

Abu-Hatzera, TAMI Plans -- Labor and Social Welfare Minister Aharon Abu-Hatzera has informed Begin of his intention to resign his Cabinet post, Jerusalem radio reported. The decision has to be approved by the TAMI Party's institutions, Abu-Hatzera told the radio's correspondent. The party will continue as a member of the coalition, Jerusalem television reported citing Abu-Hatzera.

Iran

Opposition to Shari'atmadari -- The Qom Teachers Association accused Ayatollah Kazim Shari'atmadari of participating in the recent coup plot that also involved former Prime Minister Sadeq Qotbzadeh, according to a statement broadcast by Tehran radio. The statement linked Shari'atmadari with other subversive activities and declared that he should be removed as a symbol to be imitated by Muslims. The Tehran guild affairs committee endorsed the Qom

Teachers Association statement, and Iran's committee of bazaar tradesmen expressed support for a decision by members of the Qom theological school to strip Shari'atmadari of his title of guide, the highest honor in the Shi'ite hierarchy, according to Tehran radio and AFP reports.

Soviet Apology -- The Soviet Union apologized to the Iranian Government for an incursion into Iran by Soviet and Afghan troops on 6 April, Minister of National Guidance 'Abdolmajid Ma'adikhah stated at a 15 April press conference in London reported by the Pakistani paper DAWN.

Trade Agreements -- Letters of agreement on an annual and 5-year trade exchange, a sales and cooperation protocol on oil and documents regarding banking facilities were signed following talks between a Pakistani economic delegation and Iranian officials, Tehran radio reported. The volume of trade between the two countries this year will increase to about $600 million, Commerce Minister Habibollah 'Asgar-Owladi-Mosalman stated in an interview carried by the radio. He added that oil would represent Iran's main export item.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Military Situation -- Three Iraqi planes were shot down in the Abadan region, bringing the total since 21 March to 35, according to a military communique broadcast by Tehran radio. An Iraqi military spokesman denied Iranian claims that three Iraqi planes were downed, conceding the loss of only one plane, INA reported.

Mediation Efforts -- Islamic Conference Organization (ICO) Secretary General Habib Chatti returned to Tehran for the second time in 20 days to hold talks with Iranian Foreign Minister 'Ali Akbar Velayati as part of the ICO's mediation efforts, IRNA reported. Chatti, Guinea President Sekou Toure and other members of the Islamic Good Offices Committee subsequently arrived in Baghdad to continue the committee's peace mission, INA reported. Commenting on the committee's efforts, the London paper ASH-SHARQ AL-AWSAT stated that there are great possibilities for some kind of agreement being reached within the next few days.

Gulf Affairs

The GCC has decided to use its good offices to unify Arab ranks and resolve Arab differences in order to confront the challenges posed by the "Zionist threat," according to a statement reported by SPA following the conclusion of the GCC foreign ministers meeting in Riyadh. The council also declared its support for all efforts being made to end the Iran-Iraq war.

Saudi Arabia

Saudi Arabia and India noted with great anxiety the situation in Afghanistan and called for a "just and comprehensive" solution to the situation based on the withdrawal of all foreign forces, according to a joint communique broadcast by Riyadh radio at the conclusion of Indian Prime Minister Indira Ghandi's visit to Saudi Arabia.

Afghanistan

Afghan rebels have declared the valley of Nurestan "a free state," Karachi's DAWN reported. Islamic guerrillas announced in Peshawar that a month ago they executed Soviet geologist Mikhail Yevgeniy Okrimyuk after failing to win the release of political prisoners held by the Kabul regime, AFP reported.

AFP: SOVIETS 'BOMBARD' PAGHMAN MOUNTAINS

BK201652 Hong Kong AFP in English 1548 GMT 20 Apr 82

[Text] New Delhi, 20 Apr (AFP) -- Soviet jets bombarded three villages in the strategic Paghman mountain range, about 20 kms northwest of Kabul, last Friday, inflicting heavy damage, Western diplomatic sources said here today.

The sources, who constantly monitor developments in strife-torn Afghanistan, however, could not give details of casualties.

The jets flew low and dropped bombs on Uriakhal, Khaldari and Darrah-ye Pashai villages for an unspecified period.

The villages fall within the Paghman mountain range where the Moslem rebels are trying to set up supply routes to rebel-held areas in the adjoining provinces, earlier reports had said.

The diplomats here reported clashes between the rebels and the Soviet-aided Afghan Government troops at the Karga Lake near Paghman on April 13. At least six government soldiers were reported killed. Insurgent casualties were not immediately known.

The government troops, spearheaded by a Soviet armoured column, however, succeeded in penetrating Paghman on April 16. The penetration followed house-to-house searches for rebels and arms by the ruling People's Democratic Party of Afghanistan (PDPA) volunteers aiding the army.

The diplomats could not say who was controlling Paghman now, which was the scene of a fierce battle in July last year, but asserted that fighting there has resumed.

AFGHAN REBELS DECLARE NURESTAN FREE STATE

GF201258 Karachi DAWN in English 17 Apr 82 p 1

[Text] Peshawar, April 16 -- The Afghan mujahidin have declared the valley of Nurestan a free state, naming it the Islamic Revolutionary Afghanistan Nurestan.

They have set up their own administration in the new valley state, which they have been controlling for the last year.

With the announcement of the new state on April 10, a majlis-i-shoora has been set up. Maulavi Mohammad Afzal, a spiritual personality, has been appointed prime minister of the new state.

Afghan nationals who have taken refuge in countries like Pakistan can enter the new state only when they undertake to adhere by the law of the state. However, all entry posts are being guarded.

The new regime has also included in its fold some Nurestani generals to properly face the dangers of military attacks stemming from nearby areas. -- PPI.

ERSHAD ISSUES ORDER 11 REPLACING BAR COUNCIL

BK161204 Dacca THE BANGLADESH OBSERVER in English 12 Apr 82 p 1

[Text] The Chief Martial Law Administrator Lt. Gen. H. M. Ershad on Sunday [11 April] night issued the Martial Law Order No. 11, according to an official announcement in Dacca, reports BSS. Following is the full text:

In pursuance of the proclamation of the 24th March, 1982, and in exercise of all powers enabling him in that behalf, the chief martial law administrator is pleased to make the following martial law order:

1. Notwithstanding anything contained in the Bangladesh legal practitioners and bar council order, 1972 (P.O. No. 46 of 1972), hereinafter referred to as the said order, or in any other law for the time being in force:

A. On the commencement of this order, the Bangladesh bar council constituted over the said order, hereinafter referred to as the dissolved council, and all committees and tribunals constituted by that council shall stand dissolved;

B. All powers and functions of the dissolved council under the said order or under any other law for the time being in force shall be exercised and performed by a bar council, hereinafter referred to as the new council, consisting of the following members, namely:

I. The attorney general for Bangladesh, ex-officio; who shall also be its chairman;

II. Five members to be nominated by the attorney general from among advocates; and

III. Five members to be nominated by the chief justice of Bangladesh;

C. All funds and property of the dissolved council shall vest in the new council;

D. All proceedings pending before the dissolved tribunals shall stand transferred to the new council which may transfer the same to tribunals constituted by it.

2. The new council shall continue to function till the Bangladesh bar council is reconstituted in accordance with the provisions of the said order, and necessary measures in this respect shall be taken by it when the chief martial law administrator so directs.

PROCEEDINGS AGAINST FORMER DEPUTY PREMIER REPORTED

BK151700 Dacca THE BANGLADESH OBSERVER in English 13 Apr 82 p 1

[Text] Hearing in the first case against former Deputy Prime Minister Mr. Jamaluddin Ahmed under Clause 11 of Martial Law Regulation No. 1 of 1982 for corruption and criminal misconduct, concluded at the Special Martial Law Tribunal in Dacca on Monday, according to BSS. The five-member tribunal headed by Brigadier M. Mashahed Chowdhury heard arguments of both the prosecution and the defence counsels. The accused Mr. Jamaluddin Ahmed made a lengthy statement before the tribunal.

Asked by the chairman of the tribunal if he (Mr. Ahmed) feels guilty in view of the documents exhibited and evidence recorded in the tribunal Mr Jamaluddin Ahmed pleaded not guilty. But he confessed to have received the construction materials from different industrial units of the Bangladesh Steel and Engineering Corporation for which he made no payment.

In his argument, the Chief Special Public Prosecutor and Deputy Attorney General Mr. Moazzem Hossain asserted that the accused, Mr. Jamaluddin Ahmed, had violated the normal procedure for allotment of the materials by not applying in the prescribed form.

This, he said, amounts to misuse of his (Mr. Ahmed's) official position as the then deputy prime minister. He also argued that at the same time, despite receiving deliveries for the items and the bills for them, no payment whatsoever was made. As such the accused committed an offence of corruption, the special public prosecutor asserted.

In his submission before the tribunal, the chief defence counsel, Mr. Abdul Malek, senior advocate, denied the charges and said that his client, Mr Jamaluddin Ahmed, did not commit any offence which was triable for misuse of official position.

During the four-day hearing, 13 prosecution witnesses and one court witness were examined and cross-examined before the tribunal.

Ahmed Sentenced

BK171115 Dacca Domestic Service in English 1705 GMT 16 Apr 82

[Text] The five-member Special Martial Law Tribunal headed by Brigadier M. Mashahed Chowdhury has found Jamaluddin Ahmed, former deputy prime minister, guilty of corruption and criminal misconduct in the first case against him under Clause 11 of Martial Law Regulation No 1 of 1982.

The tribunal today convicted and sentenced Jamaluddin Ahmed to suffer rigorous imprisonment till the rising of the court and fined him taka 350,000 to be paid within 30 days or in default to undergo rigorous imprisonment for 1 year.

Later, the trial of Jamaluddin Ahmed and 11 other co-accused began at the Special Martial Law Tribunal under Martial Law Regulation No 1 of 1982 for corruption, criminal misconduct and abetment of criminal misconduct.

The chairman of the tribunal read out the charges to the accused persons who pleaded not guilty. Of the 11 accused, 8 were produced before the tribunal today. Two were absconding and one was stated by his lawyer to be sick and under treatment.

According to the prosecution, Jamaluddin Ahmed in collusion with the co-accused obtained for himself or for others pecuniary advantages to the tune of over taka 93 lakh and 82,000, abusing his official position. Jamaluddin arbitrarily reduced the then prevailing market price of (?plate) cuttings produced by the Chittagong steel mills from taka 7,351 to taka 5,500 per metric ton and ordered the sale of the huge quantity of (?plate) cuttings at the arbitrarily fixed price to the party selected by Jamaluddin Ahmed himself and thus caused financial loss to the state. The hearing of this case will begin at 1000 tomorrow morning.

Another case against Jamaluddin Ahmed and 11 co-accused also came up before the tribunal today. The case was deferred till the 24th of this month. The accused persons produced before the tribunal were remanded to custody. More than 20 lawyers, including Ataur Rahman Khan, appeared for the defense.

PRIME MINISTER GANDHI RETURNS FROM SAUDI ARABIA

BK210302 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0240 GMT 21 Apr 82

[Text] The prime minister has said there is now a definite recognition in Saudi Arabia of the stability and progress in the Indian subcontinent. Mrs Gandhi was speaking to newsmen at Delhi Airport last night on her return from a 4-day visit to Saudi Arabia. In reply to a question, she said Pakistan's steps toward acquisition of sophisticated armaments including the F-16 and its attempts to manufacture nuclear weapons came up for discussion with the Saudi leaders, but only indirectly.

Replying to another question, she said she did not ask for any mediation of Saudi Arabia in solving problems between India and Pakistan. They are to be settled bilaterally, she added.

Mrs Gandhi described her visit as very useful and said it has opened a new chapter in the mutual relations between India and Saudi Arabia. There are vast possibilities of economic cooperation between the two countries. A group of Saudi businessmen and industrialists, who met her, expressed their desire to diversify trade with India.

A large number of ministers and members of Parliament were present at the airport to receive Mrs Gandhi.

NATIONAL HERALD QUESTIONS HAQ'S KASHMIR REMARKS

BK201213 Delhi NATIONAL HERALD in English 17 Apr 82 p 7

[Editorial: "Zia's Whim"]

[Text] General Ziaul Haq, pretending to proffer the olive branch, with his no-war offer, is managing to find more points of discord with India than any of his predecessors. In a startling interview with an Indian journalist, duly relayed to the whole world by one of his controlled newspapers, he has claimed that Gilgit, Shardu and Hunza are not part of Kashmir at all. He has also made Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's offers of a friendship treaty and a joint commission subordinate to a discussion of the no-war offer. This is, if the world remembers aright, an about-turn from the position his country had taken when the offers were first made. Which is the correct posture of General Ziaul Haq's government and which a caricature of it? What is the guarantee that the general will not change his views again? The world and India are left on tenterhooks, much as his countrymen are left wondering about his particular whim at a particular time.

This would be amusing except for the fact that General Ziaul Haq is ruling, right on the borders of India, a country which is being armed with ultramodern weapons donated by a super power. It is also unfortunate that he has inherited a legacy of pointing donated weapons towards India. This, coupled with the uncertainty about his policy that he has created, must put India doubly on guard. While trying to figure out which is the true face of the general, we cannot take chances. One warning signal is the attempt to gobble up Hunza, Gilgit and Shardu. It is symptomatic of the disease of land hunger. If he is stricken by this disease, how can one be sure that his hungry eyes will stay fixed on these territories and not stray to other areas in the south and east?

SIKHS BEGIN RESISTANCE MOVEMENT IN EAST PUNJAB

[Text] New Delhi, 9 Apr (APP/PPA) -- Responding to an appeal from the Akali Dal [Party], the Sikhs have started a civil disobedience movement in east Punjab.

Women members of the Akali Dal held demonstrations at the ground-breaking ceremony for the Jamuna-Sutlej canal. These women tried to break through the police cordon around Indira Gandhi, and as a result 35 women were arrested, including a woman member of the Indian Parliament. In 8 April, 27 Akali workers were arrested. The Akali Dal has issued a general appeal to resist the digging of the Jamuna-Sutlej canal, and has at the same time announced that a regular war has now begun between the Punjab and New Delhi. At an Akali Dal meeting in Patiala it was announced that a regular war between the Punjab province and New Delhi has now begun. Party President Harchand Singh Languwal has asked the general public not to pay taxes, nor repay government loans, and to resist the digging of the Jamuna-Sutlej canal. The Akali Dal made this announcement a few minutes after a statement by Mrs Gandhi, in which she had said that the Ravi-Bias agreement should be ended. The Sikhs began their demonstration soon after her speech. The prime minister on this occasion tried every means to enlist Punjab support for the canal project. She even went so far as to ask how she could injure Punjab when both her maternal and paternal grandmothers had come from there. Before this occasion, Indira Gandhi used to note that her daughter-in-law, Maneka Gandhi, also comes from the Punjab. However, after her relations with Maneka became strained, she started using her paternal and maternal grandmothers to make her point.

The Akali Dal has accused Indira Gandhi of aiming to bring economic ruin to Punjab by digging the canal. The chairman of the Sikh Shirumani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee, Sardar Charan Singh Thora, has said that the time has come to get what the Indian National Congress has been promising since 1929. And, he said, all this can be had by following the Anandpur resolution.

The opposition leader in the Punjab Assembly, Parkash Singh Badal, has said the time for polemics with the throne in Delhi has now passed. It is now time to satisfy our demands through the use of force.

According to the Jamuna-Sutlej canal project, the waters from these two rivers will pass through Hariana Province to the Maharashtra desert areas.

At the ground-breaking ceremony for the canal, police from both provinces were present to guard the meeting place. There were also federal policemen present. According to UNITED NEWS OF INDIA, despite tight security measures, rioting broke out at the ceremony. The rioting began when a group of women from the opposition party broke through the police cordon and tried to reach Mrs Indira Gandhi. The police arrested several women, including Rajindar Kaur, a member of the Indian Parliament.

Mrs Gandhi, in her speech, has said that the Punjabis should accept the canal project agreement signed by the three provinces involved in it.

The arrests further aggravated the situation, and the police succeeded in dispersing the crowd only after using tear gas. At this juncture, a group of extremist Sikhs held a separate meeting 3 miles from Kapuri, where the ceremony was being held, and announced a movement of civil disobedience. They threatened that now they will have the last fight with New Delhi. The Punjabi group opposes the canal project and believes it will reduce the status of Punjab as the breadbasket of India.

Today, 9 April, when Mrs Gandhi arrived in Kapuri, she was greeted with black flags, and when she pressed the button inaugurating the digging, 166 Akalis, including 41 women, came out of a Sikh temple waving black flags and shouting slogans against the Ravi-Bias canal agreement. [as published] At this point, the police fired teargas shells and made an indiscriminate battery charge. The police also arrested 64 members of the Akali Dal. In this demonstration, the Communist Party of India-Marxist also sided with the Akalis.

MIZO REBELS SURRENDER, SECURITY TIGHTENED

[Text] In Mizoram, 460 members of the outlawed Mizo National Front has surrendered to the authorities so far. All-India Radio Aijal correspondent understands that this accounts for more than half of the reported strength of the Mizo underground. More surrenders are likely to take place in the next few days. A police spokesman said in Aijal that security measures have been tightened throughout the union territory. Patrolling has been intensified in Aijal town.

INDIAN EXPRESS ON GANDHI'S POLITICAL FUTURE

BK190300 Delhi INDIAN EXPRESS in English 7 Apr 82 p 6

[S. Nihal Singh article: "The Nature of the Crisis"]

[Text] Mrs Gandhi is never better than when she is fighting with her back to the wall. Indeed, it can be argued that she needs a crisis to give of her best. Despite her seeming supremacy in the party and the country, her two-thirds majority in the Lok Sabha and her men ruling most of the states, she is facing a crisis today.

Politics seldom follows a logical course, and certainly in India, crises have a habit of dissolving into nothingness, until the next crisis arrives to claim the nation's attention. And yet recent events would suggest that the nature of the present crisis is more menacing than she has faced before because it will not yield to clever tactical ploys or histrionics. Its roots lie deeper and need drastic surgery.

The parameters in which the game of politics is being played in India are now well defined. These are: Mrs Gandhi at the head of the royal family doing everything in her power to ensure the succession of her son Rajiv (the Maneka affair is a diverting, if unsavoury, aside); a ruling party peopled by some stalwarts who are about to bow out (much against their will) and any number of smart alecs with an eye on achieving power and making money; the Bharatiya Janata Party, the nearest thing to a credible alternative, sadly handicapped by its past and the support it gathers from the RSS; the Marxists, now in league with the Communist Party of India, hugging their strongholds in West Bengal and Tripura and hoping to return to power in Kerala; and regional parties, the most successful being the two versions of the DMK in Tamil Nadu, making a virtue of regional and linguistic distinctions to ensure power for themselves.

Mrs Gandhi can legitimately claim that despite sniping by the press and politicians, the people have accepted the concept of the royal family. (Indeed, a foreign observer has suggested that this system of monarchy suits India admirably). And in a revealing aside, Mrs Gandhi scoffed at the different family background of her daughter-in-law, indicating how deeply ingrained her feeling is of the right of the Nehru family (direct descendants only, not relations by marriage) to rule. The failure of the Janata experiment gave strength to India's royalty.

The succession is presenting problems for the moment, in view of Rajiv's seeming inability to play his new role with aplomb. But Mrs Gandhi surely hopes that with further grooming and the benefits of modern salesmanship, he will emerge as a credible successor. In any event, he has the most prized possession: being a Nehru.

Rather, Mrs Gandhi's major problems lie in her party -- what the Congress has become. It does not console her that she herself must share a large part of the responsibility for the shape taken by the party which bears her name. There were the demands of the situation in 1969 and 1978, goading her to force splits in the parent organisation and its successor, the emergency and Sanjay's untimely death. The last made much of the exercise of later years irrelevant while forcing Mrs Gandhi to live with the legacy of the recent past. Maneka's public defiance of her mother-in-law is a needling reminder of this legacy and the problems it has created.

There are then the dissatisfied segments of the Sanjay men left on the shelf of history. They have a nuisance value which Maneka is seeking to exploit. But a bigger problem for Mrs Gandhi is the successful breed of the Sanjay politicians, men picked up by him or patronised by him. They have consolidated their power base so remarkably well, through bribery, cajolings and threats, that even when traditional politicians are picked to rule, they do so at the Mafia's sufferance.

This is being strikingly demonstrated in Maharashtra, but is also true of Karnataka up to a point, and Bihar is not far behind. The secret of success of the Sanjay men is to weave a web of corruption and patronage which enmeshes a whole state, and since the ordinary MLA or congressman is loath to lose his sudden wealth and prestige, he will root for his benefactor until he is convinced that those days are over.

The new phenomenon at once imposes limitations on Mrs Gandhi's freedom of action, for though she can dethrone and install any number of chief ministers, the end result is the same. The new incumbent must either pay the Mafia's price to stay in power or prepare to depart. Corruption and similar charges are treated like specks of dust on a garment, to be flicked away.

Can Mrs Gandhi break out of this straitjacket, assuming that she wants to? In any case, she is always sensitive to constraints on her power. Apart from the fact that the central objective of nurturing these men -- the Sanjay succession -- has become irrelevant (Rajiv needs a new set), the redolent growth of the new breed is strangulating the party in an octopus-like grip. The worldwide phenomenon of corruption has a peculiar Indian twist.

Mrs Gandhi's dilemma is that these men are the only instruments she has to rule the states, the better men having gone over to the opposition or into the wilderness, and the old are, in any event, relics of history. Elections in the states -- at least two Congress-ruled states are to go to the polls soon -- provide one way out, but newcomers must be chosen tactfully because the powerful cannot be spurned for fear of defeat.

Mrs Gandhi is not shy of adopting unconventional or radical solutions if they help her achieve her objectives. But she needs to balance her new plan with the need for ensuring Rajiv's succession. As elections are held in the states, the complexion of the party can be changed, within the limits of political compulsions. But it is a process likely to take some years.

In the meantime and until Mrs Gandhi hits upon a new plan, she has no option but to find patchwork solutions to the recurring crisis in the states, making compromises and doing deals with the state bosses. Only when a specific case of corruption becomes a public issue does it merit her attention and, if unavoidable, retribution. Otherwise, it is accepted as a fact of life.

What radical solutions can she find? Her own preference for the French model of the presidential system is no secret, but changing over to it presents difficulties. Apart from the fact that her party does not have the required two-thirds majority in the Rajya Sabha, will the Congress legislators, in the ultimate analysis, resign themselves to having reduced powers? And how would the centre-states relationship come out in the new dispensation, with the states wanting more, not less, powers? The choice of the presidential candidate should give some indication of the shape of things to come.

Despite opposition fears, a second spell of internal emergency is unlikely because it would prove counter-productive, particularly in the context of anointing Rajiv. It seems more likely that other methods, like disciplining the dissident press, will be adopted through structural and legislative means.

Politics is the art of the possible, and Mrs Gandhi has, in a sense, become a prisoner of her own success in first consolidating power and recapturing it after having lost it. Morality does not often play a big part in politics, but a total divorce of the two, implicit in Mrs Gandhi's methods, leads to the kind of dilemmas she faces today.

That there is no credible alternative to Mrs Gandhi and her party, such as it is, ensures that she has some time to resolve her dilemmas and groom Rajiv. But the longer the present phase of Congress politics is allowed to last, the greater the cynicism it will breed among the people about the political process and the greater the cost to the administration of the country.

It stands to reason that the more politicians are occupied with ensuring their gaddis [preceding word published in italics] and distributing favours, the less time they will have in administering their states. What is more, the web of corruption vitiates the administration. Transferring thousands of junior civil servants in each state at legislators' bidding is only one example of the havoc politics can play with the administration. (It is a telling example of the limits of Mrs Gandhi's powers that she has had to content herself with administering a mild rebuke).

3-TIER RADIO BROADCASTING SYSTEM PLANNED

BK201717 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 20 Apr 82

[Text] All-India Radio plans to introduce a 3-tier broadcasting system -- the national channel, regional stations and local stations. A 1,000-kilowatt medium wave transmitter is being set up in Nagpur for the national channel. The existing regional transmitters will form the middle tier and six local stations to be set up to provide community service for specific areas. This was stated in the annual report of the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting. It says the external service broadcasts are also being strengthened. A special plan has been prepared for extension of All-India Radio services in the northeastern region. The TV coverage was also being extended substantially.

ARREST WARRANTS ISSUED FOR 2 UK JOURNALISTS

[Text] Islamabad, 20 Apr (AFP) -- A Pakistani court today issued a warrant for the arrest of two British journalists for "spreading a false account" of the final words of executed former Prime Minister Ali Bhutto.

(?Mark) Tully, the British Broadcasting Corporation's New Delhi correspondent and Chris Sherwell, FINANCIAL TIMES journalist, risk 3-year prison sentences, if caught, for violating Pakistan's telecommunications code against "spreading false news by telex."

At a court hearing a year ago in the men's absence, the prosecution said the two journalists had reported Mr Bhutto's last words before he was hanged on April 4, 1979 at 0200 as "My God, save me, I am innocent."

The prosecution produced evidence from six official witnesses, among them the executioner, who said Mr Bhutto was silent during the minutes before his death.

Mr Tully worked and lived in Pakistan during early 1981.

Mr Sherwell had had trouble in 1979 when preparing a story on nuclear research in Pakistan. He was beated up by unknown people in a street in Islamabad.

Official Pakistani media accused him of badgering Moslem women, which provoked passers-by to intervene.

SOOMRU HOLDS TALKS WITH YUGOSLAV DELEGATION

GF190506 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 1500 GMT 18 Apr 82

[Text] During the past 4 and 1/2 years, $3.6 billion of capital investment has been approved for the private sector, which is four times greater than in the 5 years previous to the said period. This was disclosed by Elahi Bux Soomru, the minister of industry, in Islamabad during his talks with (Begenjar Dalkovic), member of the Federal Executive Council of Yugoslavia. Soomru said the government is paying great attention to the revival of the private sector because this sector was nearly annihilated by the nationalization policies of the previous government. In this connection, Soomru said Pakistan is providing a great many facilities to domestic and foreign investors.

Regarding Pakistani-Yugoslav economic relations, Soomru said there are bright prospects for cooperation between these two countries in various sectors of the economy. He said several private firms in Pakistan, in cooperation with Yugoslav firms, have shown interest in several joint economic ventures within Pakistan.

(Begenjar Dalkovic), in reply to the minister, said Yugoslavia is ready to provide financial and technical aid to develop the copper mines at (Sanduk) in Baluchistan. He said Yugoslavia, besides providing training to Pakistani experts for this project, is ready to provide $100 million in financial aid as well.

(Begenjar Dalkovic) further said that Pakistan and Yugoslavia have close economic relations and that the visit of President Ziaul Haq to Yugoslavia for the purpose of strengthening friendship between the two countries created a very pleasant impression in his country. He expressed the hope that these relations will be further strengthened in the future. He stressed the need to point out new ventures in which both countries can cooperate.

USSR REPORTEDLY APOLOGIZES FOR BORDER INTRUSION

[Text] London, April 15 -- The Soviet Union has apologised to the Iranian Government for an incursion into Iran by Soviet and Afghan troops earlier this month, Iran's minister of Islamic guidance (information) said today.

The minister, Hojjat ol-Eslam 'Abdolmajid Ma'adikhah, told a press conference at the Iranian Embassy in London that the border incident had been a mistake.

On April 6, Soviet and Afghan troops intruded three miles (five km) into Iran at the point where the borders of Iran, Pakistan and Afghanistan meet. Authoritative sources said at the time that 50 Afghan mujahidin had been killed and an Afghan Government helicopter gunship shot down during the battle.

Hojjat ol-Eslam 'Abdolmajid Ma'adikhah did not explain how and when the Soviet authorities had apologised for the border incursion carried out by Soviet troops pursuing Afghan mujahidin into Iran. The battle was never reported by Iran's official media, but parliamentary sources in Tehran told REUTERS a government delegation had gone to the eastern Iranian Province of Baluchestan to investigate the incident -- REUTER.

MEDIATION TEAM'S VIEWS FOUND INCOMPATIBLE

[Excerpt] Labor and Social Affairs Minister and government spokesman Ahmad Tavakkoli took part in a press conference with domestic correspondents. The press conference was held at noon in the course of which he replied to questions by correspondents.

According to a Central News Unit correspondent, in commenting on the latest visit to Iran of the Islamic Conference delegation and the lack of compatibility of the delegation's views with those of the Islamic Republic, Tavokkoli said: If these brothers had identical views with Iran then they would side with Iran [as heard]. Ours is an Islamic stance. What we expect is that those intending to mediate had better come into closer contact with justice instead of mediating. Considering the victories achieved by our warriors in the war such contact would become even closer [as heard].

Referring to recent agreements signed by Iran and its subsequent policy regarding the friendly and neighboring countries, Tavakkoli said: From the very beginning, the Islamic revolution of Iran adhered to the policy of "Neither East nor West" and it will continue with this policy. All the blood being shed is for the sake of this policy. He added: All our treaties are directed toward upholding the slogan. Tavakkoli then said: We shall try to minimize the shah's plans which made Iran dependent. Of these plans, 86 percent dealt with the West. We shall try to replace the West with smaller and, particularly, Muslim countries.

In reply to a question about the measures taken by the judiciary with regard to [former Foreign Minister] Qotbzadeh, and the position the government is to adopt, the government spokesman said: The government's stand is the same as that of the nation and the judiciary. It is up to the judiciary to decide about offenders. He then continued: Faced with a nation so alert, a nation that is shedding its blood at the war fronts for the promotion of Islam, a nation that has already had 3,000 volunteers register to walk through minefields, a nation that will not allow anyone to harm its revolution, these insignificant agents do nothing more than disgrace themselves.

ISLAMIC CONFERENCE'S CHATTI DEPARTS 20 APRIL

LD201636 Riyadh SPA in Arabic 1520 GMT 26 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 20 Apr (SPA) -- Habib Chatti, secretary general of the Islamic Conference Organization and head of the Islamic Good Offices Committee which has visited Tehran, stated that the committee will continue its discussions with the parties concerned until it secures results.

Before leaving for Abu Dhabi and Iraq today, Chatti said that the committee's mission has reached a stage whereby it is no longer possible for it to make any statements to the press on the contents of its discussions.

He expressed his hope that a peaceful solution would be reached for bringing about peace between Iraq and Iran. He added that more visits will be made since the question of the Iraqi-Iranian war was extremely grave and the Islamic world attaches great importance to it. He said that the committee's task was to bring the views of both sides closer together.

RAFSANJANI INTERVIEWED ON WAR SITUATION

LD210950 Tehran IRNA in English 0910 GMT 21 Apr 82

["Interview With Majlis Speaker" -- IRNA headline]

[Text] Tehran, 20 Apr (IRNA) -- Majlis Speaker Hojjat ol-Eslam Rafsanjani said in Tehran today that the staff of the theological school of Qom were a group of religious scholars of high standing and that their views should be heeded in this respect. (The hojjat ol-Eslam was referring to a statement issued today by the Qom theological school calling for the official revocation Shari'atmadari's status as a religious authority.

Asked elsewhere in the interview about his opinion of the peace mission and its accomplishments so far, the hojjat ol-Eslam said that the visit to Iran by the mission had at least helped Iran make its voice heard in the world in connection with the imposed war. He said from the outset the Islamic Republic of Iran had not presented any unrealistic demands for ending the war, and that there was no room for negotiation. The Majlis speaker, noted, however, that in the course of talks so far the mission had come a little closer to understanding the facts with respect to the war and that it was gradually moving towards a more realistic stand but, he noted that still Saddam Husayn was evading a just peace with Iran since he knew fully well that "his submission to the legitimate demands of the Iranian people would render him incapable of justifying his invasion against the Islamic Republic of Iran...in which case it would mean the overthrow of ruling Ba'thist Party in Iraq."

Rafsanjani stressed, however, that "we do not consider useful the prolongation of the war and believe that it should end as soon as possible." But nothing was worse than the end of the war without the punishment of the aggressor, noted he. Mr. Rafsanjani stated that "it is our policy to reach the end of the war by giving the least casualties possible and through short-cuts so that the aggressor enemy forces would understand that we can inflict a blow upon them whenever we wish to," and he added that "if we are not given our rights we will gain them by force."

Emphasising that the countries of the region should have no fear from the side of the Islamic Republic of Iran, the Majlis speaker stated that Saddam's downfall would be a natural consequence of the Iranian victory in the imposed war.

Commenting on a recent statement by Saddam that he would withdraw his troops from Iranian territory "if Iran guaranteed that it would not advance in Iraqi territory," the Majlis speaker said that it was a pretext that Saddam wanted to resort to in order to save himself.

About Egypt's readiness to supply Iraq with aid in case Iran advanced in Iraqi territory, the hojjat ol-Eslam said that it was a hollow threat, adding that however Iran never intended to infiltrate the Iraqi territory unless it was to gain our rights, because the aggressors were now in Iranian lands and therefore Iranian troops could do so if they wished.

NVOI URGES IRAQ TO ACCEPT IRANIAN PEACE TERMS

[Unattributed commentary: "Fath al-Mubin Operations and the Ruses of Imperialism"]

[Text] Dear compatriots: The wide implication of the military operations of the Islamic Republic Army and the forces defending the revolution and the independence of Iran during the Fath al-Mubin operations is continuing in the world. This is a very natural thing because these operations have not only manifested revolutionary Iran's capabilities, but at the same time demonstrated that the Saddam regime that attacked our country can no longer hope and expect to receive assistance from anyone.

These operations demonstrated that for Iraq the only way of exit from the military adventures forced upon Baghdad by the foes of the Iranian and Iraqi nations is to accept our Islamic Republic's just conditions -- the unconditional withdrawal of its army from our homeland's territory, agreement to pay war reparations to Iran, and its condemnation as the aggressor. This development will aid in terminating the war -- a war that is neither in the interest of the Iranian nation nor the Iraqi nation, and only helps the fulfillment of the goals of U.S. imperialism and Zionism.

U.S. imperialism and Zionism want to sow discord in the front of Islamic and Arab countries. They want to trample on the gains of our nation's revolution and to undermine the anti-imperialist stance of the popular systems in our region. Both the Iranian and Iraqi nations are well aware that from the very outset this war was and remains in the interest of the United States, which has played the inauspicious role of instigator and initiator.

During the first months of the military operations the Americans flattered the Iraqi leaders and expressed joy at our country's temporary defeat. Western and U.S. mass media intended to convey the impression that this defeat was a consequence of the overthrow of the hated regime of the annihilated shah. However, when it became obvious that there was no hope of revolutionary Iran's military defeat they relied on the continuous diminishing of the reserves of both countries.

After the brilliant conclusion of the Fath al-Mubin operations, the enemies of our nation and the Iraqi nation resorted to another ploy. The U.S. propaganda organization spread and is spreading rumors to the effect that allegedly the victorious attacks of the Islamic Republic's Army have aroused concern among the so-called conservative Arab governments of our region. At the moment, too, it has started a provocative game over differences between these countries and our Islamic Republic. It is repeating the very nonsense to the effect that the differences between these countries and the Iranian Government are allegedly insolvable. The Americans are also spreading other rumors overtly and in an instigatory manner. Under the cover of a flood of news reports it has been reported from Washington that it is possible that America will reassess some of the articles in the law pertaining to the prohibition of the sale of U.S. arms to Iran as a country that allegedly encourages international terrorism.

They are also disseminating reports to the effect that Israeli Defense Minister Sharon has asked the Reagan administration, whether Tehran likes it or not, to strengthen the Iranian Army by the covert sale of arms to Iran or through a third country. The aim of all these rumors is nothing more than to encourage, to incite and to continue the war, and to provoke in order to continue the fratricide. Of course, in connection with this war, there is another policy and also another attitude in the international arena.

There are forces that detest provocation and who call upon the warring sides to sign an honorable and just agreement. These forces say that (?in the course of the war) both the Iranian and Iraqi nations have suffered great material damages and casualties, that this war will lead to further penetration by imperialism in the Middle and Near East, and that consequently a great danger will be posed to the peace of all the nations residing in this region. The supporters of peace and security in all nations demand an end to this war of attrition through negotiations -- negotiations that should lead to a lasting peace between the two countries and in the region.

We have talked about the positions of our Islamic Republic in this connection and all are aware of the conditions proposed by our country. Now it is Baghdad's turn, by gaining experience and by learning a lesson from its adventurous acts, to take serious and realistic steps toward terminating this war.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 861

[Communique 861 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The intrepid Muslim pilots of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran, with guidance from the selfless personnel of the air defense command, at 0648 today shot down another three raiding enemy aircraft in the Abadan region. One of the enemy pilots was captured; his name is Capt (Khalil Ibrahim Mahmud). The total number of enemy aircraft downed by the fighters of the Air Force and antiaircraft units of the Armed Forces of the Ilamic Republic of Iran during the month of Farvardin [beginning 21 March] has reached 35.

The combatants of the Ground Forces and Navy of the Islamic Republic of Iran in the Abadan region fired on enemy positions on the opposite bank of the Arvand Rud, destroying six enemy trenches, two observation posts and several enemy weapon emplacements of various types. A number of Saddamists were killed during these operations.

On the other fronts in the southern parts of the country, our brave servicemen are carrying out their missions while defending their positions.

In the western part of the country our forces penetrated enemy positions in the Meymak and Salehabad regions, destroyed 10 enemy supply depots and killed or wounded 50 Saddamist servicemen. In the Sumar region they silenced enemy tank fire, putting an Iraqi tank out of action and killing or wounding five of its crew.

Fire on enemy positions and on a supply route in the Sar-e Pol-e Zahab region resulted in the destruction of an enemy vehicle.

Exchanges of fire continued in the Gilan-e Gharb region during which our artillery destroyed an enemy mortar, seven supply depots and two observation posts and killed a number of Saddam's soldiers.

Thanks to fire opened by Islam's forces on enemy deployments in the Ilam region, three enemy bunkers and observation posts in the Paveh area were destroyed.

On the western fronts, fire opened by the combatants of our gendarmerie destroyed an enemy heavy machinegun and large amounts of ammunition. Several enemy servicemen were taken prisoner.

Yesterday an Iraqi doctor and a soldier sought asylum at one of the border points in the western part of the country by surrendering to authorities of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

GUARDS LAUNCH ATTACK ON CHANGULEH; POWS' REMARKS

LD202042 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 20 Apr 82

[Text] According to an IRNA report, the Public Relations Office of the Central Islamic Revolution Guards Corps has announced that in the course of bold guerrilla operations, the zealous tribesmen and meek mobilization combatants of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps in Ilam launched an attack early this morning on the Iraqi forces in the Changuleh region, killing or wounding dozens of Saddamist aggressors, destroying many of their trenches and capturing seven Iraqi servicemen.

According to the same report, the combatants of Islam captured large quantities of arms and ammunition from the enemy during this operation and then returned safely to base.

IRNA reports that an Iraqi serviceman who was captured during the operations by the combatants of Islam said:

The victories scored by the army of Islam and the repercussions of those victories among Iraq's soldiers, the humanitarian and Islamic behavior of the Iranian forces and in particular their decision not to bomb our residential areas and the pressure and injustices of the regime ruling Iraq have made the majority of the Iraqi people and military personnel realize the Islamic nature and righteousness of the regime of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the lies of the Iraqi regime in connection with the war and the Iranian Government. The moment the first attack is carried out by the Iranian forces, Iraq's military personnel will surrender to the army of Islam. [sentence as heard]

In connection with the effect of the recent victories scored by the combatants of Islam on the fronts, another POW said:

The shortage of soldiers, particularly after the recent operations carried out by the combatants of Islam, which culminated in the killing, wounding or capture of thousands of Iraqi servicemen, is having an effect on the fronts. Iraq is reinforcing its forces on the fronts very slowly.

IRAQIS RETREAT FROM BOSTAN AREA TO KARKHEH KUR

[Text] Tehran, 20 Apr (IRNA) -- Following the victorious Fath operations (on the first week of the new Iranian year beginning March 21) which resulted in the shattering of the Fourth Army of Iraq, the aggressor forces of Saddam were forces by the Islamic combatants of Iran to retreat from around Tang-e Chazzabeh, northwest of the border town of Bostan, and from the south bank of the Neysan River. According to reports, following this ignominous flight of the Iraqi Army the bodies of over 300 Iraqi soldiers killed during the operation were still scattered on the battle scene. The reports also indicated that so far the bodies of 38 Iraqi soldiers have been buried according to religious laws.

An Islamic revolutionary guards commander told IRNA that Saddam and his party's agents cared for their soldiers only so long as they were defending the Iraqi Ba'thist regime and whenever they were killed they would not bother themselves with burying them.

Simultaneously with the flight of Iraqi soldiers from Tang-e Chazzabeh, many light arms and munitions were seized undamaged. Also, the Iraqi aggressors were forced to retreat from the south bank of the Neysan River towards the south of the Karkheh Kur River. The report further stated that exchanges of artillery fire continued on both banks of Karkheh Kur today and several Iraqi soldiers were killed in a battle between a patrol group of the Islamic defenders and an enemy patrol group.

JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI ON REACTION TO COUP ATTEMPT

LD211034 Tehran IRNA in English 0923 GMT 21 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 21 Apr (IRNA) -- The morning daily JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI, the official organ of the Islamic Republic Party, printed a leading article Wednesday entitled "Qom Theologians Announced Shari'atmadari's Incompetence as a Religious Authority." The paper also allocated several columns of its front page full ninth page [as received] to the coverage of the unprecedented support of people from throughout the country, mainly from Tabriz, 'Ajab Shir and Shiraz, for the recent statement of the society of professors of the Qom theological school, and Friday prayers leaders and ulema of Urumiyeh, West Azarbayjan Province.

In its ninth page, JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI also printed pictures of some 20 religious professors as well as religious and political personalities who have confirmed Shari'atmadari's incompetency. People's reaction towards the recent discovery of an abortive coup plot for the overthrow of the Islamic Republic has so far been unique and since the outbreak of the Iraqi-imposed war on Iran no other issue could have attracted people's attention to this extent.

The paper also reported on various statements released and on the marches to be held in the support of the Qom theologians' call for official revocation of Shari'atmadari's status as a religious authority. It said "in order to show their disgust of the vicious plot for the overthrow of the Islamic Republic, people of Urumiyeh will march today." JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI further added that through their marches and demonstrations, people throughout the country would show to the world that they would no longer and by no means become a tool in the hands of the U.S.

In its front page article, the daily has commented on the Tuesday statements by Majlis Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani on the recent discovery of the coup plot.

The plot for the overthrow of the Islamic Republic was in the line of the CIA-inspired counterrevolutionary moves, said the Majlis speaker, adding that the Iranian nation, at any juncture of time would discover and annul such plots.

Sadeq Qotbzadeh, the leading figure involved in the plot, made confessions in a televised interview Monday night, implicated Shari'atmadari, revealing the plan underway by a group called "Saviours of the Iranian Revolution." Earlier, the religious judge of the Army Islamic Revolutionary Courts, Reyshahri, announced that if charges of Qotbzadeh and other leading figures of the group were proved in court proceedings, all would be sentenced to death. However, Majlis Speaker Rafsanjani stressed in Tuesday's press converence that Shari'atmadari at the least was culpable of withholding information on the case and for his indifference towards the issue. Because of this, such a person could not be a religious authority, he added.

Meanwhile the daily JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI, referring to the statement issued by the students of theological schools in West and East Azarbayjan Province, noted that the statement called for the cut in Shari'atmadari's salary and said that it was a "sin" to receive such a money.

ORGANIZATIONS SUPPORT QOM SEMINARY STATEMENT

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that in connection with the revealing statement issued by the teachers of the Qom seminary today, Tehran's guild affairs committee has declared Wednesday, 21 April, to be a public holiday.

The guild's statement says in part that Iran's traders and bazaar merchants, who have been and will remain behind the clergy as a firm fortification, support the revelation made by the Qom seminary's teachers; declare Wednesday as a day of solidarity with the Qom seminary teachers; renew their allegiance to the imam of the nation; stand behind the imam with their belongings and blood as firm as a rock; and will support the Islamic revolution with their last drop of blood and will suppress the conspirators in any shape or form.

Today a large group of Firuzabad's committed and Islamic Republican Party inhabitants and the region's tribesmen staged a glorious and unprecedented march, during which they condemned the criminal act of the treacherous Qotbzadeh and the pseudoclergy.

IRNA has reported from Tabriz that following the statement issued by the Qom seminary teachers, a group of Tabriz Muslim and Islamic Republican Party inhabitants today staged a march, chanting slogans against Mr Shari'atmadari and expressing their support for the Qom seminary teachers' statement.

According to the same report, the committed and Muslim inhabitants of 'Ajab Shir today staged an extensive march, during which they chanted slogans against the outlawed Muslim People's Party and Mr Shari'atmadari, and expressed their unreserved support for the Qom seminary teachers' statement. It is worth mentioning that the 'Ajab Shir region was one of the outlawed Muslim People's Party's most prominent bases.

The inhabitants, preachers and clergy of Salamas assembled in the city's mosques today and declared their support for the decision declaring Mr Shari'atmadari as religiously incompetent and severely condemning the recent conspiracy.

According to the Central News Unit, the Qom bazaar's Islamic associations issued a statement today in which they expressed their revulsion at the conspiracy and their support for the Qom seminary teachers' statement. The associations urged the Supreme Court to make a speedy investigation into the issue and to try all those involved in the coup conspiracy.

According to the Central News Unit, Tabriz clergy issued a statement in which they requested the ever-present Hezbollahi in Azarbayjan to participate in a march on 21 April and to show the colonialists and their internal elements a clenched fist.

The Islamic revolution foundations and Tabriz guild's Islamic associations also threw their support behind the Qom seminary teacher's statement by issuing their own statements in which they asked the Muslim and committed inhabitants of Tabriz to participate in tomorrow's march.

Ayatollah Malakuti, the imam's representative in East and West Azarbayjan and Friday imam of Tabriz, also issued a statement in which he condemned the pseudoclergy and counter-revolutionary elements in the recent conspiracy. He also invited the Muslim and brave inhabitants of Tabriz to take part in the 21 April march, which will be staged in support of the Qom seminary teachers.

SHIRAZ MARCHERS CONDEMN QOTBZADEH, 'COMPANIONS'

[Text] A number of united people, Hebollahi of Shiraz and Firuzabad, and tribesmen of the region participated in a march in Shiraz this afternoon. They condemned the coup attempted by the traitor Qotbzadeh and his companions. They announced in a resolution that they will defend the imam to the last drop of their blood and will fight the hypocrites and agents of the United States.

CLANDESTINE REPORTS BOMBING NEAR JAMARAN

GF191744 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 19 Apr 82

[Text] Our correspondent reports from Tehran that two powerful bombs exploded in the vicinity of Khomeyni's residence in Jamaran last Thursday.

There is no report about the number of casualties. The correspondent of the Free Voice of Iran reports that many of Khomeyni's revolution guards were presumably killed in the explosions. The reason for not reporting the explosions is to stop scaring Khomeyni's entourage.

Our correspondent also reports that houses around Khomeyni's residence were rocked and that window panes were broken as far as 500 meters away.

VOICE OF IRAN REPORTS CLASHES IN KORDESTAN

[Text] Ahmad Bani-Ahmad, the leader of "Ettehad Bara-ye Azadi" [Unity for Freedom], who lives in France, said: Khomeyni's guards arrested Dr Manuchehr Amiri, chief of the "Ettehad Bara-ye Azadi" group in Tabriz, shot him and threw his body on the side of the Tehran-Tabriz highway.

NVOI ASSAILS VIOLATION OF POLITICAL FREEDOMS

TA201458 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 17 Apr 82

[Unattributed commentary: "Let Us Not Present an Ugly Face of the Islamic Revolution Through Improper Acts"]

[Excerpts] Dear compatriots: One can hardly find a person among the leaders of the revolution and the authorities in our homeland that has not yet talked of the necessity of observing the law and respecting the political and social freedoms of the people, parties and organizations committed to the revolution, or has not stressed this vital point. The imam of the nation and leader of the revolution, founder of our Islamic Republic, has repeatedly said that in Islam dictatorship is the greatest sin.

One can cite numerous examples of statements by the leaders of the revolution and the government figures of our country in this connection. However, unfortunately, so far not only do the offices of committed parties and organizations that defend the imam's popular and anti-imperialist line, and that support all of the Islamic government's measures in implementing fundamental reforms, remain occupied by unauthorized individuals, but their newspapers and publications are also being banned one after the other.

Which hands, by resorting to particular ploys, are violating the freedoms stipulated in the country's Constitution, contrary to all the promises and statements of the highest officials of our country? If telling the truth, constructive criticism and exposing the mistakes of this minister or that official who talks and acts without responsibility is a crime, then tell the people frankly. Otherwise, what name can be placed on such an incorrect and unprincipled attitude by some of the authorities toward parties and organizations that support the revolution and the Islamic Republic of Iran and the imam's popular and anti-imperialist line?

We deem it appropriate to once more bring to the attention of officials and authorities the following passage from an editorial in JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI: But a worse sin is that by our improper acts which are devoid of Islamic tradition and mores we present to the people an ugly face of Islam and of our Islamic revolution. Should we do this, without doubt we will be unable to continue the path of the revolution; and, if we show incompetence, those who will come after us to introduce Islam and the genuine Islamic ideals to the people of the world will not be given an opportunity.

PAKISTANI DELEGATION CONCLUDES TALKS IN TEHRAN

Meeting With Musavi

LD181820 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 18 Apr 82

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, Mr Ghulam Ishaq Khan, Pakistan's minister of finance who is visiting Iran at the head of a delegation, met and conferred this afternoon with Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi. Pakistan's ambassador in the Islamic Republic of Iran assisted the Pakistani minister in this meeting and the prime minister was aided by Foreign Minister 'Ali Akbar Velayati and Iran's ambassador in Islamabad.

Addressing the meeting, Prime Minister Musavi stressed the importance of such exchanges of visits as a means of promoting unity among the Muslim nations. The prime minister said: There are many common (?aims) which link the people of Iran and Pakistan to the extent that our nation never assumes itself to be a separate nation from that of Pakistan. In our foreign and economic policies we pursue a policy of expanding our relations with the Muslim nations as the first priority and expansion of ties with the Third World countries as our second priority.

The prime minister added: During a visit recently made to Iran by a Turkish delegation, we discussed the necessity of creating an Islamic common market. Although we cannot achieve this immediately, nevertheless, steps prior to such creation can prepare the ground for the realization of such a common market.

Oil Cooperation Talks

LD181230 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 18 Apr 82

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that Finance Minister Ghulam Ishaq Khan, who is leading an economic delegation from Pakistan, with several members of his delegation has met and conferred with Petroleum Minister Gharazi and members of the Iran-Pakistan oil cooperation committee.

At this meeting, the fraternal and Islamic relations between the two countries were stressed and the point about implementing the oil agreements between the two countries was reviewed.

Iranian Oil Minister Gharazi said at this meeting that an agreement regarding the delivery of 10,000 barrels of oil per day to Pakistan has been prepared. This can be increased to 20,000 barrels per day on Pakistan's request. We hope that trade between the two countries will soon pass the $500-million mark. He added that the exchange between the two countries is not just a question of trade, but of the general relations between two nations. About Iran's oil-prospecting help in Pakistan, Mr Gharazi said that we will use all our facilities, talents and capital in this respect.

Oil Cooperation Agreement

LD181828 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 18 Apr 82

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, following talks between Iranian and Pakistani economic delegations, Pakistan's Mr Ghulam Ishaq Khan, accompanied by Pakistani Petroleum Ministry under secretaries, met at noon today with Petroleum Minister Gharazi at the Petroleum Ministry club.

At the conclusion of this meeting, the two sides signed an economic protocol on the basis of which Pakistan will purchase 10,000 barrels of crude oil per day from Iran. The two sides also agreed to continue their cooperation in field drilling, exploration and exploitation. The Islamic Republic of Iran's Petroleum Ministry will send its drilling experts to Pakistan to help that country.

Economic Cooperation Protocol

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that following discussions between a Pakistani economic delegation and officials of the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran, a protocol was signed today on economic, commercial, roads and transportation, banking and oil affairs and also long-term commercial agreement and cooperation accords concerning the oil industry.

Commerce Minister Mr Habibollah 'Asgar-Owladi and Mr Ghulam Ishaq Khan, Pakistani minister of finance, commerce, planning and provincial cooperation, signed the protocol of agreement and the treaty. After signing this agreement, the Pakistani minister expressed his gratitude for the mutual understanding which has resulted in the signing of such an agreement and treaty, and said he regarded it as a sign of the sincerity and the depth of understanding between Iran and Pakistan.

In a short speech Commerce Minister Mr 'Asgar-Owladi also expressed his hope that close relations and commercial and economic cooperation between the fraternal nations of Iran and Pakistan will be further expanded.

The Pakistani economic and commercial delegation also visited today Sa'babad Palace, in which some examples of the satanic era are kept. This delegation then left for Behesht-e Zahra and paid its respect to the martyrs of the Islamic revolution by placing flowers on their graves.

Departure of Delegation

LD201203 Tehran IRNA in English 1045 GMT 20 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 20 Apr (IRNA) -- The Pakistani finance minister, Ghulam Ishaq Khan, who had come to Iran heading an economic mission, left Tehran for Pakistan this morning. On his departure, he talked about the agreements reached with the Iranian officials in various economic fields.

Following the conclusion of friendly agreements during Velayati's trip to Islamabad, the Pakistani delegation came to Iran. According to the agreement, Pakistan will receive oil as well as various long-term oil services, including exploration services, in return for imports of wheat and rice from Pakistan. The Pakistani deputy oil minister, Nasiruddin Mohammad, told reporters that an Iranian oil mission is due to visit Pakistan within the next 2 weeks.

Commerce Minister Interviewed

[Excerpts] The Pakistani finance minister and the delegation accompanying him left Tehran today at the conclusion of economic talks between Iran and Pakistan. Our correspondent reports on the economic agreements reached by the two countries:

At the end of the talks between the Pakistani delegation and the officials of the Islamic Republic of Iran, a letter of agreement concerning annual trade exchange between the two countries, a letter of agreement on a 5-year trade exchange which can be extended to 10 years, a protocol on oil sales and oil cooperation and also documents regarding banking facilities between the two countries were signed. Documents on trade relations between Iran and Pakistan were signed by Mr 'Asgar-Owladi, our country's commerce minister, and Mr Ghulam Ishaq Khan, the Pakistani minister of finance, commerce, planning and provincial cooperation. With the completion of economic talks between Iran and Pakistan that country's economic delegation left Tehran today.

[Begin recording] [Question] Mr 'Asgar-Owladi, would you please tell us what the volume of our trade exchange with Pakistan is at present and by how much it will be increased as a result of these agreements?

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The agreements reached between us will increase the trade exchange between the two countries to $400 million; this is unprecedented in ordinary trade relations between two countries. In the near future we will send a delegation to Pakistan and this delegation will study a number of other avenues and have discussions with our Pakistani friends and thus the level of trade exchange between the two countries will increase to about $600 million this year. We talked about long-term agreements with our brother country of Pakistan and our other brothers [as heard].

[Question] Does this $600 million include oil sales as well?

[Answer] Of course, since we have special calculations for our trade exchange it includes oil sales as well [as heard].

[Question] What goods other than oil can Iran export to Pakistan and what steps have you taken in this regard?

[Answer] The goods we can export to Pakistan are quite varied but since our brothers have some problems regarding foreign exchange, we decided that our oil exports should be increased as much as possible for now. Later, they will give us a list of goods they need and then we will be able to export those goods.

[Question] In that case oil is the main export item?

[Answer] Yes, that is right.

[Question] Have you discussed border exchanges through Sistan va Baluchestan?

[Answer] I should say that overland trade exchange has doubled and we are studying the possibility of increasing it even more than this in the interests of both countries and of the border inhabitants on both sides. Up to now we have agreed to double our border trade exchange. [end recording]

Lebanon

Israeli Air Raid -- About 60 Israeli F-15 and F-16 aircraft bombed Ad-'Damur, An-Na'imah, Harit an-Na'imah, Ad-Dawhah and Mazbud during the afternoon of 21 April, the clandestine Voice of Palestine radio reported. According to Voice of Lebanon radio, at least 25 people were killed in the raid, which also extended to Sabra and Al-Fakhani. A Syrian military spokesman said in a statement reported by SANA that two Syrian planes were hit when they engaged the raiders. Although the Syrian spokesman claimed that an Israeli plane was also hit, the IDF spokesman said all Israeli aircraft returned safely to base, according to Jerusalem radio. The IDF spokesman noted that two Syrian MiG-23's were downed.

Israeli Chief of Staff Lt Gen Refa'el Eytan said the raid was a response to terrorist violations of the cease-fire which had "gone beyond the limit". Speaking in an interview reported by Jerusalem radio, Eytan said the Israeli planes had struck at three terrorist bases, including a naval base belonging to Ahmad Jirril's Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine - General Command. According to IDF radio, Eytan told a news conference that there were no civilian buildings near the targets, which were south of Beirut and north of Sidon. The Israeli aircraft also hit a Syrian radar installation at 'Aramun, according to Voice of Lebanon radio. Noting that some of the Israeli-Syrian air battles occurred over the Al-Biqa' Valley, where Syrian surface-to-air missiles were fired at Israeli planes, the radio cited unconfirmed reports that Israeli planes had attacked the missile sites.

Status of Cease-Fire -- The IDF attack on terrorist bases does not necessarily mean the end of the cease-fire, Lt Gen Eytan said in an interview with Jerusalem radio. If the terrorists do not fire and stop their activity against Jewish targets in "Eretz Yisrael" and abroad, the cease-fire will be maintained, he added. Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhaq Shamir likewise said quiet will prevail if the terrorists stop their attacks, Jerusalem radio reported. In remarks broadcast by the radio, IDF Intelligence Chief Yehoshu'a Sagi said the raid was a warning to the terrorists to return to the cease-fire. Israel does not want to start cleaning up southern Lebanon, he said.

However, a Palestinian military official said the Israeli attack ends the cease-fire and joint forces in the south are awaiting instructions from Beirut in order to respond to the raid, according to AFP. A Palestinian military spokesman said in a statement broadcast by the Voice of Palestine that the Palestinian revolution knows how and when to reply to the attack. The radio also commented that there is no reason to believe Israel's claim that the raid was a limited reprisal. The matter is bigger than that, it said, and the Palestinians are ready for all possibilities. PLO Political Department Chief Faruq Qaddumi said after meeting the UN Secretary General Perez de Cuellar that the attack unfortunately means escalation of the conflict and leaves the PLO no alternative but to retaliate, KUNA reported. Earlier, the Voice of Palestine noted that PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat sent De Cuellar a note calling on the UN secretary general to take immediate measures to stop Israel's new aggression. In a statement broadcast by the radio, Amal movement Chairman Nabih Birri called on Amal members to set aside differences and unite with the Palestinians, Syrians and Lebanese nationalists against Israel.

Israeli-Egyptian-U.S. Relations

Israeli Reportage -- U.S. President Ronald Reagan's 20 April letter to Prime Minister Menahem Begin is of "great significance" to the security of Israel, according to an Israeli Cabinet statement read by the Cabinet secretary over Jerusalem radio. After announcing that Israel will evacuate its forces and civilians from that Sinai by 25 April, the Israeli Government expressed its hope that the peace treaty with Egypt will be carried out "faithfully and punctiliously" and that it will open a new era of establishing peace throughout the whole Middle East. The government also called upon Israeli citizens in Yamit to leave voluntarily and avoid confrontations with the IDF.

On 21 April the IDF evacuated 700 opponents of the Sinai withdrawal from Yamit, Jerusalem radio reported.

In his letter to Begin, Reagan promised that if Egypt violates the peace treaty the United States will supply Israel with the means to help it defend itself, according to Jerusalem radio. A senior source at the prime minister's office, cited by Jerusalem television, stated that Israel has "gained a letter of guarantee" from the United States for at least 5 years, the period of autonomy.

Jerusalem radio claimed that in talks between U.S. Deputy Secretary of State Walter Stoessel and Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon a secret annex was agreed upon regarding U.S. commitments to Israel, but the radio later cited U.S. sources in Israel who denied that any secret agreements were reached.

The Cabinet has authorized the foreign and defense ministers to conduct negotiations with Egypt and reach an agreement on the border demarcation issue, Jerusalem television reported. Pending conclusion of the negotiations, IDF forces will withdraw to the international border recognized by Israel, the television added.

Egyptian Reportage -- The Egyptian Cabinet agreed that Egypt "always affirms"--its and Israel's commitment to the provisions of the Camp David accords, to peace and to generating momentum in the autonomy talks in order to attain a comprehensive and lasting peace in the region, Minister of State for Information Safwat ash-Sharif announced in a statement broadcast by Cairo radio. The Cabinet and all of Egypt consider the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty and the return of the Sinai to Egypt as a historic step in Egyptian-Israeli relations and in attaining a stable Middle East, the statement said.

Because Israel has not violated its commitments, there is no justification for the proposition that Egypt would freeze the Camp David accords, Foreign Ministry Under Secretary Usamah al-Baz stated in remarks reported by MENA. Asserting that the disputed Tabah area covers 1,020 square meters of desert without any sign of life, Al-Baz said the issue will be resolved in the next few days through conciliation or arbitration with the help of the United States.

Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali announced that talks with Stoessel on 22 April will deal with the Tabah border dispute, Cairo radio reported.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

The recent peace plan submitted by a delegation of the Islamic Conference Organization (ICO) is far from the conditions Iran has in mind, Iranian Foreign Minister 'Ali Akbar Velayati stated at a press conference reported by Tehran radio. Velayati said the delegation's proposal, however, does contain some positive elements compared with previous proposals.

Iran rejected the peace initiative proposed by the Islamic Good Offices Committee during its recent visit to Iran, INA reported. The results of the committee's visit were explained by ICO Secretary General Habib Chatti and Guinea President Ahmed Sekou Toure during their talks in Baghdad with Iraqi leaders, according to INA.

The Islamic Good Offices Committee will continue its work, confident in its ability to achieve an "honorable" solution for both sides, Habib Chatti commented in a statement to SPA. He added that the road to peace is "still long and fraught with obstacles."

Afghanistan

Talks With Pakistan -- Indirect talks between Pakistan and Afghanistan on ending the Afghan crisis and on the withdrawal of Soviet troops from Afghanistan will begin on 15 June, according to an announcement by a UN spokesman reported by Karachi radio.

Fighting in Paktia -- A Soviet-built helicopter gunship was shot down and 44 Afghan or Soviet soldiers were killed by Afghan rebels in Paktia Province, AFP reported citing Afghan resistance sources.

EXPRESS DEPLORES INDIANS' DETENTION IN PAKISTAN

BK220209 Delhi INDIAN EXPRESS in English 8 Apr 82 p 6

[Editorial: "Pakistan Must Answer"]

[Text] The revelation, by a Pakistani paper itself, that 10 Indian nationals, including a woman, have been rotting in a Pakistani jail for 8 years is distressing. Holding their own people indefinitely and not bothering to send them up for trial is a fairly common practice for Pakistan's military dispensation. But one should have thought that at least foreign nationals would be treated a little differently if only for form's sake, all the more so if they were from a neighboring country with which Pakistan was supposed to be seeking friendly relations. The most shocking part of the story, as told by the Karachi daily HURRIYAT, is that these Indian detainees have been subjected to prolonged torture as a result of which six of them have not only lost their eyesight but their sanity as well.

According to that report, the ten Indians had submitted that they had legally entered Pakistan to meet their relatives. Had the Pakistani authorities any evidence of criminal or espionage activities on their part, they should have tried them in a court of law, or whatever pases for a court under martial law. Or, if the Pakistan administration had some reason to suspect them whatever that be, it could have expelled them. That would have been an infinitely more civilized act.

Another Karachi daily, AMAN, reports that Mr A.T. Ansari, leader of a Pakistani human rights association, has offered the Indian detainees free legal aid and demanded action against those responsible for their plight. All honor to him and his association for this brave gesture.

An Indian Embassy spokesman in Islamabad is reported to have said that all such cases of Indian civilian detainees have been brought to the notice of the Pakistan Government. Is that enough? Mr Narasimha Rao told Parliament last month that more than 300 Indian nationals were believed to be in Pakistani prisons. What about the missing Indian POWs? The wives and other relatives of those unfortunate soldiers have been crying about them. They hotly contest the Pakistani denials of their existence, now or earlier, in their hands. With the case of the ten tortured Indians now revealed, the onus of proving the truth of the Pakistani claims lies on Islamabad. It is strange indeed that Pakistan has behaved this way after India treated so well the thousands of Pakistani troops captured in the 1971 war. Delhi must impress upon the Pakistan Government what the Indian public thinks of it all.

HERALD: CONSENSUS ON NEED TO STRENGTHEN DEFENSE

BK211145 Delhi NATIONAL HERALD in English 16 Apr 82 p 7

[A.N. Das article: "The Defense Consensus"]

[Text] If the debate in Parliament on the demands for grant of the Defence Ministry is an indication, there exists a national consensus on the present security environment and on the urgent need to strengthen the country's defense. Whatever political differences may divide the government and the opposition parties, there is no divergence of opinion so far as defence is concerned in the context of developments in India's neighborhood, more particularly the massive arming of Pakistan as a "front line state" as part of the so-called "strategic consensus."

The Lok Sabha voted with unanimity the entire demands moved by Defence Minister R. Venkataraman thereby approving the steps proposed to meet the threat to the country's security.

Despite a sizeable increase in the defense budget for 1982-83, there was not the slightest suggestion from any quarter for even a small reduction of the amount. The defence minister rightly concluded, and proclaimed to the world, that so far as defence is concerned there is no difference of opinion in the country and that "we all stand together."

The debate showed no difference of opinion on the government's assessment that the expansion of bases by big powers in the Indian Ocean and its littoral areas and the creation of a Rapid Deployment Force threatened the stability of the area. Moreover, the transfer of sophisticated weapons far beyond Pakistan's legitimate needs would result in a significant qualitative and quantitative enhancement of that country's military capability.

It has been India's experience that any augmentation of Pakistan's military strength has resulted in its use against India. Moreover, Pakistan's continued efforts to achieve nuclear weapons capability further add to the sense of disquiet. Our defence planning cannot afford to ignore these developments, the Defence Ministry's latest annual report has stressed.

It would be very unrealistic for India, despite President Zia's offer of a no-war pact, not to take measures to maintain the military balance in the region.

The recent imposition of military rule by General Ershad in Bangladesh and a possible understanding developing between the two military regimes on the western and eastern borders of India adds a new dimension to the security environment. Just before the Bangladesh coup a high-power Chinese delegation led by the defence minister had visited Bangladesh. According to some reports, a military team from Dacca would proceed to Beijing soon to procure arms.

Mr Venkataraman briefly outlined in Parliament the short-term and long-term measures initiated to evolve an appropriate defence strategy and to build up defence preparedness while pursuing a policy of peace and friendship towards Pakistan and other neighbouring countries. The government is taking no risks.

However, the defence minister stated that our defence needs are limited to safeguarding our national sovereignty and territorial integrity because we do not want to play the role of a major power of a super-power. This appears to be adequate for our immediate purpose, but why should we limit our military potential to safeguarding only our national defence, and not aim at something higher? If we have to enjoy permanent peace against periodic threats posed by the militarisation of Pakistan, if we have to ensure for all time that the military balance of the region is not upset by dumping of sophisticated arms by any outside power, if we have to play our role effectively as a factor in the preservation of world peace, we must acquire the strength and status of a major power without being militarist in any way. India should aim at attaining a position where she will no longer be forced to follow Pakistan in an arms race.

The defence minister has been candid enough to say that though Pakistan after 1971 had reduced military responsibilities, yet it went on increasing its military strength. It is only when Pakistan entered into agreements to acquire more sophisticated weapons that we moved to match them. Moreover, Pakistan has been acquiring weapons which cannot be used against Afghanistan -- for instance ships and submarines. Lastly, the equipment received by Pakistan is being massed across our border. Therefore, the threat to our security has increased.

Despite this, the prime minister has gone one step further than a no-war pact and said we should have a treaty of friendship with Pakistan. But the fact that there is so much of explosives on one side makes it necessary for our country to keep at least the fire-fighting equipment ready. We prepare for any eventuality.

Mr Venkataraman told Parliament we are increasing our fire power and mobility and also improving our tank capacity. Efforts are also on to improve night fighting capacity. For the navy, there are plans for achieving balanced growth in all three dimensions -- on the surface, underwater and in the air. We are importing two modern submarines and two more will be assembled in India. The modernisation of the air force has also received due attention. We are producing advanced version of the MiG series and the acquisition-cum-manufacture of other versions is under consideration. The transport fleet is being reinforced by the AN-32 and the missile system is being improved. The Mirage-2000 has been evaluated and been recommended for purchase. Referring to Soviet Defence Minister Ustinov, Mr Venkataraman indicated that there were talks on the acquisition of the latest versions in the MiG family.

The first indigenously assembled deep penetration Jaguar had its inaugural flight at Bangalore on March 31. Besides 40 Jaguars from British Aerospace, 45 of this aircraft will be assembled at Hindustan Aeronautics, Bangalore, the last of them rolling out by 1985. Quite a few modifications would be incorporated in the assembly and manufacture of Jaguars to suit India's requirements and conditions.

Thus, with the acquisition and manufacture of the MiG family of aircraft, the Jaguars and hopefully the Mirage-2000, the Indian Air Force will become a formidable force to meet any challenge from Pakistan.

The development of a balanced navy however does not seem to have been accorded as great a priority as it deserves. The long coastline and India's stake in the Indian Ocean make it imperative that she possess a much bigger and more powerful navy. At present the allocation for the navy is only 13 percent of the total defence budget.

Replying to the debate, Mr Venkataraman said that the nuclear option was a national issue. While much may be said on both sides, he expressed the view that, on balance, the policy of utilising nuclear energy for peaceful purposes and our advocacy of nuclear disarmament were not only moral -- but also just. Some, however, wondered whether it was also realistic enough. Moreover, if Pakistan explodes a nuclear bomb, we may have to review our nuclear policy.

HERALD ASSESSES INDIAN COMMUNIST POLITICS

BK161000 Delhi NATIONAL HERALD in English 8 Apr 82 p 6

[Hari Jaisingh Article: "Echoes of Varanasi"]

[Text] Whither the CPI? The question has relevance to the future of left movement in the country.

If the Communist Party of India [CPI] thinks that people are watching it because of its strength, it is deluding itself. Politically it is not a big force. The public interest is only because the political line it adopts from time to time may have both domestic and international implications. It could also play the role of a catalytic agent, depending on the political situations and its own inclinations and compulsions.

At Bhatinda the CPI debated the pros and cons of the pro-Congress (I) line of Mr S. A. Dange in his presence; at Varanasi, the party discussed and debated the same problem, but in his absence. For the CPI leadership and its cadres, this is not an academic question. It is a problem of survival -- a complex one at that, in which its loyalty to the international communist movement and its fidelity to Moscow are involved.

The result of the 12th party congress at Varanasi, as was to be expected, was a compromise -- compromise in which the CPI tried to hide the predicaments and realities of its life by the decibel of its high-pitched resolutions.

Ever since the rise of the CPI(M) and its dominance in Kerala, West Bengal and Tripura, the CPI has been split into left and right factions, the left wanting unity with the CPI(M) and the right, understanding with the Congress(I) -- that is, with Mrs Indira Gandhi. Obviously, the CPI left-wing is in search of power; the right-wing stands by principles. For convenience I would call the two wings of the party as CPI (right) and CPI (left) respectively.

The CPI (right) acknowledges that the Congress(I) has the largest democratic force behind it, as also the vast rural masses, the minorities and the oppressed communities, all of which, according to its long-term perceptions, are essential for a democratic revolution, which is its final goal. Similarly, it does not and cannot ignore the Soviet perceptions of India's global role, particularly Mrs. Indira Gandhi's role.

The CPI (left) seems to have no such long-term considerations. It sees the CPI(M) as having the largest leftist force at its command (workers, peasants and others) and is well endowed with funds. Though it is convinced that the Marxists are far from being in a position to capture power at the centre, it feels that it may be able to forge ahead and even come to power in a few other states also through the left front approach. Hence its desire to come to an understanding with the CPI(M).

Neither the CPI(M) nor the CPI (left) is much concerned with foreign policy issues. All the thrusts and parryings in open jousts on ideological and foreign policy issues are for the record. They are only putting on an act. Like the BJP, they think that the Congress would disintegrate after Mrs Gandhi's time and hence their anxiety to annex as many states as possible in order to emerge as arbiters of the country's destiny, either by sharing power or monopolising it if they can.

As against this, the rightists of the CPI are considerably weaker. They are led by Indradeep Sinha and Joginder Sharma (Bihar), Mohit Sen (Central leader), M. Kalyanasundrah (T. Nadu), G.K. Chandrappan (Kerala), P.K. Vasudevan Nair (Kerala), H.K. Vyas (Rajasthan), Jagjit Singh Anand (Punjab), Renu Chakravarty (W. Bengal) and M.S. Krishnan (Karnataka).

N.K. Krishnan, Central leader and Politburo foreign policy expert, who is a middle-roader, is inclined to the right, and Romesh Chandra, president of the world peace council and close to Moscow, is also with the right.

In the new alignment, Bihar, the main CPI base in the north, faces the pulls and pressures of its right and left factions. Indradeep Sinha and Joginder Sharma are reported to be backing the dissident right group. Also significant is the fact that the right is now practically confined to the south and Punjab, while the main bases of the CPI (Bihar and Andhra) have gone to the left wing. It is also clear that the Hindi heartland, which lies contiguous to West Bengal and is the main base of the BJP, is also with the left; and there it is possible for the CPI(M) and the left of the CPI to come to an electoral understanding with the BJP.

The tactics of the left wingers at Varanasi to force the party to maintain a distance from Moscow, just as the CPI(M) has been doing, have deep implications. This was apparently designed to wean the party away from its support to Indira Gandhi's foreign policy, just as the Marxists once offered the carrot of unity to make the CPI expel Dange.

The CPI (left), however, wanted to prevent a wholesale revolt of the right which was accusing the leadership of disarming the CPI ideologically. Hence Rajeswara Rao had to identify the BJP as the main enemy of the people, not Indira Gandhi's government. He also conceded that he was not in favour of replacing the present government by a reactionary combine. Again, he had to take into consideration the sore feelings in the party ranks that they are not allowed to play any significant role in any of the CPI(M) dominated regions. In the circumstances the unity question remains a mere slogan, though individuals are free to walk over to either parties.

Hair-splitting is a characteristic of the communists. This time it was over national and class considerations. The question was which was more important. The left of the CPI, as was to be expected, concentrated on class struggle, as it was little concerned with national tasks, that is, foreign policy matters. The rightists, however, laid emphasis on national tasks in keeping with the perceptions of Moscow and the international communist movement. In the event, the CPI leadership gave importance to both. This approach has some obvious implications for India's domestic politics. The CPI(M) and CPI (left), freed from national tasks, would feel free to create problems for the government.

Varanasi also demonstrated the differences in perceptions of Moscow and the CPI on the Indian scene. The message of the CPSU to the 12th Congress specifically stated: "We in the Soviet Union understand what difficult problems India is faced with in overcoming the colonial aftermaths and in building a new life. These problems can be solved through the efforts of the entire nation on the basis of the unity of the left and all democratic forces in the country".

Those who are familiar with Moscow's language can get the message from this. The CPI(M)'s and CPI (left's) formulation that Indira Gandhi is building a capitalist system does not appear to have Moscow's theoretical support.

The matter was more specifically spelt out by the Soviet delegate at the conference, when he spoke of India's independent path of development which is not to the liking of the USA.

Surely, if Indira Gandhi is tilting towards capitalism, the USA would have been only too happy with her. But it has remained hostile to Mrs Gandhi and her country. This proves that in the American view the Indian path is a dangerous model for other developing countries to follow.

In the light of the above-mentioned facts, the CPI must find it difficult to evolve its rationale to keep a proper distance between itself and Mrs Gandhi. Moscow considers India's growing public sector as a unique feature in the socio-economic development of the country. In fact, Soviet ideologues believe that the Indian bourgeoisie is retarded and that in the context of the dominant public sector culture in the country, the bourgeoisie has little prospect of emerging as the dominant factor in the country.

The logic of this would be that the left should make earnest efforts to support the growth of the public sector, make sacrifices for it, in order to keep it the dominant element in the economic scene. The CPI (left) or CPI (M) would find it highly embarrassing in view of their other calculations and plans.

It is easy to say that Mrs Gandhi is promoting capitalism, but it is not a logical proposition, for unrestrained growth of capitalism would erode her power base and, what is more, subvert the national interests and ideals she holds dear to her heart by opening the floodgates to TNC [not further identified] inroads into this country.

In a mixed economy it is an almost impossible task to maintain a perfect balance and tension between the public and private sectors, since the momentum behind each is generated by different forces and motivations. To advise the government to seize the profits of the private sector is to invite anarchy.

On the other hand, there is good logic in the argument that the interests of the left and those of Mrs Gandhi converge to keep the rightist forces, which are subversive of the nation's ideals, under check. The left once perceived this truth; but today what motivates its leadership -- at least most of them -- is power and the lure of power. The pursuit of power without scruples could be a dangerous game.

It is an interesting scenario, all the same. There are wheels within wheels with the result there is neither left unity nor right unity. And what is sold to the people as a national alternative to Mrs Gandhi's Congress is neither an alternative nor quite national in its texture.

The CPI(M) has its own problems and calculations. Years of power in West Bengal, Tripura and Kerala, have softened its radical character. The Naxalittes have overtaken it in radicalism. The Marxists no longer believe that power grows out of the gun barrel. By now they know the importance of money and today they are probably the richest among all the opposition parties.

The socialist of the PSP and SP hues are yet to recover from the Manata power experience. They are at sixes and sevens as they have always been. Mr Baguguna (DSP) is still nursing his ambition of launching himself on the national scene from Garhwal. But Delhi is still far off. What he will settle for and when is a matter of conjecture. Probably he will need the services of Mr Raj Narain who is at the moment out of a job. Small-time operators seeing themselves in larger-than-life role is one of the unsavoury features of Indian politics today.

Governing India is not like running a village panchayat. It needs a broad vision, dynamism, a political philosophy and, above all, popular support. Mrs Gandhi has all these, and the people know it.

INQUIRY ORDERED INTO REPORTED THEFT OF ROCKETS

[Text] A court of inquiry has been ordered by the area headquarters to investigate the reported incident of theft of some air force rockets from the consignment booked by an air force unit from Alipur Duar station to the AMLA junction. This was stated by Defense Minister R. Venkataraman while replying to a calling-attention notice moved by Bhogendra Jha, Communist Party of India, and others regarding the reported recovery of air force rockets in limestone and coal wagons on different trains in Bihar.

Sharing concern of the members of the matter, the minister said the matter of safe transit of defense equipment is being seriously considered.

SHARI'ATMADARI STRIPPED OF AYATOLLAH TITLE

Leaders' Statement

LD212012 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 21 Apr 82

[Statement of the Central Council of Tehran's Militant Clergy Society]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Militant and honorable nation of Iran, zealous and heroic compatriots of Azarbayjan: The Society of Tehran's Militant Clergy has been the vanguard of the Islamic revolution since 1963 and has been in touch with the imam of the Islamic nation and other sources of imitation during all the affairs and has some clear and outstanding examples on the hindering policy and repeated shortcomings of Mr Shari'atmadari.

The dear nation of Iran is fully aware of his confirmation of the Constitution and the imperial regime and the fact that he refused to condemn the treacherous shah until the victory of the revolution. The nation has not forgotten the Muslim People's Party Affair, the occupation of the radio and television centers in Tabriz and the attack waged by club wielders against the holy city of Qom. Throughout these affairs Mr Shari'atmadari has at least endorsed such behavior by his silence.

There are many other examples which the Society of the Militant Clergy refrained from exposing on the orders of the imam of the Islamic nation and in order to safeguard the interests of the revolution and Islam and for the sake of preserving the sanctity of the clergy and the lofty status of a source of imitation. Unfortunately, all these considerations had no effect and the said person became a refuge for the corrupt and those who wage war against God and became a consulting partner for such elements. He was aware of the issue [the recent coup plot] and by remaining silent on this criminal action, which the shah and America did not dare to carry out, he has approved of it.

As regards the judicial viewpoint, the Society of the Militant Clergy leaves the matter to the judicial authorities to investigate and issue their verdict; but the society deems it necessary to announce clearly the following: Mr Shari'atmadari does not enjoy the conditions for holding the status of a source of imitation and is not eligible for the position.

We beseech God Almighty to grant health and long life to the great leader of the revolution.

Friday Imams' Statement

LD211228 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 21 Apr 82

[Statement issued by the Friday imams of Tabriz, Mashhad, Esfahan, Yazd and Bakhtaran]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The prophet, may God's peace and blessings be upon him, said: "The worst people are the corrupt ulema."

With the passing of each day in the history of the Islamic revolution, a new page of God's grace and divine bounty is opened for the great and martyr-loving Iranian nation.

Now, on the eve of the second anniversary of the military defeat of the United States at Tabas, and in continuation of the chain of conspiracies by this great Satan, the world of Islam has witnessed the discovery of another shameful plot, the contemplation of which brings sorrow to every free and noble person. This disgraceful and 100-percent American plot was hatched with the assistance and support of a pseudosource of imitation. Investigation of his actions shows him to be a worthy follower of people such as Bal'am Baura, Shorayh Qazi and Samrat ibn Junbad [leading learned people who opposed Mohammad and other prophets].

Creating obstacles ever since the beginning of the Islamic uprising and establishing secret contacts with the destroyed shah; the establishment of a center for the propagation of disunity and sedition in the united ranks of the Shi'ite clergy; opposition to any antimonarchical movement; relying upon the former decadent constitution even at the height of the fruition of the Islamic revolution; adopting a deviationist and compromising line against the decisive and direct line of the imam; conspiracy to alienate and remove some of the ulema from His Great Eminence Imam Khomeyni, may his exalted shadow continue; cooperation with the enemies of the holy principle of theocratic rule in the Council of Experts and at the time of the approval of the Constitution of the Islamic Republic; founding and strengthening the vile Muslim People's Party; incitement of a number of deceived ruffians during the attack against the Muslim and uprisen people of Qom; becoming a base for the politically bankrupt and defeated nationalist and liberal politicians; supporting the shameful and abortive Nowzheh coup d'etat with the assistance of others of his ilk who were fighting his cause; supporting and assisting this shameful plot compared to which all the former actions, despite their enormity, pale into insignificance; all these are the actions carried out by Mr Shari'atmadari before and after the Islamic revolution.

In truth, how else can one interpret such actions other than being opposed to all the devotion and self-sacrifices of the heroic forces in the fronts an the uprisen nation? How can one explain these futile attempts which are contrary to human conscience? We had and have no expectation of any good coming from these people. Our only hope was that they would do no harm.

While expressing our gratitude to the Almighty, may He be glorified and exalted, we thank and praise the Muslim and brave people of Azarbayjan who were first to take action against these disgraced individuals and who by closing their shops and taking part in marches expressed their anger and hatred of these individuals and reconfirmed their convenant with the leader of the revolution and the founder of the Islamic Republic, His Great Eminence Imam Khomeyni, may his exalted shadow continue.

We warn other plotters who are thinking of delivering blows at the holy edifice of this Islamic order, bought with the blood of tens of thousands of martyrs and injured, that their movements are not hidden from the vigilant eyes of the children of the revolution. Before it is too late and the opportunity is lost they should return to the affectionate embrace of Islam and the merciful embrace of the great nation. In step with the Islamic revolution they should engage in propagating and spreading the Islamic ideology and safeguard the fruits of this divine trust.

In view of what was said, which is only a drop in the ocean, we announce the unsuitability of and reject the competence of Mr Shari'atmadari even as a source of imitation for a single person. We beseech Almighty God for the glory and greatness of Islam and the Muslims, and the continuation of the life, health and well-being of the beloved imam.

Greetings to those who follow the path of guidance.

[Signed] Sheykh Moslem Malakuti, Mohammad Saduqi, 'Ataollah Ashrafi-Esfahani, Seyyed Jalaluddin Taheri, Sheykh Abolhasan Sharizi

House Arrest

LD212142 Tehran IRNA in English 1959 GMT 21 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 21 Apr (IRNA) -- Majlis Speaker Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani said in Tehran today that Kazem Shari'atmadari continued to stay in his own residence under the protection of the Islamic revolutionary guards as before, thereby denying rumours published by certain foreign media about his alleged arrest by the Islamic government.

Asked whether to his knowledge any of the foreign powers, including Iraq, might have [been involved] in the aborted coup, he said their involvement in the plot was probable and that investigations still continued. He said the plot was "U.S. inspired," and that in all probability Iraq should have been informed about the coup well in advance. The hojjat ol-Eslam said foreign radios had exploited the news of the scandal and had harped on it by way of sympathy with the ex-ayatollah and his supporters. He said Islamic revolutionary guards had been stationed on the roof-top of the ex-ayatollah upon his own request, and for preventing any possible assault and forcible entry to his house by people. The hojjat ol-Eslam also indicated that he and other members of the ulema did not look at the disreputed ex-ayatollah as a religious scholar worthy of recognition even long before the latter's involvement in the plot, but noted that (ever since the culmination of the Islamic revolution) the ulema had refused to denounce him officially for the sake of safeguarding the unity among the people.

Demonstrations Held

[Text] Tabriz, 21 Apr (IRNA) -- The Muslim people of Tabriz, capital of East Azarbayjan Province, today staged a massive demonstration in the streets of the city in support of the recent statement of the faculty of the Qom theological school in which Shari'atmadari was stripped of his religious authority, and as a sign of allegiance with the leader of the revolution and the founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran, Imam Khomeyni. The demonstrators, who were carrying pictures of Imam Khomeyni and placards in condemnation of Shari'atmadari, were also chanting slogans such as "Shari'atmadari, people of Azarbayjan would die but would not accept you."

After marching through the streets the demonstrators then gathered in one of the squares of the city and listened to a speech by the Tabriz Friday prayers leader who is also the representative of the Imam Khomeyni in the province, Ayatollah Malakuti.

In one part of his speech the ayatollah said a person who believed in parts of the Islamic principles and did not adhere to some others, was not a Muslim. Ayatollah Malakuti, on behalf of the Azarbayjan ulema and the Muslim people of the region who are always present in the political scene of the country, strongly condemned those who were plotting against the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Directing his remarks on the former followers of Shari'atmadari, Ayatollah Malakuti asked them to discontinue following Shari'atmadari because, he added, it was haram (forbidden) to do so any more. At the end of the ceremony a seven-point resolution was issued in which the demonstrators, while pledging their support for the velayat-e faqih (religious jurisprudence), allegiance with Imam Khomeyni and the committed ulema, considered Shari'atmadari incompetent. It further stated that the Muslim people of Tabriz no longer considered Shari'atmadari a religious authority and added that he was no more a member of the Islamic, committed and revolutionary nation of Iran. The resolution stressed that for the people of the area the principles of velayat-e faqih and religious authority and leadership were crystalised in Imam Khomeyni.

Similar demonstrations were held in other cities of the province during which the revolutionary Muslim people of these cities once again reiterated their loyalty to the leader of the revolution and condemned the plotters.

The theological school of Qom as well as the city bazaar were closed today, in support of a recent statement issued by the scholars of the school on the official revocation of Shari'atmadari's status as a religious authority. The closure was followed by a mass rally staged by the Muslim people of the city against the involvement of Shari'atmadari in the recently foiled coup plot to overthrow the Islamic Republic of Iran, which was apparently masterminded by Sadeq Qotbzadeh, former foreign minister.

Similar demonstrations were also held in different regions of the country today. Meanwhile, prominent religious authorities and Friday prayers leaders in provincial cities also issued statements in condemnation of the recent plot and in deploring Shari'atmadari.

Marchers Condemn Plot

GF211540 Bandar-e 'Abbas Domestic Service in Persian 1330 GMT 21 Apr 82

[Text] In order to condemn the treacherous plot and the U.S. coup which was taking shape in the hands of U.S. agents and mercenaries -- the coup discovered and neutralized with the aid of the Almighty and the help of the 36-million-strong, always-on-the-scene and aware Hezbollahi nation -- faithful and Muslim residents of Hormozgan Province carried out glorious marches in their cities and districts this morning. They thus reaffirmed their ties to the imam of the nation, Khomeyni, the idol breaker, with their presence on the scene of the battle of right against wrong and proclaimed their faith in the Islamic Republic of Iran under the leadership of the glorious leader Khomeyni, the idol breaker, even at the cost of sacrificing their lives.

According to a report by the Central News Unit in Bandar-e 'Abbas, the faithful Muslim residents of Bandar-e 'Abbas gathered in front of Fatemiyeh Mosque early this morning in order to condemn the tricks of the criminal United States. They started their march with loud and echoing chants of "God is great," "There is no god but God," "Death to opposers of theocratic rule," "Our movement is Hoseyni and our leader only Khomeyni" and "Hezbollah is the imitator of Ruhollah."

The marchers passed through several streets chanting "The curse of every freedom lover is on Qotbzadeh," "Coup d'etat, coup d'etat has no meaning in the Islamic country" and "This is the opinion of the heroic nation, Islamic courts: retaliation, retaliation!" They then gathered in Bandar-e 'Abbas' Imam Mosque and heard a speech by Hojjat ol-Eslam Qambari, shar' magistrate of Hormozgan Province Islamic Revolution Courts. He referred to a verse of the holy book and then revealed a portion of the activities of Mr Shari'atmadari since June 1963. He urged the always-aware and on-the-scene Hezbollahi nation, especially the theological students and Qom seminarians, not to accept Shari'atmadari's scholarships and also told those who had uniformly imitated him to cease doing so since he is no longer a competent source of imitation.

The shar' magistrate of Hormozgan Province, in another part of his speech, while condemning the foiled treacherous coup d'etat of Sadeq Qotbzadeh, the U.S. mercenary, reviewed empty and futile aspects of this plot. He pointed out that so long as the people are on the scene and continue to further the revolution under the leadership of the great leader Imam Khomeyni, international oppression will never be able to harm the holy revolution in any manner.

A nine-point resolution was read following this speech and approved with loud chants by the marchers. The resolution condemned the plot of international oppression, the U.S. coup d'etat by a number of monarchists, National Front members, pseudoclergymen and politically bankrupt persons headed by CIA agent Sadeq Qotbzadeh. It also announced hatred for the pseudoclergy and called for their defrocking.

The marchers also asked for the open and immediate trial of the coupists. After the resolution, a statement by Hormozgan seminarians was read by Hojjat ol-Eslam Heydarzadeh, the imam's representative in the provincial reconstruction crusade.

Qom Strikes

According to the report, the city of Qom was today totally closed down and the citizens of the city took part in a gigantic march in solid ranks.

Free Voice of Iran Report

NC202351 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 20 Apr 82

[Excerpts] A Free Voice of Iran correspondent reports that there are rumors that State Minister Behzad Nabavi, Petroleum Minister engineer Gharazi, several members of the Islamic Majlis and a number of (?ministers) whose names have not yet been revealed are among the people arrested [in connection with the coup plot].

The Free Voice of Iran correspondent reports from Tehran that parts of Sadeq Qotbzadeh's remarks in the television interview were censored and that even the remarks by the military courts' shar' magistrate, Reyshahri, were perceptibly (?distorted). Reyshahri said in his interview yesterday that once the charges brought against Sadeq Qotbzadeh are proven, he will be sentenced to death. Reyshahri also stated that the Namara organization, the organization of armed revolutionary forces [sazman-e niruha-ye mosallah-e enqelabi], which is under the command of Brigadier General Pezeshkpur and headquartered in Paris, was involved in the coup plot.

Speaking in Paris, Brigadier General Pezeshkpur described Reyshahri's remarks as an outright lie and announced that he has had no contacts whatsoever with persons who have been arrested on charges of attempting a coup. Brigadier General Pezeshkpur has said that the Namara organization, which is based outside Iran, is preparing for an armed struggle against Khomeyni's regime, that it has no contacts whatsoever with the armed forces within Iran, and that Reyshahri's condemnations are aimed at (?purging) the armed forces and other security organizations.

The Free Voice of Iran correspondent adds in his report that every once in a while the Islamic Republic brings up the topic of attempts to carry out coups and to overthrow the regime in a bid to execute officers and NCO's and to crush its opponents. It uses these pretexts to send several innocent but dissatisfied people to the gallows.

According to the Free Voice of Iran correspondent's report, Ayatollah Shari'atmadari, whose residence is under the complete siege of Khomeyni's revolution guards, issued a statement in Qom denying any connection with the coup plotters and described this as a lie made and polished by the regime's officials.

Meanwhile, cables of protest continue to flood An-Najaf and other religious cities in relation to the profanity against Ayatollah Shari'atmadari.

Dr Seyyed Mehdi Pirasteh, the founder of the national organization of Iranians devoted to freedom, has sent a cable from (?Canada) to Ayatollah (?Qomi) in An-Najaf and other Shi'a religious leaders in Iran, India and Pakistan in which he strongly protests the abuses against Ayatollah Shari'atmadari and his relatives.

The Iranian Liberation Army, ARA, which issues a publication with the same name, has strongly condemned the aggression against Ayatollah Shari'atmadari's residence. ARA's statement says that a large number of the brave members of the Iranian Armed Forces have been arrested in Azarbayjan. In its statement, the Iranian Liberation Army has called on all antiregime groups in Iran and abroad to rise together with the brave Armed Forces personnel of Iran to overthrow the oppression and corruption ruling Iran. The statement says that the regime has found a new opportunity and has decided to silence all opposing voices, including the sincere voice of Ayatollah Shari'atmadari. While condemning this new crime, the Iranian Liberation Army expects the other (?religious leaders) who have not submitted to Khomeyni so far to act according to their national and Islamic duty under the present sensitive conditions in rousing the people so that we can act in unison and unity and cleanse our dear Iran as soon as possible from the existence of the ruling satans.

An unconfirmed report states that Ayatollah Shari'atmadari and 27 of his relatives were transferred to an unknown place last night. Our correspondent reports that an extraordinary situation prevailed in Tehran today. The regime's revolution guards had all the city's sensitive points under surveillance. The situation in the cities of Azarbayjan, especially Tabriz and Reza'iyeh, is tense and disturbed, and the brave people of Azarbayjan are preparing themselves for an insurgence against the regime's inhumane acts and are moving in groups toward (?Qom) to find out about the fate of their religious leader. They are determined to inflict a strong blow on the miscreant traitors who have placed the highest religious leader of the country under pressure, harassments and (?denigrations).

Greetings to the people of Azarbayjan! Greetings to the brave children of [word indistinct] and (?Bazargan). Greetings to the brave men of [words indistinct] Sabalan! The Free Voice of Iran, too, wishes to express its deep regret and sadness over this unpleasant incident.

Pro-Shari'atmadari Action

NC220912 (Clandestine) Voice of Iran in Persian 1805 GMT 21 Apr 82

[Summary] Our correspondents have reported that "strong clashes occurred on Wednesday between the regime's revolution guards and supporters of Ayatollah Shari'atmadari in Qom, Tehran, Mashhad, Tabriz and some other cities." No precise figures are available on the number of dead but it is believed that "dozens of people on both sides have been killed" and many have been wounded. Reports also speak of arrests of Ayatollah Shari'atmadari's supporters in these cities.

Reports by our correspondents in Qom state that Ayatollah Shari'atmadari's supporters have "decisively decided to resist until the final downfall of Khomeyni's regime."

Meanwhile reports state that slogans in support of Shari'atmadari can be seen on the walls in Tehran, Tabriz and Mashhad and that on Wednesday night "patriotic Iranian soldiers" who are defending Iranian territories shouted slogans in unison in support of the ayatollah.

Several clergymen and others in Tabriz and in surrounding towns issued a statement on Tuesday, which was distributed by night, in which they protested the incorrect claims made by the ruling regime and endorsed Ayatollah Shari'atmadari's stance.

The statement, which also bears the signature of respectable Tabriz bazaaris, says that Ayatollah Shari'atmadari's "stance on the country's current affairs is correct and manifests his impartiality and honesty" and that no less than this could be expected from such a person. The statement categorically rules out the participation of the Shi'ite leader in "the plot by one treacherous group against another treacherous group" and calls on the people to close down their shops and businesses on Wednesday and to "rebel against Khomeyni's Yazidi regime."

RAFSANJANI ON SHARI'ATMADARI, PEACE MISSIONS

[Interview with Hojjat ol-Eslam 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani, speaker of the Islamic Consultative Assembly; date and place not given -- recorded]

[Text] [Question] Mr Hashemi, our combatants on the fronts are concerned over the shuttling back and forth of peace delegations. They are afraid that the aggressor, who is well known and who has claimed so many victims and inflicted so many casualties and losses on the nations of Iran and Iraq, may get away unpunished. Could you give us your opinion about the punishment and the method of its enforcement?

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. There is nothing for our combatants to worry about, because when these delegations come we tell them that which is accepted by the combatants, the imam and the state officials and people. We have rights which we have specified, and as long as they are denied us we cannot make peace: the aggressor's unconditional withdrawal, payment of damages and conviction of the aggressor. The latter would be the right thing for a group or delegation to do. We have added to this the repatriation of the Iraqi refugees. When they fulfill all these for us, Saddam will no longer be able to stay in power. If they do not fulfill these, we shall continue our job and obtain our rights by force. We will obtain our rights.

Of course, the recent delegation moved closer to us to some extent, closer to our wishes, but there is still some distance. None of these delegations say that our demands are unjust. They say: You forgive; be modest; Saddam (?is bad). We say: Saddam has dug his own grave; we cannot save Saddam by making concessions. We will reach our objectives either by total victory on the battlefront or by the surrender of the Iraqi Ba'th Party. Both would end in the downfall of Saddam, who is responsible for all this oppression.

[Question] A group of people say that after every victory achieved by our combatants the activities of peace delegations intensify. What is your opinion about the motives of and the philosophy behind these shuttles?

[Answer] If this is true, if the peace efforts intensify after each victory, we say that it is because there are centers which do not want to see Iran get out of this war with absolute victory, or that efforts are being made to preserve Saddam in a semiactive state. Some of these delegations have been coming here since the first days of the war. They came before we had achieved any victories. Of course, if we had accepted the views of these delegations in those days Iraq would have remained in our country and we would have had to wait for years and make concessions to get it to leave our country. This could have been hard on us.

When they came in the middle of the war they used to say: Start talks and Iraq will withdraw afterwards.

Lately, they do not even say this. They have come to the point where they say: Iraq must withdraw before talks. I do not know whether Saddam has accepted this or not. This is what they say. Of course, that could be true or may be. [sentence as heard] The delegations are well-wishing people who want to end the war. We also want the war to end, but in a proper way.

[Question] In the opinion of international political circles, the days of Saddam's regime are numbered and it will fall soon. What is your opinion about the next Iraqi regime and its nature? How do you envisage the relationship between Iran and the new Iraqi regime?

[Answer] I don't know from what international circles you obtained opinions. If you mean the West's loudspeakers, they are at sixes and sevens and are floundering in a morass; if you mean the world's (?circles), yes, basically Saddam staged this war as a means to preserve his rule. While Saddam is putting the people of Iraq under such enormous pressure and a majority, nearly all, of the Iraqi people are opposing Saddam's regime, (?it is obvious that) Saddam's days are numbered. He can save himself only by these methods.

Regarding Iraq's future, Iraq is to some extent different from Iran. This unity of expression among the people of Iran, under the imam's decisive leadership and with the presence of the clergy, does not exist in Iraq. What one can say about Iraq is that a popular government is the final and correct fate for it. If the desires of the majority of the people are enforced, the situation will be stabilized.

The correct solution is a government of the people, neither imposed by us nor by any other country. Otherwise, a severe dictatorship could be imposed on Iraq, one worse than the dictatorship of the 'Aflaqite Ba'th because people would have greater expectations and suppressing people would require more executions, or, Iraq will disintegrate, which would be worse. Therefore, I think the correct path and destiny for the people of Iraq is a popular government. If there are people who are friends of the region, friends of the Iraqi people and friends of Islam, they must make an effort to help the Iraqis reach this goal.

[Question] My next question concerns the recent events. Could you give us your opinion about the [words indistinct] statement issued by the teachers of Qom seminary regarding Mr Shari'atmadari?

[Answer] These gentlemen, who refer to themselves as the teachers' association, are all, or a decisive majority of them, religious leaders and experts. They have been in the seminary and know the gentlemen and are aware of the events. Their opinion -- the opinion of this group -- is a strong one that cannot be ignored.

The story is logical. This was their main point: His excellency has admitted that he knew of the plot, that they had told him. We could accept that his involvement does not go beyond knowledge of the plot. Of course, Mr Qotbzadeh has said that his excellency had promised to confirm the story, and a sum of (?600,000) tomans has also been mentioned. Of course, we don't know everything yet; there might be more to come.

If we imagine that the (?case is) exactly as Mr Shari'atmadari claims and that his excellency knew about the plot, this knowledge is not a simple matter. If the coup had taken place, a number of people would have been killed. Even if the coup had not been successful there would have been casualties in any case. A number of people would have been killed, losses would have occurred and there would have been trouble. He says he believes in the Islamic Republic. If he does and if this Muslim blood must [words indistinct], why did he not do anything to stop the bloodshed? If his excellency was unable to understand this danger, this would be a sign of weakness and would detract from his religious leadership. If someone did not understand this danger, he would not have the competence to be a religious leader. If his excellency understood and realized the danger but at the same time ignored it, this would be a kind of lack of virtue, seeing such a danger facing the people, the government and the Islamic society and doing nothing to stop it. A religious authority cannot be ignorant to such an extent and cannot be without virtue to such an extent. It seems that his excellency's explicit confession has cleared the matter. Of course, we did not consider his excellency to be pious [competent for his position] before; with (?this confession) I think that those who did consider him to be pious have no choice now.

[Question] You are aware that before the discovery of the recent coup, the coup conspiracy, foreign radios, including the Iraqi radio, broadcast a series of discussions and commentaries about Mr Shari'atmadari's reverence. What relationship do you see between the Iraqi regime and this coup plan?

[Answer] There is a difference between guessing something and talking about it with knowledge. Regarding the knowledge, as far as I have been informed investigations have not shown any clear connection; they do not show any specific relationship. However, we think that all of the centers -- Iraq, Paris, America and perhaps Saudi Arabia and all of the others -- have been related. One of the points referred to in the statements is that one of the reactionary countries in the region (?maybe America), was supposed to take some action in Iraq on the same day that they were supposed to start work here; perhaps there was a joint program. What Mr Reyshahri said when explaining this matter very clearly showed the fact that the matter has American roots. Naturally, a place like Iraq, which these days has been transformed into a toy in the hands of America, and has forces in our territory, cannot remain uninformed. They must have been involved. This was all before the coup plot was discovered; it has been made even clearer after the coup was discovered.

Almost all of the foreign radios specifically raise this issue. People such as Bakhtiar, Azhari, Bani-Sadr, Amini, Rajavi and Reza Pahlavi and radios such as America's, BBC, Cologne, Israel and the other existing Persian-language radios have all raised the current issue with the hope that they could provoke some of the Iranian people. They express sorrow and grief and say that his excellency's house has been besieged by revolution guards. The fact of the matter is that his excellency virtually begs the guards not to leave his neighborhood; his excellency is afraid of the people and he is right to be afraid. Of course, we hereby ask people to not take any actions like that; they must not approach his house because the judiciary and security officials are doing their jobs. Of course, guardsmen are guarding his excellency's house; they are even guarding his excellency's rooftop in case somebody should try to cause trouble there.

They keep making all this noise [words indistinct] the Iranian nation and the friends of the Iranian nation. The others, who are the enemies, have stopped making noise and are now hypocritically expressing sorrow. They are all related to one another.

[Correspondent] Thank you.

VELAYATI: POSITIVE ELEMENTS IN PEACE PROPOSALS

LD211304 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 21 Apr 82

[Text] Mr 'Ali Akbar Velayati, the foreign minister of the Islamic Republic of Iran, this morning took part in a press conference and answered correspondent's questions on various topics, particularly on the comings and goings of peace missions.

According to a Central News Unit correspondent, Mr Velayati, stressing the Islamic Republic of Iran's peace positions, declared at the press conference that the delegation appointed by the Islamic Conference, led by Mr Ahmed Sekou Toure, the Guinea president, who is a respected personality, brought a proposal which, from our standpoint, contains certain positive elements compared with the previous proposals, but it is still far from the conditions we have in mind.

Regarding the reason for the comings and goings of peace missions, our country's foreign minister said the Islamic Republic of Iran prefers peace to war, and it stresses this matter. Any mediation delegation wishing to come to Iran will be welcomed by us. There is no obstacle to their coming to Tehran. We, as a host, will welcome those with good will toward establishing peace. Our conditions for peace, however, are constant. A war has been imposed on us by the Iraqi regime. In this war we are in fact defending our Islamic and Iranian identity, our territorial integrity and honor.

He added: We have frequently declared the principles of our positions, and these are constant. However, the political situation in the world and in the region as well as on the fronts is subject to change. The peace missions are engaged in considering ways of bringing about a peaceful end to the war by taking into consideration these factors and these new developments.

Regarding the recent plan submitted by the delegation appointed by the Islamic Conference, Mr Velayati said the plan was considered at the level of the political authorities of the Islamic Republic of Iran, and the next day, when the delegation headed by Mr Habib Chatti, the Islamic Conference secretary general came to Iran, a reply was given them. In reply to the plan, while commending their humanitarian efforts to bring about peace, we said that the plan is far from the conditions we had in mind, and we once again reminded them of our just conditions and principles, noting that the right of the returnees [as heard] to return to their country must be protected.

Regarding the outcome of talks with the special envoy of the UN secretary general on resolving the Afghanistan issue, Mr Velayati, referring to our country's positions regarding the resolution of the Afghanistan issue, said that the United Nations has a plan which we can accept provided our conditions are included in it. Given this, we shall hold talks on the matter.

Regarding a visit to Iran by Mr Jallud, the Libyan prime minister, our country's foreign minister said that the visit is in response to an invitation from Mr Musavi, our country's prime minister; the foreign ministers of Libya and Algeria will also come to Iran at the invitation of their Iranian counterparts.

In conclusion, our country's foreign minister described the purpose of his visit to India as being connected with the overall policy of the Islamic Republic of Iran on developing relations with the Third World. He said that India is a country close to us; we have certain things common between us, historical, religious and cultural ties between the two nations are strong, both countries are members of the Nonaligned Movement. He stressed that about 120 million Muslims live in India, and we are going to India with this in mind.

CABINET DISCUSSES ICO PEACE PROPOSALS

[Excerpts] According to a Central News Unit report, the Cabinet of the Islamic Republic of Iran held a session this morning with Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi in the chair. At this session, after discussing and reviewing the imposed war, the domestic and foreign plots against the Islamic Republic were discussed, and Prime Minister Musavi, analyzing the country's developments, stated:

The mighty hand of God is manifest in the successive demolition of the bases of the great Satan and in the miraculous fall of these bases, which had been set up in various forms by infernal CIA organizations and by superpowers against the Islamic revolution and is a tangible expression of God's promises to the selfless and resistant Islamic nation.

According to the report, at today's Cabinet session, Mr Velayati reported on the talks by the Islamic peace delegation, and said: The delegation's proposals contained certain new elements, but they are still far from the conditions set by Iran.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 862

LD211744 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 21 Apr 82

[Communique 862 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Part of the operations and self-sacrifices by our combatants and the situation on the battlefronts as follows:

Yesterday sporadic exchange of fire continued on the western fronts. Near Salehabad, Sumar, Gilan-e Gharb and Sar-e Pol-e Zahab, several Iraqi positions and assembly points were destroyed and several Saddamists killed. Our combatants, while destroying two tanks, also damaged two Iraqi helicopters. In the Sumar sector, our forces destroyed one machinegun.

Our forces shelled Iraqi forces in Toveyleh and Shushmi, causing some losses and damage.

In the Panjwin, Tutmal and Biarreh sectors, several Iraqi assembly points and one antiaircraft gun were destroyed and several Iraqi troops were either killed or wounded.

Sporadic exchanges of fire continue on the southern fronts between our powerful and victorious forces and the Iraqi Armed Forces. Any movement or activity by the Saddamist forces on these fronts are not hidden from the sight and powerful fire of the warriors of Islam. The brave combatants of the navy on the Khorramshahr and Abadan fronts opened fire on Iraqi positions and destroyed more than 13 trenches, foxholes and observation posts of the enemy. Several enemy troops were killed.

Yesterday our ever-vigilant air defense units repulsed the enemy's airraids and forced their violating planes to flee.

SUCCESSFUL GUERRILLA OPERATION REPORTED

LD211748 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 21 Apr 82

[Text] According to IRNA, the brave and self-sacrificing tribesmen from the Mobilization of the Oppressed unit of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, during some guerrilla operations which were carried out with the full cooperation of an artillery unit of the armed forces this morning, killed or wounded at least 60 Saddamists in the Meymak sector.

Five trucks, one command car, one 122-mm mortar and several trenches were set on fire and destroyed. The corpses of the Iraqi dead were buried by our combatants in accordance with the Shari'a regulations. Our warriors also captured some enemy weapons, ammunition and equipment as booty and returned to their base safely.

'SENSITIVE' HEIGHT CAPTURED FROM KURDISH REBELS

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report quoting the Public Relations Office of the Central Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, our forces captured the sensitive heights of Dolarezan after a 7-hour battle. These operations, which started at 0300 on 20 April, ended this morning and the counterrevolutionaries hastily fled the scene, leaving behind a large number of dead and wounded.

It should be noted that the treacherous leader of the defunct Kurdish Democratic Party had claimed that if the forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran were able to capture the Dolarezan heights he and his clique would have to surrender to Iranian forces and would have to lay down their arms.

GENDARMERIE SUCCESSES AGAINST 'BANDITS' NOTED

LD211814 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 21 Apr 82

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, the Public Relations Office of the Central Islamic Revolution Guard Corps has announced that, early this morning, the brave gendarmerie combatants, in full coordination with the self-sacrificing warriors of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and supported by the artillery fire of the Armed Forces, began mopping-up operations on the Kamyaran-Marivan axis to cleanse the area of bandits affiliated with world arrogance.

During these operations, the Gavaneh region, Yakshabeh heights, the Shirin Kavar, Charmsaleh and (?Nisura) regions were fully cleansed and were occupied by our victorious troops. Also, in these operations a large number of mercenaries affiliated with counterrevolutionary minigroups were either killed or wounded.

On the same day, the Guards Corps launched an attack on the Marivan-Saggez axis, supported by the self-sacrificing personnel of the Airborne Division. The attack cleansed bandits from three villages.

SAFE HOUSE DISCOVERED, RAIDED IN MASHHAD

LD212102 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 21 Apr 82

[Statement issued by the Public Relations Office of the Central Islamic Revolution Committee]

[Text] In His exalted name. "God has verily promised hypocrites of both sexes and infidels the fires of hell where they will remain forever." [Koranic verse]

While the elements duped by world arrogance who with their disordered and infantile attitude strove toward, as it were, the overthrow of the regime of the Islamic Republic are suffering disgraceful defeat, the guards of the Islamic revolution committees continue to wage fight against the antipeople hypocrites organization as a sacred duty.

According to a report received from the Public Relations Office of Mashhad's Islamic Revolution Committee, our brother guards from Mashhad's Islamic Revolution Committee succeeded during the evening of 19 April in discovering and capturing a safe house of corruption of the reactionary hypocrites' minigroup and in a short shootout they succeeded in killing one of the important cadres of the hypocrites and in capturing another three active members of this minigroup.

In the meantime, evidence, proofs and handwritten organizational documents speaking of the hypocrites' cooperation and links with the recent abortive coup under the leadership of the traitor Qotbzadeh were seized in the safe house.

We hope for the earliest disgrace and destruction of counterrevolution in its various guises.

KURDISH LEADER VIEWS ANTI-KHOMEYNI STRUGGLE

PM201519 Paris LE MATIN in French 15 Apr 82 p 13

[Yves Martin interview with Kurdish Democratic Party secretary general Abdorrahman Qasemlu in Paris: "The Iranian Mullahs Accused" -- date not given]

[Text] LE MATIN: What is the situation like in Iranian Kordestan?

Qasemlu: The war between us and Khomyeni's regime has been going on for 2 years and 6 months. The blockade against us has forced us to leave the big cities. Indeed, we were unable to ensure supplies to them. However, we control the half of Kurdish territory south of Tabriz, in other words 60,000 square km. That poses problems. Especially economic problems. The central government is depriving us of all oil supplies. However, a large section of our agriculture is mechanized. The harvest was good last year; that will probably not be the case this year. There is also a complete blockade on other goods like paper, milk, industrial products and especially medicines. Despite those deprivations, 12,000 peshmerga (Kurdish guerrillas) and 60,000 armed peasants are challenging the presence of 85,000 pasdaran (revolution guards) and pro-Khomeyni soldiers using Phantoms, helicopters and tanks against us.

Nonetheless, that guerrilla war is not diverting us from the administration of the territories which we control. Moreover, we are shortly going to hold elections in order to set up village councils. Two main parties will campaign: the KDP and Komeleh (Marxist-Leninist) have most influence in the cities among students and schoolchildren.

LE MATIN: How do you acquire the arms which you have?

Qasemlu: We confiscated many of them from the garrisons of the shah's armed forces. We lack supplies more than weapons. We buy them either from the Iranian Army or from foreign countries. And then there is smuggling, which is a prosperous branch of our economy....

LE MATIN: What kind of relations do you have with your Kurdish borthers in neighboring countries?

Qasemlu: We are Kurds, but we are Iranians. And only the Iranian Kurdish problem interests us. That is why we are struggling for democracy in Iran and for an autonomous Iranian Kordestan. That does not prevent us from helping the other Kurdish organizations in Turkey or Iraq. However, that does not include the organization of Barzani's sons, who have become Khomeyni mercenaries. They previously collaborated with the shah and helped to crush our movement in 1967 and 1968. Today they are taking part in military operations against us, and there can therefore be no question of reaching any compromise with them.

LE MATIN: What picture would you paint of Iran's economic and social situation?

Qasemlu: Record inflation, 6 million people unemployed and 40 percent of factories closed. An interminable and costly war with Iraq. A growing influx of refugees coming from the border regions but also from Afghanistan; there are more than 3.5 million of them in all, in other words 10 percent of the population. Finally, oil production, which has fallen to 1 million barrels per day.

Since the country consumes one-third of that, Iran only earns $600 to $700 million per month from its oil. However, the mullahs make no secret of the fact that they need $1.5 billion per month. How are they going to deal with that? They are issuing excessive quantities of paper money, selling the last gold reserves, misappropriating the carpets, diamonds and all the precious goods which are found in auctions in London or elsewhere.

LE MATIN: Is that situation producing divisions within the ruling classes?

Qasemlu: When Bani-Sadr left some people thought that the ruling class was going to be united, but they were mistaken. Some 3 weeks ago, when people began to refer to Khomeyni's illness, Ayatollah Khamene'i, president of the Islamic Republic, suggested forming a five-man committee to succeed him. Scarcely had he mentioned their names than Ayatollah Montazeri, Khomeyni's religious successor in Qom, immediately put forward three more. As can be seen, the succession promises to be difficult. That is especially so since divisions are appearing among the leaders on the role which Islam should have in Iranian society. For instance, Majlis Speaker Ayatollah Rafsanjani, together with liberals like Bazargan, would readily envisage an alternative which would be Islamic but in a liberalized form.

Two other paths are possible; that of the monarchists seems least likely. Bakhtiar and the royal family can only return to power by a coup d'etat. And only the army can ensure that. But the army has been dismantled, and Khomeyni is certainly in no hurry to see it return to the barracks. Tactically-speaking, the war suits him.

Finally, the last path is the democratic path of the National Resistance Council chaired by Mas'ud Rajavi, to which we belong, together with the Mojahedin (progressive Muslims). If that council is able to open up further, particularly to the middle classes, it has a chance of coming to power. But in any case it will only do so by an armed insurrection. I do not think it is possible to overthrow this regime other than by force.

LE MATIN: Bani-Sadr fought you for a long time and you are now agreeing to cooperate with him. How do you explain that change of attitude?

Qasemlu: I have indeed met Bani-Sadr in Paris during meetings of the council of which I am a member. But I would like to say that it is not I who have changed camp; it is he who has joined our camp. He has finally realized that the Khomeyni regime must be fought. Moreover that is what he did during the last year of his presidency. And we appreciated that, since we invited him to come and live in Kordestan if he wanted to.

LE MATIN: You have not mentioned the communist Tudeh Party; is its influence unimportant? What about terrorism, to what political forces do you attribute it?

Qasemlu: We have not had relations with the Tudeh since the beginning of the Islamic revolution, since it has been collaborating with Khomeyni. In addition, 18 months ago the communists tried to dismantle our party by forming a faction within our Central Committee, but they failed. Today they are denouncing our peshmerga cadres hiding in the cities and are trying to seize a few key positions in the government. They are forgetting one thing: Iran is not Afghanistan.

As for terrorism, let me make it clear that we do not support individual terrorism, hijacking or the taking of hostages, and we condemned the hostage taking at the American Embassy. Our only objectives, like those of the Mojahedin, are military and strategic. I will not say the same for the government forces. It is now known that the fire at the Rex Cinema in Abadan was the work of the mullahs. And the investigation of that crime was never carried through. There is a saying in Iran that where there is one mullah things are fine, but where there are two the problems begin....

CLANDESTINE ISSUES CALL TO AHVAZ ARAB CITIZENS

GF190723 (Clandestine) Ahvaz Voice of Al-Qadisiyah in Arabic 0500 GMT 19 Apr 82

[Unattributed call to the Ahvaz Arab citizens]

[Text] Oh Arab citizens in Ahvaz: For 56 years the racist Persians, the enemies of freedom and humanity, have been trying to subjugate us to their domination. However, our Arab character, humanity, national stand, strong will, magnanimity and genuineness have enabled us to refuse to accept humiliation and to hold our heads high everywhere and at all times.

Today we continue our victorious march. Our enemies are the losers, humiliated and despised. Everyone knows that we will not put down our arms until our goals are fulfilled, our Arab character is victorious and until the banner of Arabism is hoisted high in the sky of Ahvaz; until the enemy finds himself -- through fighting -- forced to recognize our rights and abandon his pride, arrogance and tyranny; until the Karun River becomes Arab property again; until Abadan joins Al-Muhammarah and Al-Khafajiyah joins Hoveyzeh, until the Karkheh River is welded to Al-Hamidiyah and all the Arab land of Ahvaz is liberated; until the heads of Al-Musha'sha'iyin and the Al-Ka'biyin leaders are raised high and all Arab tribes express their joy on this land; and until every Arab who has tasted the bitterness of occupation tastes victory and liberation. Victory comes only from God.

26 APRIL 1982

Sinai Handover

Egyptian Takeover, Israeli Evacuation -- Egyptian military officials, representing President Husni Mubarak in the ceremonies marking the handover of the Sinai, raised their national flag in Rafah and Sharm ash-Shaykh on 25 April, according to a live broadcast by Cairo radio and a MENA report. Egypt also raised its flag over the Tiran and Sanafir Islands, MENA noted. Speaking at the Rafah ceremony, Maj Gen Yusuf Sabri Abu Talib said Egypt's flag will fly forever on its international border. Earlier that morning, the radio provided live coverage of the ceremony in Cairo in which Mubarak laid a wreath at the tomb of the late president, Anwar as-Sadat.

The IDF began its withdrawal from the Sinai the previous day, completing the process on 25 April, according to MENA. Egyptian administrators took over Sharm ash-Shaykh and its environs amid joyful demonstrations by Sinai villagers. MENA also reported that two of the three Sinai airports would be open to international civilian aircraft beginning on 25 April and that the other airport would open to aircraft of the Multinational Force and Observers (MFO).

The IDF evacuated around 2,000 opponents of the withdrawal and demolished some 600 houses in the course of the evacuation of Yamit District, Jerusalem radio reported citing the evacuation commander. Kakh members, who had threatened suicide, were evacuated without harm. The radio also noted that before finally leaving the demolished town, members of the Movement To Stop the Withdrawal announced the establishment of a new political movement to retrieve the territories. The new party is called "Israel's Return."

Comment on Withdrawal, Peace Process -- In a message to the Egyptian and Israeli people, broadcast jointly by Cairo and Jerusalem televisions and radios, President Mubarak said the peace treaty represents an important step on the road to a comprehensive peace, which will have good effects in all parts of the Middle East. It sets an example for good relations between Israel and its neighbors on the basis of mutual respect and preservation of legitimate rights, he said. Mubarak called for further efforts to cultivate the peace process, to open new horizons for contact and communication and to strengthen the confidence of coming generations in a better future. Noting Egypt's human and financial sacrifices in its wars with Israel, Mubarak said Egyptians are determined that the October war will be the last war. They greet the Israeli people who have accepted the challenge of peace, he said, and appreciate the sincere assistance of friendly peoples, especially the Americans.

Prime Minister Menahem Begin's message, broadcast during the same program, noted that Israel has made many sacrifices for the peace treaty and stressed the need to make the peace last forever.

The 25 April Israeli Cabinet meeting was interrupted by a telephone call for Begin from Mubarak, who congratulated the Israeli leader on the evacuation of the Sinai and promised that peace will prevail forever between the two countries, Jerusalem radio reported.

In a television messaage to Egyptians, reported by MENA, Mubarak noted the difficult years before the return of the Sinai, during which an Egyptian could not smile or be happy while his land was occupied and his will was shackled. Speaking to journalists after a 25 April meeting of the Armed Forces Surpeme Council, Mubarak stressed that the Palestinian autonomy talks will definitely continue, MENA reported. In a statement reported by Cairo radio on 24 April, Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali expressed hope that the canopy of peace will be spread over all the Middle East. This can be achieved only by guaranteeing the "natural, legitimate rights" of the Palestinian people, he said. 'Ali also said in a 25 April Cairo radio interview that the Egyptian Foreign Ministry is working at full capacity to prepare for the next stage of diplomatic activity and will shortly contact the United States and Israel to agree on a date for the resumption of the autonomy talks. While reaffirming that Egypt welcomes the restoration of relations with Arab states provided they do not seek to impose conditions upon Egypt, he indicated that the resumption of relations is impossible within the framework of the Baghdad summit resolutions.

Commenting on the restoration of Egyptian sovereignty over the Sinai, Cairo's AS-SIYASI said the evacuation generates more confidence in Israeli pledges and inspires the possibility of continuing negotiations in order to ensure an overall peace for all people in the area, according to Cairo radio's press review. AL-AHRAM said Egyptians should feel "loyalty and gratitude" to As-Sadat, doing "justice to his renown against malicious talk" and putting him in his "appropriate place of prominence."

MENA carried several statements from world leaders congratulating Egypt on the return of the Sinai, including a message from Sudanese President Ja'far Numayri, who stressed that the "Zionist enemy" is still directing its guns at the Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza. The Arabs, whose divisions give the enemy the opportunity to be "haughty," must unite, he said.

Jerusalem radio said that in a telephone conversation with Begin, President Ronald Reagan congratulated the Israeli leader on completing the decisive part of the peace treaty and promised that the United States will stand on Israel's side in the future.

Tabah Dispute -- Israel and Egypt have reached final agreement over the method to solve the Tabah border dispute, Jerusalem radio reported. Under the agreement Israel will retreat to the border as conceived by Egypt and the Egyptians will station police up to the point Israel believes to be the border. Life will proceed normally in the disputed zone while a committee discusses the problem without any time limitation. The MFO will be responsible for security in the zone.

Monitored Egyptian media have not yet reported that agreement has been reached. In a press conference reported by MENA, Egyptian Foreign Minister 'Ali praised the U.S. role in narrowing Egyptian-Israeli differences over Tabah.

Israel

Sharon Statement, New Settlements -- Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon said in a 25 April Order of the Day to the IDF that Israel has reached the limit of its concessions and will henceforth strengthen its security and reinforce and consolidate settlements in the Golan Heights, Judaea, Samaria and Gaza, Jerusalem radio reported. Meanwhile, the Ministerial Settlement Committee announced approval for the establishment of five new settlements in Judaea and Samaria and of an urban center in the northern Golan Heights, IDF radio noted. The Defense Ministry and the Zionist federation's settlement department have drawn up plans to expand the Jewish population in Judaea and Samaria to 70,000 within the next 3 years, according to DAVAR.

West Bank, Gaza Disturbances -- Security forces imposed a curfew on Tubas, Qabatiyah and Qalandiyah refugee camp after disturbances in these areas on 25 April, Jerusalem radio reported. A policeman was wounded when students tried to attack the Tubas police station and the IDF used teargas to break up the demonstrators, according to the radio. Security forces also broke up a demonstration by Rafah residents in connection with the town's redivision, the radio said. An inhabitant of Janin District was wounded the previous day when border police opened fire to disperse rioters, ITIM noted. Members of the banned National Guidance Committee called for a general strike in Judaea, Samaria and Gaza starting on 25 April, according to Jerusalem radio.

Mosad Chief -- The London SUNDAY TIMES reported that contrary to Sharon's wishes, Prime Minister Begin has appointed Maj Gen Yequti'el Adam as the new head of Mosad, HA'ARETZ noted.

Lebanon

Security Situation -- The IDF has continued to reinforce its forces in the Christian border strip, according to the clandestine Voice of Palestine radio, while Voice of Lebanon radio said the Israelis have installed a missile network in the south. Meanwhile, Beirut radio reported that an Israeli force blew up a house in the southern village of Bra'shit. Voice of Hope radio said the terrorists violated the cease-fire by shelling Marj 'Uyun on 25 April while the Voice of Palestine cited an AS-SAFIR report that the IDF opened heavy machinegun fire from the border strip the same day. Voice of Palestine also claimed that Mosad has sent a squad to Beirut to assassinate Palestinian leaders.

Fighting between rival factions in Tripoli broke out anew on 23 April, but died down after security forces began patrolling the streets to enforce a cease-fire, Beirut radio reported. The radio said 13 people were killed and 21 wounded in the clashes in the city on 22 April. Meanwhile, a Communist Party official was assassinated in Beirut, according to the Voice of Lebanon. On 24 April, a bomb shattered the front door of the AFP office in Beirut, the agency noted. The explosion followed a telephone call to AFP from "friends of Carlos," who threatened to strike at French officials if any Arab is harmed or humiliated in France.

U.S. Ambassador on Raid -- U.S. Ambassador Robert Dillon denied a charge by his Soviet counterpart that the recent Israeli raid on Lebanon had U.S. consent, Beirut radio noted.

PLO

'Arafat-Al-Qadhdhafi Meeting -- PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat met in Libya with Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi on 24 April, the Voice of Palestine radio reported. The latest developments in the area, including the Israeli air attack on Lebanon, were reviewed.

PLO Official, PFLP-GC on Cease-Fire -- Israel has always tried to get rid of the Lebanese cease-fire agreement because it is a burden on it, Khalil al-Wazir, deputy commander in chief of the Palestinian Revolution Forces, stated in an interview broadcast by Monte Carlo radio. The Palestinians know how, when and where to reply to Israeli attacks, he added. The PLO has studied this matter and has made the appropriate decision, Al-Wazir remarked.

Meanwhile the Kuwaiti office of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command called for a review of the cease-fire decision on Lebanon's border, according to a front statement reported by the Kuwaiti paper AL-ANBA'. The statement called for the Palestinian revolution and the Lebanese Nationalist Movement to respond decisively and firmly to the recent Israeli air attack on Lebanon.

Cairo PLO Office -- The PLO does not at this time intend to reopen its office in Cairo, according to a Palestinian source cited by Voice of Palestine radio. The source denied that any contact exists between the PLO and Egypt. Earlier, an Arab diplomatic source stated that the PLO would open an office in Ciaro to handle issues relating to occupied Arab territories, according to AFP.

Iraq

Talks on War -- Three ranking Iraqi officials have gone to Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Jordan and Guinea to hold talks on the Iran-Iraq war, INA reported. A verbal message outlining Iraq's position on the war was conveyed by Deputy Prime Minister Tariq 'Aziz to Kuwaiti Amir Jabir al-Ahmad as-Sabah, according to INA. Later, 'Aziz outlined Iraq's military and political position on the war at a meeting in Jordan with King Husayn, Amman television reported. Saudi King Khalid ibn 'Abd al-'Aziz received Revolution Command Council Vice Chairman 'Izzat Ibrahim ad-Duri, who delivered a message from President Saddam Husayn, SPA reported. Minister of State for Foreign Affairs Hamid 'Alwan will deliver to Guinea President Ahmed Sekou Toure a message from President Husayn regarding the Islamic Good Offices Committees' peace mission and efforts to settle the war with Iran in conformity with Iraq's readiness to establish peace in the region, according to INA.

Husayn on Iran, Syria -- Iraq will not allow anyone, be it Iran or anyone else, to humiliate its people, army and land, President Husayn stated at a meeting with Kuwaiti editors, Baghdad radio reported. Iranian designs will not stop at Iraq's border, therefore, Iraq must fight until the last bullet and the last drop of blood, Husayn added. The Syrians are mistaken if they think that halting the flow of oil will demoralize the Iraqis, Husayn also noted.

Syrian Airspace Violation -- A Syrian military helicopter entered Iraqi airspace on 25 April in northwestern Iraq, INA reported citing a military source. This was the third violation of Iraqi airspace by a Syrian aircraft in 2 weeks, INA noted.

Iran

Security Situation -- At least 50 counterrevolutionaries were killed and another 100 wounded on 24 April in clashes with government forces near the towns of Baneh and Sar Dasht, IRNA reported. In another development, 50 counterrevolutionaries were killed and a number of others wounded in Kordestan when their positions came under the fire of security forces, according to IRNA.

Coup Plot -- Ayatollah Kazem Shari'atmadari is under house arrest for his alleged involvement in a plot against Iran, AFP reported. His house is under surveillance and he may not freely communicate with people, Prosecutor General Musavi-Tabrizi stated at a press conference reported by AFP. All available documents clearly show he endorsed the plot, the prosecutor stated, according to IRNA.

Mojahedin-e Khalq Leader -- Engineer 'Ali Zarkesh has been selected to lead the Mojahedin-e Khalq organization in Iran, according to a statement by Mojahedin leader Mas'ud Rajavi, reported by the clandestine Free Voice of Iran radio. Zarkesh was assigned the position after the death of Musa Khiabani, who was second in command of the Mojahedin-e Khalq.

Afghanistan

Rebel Offensive -- Nearly 10,000 Afghan rebels are attempting to capture the border city of Khowst in Paktia Province, AFP reported on 24 April citing Afghan sources.

Counterrevolutionaries Captured -- Sixty-seven "counterrevolutionaries" were captured in Qandahar Province recently, Kabul radio reported.

Soviet Helicopter Downed -- Afghan rebels recently downed a Soviet helicopter that was bombing rebel bases in Herat Province, according to the office of the Afghan Muslim mujahidin in Zahedan, IRNA reported.

KESHTMAND RECEIVES SOVIET CONSTRUCTION DELEGATION

LD222344 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1530 GMT 22 Apr 82

[Text] Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand, Politburo member and chairman of the DRA Council of Ministers, today received a high-ranking delegation of the Soviet State Committee for Construction Affairs. Engineer Nazar Mohammad, minister of public works, attended the meeting.

At the meeting views were exchanged concerning the expansion of friendly links between Afghanistan and the Soviet Union. Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand expressed gratitude for the extensive and selfless aid of the great, fraternal USSR.

Delegation Ends Visit

[Text] The high-ranking delegation of the USSR State Committee for Construction Affairs, led by the committee's deputy chairman, which paid a friendly and official visit to Kabul at the invitation of the Ministry of Public Works, left Kabul today for home.

The delegation was seen off at Kabul International Airport by engineer Nazar Mohammad, minister of public works, heads of department of this ministry, and the plenipotentiary counsellor of the Soviet Embassy in Kabul.

During its stay in Kabul, the high-ranking Soviet delegation held discussions about construction affairs concerning the two countries and concluded a protocol in this respect.

According to another report, the Soviet delegation attended a reception yesterday evening which was given in the Ariana Hotel by the minister of public works in honor of the delegation.

The reception was attended by vice chairmen of the Council of Ministers, members of the Council of Ministers, high-ranking officials of ministries and members of the Soviet Embassy in Kabul.

AGREEMENT SIGNED ON NEW FACILITIES FOR USSR

GF201643 Kabul in English to South Asia 1530 GMT 20 Apr 82

[Text] The agreement on 3 (?acres) of land at Mazar-e Sharif, the center of Balkh Province, in the north of the country, for the construction of the building and the complexes of general consulting and economic consulting offices and the office of the trade representative of the Soviet Union was concluded today between the Government of DRA and the Soviet Union. While Shah Mohammad Dost, the foreign minister, was present, the agreement was signed for the Government of the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan by the president of the construction and planning bank and then for the Soviet Union by Fikryat Tabeyev, the Soviet ambassador in Kabul.

DELEGATION LEAVES FOR LAO PARTY CONGRESS

[Text] On the invitation of the Central Committee of the People's Revolutionary Party of Laos, a party delegation headed by Niaz Mohammad Momand, secretary of the Central Committee of the PDPA and chairman of the economic branch of the Central Committee of the party, left for Laos to participate in the third congress of the said party.

AFP: REBELS LAUNCH OFFENSIVE TO CAPTURE KHOWST

BK240047 Hong Kong AFP in English 0006 GMT 24 Apr 82

[Text] Islamabad, 24 April (AFP) -- Nearly 10,000 Afghan fighters are attempting to capture the border city of Khowst in Paktia Province, anti-communist Afghan sources here and in Islamabad have announced.

They said the offensive is intended to protect a path over the border from Miram Shah, Pakistan, that is one of the main supply lines to anti-communist resistance forces in a number of provinces.

The Soviet-Afghan garrison at Khowst had been relatively passive until now, but Soviet reinforcements arrived a week ago to threaten the path. Altogether, about a division of Soviet soldiers arrived recently along the 150 kilometre (100 mile) border from Parachinar, Pakistan, to Miram Shah to block rebel supply lines, resistance spokesmen said.

Reinforcements facing Parachinar and at Khowst were harassed as soon as they arrived and several Soviet soldiers have been captured, the sources affirmed.

They said the drive against Khowst was being carried out by three non-fundamentalist Islamic parties and by men of Mullah Jallalludin reinforced by many warriers of the Jaji and Mengal tribes who had taken refuge in Pakistan.

"We have opened up our armories at Miram Shah to equip refugees eager to join the attack," said a spokesman of Sayed Ahmed Gailani's Islamic National Front. The path from Miram Shah was crowded with mujahidin determined to force their way into Khowst.

Three tanks and a column of Afghan Government vehicles had been knocked out, he said, and firing around Khowst, a town of 50,000, could be heard in Miram Shah, several hours' walk distant.

Another goal of the offensive was for the Jaji and Mengal tribes to recover the rich farmland around Khowst that they gradually abandoned as they took refuge in camps around Miram Shah.

Observers noted it would be as difficult for the mujahidin to attack strong concentrations of Soviet troops as it is for the latter to maintain lasting control in Paktia's mountains.

AFP: REBELS HANG LOCAL COMMUNIST OFFICIAL

BK251703 Hong Kong AFP in English 1658 GMT 25 Apr 82

[Text] Islamabad, April 25 (AFP) -- Afghan guerrillas hanged a local communist leader in Basawal area of Nangarhar Province, eastern Afghanistan, last week, a spokesman of the Hezb-e Eslami resistance group reported from Peshawar today.

The official, named as Zar Shah, was seized by guerrillas of the group from a bus near Basawal on the Jalalabad-Peshawar highway, the spokesman said.

After a summary trial he was hanged and his body was later found by government troops and was given a ceremonial burial, the spokesman said.

"Some Soviet officers also attended the funeral", he said.

Last month the resistance group executed a top Soviet adviser, M.Y. Okrimyuk, 68, whom they had been holding for seven months.

RAO CALLS FOR TROOP WITHDRAWAL FROM KAMPUCHEA

BK241219 Hong Kong AFP in English 1648 GMT 23 Apr 82

[Text] New Delhi, 23 Apr (AFP) -- India today stressed the need for relieving the buildup of tension in Southeast Asia by calling for a comprehensive political settlement of the Kampuchean problem, envisaging the withdrawal of all foreign troops from that country and ensuring its sovereignty, independence and territorial integrity.

Foreign Minister Narasimha Rao said the 1981 Nonaligned Foreign Ministers' Conference here had agreed that such a political solution was needed. A settlement like this could serve as a starting point for de-escalating tension in the region and for negotiations between the countries involved, he said, inaugurating the Indian centre for studies in Indochina.

He said that this de-escalation was necessary as "attempts were being made to intensify the civil war in the region by foreign intervention and competitive activities of the great powers."

He said India was anxious to restore peace, stability and security to Southeast Asia and in addition it strongly defended the Indian recognition of Kampuchea.

Mr. Rao said the recent exchange of visits between regional leaders and India had helped to develop cooperation in different fields between India and the region. Through these exchanges "we have tried to share our technology developed over the years with the countries of Indochina."

He suggested similar exchanges between the countries of South Asia to their mutual benefit.

On his recent visit to Vietnam, Mr. Rao said, the two countries had then resolved to work together to strengthen bilateral ties in a systematic way by identifying new areas of cooperation and that an Indian delegation, which had since toured that country, had prepared a detailed strategy for sharing of technology and other resources.

He also called for increasing cultural exchanges between the peoples of the region and India so that they could benefit from the richness of each other's civilisation.

ANOTHER ROUND OF TALKS HELD WITH ALGERIA

BK241401 Delhi General Overseas Service in English 1330 GMT 24 Apr 82

[Text] It has been decided to reactivate the Indo-Algerian planning group. It is expected to meet in New Delhi before June. The All-India Radio correspondent reports that the group will assist Algeria in the planning process. It will also help in drawing up a long-term plan for economic cooperation between the two countries. The decision to reactivate the group is one of the results of the current talks between India and Algeria.

Visiting Algerian President Chadli Bendjedid had another round of talks with Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi in New Delhi today. The discussion lasted about 1 hour. No aides were present.

Foreign ministers of the two countries Narasimha Rao and Ben Yahia also had a meeting. Our correspondent reports that the Iran-Iraq war again figured in the discussion. They are also understood to have talked about the Afghanistan situation as well as the developments in the subcontinent and in the Gulf region.

Our correspondent understands that two documents will be issued tomorrow at the end of the Algerian president's visit. Interestingly, while the joint communique will deal with international and regional matters, there will be a joint statement on the development of economic cooperation.

Communique Issued

BK240810 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0730 GMT 25 Apr 82

[Text] India and Algeria have strongly deplored the strengthening of the military base at Diego Garcia and the increasing escalation of the superpower military presence in the Indian Ocean region. The two countries have agreed on the need to intensify speedy implementation of the UN resolution declaring Indian Ocean a zone of peace.

They said intensified military activities in the Indian Ocean and further acquisition of facilities and strengthening of Diego Garcia base can lead to new conflict.

In a joint communique issued in New Delhi today at the end of the 4-day visit to India of Algerian President Chadli Bendjedid, the two sides called for a global policy on detente and relaxation of international tension. It said the nonaligned remained the only alternative to the present global crisis and stressed that the nonbloc character of the movement is more than ever essential and a responsible element in the international life.

The two sides expressed the desire to continue to make all efforts for the success of the seventh nonaligned summit scheduled for September this year in Baghdad.

During the discussions between Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi and Algerian President Chadli Bendjedid, the two sides reviewed the situation in West Asia, Southern Africa and the Western Sahara.

India and Algeria have agreed to pursue vigorously their bilateral economic cooperation. The joint statement issued at the end of the visit of Algerian President Chadli Bendjedid said India has agreed to meet the Algerian request for assistance in the fields of scientific research, industry, hydraulics, industrial infrastructures, agriculture, higher education and health. Particular emphasis was placed by both countries on promotion of cooperation in the field of engineering, considered by the two sides as a major sector for transfer of technology. The two sides also called for urgent measures for greater South-South cooperation to combat the new difficulties created by the reluctance of developed nations to transfer technology to the developing countries.

Algerian President Chadli Bendjedid left New Delhi this morning for Beijing at the conclusion of his 4-day state visit to India. He was seen off at the airport by President Sanjiva Reddy, Prime Minister Mrs Indira Gandhi, her Cabinet collegaues, senior officials and members of the diplomatic corps.

President Sanjiva Reddy and Prime Minister Mrs Indira Gandhi have accepted invitations to visit Algeria. The invitations were extended by President of Algeria Chadli Bendjedid.

MUSAVI PRESS CONFERENCE ON FOREIGN, DOMESTIC ISSUES

LD252056 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 25 Apr 82

[Excerpts] [question indistinct]

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. This matter has various dimensions. Of course, matters relating to various dimensions of the plot have been made available by the brother officials particularly concerned as well as by various strata of the nation. As you know, the issue has a political dimension as well as being related to the issue of the sources of imitation and the question of the clergy. I would like to make some remarks on both these matters.

The political-military plot, as has been mentioned by the esteemed speaker of the Majlis, was an extremely shaky plot -- an extremely childish plot with very primitive plans. The reason behind this plot must be sought in the plotters' lack of appreciation of our nation and our people and of the power of the people's determination for a better life. If we look at the overall picture of the matter we will realize that they have not learned about the might of Islam. Not only this plot but even a much more extensive plot hatched by them would have certainly been defeated, thanks to the attitude of our people and to God's benediction.

The point concerning the clergy and sources of imitation lies in the fact that we should separate the institution. This applies to all institutions in principle. Institutions are always independent of individuals. You can, for example, look at the administrative institutions, to the educational institutions and to the institutions that came about following the revolution.

When we speak about individuals we are not referring to institutions. Naturally, what is raised in connection with Shari'atmadari is a case in point. What is a source of regret with regard to Shari'atmadari, and what has caused the superpowers to invest heavily in this matter, is the fact that there is a pure, sincere and religious affection between our people and the sources of imitation. This is a heartfelt affection, divorced from material considerations.

If we look at the power of this affection and this spiritual power during the revolution we will realize the great role this has among our nation. It is natural for the superpowers to be aware of this fact. They know full well about this from the example of the tobacco import concession [reference to turn-of-the-century opposition by the mullahs to granting tobacco import concession to a British businessman] and other even more important, more significant examples of this in the course of our revolution.

If there should be a deviant person in such a situation among the clergy it would be natural that their attention would be focused on the matter. This is why Bakhtiar should be complaining in Paris about Shari'atmadari being insulted, and so on and so forth. That is why Amini, the devotees of America, the devotees of Israel and all the imperialist radios raise their voice in protest. They knew what a great base they are losing in this regard, and what is being exposed. This, too, is one of the miracles of our revolution. It proves that the course of truth is deeply rooted in our society.

In connection with Shari'atmadari, the superpowers were relying on yet another matter which I think would be useful to mention here. They were under the impression that the Azarbayjanis regarded him as a source of imitation, attributing a nationalist dimension to this. They thought his following was based on feelings of nationalism. But, of course, they did not know the truth because they are blind and ignorant about matters.

They do not realize that among our nation the matter of belief in religious authorities and the matter of Islam have always subordinated and overcome the issue of nationalism. That is why no Shirazi, Tehrani or citizen of other cities would follow the religious ruling of a person merely because he comes from the same city.

[Question] Mr Musavi, recently we have witnessed a range of friendly ties and trade accords between Iran and other countries. Could you give us your views on this and on the overall policy that Iran is pursuing in this regard?

[Answer] In order to answer this question several other questions should be answered. One of them is whether the wheat, the sugar and the food we import should be imported from Canada, Britain or France, or from a Third World country. Further, would it be better to import such things from a Muslim Third World country or from a non-Muslim country. The answer is that the more we divert our trade and economic ties away from the big powers and channel them through the Third World countries, the greater the benefit to these nations and to our nation. It would also help us to break our economic dependence on the superpowers and big powers.

[Question] Mr Musavi, my (?next) question is about the war. These days the Western press -- especially the American press -- has started printing facts about the war. But, when reading the articles by Western reporters, one sees that they are creating fear of Iran's power among the countries of the region, such as the shaykhdoms in the Persian Gulf. Do you not think that the creation of fear is a policy being followed by the Westerners [words indistinct]?

[Answer] I have spoken on this subject before. The (?fears) that they are talking about are in fact America's fears about the issue -- the fears of the superpowers and the fears of the Western powers of these victories, because this victory would strongly endanger the interests of the West in the region and turn Islam into a great and determining power on the international scene. It is natural for them to try to create this fear among small countries around Iran in order to (?reverse) the atmosphere for Iran's decisive victory and prevent it. [sentence as heard] But, we have repeatedly and formally declared that we have no enmity toward small countries [words indistinct]. I said during my speech on [date indistinct] that these countries and the governments ruling them should fear America, not us.

One point I should make here: Those countries that are helping Iraq should know that our government has an accurate account of all their help to Iraq. One day they will -- and should -- be answerable to our nation and all the Muslim nations in the region, and to their own nations, for the great deal of help -- be it financial or arms -- they have given Iraq. We cannot close our eyes to those ships that are unloaded in Kuwaiti ports, (?the weapons from which) are loaded onto trucks bound for Iraq by way of unknown routes. One day Kuwait will be answerable for this. We have repeatedly told that country that Iraq's danger to you is great: It covets the Bubiyan Islands; it wants to rule over you. Our government is prepared to support you; there is no reason why you should fear. There is no reason why you should fear Saddam's regime; do not fear the [word indistinct] of Saddam's regime inside your country. But, unfortunately, we see that they are entwining their fate with that of Saddam's, and that is not be in the interests of those countries.

[Question] My (?next) question is about the delegation that [words indistinct] this afternoon; the North Korean premier, heading a high-ranking delegation, is coming to Tehran. Would you tell us your (?views) on this visit and [words indistinct]?

[Answer] From the outset of the war, we had dealings with a few countries who -- in spite of the general atmosphere that was created throughout the world -- supported us in this war with [words indistinct] policies. Their number is less than a handful.

One of these countries is North Korea, which has a relatively [word indistinct] policy among the Eastern bloc countries, and who took a decisive stance regarding the issue of the war imposed by Iraq on Iran, to such an extent that relations between Iraq and that country were severed [words indistinct] because of North Korea's relations with us.

[Answer] We have always welcomed [words indistinct], to sincerely show them our wish for the reestablishment of peace in the region and to show that it is the great powers and Saddam's regime who do not want peace, and to show that our nation has suffered an injustice, that it is our country that has been aggressed against, that it is our lands that are in the hands of the aggressive regime of Saddam. This is the result of all the comings and goings, in our view. [sentence as heard] The conditions that we put forward have not changed [words indistinct].

[Question] [Words indistinct] said they intend to divert our nation's attention away from the issue of the war against the aggressive and pagan Ba'thist regime [words indistinct]. Would your please tell us your views on this matter?

[Answer] In fact, although we have not had a military presence on the borders of occupied Palestine, our revolutionary system has dealt the biggest blows possible at the Zionist regime from a political viewpoint, from the point of view of neutralising Zionist and imperialist plots in the region. That is, from the beginning our revolution has helped the Palestinian nation and all the Islamic world to continue the struggle against Zionism. Our uncompromising foreign policy concerning Israel is (?in the form of) assistance by us in connection with Zionism. [passage indistinct] As we have said before, under the present circumstances we are prepared to place our military forces alongside all the Syrian, southern Lebanese and Palestinian combatants to fight against the Zionist regime. As soon as the slightest opportunity is given to us, our combatants [words indistinct] will definitely take part in this war.

[Answer] Well, the American activities inside the country are speedly supressed and eliminated. All these are indicative of the firm establishment of the Islamic Republic in our country. Meanwhile, there have been other developments in this respect last week. Of course, the first and the most important one was that relating to the issue of Mr Qotbzadeh and Mr Shari'atmadari. As the chief of the military tribunal said, the elimination of this base was very important. If you carefully examine the confessions revealed by the papers in this respect, you will realize the important role played by Mr Shari'atmadari. [Words indistinct] in connection with the freeing of Baneh-Sar Dasht road which can be described as a great victory for our combatant forces.

You should realize that following the victory of our forces in Dezful, the Western media started to speak of victories achieved by leftist groups and the Kurdish Democratic Party [KDP]. Abdorrahman Qasemlu went to Paris and held press conferences stating that Kordestan was on the verge of becoming liberated, etc.

In order to emphasize the importance of the issue, I should also mention that Qasemlu is allied to Bani-Sadr and Rajavi's so-called national resistance movement. His association with this movement now proves the claims put forward a long time ago by the Iranian press concerning Qasemlu's link with Bani-Sadr. Simultaneously with Qasemlu's claims, we destroyed the counterrevolution's most important fortification in Kordestan: the recapturing of Baneh-Sar Dasht road which for a long time had been under the KDP's control. And our forces are now stationed in the most strategic points in Kordestan. It is natural that following this development, and the fact that our Kurdish brothers were able to get rid of these criminals, they can now participate in the task of reconstructing the country along with the rest of the nation.

The third issue is one which has been like an old wound in [word indistinct]. That is the issue of the tribal chieftains among the oppressed Muslim people of Qashqa'i. A number of chieftains were still dreaming of the past within their boundaries. We advised these chieftains and told them of the futility of the path they had been pursuing. They thought the country was at war and [words indistinct] and had set up resistance camps. Whenever we spoke to them they claimed to have in their possession ordinary arms, used for hunting game. We told them you do not need a camp equipped with mortars to hunt game.

Finally, it was decided to get rid of this infectious nest. The gentlemen were warned. We pursued the same policy and principles of our school of thought. We offered them safe-conduct. We told them of our information that there were people in their camp [word indistinct] who should be tried in accordance with religious laws. Those who are innocent should surrender their arms and follow their usual way of life, because RPG-7's belong to the armed forces. We gave them safe-conduct, simultaneously with a warning.

Those brothers who had gone to convey the safe-conduct and to deliver our warning told them the Qashqa'i tribal chiefs that it would be in the interest of the country and their own interest as well to stop. When the envoys finished speaking, the sprayed our envoys with bullets, injuring one, arresting the other and one fled. The one arrested may by now have been martyred.

Following this, our forces kept their promise and respected the few hours they had been given to surrender, in spite of heavy fire mounted by the tribesmen. Later, our forces launched their attack and now I can say that the issue of tribal chieftains has ended forever in Shiraz.

This is a warning to all the rebels. If they act against the law, the law will break their necks and the government under no circumstances will tolerate any misconduct and disrespect of the law in any part of the country. We continue with our policy of advising first and if ignored will use force to suppress any move and action against the law. All of us are free within the framework of the law, within the religious law and the Koran's directives. There is no reason for centers of power and a central government. A government elected by the people and promoted on the basis of Islamic concepts does not have centralization and no one can take the law into his own hands. There is law for everyone and every group's activities. Whoever acts within the framework of the law is free to carry out whatever he wishes, and whoever wants to oppose the law and to stand against the regime will be severely suppressed.

The two events which took place last week, one in relation to the so-called coup plot [words indistinct] proves our people's determination to firmly counter such events. This also shows that at the time when we are engaged in a serious war on our southern and western frontiers we have such might to suppress any conspiracy anywhere in our country, with the blessing of God and the support of the people and their presence on the scene.

Further Details

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, this morning Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi held a press conference, which was attended by domestic journalists, and answered their questions on various issues.

In reply to the question put to him by one of the newsmen: What is your opinion on the conspiracy which was hatched by the foreigners and elaborated by Qotbzadeh? Mr Musavi said: The plan hatched by Qotbzadeh and his fellow conspirators was very infantile. If we ignore the childish aspects of this treacherous plot, what surprises me is how Qotbzadeh was sure that he could rule over the people if he succeeded in implementing his shabby aims. The nation has recognized the faces of people like him and is aware of the issues relating to aliens and non-Islamic issues.

When a nation which has risen up for the sake of values finds these lofty values crystallized in a person, it follows him; but when it finds inhuman values in a person, even if this person is clad in a holy clerical robe, the nation rejects him and pushes him from the scene forever.

We must separate the issue of the clerical institution from individual clergymen. The clergy is a firm and resistive fortress against colonialism. In this matter our nation is faced with a few deviationist pseudoclergymen, not with the clerical institution, and Shari'atmadari and his followers are of such a kind. A clergyman who gives in to his whims and wishes naturally lacks the aims of the clerical institution and must be dealt with as a deviationist.

To sum up the issue in a word, the clerical institution cannot move toward the American policies and cannot be a (?pulpit) for notorious individuals and for bankrupt issues, both before and after the revolution; but Shari'atmadari and people like him can.

I have listened to a recording of this person's speeches and I am sorry for those who used to follow him, because I know hundreds of my acquaintances who used to follow him with love and enthusiasm, because they considered him a religious leader. They also became emotionally involved with their religious leader.

I remember after the death of Ayatollah Borujerdi, whenever I went to the house of a fellow citizen of mine, I saw the portrait of this person on one side and the portrait of the imam on the other; but when a person, in any position, does not respond properly to the people's trust and religious feelings, that enthusiasm is replaced not only by indifference but also by revulsion.

People cannot sit back and see Islam and the believers being played with. They do not want to see their support for Islam being used as a ladder for somebody's advancement. People may forgive a hat-wearing man who has deviated from the path of virtue but they do not forgive a clergyman who is wearing a robe of the prophet of God. What matters to the people is Islam.

In Tabriz, at school and at home they used to ask us: Why do you like the great prophet? We used to answer: For the sake of God; that is, our love for the beloved and great prophet, for perfect and innocent man, originated from devotion to God and it still does.

Of course, America and its servants think the opposite. They think that they can still create a crisis in the country by relying on blasphemous nationalist and ethnic motives; but if our Muslim nation, including our Azarbayjani brothers and sisters, follows a religious leader, it is not because he is their fellow citizen. This American thought is exactly like the opinion of those Orientialist spies who say that the Iranians became Shi'ites because the mother of the fourth imam was the eldest daughter of Yazdgerd III, who was Iranian; that is, they raise the reactionary issue of nationalism for any movement. Now, judgment is left to the people themselves.

Anyway, everybody has his own recollections about the Shari'atmadari case. Further to what has been said so far -- and will certainly be talked about more in the future -- when I was in charge of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs I saw onerous documents in the secret archives of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs about him, upon which I can testify, including when, in the middle of the revolution and the rise of the people's Islamic movement, the envoy of the city of Marrakesh, with the Iranian ambassador in Iraq as a go-between, came to see him. Well, a person who sees this document will, if nothing else, wonder what business can Shah Hassan [of Morocco] have with a Shi'ite leader? Unless we imagine Shah Hassan is a person who wants to offer him his religious tax.

In reply to a question concerning the fact that a Kuwaiti newspaper article said that the sheykhdoms are reviewing an increase in financial aid to Iraq, Mr Musavi said: I have said before that Saddam's criminal regime is in its last days and that aid such as is given by Jordan and, primarily, America, cannot save this dying patient.

Regarding the sheykhdoms, I hope that this news is not true; we do not wish to see the destiny of these rulers, whose subjects number less than the population of one of our provinces, linked with Saddam's destiny. I do not know what will happen if one day we tell the people the statistics on the aid given by Kuwait to the dependent regime ruling Iraq.

Regarding the holding of the nonaligned conference in Baghdad, considering the present situation and the breach of the principles of nonalignment by Iraq, Mr Musavi said: We hope that the war will have finished by then, otherwise Baghdad will not be a suitable venue for this conference and there will not be any security for the conference there. If the war continues until then, and if they still insist on holding the conference in Baghdad, the Nonaligned Movement will face a great defeat in its history from which it will be unable to recover. In my opinion the gathering of the nonaligned heads of state in Baghdad is equivalent to the destruction of many of the Nonaligned Movements ideas.

In reply to the question: Some of the nonaligned countries have suggested that if the war continues until then a temporary cease-fire should be declared for the holding of the conference, what is your opinion on this? He said: As long as one inch of our country's territory is in the hands of the Saddamist invaders and as long as the Iraqi regime does not give in to our just conditions there can be no cease-fire.

In reply to the question: Will the Iraqi Goverment be able to pay for the damages to Iran? Mr Musavi said: The spiritual losses inflicted upon us by the aggression cannot be regained, but regarding material losses we know that the Saddamist regime is in poverty but it is not only Saddam who fights against us; those who can afford to place billions of dollars at Saddam's disposal can afford to pay for the war damages, inflicted with their own encouragement. I am sure that they can calculate well and know that nobody can joke with our country and nation.

DEVELOPMENTS CONCERNING SHARI'ATMADARI

Council of Guardians Spokesman

LD232120 Tehran IRNA in English 1955 GMT 23 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 23 Apr (IRNA) -- The spokesman of the Council of Guardians, Ayatollah Khazali, said in Tehran today that Shari'atmadari, now under charges of treason and subversive activities, had been in close contact with SAVAK, the secret police of the past regime. Ayatollah Khazali said that once during the past regime he had been to the house of Shari'atmadari, telling him that the ulema had been ready for a decisive struggle against the former regime. He said on the next day he was arrested by SAVAK and detained for two days, and realised later that Shari'atmadari had been in contact with SAVAK.

The ayatollah also cited other experiences of the ulema with Shari'atmadari, which indicated the latter's thoroughly conservative approach to the past (?regime). The spokesman of the Council said that during the past regime Imam Khomeyni persistently denied requests by the agents of the past regime for private meetings with him, on the principle that he did not ever have any private or personal matters to discuss with any official; while on the other side, Shari'atmadari would always willingly welcome private meetings with them.

He said in the wake of the bloody encounter between Muslim strugglers and the ex-shah's forces on June 5, 1963, and Iraqi Muslim leader, Ayatollah Hakim, had sent a cable of sympathy to the Iranian ulema, while the past regime immediately threatened the ulema in Iran against responding to the cable. Khazali said Mr Shari'atmadari had cowered before the agents of the past regime and refused to reply to the cable while Imam Khomeyni immediately responded to the cable in defiance of the then ruling regime.

He also noted that many times during the hectic days of the Islamic revolution, members of the ulema had urged Shari'atmadari to publish announcements and communiques in protest against the killing of Muslim strugglers by men of the ex-shah throughout the country or on other occasions marking the martyrdom of other strugglers, and that invariably every time he had shunned this task, and thereby endorsed the mass killings and the tyranny of the past regime.

He said Shari'atmadari had been deceived about factual trends in the country because he always "preferred to stay indoors, and shun any meeting with revolutionary people." He said as a result of his mininformation he had formed a mudjudgment which eventually prompted him into uniting with subversive elements.

KEYHAN Publishes Evidence

[Text] Tehran, 24 Apr (IRNA) -- "I wish that his imperial majesty (the ex-shah) would show more patience and tolerance against these difficulties." This statement has not been made by the U.S. ambassador to Iran. It is rather a quotation from a person who had masqueraded as a religious authority (marja') of the world's Shi'a Muslims, for many years and who, according to the Majlis Speaker Rafsanjani, had treatises too. Seyyed Kazem Shari'atmadari, on Sept 23rd, 1978, in a meeting with General Moqaddam, the chief of SAVAK, the ex-shah's intelligence organisation, and at a time when the 36 million Muslims of Iran were strongly calling for the downfall of the corrupt Pahlavi regime in Iran, is quoted as saying "I wish that his imperial majesty..."

According to a document printed in today's issue of the evening Persian daily KEYHAN, the political-religious stands of a person is disclosed, who seemed to have heard none of the voices of this 36 million Muslim nation. Only less than two weeks since the bloody massacre in Tehran's downtown Shohada (Martyrs) Square of the Muslim people of Tehran (by the ex-shah's security forces), the one time ayatollah advises the shah and his prime minister thus: "The declaration of the martial law was a useful and valuable measure and should remain in force. I explicitly announce and want that his imperial majesty and the premier be informed that it would be better for them to prolong the period of the martial law as much as possible..."

What about Shari-atmadari's reception of the ex-shah's envoy and the chief of the shah's security organisation? Was he forced to receive the SAVAK chief? The following phrase has been taken from a report by the SAVAK:

"Ayatollah Shari'atmadari very sincerely and open-facedly did not hide his pleasure over the meeting. Also he has a pro-regime stand..."

And here in the following columns you will read some other statements made by Shari'atmadari, taken from "secret" SAVAK documents:

"I told the representatives of King Hassan that all my efforts were to preserve the position of monarchy."

"One of the bases of opposition to the monarchical regime is An-Najaf, which I am hundred percent against this base." (An-Najaf is a leading centre of Shi'a religious learning).

"It is said that Khomeyni and I have one difference. I say yes, he is against the shah while I am not..."

And finally, his view about the release of political prisoners who fought against the ex-shah's regime:

"I do not believe that all of the prisoners should be released. Release those who you are sure that they would not make instigations after release..." And he immediately stressed that "do not release those particularly, who are against the monarch..."

U.S. Embassy Documents

[Text] Tehran, 24 Apr (IRNA) -- In the aftermath of the disclosure of Kazem Shari'atmadari's participation in the Qotbzadeh coup plot foiled recently, and also after the request of the Majlis speaker in yesterday's Friday prayers to the Muslim students following the line of Imam Khomeyni, to publish any documents on Shari'atmadari, the daily ETTELA'AT printed in its Sat. April 24th, issue some documents which were already printed in book 3 of the documents of the U.S. den of espionage obtained by the students.

In the first document, dated September 1st, 1979, Shari'atmadari said to the U.S. Embassy officer that Iran needed U.S. help to counter the Soviet threat and hoped for the betterment of the U.S.-Iran relations based on mutual respect. In the meeting, the U.S. officer noted that Shari'atmadari was glad to see a representative of the U.S. Government. In another meeting between Shari'atmadari and then U.S. Ambassador to Iran Sullivan, the former hoped that the U.S. would not interpret the works of Revolutionary Courts as signs of true Islam and Iran's anti-U.S. feelings as the feeling of all the Iranian population of Iran. That meeting took place on Jan. 10th, 1979. He further called on the U.S. to take advantage of opportunities to improve bilateral relations. On the whole, meeting Shari'atmadari at that time, was part of a carefully formulated plan to deviate the Islamic revolution of Iran from its steadfastness towards a path which paid service to U.S.-led imperialism.

Shari'atmadari Denies Link

GF231400 (Clandestine) Radio Iran in Persian to Iran 1330 GMT 21 Apr 82

[Text] Ayatollah Shari'atmadari, who is one of the stubborn opponents of Khomeyni, has denied any links with Qotbzadeh. Hassan Shari'atmadari, the son of Ayatollah Shari'atmadari, in a telephone contact with correspondents today, said: Mahdi Mahdavi-Kani, who is one of Qotbzadeh's friends, and who had a hand in the attempted coup, asked my father for his support. But my father rejected the request and told him that idea of attempting a coup is neither practical nor useful.

Shari'atmadari on Charges

NC241320 (Clandestine) Voice of Iran in Persian 1805 GMT 23 Apr 82

[Text] Ayatollah Kazem Shari'atmadari has issued a statement strongly refuting all the accusations by Khomeyni's regime against him. In his statement Ayatollah Shari'atmadari stated: I strongly refute all the accusations that have been made against me and state that all the claims made by Sadeq Qotbzadeh, the deputies of the Majlis and the clergymen are baseless. (?These people) have removed all my possibilities for self-defense because of the absence of freedom of speech.

The text of this statement was placed at the disposal of world news agencies by Hassan Shari'atmadari, the son of (?Ayatollah Shari'atmadari). It should be noted that since the commencement of attacks against Ayatollah Shari'atmadari this is the second statement he has issued in rejecting the accusations against him.

Contradications Cited

LD252216 Tehran IRNA in English 2007 GMT 25 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 25 Apr (IRNA) -- The prosecutor general of the Islamic Revolutionary Courts, Hojjat ol-Eslam Musavi-Tabrizi said in Tehran today that Kazem Shari'atmadari had claimed that he had found the subversion scheme impractical and that therefore he had not believed what he had heard in relations with the scheme.

He had also said that he was not sure if the plotters really meant to implement the subversion scheme. He said the disreputed ayatollah had repeatedly contradicted himself in connection with his relation with the plot. He quoted Shari'atmadari as saying at one point that he had not divulged the plot since he thought if he had, certain innocent people might be unduly arrested.

Elsewhere he said Shari'atmadari had declared that he did not recognise it as a "religious obligation" to report the plotters, whereas still elsewhere he had said that he meant to divugle the plot but that he had not found an opportunity to do so. Musavi-Tabrizi also related incidents in connection with the attachment of Shari'atmadari to the person of the ex-shah and his regime in Iran and, citing sporadic episodes of Shari'atmadari's past life which showed his sympathetic attitude to the past regime as against the uncompromising and decisive stand of Imam Khomeyni, said that Shari'atmadari had been somehow involved in many riots against the Islamic state.

He said Shari'atmadari had claimed that he had not believed in the seriousnessess of the plotters since in his opinion the scheme was "very silly," whereas in point of act all available documents clearly showed he had endorsed the scheme. The Islamic Revolutionary Court official scoffed at this week's commentaries and biased news coverage by certain foreign broadcasts such as Radio Israel and the Voice of America and also its external Persian language service as insinuations aimed at underming the Islamic government. He said the status of "religious jurisprudence" is conferred on a member of the ulema in keeping with the canons of Islam and that when and if a religious scholar is judged unworthy of the rank bestowed on him it is the proper religious circles which are entrusted with the task of decision making and not non-Muslims, nor such sources as Radio Israel or the Voice of America.

The hojjat ol-Eslam indicated that a long time ago Kazem Shari'atmadari had requested to leave Iran and seek "a sanctuary among non-Muslims."

Asked elsewhere in the interview about the performance of the Islamic Revolutionary Courts he said the courts were rapidly processing all cases and that insofar as reports indicated, there was not one case in connection with subversive activists which was pending in the courts. He said counterrevolutionary activities had not been thoroughly arrested and that activists against the Islamic state were likely to continue with their "harrassing acts", but noted that the counterrevolutionaries would never grow to an organised current capable of overrunning the country.

He said already the sentences of 11,000 prisoners, convicted by the Islamic Revolutionary Courts; or other courts of justice, had been commuted, and that another 8,000 had been pardoned and released from prison. He said at least 3,000 of the group were members of outlawed political groups who had been either pardoned or whose sentences commuted upon Imam Khomeyni's order. He also noted that the majority of convicts had shown clear signs of moral and ethical improvement, and that many of them had talked to members of outlawed parties persuading them to renounce their former convictions. He said the literature and the public services of the convicts in prison well proved the success of the prisons in correcting the convicts and transforming them into capable and honourable citizens.

Rafsanjani Sermon

[Excerpts] The glorious religio-political ceremonies of Friday prayers were held all over the country today and millions of our Muslim compatriots took part. Today, just like other Fridays, Tehran University witnessed great masses of revolutionary people of Tehran who took part in the Friday prayers. This long-lasting Mohammedan tradition was held under the imamate of Hojjat ol-Eslam val-Moslemin Hashemi-Rafsanjani, the acting Friday imam of Tehran.

The acting Friday imam of Tehran, in the first prayers sermon, discussed social justice and economic affairs from the point of view of the Koran and Islam.

In connection with conspiracy to overthrow the Islamic Republic, the Friday imam of Tehran said: As far as I am aware, this matter could be classed as an act of terrorism not a coup d'etat. They had so few resources that they could not even capture a house with one guard in it. Several officers and several bankrupt politicians were thinking that they had military groups or an army at their disposal. They thought that a vast world of politicians and the nation was behind them. A triangle of a limited number of officers, bankrupt politicians -- who had failed the test badly -- and the rejected clergy formed such a weak composition that not even one shot was fired during their arrest. In my view the practical dimension of the issue was nil. We were aware 2-3 months ago and even long before that; and we did not think there was even 0.5-percent possibility that they might succeed in their preliminary work. Practically, they were nothing.

Referring to the fact that the superpowers with all their espionage and intelligence systems were not able to understand Iran, the acting Friday imam of Tehran said:

[Begin Hashemi-Rafsanjani recording] With the same calculations, they contacted individuals such as Shari'atmadari, Qotbzadeh, Manafeqi, Hejazi and others. I do not feel that I even want to talk about these individuals. Who the hell are they in society? What are they going to do? Let us suppose that we decide to leave the scene; do we all stand aside and say well, let these five of six gentlemen come and take over without any battle? Do we stand aside just like that? Can these gentlemen survive for even one day? Will the people tolerate them?

I swear to God, and this is a great oath, that Mr Khamene'i and myself were among several others who were trying to ignore Shari'atmadari. We attached no importance to this issue. We did not want to waste people's time to go and chant slogans. We regarded them as dead men. We thought it was not worth it for our youths to raise their voice against these individuals. [shouts of approval from the crowd]

Despite all our recommendations that it was not very necessary [unfinished sentence as heard] In the Majlis, the deputies confirm that I am very careful not to use the Majlis tribune for this issue, which I believe is very insignficant. Gentlemen were saying in Tabriz that the huge gathering of people in this city, the day before yesterday, was unprecedented since the start of the revolution. Well, this is the birthplace of Mr Shari'atmadari and everyone thought that he had somebody or some supporters in that city. If there was any hope for him it was there in Tabriz, not in a place like our Rafsanjan. With all these calculations, when we see such situations and things that people do in Ardabil and other places, still some individuals do not wake up. They are still sitting and thinking that there is something among these people which the enemies can exploit.

Well, I was not going to talk about this issue. I was going to say something else. The important thing that I woild like to mention is that we believe, in view of their wrong calculations, that the heart of the matter is something else. It was not what we said. Unfortunately, we were forced to talk a bit about the Shari'atmadari issue because we have to guide the people when they are excited. Otherwise, we would not have spoken about it. The Shari'atmadari issue is deep-rooted and is something other than what it appears to be.

Our friends have reported from Europe; they telephoned from Geneva yesterday and last night; they also phoned from Switzerland [as heard] and other places and said that this issue has been interpreted differently in the West. To the Western politicians, to Westerners, Mr Shari'atmadari's fall is more important than that of Bani-Sadr. Political and propaganda centers in the West behave as if they have received the coup de grace. The Westerners are like wounded wolves now and do not know what to do. They are extremely angry. [shouts of "God is the greatest"] Please, please gentlemen, keep quiet and permit me to continue.

The issue is clear to a person like me, who has been involved with various affairs for 20 years. In the den of espionage [U.S. Embassy in Tehran] there are some secrets which were not revealed in the past in order to safeguard the honor of the clergy. I ask the Muslim student followers of the imam's policy, to whom this revolution owes a great deal for their exposures, to place all their information at the disposal of the people now. I ask them to divulge everything, which probably -- no, certainly -- they have and which they refused to reveal in the past for sake of the clergy. [shouts of "God is the greatest"]

Keep quiet, wait, what are you shouting for? I am going to say a lot more things like this and if you decide to approve all of them with your slogan of "God is the greatest," then you will be talking more than I. In fact, you will be reading the sermon in this case! Wait until I finish, then you can say what you like.

There is an issue -- and the Muslim students will tell you the rest of it -- and that is during one of the stages Shari'atmadari asked America for some money to move against the Islamic Republic. The Americans wanted to know his plan first. They said they should see his program first before giving any money.

The remarks that our brother Mahdavi-Kani made during his previous speech about the separation of Azarbayjan, was one corner of the issue. You know that the strategy of our enemies, the Americans, was that after the shah's departure from Iran they had arranged a major attack against us through one of the neighboring countries; that was the Iraqi war. Before this, there was the problem of Azarbayjan and what happened there. In fact, they had a plan.

Well, these days you also see what is happening. For instance, last night the Qajar prince, Mr Amini [former prime minister under the shah] sent telegrams to the master of Jordan, King Husayn, King Hassan [or Morocco], King Khaled, Husni Mubarak and their ilk, asking them to save Iran. In his cables he said: With the removal of Mr Shari'atmadari, there is no hope left for the moderate strata.

This is not a small matter. Neither the Qajar prince, nor these gentlemen who received the telegrams, nor Shari'atmadari, none of them are the roots of this issue. The problem has a very deep and extensive root. Of course, I am not saying it correctly [as heard].

They, through some miscalculation, had thought that this gentleman had 7 million followers in Iran who would pour into the streets with one spark. Well, we saw some of the 7 million in Tabriz. We hope that the enemies will understand a little bit; but they will not understand. However, the issue has been like this and I call upon our brothers and sisters not to get too excited about this affair. The matter is deep, it shows the depth of the Islamic revolution; and this is unprecedented in world history and Shi'a history that a source of imitation ends up like this for standing against the people. A person who has published an epistle and has distributed it among the people, and a person who has invited people to pray by his religious verdict; people have said prayers with his verdict, they have got married, given donations, etc, etc; such a person has ended up like this. He has lost his esteem in people's hearts so easily. This is because of his challenge to God, the Koran and his standing against the blood of our martyrs.

This shows the greatness of the revolution. This shows the depth and value of the revolution to see that a person such as Shari'atmadari can end this way.

In the past we said that Shari'atmadari had such devoted friends that they would follow him even if he hoisted the flag of blasphemy. This interpretation was often made about him, meaning that his supporters were fanatical. Now he is begging and asking our guards to stand in front of his house to stop people pouring in to kill him.

This shows the value and depth of the revolution. You should attach importance to this issue only. Let others decide for themselves. [end recording]

Mahdavi-Kani Speech

LD231238 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 23 Apr 82

[Excerpts] Ayatollah Mahdavi-Kani made a speech prior to the Friday sermons in Tehran.

Ayatollah Mahdavi-Kani said: Two months before the victory of the revolution, when the imam was in Paris, I went to see one of these gentlemen [presumably Shari'atmadari] over an issue. He told me: As you are close to the imam take my message to him and tell him that we have reached a position that the imperial government has submitted to us and is saying that they will obey whatever we tell them.

He said: Moqaddam, the head of SAVAK, has telephoned me, saying: We are completely at your disposal and will obey whatever you order us to do. Therefore, what else do we wish to gain? Let Moqaddam remain at the head of SAVAK but be under our control. Let Hoveyda and Bakhtiar remain in their posts [as heard] but under our control. He said: We the clergy cannot govern. We do not have the capability of doing such things. Let them govern. In that case, we can claim all the good things they do but they will have all the blame for what goes wrong.

How naive and compromising could one be to be satisfied with this? Such a way of thinking, after the revolution, goes against the Islamic Republic and smacks of aspirations of leadership. Now he wishes to establish a true Islamic Republic.

Further on in his speech, Ayatollah Mahdavi-Kani said: One day, when I was received by the imam over the issue of Azarbayjan, I suggested that I go to Mr Shari'atmadari and persuade him to say that those who had occupied the radio and television station in Tabriz should leave the premises. The imam said: I have no faith in Shari'atmadari, but in order for you to be convinced of this go and talk to him. I went to see him. He said: The Friday imam of Tabriz, the late Ayatollah Madani, should be dismissed. He intended to remove someone who was confronting the counterrevolutionaries in Azarbayjan. This was a lesson which even Shari'atmadari did not know who was dictating it to him from behind the veil. He also said: Governor General Gharavi should be removed and should be replaced by Moqaddam Maraghe'i. Also, the [then] prosecutor of Tabriz, Mr Musavi, should also be dismissed. He also demanded that Fatemi [name as heard], who was also confronting the counterrevolutionaries, should be removed. The Guards Corps should also withdraw. We told him that if you wish the removal of the governor general, we might remove him for your sake. Then, it was decided that Shari'atmadari would go and write something to this effect.

Mr Mahdavi-Kani said: I do not wish to refer to the recent issue and this is something which should be judged by the court, deciding who is guilty and who is not guilty. You people also know your duty. However, I do urge you not to take excessive measures. What is important to me is that I should reveal Shari'atmadari's true features to all Muslims.

He went to a room and consulted his advisers, one of whom was Hassan, his son, who is a fugitive, and the other one was Jurabchi, who was executed. He came back and said: I have written something which I wish to read. Tell the radio and television to come. I also told the radio and television to come. He started to read: Both East and West Azarbayjan should be under my control and I should be in charge of appointing or dismissing all the officials.

We told him: Sir, we cannot agree to such a thing. Do you wish to separate Azarbayjan from Iran? Do we have two governments?

He replied: This is all I can do, and there will be nothing else.

Perhaps this gentleman was not himself aware of the real intentions of those who dictated this separation to him. They wished to set up a separate government in which there were no guards, Ayatollah Madani, brother Musavi, nor the governor general of the Islamic Republic, so that they could start an autonomous government there; and later destroy the foundations of the Islamic Republic. They wished to separate Azarbayjan from Islam and from the Islamic Republic. Azarbayjan has always been the head and the leading part of our country and which has been the forerunner in all the revolutions.

RAFSANJANI ON 'RIGHT TO BESIEGE BAGHDAD'

LD231744 Tehran IRNA in English 1553 GMT 23 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 23 Apr (IRNA) -- Majlis Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani today warned again that if Iran's terms for peace were not accepted by the Iraqi rulers, "we will give ourselves the right to besiege Baghdad."

Speaking to thousands of Muslim worshippers attending the Friday prayers in Tehran, Hojjat ol-Eslam Rafsanjani noted that the Islamic Republic, in any war victory it achieved, gave Saddam and the Iraqi rulers the opportunity to mediate. In other words, added the Majlis speaker, "we gave them the ultimatum, while at the same time we also welcomed any peace mediation."

Instead of taking advantage of these chances given to them by the Islamic Republic and thus surrendering to Iran's rightful stands, the Iraqis were thinking that Iran had some difficulty with the war, said Rafsanjani, who further added that "we do not want Iranian and Iraqi troops to be killed, and Saddam is lying when he says that he is seeking peace." Hojjat ol-Eslam Rafsanjani added that Saddam was seeking concessions to be given to him by the Islamic Republic, so that he could at least tell his nation that the war was not fruitless for Iraq. Another regrettable point which the Majlis speaker referred to in his sermons, was the concern of the peace missions for solving Saddam's future.

Continuing his remarks in this connection, the imam's representative on the Supreme Defence Council (SDC) said that if Saddam unconditionally withdrew from Iranian territory, withdrew his claims over the Arvand Rud waterway, received back the Iraqi deportees, and paid war reparations, then he would collapse, something which the Majlis speaker said Iran would not undertake [words indistinct]. The SDC spokesman, however, assured the Iraqi people that the Iranian Army would not enter Iraqi cities, and he further pointed out that the people of Iraq were the owners of their own revolution and thus should run their country themselves. Rafsanjani said that it would not be at all difficult for the Islamic combatants of Iran, who liberated 50 kms of Iranian lands by routing four Iraqi divisions, to advance some 200 kms more from Qasr-e Shirin (an occupied Iranian border town) to Baghdad. Nevertheless, said Rafsanjani, the Islamic Republic wanted to prove once again to the world its good intentions, by declaring that it did not aim at entering Iraqi territory to gain its rights, but instead preferred to be given these rights through the fulfillment of its terms for an honourable peace.

Hojjat ol-Eslam Rafsanjani also warned the Zionist regime and the U.S. not to try in vain, through pretensions, to dissuade the Islamic Republic from continuing the imposed war. He stressed that Iran had, indeed, the strength to fight both in the Iraqi imposed warfronts and in the battlefields of Palestine, against the Zionist usurper.

Rafsanjani emphasised that the danger of Saddam was not less than that of the Jerusalem-occupying regime, and said that both of them should be done away with. "Saddam is an Israel in the Persian Gulf, and Israel is a Saddam in the Middle East; and they should both be done away with so that the Muslim nations and Iran can enjoy tranquillity."

In conclusion of the Friday prayers in Tehran, the worshippers shouted slogans in condemnation of the recent Zionist air raid on Lebanon as well as the U.S. designs in Iran, including the recently foiled coup attempt, and asked for a speedy trial of the coup agents.

RAFSANJANI URGES ISRAEL'S EXPULSION FROM UN

LD251158 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 25 Apr 82

[Unidentified correspondent's report on 25 April Majlis session]

[Excerpt] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Today's open session of the Majlis began with recitations from the holy Koran and was chaired by Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani.

The speaker of the Islamic Majlis said: On behalf of the Islamic Majlis I congratulate the hidden imam, may God speed his coming, and the imam of the nation, the leader of the revolution, and all the revolutionary and Muslim people on the birthday of the fifth imam.

Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani then said: Today an issue is being discussed on the international level which I think can be a turning point in the sociopolitical history of the world. Obviously, the Islamic Majlis is bound to announce its stance in this respect.

This issue is the proposal put forward by the revolutionary country of Syria that the usurper Israel be thrown out of the United Nations. This is an important issue and all [words indistinct] and liberation seekers of the world should support this proposal.

The United States has threatened that if Israel leaves the United Nations then this organization will disintegrate. The Majlis speaker added: I do not know whether or not this threat will be fulfilled, but if it is fulfilled it will constitute another positive point in this struggle. It will still be an important development even if it is not fulfilled.

Today, there are enough votes against Israel, because of its refusal to heed UN ratifications, to force it to leave.

I hope to God the United States will fulfill this threat and this organization will disintegrate. If that were the case, the free nations of the world would get together and form an organization which would have no country acting as the guardian of others, a real union of nations. In that case we could be sure that there would be a place where the rights of nations could be restored and complaints of the free nations of the world could be heard.

If a country like the United States can veto the decision made by the United Nations, as you heard, to condemn the bombing of a small country like Lebanon by a usurping aggressor using 60 planes, nothing can be said for that organization and it has no value whatsoever.

Therefore, we deputies of the Islamic Majlis support the proposal put forward by the Syrian Government with all our hearts and we ask all the liberation movements of the world to stand by this fundamental proposal.

FOREIGN MINISTRY DENOUNCES U.S. 'THREAT' TO UN

GF251034 Abadan NIOC Radio in Arabic 0900 GMT 25 Apr 82

[Text] The Foreign Ministry of the Islamic Republic of Iran has announced that the continuing unjustified support offered by the United States to the Zionist entity is clear evidence of the U.S. subordination to international Zionism and to the Zionist wing ruling the United States.

This came in a statement issued by the Foreign Ministry following the U.S. announcement that it will stop all aid to the United Nations if the Zionist entity is expelled from the organization.

The statement of the Islamic Republic's Foreign Ministry added that by benefiting from the right to veto and by making threats, the United States has confirmed that it is in captivity and under the control of Zionism and that it possesses no intrinsic strength whatever. It is unable to commit itself to international law and is not even able to pretend to do so.

The statement stressed that this kind of support, which has become more obvious in recent days, and its relationship with the Zionist entity are evidence of the lack of U.S. logic in supporting the Zionist entity. They are also a clear indication of the dominance of the language of force in international relations, especially between the superpowers and oppressed nations and those states that have shown interest in the Palestinian problem and expressed opposition to the policies of the Zionist entity.

The statement of the Islamic Republic's Foreign Ministry added that such moves are generally in the interest of the oppressed for the following reasons:

1. U.S. hegemony in the United Nations indicates clearly how weak and ineffectual this organization is.

2. The United States appears weak and ineffectual before world public opinion because it is being dragged to such stands and being forced to disrespect human and legal norms.

The Foreign Ministry statement stressed that such stands will eventually result in the general uprising of all nations against the Zionist entity. The statement added that the Islamic nations, with the weapon of "There is no god but God" and with the help of divine power, can be optimistic that they will liberate Jerusalem, rescue the territories under Israeli domination from the wretched situation they are experiencing and hold prayers for all the Muslim nations in Jerusalem.

JOINT STAFF STATEMENT ON TABAS ANNIVERSARY

LD241236 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 24 Apr 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran has issued a statement marking the anniversary of the U.S. military attack on Tabas.

The statement says: The Tabas incident is a permanent reality of divine mercy and a reiteration of God's supreme power. The Tabas incident is a lesson to the world devourers, who even with the aid of the most sophisticated weapons and satanical guile, could not defeat the revolution which has come to this land through the grace of God and which daily expands and grows in strength. It will not be long before the decline and destruction of the arrogant forces in the world, particularly the criminal United States. It will not be long before the banner of monotheism will be carried aloft by the weak.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUES 864-866

864: 23 Apr Report

LD231738 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 23 Apr 82

[Communique 864 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Dear Muslim compatriots of Iran: The powerful and victorious combatants of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran opened fire on enemy positions on the southern fronts and, while maintaining their complete supremacy over the Saddamist forces, inflicted damages and casualties on the enemy and hindered its movements.

On the Abadan fronts, where an exchange of fire was going on, the gendarmerie warriors opened heavy-weapon fire and destroyed an 82-mm mortar and several weapons positions belonging to the enemy. In coordination with the fire of the ground forces' artillery, our warriors opened fire on the Al-Faw-Basrah supply route and disrupted the enemy's delivery activities. The city of Abadan came under the enemy's long-range artillery fire, which resulted in damages and casualties.

The combatants of the ground forces on the Salehabad front destroyed two artillery positions, several military vehicles and an ammunition depot and killed a number of Saddamist soldiers with artillery fire.

On the Sumar front, our forces destroyed several military [words indistinct] and killed some enemy soldiers.

In Sar-e Pol-e Zahab, our forces silenced the enemy fire and inflicted some damages on them.

On the Gilan-e Gharb front, the powerful combatants of the ground forces set fire to a fuel tanker belonging to the enemy and damaged a second one. Several supply and logistic points belonging to the Iraqi forces were also destroyed.

The gendarmerie warriors in the Shur-e Shirin region set fire to an enemy ammunition depot and destroyed it.

The combatants of the ground forces on the Paveh front opened fire on enemy positions around Toveyleh, Halabcheh and (Suskan) and succeeded in destroying several supply points and a command post of the Iraqi forces, controlled their supply route to several other areas and stopped enemy traffic along that road.

Yesterday the heroes of the antiaircraft units of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran foiled all enemy air incursions and forced the aircraft to flee.

865: 24 Apr Report

LD241742 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 24 Apr 82

[Communique 865 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Yesterday the combatants of the Ground Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran opened artillery fire on enemy positions in Sumar, destroying four vehicles and setting fire to a quantity of ammunition belonging to the aggressors.

In the Meymak region, our forces destroyed several enemy supply points. The courageous combatants of the Gendarmerie of the Islamic Republic of Iran opened fire on enemy positions and destroyed two observation posts and several combat units of the aggressors, killing and wounding a number of Iraqi soldiers in Band-e Kabud region.

On the Marvian fronts, exchanges of fire continued. Our forces fired on an enemy motorized column travelling on Biarreh road, stopping it and inflicting damages and losses.

In the (Hargineh) region, our artillery units' fire completely destroyed several military buildings, a number of heavy vehicles, a command post and a communication tower and killed a large number of the enemies of Islam. Moreover, the artillery and mortar fire of our forces on enemy positions in Toveyleh and (Hushni-y Bala) destroyed two command posts and several combat units of the Saddamists.

Yesterday, at one of the border points in the west, eight Iraqi Muslims reported to the officials of the Islamic Republic of Iran and asked for asylum. They were welcomed.

During the past 24 hours on most of the southern fronts our forces consolidated their positions, opened heavy-weapon fire on enemy units and carried out surprise attacks and patrol operations, inflicting damages and losses on enemy forces. The fire of our brave navy personnel on enemy positions in the occupied part of Khorramshahr and beyond Arvand Rud destroyed two trenches and two observation posts of Saddamist forces and killed a number of them.

Yesterday a few Iraqi planes violated the airspace of several southern and western towns and several operational locations. They were confronted with the antiaircraft fire and were forced to flee.

866: 25 Apr Report

LD251716 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 25 Apr 82

[Text] In His exalted name. Dear Muslim compatriots: With congratulations on the auspicious birthday of the fifth jewel of the imamate, His Excellency Imam Mohammad Baqer, peace be upon him, some of the operations and self-sacrifices of the combatants of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the conditions on the fronts of the battles between right and wrong are brought to your attention.

The combatants of the ground forces on the Salehabad, Sumar, Gilan-e Gharb and Sar-e Pol-e Zahab fronts brought enemy positions under artillery fire, destroying a number of supply points, five trucks and a number of the positions of the Iraqi forces. On each of the fronts a number of the Iraqi forces were killed or wounded. According to reports received, the number of enemy personnel killed on the Gilan-e Gharb front was more than 30.

On the Marivan front, all enemy movements and operations were controlled and brought under fire by our forces.

On the Ilam fronts, the gendarmerie combatants returned enemy fire and silenced it, destroying six supply points, three observation posts and one ammunition dump of the Saddamists. They also killed and wounded a number of enemy personnel.

Also, in the Band-e Kabud sector, they destroyed three enemy trenches together with their crews.

On the southern fronts, exchange of artillery and heavy-artillery fire of the Iranian Ground Forces disrupted enemy supply movements and traffic on the Al-Faw Basrah road and halted any form of enemy movement.

During exchanges of fire on the Abadan fronts, the gendarmerie combatants brought enemy positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud under fire, destroying four heavy-weapon emplacements and one ammunition dump and [words indistinct] a number of them.

Yesterday residential areas of Abadan came under enemy heavy-weapon fire. A number of houses were damaged and a number of our dear Abadani compatriots were martyred and wounded.

GUARDS CORPS REPORTS SUCCESSES IN KORDESTAN

LD252218 Tehran IRNA in English 2002 GMT 25 Apr 82

[Text] Bakhtaran, 25 Apr (IRNA) -- The 120-km-long Kamyaran-Marivan highway, as well as 22 villages along the highway (all in Kordestan Province), have been completely purged of counterrevolutionary elements, by Islamic revolutionary guards, in the course of a two-week operation.

IRNA reports from Gazor Khani, one of the liberated villages, which was until three nights ago under the occupation of armed counterrevolutionaries, indicated that considerable losses have been inflicted upon the outlaws. A number of vehicles, including four bulldozers and four army vehicles were seized from the armed bandits.

During the operation, the havaniruz (air support for the ground force) helicopters backed the revolutionary guards. Among the important heights purged of counterrevolutionaries during the operations, were Shirn Savar and Tihel Kuh, according to a revolutionary guard quoted by IRNA reporters.

In another development on Saturday, fifty armed insurgents were killed, 14 were taken captive and a number of others were wounded, when their positions in one of the areas of Kordestan came under the fire of the Islamic combatants.

Meanwhile, a group of counterrevolutionaries who intended to [word indistinct] the Kolteh bridge on the Baneh-Sar Dasht (in the west of the country) highway, were arrested, with some TNT and other explosives, and were handed over to authorities.

Baneh-Sar Dasht Axis 'Cleared'

[23 April statement issued by the Central Islamic Revolution Guards Corps Public Relations Office]

[Excerpt] The able army of Islam, consisting of valiants of the Islamic Republic of Iran Armed Forces, forces of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps -- both selfless guards and the corps' Mobilization combatants -- gendarmerie valiants and the Muslim revolutionary Kurds, has continued its operations in the west. Today it completely cleared all armed insurgents from the strategic Baneh-Sar Dasht axis, liberating this region which had been in the hands of counterrevolutionaries.

During these victorious operations, codenamed Answar Allah, which were conducted at 0400 today, combatants of Islam were stationed in the strategic heights of (Dar Savi) and (Jaturabi).

They managed to clear more than 32 villages in the Baneh-Sar Dasht region, killing or wounding at least 150 counterrevolutionaries. Thus, the 60-mile-long Baneh-Sar Dasht axis was liberated and placed under the control of Islamic forces. Arms and ammunition supplied to the counterrevolutionaries by the American Saddam and other world oppressor mercenary elements were seized.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

Egypt

Mubarak Speech -- Egypt adheres unswervingly to the goal of peace and intends to fulfill its obligations without retreat or vacillation, President Husni Mubarak said in a speech to the People's Assembly and the Consultative Council broadcast by Cairo radio. While Mubarak praised the Israeli people's enthusiasm for the peace process, he said the planning of Israeli settlements in Palestinian territory will lead to more tension and widen the gap between Israel and the Palestinians. Egypt looks forward to the resumption of the autonomy negotiations because the continuation of the present situation in the West Bank and Gaza serves the interests of no one, he said. Recent "bloody events" there and in Lebanon confirm the need to move quickly to enlarge the scope of peace so that ultimately Israel will conclude peace treaties with all its neighbors. Egypt does not aim to impose anything on the Palestinians, but rather seeks to provide them with more options so they do not feel their only choice is between the continuation of the occupation or the resort to desperate acts of violence. Noting that Egypt cannot accept the continuation of the Israeli occupation, Mubarak pointed out that an autonomous Palestinian authority would cancel the military government and civil administration in the West Bank and Gaza.

Regarding the dispute "which Israel has raised" over the border demarcation at Tabah, Mubarak said Egypt accepts no bargaining in this matter since it cannot relinquish an inch of its land and insists on restoring control and sovereignty over the disputed area.

Elsewhere in his remarks Mubarak praised late President Anwar as-Sadat, "the leader in war and the hero of peace," placing As-Sadat in the class of great national leaders alongside Sa'd Zaghlul and Jamal 'Abd an-Nasir. Describing himself as "enthusiastic about democracy," Mubarak said he opposes centralization of power and does not desire to monopolize decisionmaking. However, he criticized those who demand uncontrolled comprehensive revolutionary changes and said Egyptians should avoid "instigation." The government does not want to impose restrictions on freedom of opinion, he added, but wants to expand the area of dialogue, provided this serves the public interest.

Tabah Dispute -- A Foreign Ministry spokesman confirmed that Egypt and Israel have agreed on the method of settling their differences over the Tabah border, MENA reported. Confirming that Israel will withdraw from the disputed zone and that multinational force personnel will be stationed there, the spokesman said Israel will refrain from setting up any installations in the area until a final solution is reached, that the two sides will meet to determine the method of reconciliation or arbitration and that the United States will participate in these meetings at the request of both sides.

A Foreign Ministry official signed the agreement on behalf of Egypt, MENA noted.

Sinai Withdrawal Aftermath

Cables on Sinai Return -- Jordan's King Husayn offered "warm congratulations and sincere feelings of brotherhood" to Egypt on the return of Sinai, according to a cable from Husayn to President Mubarak broadcast by Cairo radio. Jordan appreciates Egypt's defense of its land, its sacrifices for the sake of Palestine and its support for Arab causes, Husayn added. Egypt's role will remain firm and solid for the return of the Palestinian people's rights and Egypt will remain in the forefront of every joint Arab action, he contended. In a reply cable to Husayn carried by Cairo radio, Mubarak expressed confidence that Jordan will participate with Egypt in defending the legitimate rights of the Palestinians, in seeking Palestinian control in the West Bank and Gaza, and in establishing a good example of coexistence and security in the area.

There is no doubt Egypt will combine all its human and material resources with that of its "Arab and Muslim sisters" so that the remainder of the occupied Arab homeland is liberated, Moroccan King Hassan II stated in a cable to Mubarak carried by MAP and MENA.

Arab Media Comment -- The price paid by Egypt and the Arab nation for the Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai will grow every day, according to a commentary by the WAFA political editor carried by the clandestine Voice of Palestine radio. The Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai will be replaced by an American presence there, the commentary continued. The Israeli withdrawal was also accompanied by the "political containment" of Egypt. Egypt is no longer free to turn its back on the United States, to resume relations with the Soviet Union or to resume its role in Africa, it added.

The "imaginary" withdrawal from the Sinai is the first step toward consolidating Israeli-U.S. military, economic and political domination over Egypt and other Arab countries, according to a Damascus radio commentary. The withdrawal will mobilize the "treasonous and capitulatory forces" in the region for the benefit of Israel and the United States. The Arabs, particularly those in Egypt, will not recognize this "false liberation" of the Sinai, the radio asserted.

Despite the fact that Arabs welcome the return of Arab territory, all indications are that there is no cause for optimism, Riyadh radio commented. Israel is trying to compensate for giving up the Sinai by annexing the West Bank and Gaza Strip. It is in the shadow of this equation that future changes may not be in the interests of the Arabs, the radio said.

Israel

West Bank Disturbances -- Two youths were shot during a clash with IDF soldiers in the Arab village of Al-Yamun, Jerusalem radio reported. One of the youths, who had been blocking the entrance to a school, was shot by the soldiers when he pulled out a knife; the other was caught in the crossfire. In Ramallah and Al-Birah security forces dispersed demonstrators who set tires on fire and hurled stones, the radio also noted.

Gaza Situation -- A curfew was imposed on the Israeli side of Rafah following disturbances and rioting by local youths, according to Jerusalem radio. The IDF soldiers fired shots into the air to disperse the demonstrators.

Lebanon

Israeli Troops -- Israel is replacing Maj Sa'd Haddad's militia forces with its own men in five border villages, the Voice of Palestine radio reported.

Islamic Official Killed -- The Islamic Associations and Establishments Chairman Shaykh Ahmad 'as-Saf was killed in Beirut by gunmen, Beirut radio noted.

Iran

The Friday prayer leader in Firuzabad was killed on 23 April during fighting between security forces and members of the Qashqa'i tribe, AFP reported citing the Fars Province governor. A total of 30 people were killed and 100 Qashqa'i tribesmen were arrested during the clashes according to AFP. Revolution guards sustained heavy casualties and were forced to retreat from the Firuzabad area following an attack on Qashqa'i tribesmen, the clandestine Free Voice of Iran reported.

KARMAL RECEIVES 'SUN OF FREEDOM' AWARD

[Excerpts] Because of the unlimited gratitude that the party, Government and people of Afghanistan have for Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and chairman of the DRA Revolutionary Council, as an indefatigable revolutionary and an outstanding humanitarian who has devoted most of his conscious and fruitful life to the aspirations of the party, people and revolution, the Order of the Sun of Freedom, the highest award of the DRA, was presented to him today. Nur Ahmad Nur, Politiburo member and secretary of the PDPA Central Committee, presented the award on behalf of the party, the Central Committee and the DRA Government.

[Begin Nur Ahmad Nur recording] Dear and beloved Comrade Babrak Karmal: Esteemed comrades of the PDPA Central Committee Politburo, the Revolutionary Council Presidium and the DRA Government have entrusted me with the extremely honorable task of presenting you, beloved Comrade Karmal, with the highest DRA award, the Order of the Sun of Freedom. This task gives me great pleasure. Allow me to convey to you the warm comradely feelings and profound respect that all of the comrades have for you. The presentation of this award is the manifestation of the great appreciation the people of Afghanistan, our party and our government have for your outstanding revolutionary services, your work and your relentless struggle for the prosperity and well-being of everyone in our society. You are well-known as a fervent patriot, a loyal internationalist and an indefatigable struggler in building a new society.

Allow me to read you the text of the DRA Revolutionary Council Presidium decree concerning the presentation of the Order of the Sun of Freedom:

DRA Revolutionary Council decree, Kabul, 21 April 1982, concerning the presentation of the Order of the Sun of Freedom to Comrade Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and chairman of the DRA Revolutionary Council.

In appreciation of the outstanding role of the development of the revolutionary movement in Afghanistan; the outstanding services for the PDPA and the Government of the DRA; the fruitful activity in strengthening the DRA's defensive powers and consolidating national independence, national sovereignty and territorial integrity; the development and strengthening of unity, brotherhood and solidarity of all nationalities, tribes and clans in the country, and the expansion of fraternal friendship and cooperation between the people of Afghanistan and other countries, the DRA Revolutionary Council Presidium approves the following:

The Order of the Sun of Freedom, the highest DRA decoration, is presented to Comrade Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and chairman of the DRA Revolutionary Council.

Dear Comrade Babrak Karmal, allow me to present you with the Order of the Sun of Freedom. [applause] [end recording]

[Begin Karmal recording] Very dear comrades: At this moment when you dear comrades have shown trust in me and have awarded me with the Order of the Sun of Freedom, my entire being feels a great responsibility to the party, people, revolution and homeland. I would like to thank you from the bottom of my heart for this great trust you have shown in me. With this feeling of great responsibility, I assure you that I will keep this great comradely trust -- which by itself is one of the signs of the unity of the party, government and free people of our beloved country, the revolutionary Afghanistan -- with all of the wisdom, honor and conscience in my power. [applause]

Dear comrades, it has been 4 years since the victory of the success of the glorious April Revolution, which opened a new chapter in the national democratic changes in the history of the people of our country, Afghanistan.

Despite problems we have been able to take firm steps during this time. Our party has developed and strengthened both qualitatively and quantitatively and its influence and authority have been enhanced among the masses of the people. New revolutionary sovereignty, which relies on the power of workers, has been consolidated throughout the country; great changes have occurred in the socioeconomic, political and cultural spheres.

It is worth mentioning that our victories would have certainly been greater if the internal and external counterrevolutionaries, who have brought unending suffering and problems to our people, had not begun their undeclared war. Despite resorting to subversive fighting and subversive political methods, the enemies of our revolution will not be able to drown and darken the sun of freedom over our historical land. [applause] Our victory in this just struggle is guaranteed by the unbreakable determination of our party and people to defend the freedom, independence and bright future of our beloved country, Afghanistan, and by the all-round and selfless support we receive from the fraternal country, our great northern neighbor, the great country of the Soviets, and other socialist countries, and from all progressive forces of the world. In receiving this Order of the Sun of Freedom, I would like to assure you dear comrades, the heroic party and all of our militant people that I will not spare my power and strength in struggling to defend the workers' interests and to accomplish the duties outlined in the party's action plan.

Let all of our power and strength, wisdom and feeling be at the service of our people. [applause]

Let our beloved party have its place with kindness in our hearts! [applause]

In conclusion, I express my warm thanks and profound congratulations on the fourth anniversary of the glorious April Revolution to you and to all of the free people of revolutionary Afghanistan, in which the sun of freedom is shining. [applause] [end recording]

[Excerpt] New Delhi, 26 Apr (AFP) -- India has stationed two squadrons of Soviet-built MiG-23 fighter bombers on the Pakistan border in the southwestern sector, published reports said today.

Indian journalists were taken by the Defense Ministry on a tour of border areas to witness a display of the MiG-23's firepower. The newsmen described the jets as "the fastest ground attack aircraft in the world."

Observers expressed surprise at the sudden spurt in publicity for the MiG-23 at a time when India is going for the French Mirage-2000 and the indigenous assembly of the Anglo-French Jaguar aircraft to improve the strike power of its 113,000-man air force.

The reports datelined "somewhere in the southwestern sector," described the MiG-23 base as "arid desert land," which could mean it is somewhere in the desert of Rajasthan in southwestern India, observers said.

India has a 2,966 kilometer (about 1,300 mile) long border with Pakistan.

A squadron strength in the Indian Air Force ranges from 12 to 20 aircraft. But informed sources said the MiG-23 squadrons have 18 planes each, making it a potent force to counter any threat from across the border.

The air base is served by 400 defence and civilian personnel, some of them trained in the Soviet Union, the reports said.

The unit has medium and light helicopter units, meant for flight offensive support and air observations respectively. It is the only training centre in the country for MiG-23 pilots and technicians.

Of the two squadrons at the base, the first became "totally operational" in January last year and the second is on its way to reaching "full operational status," the reports said.

The first batch of the swing-wing, single-engine, supersonic MiG-23's arrived in India as early as December 1979. The MiG-23's with the Indian Air Force are the ground attack version, studded with double-barrel rapid firing cannons on the wings and the nose.

Ammunition stored by the unit for the aircraft includes S-24, UB-16 and UB-23 air-to-ground rockets, 250 kg and 500 kg bombs, retarder bombs and 23mm bullets, which can be fired at the rate of 3,000 to 3,500 per minute, the reports said.

There are five pylons for bombs and armour plating on the sides of the cockpit to protect the pilot from ground fire.

"We are a potent and effective force, totally operational and capable of providing adequate and continuous support to the forward most units for two to three days," the commanding officer of the unit, Air Commodore K.N. Pillai, was quoted as saying.

SRV FOREIGN MINISTER ARRIVES FOR 6-DAY VISIT

[Text] India and Vietnam have called for peace, stability and defusion of tension in Southeast Asia. Speaking at a dinner hosted by External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao in honor of the visiting Vietnamese foreign minister, Nguyen Co Thach, the two leaders noted with concern the atmosphere of tension prevailing in the region. The Vietnamese foreign minister called for an end to the Chinese policy of expansionism which, he said, has threatened the independence and sovereignty of the Indochina states.

Criticizing Beijing for attempting to create instability in the region, Thach said the Chinese had been interfering in the internal affairs of the Asian countries. He said the only way to guarantee peace and stability in Southeast Asia is to encourage harmony and cooperation among the countries of the region.

Welcoming India's support to the Kampuchean people, he said more and more such efforts will be the decisive factor in bringing peace and stability to the region. Thach said Vietnam will do its best to consolidate the relations with India.

Narasimha Rao in his welcome address said the Kampuchean issue could be best resolved through discussions among the countries concerned. He recalled the existing warm and friendly ties between India and Vietnam and said our bilateral relations today touch upon a number of major activities of national life. Rao said the success of all efforts toward evolving better cooperation among developing countries can be possible only in an atmosphere of peace and security.

Earlier, Thach held discussions with the union ministers of finance and agriculture on strengthening of cooperation in economic and agricultural fields between the two countries.

INDIAN OCEAN CONFERENCE CRITICAL OF U.S. POLICY

BK260451 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0240 GMT 26 Apr 82

[Text] The international conference on the Indian Ocean has condemned the U.S. presence in the region and described it as a threat to independent countries. In a declaration adopted at the end of the 3-day conference held in New Delhi, it appealed to the nonaligned countries to make all-out efforts to turn the region into a zone of peace. The conference described as significant India's foreign policy of defending world peace and support to liberation movements. The conference was organized by the World Peace Council in collaboration with the All-India Peace Solidarity Organization and other international organizations. Delegates from Asia, Africa, Latin America, Southeast Asia and the Soviet Union participated.

ONE ARRESTED IN AIR FORCE ROCKET THEFT CASE

BK260925 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 26 Apr 82

[Text] A court of inquiry has been ordered to investigate the reported discovery of air force rockets at Bokaro steel plant and some other places. Defense Minister Venkataraman told the Rajya Sabha today that one person has been arrested in this connection. The minister was replying to a calling-attention motion on the subject by J.P. Mathur, Bhratiya Janata Party and several others.

Giving details of the incident, Venkataraman said that five boxes containing 56 rockets and two rocket pods [words indistinct] consignment booked for the air force unit from Alipur Duar railway station to Amla junction. The life of the rockets had expired and they were being sent for reconditioning. The loss was detected at Moghal Sarai. Eventually, 54 rockets out of the 56 stolen were found at various places. The remaining two are also being traced. Cases have been registered by civil and railway police. Six railway protection police personnel have been suspended. The minister declined to give any more details as a court of inquiry is already in progress. He, however, told the members that in the future, all such equipment will be transported in containers to prevent pilferage. Security around production areas is also being tightened.

FOREIGN MINISTER RETURNS FROM PRC VISIT

BK270618 Karachi Overseas Service in Urdu 0500 GMT 27 Apr 82

[Text] Foreign Minister Sahabzada Yaqub Khan has said that China has reiterated its total and unflinching support and abiding friendship with Pakistan. He was talking to newsmen at Karachi Airport last night on his return from Beijing at the end of a 6-day visit to China. He said he had extensive talks with China's Vice Chairman Deng Xiaoping, Premier Zhao Ziyang and Vice Premier and Foreign Minister Huang Hua. He said he discussed with the Chinese foreign minister bilateral relations and various international topics, particularly those of special interest to the two countries. In these discussions, he added, an identity of views was evident on all matters.

He said the primary aim of his visit to China was to enable him to establish personal contacts with the Chinese leadership, especially with his Chinese counterpart. In view of the importance of China in Pakistan's foreign relations, it was necessary that China should be the first country he visited.

Asked if the Afghan issue also figured in the talks, the foreign minister said the Chinese leaders once again expressed their views on the issue eloquently, clearly and categorically. Their views are identical with Pakistan's own view on the issue. Answering another question, he said military assistance was not the primary objective of his visit.

In reply to a question, the foreign minister said he briefed the Chinese leaders about Pakistan's efforts to conclude a no-war pact with India. Sahabzada Yaqub Khan said China understood Pakistan's sincere efforts to normalize relations with India which would lead to peace and stability in the region. Pakistan, he added, would be glad to resume contacts and talks with New Delhi whenever it felt so disposed.

He said Pakistan continued to strive for the resumption of talks on this matter.

The foreign minister said Chinese Vice Premier and Foreign Minister Huang Hua will pay an official visit to Pakistan before the end of the year. He said President Mohammad Ziaul Haq had already received an invitation to visit China and he is expected to make the visit at the end of year.

DAWN WELCOMES TRADE AGREEMENT WITH IRAN

GF251123 Karachi DAWN in English 22 Apr 82 p 9

[Editorial: "New Accord With Iran"]

[Text] The trade agreement between Pakistan and Iran concluded during the federal finance and commerce minister's visit to Iran signifies growing friendship and confidence between the two brotherly countries. The agreement is also important because it seeks to expand bilateral trade which will range between 400 and 500 million dollars during the next 12 months.

The two countries have agreed to aim at a balance in trade by exporting goods worth 200 to 250 million dollars to each other. Lately, Iran has emerged as the second largest importer from Pakistan after China. That position may continue this year again but Iranian exports of half a million barrels of crude oil to Pakistan under the new accord will go a long way in balancing the trade between the two countries. The supply of oil will be at prices which are favourable to Pakistan. Under the one-year agreement, Pakistan will export a wide range of goods which include all types of textiles, cotton and woollen yarn, cotton fibres, one-day old chicks, rice, iron and steel products, carbon black, other chemicals, fertilisers, sugar and fishmeal. Pakistan's imports from Iran will comprise zinc, lead, sulphur, saffron, raising, oilseeds, medicinal herbs and above all crude oil. A payments agreement will facilitate trade and usher in a new era of independent financial arrangements on a bilateral basis. Another significant feature of the new understanding between the two countries is the participation of Iran, with its vast knowledge of oil technology, in the development of the oil industry in Pakistan. Iran, which has a surplus drilling capacity, will provide on rent rigs and other equipment for drilling exploratory and development wells which will mean a great saving for Pakistan. On the other hand, Pakistan will undertake repairs, maintenance and supply of spares for Iranian railway locomotives. Close cooperation is also envisaged in the field of shipping, ship repairs and port operations.

The present short-term agreement formalises the spurt in bilateral trade that followed the recent political changes in the region and points to the need for enlarging cooperation among Islamic countries. The Iranian revolutionary leadership gives preference to Islamic countries in trade, followed by trade with neighbours. Pakistan also ardently pursues a policy of close cooperation with Islamic countries, more especially the neighbouring ones, in order to promote regional self-reliance and reduce dependence on industrially developed countries. In fact, Pakistan had joined the RCD, [Regional Cooperation for Development] to achieve this very objective but the possibilities this institution offered could not be tapped. While RCD remains in a state of suspended animation and its future is yet to be settled, the two countries are fortunately going ahead with the development of bilateral economic exchanges. The short-term accord and the new five-year agreement, replacing the one signed in 1975, will provide the impetus for forging still closer cooperation between the two neighbours.

SOMALIAN VICE PRESIDENT AFRAH STOPS OVER

BK240907 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 0200 GMT 24 Apr 82

[Text] Vice President of Somalia Maj Gen Hussein Afrah has said that foreign troops from Afghanistan should be withdrawn because only this step can provide a solution to the Afghan problem. During a brief stopover at Islamabad Airport on his way home from China, he said the international community should fulfill its responsibility with respect to the Afghan problem. He applauded Pakistan's efforts to look after millions of Afghan refugees and said the international community should join hands with Pakistan to lessen the economic burden it has to bear owing to the large-scale influx of Afghan refugees into this country.

Answering a question about the Iran-Iraq war, the Somali vice president said efforts are being made to bring an end to the conflict between the two countries. He praised President Mohammad Ziaul Haq's efforts to end the Gulf war.

About Pakistan-Somalia relations, Gen Hussein Afrah said both countries are bound together with Islamic ties and their relations are very good.

Federal Information and Broadcasting Minister Raja Mohammad Zafarul Haq, who is also acting foreign minister, received the Somali vice president at the airport.

ZIAUL HAQ ON PRIVATE, FOREIGN INVESTMENT

GF231828 Karachi DAWN in English 21 Apr 82 p 1

[Text] Lahore, April 20: -- President Ziaul Haq said here today that patronage to the private sector and foreign investment in Pakistan was the cornerstone of the economic policy of his government. The private investors were at liberty to set up industries of their choice and the government was willing to remove the procedural difficulties, he added.

In his address at the inaugural ceremony of the Imperial Chemical Industries polyester staple fibre plant on the Sheikhupura Road, about 30 kilometres from here, Gen Zia said the government was indebted to the entrepreneurs for taking interest in the development of the country. To restore their confidence, which was damaged in the past, he and his colleagues had been devising ways and means to take multi-dimensional steps, he said.

During the tenure of his office he said industrial projects worth Rs 36 billion were sanctioned in the private sector though the majority of the same were not set up physically. By seeing these steps the policy of his government towards the private sector could very well be determined, he pointed out.

Gen Zia said foreign investors would be treated equally as far as the sanctions of industries and other investment facilities were concerned. The policy of confrontation between the government and the business and investors, which was adopted in the past, had now been replaced with an atmosphere of congenial understanding because the present regime wanted to pursue national development with the active participation of the entrepreneurs.

He, however, advised the entrepreneurs that the benefit of industrial development should also be shared by the people, who were the real users of consumer goods.

The president expressed his confidence that with the development of the private sector consumer items would be available at cheaper rates.

Gen Zia especially referred to the steps now being taken by the Ministry of Finance for the promotion of the private sector and remarked that the ministry, which was once considered a cold storage, had now started working in accordance with the desire of the majority.

Earlier, Mr J.R. Rahum, chairman of ICI group of companies in Pakistan, presented his address of welcome.

APP adds: While inaugurating the IMT tractor plant set up in the private sector with the collaboration of Yugoslavia, the president said that the agricultural policy of the government was aimed at rapid development of agriculture on modern lines as an industry, not only to achieve food autarky but also produce surplus to meet the needs of the neighbouring and friendly countries.

The president said the government was particularly encouraging the establishment of industries which were designed to contribute towards the development of agriculture in the country.

He said the government had sanctioned four tractor plants, two each in the public and private sectors. He said the IMT plant, which was completed in a record time of 10 months, was a living symbol of Pakistan-Yugoslavia cooperation and collaboration.

The president said it was a happy augury that the farmers were switching over to the use of inputs like modern agricultural equipment, fertiliser and insecticides. But, he added, the country could not afford all the time to depend on imports of all such things. It was high time that efforts were made to set up industries of these things within the country, he stressed.

He said Pakistan had very close friendly relations with Yugoslavia. Both the countries stood for world peace and security as the members of the Non-Aligned Movement.

PAPERS URGED TO STRIKE; TEACHERS BOYCOTT IN SIND

BK250607 Hong Kong AFP in English 1639 GMT 24 Apr 82

[Text] Karachi, Pakistan, 24 April (AFP) -- The all Pakistan Newspaper Society (APNS) today called on papers nationwide to strike tomorrow to protest an attack yesterday on the offices of two Urdu newspapers of Lahore by students belonging to a right-wing organization Islami Jamiat-e-Talba.

The APNS also urged the government to investigate the incident, in which eight employees were injured.

The students reportedly attacked the papers to protest an article regarding the arrest of two students of Islami Jamiat-e-Talba who were reported trying to board a plane with a briefcase containing a loaded pistol.

In other developments, 3,000 professors and lecturers of 144 government colleges in the province of Sind today boycotted classes to press for salary increases, professional allowances, and other demands.

In a press release, the teachers said the boycott will be continued on Sunday and Monday if their demands are not accepted. It warned that a total educational boycott would be launched May 5 if major demands are not met by May 4.

FOREIGN MINISTRY RAPS U.S. SENATOR'S 'RAVINGS'

LD262006 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 26 Apr 82

[Text] A statement released today by a spokesman for the Foreign Ministry of the Islamic Republic of Iran discussed the ravings uttered by Henry Jackson, the hired Zionist mercenary in the U.S. Senate. The statement says:

The criminal America must know that despite its wishes, oil-producing countries have realized that they are able to control their resources, and no threat can deflect them from their firm determination; they know the aggressions by the mercenary Saddam against the Islamic Iranian revolution will be futile, and the aggressions will bring us further victories.

The Foreign Ministry, while warning America, added: With such ravings and drivel America is in fact trying to provide additional military assistance to some of its surrogates to strengthen and provoke them and to set up fresh bases, thus bringing about a new dimension to the war imposed on Iran by Iraq. With this perfidious trick it is trying to set Iran against its neighbors whose increasing friendship and alliance with Iran is a thorn in America's side, and, through the process of divide-and-rule, to engage in sucking the blood of the deprived and the oppressed. What a futile hope!

While once again declaring our support for the deprived Palestinian nation and southern Lebanon, we call upon all oil-producing countries to use this weapon to bring the world-devouring America and criminal Zionism to their knees.

Victory over criminals will be near with God's help.

TEHRAN ATTACKS 'U.S. OCCUPATION OF SINAI'

GF270751 Tehran International Service in Turkish 1830 GMT 26 Apr 82

[Unattributed commentary: "Occupation of Sinai by U.S. Forces"]

[Text] Dear listeners: It appears that the final phase of the Camp David conspiracy over the Sinai is coming to an end with the occupation of the desert by multinational forces under U.S. command. The adoption by Husni Mubarak, the new U.S. pawn in Egypt, of treacherous As-Sadat's policy aimed at reaching a compromise agreement with Zionism has brought various problems to the Arab world and the Middle East in general. The so-called evacuation of the Sinai by Zionist military units, the replacement of the said forces by Americans and the widescale attack on southern Lebanon by the regime occupying Jerusalem have brought to light the secret agreements and intentions of imperialism. By supposedly evacuating the Sinai in response to more concessions from Egypt, the Zionist regime is imposing its conditions on the pro-American Husni Mubarak regime.

According to AFP reports based on exclusive statements by the Egyptian authorities, the Zionist regime occupying Palestine intends to set up relations with the Mubarak regime closer than those stipulated by the Camp David agreement. Meanwhile, the authorities in Cairo have promised more concessions to the Zionist regime.

The policy of compromising with Zionism, which suffered a setback with the assassination of the treacherous As-Sadat, has been attaining broader horizons since Husni Mubarak's accession to power. The occupation of the Sinai by U.S. imperialism under the title "multinational forces" will bring two clearcut problems to the Muslim Arab peoples in the Middle East.

The first of these is that the United States will have the opportunity for the first time to deploy its military forces in the very heart of the Middle East and the Arab world. When the presence in the Gulf region of Rapid Deployment Force units is taken into consideration, the importance of the landing of the abovementioned military units in the Sinai becomes clearer. This state of affairs will mean that all Arab countries are surrounded by the United States militarily and that the existence of the Muslim peoples in the region is the target of direct U.S. attacks.

The second problem is the realization of the (?long-standing wish of the Tel Aviv regime -- to secure Israel's eastern borders. This will be achieved with the help of the Husni Mubarak regime.

The isolation of the Muslim Egyptian people from the problems of the Arab world will no doubt enter history as the greatest crime committed by As-Sadat in Camp David. With the signing of the treacherous Camp David agreement, the Zionists got what they wanted. As for the imperialists, they secured the tranquillity they wanted on the eastern fronts.

As of today the racist and plundering Zionist leaders of Israel will feel free to use all their power to occupy new land belonging to Muslims in southern Lebanon and the Golan Heights. The savage Zionist bombing of Palestinian refugee camps in southern Beirut -- which has resulted in the martyrdom and wounding of dozens of Muslims -- coupled with the U.S. opposition to every UN resolution points to the aggressive plan the Zionists have drawn up for the future following the conspiracy hatched over the Sinai.

According to a number of political circles, the deployment of U.S. military units in the Sinai has created an explosive situation in the Middle East. Undoubtedly, the United States will henceforth endeavor to directly contain every kind of movement in the Middle East aimed at achieving an Islamic revolution. The United States will also have an open invitation to directly interfere in the internal affairs of Muslim countries.

Although international imperialism has been able to stage the theatrical play known as Camp David, the move has sufficed to establish U.S. military presence in a number of Arab countries. Meanwhile, however, it should not be forgotten that the victory achieved by the Islamic revolution in Iran and the strengthening of the struggle of the Muslim peoples in the Middle East against imperialism, Zionism and compromising governments in the region have altered the balance of the political situation in favor of the poor masses.

Therefore, there should be no doubt that during the next few years the world will witness the fall of aligned regimes such as the Husni Mubarak administration in Egypt and the victory that will be achieved by revolutionary Muslims. That will be the day when decisions will be taken by Muslim peoples alone and not by U.S. imperialism. God willing, the struggle of the Muslim masses in the Middle East will strengthen their revolutionary movement in the hope of attaining such a day.

MONTAZERI REGRETS SOVIET ATTACK IN AFGHANISTAN

LD261126 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 26 Apr 82

[Excerpt] The Central News Unit reports that Messrs Mo'men, a member of the Judicial Council, and (?Tayeri), the imam's representative at the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, together with the official in charge of intelligence and research at the Central Guards Corps met and conferred with Ayatollah Montazeri in Qom this morning. Also, Mr Seyyed Mahdi Hashemi, the official in charge of the liberation movements unit of the Guards Corps, met Ayatollah Montazeri and reported on the activities of the movement [as heard] and the support expressed by the Guards Corps for liberation movements through this unit.

Then Ayatollah Montazeri, regretting the recent attack by the USSR on Badakhshan Province in Afghanistan, which resulted in the martyrdom of many of the Muslim mujahidin and innocent people of that country, said: The same policy implemented by the United States through Israel in the Middle East, especially in southern Lebanon, is implemented directly or indirectly by the USSR and the Afghan puppet government in Afghanistan. The Muslim nation of Iran, inspired by Islam and the "Neither East nor West" policy which has its roots in the Islamic revolution, opposes both policies and condemns them.

KHAMENE'I COMMENTS ON WAR, AFGHANISTAN, PALESTINE

[Text] Tehran, 25 Apr (IRNA) -- President Khamene'i, in an interview with this morning's daily JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI, assured that the war would finish in Iran's favor. The president also said that if the peace missions accepted the rightful stands of the Iranian nation, this would be to the Iraqi nation's benefit as well. The president believed that Iran's solution was the best since if the Islamic combatants forced the Iraqis to retreat to the border, then it would result in chaos for the Iraqi Government, entailing heavy damages. In any event, the president added, Iran would win the war.

On the UN's endeavors to solve the Afghanistan issue, President Khamene'i said that the Afghan nation alone should determine their own fate rather than Pakistan and Iran talking about the issue, as was suggested by the U.N.

Referring to the recent Palestinian Islamic movement, the president said that it should be strengthened by other Muslim nations and governments which allegedly supported Palestine. This support should be shown in action not only in words, the president added. Implementing economic sanctions (?by Arab) Muslim countries against the Zionist regime was mentioned by the president as one method of support. He added that a large amount of money from oil-producing countries had been saved in the banks of European countries, which mostly were supporting the Zionist regime. Also oil revenues of Arab countries, he said, had been used in the [word indistinct] of Western technology, which should have been used in support of Palestine.

In spite of its involvement in the imposed war, Iran would send some of its forces to aid the Palestinians, President Khamene'i said, and would also provide economic aid.

DPRK PREMIER BEGINS OFFICIAL VISIT TO TEHRAN

Arrival Statement

LD251744 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 25 Apr 82

[Text] DPRK Premier Yi Chong-ok arrived in Tehran this afternoon at the invitation of Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi.

The DPRK premier, who is leading a delegation of political and economic officials, was received at the airport by Prime Minister Musavi, Foreign Minister Velayati, Minister of State for Executive Affairs Behzad Nabavi, and a number of other officials, including Foreign Ministry under secretaries. Also present at the airport to greet the DPRK delegation and premier were a number of DPRK diplomats in Tehran, including the ambassador.

Following his arrival in Tehran, the DPRK premier issued a statement which says in part: We have come to Iran on a friendly visit to convey our sincere greetings to the people and the Government of Iran.

The statement also says: We are also grateful for your invitation and your warm hospitality. I would like to take this opportunity to convey warm greetings to the people of Iran from the Korean people.

Our two countries are both members of the Nonaligned Movement and pursue an identical policy in their struggle against imperialism and for their independence.

We are deeply happy for the opportunity to meet the brave and active people of Iran and to witness the determination of the people of Iran to achieve their goals and to establish stability in their society. Our visit will also provide the opportunity to witness the success of Iran's Islamic revolution under the leadership of His Excellency Imam Khomeyni.

We will also have the opportunity to discuss with our Iranian friends a wide range of topics and to explore new avenues for expanding our ties and cooperation, especially in the field of economics.

Meeting With Musavi

LD261206 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 26 Apr 82

[Text] DPRK Premier Yi Chong-ok, presently visiting our country at the head of an economic and political delegation, met Prime Minister Musavi today.

In the course of the meeting, also attended by Minister of State for Executive Affairs Behzad Nabavi, the Islamic Republic's ambassador to the DPRK and a number of other Iranian officials, the prime minister alluded to the injustices committed by the big powers against the oppressed peoples, saying: Colonial powers; especially America, are not confined to one particular region. Following the revolution we showed quite genuinely that by relying on the support of the nation we are able to fight on all fronts. Our nation has proved that it can overcome all difficulties despite major plots hatched against the Islamic revolution.

He then said. We are not afraid of America and other big powers in the world, for we rely on ourselves and have recovered our identity. We are an independent and cohesive nation. In the meantime, we do recognize that to fight hegemonist powers, especially U.S. imperialism, we must expand our relations with Third World countries, particularly those which are directly threatened by imperialism.

Mr Musavi continued: Despite the imposed war and problems stemming from the rule of a U.S.-dependent regime in our country in the past, we have managed to attend to reconstruction. We are determined to step up our efforts much more in the future for further reconstruction. He then added: Obviously, in order to realize our efforts we must expand our economic ties with various countries in the world. However, this expansion is subject to our foreign policy, as the expansion is not haphazard. We welcome any relations leading to realization of the "Neither West nor East" policy.

Expressing his thanks to our country's prime minister, the DPRK premier said: Our nation is taking careful note of all the problems facing your country. Under the leadership of Imam Khomeyni the Iranian nation, having smashed the might of U.S. imperialism and the region's reactionaries, has achieved impressive successes since Iran's independence.

Alluding to economic and cultural changes taking place in Iran after the victory of the Islamic revolution, the DPRK premier said: We declare our support for the Islamic Republic's condemnation of all colonialists and exploiters and its blocking of domination attempts by the Western and Eastern powers as well as its nonaligned policy of establishing friendly ties with all countries.

After the meeting, committees were set up to study ways of expanding economic and diplomatic relations as well as pursue negotiations and review ways of making use of available possibilities between the two countries.

Officials Comment on Talks

LD262146 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 26 Apr 82

[Text] DPRK Premier Mr Yi Chong-ok, who has come to Tehran leading a political and economic delegation at the invitation of Prime Minister Musavi, today started his discussions with our country's political and economic officials. In the framework of these discussions, the DPRK premier met today with Petroleum Minister Gharazi and his deputies. According to a Central News Unit report, before this meeting the discussions between Iran and North Korea started in the oil, banking, industry, agriculture, mines, energy, roads and construction committees.

Our correspondent has had some interviews with Mr Honardust, deputy petroleum minister and head of the Iranian delegation to the oil committee; Mr Yaqutfar, deputy industries minister, who is chairman of the industry, mines, commerce and agriculture committees; Mr Ghanifar, deputy commerce minister; and Mr Tajgardan, head of the Iranian delegation to the energy, roads and construction committee. We draw your attention to these interviews:

[Begin recording] [Correspondent] We are in the oil committee. I ask Dr Honardust to tell us what subjects have been discussed in this committee.

[Honardust] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The visit of the DPRK delegation follows the earlier visit to Iran by the DPRK deputy oil minister [as heard], which resulted in their purchase of about 1 million tons of oil from Iran. In this round of discussions we are talking about the sale of 5 million tons of oil. We are having discussions about the financial and barter arrangements related to this sale and we shall see what the result of these discussions will be and how we can implement this agreement.

[Correspondent] I ask Mr Yaqutfar, deputy industries minister and chairman of this committee, to tell us what was discussed in this committee.

[Yaqutfar] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. As you said, this committee will hold discussions about four ministries and some information will be exchanged. Perhaps most discussions will revolve around the mineral industries, for the exploration and production of minerals, especially zinc and lead, as well as related industries, steel and copper industries, so that we can set up some complexes and can make use of the gases that will be produced in other industries. We will also make some studies about some light industries and the light industry technology being used in Korea, as well as the tools being manufactured in the DPRK. We wish to learn about their light tools and machinery and purchase them in time, especially for the reconstruction of the war zones. We will also have some discussions and some studies about fisheries and fishing industries.

[Correspondent] I now ask Mr Ghanifar, deputy commerce minister, to tell us what possibilities exist for the expansion of trade between the two countries.

[Ghanifar] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. A number of the gentlemen who are present here came to Iran about a month ago and had some discussions with the Commerce Ministry and some other ministries. As for the commercial exchanges, fortunately, as you know our foreign trade will be nationalized in accordance with principle No 44 and some of our brothers in the production and distribution centers have taken some steps. Thus we can say that as a result of the studies made during their first visit, these centers can import the goods needed by the country from North Korea, which has had friendly relations with us since the revolution. They do not wish to sever our relations with that country, which is friendly to us, especially under the present circumstances. Some of these centers can import metals, machine tools, machinery and textiles. In some of these fields we can say that their quoted prices are even competitive.

Our commercial relations have been friendly and we can say that in some fields our imports to and exports from that country have increased many times compared to the period before the revolution.

[Correspondent] Mr Tajgardan is the Iranian chairman of this committee. Please tell us what issues were discussed in that committee.

[Tajgardan] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The issues discussed in the committee on energy, roads and transportation concern cooperation in the construction of dams, irrigation tunnels and ports as part of the activities of the minister of roads and the construction of housing. We can probably purchase dredging boats, tugboats, and other such things from Korea. We will have discussions to see in which areas we can make use of them. [end recording]

SHARI'ATMADARI INTERROGATED, UNDER HOUSE ARREST

NC251643 Paris AFP in English 1632 GMT 25 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 25 Apr (AFP) -- The placing under house arrest of Ayatollah Kazem Shari'atmadari for alleged involvement in a plot against the Islamic Republic of Iran was implicitly confirmed today by the general prosecutor of revolutionary tribunals.

The prosecutor, Hojjat ol-Eslam Musavi-Tabrizi, told a press conference today in reply to a question, that Ayatollah Shari'atmadari had "asked to leave Iran to live among the non-Moslems."

"His house," the prosecutor added, "is under surveillance, precautions have been taken and he may not communicate with people freely."

Until he was stripped of his title of religious guide last Tuesday by the teachers of the theological school of Qom, Iran's holiest city, Ayatollah Shari'atmadari was the second highest dignitary in the Shi'ite hierarchy.

He has been implicated in a plot, according to official information, preparing the assassination of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni, the country's spiritual leader, and that of the nation's other main leaders.

First to be implicated in the plot on April 10 was Sadeq Qotbzadeh, a former foreign minister, who in a televised confession had pointed to an involvement by Ayatollah Shari'atmadari.

The general prosecutor did not reply directly to a question whether "Shari'atmadari," as he called him, would be brought to trial. He [word indistinct] however that the religious leader had been interrogated, and that a film of his declarations would soon be shown on television.

Hojjat ol-Eslam Tabrizi also read excerpts from a letter from Ayatollah Shari'atmadari which he described as so many lies. The Shi'ite dignitary claimed he had never been in direct contact with Mr Qotbzadeh, that he had never given money to the plotters, and if he had not alerted the authorities to the plotters' projects, this was because he did not believe them, found them childish and not had materially the time to do so.

The general prosecutor added that "Imam Khomeyni was pained" by Ayatollah Shari'atmadari's implication in the plot because it "constitutes a shame, a stain on the clergy."

In conclusion, the prosecutor confirmed that the trial of Mr Qotbzadeh and others accused in the same case would be public, the court being presided over by a civilian revolutionary judge. Officers in the plot would be deferred before a military judge, he added.

In an unrelated development, a member of the extremist religious grouping Forqan identified as Mahmud Saidi was hanged last Wednesday in Hamadan, western Iran, the ISLAMIC REPUBLIC daily reported today, for killing a policeman and participation in several abortive attacks.

He had established a list of the personnel of the French Embassy in Tehran in view of an attack, the paper added.

SHARI'ATMADARI FOLLOWERS SAID ARRESTED, EXECUTED

GF261136 (Clandestine) Voice of Iran in Persian 0330 GMT 26 Apr 82

[Text] Forty-seven of Ayatollah Shari'atmadari's followers have been arrested and six others have been executed. A special report from Tabriz says that 47 of Ayatollah Shari'atmadari's staunchest followers were arrested in Tabriz and 6 others were executed on Friday. One of the six was Samadollah Ansari.

The Voice of Iran special reporter adds: Samadollah Ansari was one of the signatories of the communique distributed in Tabriz last Wednesday in which a strong protest was made against the regime's bestial and illegal conduct against Ayatollah Shari'atmadari. No information is available about the fate of the other five persons.

DPA: SHARI'ATMADARI SON APPEALS FOR SUPPORT

LD261428 Hamburg DPA in German 1327 GMT 26 Apr 82

[Text] Hamburg, 26 Apr (DPA) -- In an appeal to several Islamic personalities and to Pope John Paul II the son of moderate Iranian Ayatollah Kazem Shari'atmadari, Hassan, has called for help for his father. In a telex made public on Monday in Hamburg, addressed to Syrian President Hafiz al-Asad, Guinea President Sekou Toure and PLO leader Yasir 'Arafat, Hassan Shari'atmadari says that the 82-year-old ayatollah is ill, is being kept under house arrest and has no possibility of defending himself against the accusations leveled against him. With public support for Shari'atmadari, the signatories of the appeal could contribute toward saving the life of the religious leader, says the telex of the son, who is living in Hamburg.

NVOI CALLS FOR QOTBZADEH'S TRIAL, PUNISHMENT

TA261231 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 24 Apr 82

[Unattributed commentary: "Qotbzadeh and His Band Should Be Tried and Punished"]

[Text] Dear compatriots: The existence of evidence to the effect that certain hands at various levels are trying to save Sadeq Qotbzadeh -- this spy of the CIA and organizer of the defeated coup plot -- has rightly aroused the people's concern.

When we review the black report card of Sadeq Qotbzadeh's activities during the entire postrevolution period we see that this agent of the CIA exerted all his endeavors and efforts at isolating emancipated Iran in the international arena, discrediting the Islamic Republic of Iran, preventing its rapprochement with its real friends, and preparing the ground for returning Iran to the fold of Western countries, particularly world-devouring America.

The fact that Sadeq Qotbzadeh is a U.S. agent, that he managed to get close to the leaders of the revolution according to the plan and instructions of the CIA, and that he was in the pay of the United States is something that had been revealed by the true revolutionary forces even at the time when Sadeq Qotbzadeh held sensitive government positions. If during that very period attention had been paid to the documented disclosures of these forces, and if Qotbzadeh and the Qotbzadehs had been punished for their deeds, it would not have led to this.

All are aware of the incident in which a huge sum amounting to $1 million was deposited in Sadeq Qotbzadeh's account at the time he was the foreign minister of the Islamic Republic of Iran and of the report submitted to the prime minister by the then ambassador of the Islamic Republic of Iran to France requesting instructions. This $1 million, which had arrived in the name of Sadeq Qotbzadeh at the address of the Iranian Embassy in France, was partial payment for this treacherous element's betrayal of the Iranian nation and revolution and his service to world-devouring U.S. imperialism.

At that time the people and the true revolutionary forces of our country had demanded that this issue be investigated in a serious manner and that Sadeq Qotbzadeh be prosecuted. Unfortunately, at that time certain hands took action in order to save Sadeq Qotbzadeh from punishment. As a result, the people's demand was not adhered to and Qotbzadeh was left to continue plotting against the Islamic Republic with ease of mind.

The plot, which this time was hatched by Qotbzadeh and his associates and which was again uncovered and foiled through the vigilance of the true revolutionary forces, can under no circumstances be considered a childish act. This plot is a link in the series of plots that world-devouring America is hatching against emancipated Iran. Presenting the plot of Qotbzadeh and his associates as trivial is tantamount to throwing sand at the people's eyes and endeavoring to save Sadeq Qotbzadeh. One should avoid such an approach.

The people should be called upon to show the utmost revolutionary vigilance. Qotbzadeh's associates, who are still in government organizations and probably in revolutionary institutions and who never desist from plotting against the revolution and the Islamic Republic of Iran, should be identified, presented to the people and dismissed. For it is not only Qotbzadeh and the elements that have been arrested with him that have close contact and connections outside the country with imperialist circles, with the counterrevolutionaries and the fugitive dregs of the former regime. Therefore, all these elements who have changed color must be investigated and dealt with.

Sadeq Qotbzadeh is a mercenary agent of the CIA and the plot which has been uncovered, too, was hatched in accordance with the plan of the CIA. Qotbzadeh's confession on the Vision of the Islamic Republic of Iran, during which he did not utter even one word about his American masters, cannot be an excuse for showing mercy on this sharp-toothed tiger and mercenary wolf. Sadeq Qotbzadeh has betrayed the Iranian nation, the Iranian revolution, the Islamic Republic of Iran and the imam of the nation. He has plotted against the revolutionary gains of the Iranian nation, to which he himself has also confessed.

The people of our homeland explicitly demand that this treacherous element -- an element that intended to kill the imam of the nation and whose aim was to overthrow the system of the Islamic Republic -- stand before a revolutionary court and be punished for his treacherous and criminal deeds.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 867

LD261734 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 26 Apr 82

[Communique 867 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. During the past 24 hours, artillery and mortar battles were in progress on most of the fronts and the combatants of Islam, maintaining complete superiority, achieved the following results:

In the Abadan sector, our forces brought enemy infantry and artillery positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud under fire, neutralizing the engineering activities of the Iraqi units and destroying two ammunition dumps, five observation posts, trenches and foxholes and one excavation vehicle.

Yesterday Saddam's army brought the residential areas of Abadan under fire, inflicting losses and damage on the heroic people of that city.

In the western operational sectors, our combat units fired on enemy artillery, tank, mortar and personnel targets in the Panjwin, (?Haft Tanan), (Khanum Sharkhan), (Lavabeh), (Hargineh) and Biarreh sectors, destroying quantities of ammunition, two personnel carriers and two 130-mm cannons and killing or wounding a number of Iraqi personnel.

In the Marivan sector, the exchange of heavy-weapon fire between our brave forces and those of the enemy continued.

The ground forces artillery units brought the Saddamists' positions in the Tutman and (Kallehqandi) sectors under fire, destroying 6 enemy supply points, 1 ammunition dump and 1 machinegun and killing 20 of the enemy.

In the Band-e Kabud sector, about 20 enemy personnel were killed or wounded by the heavy-weapon fire of the combatants of Islam. One machinegun, together with its crew, and quantities of the aggressors' ammunition were completely destroyed.

In the Ilam sector, the Gendarmerie personnel of the Islamic Republic of Iran brought enemy stations in the (Banshaykhan) sector under fire, setting alight a number of military [word indistinct] of the Iraqi forces and killing or wounding at least 10 enemy troops.

MILITARY CLAIMS VICTORIES OVER REBELS IN WEST

[Text] Tehran, 24 Apr (IRNA) -- At least 50 counterrevolutionary rebels were killed and another 100 wounded in armed encounters with the Islamic combatants midway between the towns of Baneh and Sar Dasht in Bakhtaran Province today. Today's encounter with the armed rebels brought to an end a series of operations which led to the purging of 32 villages and 60 kilometres of roadway in the province. The Ansarollah operations started out at 0400 hours Friday April 23rd. The Baneh-Sar Dasht road had been held by counterrevolutionary rebels for a long time. In related reports from Bakhtaran, the villages of Korsi, Kani-Moshkan and Sarbandar were purged of counterrevolutionaries today. The Islamic combatants arrived in the city of Sar Dasht amid an enthusiastic welcome by villagers.

In similar operations which started April 21st, the villages of Zangan and Malekshahi, midway between the cities of Kamyaran and Sanandaj, were recaptured by the Islamic combatants Saturday night. Also, the villages of Darreh-Boneh, Kani Moshcan, Korsi, and Gilaneh were purged of the counterrevolutionary elements [words indistinct] counterrevolutionaries were killed and another 13 were captured by the Islamic combatants.

An announcement of the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps [IRGC] in Sanandaj also said today that 30 different firearms were seized by the Islamic combatants. The IRGC were supported in the operations by the armed forces and the air force supported the infantry divisions of the armed forces. The strategic heights of Kuh-e Sang-e Korsi and other heights overlooking the villages of Zangan and Malekshahi were captured by the Islamic combatants.

57 'Outlaws' Killed

[Text] Tehran, 25 Apr (IRNA) -- The important heights of Kuh-e Sang-e Korsi, the pass of Korsi, and the heights neighbouring the villages of Zangan and Malekshahi in Marivan (Kordestan Province) were liberated and came under the control of the Islamic combatants, the IRGC [Islamic Revolution Guards Corps] headquarters said today.

The announcement added that during these successful operations several other villages were mopped up and at least 57 outlaws were killed while 13 others were captured. Also, several arms and munitions of the bandits were seized by the Islamic combatants, concluded the IRGC communique.

TROOPS CLASH WITH QASHQA'I TRIBE IN SOUTH

AFP Report

NC251626 Paris AFP in English 1536 GMT 25 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 25 Apr (AFP) -- About 30 persons died in clashes last Friday between security forces and a tribe, the Qashqa'i, in southern Iran, the daily ETTELA'AT reported today.

The newspaper said that nine members of the security forces were killed and 25 wounded, along with at least 20 tribesmen killed and about 100 arrested. The clashes were in the Firuzabad region near the city of Shiraz in southern Iran.

The newspaper said that tribesmen trying illegally to occupy a piece of land for poppy cultivation, which is also illegal, attacked an official delegation that arrived to inform them of the Shiraz public prosecutor's ruling that the tribe's chiefs must surrender themselves to the authorities.

The chief of gendarmerie was wounded during the incident and the prosecutor's representative captured.

Fighting continued throughout the day. Some of the tribesmen escaped under cover of night before the revolutionary guards succeeded in taking over the encampment, the newspaper said.

Religious Figure Killed

NC261659 Paris AFP in English 1628 GMT 26 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 26 Apr (AFP) -- Hojjat ol-Eslam Seyyed Abdollah Letafat, representative of the Friday prayer leader in the southern city of Firuzabad, was killed during clashes Friday between security forces and members of the Qashqa'i tribe, the Fars Province governor said today.

Authorities yesterday said a total 30 people died in the fighting and some 100 Qashqa'i, a southern Iranian tribe that earlier rebelled against Iran's central power in 1980, were arrested.

The governor's communique, reported by the KEYHAN newspaper, said "armed illegal elements installed by landowners arrested an unarmed clergyman who had come to hand them a message from the city's prosecutor and killed him."

It said Iranian security forces now had the "duty" to carry out against them "the sentence reserved for those who lead war against God and his prophet".

The Qashqa'i tribe has been accused of having ties to the opposition Mohahedin-e Khalq organization.

Free Voice of Iran Report

GF261850 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 26 Apr 82

[Excerpts] The Free Voice of Iran correspondent from Shiraz reports that the attack of Khomeyni's hireling revolution guards against the valiant Qashqa'i tribesmen has been defeated.

The regime's guards had planned to ambush the self-sacrificing Qashqa'is but were faced with the retaliation of these courageous persons and were forced to retreat after sustaining heavy casualties. The brave Qashqa'is succeeded in killing some of the revolution guards and seized some arms and ammunition. The revolution guards, who were compelled to retreat from the Firuzabad area, attacked some villages en route out of sheer vengeance and beat up some of the villagers in their plundering spree.

According to our reporter from Shiraz, further and more intense clashes are expected between the revolution guards and the Qashqa'i warriors.

The leader of the Qashqa'i, Mr Khosrow Qashqa'i, is involved in an underground struggle against the regime.

Guards Raze Camp

[Text] As mentioned in previous newscasts, a camp of the mercenary feudalists and armed ruffians in the Firuzabad area has been razed. We have a report on the operation which will be carried on the Vision of the Islamic Republic of Iran -- Shiraz center, at 1930 tonight.

Fighting Continues

GF261840 (Clandestine) Radio Iran in Persian to Iran 1330 GMT 26 Apr 82

[Text] According to reports reaching us from (?Shiraz), the bloody battle between Khomeyni's guards and southern tribes rages on. By Saturday, over 150 guards had been killed and hundreds more wounded in the clashes. Shiraz hospitals are full of wounded guards. There are no accurate statistics of casualties among the tribes due to the scattered nature of the clashes. However, the dastardly attack of the guards against migrating families has inflicted heavy casualties on women and children.

The main problem currently faced by the tribes is the lack of health care and medicine for the wounded women and children.

Sources in Khomeyni's regime have announced that the southern tribes have suffered 20 casualties. They claimed that they were killed while resisting officials of the antipoppy cultivation organization. Of course, the emptiness and inaccuracy of reports from the regime's propaganda machinery -- considering former reports from Iranian radio -- do not require further explanations.

The criminal Khomeyni gang used helicopter gunships against the caravans of women and children in order to inflict the heaviest possible casualties against the migrating tribes. According to reports reaching Radio Iran, on Saturday 24 April, two helicopters carrying guards were shot down by the brave combatants of the southern tribes.

The officials of Khomeyni's regime, who had not expected such brave resistance from the southern tribes, have hastily started strengthening their forces. In the past few days thousands of guards have been dispatched to Fars Province from various parts of the country. Several C-130 aircraft have also transported regime guards from Tehran to Shiraz and have returned with the bodies of destroyed guards and a number of wounded.

According to various dispatches, all tribes in the south are defending their honor and principles against the barbaric murderers of Khomeyni's regime in an unprecedented united front. The latest dispatches which we received today report the continuation of bloody and widespread battles between the tribes and Khomeyni's guards in various parts of Fars Province.

Bakhtiar Message to Tribes

GF270412 (Clandestine) Radio Iran in Persian to Iran 1330 GMT 26 Apr 82

[Report on message by Shapur Bakhtiar for Qashqa'i and other southern tribes -- read by announcer; date not given]

[Text] Dr Shapur Bakhtiar, the leader of the National Resistance Movement of Iran, said the following in his message:

Sisters and brothers of the Qashqa'i and other southern tribes: In these days when the armed Khomeyni robbers have aimed their ceaseless attacks at your men and women, the hearts of all free and honorable people of the country are with you. These antinationalists who in the name of the guardians of Khomeyni's revolution have attacked your homes are only a fistful of ignoble mercenaries. You are defending your honor and principles and those of dear Iran. They have undertaken the destruction of Iranian nationalism and its ancient culture and put the destiny of our country in the hands of a few greedy and blood-sucking mullahs.

Your belief is the defense of everlasting Iranian values. The belief of these base individuals is in the destruction of our country.

All Iranian people realize that Khomeyni's real goal is to obtain dictatorial powers in the guise of religion. The shamelessness of this cruel individual has reached such heights that he has even transgressed the sanctity and honor of Grand Ayatollah Shari'atmadari and [words indistinct] to harm the (?honor) of this noble human being who is the source of the emulation of the people.

You, the children of [words indistinct]. No honorable Iranian or soldier of the country must harm you. The account of Khomeyni's guards is separate from that of the Iranian people. They will receive what they deserve for their shameless (?and barbaric acts). [passage indistinct]

I send my message to you with wishes of success. I (?am sure) that if there had been freedom [words indistinct] from 36 million Iranians to you. Iran will never die.

WEST GERMAN POLICE ARREST MUSLIM STUDENTS

LD252202 Tehran IRNA in English 1937 GMT 25 Apr 82

[Text] Bonn, 25 April (IRNA) -- In the aftermath of clashes between counterrevolutionaries and followers of the Islamic revolution of Iran, the West German police arrested 100 Muslim students sympathetic to the Islamic revolution.

In the aftermath of the clashes in Mainz and after the West German police's claims that the arrested students possessed addresses of the counterrevolutionaries in Germany, the Iranian ambassador in Germany, Mehdi Navab, said this was another part of imperialism's plots to counter the Islamic revolution of Iran and that the German police tried to somehow relate the clashes to the Iranian Embassy in Bonn.

While stressing that the incident has nothing to do withthe Iranian Embassy in Bonn, he said the German police admitted to having arrested only 65 students while the correct number was 100.

A Muslim student said the Iranian counterrevolutionaries in Germany broke into the Muslims' dormitories two nights ago in Mainz and shattered all the windows. When the Muslims requested the university police to establish law and order, the police said they had no right to stay there and had to leave the place. After that, the student added, the Muslim students asked the German police to see into the matter, but they too supported the counterrevolutionaries and even arrested some of them. The students themselves undertook to keep the security of the area and then were faced with counterrevolutionaries supported by the German police. When they defended themselves against them the police arrested 100 students.

Israel

Begin Interview, Speech -- If the Palestinian autonomy talks are not held in Jerusalem, Israel will refuse to meet anywhere else, Prime Minister Menahem Begin said in an interview reported by Jerusalem radio. Begin also revealed that the government will shortly submit to the Knesset a motion ruling that settlements will never again be uprooted. He said he is seeking opposition support for this proposal.

Regarding the situation in Lebanon, the Israeli leader said that time and again he is reminded of his statement last year that either Philip Habib secures the removal of Syria's surface-to-air missiles from Lebanon or Israel will remove them itself. Asserting that Israel is still capable of destroying the missiles within a few hours, Begin said that had the SAM's prevented Israeli aircraft from taking photographs, Israel would have destroyed them. However, the missiles are not bothering the Israelis, but are merely causing difficulties, which the air force has surmounted. Noting that Israeli planes overfly Lebanon every day to take photographs, Begin said this does not constitute a violation of the cease-fire.

If the terrorists attack us again, Begin warned, Israel will deal them a much more serious blow than the recent air raid. If they shell Israeli settlements and civilians, Israel will consider entering Lebanon to destroy the PLO's infrastructure. Begin revealed that the United States had exercised all the means at its disposal to warn the Palestinians not to attack Israel in the wake of the air force's "marvelous operation" against terrorist bases on 21 April.

In an Independence Day speech to the nation broadcast by the radio, Begin stressed that Israel evacuated the Sinai of its own free will, not as a defeated nation, but as a victorious one. Commending the IDF for its bloodless evacuation of Yamit, Begin forgave those opponents of the withdrawal who "made mistakes, erred, even misled, even incited."

Asserting that there are grounds to hope that Egypt has left the cycle of war against Israel for a long, long time, Begin said the U.S. military presence in the Sinai guarantees freedom of shipping in the Straits of Tiran. He noted that Egypt and the United States have renewed their commitment to conduct Palestinian autonomy negotiations, but emphasized that under no circumstances will Israel grant the Palestinian a state or self-determination, which would jeopardize Israel's security.

Alignment on Begin Proposal; New Settlements -- The Alignment's reaction team has rejected Begin's proposal that the Knesset pass a motion against the removal of settlements, Jerusalem radio reported. Meanwhile, the Jewish Agency Settlement Department submitted to the government a plan for 20 new settlements in Samaria, Judaea and south of Jerusalem, the radio noted.

West Bank, Gaza Disturbances -- An IDF soldier and two Arab youths were injured during a riot in the Nabulus Casbah, Jerusalem radio reported. The IDF dispersed rioting youths in the Gaza District, according to ITIM.

Eytan Interview -- Chief of Staff Lt Gen Refa'el Eytan said in a Jerusalem television interview that the recent air force raid on terrorist targets was striking and impressive, completely destroying three bases and causing many casualties. Two Syrian MiG-23's were downed by F-16's for the first time in history. Confirming that the IDF will emphasize qualitative improvements rather than quantitative growth in the future, Eytan said the air force and the armored corps will nevertheless experience a modest growth in size.

Jordan

King Husayn Speech -- One of the most cherished aspirations of the Arabs is to see the Arab nation, including Egypt and all noble Arab countries, resume its unified march and continue its mission in support of justice until all Arab territory, including Jerusalem, is returned to the Arabs, King Husayn said in a speech, broadcast live by Amman radio, inaugurating the third National Consultative Council. Israel is in a race with time and events to create a status quo and to surprise Arabs, Muslims and the whole world by annexing the West Bank and Gaza Strip, Husayn remarked earlier in the speech. The village leagues are just a new chapter in this tragedy which Israel is exploiting to give "false legality" to its aggression and occupation, to break the international isolation which threatens it, to sidestep the UN resolutions and to obstruct any international effort based on these resolutions. Commenting on the Iran-Iraq war and Jordan's clear stand in support of Iraq, Husayn said Jordan is pained to see some Arabs stand by Iran and provide it with weapons and money.

Weapons Request -- U.S. Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger stated that Jordan will submit a request asking the United States to supply Jordan with weapons, Amman radio reported.

PLO

There will be a "gradual and cautious" change in the direction of Egypt returning to the Arab fold and in a normalization between Cairo and the PLO, PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat predicted in an interview published on 23 April by the FRG paper DIE ZEIT. Everything will depend on the Egyptians themselves, including "the opposition forces," he added.

Egypt

Interior Minister Hasan Abu Basha announced the release of 353 persons who had been detained under the emergency law, MENA reported.

Lebanon

In a statement broadcast by Beirut radio, Muslim leaders in Beirut called for a general strike on 28 April to protest the assassination of Shaykh Ahmad 'Assaf. Voice of Lebanon radio opined that 'Assaf's opposition to the establishment of local councils in west Beirut was the primary reason for his assassination.

Iraq

Syria's decision to stop the flow of Iraqi oil through its territory is equivalent to sending 10 Syrian military divisions to fight on the side of the Iranians, President Saddam Husayn asserted at a meeting with Kuwaiti newspaper editors, KUNA reported. Husayn criticized Arab silence on the Syrian decision, but stressed that it would not affect Iraq. The president expressed doubt that Washington and Moscow wish to end the Iran-Iraq war. The Soviet Union and the United States say they wish to end the war, but words are one thing and real intentions are something else, he added.

Iran

Ayatollah Kazem Shari'atmadari's son-in-law, Ahmad Abbasi, revealed new facts linking Saudi Arabia with the recent coup plot, Tehran radio reported citing a Tehran television interview. According to Abbasi, Mehdi Mahdavi, one of the participants in the plot, said he had met with King Khalid's brother 'Abdallah who told him Saudi Arabia is prepared to cooperate with the new regime. Abbasi said Mahdavi also mentioned that the Saudi regime would allow Shari'atmadari to go to Saudi Arabia provided he would engage in intensive activities against Iran, the radio added.

'ABDOL QADER SPEAKS ON REVOLUTION ANNIVERSARY

[Speech by Gen 'Abdol Qader, acting minister of defense, on 27 April at the parade grounds in Kabul on the occasion of the fourth anniversary of the April Revolution -- recorded]

[Text] In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. Esteemed Comrade Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee, chairman of the DRA Revolutionary Council and the supreme commander of the heroic and proud Armed Forces of Afghanistan; soldiers, NCC's, officers, generals, comrades and honorable compatriots of revolutionary Afghanistan; toilers of all nationalities, tribes and ethnic groups of our free, independent and proud homeland; friends and respected foreign guests: First, I present to you my warmest and most sincere congratulations on behalf of the Afghan Armed Forces on the occasion the fourth anniversary of glorious April Revolution.

We celebrate the fourth anniversary of the April Revolution under circumstances in which great victories have been achieved by the revolution and people. (?The formation) of a united and collective system to defend the revolution and people, composed of the army, border forces, sarandoy, security organs, revolution defense groups and voluntary tribal groups, have dealt fatal and decisive blows at the major positions of the enemies of the honor and pride of our people, the enemies of the freedom and independence of our homeland. The counterrevolutionary elements have been crushed and popular power is being consolidated in all provinces and parts of the country.

The new development stage of the April Revolution, the phase of the salvation of the revolution and people, has brought about great changes for the toiling masses of Afghanistan. It has created grounds for a social base, popular power and unity of all progressive forces around the party, the PDPA. It has consolidated the independence of our country and has provided suitable conditions for profound social, economic and cultural changes and the satisfaction and prosperity of our people.

The PDPA national conference has defined the present task of the national democratic revolution on the basis of a scientific study of the social and economic conditions of Afghanistan and has specified the important and responsible duty of the armed forces in maintaining lasting peace on the national (?level). The PDPA action plan and the resolutions of the party national conference open clear and bright horizons before every toiling individual of our country.

The daily-increasing successes of the April Revolution has angered U.S. imperialism, Chinese hegemony, regional reaction and their international collaborators. They are crazily continuing the undeclared war against revolutionary Afghanistan. The stationing of the forces of U.S. imperialism in the Indian Ocean, Gulf and Pakistan has seriously endangered the countries of the region and world peace. Therefore, our revolutionary party and government consider the continuous strengthening of the armed forces for safeguarding the gains of the April Revolution, our national independence, territorial integrity and national sovereignty as its most important tasks. As Babrak Karmal said in his speech to the Seventh PDPA Central Committee Plenum: The enhancement of the militant and political readiness of all categories of the military; and the all-round improvement of the party and political work with personnel in the armed forces and sarandoy, is a central question in strengthening the DRA Armed Forces. Our heroic armed forces, with the selfless aid of the great Soviet Union, are better equipped and stronger today than ever before. The revolutionary discipline, professional and political consciousness and the combat readiness and professional skill of the troops, NCO's and officers have been raised to high levels and are developing further every day. No power in revolutionary Afghanistan [as heard] or in the world has the (?power) to break the determination of our awakened people in renewing the revolution.

Our people in their just and right struggle against internal and external counterrevolutionaries are not alone. Our brother country the great USSR, this strong (?fortress) of freedom and prosperity; socialist countries; international workers movements; national liberation movements and all progressive humanity are with us. Our heroic armed forces look with gratitude at the internationalist and selfless help of the great USSR; we will never forget this assistance. We assure the free and heroic people of Afghanistan, the PDPA Central Committee, the DRA Revolutionary Council and personally you Babrak Karmal that the armed forces staff, with high combat readiness and political consciousness, will annihilate and eliminate the vestiges of counterrevolutionaries. The armed forces troops, NCO's and officers, by expressing self-sacrifice to the party and people, are ready to defend the gains of the April Revolution and the independence and national sovereignty of the DRA.

Long live the glorious April Revolution! Long live the people of Afghanistan and their proud armed forces! Long live the PDPA, this leading force of the society! Forward toward prospering, beloved revolutionary Afghanistan!

USSR'S MAKEYEV SPEAKS ON REVOLUTION ANNIVERSARY

LD272108 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 27 Apr 82

[Speech by Valentin Makeyev, member of the CPSU Central Committee and deputy chairman of the USSR Council of Ministers, in Kabul; Makeyev speaks in Russian with Dari translation superimposed; date not given -- recorded]

[Text] Dear friends, first of all allow me to express my hearty thanks for the invitation extended to the Soviet party and Government to take part in the celebration of the fourth anniversary of the April Revolution. We have (?accepted) your invitation with gratitude and sincere feelings.

Allow me on behalf of the Soviet people, the CPSU Central Committee, the USSR Supreme Soviet Presidium and the Soviet Government, to present the most sincere congratulations to the PDPA, the Revolutionary Council and the Government of the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan and all the people of Afghanistan on the occasion of your national celebration. With profound satisfaction I carry out the (?instructions) of Comrade L.I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee and chairman of the USSR Supreme Soviet Presidium, and Comrade N. Tikhonov, chairman of the USSR Council of Ministers, and convey their sincere regards and best wishes to Babrak Karmal and Comrade Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand personally, and to all Politburo members, the PDPA Central Committee, the Revolutionary Council, the DRA Government and to all the friendly people of Afghanistan.

Four years ago the national-democratic antifeudal revolution was brought to victory by the will of the working people of Afghanistan under the leadership of your proud party. The revolution opened the way for the construction of a new society, the (?consolidation) of independence and national freedom for the Afghan people. The April Revolution is a gigantic step from backwardness toward progress, development and all-round prosperity and its victory provided all necessary conditions for the solution of all socioeconomic problems in the interest of the Afghan working people.

During the new stage of the April Revolution the PDPA and the DRA Government have accomplished much toward solving the socioeconomic problems of the revolution, toward enhancing the living standards of the people and the development of culture with consideration for national traditions and customs. The sovereignty of the popular state is being strengthened from day to day and the representatives of various strata of society join the ranks of active builders of the country from day to day. The plan to further stabilize the situation in the country is being successfully implemented and all individuals of the country are participating in solving daily socioeconomic problems.

The profound social changes which are occurring in your country have unbreakable links with the leading role of the PDPA and its great constructive activity in society.

During the new stage, the party was able to overcome those problems which it faced, to unite its ranks and to coordinate all the people and patriotic forces of society in defense of the homeland and the revolution.

The PDPA national conference which was convened a while ago and which appointed the party general secretary and which determined the general policy of the party leadership toward revolutionary changes, is considered the most important event in the history of the country. It (?secured) more than ever before the broad and daily-increasing support of the national and patriotic forces of the country in defense of the homeland and the revolution, in building a new society in accordance with the principles of progress, social justice and the fight against foreign interference.

These activities of the PDPA which [word indistinct] of the indefatigable efforts of the party leadership toward maintaining an atmosphere of good understanding in its ranks and the goal [as heard] of organizational and ideological legality, broadening the party ranks and consolidating party discipline, is going ahead successfully, as is the enhancement of ideological and political work. Improvement of the standard of party cadres as well as seeking more improved and developed methods of political work among the people, had special (?influence).

The celebration of the fourth anniversary of the April Revolution is being held under such circumstances when international imperialism and its collaborators have unleashed a cruel war against the popular regime and the legal government of your country with the help of internal reaction and infiltrated gangs. With their aggressive aims they continue the undeclared war against Afghanistan. They want to return the country to its feudalist past: to make the free and independent country submit to alien imperialist forces. [Words indistinct] hostile and organized resistance and (?confrontation) and patriotic forces of the country, at the head of which is the PDPA (?are working for) unity.

The CPSU and all our people, pursuing the ancient and traditional friendship between Afghanistan and the USSR and in consideration of the principles of international solidarity, resolutely support the people of Afghanistan in building a new society. The Soviet people, who are engaged in great constructive work toward implementing the resolutions of the 26th CPSU Congress, welcome with pleasure the victories of the people of Afghanistan and the revolutionary changes in the country which respect national traditions and customs.

After the victory of the April Revolution, relations between Afghanistan and the USSR achieved a new content and have been transformed into fraternal relations and revolutionary solidarity. This was reflected in the treaty on friendship and good neighborliness.

As was mentioned in the telegrams from Comrades L.I. Brezhnev and N. Tikhonov to the leader of the Afghan party and Government and to all the Afghan people, the Soviet Union will continue to assist the DRA in developing its economy and national culture, in struggle against armed aggression and other kinds of imperialist interferences from abroad, and in maintaining and justly stabilizing the political situation around Afghanistan.

Allow me once again to wish the PDPA, the Revolutionary Council, the DRA Government and all the comrades and dear friends, further successes for the prosperity and well-being of the friendly Afghan people in building a new society, in defending the gains of the April Revolution.

Long live friendship and solidarity between the CPSU and PDPA!

Let friendship between the Soviet peoples and the people of the DRA be strong and developing!

KARMAL SENDS GREETINGS TO SOVIET LEADERS

GF280510 Kabul in English to South Asia 1530 GMT 27 Apr 82

["Text" of acknowledgement message sent by Babrak Karmal and Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand to the leaders of the USSR]

[Text] Comrade Leonid Il'ich Brezhnev, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CCCPSU) and President of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the USSR; and Comrade Nikolay Aleksandrovich Tikhonov, chairman of the Council of Ministers of the USSR: On behalf of the Central Committee of the People's Democratic Party of Afghanistan (CCPDPA), Revolutionary Council and Government of the DRA, all the people of Afghanistan, and on our own behalf, we express our heartfelt gratitude for your greetings and best wishes on the occasion of the fourth anniversary of the Sawr Revolution [words indistinct] warm and friendly words to the CCPDPA, Revolutionary Council and Government of DRA, and the people of Afghanistan, as manifestation of your (?constant care and consideration) to the (?aims of) our national democratic revolution in constructing a new society in the DRA. We express our deep appreciation for your (?right) evaluation of the role of the PDPA in normalizing the situation in the country and in carrying out basic social and economic (?plans and) missions for the benefit of the vast [word indistinct] of the people. Without that (?certain) evaluation is an important motive for all our subsequent activities in the realization of the decisions taken by the countrywide conference of PDPA which was recently convened. The Politburo of the CCPDPA, Revolutionary Council and Government of DRA will make all efforts to achieve great successes in pursuance of the decisions in consolidation of [word indistinct] with the masses of the people, unite national progressive and patriotic forces, and their mobilization during the active struggle against the imperialist intervention and the (?eradication) of the counterrevolution. As the [words indistinct] of the national democratic revolution in Afghanistan the relations between our countries have become full of new qualitative contacts and have turned into relations of our revolutionary [word indistinct] solidarity, and all-sided cooperation.

The expansion of these relations is an important factor in the consolidation of the independence of Afghanistan and serves the cause of peace and security in Asia. The basic principles of Afghan-Soviet relations and an (?unshakable) friendship between the people of Afghanistan and the Soviet Union has been reflected in the treaty of friendship [word indistinct] cooperation [words indistinct] the people of Afghanistan welcome with feelings of satisfaction the valuable and all kinds of assistances rendered to them by the Soviet people in constructing a new life and defending (?national) independence in the (?center) and provinces of the DRA.

We consider this assistance as the high manifestation of revolutionary and internationalistic (?fraternity) and solidarity of the great country of Vladimir I. Lenin, with the revolution and people of Afghanistan.

We wish for the fraternal people of the Soviet Union, the CPSU, the Soviet Government, and personally for you distinguished comrades for the successes in your noble endeavor in the implementation of your high and [word indistinct] program of [words indistinct] of the CPSU and in the struggle of the reduction of [words indistinct] overall state security and progress in the world.

[Signed] Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the CCPDPA and president of the Revolutionary Council of DRA

VIOLENCE BREAKS OUT IN AMRITSAR; ONE KILLED

BK280330 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0240 GMT 28 Apr 82

[Excerpt] Union Home Minister Zail Singh and Industry Minister N.D. Tiwari have arrived in Amritsar to assess the situation there. Punjab Chief Minister Darbara Singh also reached Amritsar yesterday evening. One person was killed in Amritsar yesterday and about half a dozen injured when police opened fire to disperse a violent mob indulging in arson in the area where curfew was imposed later. Except for another stray incident in Budhlada in Bhatinda Distinct where police fired in the air to disperse a violent crowd, no untoward incident has been reported from anywhere else in the state.

An official statement issued in Amritsar says that complete normalcy prevails all over the state except in a part of Amritsar. A report received a short while ago said that life is normal in Jullundur, Hoshiarpur, Kapurthala and surrounding areas. Peace committees in Hoshiarpur, Ropar and Bahtinda have assured the authorities of their full cooperation in maintaining peace.

Leaders of different groups have appealed to the people of Punjab to maintain peace and communal harmony.

Situation 'Under Control'

BK271620 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 27 Apr 82

[Excerpt] Punjab Chief Minister Darbara Singh has congratulated the people of Punjab for maintaining communal harmony and peace despite grave provocation by some undesirable elements. Talking to All-India Radio's Chandigarh correspondent, the chief minister appreciated that the Amritsar incident has been condemned by leaders of all groups. He said the situation in the state in general, and in Amritsar in particular, is under control. Some antisocial elements have been rounded up in Amritsar as a preventive measure.

Darbara Singh said a request has been made to the Shiromani Gurdwara Prabandhak Committee authorities not to allow culprits wanted by the police in specific criminal cases to seek shelter in religious places under their control.

TIBETAN DELEGATION LEAVES DELHI FOR BEIJING

[Excerpt] New Delhi, 28 Apr (AFP) -- A three-member delegation representing the Dalai Lama, the spiritual and temporal leader of the 6 million Tibetans, has left for Beijing to assess living conditions in Chinese-ruled Tibet and explore the prospects for a rapprochement between the Chinese and the Tibetan god king.

A spokesman for the Dalai Lama said the high-ranking delegation left last Saturday [24 April] for Beijing to "keep up the contacts with the Chinese leadership established in 1979". The contacts had been suspended since July 1980 following an unprecedented demonstration of support for the living Buddhist deity in Lhasa, Tibet's capital during a visit of a Tibetan delegation there.

The spokesman, Tashi Wongdi, said the delegation, comprising two members of the Dalai Lama's government-in-exile ("Kashag") -- Education Minister Juchen Thupten and Security Minister P.T. Takla -- as well as Lodi Gyari, the chairman of the Tibetan Parliament, would visit several areas of Tibet, including Lhasa, during their 2-week tour.

This is fourth Tibetan delegation to visit China since 1979 when the Dalai Lama and the Chinese reestablished contacts and agreed to explore prospects for a rapprochement.

'AZIZI, SOVIET CHARGE DISCUSS SINAI WITHDRAWAL

LD271248 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 27 Apr 82

[Text] Mr (Saulchenkov), the charge d'affaires of the USSR Embassy in Tehran, has met and conferred with Mr Ahmad 'Azizi, the deputy minister of foreign affairs. Various issues and recent developments were discussed.

The USSR charge d'affaires submitted a statement and elaborated on the stance adopted by his country with regard to the evacuation of the Sinai region [by Israeli forces] and their replacement by Western peace forces.

The deputy foreign minister said: The Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Islamic Republic of Iran has announced its categorical opposition to this act, which is in effect a reoccupation of the Sinai Desert following the so-called withdrawal of Zionist forces. Iran has issued statements and met officials since the first stage of the move to station Western, so-called peace-keeping forces in the area. We believe that with the stationing of these forces, the evacuation of usurping Zionist forces from the occupied lands will never be realized and their occupation will continue under a different guise.

The fact that world-wide oppression and the Zionist regime have been forced to resort to such a guile in order to continue their domination is a sign of the speedy progress of the Islamic movement and development of revolutionary awareness among Arab and Muslim people and no doubt we will witness the results in the near future. It would be all too simple to ignore the importance of public opinion and revolutionary moves within the Egyptian nation, and to believe that the Zionist regime and the Americans have resorted to such a (?trick) in order to satisfy the mercenary regime of Husni Mubarak, since there is no difference between this regime and the Sadatist regime ruling over Egypt and, would readily tolerate peaceful coexistence with the Zionist regime, even in the heart of Cairo.

FOREIGN MINISTRY STATEMENT ON SINAI WITHDRAWAL

[Statement issued by the Foreign Ministry of the Islamic Republic of Iran -- date not given]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Following the showy evacuation of the Sinai and the replacement of soldiers of the occupying regime of Jerusalem by NATO forces, reactionary Arab regimes are making fresh efforts to bring back the usurping regime of Husni Mubarak to the Arab world. Everyone knows that there is no difference between the annihilated As-Sadat and Husni Mubarak, this murderer of young Egyptian Muslims and this continuer of Camp David's shameful plan. Everyone knows that the evacuation of the Sinai Desert not only has not terminated the occupation of the Islamic territories, but rather has brought Cairo under the domination of the usurping Zionist regime.

This domination is so strong that the Egyptian regime not only did not protest against all the crimes committed by Israel in Jerusalem and other Islamic lands, or against the savage Israeli raid on southern Lebanon, which resulted in the martyrdom and injury of Palestinian and Lebanese Muslims, rather it approved these Israeli crimes.

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Islamic Republic of Iran hereby announces that this last-ditch effort of the reactionary Arab regimes proves the claim that they have always supported the Camp David accord. Now, for the continuation of this treacherous path, these regimes intend to prepare the grounds to impose similar plans and drag Arab and Muslim forces into a compromise with Israel.

The Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran, together with Muslim masses and progressive Arab countries of the steadfastness front, condemns this plot and will strongly oppose it.

OIL SALES TALKS HELD WITH DPRK DELEGATION

LD271210 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 27 Apr 82

[Text] Following a meeting between North Korean Premier Yi Chong-ok and our oil minister, Gharazi, the two countries have begun talks on the sale of 5 million tons of oil.

Honardust, Oil Ministry under secretary and the Iranian chairman of the Iran-Korea oil talks, commenting on the deal, said to a Central News Unit correspondent: During a visit to Iran last month by the North Korean deputy oil minister, Korea purchased 1 million tons of oil from Iran. In the present round of talks, the sale of 5 million tons of oil to Korea, as well as financial and barter relations, is being discussed.

The two countries today continue wide-ranging economic talks. The talks are being held by industrial, mining, trade, agriculture, energy, and roads and construction committees at the under secretaries level.

COMMERCE MINISTER RECEIVES DPRK PREMIER

LD271646 Tehran IRNA in English 1602 GMT 27 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 27 Apr (IRNA) -- The Prime Minister of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK) Mr Yi Chong-ok, currently in Iran heading a political mission, met and conferred today with the commerce minister, Habibollah 'Asgar-Owladi-Mosalman, and also with the foreign trade deputy of the same ministry. In this visit, 'Asgar-Owladi-Mosalman first stated that the Islamic Republic of Iran and the DPRK were two countries with two [word indistinct] revolutions, but united in struggling against imperialism. He added, therefore, Iran was interested in having friendly ties with those friendly countries and also was interested in meeting its requirements from those countries as well.

The DPRK prime minister, while confirming the Iranian commerce minister's statements, expressed his hope that in the course of this visit, bilateral possibilities for expanding commercial and economic relations would be better identified. At the end of the meeting both parties expressed the hope that those negotiations be reviewed in the pertinent committees, and a final agreement achieved.

KHAMENE'I ON AFGHANISTAN, PALESTINIAN REVOLUTION

GF271051 Tehran International Service in Arabic 2000 GMT 26 Apr 82

[Text] In an interview with our correspondent on the war imposed on Iran, President Khamene'i said: We are confident that the future of the war will be in the favor of Iran and the Islamic revolution.

On the issue of resolving the Afghan problem, President Khamene'i said: It is the Muslim Afghan people who will determine their own fate. We reject the proposal that calls for tripartite talks among Iran, Afghanistan and Pakistan to resolve this issue.

On the Islamic uprising by the Palestinian people, President Khamene'i said: Muslim peoples and governments which brag over their support for Palestine must fan this spark and states must employ their potentials in the service of this uprising.

The president called on Muslim Arab countries to use their economic potential, including the oil weapon, to pressure governments that are hostile to the Arabs and that support the Zionist entity -- the United States, France and Britain. He reiterated Iran's readiness to offer military aid to support the Islamic Palestinian revolution.

REVOLUTION GUARDS ISSUE MESSAGE ON AFGHANISTAN

[Text] The Public Relations Office of the Central Islamic Revolution Guards Corps issued a statement today on the anniversary of the coup d'etat in Afghanistan. Referring to the martyrdom of the Muslim forces and the brave people of Afghanistan who have irrigated the Islamic movement in their country with their own blood, the statement said that:

The brave and Muslim Iranian nation, while lending its complete support to the ideological and martyrdom-seeking movement of the Muslim nation of Afghanistan, believes that only through reliance upon beloved Islam and an armed jihad can they respond to the aggressive enemy, expel them from the Islamic country of Afghanistan and establish an Islamic government. Only the "Neither Eastern nor Western" movement which is based on Koranic and ideological values can liberate the deprived people throughout the world from their bondage and to bestow well-being upon them.

AFGHANS DEMONSTRATE AGAINST KABUL REGIME

[Excerpts] According to a Central News Unit report, thousands of Muslim Afghans resident in Tehran paraded this morning to mark the anniversary of the establishment of a coup d'etat regime in Afghanistan. The marchers gathered at Imam Hoseyn Square.

Having gathered at Imam Hoseyn Square, the marchers read a resolution which condemned the coup d'etat regime and demanded the unconditional withdrawal of the Soviet forces from the Islamic country of Afghanistan. The resolution also stated: The Muslim Afghan nation demands the fulfillment of the Islamic mission by all Muslim countries with regard to the Afghan issue. The resolution also condemned the Saddam regime's aggression against Iran.

A Central News Unit report from the provinces says that similar marches were also staged in Zahedan, Esfahan, Yazd and Mashhad.

TEHRAN REPORTS ON FIGHTING IN AFGHANISTAN

Soviet Helicopter Downed

LD242012 Tehran IRNA in English 1920 GMT 24 Apr 82

[Text] Zahedan, 24 Apr (IRNA) -- The Afghan Muslim mujahidin fighting the Soviet backed Kabul regime last week downed one Soviet helicopter which was bombing the mujahidin's bases in an area in Herat Province, according to the office of the Afghan Muslim mujahidin in Zahedan, bordering Afghanistan.

The report further added that several Soviet helicopters kept mujahidin bases under fire for three hours. but the mujahidin suffered no losses. The pilots of the aircraft shot down died in the incident.

40 Civilians Killed

[Text] The Bahraini Government, following Saddam's lead, has expelled about 60 oppressed of the shaykhdom in an inhuman way. These refugees arrived in Bandar-e Lengeh in three groups at the beginning of this year and have taken refuge in the arms of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

IRNA, citing officials of the Interior Ministry, reports that the expelled Bahrainis have been warmly welcomed by officials in Hormozgan Province.

It is noteworthy that the Al Khalifah regime's action comes at a time when the Iraqi Ba'thist regime has expelled more than 2,400 Muslims of that country in very poor condition to Iran.

TABAS OPERATION REVIEWED ON ANNIVERSARY

GF260430 Tehran International Service in Arabic 1755 GMT 25 Apr 82

[Text] What happened on this day 2 years ago has joined the legends before which future generations will bow their heads. They will bow to a divine revolution which God fated to confront the strongest country in the world with miraculous determination. Westerners denied the miracle, but what they saw through their satellites that relayed live the transformation of the U.S. aircraft into ashes in the Tabas Desert made them reconsider their convictions and review their calculations in the face of the Islamic revolution.

Throughout a period of full 5 months, 82 U.S. officers were being trained by the best instructors in a region that is climatically and geographically similar to the Islamic Republic of Iran in (?Arizona). The primary aim of the training was to topple the Islamic Republic and then to rescue the U.S. hostages. In (?Arizona) the U.S. Government constructed a structure similar to the U.S. Embassy so that those implementing the operation would have more realistic experience. At the zero hour U.S. aircraft took off from airports in Cairo and Oman toward an airstrip in the Tabas Desert. On midnight on 25 April [1980] the aircraft landed at their designated positions.

At those pitch-black moments in the heart of the desert, which was empty of everything except Almighty God, in the White House Carter sounded the alarm signaling the beginning of the operation. As soon as the commando squad received the signal, a violent storm broke out which destroyed the engines of the aircraft whose debris was scattered across the arid desert. In the morning the sun shone above the debris scattered across a wide area of the arid desert -- all that was left of the abortive operation and of the $100 million allocated for it.

With this incident the world remembered the historic event that occurred in the year of the prophet's birth, the year of the elephant [570 A.D.]. The year of the elephant returned after 15 centuries aboard the giant U.S. aircraft which began their journey from the remotest part of the earth, to Cairo and Oman, and then to the Tabas Desert.

How the past repeats itself, and how similar are the U.S. aircraft that came to destroy the edifice is Islam to the elephants that came to destroy the Ka'bah, and how similar is Abraha [the leader of the Ethiopian Army that marched toward Mecca in 570 A.D.] to Carter, and how similar is the storm that God sent in the desert to the stones of baked clay carried by birds in flight! It is God's miracle that made the tyrants lose their senses, and -- according to Brzezinski in his new book published in London -- shocked and terrified Carter as though struck by a sharp knife. It is God's judgment on any hand that seeks to harm sanctities. This hand has been sentenced to be severed from the wrist. From that moment when the U.S. aircraft were destroyed, the world realized that Iran's Islamic revolution is predestined by God and cannot be harmed by any power on earth.

The Muslim people of Iran increased their faith in the nobility of this revolution and its close divine links and also sensed the divine hand that fosters this divine revolution and supplies it with divine strength. However, the enemies who have been blinded by their inherited hatred from seeing the facts persisted in their plots and did not learn from their successive setbacks. Following this abortive coup, imperialism carried out several other attempts, all of which failed abysmally.

Following the awful Tabas attempt, imperialism, with the assistance of the Baghdad regime, occupied the Iranian Embassy in London -- an occupation that ended well. Once again God caused the designs of the rancorous aggressors to boomerang. Imperialism embarked on this operation to divert attention away from the great propaganda advantage gained by the Islamic revolution after the Tabas operation. Saddam's regime was sorry for the failure of the Tabas operation and hastened the following day to occupy our embassy in London. It was a flagrant aggression against the Islamic Republic, an aggression that took place 5 months prior to the launching of Saddam's treacherous war against the Islamic Republic.

The chain of imperialist-Zionist-Saddamist plots did not stop at this. They did not learn their lessons from previous abortive operations. They persisted in their evil war against the Islamic Republic. Dismal failure was their lot. The latest -- and not the last -- such U.S.-style plot was imperialism's desperate attempt to topple the Islamic revolution by killing the leader of the nation's victorious march, the Imam Khomeyni. This time imperialism used instruments with a religious Islamic face like Shari'atmadari, Mahdavi and Qotbzadeh. The U.S. terrorist apparatus believes that the popular base in Iran belongs to the Islamic leadership and the Islamic revolution. Thus, relying on this belief, the U.S. apparatus engineered a subversive plot around which was drawn an Islamic halo. The United States used only those who have been expelled from the Islamic arena such as Shari'atmadari, who has been known to our people ever sence the Islamic revolution's triumph for his tendency to seize the leadership even if this should be at the expense of religion and beliefs.

The fate of this plot is the same as the fate of all the plots hatched and abetted by the White House: failure. This is because God wants the revolution to continue along its path and wants to sever any hand that seeks to harm it. This is because this revolution is supported by God, and all the powers on earth cannot topple it.

SAUDI REGIME IMPLICATED IN COUP ATTEMPT

LD271726 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 27 Apr 82

[Text] Some new facts have been revealed about the involvement of the Saudi regime in the recent coup attempt. Mr Abbasi, Mr Shari'atmadari's son-in-law, in a television interview, revealed some new facts concerning the recent coup plot.

Despite the (?denial) by Mr Mahdavi, one of the persons involved in the plot, in his television interview Mr Abbasi confessed that in a meeting attended by Shari'atmadari, Mahdavi, Manafeqi and himself, Mr Mahdavi submitted a report about his visit to Riyadh, the capital of the Saudi Kingdom.

Mr Abbasi, quoting remarks by Mr Mahdavi in that meeting, said that during his visit to Saudi Arabia, he [Mahdavi] had been warmly welcomed by Saudi officials and that he was most ceremoniously taken to meet Amir 'Abdallah, King Khalid's brother, who told him that Saudi Arabia was prepared to cooperate with the new regime. He also disclosed an agreement by the Saudi regime for Shari'atmadari to go to Saudi Arabia, provided he would undertake strong activities against the Islamic Republic of Iran.

The text of this interview will be broadcast on television tonight.

AFP Report

NC272146 Paris AFP in English 2130 GMT 27 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 27 Apr (AFP) -- Saudi Arabia was ready to give political refuge to Iran's second-ranking spiritual leader, Ayatollah Shari'atmadari, his son-in-law said in a televised confession tonight.

The son-in-law, Ahmad Abbasi, was arrested last April 14, accused of taking part in a plot against the Iranian regime. In the telecast, he said one of the plotters went to Saudi Arabia and encountered a certain "Amir Abdallah" who, he said, was "one of King Khalid's brothers".

Mr Abbasi said the amir told the emissary, Hojjat ol-Eslam Mehdi Mahdavi, that "Iran distressed him" and it "was impossible to work with its authorities -- but that if a proper regime were set up, Saudi Arabia was ready to have relations with it."

The arrested hojjat ol-Eslam said he provided the link between Ayatollah Shari'atmadari and former Foreign Minister Sadeq Qotbzadeh, who was the first to be implicated in the plot (on April 10). But the hojjat ol-Eslam, in his televised confession on April 22, did not mention a trip to Saudi Arabia.

Mr Abbasi's confession never indicated that the Saudi dignitary was told by Hojjat ol-Eslam Mahdavi that a plot was being prepared against Iran's Islamic Republic.

But Mr Abbasi said: Amir Abdallah stated that in case Ayatollah Shari'atmadari took refuge in Saudi Arabia, he had better make statements denouncing the Iranian regime."

The unnamed person interrogating Mr Abbasi interrupted him at this point to say: "Shari'atmadari wrote a letter to Iranian authorities requesting a visa for Saudi Arabia. That proves we had not ceased his plot and he counted on continuing it down there."

The son-in-law said the ayatollah "opposed certain aspects of the Islamic Republic. He favored an Iran without bloodshed, that is why he did not denounce the plotters to authorities."

The date Mr Abbasi's confession was filmed was not specified. He also said his father-in-law "did not know when the plot was to take place and who was to carry it out."

He is now under house arrest, according to the prosecutor of the revolutionary courts. He said Ayatollah Shari'atmadari's own statement will soon be shown on television.

SHARI'ATMADARI SUPPORTERS WARN OFFICIALS

[Text] The clandestine Free Voice of Iran has reported that the Shari'at Front has issued a night letter warning that any of the state's mullahs or any other official who continues to insist on impudently attacking Ayatollah Seyyed Kazem Shari'atmadari will be condemned to death as far as the front is concerned. It should be noted that the Shari'at Front is made up of supporters of Ayatollah Shari'atmadari. The front announced its formation following the regime's savage attack on the source of imitation in a protest night letter distributed in Tehran, Mashhad, Qom and Tabriz.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 868

[Communique 868 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The aggressive, though declining, enemy launched a desperate attack in the Kenareh Marivan region at 1000 on 25 April 1982, which was met with sharp reaction from our army's heroic combatants. The powerful artillery fire and the selfless combatants of the Ground Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran crushed the Saddamist forces, halted their movements and inflicted heavy casualties and losses on them. The enemy killed or wounded were so many that evacuation of the dead and wounded lasted for many hours. During this engagement, five enemy RPG-7's and Kalashnikovs were captured and three Iraqi soldiers were taken prisoner by our forces.

Yesterday, exchange of artillery and heavy-weapon fire continued sporadically on most of the fronts in the western parts of the country. The intensity of this firing was greater in Meymak than on other fronts.

According to reports, our ground forces' selfless combatants on each of the western fronts, while silencing fire by Iraqi forces, destroyed several supply points and a number of personnel positions together with their servicemen. Observed enemy losses on the Sumar front were one 75-mm weapon and one ammunition dump.

On the Gilan-e Gharb front, thanks to artillery fire on enemy tank positions, a number of Saddamist tanks were set ablaze and destroyed.

Exchange of fire continued on the Ilam fronts between the Islamic Republic's Gendarmerie and the Iraqi forces. Losses suffered by the Saddamist forces on one of these fronts were 15 killed or wounded and the destruction of more than 5 bunkers.

During an exchange of fire on the Malekshahi front, enemy positions came under intense mortar fire from the gendarmerie combatants. As a result, a Saddamist ammunition dump was set ablaze and more than 30 enemy servicemen were either killed or wounded.

On the Abadan fronts, a number of enemy machinegun emplacements and trenches were destroyed. On the Baneh and Marivan fronts, exchange of fire continued between our forces and the enemy and, thanks to fire opened on the positions of the Saddamists in the Hargineh and Biarreh region, an enemy antiaircraft gun and several trenches were destroyed and the movement of enemy traffic was prevented.

Thanks to heavy-artillery fire opened by our ground forces on enemy artillery positions on the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts, while giving full support to the fire opened by the units of Islamic forces deployed in those regions, seven 130-mm artillery pieces of the Saddamists were destroyed. Other enemy losses on the Abadan front were: the destruction of four bunkers, one ammunition dump and one engineering vehicle.

Yesterday two Iraqi Muslim engineers gave themselves up and requested asylum from the forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Yesterday a number of raiding aircraft of the aggressive Iraqi Army, intending to violate the airspace of several border towns in the war zones, were forced to flee thanks to fire opened by antiaircraft units of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

PROFESSOR KILLED IN QASHQA'I-GUARDS CLASH

NC271704 (Clandestine) Radio Iran in Persian to Iran 1330 GMT 27 Apr 82

[Summary] "Reports have been received from Shiraz stating that university professor Dr Najafi was killed during an attack by Khomeyni's revolution guards on the Qashqa'i tribe.

"Dr Najafi, who was one of Tehran University's outstanding professors and a member of the Qashqa'i tribe, had returned to Fars Province following the commencement of the raid by Khomeyni's clique on the universities and the harassment of professors and students" so that he could join the ranks of his tribe.

Other reports have spoken of continued clashes between the tribes and revolution guards in various parts of Fars Province. A French newspaper has reported that the representative of the Friday imam of west Firuzabad was killed during clashes on Friday between revolution guards and the Qashqa'i tribe.

Israel

West Bank, Gaza Unrest -- IDF soldiers fired at stone-throwing demonstrators near Hebron, killing one youth and injuring two others, Jerusalem radio reported. Two demonstrators were likewise injured in Nabulus. Earlier, the radio noted that five Nabulus residents were hospitalized after being shot by IDF soldiers in the course of stormy demonstrations, Jerusalem radio reported. An IDF soldier was wounded during the demonstrations in the city, which was placed under curfew. Five stone-throwing demonstrators were wounded in Ramallah, the radio said, and in clashes at the Gaza refugee camp of Jabalyah, four IDF soldiers and four of their attackers were wounded.

New Settlements, Demonstrations -- In a speech marking the establishment of Telem's Nahal settlement in the southern Hebron Hills, Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon called on Israelis to reconcile their differences by unifying round the Zionist banner of settlement, Jerusalem radio reported. Asserting that there is no connection between the Sinai evacuation and the settlement drive in Judaea, Samaria, Gaza and the Golan, Sharon said Jews and Arabs will live together in Judaea and Samaria forever. Peace Now demonstrators managed to evade IDF soldiers and interrupt Sharon's speech, the radio said, whereupon fighting broke out between the demonstrators and their opponents. Peace Now activists also demonstrated at the inauguration of a Nahal settlement in the 'Arava. Eleven Nahal settlements were established on Independence Day, the radio noted.

UK Request on Arms for Argentina -- The British Foreign Office summoned Israel's ambassador in London to ask if Israel has supplied helicopter missiles to Argentina since the invasion of the Falkland Islands, Jerusalem radio reported. Britain asked the Israelis not to supply any more arms to Argentina, according to the LONDON PRESS ASSOCIATION. However, Israeli Foreign Ministry officials have expressed "amazement" that the British Foreign Office publicized the meeting, thereby helping to spread "unfounded rumors" about Israel's stance in the Falklands crisis, Jerusalem radio noted.

Syria

Warning to Israel -- Syrian missiles in Lebanon will be fired at any Israeli aircraft within their range, a responsible Syrian source warned in reaction to Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin's latest statement on the Syrian missiles in the Al-Biqa' Valley, SANA reported. Syria will confront any Israeli aggression against the Palestinians and Lebanese, the source also cautioned.

Agreement With Fatah -- After a meeting in Damascus between Ba'th Party and Fatah officials to discuss a unified strategy of action, the two sides issued a joint statement, carried by SANA, that detailed nine points of agreement. These include: The establishment of a Syrian-PLO national strategy; agreement that the main effect of the Iraq-Iran war has been to remove Iraq from the confrontation with the "Zionist enemy"; a call for further entrenching cooperation with Iran's Islamic revolution; and agreements on the need to end the Lebanese crisis and bring about greater unity between Lebanese nationalist forces and the Palestinian Revolution.

Al-Asad USSR Visit -- President Hafiz al-Asad will shortly visit the Soviet Union, Monte Carlo radio reported citing Damascus sources.

Egypt

NDP Affairs -- President Husni Mubarak has appointed Prime Minister Dr Fu'ad Muhyi ad-Din as secretary general of the National Democratic Party (NDP), MENA reported. After an NDP Political Bureau meeting chaired by Mubarak, Muhyi ad-Din said attempts will be made to strengthen the NDP by making decisions about "leaders whose circumstances do not permit them to achieve the required performance" and by defining the party's ideology in a clearer and more accurate way, according to another MENA report. On other subjects, Muhyi ad-Din said the Political Bureau stressed that Egypt will enter the autonomy negotiations with "enthusiasm and an intense desire" to achieve the goal of full autonomy for the Palestinians.

'Arab Welcome' for Sinai Recovery -- AL-AHRAM praised the "Arab welcome" for the liberation of the Sinai as expressed by the media of a number of Arab states, MENA reported.

Lebanon

A countrywide strike was held to protest the assassination of Islamic Federations and Societies Chairman Shaykh Ahmad 'Assaf, Voice of Lebanon radio reported. Eight persons, whose identity and political affiliation have not been disclosed, have been arrested in connection with the crime, the radio added.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Two Iraqi planes were shot down by Iranian Air Force fighters and crashed in the southwestern region of Iran, according to a military communique broadcast by Tehran radio.

Iraq

The mediation of the Islamic and nonaligned committees has reached a dead end and no further hope can be pinned on it, Iraqi Deputy Prime Minister Tariq 'Aziz declared in an interview with Kuwaiti newspapers reported by INA. Emphasizing that Iran has rejected the principle of negotiations, 'Aziz added that the Islamic Good Offices Committee "has failed completely."

'Aziz attacked the United States and said it is siding with Iran and encouraging Israel to supply Iran with weapons, spare parts and military experts.

Commenting on relations with the Soviet Union, 'Aziz stressed that they are normal and that the USSR is committed to implementing all of the contracts it signed with Iran. When asked about mediation of the conflict between Syria and Iraq, 'Aziz said he believed Syria had closed all doors to efforts exerted in this regard.

Iran

Oil Sale Denial -- Government spokesman Ahmad Tavokoli denied the rumor that Iran is selling oil to the United States, Tehran's Arabic service reported.

Ahmad Khomeyni Interview -- Ayatollah Hoseyn 'Ali Montazeri "is the only person capable of assuming leadership" in Iran in the future, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni's son, Ahmad Khomeyni, said in an interview with ETTELA'AT, IRNA reported. Montazeri's "unparalleled records of struggle" and "unwavering determination" qualify him as the country's supreme religious authority in the future, Ahmad Khomeyni added.

Saudi Arabia

An official Saudi source categorically denied that Saudi Arabia had links with any member of an alleged coup plot in Iran, SPA reported. Iranian authorities publicized the details of the alleged coup attempt in an effort to influence Iranian public opinion against Saudi Arabia and convince it to get rid of the opposition to the Iranian regime, the source added.

Libya

Libya's economic position is not difficult despite the "U.S. blockade" which is supported by Saudi Arabia, Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi asserted in a speech reported by Voice of Arab Homeland radio. Saudi Arabia has flooded the world market with oil to weaken the economic position of other petroleum countries that have rejected the domineering U.S. attitude, he added.

PASHTUN LEADER GHAFAR KHAN VISITS PAKISTAN

[Text] Khan 'Abdol Ghafar Khan, the well known Pashtun militant and leader, left the DRA today by way of Towr Kham for Peshawar. He was accompanied by Sulayman Laeq, minister of nationalities and tribes; the provincial party committee secretary and governor of Nangarhar Province; the commander of Nangarhar's 11th Division and a number of officials from the party and government of Nangarhar Province; Ajmal Khatak and [words indistinct] of Pashtuns in Afghanistan as far as Towr Kham, where they bade him farewell.

According to one report, thousands of Pashtuns, including Khan 'Abdol Wali Khan, leaders of the Pakistan National Democratic Party, [words indistinct] leaders of tribes; leaders of the National Progressive Party; political, social and cultural figures; journalists; hundreds of representatives of other nationalities residing in Pakistan as well as elders, workers, peasants and students came to Towr Kham to welcome Ghafar Khan.

Speaking to the people who had come to welcome Ghafar Khan, Sulayman Laeq said: The goal of the Afghan revolution is the freedom of Afghanistan. Our revolution wants peace at home and throughout the world, but imperialism and [words indistinct] of the old world are hostile to this revolution. He said the revolution has [words indistinct] and has dealt a strong blow to the enemies.

Sulayman Laeq added: There is no force in the world capable of disrupting the fraternal relations between the Pashtuns of this side and those of the other side and (?imposing) their will on them.

The minister of nationalities and tribes assured the Pashtun tribes on behalf of the PDPA and DRA Government of their complete support and sympathy.

According to the report, Ajmal Khatak, the well-known Pashtun poet, made a statement at the Towr Kham gathering. Later the following slogans were shouted:

Long live the Afghan revolution!
Long live Pashtun brotherhood!
Babrak Karmal and Wali Khan are brothers!
Long live Ghafar Khan!
May revolutionary Afghanistan be strong!

The minister of nationalities and tribes said Khan Ghafar Khan has gone to Peshawar for a few days' rest and will later return to the DRA to serve the people of Afghanistan.

SYRIAN BA'TH PARTY DELEGATION ARRIVES 28 APR

GF281943 Kabul International Service in Arabic 1700 GMT 28 Apr 82

[Text] A Syrian delegation led by (Ahmad Qabalan), member of the Central Committee of the Syrian Ba'th Party and official of the Damascus committee, arrived in Kabul today to participate in the celebrations of the fourth anniversary of the April Revolution. The delegation was received at Kabul International Airport by a representative of the International Relations Department of the PDPA Central Committee and a number of secretaries of social organizations.

KARMAL CHAIRS SESSION ON WATER, LAND REFORM

LD270858 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0506 GMT 27 Apr 82

[Text] Kabul, 26 Apr (BAKHTAR) -- The fourth session of the joint commission of the PDPA Central Committee and the Council of Ministers of the DRA on the just and democratic land reforms was held yesterday under the chairmanship of Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA CC, president of Revolutionary Council of DRA.

Babrak Karmal drew the attention of the commission to the urgent importance of the implementation of just and democratic land reforms and water distribution and said:

The agrarian policy of the People's Democratic Party of Afghanistan is based on ensuring social justice, growth of national economy and carrying out deep social and economic transformations in the country. The implementation of these just and democratic land reforms, Karmal said, is in accord with the basic principles of the holy religion of Islam.

He added that the elimination of backwardness which resulted from unjust relations and the building of an advanced and flourishing Afghanistan, the democratic land and water reforms are an urgent task, and the realization of this task required endeavours and efforts of all the party and state organizations and organs.

The session discussed reports on the execution of the operational plans of the first, second and third complementary stages of land and water reforms.

While approving the report, the commission gave specific duties to the party and state organizations and organs for the acceleration of the implementation of the land and water reforms and distribution of official land ownership documents.

The commissions for coordination and evaluation of land reforms of the provinces were given the authority to take appropriate actions to accelerate the implementation of land reforms in keeping with the laws and regulations and to provide facilities for the distribution of land to the deserved persons.

The joint commission pointed out that though the party committees and local state organs revolutionary committees of farmers for the distribution of land and farmers' committees for the distribution of water should be formed at the earliest all over the country.

At the end the commission approved the first part of the operational plan of the fourth complementary stage of democratic land and water reforms presented by the Ministries of Public Works, Water and Power, Public Health and Education and the Rural Development Department which is to be applied in the current year in Dehsabz, Bagrami and Charasyab District of Kabul Province.

The fourth operational plan is at building, revival and repairing of infrastructural constructions of the villages such as the roads, bridges, culverts and irrigation systems, provision of hygenic drinking water, construction of health centres and schools which will be implemented side by side with the programme of land and water reforms for extending social services and consequently for the elevation of economic, social and cultural level of people especially in the villages.

The commission also approved certain main documents regarding the land and water reforms.

The other members of the tribunal are: Commander Mohammad Abdul Mujib of Bangladesh Navy; Wing Commander C.A.M. Asaqul Islam BSP; Mohammad Hamidal Haq, Magistrate First Class Comilla; and Khurshid Alam Mazumder, additional district and session judge, Dacca.

The special martial law tribunal constituted by the CMLA on 3 April 1982 shall be called Special Martial Law Tribunal Number 1.

GOVERNMENT TO ESTABLISH PRESS COMMISSION

BK250648 Hong Kong AFP in English 0616 GMT 25 Apr 82

[Text] Dacca, 24 April (AFP) -- The Bangladesh military government today decided to set up a press commission to "examine the present state of the press in the country" in response to the longstanding demand of the professional journalists in this country.

The decision to form the commission and also to examine people in the profession while making recommendations for improving professional standards was taken at a meeting of the civil-military advisory council presided over by army strongman Lt. Gen. H.M. Ershad.

The Dacca journalists had put forward certain points relating to the setting up of the press commission when Gen. Ershad visited the National Press Club last Wednesday.

The 15-member press commission, headed by a High Court or Supreme Court judge or an eminent personality, will have a life of six months beginning from May 1 next, an official announcement said.

Representatives from newspapers, news agencies, the Press Council and the Ministries of Law, Home Affairs, Defence and Information will also sit on the commission to study the growth, ownership, management pattern and financial structure of the press in Bangladesh.

It will also look after the economic viability of the newspaper industry, review the press laws to ensure freedom and responsibility and professional performance and training of journalists, the announcement said.

IMPORT OF 14 INDUSTRIAL, OTHER ITEMS BANNED

[Text] Dacca, 25 Apr (AFP) -- The military authorities have imposed an immediate ban on the import of 14 industrial and other items in line with the new regime's policy of protecting indigenous industries and maximizing their production.

The ban covers items including PVC compound (shoe grade), cellophane paper, dry cell batteries, electric light-bulbs up to 100 watts, electric ceiling fans, electrical accessories, hand sprayers, locks and padlocks of certain sizes, torch lights, telephone sets and telephone exchanges up to 10 lines.

A conditional ban has also been imposed on the import of 14 other items like cycle tires and tubes, second hand or reconditioned buses, trucks and jeeps (except microbus, minibus, coaster and pickup), aluminum conductors, fire extinguishers and steel or wooden body ships up to 1,000 tons.

Import of such items may be allowed only when necessary with specific permission from the government.

The government is to keep a close eye on market behavior so that action can be taken if necessary, it added.

DOCTORS PROHIBITED FROM SEEKING JOBS ABROAD

BK251457 Hong Kong AFP in English 1338 GMT 25 Apr 82

[Text] Dacca, 25 Apr (AFP) -- The new military government of General H.M. Ershad has banned Bangladeshi doctors from seeking jobs overseas before serving in rural areas of the country for a minimum 5 years, an official communique said today.

The communique was issued after a 6-hour meeting of the council of advisers of Chief Martial Law Administrator General Ershad.

It said that on completion of 5 years service in rural areas, the government will still only consider a small number of doctors for employment abroad, "keeping in view the requirement and number of doctors available in the country."

Most doctors, including those coming out fresh from the country's nearly one dozen medical colleges, prefer employment abroad or postings in urban areas and they sometimes decline to go to rural areas.

There are already restrictions on doctors intending to go abroad for better paid jobs. The new measure by the martial law regime is intended to help rural areas where over 91 percent of Bangladesh's 90 million people live.

GANDHI REPORTEDLY POSTPONES VISITS TO U.S., USSR

BK290616 Hong Kong AFP in English 0552 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Text] New Delhi, 29 Apr (AFP) -- India Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's visits to the United States and the Soviet Union, scheduled for this summer, are being postponed, the TIMES OF INDIA newspaper reported today.

Mrs Gandhi was due to visit the Soviet Union in June and the United States a month later. The government declined immediate comment on the report but an official announcement was expected later in the day. The U.S. Embassy also refused to confirm or deny a possible postponement.

Officials quoted by the newspaper said the postponement, less than a fortnight after the trips were announced, was due to the presidential election scheduled for the last week in June.

But the TIMES cast doubt on the officials' explanation, noting that Mrs Gandhi's candidate for the presidential post should be selected a month before the election and no major hurdle in the balloting is foreseen.

The president is elected by an electoral college comprised of votes from the parliament and the 22 state assemblies. Mrs Gandhi's Congress (I) Party is secure in 2,300 of the country's 3,200 assembly seats and 471 of the 787 seats in parliament.

"Second thoughts seem to have occurred on the usefulness of the prime minister paying visits to two countries within a narrow distance of a month," the newspaper said.

"Like the announcement of the visits, the postponement is being announced simultaneously, a clear enough indication that Mrs Gandhi prefers to accord equal importance to both superpowers."

The daily suggested the postponement was the result of "global and bilateral" considerations and added: "While there is no specific problem in the Indo-Soviet relations, a great deal of work is needed to prepare the ground for making her visit to the United States meaningful."

The U.S. decision to invite Pakistani President Gen Ziaul Haq prior to Mrs Gandhi's visit, presumbly as an indication of its policy of equating India with Pakistan, could be a factor in postponing the visit, the paper said.

"A visit by the prime minister to Washington later than now seems to be in India's reckoning a better bet in the larger bilateral relations.... A meeting at the highest level of the two governments could be both promising and risky; any disagreement at such a level could be more frustrating in resolving the issues," the paper said.

"While asking for postponement, indications are known to have been given about a possible visit to both Moscow and Washington later this year."

The paper could not say if Mrs Gandhi will stick to her plans to visit Finland, Denmark and Norway in early June.

STATESMAN COMMENTS ON GANDHI VISIT TO U.S.

BK290551 Calcutta THE STATESMAN in English 24 Apr 82 p 8

[Editorial: "To Washington With Hope"]

[Text] Mrs Gandhi was evidently pleased with her recent visit to Britain, and has every reason to be with the talks she had in Saudi Arabia. Far more important journeys are planned for the near future, and the prime minister has clearly indicated her special interest in them.

She has left no one in doubt that she regards her projected visit to the United States as a major exercise in personal diplomacy. That she would visit the Soviet Union this summer was already known: Her mention of it while disclosing her plan for the American visit was a confirmation presumably intended to create an impression of balance. But what was really needed for a balance was a dialogue in Washington, and she was obviously happy that she was going to achieve a measure of it -- at least in formal terms. It is too much to expect that this visit alone will lead to a substantive and durable balance in India's relations with the two super powers, or in New Delhi's foreign policy generally. But the prime minister would not have shown the kind of interest she did if she had not had some hope of greater understanding with the United States. It was not left to the two governments to make a formal announcement after the plan had been finalized in every detail; she herself chose to tell the press about it even before the dates and the itinerary had been settled. If there seemed to be an implied message for the Reagan administration that she was looking forward to the dialogue, it must have been fully intended. Although she is responding to a U.S. invitation, she had apparently indicated her interest much earlier.

However, the prime minister is astute and realistic enough not to expect any sudden and major change. If a reminder was needed of Washington's continued preferences and priorities, it has come from the report that President Reagan has also invited General Ziaul Haq who is likely to visit the U.S.A. before Mrs Gandhi. If the Reagan administration cannot expect India to weaken its ties with Moscow for the sake of better understanding with the United States, it would be equally naive of New Delhi to believe that Washington would allow its own interest in such understanding to damage what it perceives to be its immediate strategic interests in Southeast Asia. Despite the Reagan administration's reported willingness to recognize India as the principal power in South Asia, it may not be easily convinced that there are more important and abiding interests to be served with Indian cooperation. All that Mrs Gandhi can hope for is that her talks in Washington will contribute to this realization. She has apparently been persuaded that President Reagan is not impervious to the lessons to be drawn from the course of recent events or unmindful of the way in which India has tried to defuse tensions created by them. The belief has possibly been encouraged by the fact that, despite much hawkish rhetoric, the Reagan administration's actions have been far more restrained than feared at one time. Washington, on its part, must have noted the new orientation of New Delhi's economic policies, its evident interest in reducing its dependence on Soviet military supplies and the greater readiness with which it is now prepared to criticize certain aspects of Soviet foreign policy, though still without naming the Russians.

MORE ON VISIT OF SRV'S NGUYEN CO THACH

Meeting With Gandhi

BK281615 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 28 Apr 82

[Text] Nguyen Co Thach, who met Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi today, told a news conference later that he had apprised her about the new developments in Southeast Asia. He also exchanged views with her on steps to restore stability in the region. He said Vietnam welcomes India's contribution in this regard. He said he is fully satisfied with his 5-day visit to India and his talks with Mrs Gandhi, the external affairs minister and other ministers were fruitful.

The Vietnamese minister expressed great appreciation for India's cooperation in the economic development of his country. He said Vietnam has reserved a special place for cooperation with India and would like to have long-term arrangments. Indo-Vietnamese economic cooperation can be a model for other developing countries.

In reply to questions, Nguyen Co Thach said some areas in the agricultural field have been identified for further cooperation. These include palm oil and coconut, cotton and rubber cultivation. India could also meet Vietnam's requirements of railway equipment and help it in the rehabilitation of its sick textile mills. The two countries have agreed in principle to establish joint commission on economic and technical cooperation.

[Text] 1. At the invitation of minister of external affairs of the Republic of India, Minister for Foreign Affairs of Socialist Republic of Vietnam Nguyen Co Thach paid an official visit to India from April 24 to 29, 1982. The minister for foreign affairs of Vietnam was accompanied by his wife, Madam Phan Thi Phuc, and a number of officials.

2. The minister of foreign affairs of Vietnam laid wreaths at Rajghat and Shantivana.

3. The minister for foreign affairs of Vietnam and members of the party paid short visits to Kashmir and Khajuraho. The minister for foreign affairs of Vietnam and members of his delegation also visited sites of industrial and cultural interest.

4. The minister for foreign affairs of Vietnam, accompanied by Nguyen Quang Tao, ambassador of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam to India, called on and had cordial talks with President of India Neelam Sanjiva Reddy; Prime Minister Indira Gandhi; Finance Minister Pranab Mukherjee; Railway Minister P.C. Sethi; and Minister for Agriculture and Rural Reconstruction Rao Birendra Singh. Minister of State for Commerce S.V. Patil called on the minister for foreign affairs of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam.

5. The minister for foreign affairs and the minister of external affairs of India, aided by their respective delegations, held two rounds of discussions in a warm and friendly atmosphere. The two sides reviewed recent international developments especially in Southeast Asia. Expressing concern at continuing tensions in Southeast Asia they affirmed that the situation should not be allowed to deteriorate and that efforts should be made to resolve all outstanding problems in the region in order to reestablish conditions of peace and stability in Southeast Asia. Both sides expressed support for dialogues among the countries concerned.

6. The two sides reviewed at length bilateral cooperation in the fields of agriculture and animal husbandry, railways and industries, science and technology, and education and culture. Both sides reaffirmed that future cooperation should be in a planned manner on a long-term basis. They agreed that such cooperation in the fields specified above would be mutually beneficial, would strengthen each other's economy and would be in spirit of South-South cooperation.

7. The two sides agreed in principle to establish a joint commission on economic and technical cooperation between the two countries.

8. The two sides agreed that the visit of the minister of external affairs of India to Vietnam in February 1982 and the present visit of the minister for foreign affairs of Vietnam to India have made an important contribution to further strengthening and expanding the friendly and warm relations between the two countries and in development of the planned and multifarious cooperation between them.

9. The minister for foreign affairs of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam thanked the minister of external affairs of India for the warm hospitality extended to him and members of his delegation at all places in India. The minister of foreign affairs of Vietnam extended an invitation to the minister of external affairs of India to pay a visit to Vietnam. The invitation was accepted with thanks.

IRANIAN FOREIGN MINISTER VELAYATI BEGINS VISIT

BK281355 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1230 GMT 28 Apr 82

[Text] Iranian Foreign Minister Dr 'Ali Akbar Velayati arrived in New Delhi today on a 5-day visit to this country. External Affairs Minister Sarasimha Rao, Foreign Secretary Natwar Singh and diplomats received him at the airport.

Dr Velayati told newsmen at the airport that he will discuss with the Indian leaders expansion of political, economic and bilateral matters. The Iranian foreign minister is accompanied by six deputy ministers and senior officials.

Dr Velayati said India and Iran have long cultural, historic and religious relations. Both are members of the Nonaligned Movement and believe in independence from great and superpowers. Dr Velayati said a good percentage of people in India are Muslim and this can bring the two countries closer.

AFGHAN REFUGEES DEMONSTRATE AT USSR EMBASSY

BK270958 Hong Kong AFP in English 0826 GMT 27 Apr 82

[Excerpt] New Delhi, 27 April (AFP) -- Chanting "jihad" (Moslem holy war) and death to the enemies, hundreds of Afghan refugees today demonstrated outside the Soviet Embassy here on the fourth anniversary day of the Marxist takeover in Afghanistan.

Indian security forces cordoned off the embassy building situated in New Delhi's posh diplomatic enclave and blocked all entry routes to prevent the demonstrators from proceeding towards the premises.

The demonstrations were organised by the fundamentalist Islamic association of Afghan students and refugees in India and the moderate Islamic union of Afghan mujahideen (Moslem fighters) in India.

In-fighting and differences among the various Moslem insurgents groups fighting the Soviet-backed regime in Kabul surfaced in today's demonstrations here.

The two groups started marching towards the Soviet Embassy from two different directions and police moved to stop them outside the embassy building.

In a memorandum posted on the embassy wall, the protesters demanded the immediate withdrawal of Soviet troops from Afghanistan and restoration of the right of the people "to determine freely their political, social, cultural and economic fate without any interference from outside."

On this day in 1978, Nur Mohammed Taraki seized power in Afghanistan, toppling the regime of Mohammed Daud. Mr Taraki was later killed when Hafizollah Amin in turn took power in a counter-coup in September of the same year.

GANDHI URGES AMRITSAR PEOPLE TO MAINTAIN PEACE

BK281631 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 28 Apr 82

[Text] Mrs Gandhi has appealed to the people of Punjab as a whole and of Amritsar in particular to maintain peace and communal harmony. In a message to a citizens meeting in Amritsar today, she hoped that the people and the Government of Punjab will jointly be able to curb the extremist tendencies in the state.

Home Minister Zail Singh and Industry Minister Tiwari appraised the prime minister of the situation in Punjab after making an on-the-spot study of the developments in the state.

An official spokesman in Chandigarh said today that the situation throughout Punjab continues to be under control. No untoward incident has been reported from anywhere during the last 24 hours. Reports have come from some places of the state where Hindus and Sikhs have formed committees to safeguard the religious places.

In Amritsar, Zail Singh, M.B. Tiwari and Punjab Chief Singh Darbara Singh today headed a peace march which went throughout the areas where curfew was clamped yesterday following some violent incidents. The curfew, which has been extended till tomorrow evening, was relaxed for 1 hour for the purpose. Hundreds of citizens belonging to different political parties and communities joined the peace march, raising slogans in support of communal harmony.

According to PTI, Zail Singh said that the center is considering the Punjab Government suggestion to declare Dal Khalsa as an unlawful organization. The home minister was talking to newsmen.

'OUTSIDE POWERS' BLAMED FOR AMRITSAR INCIDENT

BK290922 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 29 Apr 82

Zail Singh appealed to members for restraint. He said he had visited the affected areas and found that the common Hindus and Muslims were living in amity. The despicable act against two temples and a later attack on two gurdwaras [Sikh shrines] were condemned by all. It is one of the cardinal tenets of the Sikh religion to protect the cow. Likewise, there is no Hindu who does not have deep respect for the Granthsaheb [Sikh sacred book] and gurdwara. People must remain vigilant against elements trying to foster separatism in the country for their own ends. He recalled that similar provocations have been organized in Moradabad and Allahabad also to rouse the feelings of the one community against the other.

Zail Singh said that the Sikh religious leaders have agreed to allow their premises to be searched in order to find out the culprits. But the police [words indistinct] to carry out searches at the time of their own suiting so that the culprits do not escape. He said sheltering a criminal in a religious place is as bad as the crime itself, but he was not levelling charges against any organization. All religious and political leaders should disown the people indulging in such an activity, he said.

GOVERNMENT SPOKESMAN DENIES OIL SALE TO U.S.

[Text] Following today's Cabinet meeting, government spokesman Ahmad Tavokoli, referring to the Iraqi regime's threats to the UAE, said: The Islamic Republic of Iran is the real protector of the sovereignty of the Islamic countries.

In asserting world imperialist hostility toward the Islamic Republic, he denied the rumor that Iran is selling oil to the United States.

VELAYATI COMMENTS BEFORE LEAVING FOR INDIA

LD281100 Tehran IRNA in English 0941 GMT 28 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 28 Apr (IRNA) -- Heading a mission comprising officials of the Ministries of Foreign Affairs, Commerce, Oil, Higher Education, Mines and Metals, and Islamic Guidance, and a number of Majlis deputies, Foreign Minister Velayati left Tehran this morning at 1030 local time for New Delhi. This trip is on the invitation of Indian Foreign Minister Narasimha Rao.

Prior to departure for India, the foreign minister said the visit was to develop bilateral political, economic, commercial and oil relations and to strengthen the common friendship between Iran and India. He said he will outline Iran's stands vis-a-vis the venue of the upcoming non-aligned conference.

Commenting on Saddam's recent remark that the Arab countries' silence would lead to his fall, the foreign minister said truth could be concealed for a short time only and as time went on, the people of the world would realise Saddam's true nature and Iran's rightful stands.

The foreign minister added that Saddam would naturally be isolated more among his neighbours with the victories of Iran in the warfronts. He said Iran felt obliged to safeguard the sovereignty and rights of Muslim countries neighbouring Iran, such as the United Arab Emirates. He announced Iran will definitely sever Saddam's hands if he invaded the United Arab Emirates.

Upon his departure, the foreign minister was seen off at the airport by the Indian ambassador to Iran and some Foreign Ministry officials.

Further Remarks

LD281218 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 28 Apr 82

[Interview with Foreign Minister Velayati by Central News Unit correspondent in Tehran on 28 April -- recorded]

[Excerpts] [Question] Dr Velayati, is your trip to India today followup your recent trips to neighboring countries? Does it pursue the same aims?

[Answer] Yes, it is natural for every country to have closer ties with nearer countries than with those that are more distant. Considering the fact that that most of our neighbors are Islamic, and that large minorities of Muslims live in them, and considering the form our government and our interpretation of government and our sentimental relations with Muslims, it is natural for us to have friendly relations with our neighbors, especially Islamic countries or those countries with a high percentage of Muslims. India is not our neighbor, but it is not far from being our neighbor. We have longstanding religious, cultural and historical relations.

5

India is one of the main countries of the Nonaligned Movement and has relatively vast technological facilities. Considering the fact that we need technology -- but that we oppose relations with countries that seek to dominate our country -- of course, relations with India become important for us. In return, India needs our oil and our other facilities. Of course, with a bilateral relationship, preserving either side's rights and with mutual respect, it could help to expand and strengthen relations between the two countries, and as you said, the aim of this trip is not too far from our primary and orginal aims of setting up relations with Islamic and Third World countries and of giving priority to relations with neighboring countries.

[Question] Considering the fact that India is a nonaligned country, will you raise the issue of the imposed war?

[Answer] Definitely. Considering the fact that the war is our main issue, we will outline our just stand to the host country, wherever we go.

COMMUNIQUE NO 869 REPORTS MILITARY SUCCESSES

LD281738 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 28 Apr 82

[Communique No 869 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, with the help of God and the prayers and blessings of the imam of the Islamic nation and the unstinting support of the Muslim people of Iran, achieve valuable successes every day. According to a report of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran, between 1320 and 1345 today, two Iraqi planes were shot down by our fighter planes and crashed in the south western region.

At 0630 yesterday morning fighter planes of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran launched a raid on enemy assembly points west of Darkhovin. Our planes bombed enemy positions and returned safely to their bases.

Yesterday in the Abadan sector ground force combatants opened fire on enemy positions and destroyed seven enemy trenches and foxholes, one 106-mm gun, one ammunition depot and one vehicle. The brave personnel of the gendarmerie of the Islamic Republic of Iran also opened fire on enemy positions on the other side of Arvand Rud [Shatt al-'Arab] and destroyed 13 trenches and foxholes, 1 82-mm mortar and 1 106-mm gun of the Saddamist forces.

The enemy opened heavy weapons fire on residential areas of Abadan and wounded or martyred several of our compatriots. Several residential units were also demolished.

An exchange of fire continued in the western operational sectors of the country. Thanks to the fire of Islam's forces in the Meymak, Sumar and Sar-e Pol-e Zahab sectors, the enemy's artillery was halted. Several assembly points and two ammunition depots of the aggressors were destroyed and a number of their personnel were killed.

Our artillery units opened fire on the enemy's morotized units on the Halabchah and Biarah Road, and inflicted major losses and damage on the aggressors.

Gendarmerie units of the Islamic Republic of Iran destroyed one tank, one command jeep and six trenches of the enemy in the Ilam sector. Our forces also killed or wounded 50 enemy troops in this sector.

Today, 10 Iraqi civilians presented themselves to the relevant authorities in one of the border regions of our country and sought asylum.

[Signed] The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran

MONTAZERI MENTIONED AS KHOMEYNI'S SUCCESSOR

LD282146 Tehran IRNA in English 2002 GMT 28 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 28 Apr (IRNA) -- In an interview with the Persian daily ETTELA'AT, Imam Khomeyni's son Hojjat ol-Eslam Ahmad Khomeyni has said that in his judgement Ayatollah Montazeri is the only person capable of assuming leadership in the Islamic Republic of Iran in the future. He said the past life of the ayatollah and his unparalleled records of struggle against the past regime as well as his unwavering determination was proved during torture in his prison days, coupled by other peculiarities all served to qualify him as the country's supreme religious authority in the future.

Talking elsewhere in the interview the hojjat ol-Eslam also said that the undeclared war had served to transform the armed forces' military philosophy from its traditional sense of war being an activity for safeguarding the territorial integrity of the country to one for safeguarding both their country and their spiritual convictions. He said also that the Islamic Revolutionary Guards worked closely and intimately with the regular armed forces in the battlefronts as had been without precedent. The following are more excerpts from the hojjat ol-Eslam's talks during the interview.

Ousted President Bani-Sadr did not do any good in his capacity as the commander-in-chief of the armed forces. He betrayed the armed forces. In fact he meant to pit the armed forces against the Islamic Revolutionary Guards in order that he might fulfill his own ends. He hoped that the war would break out so that we might be defeated, upon which he could discredit the line of the imam, and thereafter come to Tehran on army tanks and rescue the (U.S.) hostages here...."

"...The members of the ulema fall into three distinct categories: A first group are those who have records of struggle against the past regime. They were arrested, put into prisons and tortured and banished during the past regime. A second group are resistant to change. They fear that any novelty is likely to change their daily routine. They prefer to walk on a beaten path and few of this second group are foreign-inspired. There is a third group who were against monarchy and against tyranny and oppression, and who hated to see the United States plunder our resources, and who hated to see an armed forces here taking orders from American military advisers, but who despite that believed that there was nothing they could do to overcome the problem during the past regime. But fortunately, today all of these categories are closely unified with each other and with Imam Khomeyni and the Islamic revolution...."

"...The Iraqi Muslims should learn from the experience of Iran.... They should make sure not to install a figure like Sadeq Qotbzadh (incriminated on charges of treason against the Islamic Republic) at the head of their radio and television.... They should make sure not to form a 'coalition cabinet' of heterogenous groups such as we had here immediately after the culmination of the Islamic revolution.... Iran did not gain all that experience at a low price. The lives of 72 of our precious men and members of the Islamic Republic Party, and of such personalities as Raja'i (ex-president) and Bahonar (ex-prime minister) and others is the price we paid for our experience which the Iraqi Muslims should heed and implement in Iraq...."

"...We believe that the future of Islamic Iraq will tilt the political military and economic balance of the region to a degree which will shake the West and East. We should never permit the West or East to determine the future of Iraq. There is a likelihood for reformational changes in Iraq which may happen in the event we should overlook the facts in that country. Neither the United States nor the Soviet Union will endorse fundamental changes in Iraq."

"Therefore should they find Saddam entangled in a situation and uncapable of remaining in power, they will no doubt try to do something. Will the Muslim people in Iraq or our own people, both of whom have lost multitudes of martyrs, forgive us if either of the two superpowers should take the [words indistinct] in that country? Any political upheaval in Iraq either in the interest of the Soviet Union or in the interest of the United States will not be to the benefit of the people of Iran and Iraq. In a Soviet-inspired coup in Iraq we shall have lost precisely as much as we would have lost in a U.S.-inspired coup there. In the event of a Soviet coup d'etat in Iraq some countries of the region will immediately declare their support for it, and we, who are neither inspired by the West nor by the East, will be unable to come into good terms with them, in which case we would only have to await the Muslims' uprising in Iraq. And if the coup should happen to be U.S. inspired, then it will be so much appealing to the countries of the Persian Gulf as to make a new war imperative on us...."

"In Iraq the communists are well organized, while the Iraqi Kurds fed by the Soviet Union, have united with the communists into a principal power in Iraq. The Muslim people in Iraq then would have to lead a house-to-house fight with them... if we should waste time and if we should fail to provide for a powerful and well-organised entity in Iraq, even if the Muslims are likely to triumph in the end.... But in the event of a revolution there Iraq will have to tackle problems for several years to come...."

"...And in the event of a coup d'etat, Iraq will certainly pull out its forces from Iran and will declare to the world that henceforth Iraq has no claims against Iran. But so what? If such be the case, who then will compensate the damages we have incurred? Will Iraq, eroded and furstrated in the war, be capable of paying such large damages? Or will those who have aided Iraq thus far pool their resources into a common fund in order to pay us our damages? We should think of the Muslim people who are being oppressed in Iraq. We should do our best lest Saddam might escape...."

AFP Report

NC281532 Paris AFP in English 1526 GMT 28 Apr 82

[Excerpt] Tehran, 28 Apr (AFP) -- Ayatollah Hoseyn 'Ali Montazeri, a veteran opponent of the late shah, was named here today by Hojjat ol-Eslam Ahmad Khomeyni, son of Ayatollah Khomeyni, as his personal choice to succeed his father as Iran's "spiritual guide."

It was the first time that so prominent a political figure has come out with such firmness on the succession issue.

"Ayatollah Montazeri's long history of struggle clearly marks him out from other religious dignitaries," Hojjat ol-Eslam Khomeyni said in an interview published by the daily ETELA'AT.

He added however that he was expressing his personal viewpoint and it would be "elected experts" who will decide on Ayatollah Khomeyni's successor.

Under the Constitution, Hojjat ol-Eslam Khomeyni pointed out, the role of "revolutionary guide" is decided by a committee of experts elected, in principle, by universal suffrage.

But according to some observers, by coming out in favor of Ayatollah Montazeri, Hojjat ol-Eslam Khomeyni has ensured that there is now small possibility of the expert commission ever materialising.

MORE 'INFORMATION' ON COUP, SHARI'ATMADARI

LD281144 Tehran IRNA in English 1029 GMT 28 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 28 Apr (IRNA) -- In a televised programme Ahmad Abassi, son-in-law of Kazem Shari'atmadari, gave further information on the adopted coup against the Islamic Republic of Iran. He said that Shari'atmadari did not express clearly his opinion on the goodness or badness of the issue but it seemed from his gestures and reaction that he thought it was better if the present authorities were replaced with others.

Concerning the decision that Kazem Shari'atmadari should leave his house two days before the start of the operation, Abbasi said that since there might be some disorders it was better that Shari'atmadari was not in his home.

When he was asked why he and Kazem Shari'atmadari did not report the plot to authorities, he said that in his opinion, as far as Shari'atmadari was concerned, since he was opposed to the government, he did not report it. However 'Abbasi said he himself had made a mistake in not informing the country's officials.

In another development Azerbaijan-born Hojjat ol-Eslam Safa'i, one of the combatant ulema of Mashhad, said on Tuesday that at one time Shari'atmadari had the ambition to become a Majlis deputy of the Pahlavi regime. However, he received a special message form the court urging him to give up his candidacy because the court had decided to make him a religious authority of the Islamic world. The court also gave him the name of "Shari'atmadari". His real name was Mohammad Kazem Mir-Fayzi.

Safa'i added that Shari'atmadari was the only member of the ulema who met the defunct shah in Tabriz after escape of the pro-Soviet Democratic Party member Pishevari from Azerbaijan in 1946. Safa'i added that Shari'atmadari announced that no one should talk against Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and in this regard one of these so-called ulema propagated that campaigns against the Pahlavi regime were religiously forbidden.

He then added that the martyr Qazi Tabataba'i had told Safa'i that during SAVAK interrogations. They asked the martyr how he had dared to oppose the shah when a religious authority (Shari'atmadari) had forbidden it. Safa'i also added that Shari'atmadari's son was currently in West Germany with other counterrevolutionaries.

He further added that Shari'atmadari preferred the defunct shah's "constitution" to the Constitution of the Islamic Republic which was approved by distinguished ulema of Islam. He also said that in a message to his agents, Shari'atmadari claimed that as long as Khomeyni was alive it was not possible to confront this republic but when he passed away he would overthrow this republic. He concluded that Kazem Mir-Fayzi (Shari'atmadari), even in the throes of the Iraqi-imposed war, had told his followers not to give soldiers to the government since he himself wanted to call for a jihad against the Islamic Republic of Iran.

MAJLIS OFFICIAL LINKS SHARI'ATMADARI WITH CIA

[Text] Tehran, 28 April (IRNA) -- The Majlis vice speaker, Hojjat ol-Eslam Khoeyniha, revealed in an interview broadcast over the Iranian television tonight, more connection between Kazem Shari'atmadari and the CIA, through the ex-shah's intelligence organisation, SAVAK. He said that in addition to the recently foiled coup plot againt the Islamic Republic, Shari'atmadari had been further involved in a series of counterrevolutionary activities ever since the culmination of the Islamic revolution in Iran. The Hojjat ol-Eslam revealed that Shari'atmadari himself was the origin of a series of counterrevolutionary trends against the popular regime in Iran rather than his being provoked by certain foreign aligned elements such as Moqaddam Maraghe'i and Hassan Nazih (two former officials who held sensitive posts after the revolution and who in fact came into power through the recommendation of Shari'atmadari himself.)

Hojjat ol-Eslam Khoeyniha presented documents revealing Shari'atmadari's close connection with and support for the ex-shah and his intelligence service. According to these documents, taken from the former U.S. Embassy in Tehran by the Muslim students following the line of the imam, the pseudo religious leader was a firm backer of the defunct shah's "reforms" for the oppressed nation of Iran but he pretended to be against the shah's policy in a bid to preserve his own political status.

The documents presented by Hojjat ol-Eslam Khoeyniha were among shredded secret diplomatic documents which have been painstakingly pasted together by the Muslim students who took over the U.S. den of spies in 1979.

According to the documents, Shari'atmadari was even paid by the SAVAK and very willingly cooperated with this horrible organisation. Considering his good and friendly relations with the SAVAK of the ex-shah, the CIA entered the field to make an overall evaluation of the so-called ayatollah's status to find out whether he could serve the U.S. interests in Iran properly or not. After some evaluation, the CIA thought to make a "religious authority" of this pro-shah element so that he could become popular among the Muslim people of Iran and the peoples in Islamic countries of the region. The main objective of the CIA, according to the existing documents, was to bring into power a government in Iran which would guarantee U.S. interests in the country. Hojjat ol-Eslam Khoeyniha said in conclusion of his remarks that more documents would be disclosed in a near future on the same issue.

KHOMEYNI ADDRESSES GUARDS CORPS PUBLICATIONS DEPT

LD281156 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 28 Apr 82

[Speech by Ayatollah Khomeyni to officials and authors of the Publications Department of the Islamic Revolution Guard Corps at a meeting on 28 April -- place not specified -- announcer-read]

[Text] First, I would like to thank you, gentlemen and the Guards Corps, who as leaders of the individuals [as heard] are serving Islam and the Islamic Republic in a committed manner. May God give them strength, make their martyrs companions of the martyrs of the dawn of Islam, and give succour to their survivors, which embraces everyone, so that they may take to its destination the Islamic Republic against which everyone has risen.

The importance of publication is equal to the blood that is being shed on the fronts. The pen of the ulema is superior to the blood of martyrs. The blood of the martyrs, extremely constructive and fruitful though it is, is not as constructive as the pen. In principle, it is the pen that creates martyrs, and it is the pen that nurtures martyrdom. That is why you should focus attention on the value of your work and realize that the more valuable a work, the more responsibility it carries. You, who work in the cultural part of the corps, should do something to make your publications useful. The publications under the previous regime were a powerful factor in corrupting and destroying the younger generation of boys and girls -- something for which you should compensate. You should devote a section in the corps' publications to advising the corpsmen themselves so that your work is both constructive with regard to the members of the Guards Corps and a guidance to others.

Now that most of foreign radios and publications are trying most vigorously to make our good news look bad, we should expand our propaganda to convey our views to other parts of the world. The service which you are rendering now, I may say, is more valuable than all the services rendered for the sake of Islam throughout history, for those who lived in the past did not have the sort of enemies we have now; those who lived in the past had to face only Rome and Iran; now we have to face the whole world. Today they are interfering here from across the oceans; they intend to interfere in the affairs of every country. And we, who want to stand on our own feet, should call upon the people to exercise steadfastness and to maintain their presence in the arena.

You invite the people to engage in what is good and appropriate. If you come across any difficulty you should stop it so that it does not spread. For all you know, there may be individuals who would want to infiltrate you and engage in improper actions. What is extremely important in publicity matters, and I have often pointed this out, is that you should bring into this important area those you are familiar with. As you have said, the seminary should also exercise supervision in order that you encounter neither difficulty nor error.

I pray for all of you and pray to God for success and protection for all of you and for the promotion of the Islamic Republic and the nation which has risen for the sake of God so that it will link up with the emergence of the lord of the era, God's peace be upon him.

DPRK PREMIER, DELEGATION CONTINUE VISIT

Confer With Industries Minister

LD281640 Tehran IRNA in English 1556 GMT 28 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 28 Apr (IRNA) -- The industry minister, Mostafa Hashemi, met and conferred this morning with the DPRK prime minister and deputies of the DPRK Ministry of Industry and Mines in Tehran. After the meeting Hashemi said that bilateral general issues concerning industry were discussed. The industry minister added that hopefully mutual cooperation and industrial ties between Iran and the DPRK would be expanded in the near future.

The deputy of planning of the industry ministry, Homayun Yaqut Fam, also said that during negotiations they had with the DPRK mission, they discussed issues relating to zinc, lead and rolling mills as well as copper pipes, and steel industry. Some negotiations on construction materials like glass and bricks were also conducted.

Yaqut Fam said that the DPRK was ready to dispatch some experts to Iran to complete rolling mills construction. In the [word indistinct] field, he added that a list has been prepared according to which it was agreed that a 2 or 2 [as received] year contract for the (?sale) of iron products be concluded with Iran. It was further resolved that the DPRK would meet Iranian shortages in fish and silk worm (?needs).

In conclusion, it was also resolved that machinery, widely used in war stricken zones, be purchased from the DPRK.

Meet Road Minister

[Text] Tehran, 28 Apr (IRNA) -- The Democratic People's Republic of Korea's prime minister, Yi Chong-ok, who is currently heading a political and economic delegation to Iran, met and conferred with the minister of roads and transportation, Mohammad Hadinezhad-Hoseyniyan this morning.

The high-ranking Korean delegation arrived in Tehran on Sunday night to hold talks with Iranian officials.

During the meeting, which lasted for more than one hour, both sides exchanged views on issues related to transportation. The minister of roads and transportation, speaking to IRNA after the meeting, said that due to Iran's ample possibilities in the area of aviation, suggestions were made concerning the training of Korean pilots. In addition, the Islamic Republic of Iran expressed its readiness for putting a number of its passenger airplanes at the (?disposal) of the DPRK and it was agreed that a Korean delegation travel to Iran in the near future to visit the Iranian aviation facilities and to sign necessary agreements.

During the meeting talks were held on signing an aviation agreement between the two countries which would decrease the flight time between Iran and Tokyo, Japan. At the meanwhile, the DPRK officials have expressed their interest in taking part in the international tender for building the port facilities in Qeshm, Langeh and Jask ports, on the Persian Gulf coast, and during the visit they extended proposals in this respect.

[Editorial: "Useful Assistance"]

[Text] The signing of two agreements between his majesty's government and the Government of the United States in Kathmandu the other day under which the latter is to provide a grant assistance of over 22.4 million rupees for the Institute of Agriculture and Animal Science (IAAS) and Integrated Rural Health and Family Planning Project (IHR/FP) can be described as an useful exercise in the concept of the developed countries helping the developing countries develop themselves. Being a predominantly agricultural country with all that goes with it, the major portion of the agreement fund goes rightly towards the expansion and improvement of the IAAS which is providing a singular service to the country by producing competent workers in the field. Both agriculture and livestock experts are direly needed in the country for raising the agricultural production as well as for the supply of meat and dairy products. The IAAS located in Rampur in Chitwan District has been providing valuable services to the country by producing a part of the necessary manpower in the related fields. The fact that now, it would be in an even better position to produce such manpower is, therefore, a matter of satisfaction.

The other sector which the U.S. assistance will be helping is the all important sector of health and family planning. The concept of integrated health is one under which it is sought to provide a comprehensive health package to the rural populace. Much as health care is needed in the rual sector, the need for family planning programmes is equally important. The population growth rate of 2.6 percent is surely much more than a least developed country like Nepal can afford. Hence, the need for an efficient and effective nationwide family planning programme can neither be underestimated or neglected. Indeed, family planning programmes backed by adequate supply of family planning devices must be taken to the common man. While coercion is no solution to this very humane problem, field workers ought to be able to convince the people to take up family planning not only because the country suffers due to uncontrolled population growth but because they themselves will suffer due to a large family. Indeed, family planning programmes ought to be taken up with renewed vigour and no efforts should be spared to make the campaign successful. The agreements with the United States, as such, provide some funding for these two important projects and reflect the friendship and cooperation between the two countries.

MP ALLEGES CIA PLAYED ROLE IN SPLITTING SLFP

BK261128 Colombo SUN in English 20 Apr 82 p 12

[Excerpt] The SLFP [Sri Lanka Freedom Party] MP for Gampaha has charged that the American Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) played an active role in breaking up the SLFP and was also involved in the assassination of S.W.R.D. Bandaranaike.

He made the charge at a mass rally last Saturday [17 April] evening at Kurunegala where SLFP leader Sirima Bandaranaike presided.

The disunity and splits in the SLFP could be attributed to the work of the CIA through its men operating here, Mr Bandaranaike alleged.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Three Iraqi planes were destroyed and hundreds of Iraqis were killed, wounded or captured during a heavy attack launched by Iranian forces all along the frontline, according to unscheduled Tehran radio announcements on 30 April. One announcement predicted that the "moment of victory is here" and reported that Iranian troops are hurrying toward Khuninshahr. Ayatollah Emami Kashani likewise told a Tehran Friday prayer session that Iranian troops have crossed the Karun River and are proceeding toward the city, AFP reported.

An Iraqi communique carried by Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio said Iranian forces attacked Iraqi units in the Susangerd and Ahvaz regions and described Iranian losses during the fighting in Ahvaz as "grave." The communique claimed that Iraqi forces have crushed and surrounded Iranian forces in the Susangerd region. The commander of the Iraqi 3d Corps said large numbers of Iranian forces have started to surrender their, INA reported. According to a communique, Iraqi planes launched attacks on Iranian units in Ahvaz and Susangerd, inflicting "grave losses" on Iranian personnel and equipment. An Iranian fighter plane was shot down in the Ahvaz sector according to a military source cited by Voice of the Masses radio.

Iran

Shari'atmadari-CIA Link -- Documents revealing Ayatollah Kazem Shari'atmadari's connection with the CIA were presented by Majlis Deputy Speaker Musavi-Kho'ini during a Tehran television interview, IRNA reported. According to the documents, Shari'atmadari cooperated with the ex-shah's intelligence organization, SAVAK. In view of his good relations with SAVAK, the CIA decided to find out whether Shari'atmadari could serve U.S. interests in Iran, seeking to make him a religious authority popular with Muslims in Iran and the region.

Oil Sale -- The DPRK will purchase 4 million tons of Iranian oil over a 4-year period as part of a protocol signed by Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi and DPRK Premier Yi Chong-ok, Tehran radio reported.

Iraq

Iraq has addressed an urgent invitation to convene a special session of the Arab Parliamentary Union to duscuss developments in the Iran-Iraq war, particularly the Syrian stand, Voice of Lebanon radio reported citing Walid al-Khishali, head of a parliamentary delegation currently visiting Beirut. Earlier, INA reported that Al-Khishali met with PLO Executive Chairman Yasir 'Arafat and briefed 'Arafat on the repercussions of Syria's decision to close the border with Iraq and halt the flow of Iraqi oil through Syrian territory. Al-Khishali warned that this decision would undoubtedly harm Iraq, Syria and Lebanon.

Israel

West Bank Disturbances -- An Arab youth was killed by IDF gunfire during a demonstration in the village of Si'ir near Hebron, Jerusalem radio reported. The demonstration followed the previously reported death of another Si'ir resident near Hebron. Meanwhile, an Arab youth who was wounded last week died in the hospital. An IDF officer and two Israeli civilians were slightly injured by stone-throwing demonstrators in the Hebron and Nabulus areas, according to another radio report.

Abu-Hatzera Resignation -- The TAMI executive approved Aharon abu-Hatzera's resignation from the Cabinet and decided that Aharon Uzan should replace him as labor, social welfare and immigrant absorption minister, Jerusalem radio reported. Abu-Hatzera will remain TAMI's leader.

Labor and Social Welfare Minister abu-Hatzera submitted a letter of resignation to the prime minister's office 30 April, Jerusalem radio reported.

Lebanon

AFP will stop transmitting news from Beirut, according to Voice of Lebanon radio.

Syria

Warning to Lebanon -- 'Asim Qansu, head of the Syrian Ba'th Party's Lebanese branch, said in an interview with MONDAY MORNING that a Syrian-Israeli war will break out if Israel invades southern Lebanon. If the Israelis attack Syrian positions in the Al-Biqa' Valley or elsewhere, Syria will respond "decisively." Syria knows that in a conflict with Israel it may suffer severe losses and even lose more territory, he indicated, but "such losses don't matter to us as much as the necessity of maintaining our will to fight." Israel must take into account that Syria's war decision is "serious, firm and irreversible," Qansu said.

Reconnaisance Planes -- The Syrian Air Force has received MiG-25 photo reconnaissance aircraft from the Soviet Union, according to the Israeli paper HA'ARETZ.

Egypt

NDP Changes -- Impending changes in the National Democratic Party will be limited, according to an AL-AKHBAR report cited by MENA. Vacant posts will be filled, AL-AKHBAR said, and the changes will also affect a small number of party members in the governorates.

Tabah Talks -- Egyptian-Israeli meetings to discuss implementation of the agreement on the method for settling the Tabah border dispute will start in Tel Aviv on 3 May, Cairo radio reported. The first meeting will focus on temporary security arrangements for Tabah during the arbitration period and on the procedures for conciliation and arbitration, according to MENA.

Saudi Arabia

PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat arrived in Saudi Arabia for a short visit, Riyadh radio reported. 'Arafat was later received by King Khalid ibn 'Abd 'Abd al-'Aziz, SPA noted.

YAR

Government troops engaged in fierce battles south of San'a' with forces of the opposition Democratic National Front, Monte Carlo radio reported citing front sources in Aden.

Afghanistan

A Soviet Army captain held prisoner by Hezbi Islami rebels in southeastern Afghanistan told Western newsmen that Afghan rebels destroyed 25 MiG planes and 13 helicopters in Sabotage operations against the Soviet base at Bagram, AFP reported. The captain spoke of discontent among Soviet troops in the country and predicted that the Babrak Karmal regime will shortly be overthrown.

CSSR DAILY INTERVIEWS POLITBURO MEMBER

AU281926 Bratislava PRAVDA in Slovak 27 Apr 82 p 6

[Kabul correspondent Dusan Brabec interview with Dr Najibollah, member of the PDPA Central Committee Politburo: "Four Years Since the April Revolution" -- place, date not given]

[Excerpts] The contribution of the 4 years since the advent of a democratic regime in Afghanistan on 27 April 1978 was the topic of my discussion with Dr Najibollah, member of the Central Committee Politburo of the People's Democratic Party of Afghanistan [PDPA], who is also in charge of leading the state security bodies. In the discussion, the Afghan representative said, among other things:

"When the West succeeded [following Hafizollah Amin's coming to power] in turning the course of domestic political events in its favor, it also strove to coordinate the forces of the Afghan reaction that had fled abroad. A fat dollar assistance for supplying arms to refugees recruited from 80 refugee camps in Pakistan and for paying professional cutthroats from the United States, Great Britain, Egypt and China acting there as military instructors was designed to undermine the new regime from the outside. However, the people of the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan were speaking out at mass rallies in favor of a remedy of the mistakes. That is why the healthy forces in the party, in an endeavor to free the revolution of dangerous crisis tendencies and to save the population from the plans of the class enemies, began to prepare the second stage of the April Revolution. In accordance with the valid treaty on friendship and mutual assistance, we requested the Soviet Union's military assistance.

"Comrade Babrak Karmal always says that if the Soviet Union had not come to help Afghanistan in December 1979, the freedom and independence of the country would have been dangerously threatened," stresses Comrade Najibollah, who goes on to say: "The onset of the second stage of the revolution marked a fundamental turnabout. Whereas up to that point the implementation of revolutionary accomplishments had shown a downward trend, now we are marching forward. We do not pretend that we no longer have any difficulties. Only now, after the March national conference of the party, we are completing the organizational structure in all basic party organizations by issuing party membership cards. We are completing the registration of party members and mobilizing the party ranks. Today we know exactly that the PDPA has 62,000 members who must -- together with the 65,000 members of the youth organization DYOA, the 35,000 young pioneers, the 50,000 members of the women's organization DWOA, the 180,000 trade unionists in industrial plants and the 140,000 cooperative farmers -- in a highly principled patriotic struggle correct the mistakes of the preceding period.

That is not all; we must regain the lost trust of the people. However, due to the high-principled nature of our policy, we are succeeding in fulfilling this sensitive task. Jointly and in unity, we will successfully defend the revolution.

"A truly democratic approach to carrying out land reform, the determined endeavor to build up the backward industrial and power base, the struggle against illiteracy while respecting all national and religious traditions -- that is our revolutionary task today.

We will concentrate our forces on the struggle against domestic and foreign reaction, which is waging a treacherous undeclared aggressive war against our people. However, we know that our struggle is just and that we have on our side our most faithful friend, the Soviet Union, the socialist countries and all forces of progress. The party and state leadership continuously strengthen the links with the people and we therefore trust that our revolution will be successful."

AFP INTERVIEWS REBEL-HELD SOVIET POW'S

BK291439 Hong Kong AFP in English 1352 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Text] Allah Jirga, Afghanistan, 29 Apr (AFP) -- A Soviet Army captain held prisoner by Afghan rebels here complained to Western newsmen today about how the Red Army was being run in Afghanistan and predicted that the Babrak Karmal regime would be toppled shortly.

Aleksandr Petrovich Siddielniko, 20, and four other Soviet prisoners of war are held in a camp of the Muslim rebel Hezb-e Elsami group in this southeastern Afghan town.

Capt. Siddielniko, whose words were translated first into Iranian [as received], then into English, said the situation was so bad that (pro-Soviet Afghan) "President Babrak Karmal will be overthrown soon, and nobody knows how long the Soviet Union will have to support his successor."

He said that since he was posted in November 1980 to a tank unit belonging to one of six regiments protecting the Soviet air base at Baghram, Afghan rebels had conducted three successful sabotage missions there.

They destroyed 25 MiG fighter planes and 13 helicopters, he said, adding that he was captured while helping to move out tanks wrecked by the rebels at Sharikar, near Baghram.

"I left my tank to walk alone to a nearby village I thought was secure," he said. "I was captured by four armed mujahidin (Afghan rebels)."

Soviet officers at the Baghram base "talk openly about their discontent and ask, 'for what purpose did we come here?'" the captain said, adding that "soldiers complain about mismanagement in the army."

He also opposed very strict security measures which, he said, kept him from going on home leave even once in 20 months to his native Zapparoja in the Ukraine.

"We are supposed to stay in Afghanistan for 2 years, but the term can be extended without any home leave," he explained.

Capt. Siddielniko told reporters who secretly crossed the border from Pakistan that he hoped to return to the Soviet Union one day, although he ran the risk of being executed for treason.

With shaved head and looking pale, surrounded by rebels wielding captured Soviet Kalashnikov assault rifles, he said the treatment he received from the rebels convinced him that he would not be executed.

Another recently captured Soviet soldier, 19-year-old Private Valeriy Yurkevich Kissilov, said he fell into rebel hands as he attempted to desert during a search mission in an Afghan village.

Camp Commander Zafaruddin Khan meanwhile said the two soldiers did not know of the existence of the three other Soviet POW's held at Allah Jirga. But would not reveal the reasons for this measure.

The other three were taken prisoner nearly a year ago.

One of them, Mohammed Yazkuviev Kuli, a Tazik, agreed to be converted to Islam and says he wants to fight (?along side) the rebels against the Soviet occupation.

He lives in a state of semi-freedom in the mountainous area surrounding the Allah Jirga camp.

The other two, Sergeant Yuriy Grigorevich Povarnitsin and Private Valeriy Anatolievich Didenko are kept under guard in one of the camp's countless adobe huts.

They looked pale and drawn today, but told newsmen they were treated well by their captors.

JASARAT REPORTS ON FIGHTING IN PROVINCES

GF271755 Karachi JASARAT in Urdu 22 Apr 82

[Text] New Delhi, 21 Apr (APP/AAP) -- The puppet Afghan Government troops, during a weeklong offensive against the Afghan mujahidin in Baghlan, Zabol, and Nangarhar Provinces, killed 79 persons. In a Pashto language paper published by the government, these persons were called bandits. In a government attack against mujahidin on 6 April in (Kashkak), 16 freedom fighters were killed, and it was announced by the government that in Nangarhar Province a group of bandits was routed.

The Afghan mujahidin have increased their activities in the Kabul region and surrounding areas. According to reports received, gunshots were being heard in Kabul city. During the past few months the shelling has been intense. Mujahidin killed six of Karmal's soldiers on a patrol within the city. They also killed three Soviet soldiers riding in a jeep.

The Paghman area north of Kabul is a mujahidin stronghold and the attacks are organized from this area. On 16 April the villages in this area were heavily bombed, destroying many houses.

In the Nad-e 'Ali region of Qandahar, as a reaction to the use of napalm by government forces, 25 government soldiers defected to the mujahidin. According to reports received from across the border, the Soviets used napalm on 4 April against the mujahidin and the local population after they failed to crush the resistance by any other means. When the news about the use of napalm reached Qandahar, a group of soldiers held a meeting and, as a result, on 11 April, they defected to the mujahidin with their rifles and equipment.

CLARIFICATIONS SOUGHT ON RESUMING NO-WAR TALKS

BK300911 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 30 Apr 82

[Text] India has sought Pakistan's clarification on resumption of talks on a no-war pact rather than on a joint commission. This follows President Ziaul Haq's recent press interview in which he has reportedly advanced the idea.

In a written reply the external affairs minister informed the Rajya Sabha today that his Pakistani counterpart has reiterated the desire to pursue both the proposals as envisaged in the joint press statement issued on the 1st of February this year. Rao told the house that he had received the message from the Pakistan ambassador in New Delhi on the 24th of this month reiterating that country's commitment to pursue the two proposals.

The minister also informed the house that India has taken serious objection to the Pakistani President Ziaul Haq's remarks in a recent interview with an Indian journalist that Gilgit, Hunza and Skardu in the Pak-occupied Kashmir are parts of the country.

He said India's well-known position that judicially and constitutionally those territories are parts of Jammu and Kashmir was reiterated to Pakistan's charge d'affaires in New Delhi.

Rao told the members that only after Pakistan's reply clarifying its stand on the matter could India know what they had in mind. We on our part are committed to having friendly and harmonious relations with Pakistan in all bilateral spheres, the external affairs minister added.

In reply to another question, Narasimha Rao reiterated India's determination to safeguard its security interest in view of Pakistan's attempts to acquire nuclear weapons. He said while India adheres to its policy to use nuclear energy for peaceful purposes, it is also following Pakistan's nuclear developments on a continuing basis.

Rao also said that India and Pakistan will shortly enter into an agreement for reciprocating consular facilities to prisoners. Replying to a supplementary, Narasimha Rao informed the house that as per government's information 10 persons have been detained in Pakistan jails for not having valid travel documents. The matter has been taken up with the Pakistan Government and they have been urged to expedite repatriation of these prisoners to India.

REPATRIATION OF DETAINEES IN PAKISTAN DEMANDED

BK291026 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Text] India has protested to Pakistan for maltreatment of 10 Indian nationals in prison at Sukkur jail for the last 8 years and called for their immediate repatriation. External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao told the Lok Sabha during question hour that these persons were initially detained for 3 months for entering that country without valid documents. As a result of maltreatment during their subsequent long detention, six of them lost their mental balance and some others their eyesight.

Answering a volley of questions, Rao said the Indian Embassy in Islamabad was instructed to take up the matter with Pakistan authorities as soon as the Indian government came to know the plight of the prisoners through our consul general in Karachi. An aide memoire was sent to Pakistan on the 17th of last month and a reminder was sent last week. Rao said Pakistan's reply is still awaited. The minister informed that the consular access has been agreed to between India and Pakistan. He expressed the hope that this will ensure better treatement to the detainees.

GOVERNMENT REFUSES TO ACCEPT EEC PROTEST

BK200341 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1700 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Text] Pakistan has refused to accept a formal protest which the Belgian Embassy sought to lodge with it on behalf of the Council of Ministers of the European Economic Community [EEC] against its inability to receive a European Parliamentary delegation headed by Gerard Israel, a French member of the European Parliament.

It was officially stated in Islamabad today that the Government of Pakistan on an enquiry had learned that Israel was a deputy general secretary of the universal Israelite alliance. It was further learned that the purpose of the delegation's visit was to discuss with Afghan refugees the occupation of their territory by the Soviet Union.

Subsequently, (Egon Clash), vice president of the European Parliament was told that inclusion of Mr Israel in any delegation which intended to visit Pakistan to meet the Afghan refugees would be misunderstood not only by the refugees but also by the people of Pakistan.

In spite of that, the Belgian Embassy at Islamabad made an official approach to the Pakistan Foreign Office to say that the European Parliament wished to send a delegation to Pakistan in connection with preparing a report on Afghanistan. This request came as a surprise to the Government of Pakistan as its advice had not been heeded. On the contrary, the representative of the European Parliament at Islamabad made a demarche to the Foreign Office accusing the Pakistan Government of discrimination against Gerard Israel.

The Pakistan Government has made excessive efforts to convey to the European Parliament that because of the strong feelings of the people of Pakistan and of the Afghan refugees on the question of Israel and anything connected with it the inclusion of Gerard Israel in the delegation was not desirable. The feelings in Muslim countries were already inflamed and sentiments of the peoples in these countries as much as in Pakistan have become further surcharged on account of Al-Aqsa incident. The people of Pakistan have shown (?unequivocal) solidarity with the people of Palestine on the 14th of this month.

Under the circumstances, the visit of the European Parliamentary delegation, as it was constituted, was (?deemed) not desirable. It should be appreciated that the visit of the delegation which disregarded the sensitivities of the people it wished to work with would have been counterproductive.

[Text] Prime Minister of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea Yi Chong-ok arrived in Islamabad this evening and later called on President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq.

During the meeting, the president congratulated him on the 70th birth anniversary of President Kim Il-song and said he was expecting to attend the celebrations himself but could not do so due to some personal engagements.

Premier Yi Chong-ok extended to the president an invitation to visit his country. The DPRK prime minister attended tonight a dinner hosted by the foreign minister, Sahabzada Yaqub Khan.

Banquet Remarks

BK300614 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 0200 GMT 30 Apr 82

[Text] Prime Minister of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea [DPRK], Yi Chong-ok, has said that his country highly respected its friendly relations with Pakistan and would make all possible efforts to further improve them. He stated this while speaking at a dinner hosted in his honor by Foreign Minister Sahabzada Yaqub Khan yesterday.

He said that his country had always had a keen interest in the efforts being made by the people of Pakistan to establish a new, prosperous and independent society and expressed great pleasure over the extraordinary achievements they have scored in different fields. The grand success achieved by Pakistan in its economic reconstruction and development has encouraged the people of new developing countries.

He thanked the government and the people of Pakistan for their support on the issue of reunification of the two parts of Korea.

Speaking on the occasion, Sahabzada Yaqub Khan said that the visit of the DPRK premier had provided an opportunity to exchange views on matters of mutual interest and it would further strengthen existing friendly relations between the two countries. The relations between the two countries will set a good example of the best way for two countries with different social systems to improve their relations for the benefit of the two peoples.

Earlier, Yi Chong-ok called on President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq. During this meeting, the president congratulated him on the 70th birth anniversary of President Kim Il-song. Premier Yi Chong-ok invited the president of Pakistan to visit his country.

Visits Refugee Camp

BK291325 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Text] Saudi Information Minister 'Abduh Yamani visited an Afghan refugee tented village at Nashirbagh near Peshawar this morning. Talking to the refugees, he said that he had brought a message of good wishes for them from King Khalid, Crown Prince Fahd and the people of Saudi Arabia as they were very much concerned over their plight. He said Islam was a religion of peace and reconstruction for which the people of Afghanistan were fighting today. He expressed the confidence that they would ultimately succeed in their struggle through steadfastness, courage and determination.

He advised the refugees to pay greater attention to equipping their children with the Islamic education and bringing them up in accordance with the teachings of Islam so that they should be able to defend Islam in a better way. He also prayed for the success of the mujahidin-i-Islam everywhere in the world and for the return of the Afghan refugees to their country with honor and dignity.

The Saudi information minister highly praised President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq, the Government and the people of Pakistan for providing relief to the Afghan refugees, thereby proving that Islamic brotherhood was above everything. On this occasion he announced a donation of 5 million riyals on behalf of King Khalid and Crown Prince Fahd for the welfare of the Afghan refugees before the month of Ramadan as a token of sympathy with them.

Later, 'Abduh Yamani inspected a dispensary set up by the Saudi Red Crescent and a refugee school at the tented village.

The Saudi information minister was accompanied by Federal Information Minister Raja Mohammad Zafarul Haq during the visit.

JASARAT DENOUNCES GANDHI POLICY ON MUSLIMS

GF280702 Karachi JASARAT in Urdu 22 Apr 82 p 3

[Editorial: "Bravado"]

[Text] During a press conference held at Riyadh at the end of her 4-day visit to Saudi Arabia, the Indian prime minister, Indira Gandhi, used a language of diplomacy and strategy which was neither truthful nor in conformance with historical facts. While playing up kind thoughts toward Pakistan, she said that "if we had not accepted the formation of Pakistan, there would have been no partition of India," and that India wants good relations with all her neighbors, including Pakistan.

The events during the long historical struggle of the Muslims for freedom in the subcontinent are known to the whole world and are now a part of history. The world watched those events. And today, who would believe that the Indian National Congress Party had presented them with Pakistan on a platter as she says? Or, that if the Congress had not agreed, there would have been no Pakistan today.

Today even, the story of Congress-British collusion against Pakistan is being revealed and unfolded before the people. The martyrdom of millions of Muslims and the emigration of millions more from their old country to Pakistan, and the efforts of the opponents of Pakistan to destroy it through various means, even after it had come into existence, are no secret at all. There are living eyewitnesses to these sinister designs. Therefore, the present claim of Indira Gandhi which deletes the sacrifices of the millions of Muslims contradicts history and facts.

As far as India's desire for neighborly relations is concerned, Indira Gandhi may make such "claims," but in practice she has caused tension in the whole region and considers this region as her personal reserve.

The Kashmir problem, repeated aggressions against Pakistan, the aggression of 1971 and separation of a part of Pakistan from the main body, are facts that cannot be denied and, in their presence, no other leader except Indira Gandhi would dare say the things she said in her press conference at Riyadh.

The most ridiculous aspect of the press conference was when the Indian prime minister blatently said: "The minorities in India are safe. In this regard, the Indian record is glorious. Considering the great population of India, the racial incidents are very few and insignificant."

We should not say that the Indian prime minister considers the whole world as full of fools or that the world would accept her claims with closed eyes. But we must say that only she is capable of such untruths.

How India treats its minorities can be judged by how the harijans, who are at the receiving end of the worst prejudices, are being treated. However, the main target of the Hindu majority and the Indian Government is the Muslims in India. Both have not only planned to crush the Muslims socially and economically, but also to finish them through genocide. And this scheme has been in practice for the past 30 or 35 years.

According to the officially published figures, there is an anti-Muslim riot in some part of India every 20 hours. Muslims have only a nominal representation in government services and, whenever they are found making headway in business or industry, they are made targets of racism and are quickly reduced to poverty.

The secretary general of the British Indian Muslim Relief Committee, in a telegram sent to Prince Fahd in connection with Indira Gandhi's visit there, said that so far 500,000 Muslims have been killed in Indian race riots and the damage done to the Muslim mosques and property amounts to 60 million rupees.

In 1980 alone, 428 racial riots were planned and executed. These facts speak for themselves. The fact is that the Indian Government itself is a danger, not only to Muslims within India, but to all minorities living there. It is a kind of government which cherishes neither democratic nor moral values.

It is the moral duty of all revolutionary countries of the world not to be misled by the false propaganda of Indira Gandhi and to help the people who are being subjected to genocide.

IRANIANS LAUNCH OFFENSIVE ON SOUTHERN FRONT

LD301033 Tehran IRNA in English 0904 GMT 30 Apr 82

["Heavy Offensive Launched" -- IRNA headline]

[Text] Tehran, 30 Apr (IRNA) -- The Islamic combatants of Iran have started a heavy offensive [on the] southern fronts known as "in the name of God, the annihilator of oppressors," in the early hours of this morning. First reports indicate that Iraqi troops sustained smashing blows. Many Iraqi soldiers have been captured and a large amount of ammunitions were seized by the Iranian defenders. During this operation so far a large area of Iranian territory was recaptured.

Road Liberated

LD301110 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1048 GMT 30 Apr 82

[Text] At 1100 IRNA reported that the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr road has been liberated up to 25 km from Khuninshahr. Up to the time of the transmission of IRNA's report, the forces of Islam were holding the initiative in the operations and the defenders of Islam, by relying upon their faith and upon divine assistance, were achieving new victories at every moment.

AFP Report

NC301003 Paris AFP in Enblish 0953 GMT 30 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 30 Apr (AFP) -- Iranian troops have crossed the Karun River on their way to the oil port of Khuninshahr (formerly Khorramshahr), an Iranian clerical leader reported today.

Ayatollah Emami Kashani, reporting on a general Iranian offensive that began early today on the southern war front with Iraq, reported at a Tehran Friday prayer session that "I have just received news from an informed source saying that the fighters of Islam have crossed the Karun River and are now headed towards Khuninshahr (Khorramshahr)."

Khuninshahr, a large Iranian port that was one of the focal points of the initial Iraqi offensive in September 1980, has been surrounded but never taken by Iraqi forces, according to Iranian accounts.

Its resistance prompted Iranian authorities to rebaptize the city Khuninshahr, meaning the City of Blood.

Ayatollah Kashani, whose message was broadcast live on Iranian television, added that "heavy losses have been inflicted on the aggressor."

After long battles, Iraqi forces were able to take the port of Khuninshahr located on the western side of the Karun River. Despite several attempts, they were unable to extend the front line beyond the river, which has for several months served as the front line in the southern war theater.

Military-Guards Communique

LD301206 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1042 GMT 30 Apr 82

[Joint communique No 2 of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran in connection with the Bayt al-Moqaddas operations]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. In the name of God, the crusher of oppressors. Mohammad is the apostle of God. "The prophet and those who are with him are harsh toward the infidels, but are merciful among themselves." [Koranic verse]

Zealous and powerful combatants of Islam: Peace be upon you. Arms-carrying believers: Glory to you. Self-sacrificing lovers of God's path: Forward. Forward, Oh you combatants seeking the ideology of the Koran and the path of Hoseyn in the Karbala' of Khuzestan. Now Khuninshahr, this city of blood, the city of resistance, the city of martyrdom and devotion, the city of struggles and the city of children of Islam, awaits you. It has waited for 18 months, the period during which a nation has resisted and remained patient. Liberation of Khuninshahr from the claws of Saddamist usurpers and invaders, during the Bayt al-Moqaddas [Holy Place, presumably Jerusalem] operations, will make it a trench for certain liberation of Jerusalem, this dear city of Muslims, from the claws of the Zionist usurpers and plunderers. It will become a trench for destruction of the enemies of Islam.

Muslim and heroic Islamic nation of Iran: Following the vast and extensive Bayt al-Moqaddas operations, which started in the early hours of this morning under the code name of Ya 'Ali ibn 'Abu Talib, the epic-making combatants of the corps of Islam continue to deliver their smashing blows at the misled invaders. These operations, which were started for the purpose of destroying the enemy forces and liberating our homeland's towns and villages up to the border, have spread along all southern fronts, on the axes west of Ahvaz and south of Susangerd and all over the region west of the Karun River.

Brave combatants of Islam, comprising the Ground Forces, the Air Force and the Navy of the Islamic Republic of Iran, together with the fast-flying combatants of the Airborne Division, self-sacrificing warriors of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and Mobilization forces of the Guards Corps, during a series of coordinated operations with the succor of God and by relying upon the undiminishing power of God, succeeded in crossing the Karun River and breaking the enemy's defense line. Our forces then succeeded in taking over the very important communication and supply highway of Ahvaz-Khorramshahr. At present our forces are moving toward Khuninshahr, with shouts of "God is great" and with divine determination, in order to deliver the final blow to the disintegrating body of Saddam, this mercenary of America.

Since this morning, self-sacrificing pilots of the air force and the ever-vigilant personnel of the air defense units on the southern fronts have succeeded in downing five aggressive planes of the Iraqi Armed Forces at 0750, 1025, 1109, 1240 and 1335 respectively in the Abadan sector.

Our combatants opened fire on the enemy's assembly point in Az-Zubayr and southwest of Hoveyzeh. Positions of Saddam's special forces also came under fire. During these operations so far a large number of enemy troops have been either killed or wounded. Hundreds of them have been taken prisoner by the combatants of Islam. Among the prisoners there are several officers including Second Colonel 'Ali Ashraf 'Ali, the commander of the 1st Battalion of Iraq's 605th Infantry Brigade; Second Colonel Samir 'Abd ar-Razzaq Jasim, the deputy commander of the 1st Battalion of the 506th Brigade; Col 'Abd al-Hakim 'Abd al-Latif, the commander of the 20th Battalion of Iraq's artillery [units].

Apart from destruction of a large number of enemy tanks and personnel carriers, tens of tanks and personnel carriers have been captured by the forces of Islam. Statistics on this equipment and reports on the continuation of the operations will be brought to the attention of the revolutionary and martyr-rearing Islamic nation later.

We hope for final victory of the warriors of Islam and liberation of Jerusalem from the claws of occupying Zionism. We are assisted by God and our victory is nigh.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 870

LD291720 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Communique 870 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The results of the efforts and sacrifices of the selfless combatants of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran on the battlefields of good against evil and the disgraceful deeds on the Saddamists during the past 24 hours are hereby brought to the attention of our dear compatriots.

Fighting and the exchange of fire continued throughout the southern fronts and our victorious and heroic combatants on these fronts, while maintaining firepower superiority, controlling the Iraqi forces and frustrating all enemy moves, were in full control of their defensive positions and bravely continue to safeguard those positions. Their artillery and heavy-weapon fire are inflicting losses and casualties on the forces of blasphemy.

Islam's glorious combatants on the Abadan fronts, returning and silencing the fire of the Saddamists, set ablaze and destroyed 18 enemy foxholes and trenches and killed or wounded more than 30 servicemen of the forces of blasphemy.

Our naval heroes on the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts, opening fire of the positions of the Iraqis, destroyed five light- and heavy-weapon emplacements and killed a number of troops.

Yesterday parts of the city of Abadan were subjected to long-range artillery fire by the Saddamists. Throughout all the country's western fronts a sporadic exchange of fire continued yesterday. On most fronts the heavy-artillery fire of our ground forces prevented the enemy from opening artillery fire and inflicted appreciable losses and casualties on the enemy.

During the exchange of fire on the Ilam fronts our gendarmerie combatants, opening fire on enemy positions, destroyed one enemy tank, one vehicle and six trenches and killed or wounded some 50 Saddamist servicemen.

All air attacks by the aggressive Iraqi Army were frustrated by the antiaircraft units of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran during the past 24 hours.

MINISTRY RELEASES DOCUMENT ON IRAQI 'CRIMES'

LD291316 Tehran IRNA in English 0946 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 29 Apr (IRNA) -- The Iranian Foreign Ministry today released a new document on the crimes of the Iraqi regime in connection with the treatment of the Iraqi officials with [as received] Iranian POWs.

In its statement, addressed to the vigilant Iranians and to all peace-seeking states in the world, the Foreign Ministry said that the document was handed over by the representative office of the International Red Cross [IRC] in Iran. According to the document, IRC representatives wrote down names of ten Iranian POWs when inspecting Mosul Camp on Nov. 10, 1980 but since then their fate had remained unknown to anyone. When the case was followed by the IRC representatives, the Iraqi regime alleged that the ten had been released on April 7, 1981 in Chuman region. Later, thanks to the endeavors of the IRC representatives, it was found out that only one of the ten had been released, who had no information about the others.

The Foreign Ministry statement argued that why the Iraqi regime, contrary to the Geneva Convention, had released the POWs in war zones and, if so, why none of the relatives of the said POWs had any information about them.

It further added that the Ba'thist Iraqi regime and its imperialist supporters should know that Saddam's tyrant rule had come to an end.

The statement noted that the attitude of the Iraqis towards the POWs had been one of the most important subjects the Islamic Republic had discussed with the IRC and other revelant international organisations since the outbreak of the Iraq-imposed war.

It concluded by saying that the Islamic Republic believed that the Iraqi regime had martyred the said Iranian POWs and allegations on their release were a pretext to prevent Saddam's imminent downfall.

Although Iran has already proposed to the International Red Cross for the families visits to Iraqi and Iranian POWs, so far no word has been said from the Iraqi side. According to the proposal, around 100,000 Iraqis could have visited some 23,000 Iraqi POWs in Iran while relatives of about 2,500 Iranian POWs could have travelled to Iraq.

Iran made such a suggestion when the Iraqi POWs numbered more that ten times the Iranian POWs. Under the plan, Kuwait and Turkey were the two countries where the exchange of families was due to take place. However, Iran has announced to even accept POW's families living outside Iraq in light of the Iraqi regime's refusal to let those inside Iraq to travel to Iran. [sentence as received]

Moreover, the Islamic Republic has recently announced its readiness to accept families of the Iraqi POWs in spite of the Iraqi regime's refusal to make any proper response for the visit of the relatives of the Iranian POWs in Iraq.

IRNA: KURDS SUCCESSFULLY ATTACK IRAQI BASES

LD291950 Tehran IRNA in English 1654 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Text] Bakhtaran, 29 Apr (IRNA) -- A group of Kurdish combatants of Iraq attacked an Iraqi forces' base in Sulaymaniyah, northeastern Iraq, causing considerable casualties.

Also, a group of Iraqi Kurdish Muslims in the Iraqi region of Kani Askan smashed an Iraqi tank with its crew and returned to their base safely.

The Kurdish Muslim mujahidin, increasing their attacks on Iraqi bases recently, smashed one vehicle and killed 18 Iraqi soldiers in the Iraqi town of Barznjah on April 21st.

RAFSANJANI, SPEAKS ON STATUS OF GUARDS CORPS

LD291746 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Speech by Majlis Speaker Hojjat ol-Eslam val-Moslemin 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani at 29 April Majlis session -- recorded]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. As today the constitution of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps is being discussed in the Majlis and as its work is being completed in the Majlis, I will explain some issues surrounding the constitution which have been raised in connection with the Guards and Mobilization Corps.

When this constitution was being discussed -- as many of the dear guards are engaged in the war efforts at the front and behind the fronts and did not have an opportunity to study the constitution -- a number of Satans, a number of hostile people or some ignorant friends alleged in the Guards Corps that in the Defense Committee a certain group had decided to limit the Guards Corps or to weaken its connection with Khomeyni, or to get it tied up in paperwork and bureaucracy, and other such allegations.

Last night, some of the guards commanders came to the Majlis and talked to these gentlemen and discovered that most of them had a wrong understanding of the issue. They were asked which parts of the constitution they opposed. Fortunately, they could not find even one clause in this constitution which was objectionable. They were assured that the Islamic Consultative Assembly and the Defense Committee are fully conscious of the great mission of the Guards Corps and that no one can deny their services.

I cannot claim to have had any role in the drafting of this constitution but I must thank all those who have taken this trouble. The fact that an independent minister has been envisaged for the Guards Corps proves that the Islamic Consultative Assembly attaches great importance to the Guards Corps. Fortunately, this proposal was made by the brothers from the Guards Corps at a high level and the Defense Committee agreed with it and the Majlis approved it.

One of the worries of the corps was that the powers of the ministers of the Guards Corps are greater than necessary. Fortunately, the Majlis adopted a logical stance and took away the planning and programming powers from the minister, although so far the person to whom these powers should be given has not been decided on and we should think about that. It took away the engineering department from the ministry and put it under the command structure [as heard].

Another minor objection was that the decrees from the appointment of some of the lower units were to issued by the minister. This was also taken away from the minister.

The mission of the Guards Corps, which is based on fighting against the counterrevolutionaries, has been spelled out in the first part of the constitution. The propagation and preaching of Islam which has not been bestowed by the Majlis upon any organization throughout the country except the Ministry of Guidance, has been entrusted to the guards and a unit in the corps has been envisaged in charge of teaching Islam.

The Mobilization of the Oppressed, which has a great popular function, which trains, administers and organizes our best youth and which is the greatest force and the source of contact with the people and which requires the most important resources, has been put under the supervision of the Guards Corps.

In this constitution the cooperation of the guards with the armed forces during the war and with the gendarmerie and police in the security affairs of the country has been foreseen.

In connection with its links with Khomeyni, the Guards Corps will be connected with him through two very strong channels: one, through the appointment of the commander, and the other, through the appointment of a representative who takes part in the council and who possesses the right of veto in connection with the religious issues, something which does not exist in any other organization.

I do not know whether those who create doubt in the minds of our dear brothers in the lower ranks are not the same as those who created animosity and clashes among the Ows and Khazraj [two of the tribes who initially supported Muhammad when he was in Medina], and whether those who allege that there is an inclination in the Majlis to weaken the Guards Corps are not those very people who wish to put the guards in a position which endangers its future. The Islamic Revolution Guards Corps is the apple of our eye and the Islamic Consultative Assembly is the apple of the eye of the Guards Corps.

One of the guards commanders who came to the Majlis Defense Committee most emphatically said something which puts an end to the efforts of those who wish to hatch a conspiracy. He said: In accordance with our ideology and our belief we will accept and implement without the slightest hesitation and with great joy everything which is approved by the Majlis and which is decided by the representatives of the people.

If we feel that we should make any points we will do so during the discussions; and of course this is quite correct. Their representative was here and was in the committee.

A constitution has been drawn up. Of course, I do not claim that this constitution is completely free of defects. Every constitution and everything which is approved by the Majlis and is made law may have some defects. This should be seen in practice. It is not the same as the fundamental constitution.

It is an ordinary law and can be corrected at any time. The constitutions of various organizations are something new and we have not had too much experience with them and they will be corrected in the future.

Therefore, on the whole, I believe that this constitution is in the interest and for the good of the Guards Corps. The Guards Corps will now enjoy powers and prerogatives and guidelines which it did not possess before from a legal point of view. It is the first step toward strengthening the position and confirming the mission of the Guards Corps and, God willing, it will evolve further.

MONTAZERI COMMENTS ON JOB OF GUARDS CORPS

LD291618 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report from Qom, the officials in charge of the education of the clergy, the political and ideological official of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, together with the representatives of the imam in the Guards Corps, and a number of the commanders of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps met with Ayatollah Montazeri in Qom after the nationwide seminar of the commanders of the corps yesterday.

In this meeting, while emphasizing the importance of convening such seminars for consultation, while pointing out that our time should not be spent chanting slogans, and while emphasizing the critical and fundamental role of the Guards Crops which is an organization which has emanated from the heart of the Islamic revolution, Ayatollah Montazeri said: It is never the duty of the Guards Corps to interfere in minor issues and differences which should be dealt with by the courts. The mission of the guards is to safeguard the revolution against the international conspiracies of the enemies of Islam and the superpowers both within and outside the country.

It is obvious that, like Islam itself, this mission is not limited to any particular boundary or border. In fact, the role of the Guards Corps is not merely to protect our soil and territory. In law this duty has been entrusted to the armed forces and the gendarmerie. The Guards Corps should bring its ideological message to the ears of all deprived and oppressed people. At the moment, both the Eastern and Western enemies of Islam have a similar position toward our Islamic revolution.

Further on in his speech, while emphasizing the effective role of the Guards Corps, Ayatollah Montazeri said: I do not wish to comment about the law governing the guards. This is the duty of the Islamic Consultative Assembly and the esteemed Majlis deputies are paying attention to it. However, what I wish to emphasize is the sanctity of Islamic revolution organizations. They should not be destroyed and they should not be subjected to formalities and customary paperwork and bureaucracy. These organizations, such as the reconstruction crusade, the Guards Corps and Islamic revolution courts, should be free of restrictions so that they can serve the Islamic revolution and the country. Of course, they should be guided by and harmonized with state organizations.

Today the expectations of the people from the Guards Corps and other Islamic revolution organizations are the same as their expectations for the clergy. Great attention should be paid to the fact that no mistakes, no mental or practical deviations creep into their work.

Therefore, the iman, may his shadow continue, has appointed some representatives who while guiding them will also supervise them fully.

The guards brothers should make sure that they do not arrest offenders or individuals who have deviated, on their own initiative and without legal decrees. Your behavior should express Islamic and ideological order and discipline; and while dealing with such an individual you should fully implement Islamic standards.

DPRK PREMIER, DELEGATION CONCLUDE VISIT

Talks End

LD281240 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 28 Apr 82

[Excerpt] The Central News Unit reports that following the recent talks between the DPRK premier and his accompanying economic delegation and the diplomatic and economic authorities of the Islamic Republic of Iran, the two sides completed the last round of their talks, summing up the results of the talks held by the various committees of the two countries and preparing the documents for commercial and industrial cooperation between the two countries.

Behzad Nabavi, minister of state for executive affairs, and Kazempur-Ardabili, economic under secretary, for Iran and the vice premier and other Korean officials for the DPRK attended today's talks.

According to this report, DPRK Premier Yi Chong-ok, who heads the Korean delegations to the Tehran talks, met and conferred with Minister of Industries Hashemi at the former's residence.

Oil, Other Agreements

LD291434 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, after 4 days of talks between the high-ranking DPRK delegation and officials of the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran, this afternoon a protocol was signed between the Governments of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the DPRK. The protocol was signed by Mr Mir-Hoseyn Musavi and Mr Yi Chong-ok, the prime ministers of the two countries. With the signing of this protocol, the visit of the DPRK prime minister and the delegation accompanying him to Tehran came to an end and the Korean delegation left Tehran and was officially seen off by Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi and a number of officials of the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

During their stay in Tehran, the DPRK prime minister and the delegation accompanying him met with Mr Khamene'i, the president, and Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani, the speaker of the Islamic Consultative Assembly of Iran. This delegation also met with the ministers of foreign affairs, commerce, oil, energy, industries, roads and transportation and had discussions with them about issues of mutual interest to the two countries.

During the visit of the high-ranking DPRK delegation in Tehran, Mr Kong Chin-t'ae, the DPRK vice premier in charge of economic affairs, and Mr Behzad Nabavi, the Iranian minister of state in charge of executive affairs, led the discussions in three different economic committees. In the first committee, which dealt with industry, commerce, mines and agriculture, some commercial agreements were reached according to which the DPRK will sell to Iran during each of the following 3 years 1,000 agricultural machines for transplanting rice, 1,500 water pumps, a quantity of pipe joints [as heard], iron sheets, pipes, equipment for smelting lead and zinc, electronic motors, transformers and other industrial equipment.

In the same committee, the two countries agreed to continue their former agreement regarding the purchase of 20,000 tons of fish by Iran, with the possibility of increasing this amount. Iran also presented to the Korean officials its requests about industrial cooperation between the two countries.

In the committee on energy, roads and transportation some discussions were held regarding the purchase of equipment needed by the power and hydropower industries, such as hydroelectric generators, and the possibility of DPRK participation in tenders concerning the construction of ports, dams and electricity transmission lines. It was decided that delegations of relevant specialists should follow up the possibilities of such cooperation.

According to the agreements which were reached in the oil committee, the DPRK will purchase during the next 4 years 1 million tons of oil from Iran each year, 4 million tons in the 4 years. According to this report, the agreement for the purchase of 1 million tons of oil during the current year was signed last month by officials of the two countries in Tehran. The agreements for the purchase of oil in the coming years will be signed on a year-by-year basis. According to the same report, the price of the Iranian oil will be the price set by the government at the time of the shipment. The payment for this oil will be made in goods imported from the DPRK as well as in accordance with an agreement which will be signed by the two countries for a separate mode of payment.

Musavi Interview

LD291816 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Excerpts] A high-level DPRK delegation led by Premier Yi Chong-ok concluded its visit to Tehran today and departed. Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi and a number of Iranian officials were at the airport for the DPRK delegation's departure. The signing of a letter of understanding marked the conclusion of the delegation's visit to Iran. This protocol was signed by Prime Minister Musavi and his Korean counterpart, Yi Chong-ok, on behalf of their respective governments.

A Central News Unit correspondent spoke to Prime Minister Musavi at the airport on the outcome of the DPRK delegation's visit to Iran.

[Begin recording] [Question] Prime Minister Musavi, please tell us about the major topics discussed and about the protocol that was signed.

[Answer] In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. The protocol we signed has several sections. One section is related to the sale of 3 million tons of oil to the DPRK in exchange for which [words indistinct] and technology. Other sections of the protocol concern the talks conducted by the Iran-DPRK joint committees on possible areas of economic cooperation between the two countries. The talks were aimed at paving the way for greater trade between our two countries in the interest of our peoples. The point I would like to emphasize is that although we held useful talks on political matters, the protocol we signed is more economic than political.

[question indistinct]

[Answer] [Words indistinct] we had previously sold 1 million tons of crude to the DPRK. We have now decided to sell an additional 3 million tons, for a grand total of 4 million tons. Delivery of the crude will begin next year at a rate of 1 million tons per year. This sale is on the basis of barter trade. From now on the joint committees will try to ascertain our country's needs and requirements and try to satisfy them in the DPRK market in order to enable us to continue to implement our agreement on the basis of barter trade.

[Question] In view of this protocol, how do you see the future of our relations with the DPRK?

[Answer] In general, our relations with the DPRK are good. This is because -- as we felt in our talks with the delegation -- the DPRK has been acting to a large extent independently, independent from East and West. Surrounded by the superpowers, the DPRK realizes the danger of an offensive by the neighboring powers. Despite everything, the DPRK is trying to stand on its own feet, to remain independent.

From this angle, DPRK foreign policy is of considerable importance to us. Since the start of the war, the DPRK has been among the few countries that have supported Iran's stand against the imposed war. During this period, we have been able to establish good trade and economic relations with the DPRK, relations to our mutual benefit and to our benefit in particular. All these facts support the notion that we should maintain these relations, try to further them and use them in the interests of our people.

[Question] Thank you very much. [end recording]

KHOMEYNI OFFICE DIRECTIVE ON VISITS, PAYMENT

LD291942 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Statement issued by Imam Khomeyni's office on 29 April]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The public are hereby informed that although many reminders have been issued regarding applications to the office of his eminence the imam, may his blessing continue, our beloved sisters and brothers, ignoring these reminders, have referred to this office and continue to cause inconvenience to themselves and embarassement to those in charge of the imam's office. Therefore, with due respect we announce once again:

1. Please do not apply to this office without prior appointment, because applications for meetings will certainly not be accepted.

2. Those who owe religious sums [vojuh-e shar'i] should as much as possible refer to established advocates throughout Iran and to His Eminence Ayatollah Pasandideh, the proxy and empowered representative of his eminence the imam in Qom.

3. Efforts should be made to write letters to this office only on theological matters because the imam's office will not intervene in other cases. Meanwhile, those in charge of ministries and offices are sincerely requested to make a serious effort to deal with the cases of those referring to them.

4. Those who have no access to His Eminence Ayatollah Pasandideh, may his blessings continue, and who at the same time wish to forward their religious sums through his eminence to his eminence the imam, can pay into this eminence's current account No 2200 in the Islamic Cooperation Institute in Qom.

All the brothers and sisters are sincerely thanked in advance.

[Signed] Imam Khomeyni's office, 29 April 1982

KHOMEYNI IDENTIFIES ECONOMIC PRIORITIES OF STATE

LD292030 Tehran IRNA in English 1940 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 28 Apr (IRNA) -- Imam Khomeyni today emphasised that the efforts taken by the Ministry of Roads and Transportation should be mainly devoted to the expansion of roads in the rural areas of the country, particularly in the poor regions. Speaking today to the minister of roads and transportation, Mohammad Hadinezhad-Hoseyniyan, his deputies and other officials of the said ministry, the leader of the Islamic revolution added that such efforts would result in the expansion of agricultural activities and supplying products to the cities as well as increase the income of farmers and the poor masses of the society. This, the imam went on, would moreover facilitate remedial and medical services for the poor masses.

The founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran also stressed the necessity of taking advantage of expertise of committed Muslims in order to reach more self-sufficiency and independence. This meant, the imam added, that the Iranians should be mentally independent, which had been achieved to a large extent. In another part of his speech, Imam Khomeyni said those making efforts to invent things in the world were all similar and human like Iranians, who should be certain that they could do anything they wanted.

He further stated that one should not think that the former regime could not provide services for the oppressed; rather it did not want to, stressed he. Nor did it even think of the oppressed. The only thing the former regime did was to give promises, said the imam.

Imam Khomeyni concluded that one could not see in all of the warfronts even one person from higher classes, and everyone throughout the battlefronts had all come from the poor people to whom belonged the Islamic revolution, and the others were more spectators.

CENTRAL BANK PUBLISHES REPORT ON INFLATION

LD252224 Tehran IRNA in English 2020 GMT 25 Apr 82

[Text] Tehran, 25 Apr (IRNA) -- During the past Iranian year ending March 21 the price index of goods and consumer services rose by an average of 22.8 percent as compared to the preceding year, the economics statistics of the Central Bank announced today. The report further added that the price index of goods and consumer service in urban centres during the period of Feb 21-March 20 rose by 3.7 percent as compared to its preceding period. The reason behond this price rise, according to the Central Bank, was the increase in the price of most foodstuffs, fresh fruits and vegetables, meat, dairy products and other items such as textiles, carpets, clothing, home appliances, cars and gold in urban areas.

Meanwhile, rents in cities also increased. However, the price of goods distributed by revolutionary organizations remained unchanged. Comparing the price of goods during the period of Feb 21-March 20 1982 and the corresponding period the previous year, the report said that during the former period the price index rose by 20 percent. Among the various items, bread rose by [figure indistinct] percent, rice and cereals 13 percent, dairy products 24 percent, meat 30 percent, fish 64 percent, fresh fruit 4 percent, vegetables 44 percent, dried fruit 28 percent, tea 38 percent, and prepared food 33 percent. At the same time the price of eggs and poultry showed a slight decrease. The report added that during the period Feb 21-March 20, 1982, the price of clothing rose by about 20 percent, construction materials 6 percent, construction services 15 percent, housing rents 8 percent, fuel 11 percent, home appliances 39 percent, transportation 42 percent, and gold 83 percent. Meanwhile, the price of medicine and services produced by the government showed no price increase.

ACTIVITIES OF CSSR DELEGATION REPORTED

LD042354 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1530 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] Dr Saleh Mohammad Ziray, Politburo member, secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and president of the National Fatherland Front [NFF] National Committee, met with the CSSR National Front Central Committee delegation this afternoon in his office at the revolutionary party headquarters.

At the meeting, which was attended by members of the NFF National Committee and the CSSR ambassador, talks were held in a friendly atmosphere about topics of interest, in particular the expansion of cooperation between the two sides.

The delegation of the CSSR National Front, comprising representatives of social organizations of that country and led by the deputy chairman of the CSSR National Front Central Committee and chairman of the solidarity committee, have come to Kabul for a friendly visit at the invitation of the DRA NFF.

According to another report, the DRA NFF National Committee gave a dinner in honor of the delegation at the Intercontinental Hotel.

Members of the executive board of the NFF National Committee; Najmoddin Khawiani, official in charge of the organization department of the PDPA Central Committee; the secretary responsible for the NFF National Committee; and the CSSR ambassador in Kabul took part in the dinner.

AFP: MUNITIONS DUMP BLOWN UP BY REBELS

BK041648 Hong Kong AFP in English 1604 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] Islamabad, 4 May (AFP) -- A munitions dump blew up in a Soviet camp south of Kabul during a Moslem resistance attack early Saturday, a Western diplomatic source said here today.

Casualties and material damage could not be estimated, the source said, but after the Camp Kala-i-Kag explosion, heard in Kabul toward 4 a.m. local, a series of other explosions were heard for more than two hours.

The Afghan press blamed the blast on a mistake by a worker at the dump, but diplomatic (?sources said) it was the result of a "lucky shot" from a mujahidin rocket.

TROOPS REENLIST AT DISCHARGE CEREMONIES

LD060626 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 5 May 82

[Text] A meeting was held today in Kabul operational battalion command to encourage and appreciate the troops of the above battalion.

The chief commander of revolution defense, political head of this command, commander and deputy political head of the operational battalion spoke at this meeting on the lofty objectives of the April Revolution.

Speaking on behalf of the operational battalion troops who have succeeded in obtaining discharge certificates, Mera-Jan, a volunteer soldier, then spoke and expressed every readiness to defend the gains of the April Revolution.

According to another report discharge certificates were given today and yesterday to those sarandoy troops of Kabul International Airport and the third security ward of Kabul city who had completed the term of the sacred military service.

The sarandoy commander of Kabul airport and head of the third security ward spoke at this meeting about the role of the patriotic youth for the defense of the homeland and revolution and wishes the success of the conscious and patriotic youth for the realization of the objectives of the party and government.

The BAKHTAR correspondent adds that gifts were also given to the troops along with discharge certificates.

A number of the troops of Kabul Airport and the third security ward of Kabul city volunteered not to accept discharge certificate until the hand of the traitors to the homeland and revolution is cut off from the revolutionary Afghanistan.

Those troops of sarandoy command, Fariab Province, whose term of military service has been completed, have also received their discharge certificates in the course of a ceremony.

The sarandoy commander of Fariab Province and the political head of this command shed light at this meeting on the role of brave soldiers for safeguarding security and gains of the April Revolution, in particular its new development stage, and wished them success in realizing the lofty objectives of the party and government.

The ceremony ended by giving gifts and discharge certificates to the troops of sarandoy command.

According to another report, those troops of sarandoy command and operational battalion of Ghowr, Baghlan and Kapisa Provinces who have completed term of the sacred military service -- 2 and 1/2 years or more -- were discharged in the course of separate meetings where gifts were also given to them.

In the meetings which were held on this occasion in the sarandoy command headquarters of Ghowr, Baghlan and Kapisa Provinces, a number of soldiers recalled with appreciation the bravery and heroism of those troops of the above provinces who, during the term of their service, have displayed heroism against the enemies of the homeland and defense of the national and democratic April Revolution, in particular its new development stage, and wished further victories for these conscious youth for the prosperity and well-being of the toiling people of the county and construction of the flourishing society in the revolutionary Afghanistan.

According to the reports of the above provinces' sarandoy commands, a number of these brave and courageous troops who have successfully completed their term of military service once again volunteered not to lay down their weapons until the complete elimination of the counterrevolutionary bands and to continue the sacred military service in their respective units.

EXPRESS VIEWS INDO-U.S. RELATIONS, GANDHI VISIT

BK051345 Delhi INDIAN EXPRESS in English 28 Apr 82 p 6

[Article by S. Nihal Singh: "A First Step"]

[Text] India is of marginal interest in American strategic thinking and planning for two reasons. It acquires relevance, in Washington's view, only insofar as it impinges upon primary U.S. interests in relation to the other superpower or the sea lanes or West Asia. Besides, it tends to be considered an adversary, not on its own but in combination with the Soviet Union.

With his usual perspicacity, Dr Henry Kissinger has decreed that India is too big and its leadership, principally Mrs Gandhi, too proud to be a mere satellite of the Soviet Union. Ironically, this assessment has encouraged recent American administrations to adopt an attitude of benign neglect of a nation whose potential, if not its present capabilities, cannot be ignored.

Coming in as the Reagan administration did on a wave of hurt national sensibilities, its focus was on coping with the Soviet Union and the perceived threat from it. Pakistan was high on the priority list by virtue of it having become a "frontline state," with the Soviets having dug in in Afghanistan. The generous economic and military aid package, as also the decision to sell Pakistan F-16's on a cash and carry basis, flowed from this primary American concern.

The Americans were no doubt familiar with the consequences the arming of Pakistan would have on their relationship with India. But they were prepared to pay the price because this relationship had become a subsidiary one and, in any case, many in the U.S. administration had lost patience with India's posturing on world issues, mostly on the Soviet side.

Against this background, the promptness with which Mrs Gandhi accepted President Reagan's invitation to visit the U.S.A. brings out one central fact: India needs U.S. friendship more than the other way round. This is dictated by the facts of life. Though no longer as strong as it was in relation to the other superpower, the U.S.A. is still the most powerful nation on earth and continues to exercise great influence in many parts of the world. Secondly, the only real balancing power in the context of the Indo-Soviet relationship remains the U.S.A.

Mrs Gandhi's efforts to reduce India's dependence on the Soviet Union, symbolised by a treaty which served its purpose 10 years ago but is an embarrassment today, predate her defeat in the 1977 elections. She sent an ambassador to Beijing to indicate her interest in beginning the long process of reconciliation with China. And India's deliberate decision to diversify its arms purchases has yielded fruit in the Jaguars, West German submarines and, most recently, Mirage 2000. The new cordiality and content in Indo-French relations as also the strengthening of links with Britain are again facets of a policy of using the European Economic Community as a counterweight of sorts against the Soviet Union.

Even apart from President Reagan and his administration's preoccupation with the Soviet Union and American strategic interests, Indo-American relations have seldom been happy or smooth for long.

COOPERATION PROTOCOL SIGNED WITH INDIA

LD171730 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 17 May 82

[Text] The sixth session of the joint Afghan-Indian commission for economic, commercial and technical cooperation ended this morning after which a protocol was signed by Sakhi Daneshjo, the DRA deputy minister of foreign affairs, and Natwar Singh, the Indian deputy external affairs minister.

After the protocol signing, Sakhi Daneshjo and Natwar Singh spoke about the friendly relations between Afghanistan and India and expressed their satisfaction and belief that the conclusion of the protocol will help toward further strengthening relations between Afghanistan and India.

According to another report, the Indian deputy external affairs minister, who headed the delegation to the cooperation commission talks, left for New Delhi today.

The delegation was seen off at Kabul International Airport by the DRA deputy minister of foreign affairs and head of the Afghan delegation; members of the Afghan delegation; and the ambassador and some members of the Indian Embassy in Kabul.

[Text] India is to step up its assistance to Afghanistan in some technical and economic fields under a protocol signed between the two countries in Kabul today. The protocol provides for an increase in the number of Indian experts in health and some other fields. Afghanistan has also sought India's assistance in setting up small-scale industries and in sectors like power, water and trade.

The protocol was signed by Secretary in the Ministry of External Affairs Natwar Singh and Afghanistan's deputy foreign minister. Natwar Singh, who called on President Babrak Karmal yesterday, delivered a letter from Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi. He also met the Afghan prime minister and the foreign minister.

KESHTMAND CHAIRS COUNCIL OF MINISTERS SESSION

LD171716 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1430 GMT 17 May 82

[Text] Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand, chairman of the DRA Council of Ministers, chaired a general Council of Ministers session this morning at the Council of Ministers headquarters. The session began with the playing of the DRA national anthem.

According to the Council of Ministers' previously prepared work program and agenda, Dr Khalil Ahmad Abawi, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers and president of the State Planning Committee, presented a report on the economic and social development plan for 1981-1982. The report was positively evaluated. Then Dr Mehraboddin Paktiawal, general director of the DRA State Bank, gave a report on the currency situation in the country. The Council of Ministers approved the report.

Assistant Attorney General Mohammad (Akram 'Abqari) presented a Ministry of Justice report on the draft of laws, provisions and charters. The Ministry of Justice presented the general session of the Council of Ministers with the drafts for 24 paragraphs of laws and appendices to laws as well as the drafts of provisions and charters. The drafts have been prepared and organized in accordance with the joint cooperation of the relevant ministries, the DRA Basic Principles, the law of the DRA Council of Ministers, other laws of the country and the instructions of the PDPA and with consideration to the decrees of the Revolutionary Council Presidium.

After consideration, it was decided that, in accordance with Article 47 of the DRA Basic Principles, the draft of the relevant laws and their appendices would be submitted to the DRA Presidium for final approval and instructions; the draft laws and provisions approved were sent to the OFFICIAL GAZETTE for publication.

Appropriate decisions were made concerning topics discussed in the general session of the Council of Ministers. A number of provisions which had previously been decided on in the Executive Committee of the Council of Ministers were approved.

In addition, the Council of Ministers approved the appointment of Dr Asadollah Habib as rector of Kabul University.

The session ended around noon with the playing of the DRA national anthem.

RELATIONS WITH GDR, KARMAL VISIT LAUDED

GF200525 Kabul in Urdu to South Asia 1330 GMT 19 May 82

[Untitled commentary]

[Excerpt] At an invitation from high-ranking party and government officials of the German Democratic Republic, Babrak Karmal, the secretary general of the People's Democratic Party of Afghanistan and chairman of the Revolutionary Council of the DRA, is currently paying a friendly and official visit to Berlin.

The visit of the official Afghan delegation led by Babrak Karmal is an important landmark in the history of friendship between the two countries. Afghanistan has traditionally had friendly relations with the GDR. However, soon after the April Revolution in Afghanistan, Afghan-GDR relations were expanded through nonresident ambassadors. Later, when the government of the toilers was established in the DRA, these relations entered a new phase. Soon after, diplomatic relations were not only upgraded, but the ruling parties in both countries further developed their international relations greatly.

AFP: FORMER OFFICIALS SENTENCED IN DACCA

BK221717 Hong Kong AFP in English 1411 GMT 22 May 82

[Text] Dacca, 22 May (AFP) -- A former mayor of Dacca and a minister in deposed President Abdus Sattar's Cabinet was today sentenced to eight years' hard prison term by a Special Martial Law Tribunal for corruption and misuse of official position.

The five-member tribunal, headed by Brigadier Abdus Salam, which tried the mayor, Mr Abul Hasnat, in two cases of corruption, delivered its unanimous judgements today as the accused stood in silence in the dock of the guarded court room. In illegal sharing of business with "a favourite lady friend" in the Dacca municipal corporation, Mr Hasnat was given five years' rigorous imprisonment and a fine of taka 500,000 and in default to suffer another two years' prison. He was given a prison term for another three years in the second case involving illegal allotment of a government house to his lady friend Kohinoor Begum at an exceptionally low rent depriving two other genuine claims."

The second sentence will begin on conclusion of the first five-year term, the tribunal chairman announced.

The tribunal, which includes two civilian judges, will meet again on May 25 to try more cases against the convicted mayor.

Meanwhile, another Special Martial Law Tribunal, headed by Brigadier Mashahed Chowdhury, which is trying a former Deputy Prime Minister Jamaluddin Ahmed on similar charges of corruption and abuse of official position will deliver judgement on Monday.

In the fourth case against him, Mr Ahmed was sentenced to a day's imprisonment and a fine of taka 350,000. He was acquitted in the second case and given five years hard labour and a fine of taka 1,000,000 in another.

DACCA REPORTS ON FUGITIVE SURVEY PLANE, CREW

BK270421 Dacca Domestic Service in English 0145 GMT 27 May 82

[Text] The attention of the Government of Bangladesh has been drawn to reports in the West Bengal [India] press about the Cessna 402 aircraft which had been flown to Calcutta from the Dacca international airport without clearance of the Bangladesh authorities.

The government has issued a handout to give a factual account of the circumstances surrounding the case. The Bangladesh space research and remote sensing organization took up a program for infrared color aerial photography of the whole country. Accordingly, an aerial survey company of Canada was engaged to carry out the project which has been aided by the UNDP grant. Before the project could be completed, the Canadian company was liquidated and its assets in Bangladesh -- including the aircraft -- reportedly became the property of another Canadian firm. The Bangladesh Government was informed by the FAO that the aircraft, along with equipment, would remain in Bangladesh until the next winter season when the photography could be completed. Representatives of the new Canadian firm arrived in Bangladesh to release the aircraft. While discussions were in progress, representatives of the new firm took off the aircraft illegally on Tuesday morning and proceeded to Calcutta.

The handout said the contractual obligations to Bangladesh for carrying out infrared aerial photography had not been fulfilled. Moreover, the company has to pay civil aviation and airport fees apart from fuel bills. Personnel of the new company have also violated the country's import-export and immigration laws.

Allegations that Bangladesh has asked them to carry out espionage activities over South Talpatti Island are baseless, totally fabricated and a mischievous attempt to rationalize illegal action. The Government of Bangladesh is in touch with the Indian authorities on this matter.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Iranian Account of Offensive -- On 30 April Iran launched an offensive on the southern fronts which it identified as the "Jerusalem operations," according to a Guards Corps and armed forces communique carried by Tehran radio. During these operations thousands of Iraqis were killed or wounded and 3,205 captured Iraqis were taken to the rear, a later military communique carried by Tehran radio reported. During the offensive, 800 square km of Iranian territory were liberated, the communique asserted. Hundreds of Iraqi tanks, personnel carriers and vehicles were destroyed and six Iraqi aircraft were shot down. Another Iranian communique reported that Iranian forces had crossed the Karun River, breaking the Iraqi defense line, and had succeeded in taking over the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr communications and supply highway.

IRNA claimed on 1 May that more than 6,000 Iraqi troops were killed or wounded during fighting on the southern fronts, with more than 4,000 Iraqis captured since the "Jerusalem operations" began on 30 April. According to IRNA, 80-95 high-ranking Iraqi officers were among those captured. Three more Iraqi aircraft were shot down on 1 May bringing the total to 9, according to an armed forces communique carried by Tehran radio. Fighting was reported on the Baneh and Marivan fronts as well as on the Sar-e Pol-e Zahab and Sumar fronts, the communique noted.

An early morning attack on 2 May by Iranian forces against Iraqi positions west of the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr highway resulted in heavy Iraqi casualties, according to an Iranian military communique carried by Tehran radio. During these operations another part of Iranian territory near the Hoseyniyeh and Garm Dasht stations was liberated, the communique reported. Part of the 8th Mechanized Brigade, the 606th Brigade and the 24th Mechanized Brigade of Iraq were smashed, according to the communique. Iraqi forces mounted three counteroffensives in the Hoseyniyeh region on the morning of 2 May which were repulsed by Iranian forces, Tehran radio reported.

Mopping-up operations in the area between the Karun River and the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr Road continued on 2 May with the Iranians penetrating to within 15 km of the Iraqi border, Tehran radio reported. In another report the radio claimed three Iraqi aircraft had been shot down by Iran on 2 May.

Iraqi Account -- According to an Iraqi Armed Forces communique carried by INA, Iranian forces participating in the offensive in Ahvaz and Susangerd were totally destroyed. The Iraqi forces inflicted massive losses on the Iranian forces near the Karun River and forced them to retreat. A later Iraqi communique carried by INA announced that 5,672 Iranians were killed during the fighting on 30 April. It also noted that Iraqi planes carried out 218 combat missions against Iranian troops concentrations in the Ahvaz and Susangerd sectors. The communique reported that Iraqi helicopters conducted 40 combat missions and noted that all Iraqi planes and helicopters returned safely to base. It added that Iraqi antiaircraft defenses shot down five Iranian helicopters and one plane during the fighting. An Iraqi military spokesman described as untrue Iranian claims that five Iraqi aircraft had been shot down, INA reported.

A total of 8,794 Iranians were killed during battles on the Ahvaz and Susangerd fronts and in the 4th Army sector between 30 April and 1 May, according to a 1 May Iraqi Armed Forces communique carried by Baghdad radio. The communique said other Iranian losses included 2 fighter planes, 13 helicopters, 97 tanks and 26 armored personnel carriers.

Iraqi forces confronted and completely destroyed Iranian forces which carried out an early morning attack in the Ahvaz and Susangerd fronts on 2 May, according to an Iraqi military communique carried by Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio. An attack by Iranian forces in the area west of the Karun River was also foiled, the communique added noting that the Iraqis responded with a counterattack. Thousands of Iranians were killed in the fighting in Susangerd, Ahvaz and in the area west of the Karun River, the communique reported.

According to a later Iraqi military communique carried by Baghdad radio, on 2 May "massive" losses were inflicted on Iranian forces in fighting at the Taher-Halub Bridge area west of the Karun River. The communique reported that Iraqi planes continued to launch attacks against Iranian positions in the Ahvaz and Susangerd areas, destroying large numbers of tanks and vehicles and killing large numbers of Iranians. Two Iranian planes and one helicopter were shot down in the Ahvaz sector, the communique claimed.

The communique reported that Iranian forces suffered "massive" losses in their dawn attack in the Jananah area. The Iraqi commander in that sector said Iraqi forces destroyed five Iranian offensives, according to Voice of the Masses radio. Iranian losses in the Jananah area amounted to 1,500 killed during the early morning attack, Baghdad radio reported citing a military spokesman.

Iran

Shari'atmadari Interview -- Ayatollah Kazem Shari'atmadari said he regretted that he had not informed the government about plans for a plot against the regime, AFP reported citing a Tehran television interview with Shari'atmadari. At the same time, the religious leader appealed to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni for a halt to public attacks against him.

Iran-India Communique -- Iran and India, while expressing "grave concern" over the situation in Afghanistan, called for a "just and comprehensive solution" to the issue based on the complete withdrawal of foreign forces, on principles of nonintervention and noninterference and full respect for Afghanistan's independence and sovereignty, according to a joint communique broadcast by Tehran radio.

Iranian-U.S. Relations -- Iran has had no relations with the United States, Foreign Minister 'Ali Akbar Velayati said in an interview with Delhi radio cited by IRNA. Velayati said that if Iran sold oil to a country with which it has commercial relations and subsequently that country sold the oil to the United States, then that was a different matter, totally unrelated to Iran. He emphasized that Iran would never think of having relations with the United States while it continued its enmity toward Iran.

Iraq

Austerity Plan -- The government has decided on a policy of austerity and expenditure cutbacks, giving priority to the war effort at the expense of all else, AFP reported citing the MIDDLE EAST ECONOMIC SURVEY.

Assassination Attempt -- President Saddam Husayn was attacked by two of his guards on 30 April when he came out of his office, Tehran radio's Arabic service claimed. Two of Husayn's guards were killed and another four wounded in the attack although the president was not hit, the radio maintained. Monitored Iraqi sources have not reported the incident.

Israel

West Bank, Gaza Situation -- The Israeli authorities dismissed the mayor of 'Anabta, Mahid Hamadallah, after he had been convicted by a military court of violating confinement orders and of possessing illegal material, Jerusalem radio reported on 30 April. West Bank and Gaza Municipal Councils subsequently issued a statement, broadcast by the clandestine Voice of Palestine radio, that denounced Israel's actions against West Bank mayors, demanded the reinstatement of the dismissed officials and called for the abolition of the civil administration. The municipal councils will suspend their work if their demands are not met, the statement warned. In a related statement carried by the radio, a PLO official said the mayors' collective note expresses the will of the Palestinian people to reject the civil administration and is consistent with the stand of the PLO leadership.

Meanwhile, Jerusalem radio reported a number of disturbances in the West Bank. Palestinian youths attacked a police station and a village league office in the Hebron area on 1 May. The following day stone-throwers injured a bus driver and an Israeli civilian shot and wounded a girl from the 'Arrub refugee camp who had been among a group of demonstrators blocking a road. Noting that the 14-year-old girl was seriously wounded in the head, the Jerusalem POST said two Arabs from the Shuafat refugee camp were also injured by gunfire when the IDF broke up a demonstration. Disturbances likewise occurred in the Gaza Strip, according to ITIM.

Security authorities have captured 27 terrorists in Tulkarm, MA'ARIV reported on 30 April.

No Settlement Resolution, Sabbath Flights -- After Labor Party Chairman Shim'on Peres had made it clear to Prime Minister Menahem Begin that the Labor Party would not support a government resolution against the future evacuation of any Jewish settlement, the Cabinet decided not to submit such a proposal for Knesset approval, according to Jerusalem radio reports. Instead Begin will merely refer to the matter in his 3 May Knesset speech, according to IDF radio.

The Cabinet also decided to stop EL AL flights on the Sabbath and holidays, Jerusalem radio noted.

Sagi on PLO Ties With Egypt -- IDF intelligence chief Maj Gen Yehoshu'a Sagi charged that Israel has categorical proof that Egyptian Army leaders and senior Egyptian Government officials have been in contact with PLO military officials, Jerusalem radio reported.

Jordan

Soviet Experts -- Soviet military experts have begun arriving in Jordan to prepare the integration of Soviet weapons into the Jordanian Army, the Jerusalem POST reported. During his visit to Moscow last year King Husayn signed a $200 million arms deal with the USSR, mainly for air defense systems, the paper noted. Jordan intends to position most of the Soviet equipment near the meeting point of its borders with Israel and Syria, Jerusalem radio reported.

Egyptian Military Committee -- An Egyptian military committee arrived in Amman on 2 May to settle problems of Egyptian nationals "who have not served the national service," AD-DUSTUR reported.

Egypt

Mubarak Speech, Activities -- President Husni Mubarak said in a May Day speech to the Trade Unions Federation Center, broadcast by Cairo radio, that Egypt needs a "great leap forward" in industrial and agricultural production within the next few years. Stressing that both the public and private sectors must be strengthened, Mubarak revealed that government ministries are drawing up a list of projects that can be offered to foreign investors.

NDP Changes -- The committee reviewing National Democratic Party affairs will meet on 4 May to discuss replacing some leaders in the Secretariat General, some provincial secretaries and some chairmen of subcommittees, MENA reported citing AL-JUMHURIYAH.

PLO

Syrian-PLO Relations -- Fatah Central Committee member Salah Khalaf stated that the Syrian-Palestinian strategic alliance agreement, which was recently formulated in Damascus, will soon be drafted in its final form in the presence of leaders of the PLO, the Lebanese Nationalist Movement and the Amal movement, the Voice of Palestine radio reported. In a statement in Qatar, PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat denied a strategic agreement had been signed with Syria, WAKH reported. However, he said meetings will soon take place between Palestinian and Syrian leaders.

Relations With Egypt -- Those Arab kings who sent congratulations to Egyptian President Husni Mubarak on the Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai do not realize they are endorsing the Camp David accords and the Egyptian peace treaty with Israel, Salah Khalaf stated in a speech carried by the Voice of Palestine. He added that the withdrawal could never be a subject of congratulations and happiness. Khalaf predicted that Egypt will return as a leader of the Arab struggle without conditions.

Lebanon

The United Kingdom plans on reducing the size of its embassy staff in Beirut due to the deteriorating security situation there, the LONDON PRESS ASSOCIATION reported.

ZIRAY ADDRESSES MAY DAY RALLY IN KABUL

LD020620 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 1 May 82

[Excerpt] Today, 1 May, coincides with International Labor Solidarity Day and is being celebrated in our country by tens of thousands of our workers and toilers in rallies and glorious meetings. A meeting held by the epoch-making workers and other toilers at 1000 this morning in front of the headquarters of the PDPA Central Committee was attended by a number of members of the party Central Committee, vice chairmen and a number of members of the Revolutionary Council, some members of the Revolutionary Council Presidium, the chairman and some members of the Council of Ministers, delegations of the friendly countries who have come to Kabul to mark the fourth anniversary of the glorious April Revolution, members of the Executive Committee of the National Fatherland Front [NFF], heads, secretaries and members of party and social organizations and tens of thousands of the toiling citizens of Kabul City.

The meeting started after the playing of the Internationale. Saleh Mohammad Ziray, member of the Politburo and secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and chairman of the NFF National Committee, explained the role of the international workers in the progressive movements and then spoke about the struggles of the workers and toilers of the world and the epoch-making workers of Afghanistan against international imperialism and colonialism.

Dr Saleh Mohammad Ziray conveyed to the participants of the meeting and other toilers and workers of the country and greeting of Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and chairman of the DRA Revolutionary Council. Speaking on behalf of the PDPA Central Committee and the NFF, he congratulated them on their work in the international labor movement.

While the crowd constantly chanted slogans for yet more victories for the working class, Dr Ziray further highlighted the [word indistinct] living conditions of the country's workers and the exploitation of our workers by the colonialist forces in prevolution era. He gave a series of facts relating to the unfortunate condition of our persecuted workers. Dr Ziray said:

It was the tactics of the exploitative and decadent monarchical and feudal regimes which caused the patriotic forces of the country to form the PDPA, this party of the workers and all toilers of the country, to save the people; the path of this relentless and constant 17-year struggle.

Now we see ourselves that the victory of the April Revolution, under the leadership of the PDPA, which toppled the monarchical regime, has transformed the working class from an exploited class to the class owning the state sector. The party has provided conditions for raising the standard ot living and culture of the people.

In connection with friendship between the workers and toilers of Afghanistan and progressive countries and international progressive movements, led by the USSR, Dr Ziray said: As iron is tested by time, so has the friendship of our toiling masses with millions from the great country of the Soviets been tested by history. No power will be allowed to damage this fraternal friendship of our people.

KARMAL RECEIVES FOREIGN DELEGATIONS 1 MAY

LD011554 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1430 GMT 1 May 82

[Text] Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and chairman of the DRA Revolutionary Council, received this afternoon in the Revolutionary Council headquarters the delegation of the People's Republic of Bulgaria, led by Mitke Dimitrov Grigorov, which is in Kabul to mark the fourth anniversary of the glorious April Revolution. The meeting was held in a friendly atmosphere.

According to another report, Babrak Karmal this afternoon also received the heads and delegations of the People's Republic of Hungary, the Socialist Republic of Vietnam, the Republic of Cuba, the People's Republic of Mongolia, the People's Democratic Republic of Yemen and the USSR. Babrak Karmal spoke with them about subject of mutual interest in a friendly atmosphere.

These delegations are in Kabul to mark the fourth anniversary of the glorious April Revolution following invitations from the Revolutionary Council, the Council of Ministers and party and social organizations.

AFP: NEW NATIONAL DEFENSE BODY BEING FORMED

BK300817 Hong Kong AFP in English 0700 GMT 30 Apr 82

[By Dilip Ganguly]

[Text] New Delhi, 30 Apr (AFP) -- The Afghanistan Government has decided to merge the various security organizations with the armed forces into a single defence body to counter insurgency more effectively.

These include para-military forces, defence of revolution units and tribal groups fighting for the government.

A decision to establish new national defence organization was taken at the March 13-14 conference of the ruling People's Democratic Party of Afghanistan. An official English translation of the resolution passed at the conference, attended by 841 delegates, reached the Indian capital early this week.

Indian area analysts, with access to first-hand information from Kabul, said the Soviet-backed government there has already started preliminary work to implement the plan, which is likely to affect the power balance in the embattled country.

The new national defence organization is expected to have a combined strength of 100,000 men, including 30,000 from the country's armed forces.

They will aid the 90,000 to 110,000 strong Soviet forces, now spread over seven military zones in countering the insurgents fighting the regime of President Babrak Karmal, the analysts said.

The reorganization plan was also independently confirmed by diplomatic and Afghan dissident experts here.

"The intensification of the struggle with the armed counter-revolution, the establishment and still further consolidation of popular power in the districts and the sub-districts, and the stabilization of the situation, and consolidation of durable peace all over the country should form the major part of activities of the party committees," the resolution said.

"For this consideration a single and general system of defence which besides the army contingent and units of security organizations, includes also the groups for the defence of revolution and voluntary groups of tribes, should be created..."

The resolution also called for raising the standard of political and combat preparedness of the cadres of the national defence organization and emphasised the need for "special attention to military and patriotic trainings."

Area analysts interpreted the decision as a clear sign of nervousness of the Kabul regime about countering growing insurgency.

Western diplomats had estimated the strength of the insurgents actually fighting the Soviet-aided government troops at 90,000, with tens of thousands of sympathisers. However, the Indian analysts put the effective strength of the insurgents at 40,000 to 50,000.

The strength of the Afghan Armed Forces which was between 80,000 to 90,000 at the time of the first Marxist coup in April 1978 has depleted to 25,000 to 30,000, according to Western diplomats. But the Indians put the present strength at 45,000 which includes 22,000 young draftees.

However, the desertion from the army forced Mr. Karmal to promulgate new draft laws earlier this month empowering the regime to draft college and school-going students. The miniumum age was lowered to 19.

The Indian analysts said that if Mr. Karmal succeeds in enlisting 100,000 men in the national defence organization, and turns it into an effective fighting force, it will not only help to counter insurgency, but will reduce considerably the dependence on the Soviet military help on whose strength the 53-year-old president now rules his country.

AFP: FIGHTING INTENSIFIES IN PROVINCES

BK271621 Hong Kong AFP in English 1600 GMT 27 Apr 82

[Text] New Delhi, 27 Apr (AFP) -- Fighting has intensified in the outskirts of the Afghan capital and in the strategic Paghman mountain range 20 kms (12 miles) southwest of Kabul, between Soviet-aided Afghan Government troops and Moslem insurgents opposed to the regime, Western diplomats said here today.

The diplomats, who monitor developments in strife-torn Afghanistan said improved weather conditions had been a factor behind the spurt in fighting.

On April 19-20 government troops clashed with the insurgents in Khoje Musaffir -- between Paghman and Kabul -- and in the ensuing battle at least 35 government troops were killed. Insurgent casualty figures were not immediately known. The battle forced the government troops to retreat to Kabul. But in retaliation, Soviet jets bombed the area. The extent of property damage and casualties was not known.

Shewaki village on the Kabul city outskirts was also the scene of a day-long battle between government forces and the insurgents and the sound of gun and armour fire could be heard from the Afghan capital, the diplomats said.

On April 19, the insurgents engaged a government column in a day-long battle in Lowgar Valley south of Kabul.

Fighting was also reported from Pol-e Qandahari, about 50 kms (30 miles) south of Kabul. Details are not known, the diplomats said.

Numerous, but sketchy, reports of fighting in several other areas adjoining the capital were also given by the diplomats.

Quoting an unnamed senior Afghan Government official, the diplomats said the strategic bridge over the River Oxus (Amu Darya), connecting the Soviet town of Tirmiz with the Afghan hamlet of Hariatan will be opened to traffic by the middle of next month. The government proposes to lay a railway line connecting Tirmiz with important Afghan cities as far as Pol-e Khomri.

'ERROR' CAUSES EXPLOSION OF MILITARY DEPOT

[Text] According to a report from the National Defense Ministry there was a spontaneous explosion this morning at the central military depot in Darulaman [on outskirts of Kabul]. The explosion occurred through error on the part of depot workers. The report added that no loss of life has been reported.

NO DATES FIXED FOR GANDHI'S U.S., USSR VISITS

BK291609 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Text] An official spokesman said in New Delhi today that dates for the prime minister's visit to the United States and the Soviet Union are under active discussion with the host governments to ascertain mutual convenience. He was replying to questions by newsmen on reports about postponement of the visits. He said since no dates have been firmly fixed or announced, there is no question of any postponement.

The dates of Mrs Gandhi's visits to Denmark, Norway and Finland have also not been finalized so far, he added.

IRANIAN FOREIGN MINISTER CONCLUDES 5-DAY VISIT

Meets Gandhi, Others

BK291617 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Text] Visiting Foreign Minister of Iran Dr Velayati met Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi in New Delhi today. He called on President Sanjiva Reddy and Vice President Hidayatullah. He met the defense, information and broadcasting and some other ministers.

Dr Velayati's other important engagement was the plenary session with External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao in which delegations from both sides also took part.

An official spokesman said that the discussions covered the international situation, particularly developments in the region besides bilateral relations.

Dr Velayati said that Iran would prefer to strengthen its relations with the Third World countries, nonaligned nations and its neighbors.

Gives Radio Interview

BK011530 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1545 GMT 30 Apr 82

["Spotlight" feature: Interview with Iranian Foreign Minister Dr 'Ali Akbar Velayati by All-India Radio correspondent C.V. Rahman -- recorded -- Velayati remarks in Persian fading to English translation]

[Text] [Question] Mr Velayati, you are the first foreign minister of Iran to visit India after the revolution. Indeed, sir, you are the first senior Iranian minister to do so. Could you tell me about the result of your discussions with the Indian leaders?

[Answer] I begin in the name of God. I believe that the conclusion of our negotiations with Indian leaders was fruitful and useful. We feel that such visits between Iran and India should be repeated in the future at different levels.

[Question] What were the subjects you discussed with the Indian leaders? I am sure commercial and economic matters must have figured prominently in your talks.

[Answer] Our discussions with our Indian friends were in connection with our (?beautiful) relations, Nonaligned Movement and, as you said, commercial and economic relations, expansion of cultural relations through exchange of professors and students, considering the fact that India is relatively advanced as far as scientific and technical questions are concerned. Besides, to see if there exist cultural [word indistinct] points between the two countries we can provide professors in the fields of literature and culture and religious sciences to India. Besides, we can receive Indian students in Iran and receive Indian professors in Iran in order to help us in technical, scientific and industrial fields. Besides, our students can come to India for learning industrial and technical fields. Besides the exchange of experience, (?technicians) and the like between the two countries with a view to better introduce the two countries to each other. [sentence as heard]

[Question] These are mainly the cultural aspects about which you have told us. Did you discuss any specific industrial project in which you think India can cooperate with Iran?

[Answer] We had discussions in technical and industrial fields with the Ministry of Industry. We proposed India to assist us in the development and completion of our steel industries and creation and expansion of our smelting complexes.

[Question] I presume this proposal of yours has been examined or is going to be examined by the Indian Government or has it been accepted?

[Answer] After these preliminary discussions, committees have been formed to discuss this question. Several of the members of our delegation with their counterparts from India are continuing their discussions and within today or tomorrow the results will be known -- that how much they have agreed. And, in fact, our discussions are the beginning for these studies. On the whole, I can say that our approvals were welcomed by Indian authorities.

[Question] Did you also discuss with the Indian representatives the expansion of trade between India and Iran?

[Answer] We had discussions with the minister of commerce and it was decided that the commerce between the two countries should be expanded. What we wanted is to buy those items from India that can help the reconstruction, the future reconstruction, of our country. As regards the export of similar items, that is to say, items which both Iran and India export, we proposed that instead of negative rivalry, we should have a constructive cooperation. As far as such items are concerned, we should cooperate in a way to be to the interest of both countries. Otherwise, by negative rivalry, only the buyers are the winners because the prices will be low.

[Question] What, sir, are these items in which Iran and India should cooperate and should not have competition?

[Answer] These are mostly agricultural, medical products and certain spices.

[Question] Mr Minister, there was a report in the newspapers recently that Iran has agreed to have talks with Afghanistan and Pakistan on the Afghanistan issue. In fact, it is stated that the talks will begin in Geneva from 16 June in the presence of the special representative of the UN secretary general. Could you, sir, elaborate on this?

[Answer] We have never agreed on having discussions with the representatives of the Government of Afghanistan.

[Question] But is it true that these talks would be held and you won't talk directly with the representatives of the Afghanistan Government but through the UN secretary general's envoy?

[Answer] We think there is nothing wrong with that but we don't go to any special place. The representative of the United Nations Organization can continue the work that he had started, that is to say he can come to Tehran and can go to Kabul and Islamabad and continue his efforts. There is no problem with that. But more than this we don't accept. That is to say, we don't send any representative to Geneva. But the special representative of the United Nations can continue his organization [as heard] can come to Tehran and have discussions with us and can know our views.

[Question] Mr Minister, the United States has recently purchased Iranian crude oil through a third party and one interpretation is that the United States now wants to normalize its relations with Iran. What is the stand of the Government of Iran to this?

[Answer] We don't have any kind of transactions with America. But now, if a company belonging to another country, I am not accepting this; I am assuming, if a company from another country that has relations with us buys our oil and then sells it to the United States, this is another question. We are not for selling our oil to America and as long as the American hostility against us cont'nues we will not restore our relations with the United States and the history of the last 3 years since the victory of the revolution shows that America does not want to put an end to its hostilities against us.

[Question] One last question, sir: Has the Government of Iran succeeded in putting down the mojahedin movement, or is it still continuing?

[Answer] To the Iranian Government the question of mojahedin is considered as a finished question for a long time now. Mojahedin are not more anything to be considered in our country. They don't have a popular base among people, as they didn't have in the past. And a few of their leaders that are still alive have run away to Paris and are close to Bakhtiar and the former shah's crown prince. Therefore, for the time being we don't have any question called mojahedin in Iran.

Holds News Conference

BK011607 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 1 May 82

[Text] Visiting Iranian Foreign Minister Dr 'Ali Akbar Velayati has said that closer political relations between India and Iran will eliminate superpower presence and will restore peace and tranquillity in the Gulf region. Addressing a news conference at the end of his visit, he said his talks with Indian leaders had been fruitful. He expressed the hope that his visit would lead to greater cooperation between the two countries in commercial, industrial and cultural fields. He said there would be greater exchange of students and professors, particularly in the technical field. He also spoke of India's advanced technology which Iran can make use of for its reconstruction program without the need of being aligned with any country. Iran is ready to help India by its long experience in the oil industry.

About Kudremukh, he said an Indian team would shortly visit Iran to continue the negotiation. He said the prospects of coming to an agreement are promising.

Dr Velayati reiterated Iran's opposition to holding the coming nonaligned summit in Baghdad. He has said the countries may not attend the summit if it is held there. That would weaken the movement. He claimed that the Iranian forces had recaptured some of the territories occupied by Iraq.

In reply to a question, Dr Velayati said Iran has no intention of interfering in the internal affairs of any other country.

IRNA Report

LD021022 Tehran IRNA in English 0941 GMT 2 May 82

[Text] New Delhi, 1 May [IRNA] -- The minister of foreign affairs, Dr Velayati, said today his talks with Indian officials were constructive and contributing to friendly relations between Iran and India. He said the visiting Iranian delegation to New Delhi had extended an invitation to the Indian officials and expressed hope that the future visit to Iran by Indian officials would help to further the friendly relations between the two countries.

Velayati also said that during his talks with the Indian officials he had told them that in the near future the Islamic Republic of Iran would invite them to Iran so that they could witness the falsehood of the claims of the Baghdad regime about the situation in the battlefronts.

He said with its advanced technology, India could help Iran in technical fields without making Iran dependent on that country. Asked about his attitude toward the situation in Afghanistan, he said the Soviet troops were bogged down in Afghanistan and that the Soviet Union should pull out its troops from that country. "This, of course, does not mean that the Soviet troops should be replaced by other foreign troops...," said he.

He said if the Soviet Union should refuse to do so, the Afghan strugglers would push them out from their lands.

Joint Communique Issued

LD021546 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 2 May 82

["Text" of joint communique issued on visit of Iranian Foreign Minister Dr 'Ali Akbar Velayati to India 28 April-2 May -- issued simultaneously in Tehran and New Delhi on 2 May]

The foreign ministers of the two countries held a series of official and unofficial talks on topics of mutual interest. The talks were conducted in an atmosphere of extreme friendship, sincerity and openness. The two sides noted the historical and cultural ties between the two nations of Iran and India and pointed out that they have been strengthened as the result of the two nations' struggles for independence from foreign domination.

The Iranian foreign minister's visit played a considerable role in further strengthening friendly relations. The two sides expressed their firm determination and hope to expand and further strengthen their friendly and close relations through an increase in exchanges and mutual visits at various levels.

The foreign ministers of the two countries reviewed the international situation with special concern for recent developments in the region, and expressed pleasure that their views are identical in many fields. The two foreign ministers expressed their firm belief in the important role played by the Nonaligned Movement in promoting international peace and security, and the need for further unity and consolidation of the movement was reiterated. They pointed out that the policy of nonalignment seeks to maintain the world nations' independence from the superpowers and their military pacts, thus enabling these nations to use their resources for the social and economic progress of their peoples.

The two sides noted with concern the worsening international situation and emergence of tensions in various parts of the world, and reiterated their belief in the role of the Nonaligned Movement disassociated from blocs and as a positive resource for peace and security in the world.

The two sides reiterated the urgent need to end the superpowers' presence in the Indian Ocean, which endangers peace and causes increased tension in the region. The two sides called for the implementation of the 1971 UN declaration, which declares the Indian Ocean a zone of peace.

In reviewing the situation in West Asia, the two foreign ministers expressed their extreme concern over Israel's continued aggressions against the defenseless people of Lebanon and the Palestinian inhabitants of the occupied territories. They also condemned Israel's criminal attack on Al-Aqsa Mosque, and the illegal annexation of Jerusalem and the Golan Heights which is a serious danger to world peace and violates international norms. They reiterated their support for the just struggles of the Palestinian people and the PLO as the legitimate representatives of the Palestinian people. The two ministers believe the only solution to the region's crisis is withdrawal of the aggressor forces from all Arab and Palestinian lands.

The Iranian foreign minister explained to the Indian foreign minister his country's views on the expulsion of the regime occupying Jerusalem from the United Nations and the Indian foreign minister expressed his deep concern over the situation resulting from Israel's aggressive conduct and the repeated violation of the UN resolutions and resolutions issued by other international bodies.

The two foreign ministers condemned the aggressive actions carried out by the South Africa racist regime and expressed their support for the liberation struggles of the people of Namibia under the leadership of the South-West African People's Organization.

The two sides, while expressing their grave concern over the situation in Afghanistan, called for a just and comprehensive solution to the issue based on the complete withdrawal of alien forces, on principles of nonintervention and noninterference and on full respect for Afghanistan's independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity.

The two sides persistently demanded that all the parties concerned concentrate their efforts on finding a solution which would allow the people of Afghanistan to determine their own destiny without foreign interference.

The Iranian foreign minister explained Iran's point of view with regard to the Iraq-Iran war to his Indian counterpart and the Indian foreign minister expressed his hope for a just settlement to the conflict in the near future.

The two foreign ministers declared their firm desire to promote mutual cooperation in various sectors aimed at further strengthening mutual ties on the basis of independence, self-reliance and friendship, and agreed to take firm and comprehensive action to achieve this purpose. In this connection, special attention should be made to trade and economic cooperation.

The two sides also expressed their desire and decision to expand mutual cooperation in the commerce, industry, oil, mines, agriculture, culture, scientific and technical sectors, and signed a memorandum of agreement on their discussions in which sectors in which the two countries have decided to cooperate are noted.

Indian officials also declared their readiness to allow Iran to benefit from India's technical experiences and the Iranian officials expressed their willingness to cooperate in this field and in all other sectors, including cooperation in agriculture, industry and trade.

The two sides agreed to form a joint Iran-India commission in the near future. The task of this joint commission is to provide grounds for progress in mutual relations in the economic, trade, industry, scientific, technical, cultural and other sectors.

The two sides expressed the need to maintain and promote the two countries' cultural and educational ties, and expressed satisfaction over the presence of a large number of Iranian technical and university students in India.

The two sides decided to resume cultural contacts between the two countries, and to work for their continued expansion. They agreed that the two countries should sign a cultural agreement as soon as possible, thus enabling these contacts to be placed on a firm, orderly and principled foundation.

The foreign affairs minister of the Islamic Republic of Iran expressed his deep gratitude for the warm reception accorded to him and his delegation by the government and the people of India, and extended a warm invitation to the Indian external affairs minister to visit Iran. This invitation was warmly accepted and the visit will take place at a mutually convenient date.

GOVERNMENT BANS TWO SIKH NATIONALIST GROUPS

BK011645 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 1 May 82

[Text] The Dal Khalsa and the National Council of Khalistan have been banned. The decision was taken by the union government today. The ban has been imposed under the Unlawful Activities Prevention Act.

Making the announcement, an official spokesman said in New Delhi this evening that the two organizations had been openly indulging in antinational and secessionist activity. They constitute a danger to national security and communal harmony. They had been spreading communal hatred and had been responsible for many violent and provocative acts. Some of these have been owned by them publicly.

The All-India Radio correspondent says that banning the two organizations had been recommended by the Punjab Government. There was also considerable concern not only in the state but all over the country as well about the actions of these two organizations. This was expressed in Parliament and various other forums. The government hopes that today's decision will lead to speedy restoration of peace, harmony and mutual trust in the state.

The Dal Khalsa, it may be mentioned, is an extremist organization of some young men having very little followers. It owned responsibility for some violent incidents during September-October last year. It was behind the hijacking of an Indian airlines plane to Pakistan. It is reported to be getting external assistance for its antinational activities. It owned responsibility for committing sacrilege in two temples in Amritsar last Monday [26 April]. It has also declared its intention of continuing its activities.

REPORTAGE ON 30 APR-2 MAY FIGHTING IN SOUTH

Joint Communique No 3

LD301834 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 30 Apr 82

[Joint Communique No 3 of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps]

[Excerpt] Combative and martyr-nurturing Islamic nation: The self-sacrificing Islamic army, following the victorious Jerusalem operations codenamed "Ya 'Ali ibn Abu Talib" have succeeded in killing or wounding thousands of Saddam's aggressive forces. Our forces also managed to take a great many prisoners. By this evening 3,205 had already been taken behind the frontlines.

During these extensive operations, conducted through the central headquarters of the joint operational staff of the Islamic Ground Forces and the Revolution Guards Corps in Karbala' the Islamic warriors succeeded in liberating extensive sectors of the Islamic homeland which were previously under the control of Iraqi forces. In this particular phase of the operations alone, about 800 square km of the Islamic homeland were liberated, thereby coming under the full control of the Islamic forces.

Moreover, in addition to destroying hundreds of tanks, personnel carriers and enemy vehicles, a great many tanks and personnel carriers as well as one artillery unit of the enemy have been captured intact.

At 1435 today another enemy aircraft was shot down in Abadan by the Islamic air force fighters. Consequently, the number of enemy aircraft downed today totals six.

This lightning liberation is taking place despite the utterances from Saddam, who at noon today harshly told his commanders that if they fail to recover the territories lost today, all of them will be shot. This once again showed the enemy's desperation and weakness against the reinforced Islamic Republic Army.

We call on the Muslim Iraqi Army personnel at this point to come to their senses and not to remain ensnared any longer by the greed of Saddam, this filthy and mad element who is dependent on Zionism. We call on them to join the Islamic forces before it is too late.

Awaiting the ultimate victory of the Islamic warriors and the liberation of Jerusalem from the claws of the occupying Zionism.

Commander Interviewed

[Text] According to an IRNA report, Col Monfared Niaki, one of the operational commanders in the Fath zone, while giving details in an interview of the attack launched by the Islamic forces during yesterday's successful operations, said: During these operations Islam's forces made use of the element of surprise and demonstrated their unquestionable military superiority over the enemy.

While extolling all the combatants of Islam and the extremely effective cooperation between the construction crusade, the air force and the ground forces' aviation units, he referred to the combatant clergy's active participation on the war fronts and said: An example of the dedication of the combatant clergy and their moral guidance on the fronts was constituted by the presence of Ayatollahs Meshkini and Saduqi in the forward lines of these operations, a fact which produced a desirable psychological effect on the morale of our combatants.

During this interview he described the prospects of this imposed war by saying: We will win this war decidedly since we were unwillingly dragged into it and are really defending the validity of our Islamic ideology, our honor and the territorial integrity of our Islamic homeland.

Joint Communique No 4

LD011218 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 1 May 82

[Joint communique No 4 of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Heroic and proud nation of Islam: The Jerusalem operations, which began yesterday under the codename Ya 'Ali ibn Abu Talib, have been expanded to the Shush fronts early this morning. Islam's combatants launched another surprise attack today. Our combatants launched this attack on the Saddamist invaders after receiving orders from the central headquarters in Karbala'; and succeeded in capturing the important and strategic Hill No 182 near the Fakkeh border.

During this lightning attack, carried out with the blessing of the good prayers of the Islamic nation, our brothers did not suffer any losses; only four of our brothers were wounded. Our brothers succeeded in capturing nearly 700 of the misled invaders. By capturing this group, the total number of Iraqi POW's captured since the start of the Jerusalem operations has now reached 4,000.

Our combative brothers have also succeeded in killing or wounding more than 6,000 Saddamist mercenaries since the start of the Jerusalem operations.

Last night the defeated enemy, who has been pushed back 800 square km from our Islamic homeland through the power of the Islamic combatants and with the succour of God, and who has lost communications and supply lines between Ahvaz and Khuninshahr, launched a last-ditch counteroffensive on one of the axes. During this counteroffensive, the army lost 10 tanks, a large number of troops and equipment were destroyed and they were forced to retreat and flee.

This morning the fast-flying eagles of the air force and the helicopter gunships of the Airborne Division flew over Iraqi positions for the umpteenth time since the start of the operations and inflicted heavy losses and damage on enemy troops and armored equipment. Our fighters also shot down an Iraqi Mirage plane which crashed west of the Karun River.

Yesterday evening our antiaircraft fire also downed another two enemy planes. The total number of enemy planes downed since the start of the Jerusalem operations has now reached nine.

At present, the battle continues on all fronts with superiority of the forces of Islam and our combatants are continuing to deliver heavy and smashing blows to the Saddamist invaders.

According to the latest reports, there are 102 officers among the Iraqi POW's.

The armed forces should know that resistance against the forces of Islam will have no consequences but death and annihilation and the eventual fire of divine wrath. Therefore, the best way for them is to join the forces of Islam and the Muslim warriors of Iran.

In the hope of victory by all combatants and the liberation of Jerusalem from the claws of the occupying Zionism our assistance is from God and our victory is nigh.

Iraqi Officer Interviewed

LD012310 Tehran IRNA in English 1947 GMT 1 May 82

[Text] Ahvaz, 1 May (IRNA) -- During the latest operations, 95 Iraqi officers were transferred behind the fronts of Ahvaz, said an officer in charge of transferring the Iraqi POW's. He said the POW's included second lieutenants to colonels. According to some of the POW's, the Baghdad regime was training some other mercenaries of the Jordanian King Husayn who had lately come to Baghdad.

Colonel Salah Kheshan Muhammad ar-Rekabi, an Iraqi POW, the Second Battalion deputy commander from the 414th Brigade, said in an interview with IRNA that 500 soldiers under his control were captured along with him. Saying he was treated well and was confident in the Islamic combatants' support, the colonel said that he was confident of the defeat of the Iraqi Army, for there was no morale in Saddam's army and all of them had become tired of the war, especially as the Iranian Muslim combatants' power was being revealed to the Iraqi forces. That, he said, was the reason why his battalion surrendered themselves without any resistance at the first moment.

The Iraqi colonel, saying Saddam had imposed the war, recalled that although Saddam's army had good weapons, his soldiers' morale was very low.

Joint Communique No 5

GF020625 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 2 May 82

[Joint communique No 5 of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps]

[Excerpts] The clamorous action of the very able Islamic combatants in their widespread offensive against the Saddamist aggressors continues. The forces of Islam continue to deal their blows against the deceived enemy and their world-devouring masters with reliance on the Almighty's power and His hidden help and the aid of the mahdi.

Zealous and Muslim nation: The fighters of the forces of Islam -- chanting "God is great" -- expanded their attacks this morning, continuing the Jerusalem operation which began under the codename Ya 'Ali ibn Abu Talib, and dealt another blow aginst the enemy.

The Islamic fighters in a quick and surprising attack at 0100 today were able to kill or wound a considerable number of the enemy forces and destroy tens of enemy tanks and personnel carriers. They thus strengthened their positions on the other side of Ahvaz-Khuninshahr road.

These new operations were carried out following the progress of the forces of Islam, their crossing of the Karun River and the capture and liberation of the areas west of Karun River as well as the capture of the important supply and communication route between Ahvaz and Khuninshahr. In the operation, which was another grave blow against Saddam, hundreds more of the deceived Iraqis were captured by the forces of Islam. The evacuation of the prisoners behind the fronts began this morning and the exact statistics and the details of the referent operation will be included in the next communique for the information of the revolutionary and martyr-nurturing nation.

In the hope of the final victory of the fighters of Islam and the liberation of Jerusalem from the claws of the occupying Zionists. "Victory from God and a speedy conquest." [Koranic verse]

[Text] The War Publicity Staff invites foreign correspondents in Tehran to visit the areas liberated in the first phase of Jerusalem operation, interview the captured Iraqi commanders, visit over 4,000 captured enemy personnel and observe the annihilation of the Iraqi forces in the southern region of the Islamic homeland.

In order to participate in this program, which begins today, foreign correspondents should contact the foreign press office of the Ministry of Islamic Guidance.

Area Liberated

GF020710 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0622 GMT 2 May 82

[Unscheduled announcement]

[Text] In continuation of the victorious Jerusalem operation, the zealous fighters of Islam were able to liberate another part of the Iranian soil west of Hoseyniyeh road early this morning, thus cleansing the area of the aggressive Ba'thist forces.

According to reports by IRNA correspondents on the frontlines, during this victorious operation, which began at 0100, hundreds more enemy soldiers, NCO's and officers were captured by the Islamic fighters and a great deal of enemy equipment was either destroyed or captured undamaged.

In the operation, the enemy was defeated in areas across from Hoseyniyeh, Navard and Garm Dasht stations and all their strong lines of defense collapsed.

In this phase of the operation, a large number of Iraqi aggresssors were killed, wounded or fled toward Iraq and hundreds were captured. Tens of kilometers of occupied soil of the Islamic homeland were wrested from the claws of the enemies of the Islamic revolution after 19 months of occupation.

The first dispatches from IRNA reporters in the battle zone this morning indicate that tens of tanks, personnel carriers and various other vehicles of the Iraqi Ba'thist aggressors have been destroyed and the remaining forces are desperately trying to find a way back toward the Iraqi border.

According to the same report, the Islamic fighters have complete control over the area and the smallest movement by the enemy is not lost on our heroes. The evacuation of the personnel captured in this phase of the operation began 2 hours after the attack and still continues. Reports by correspondents, quoting evacuated prisoners, indicate that the military formation of the Saddamist army in this front collapsed immediately following the attack this morning by the defendants of the Islamic revolution. All their personnel were either killed, wounded or captured or escaped. The exact number of captured will be announced later.

We remind you that the Jerusalem operations which began on Friday morning have liberated the entire western region of the Karun River up to the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr road, which is over 800 square km. The mopping-up operation in the area ended yesterday. The present operation of the Islamic fighters is located west of the road, which is only 15 km from the border. They have entered this area and have crushed the enemy strongholds.

Armardeh Heights Recaptured

[Text] According to an IRNA report, following the recapture of the heights of (Hafat Tavanon) and (Serahi-ye Bunin) in the Baneh region, the combatants of Islam, in a series of successful operations carried out at dawn yesterday, recaptured the strategic heights of the city of Armardeh.

According to this report, the recapture of this region has brought all the roads from Baneh to the border under the control of the forces of Islam.

Air Force Attacks Iraqis

LD020830 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0809 GMT 2 May 82

[Unscheduled announcement]

[Text] Dear listeners: We have just received this report: The Islamic air force pilots continue to achieve victories on the battlefronts. According to IRNA, at 0630 this morning, eight air force fighters heavily bombarded concentrated enemy positions at (Shay Jufayr). These positions were composed of fortifications and armored equipment.

Since launching the Jerusalem operation, our heroic pilots have repeatedly dealt smashing blows to the Saddam army, thus demonstrating their combat capabilities.

Forces 15 Km From Border

LD021152 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 2 May 82

[Excerpt] In the first stage of the Jerusalem operations, which started on Friday morning, the whole western area situated between the Karun River and the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr road -- which is more than 800 square km -- was liberated. Mopping-up operations in that area ended yesterday. Continuing these operations, the heroes of Islam have penetrated to the west of the road, and are only 15 km away from the border. They have crushed the enemy's fortifications in this region.

The number of enemy POW's captured in today's operations launched by the forces of Islam in the north of Khuninshahr has reached 1,000.

Iraqi Counterattacks Repulsed

LD022054 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 2 May 82

[Excerpt] Latest reports received from the Hoseyniyeh region indicate that since this morning the enemy in this region has mounted three counteroffensives, but each time faced our warriors' resistance. While repulsing enemy counteroffensives, in addition to killing more Saddamists, our forces destroyed 10 tanks, 15 130-mm guns, 1 pile of equipment and several items of command equipment.

Khamene'i on 'Delay'

NC020806 Paris AFP in English 0746 GMT 2 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 2 May (AFP) -- Iranian President 'Ali Khamene'i has acknowledged that there has been a "certain delay" in reaching some of the objectives of the "holy city" offensive launched early Friday in the southern war front with Iraq, the ISLAMIC REPUBLIC newspaper reported today.

"As long as we have not reached our objectives, the operations will continue," Hojjat ol-Eslam Khamene'i told the newspaper. "They can last three or seven days, more or less."

He said there had been few Iranian casualties in the fighting, and that the Iranian Army was confronted with a natural obstacle -- the marshy terrain around the fortified position of Hamid, the key to the region south of Ahvaz. This, he said, explained why Hamid was only "almost surrounded".

Meanwhile the latest official communique broadcast by Radio Tehran today said that Iranian forces were pursuing their advance on the southern front and strengthening the positions they captured west of the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr (formerly Khorramshahr) highway.

The statement gave no figures, either of occupied territory or Iraqi losses. Already yesterday, the fourth communique issued since this new offensive began did not talk about any further gains in this part of the front, but Iran has claimed to have shot down 10 Iraqi planes since Friday.

[Joint communique No 6 of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps]

[Excerpts] Combative warriors and honor-bestowing victors of the army of Islam, continuing the victorious Jerusalem operations, in a lightning and surprise attack which began at 0100 today against enemy positions west of the strategic Ahvaz-Khorramshahr highway, pounded the aggressive forces' fortifications and inflicted heavy losses and casualties on them.

In these operations, which resulted in liberating another area of the sacred Islamic territory on the other side of the Hoseyniyeh and Garm Dasht stations, elements of the Eighth Mechanized Brigade of the Third Division and of the 606th Infantry Brigade and the 24th Mechanized Brigade of the enemy were smashed. In addition, enemy defense lines in the region were completely destroyed; the victorious combatants of Islam killed or wounded large numbers of enemy forces and captured hundreds more. Furthermore, a large number of tanks, troop carriers, vehicles and several enemy ammunition dumps were set ablaze and destroyed by the forces of Islam; a large quantity of enemy equipment and facilities were captured by the proud victors of Islam's army. At the moment about 84 intact and destroyed enemy tanks and troop carriers are left behind in the area of today's operation.

In the course of the heroic operations of the quick-flying aircraft of the air force, one of our aircraft crashed. One of the pilots was martyred and another landed near the enemy positions.

It is hereby announced that the protection of the life of the heroic pilot of the army of Islam is the responsibility of the Iraqi Ba'th regime.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 875

LD011830 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 1 May 82

[Communique 875 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In the name of God. Following the epic-making Jerusalem operations of 30 April, the selfless valiants and high-flying pilots of the Air Force of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran shot down three more Iraqi aggressor aircrafts in the south of the country. These aircraft were shot down at 0845, 1048 and 1505. So far the Iraqis have lost nine aircraft since the launching of the Jerusalem operations. Today our air force also bombed Iraqi positions at 0815, 1157 and 1725 in the regions of Jofeyr between Hamid and Jofeyr station, west of Jofeyr station and west of Ahvaz respectively. Our forces inflicted considerable losses and casualties on the Iraqi forces. Our air force also checked enemy attempts to violate the airspace of the war regions.

Other selfless and self-sacrificing combatants of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, stationed on the western war fronts, aware of the successful operations carried out by their brothers on the Khuzestan fronts opened fire on the infidel Saddamist positions. The outcome of these operations will be carried later.

Fighting and fire exchanges are continuing on the Baneh and Marivan fronts. A large number of Iraqi forces were killed and wounded during the joint 29 April operations carried out on the Salehabad front, in which the infantry and armored units of the army and Guards Corps participated. One 106-mm fieldgun, one supply concentration, one antiaircraft cannon, two mortars and several artillery and tank positions of the enemy were set of fire and destroyed.

Fire exchanges continued on the Sar-e Pol-e Zahab and Sumar fronts. The valiants of the army opened fire on the enemy positions and destroyed a number of the enemy's supply and observation posts on the Sar-e Pol-e Zahab front. A number of enemy personnel were also killed during these operations.

Our forces brought an Iraqi motor pool under fire and destroyed a number of vehicles.

Our forces have also inflicted considerable losses and casualties on the Iraqis on the Gilan-e Gharb fronts.

On the Gilan-e Gharb, Dar Ballut, [word indistinct] and Sar-e Pol-e Zahab fronts, the brave personnel of Islamic armed forces fired on enemy positions and inflicted losses and casualties on the Iraqi forces.

On the Ilam fronts, the gendarmerie combatants opened mortar fire, preventing enemy movement and activity. A number of Iraqi personnel were killed or wounded during these operations.

VELAYATI DENIES OIL SALES, RELATIONS WITH U.S.

LD011248 Tehran IRNA in English 1048 GMT 1 May 82

[Excerpt] New Delhi, 1 May (IRNA) -- The Islamic Republic of Iran has had no relations with the United States, said Dr. 'Ali Akbar Velayati, the Iranian foreign minister, in an interview with New Delhi radio reporter, broadcast on Friday night in India. Velayati also added that if Iran had commercial relations with a country, including oil sales, and subsequently that country sold oil to a third party, then that was a different matter totally unrelated to Iran. He emphasised that Iran had not sold oil to the United States and while the United States continued its enmity towards the Islamic revolution, Iran would never think of having any relations with that country.

VELAYATI INTERVIEWED UPON RETURN FROM INDIA

LD021258 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 2 May 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit correspondent, Foreign Minister Velayati and his entourage left New Delhi at 0900 today after a 4-day visit, arriving in Tehran at 1125. He was seen off at New Delhi airport by the Indian ministers of external affairs and information and a number of Indian dignitaries. The Iranian foreign minister, in an interview given to our correspondent, commented on the visit from the political, economic and cultural aspects. We draw your attention to the interview:

[Begin recording] [Question] Dr Velayati, could you please comment on the outcome of your 4-day visit to India in the light of its political, economic and cultural aspects?

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The visit has a special (?significance) for Iran, India, the region and the Nonaligned Movement. We have long-standing historical, cultural and religious relations.

At present, as a revolutionary and powerful country, Iran is in one of the most sensitive world regions, with a considerable [word indistinct] throughout the world being focused on Iran and the changes taking place in it. Iran is a country with a long record in fighting colonialism. It is also one of the chief founders of the Nonaligned Movement. [passage indistinct]

We held two rounds of talks with the Indian minister of external affairs. The sum total of these talks [words indistinct] culminated in the signing of a memorandum of understanding and the release of a joint communique.

The joint communique outlines the two countries' joint stance on the region's political framework and the [word indistinct] world. It deals with relations with Israel, Afghanistan, the Nonaligned Movement and peace in the region. As for our joint views concerning the Iraqi-imposed war on Iran, the joint communique deals quite accurately, positively and constructively with the subject as far as both countries are concerned.

With regard to the memorandum of understanding signed between the two countries, it paves the ground for the future cooperation between India and Iran in economic, trade, industrial and cultural fields. We already have such ties with India, but, having signed this memorandum of understanding, the ground becomes highly fertile for maximum expansion of these relations.

A highly significant point in the memorandum deals with the supply of Indian technology to us. Accordingly, we are to provide India with our experience in the field of oil industry.

India agreed to study the issue of increasing oil purchases from Iran. Reciprocally, we asked India to provide us with essential goods for the expansion of industrial units, such as a steel-plant complex.

Another issue raised between Iran and India was the question of joint research projects, sending students for medical and technical studies and helping Iran to become self-reliant in the medical and technical fields. These matters were included in the memorandum of understanding. It was also agreed that Indian experts in various fields should come to Iran, [words indistinct]. Iranian (?experts) will go to India. God willing, fruitful cooperation between the two countries will continue. [end recording]

KEYHAN CARRIES 20 APR QOTBZADEH INTERVIEW

GF011550 Tehran KEYHAN in Persian 20 Apr 82 p 14

["Text" of interview and statement by former Foreign Minister Sadeq Qotbzadeh televised on 20 April]

[Text] Question: While introducing yourself, could you please state the reason for your arrest?

Answer: I am Sadeq Qotbzadeh and the reason for my arrest is the plan, named the Plan for the Overthrow. I will try to explain the plan, its motives, the net result we have achieved so far, step by step.

Prior to everything else was the plan. Some time ago, about 3 months ago, I was contacted by an officers organization. We analyzed the country's situation during the course of our conversation. In this analysis I expressed some opinions and they did too. Therefore, after accepting my views, discussions regarding the toppling of the government, not the Islamic Republic, ensued; the infrastructure was delineated and what was to be done around the residence of the imam. On the basis of this, first there was the talk of a siege. They wanted a map of the takeover. A map which had been prepared by one of my friends was given to them.

It was an ordinary map and they said that it did not seem quite accurate. They suggested that it would be better to go and get a firsthand view. They went and I introduced them to a friend of mine who had a house adjacent to the imam's. They saw the house and, during the course of our visit, when we sat down they said it seemed to be a very suitable place for an explosion. They said: Very well, but what kind of explosion? And from then onward the discussion veered around the kind of explosion, the place and how it was to be done.

The next week, which was 2 weeks before my arrest, they came and said: Our organization has decided to make a two-pronged attack, one with artillery and another if possible from the interior of the house.

Question: What was the objective?

Qotbzadeh: The objective was to wipe out all the leaders of the government, including the imam. In the initial stages of the matter, I was in an anguished mental state. The question was whether to say yes or no. In short, I unfortunately said yes in the beginning and "let's consider this issue and see what can be done." But I did not answer in the negative.

They went and checked the plan and returned the next week and said: "We think the plan should include an attack on the place as well, and the rest of the plan could be accomplished as if to avenge the blood of the imam. The people should also be involved in the plan and panic when they try to escape."

It was decided that they should go and recheck the whole plan and a few days before its implementation they should make the final decision. At that moment I was seized by qualms as I had not opposed the plan in the beginning. I made up my mind that in the final discussion of the plan I would oppose the attack on the imam's residence at Jamaran in view of the feelings I had for the imam, but of course I was in favor of the rest of the plan, for example, taking control of the military centers, committees, radio and television, and the surrounding of Jamaran.

This plan, if implemented, was quite practical, that is, up to that stage. However, as I said, it did not reach the final stage of approval and I was arrested before it could attain a concrete shape.

Question: How did you expect to take explosives to Jamaran?

Qotbzadeh: This was also discussed, whether it was possible to take explosives there. It was planned that they could be smuggled along with construction material. One of the persons involved, an officer, said: I promise to take the explosives inside the house along with construction materials. But he also came to the conclusion later that the only way was an attack from far off. The chances were rather slim from close quarters.

Question: Was it decided to bring arms from abroad as well?

Qotbzadeh: No, not at all. This was not the case because the period for the implementation of the plan was envisaged as being 2 weeks. The question of arms from abroad did not arise.

Question: What is the connection with the arms?

Qotbzadeh: First of all, they told me that they had arms, ammunition and all the equipment and that they did not need anything. But some time later, about 1 month ago, they asked me, that is, they gave me a small list which included some light weapons which they said they needed. I answered that I would try to procure them and sent the list abroad, but in practice the possibility of procuring them was hindered due to a paucity of funds.

Question: Whom did you contact in this respect and who was supposed to provide them?

Qotbzadeh: The issue of contacts with foreign parties in itself requires another discussion.

Question: We will discuss this. However, which foreign force was to be contacted for arms, who did you ask and with whom did you specifically coordinate?

Qotbzadeh: I only sent the list to one of my friends, Mr (Bilran), and asked him if it was possible to obtain them. He said that if there was money it would be possible to get them through dealers. There was no money and they were not obtained.

Question: In the plan that you had in mind, how was it possible that the imam would be safe but the rest would die during the explosion?

Qotbzadeh: Yes, as I said, this was a problem since the discussion of the explosion had finally reached the point of discussing total destruction. Because of my feelings for the imam, I was not ready to accept this and had decided to oppose it.

Question: How much money did you provide for this group?

Qotbzadeh: During my interrogations I gave the details of my financial sources. In all, I provided this group with 2.25 million tomans and 0.5 million tomans to the two or three persons I saw during the last days. This is the total amount of money I provided them.

Question: Did you discuss the plan for toppling the system of the Islamic Republic with other forces, religious figures or sources of emulation?

Qotbzadeh: There were no forces. As for sources of emulation, only through a mediator was the topic discussed with Ayatollah Shari'atmadari. Of course, you will note that I have not traveled for nearly a year, even to Qom. Therefore, I did not have personal contacts. But through the two mediators that I referred to, who were in contact with him [Shari'atmadari], I learned that the basic plan was presented to him.

During the past 2 or 3 months, Hojjat el-Eslam Mahdavi went there once and talked with him, with Ayatollah Shari'atmadari. Ayatollah Shari'atmadari's attitude toward the whole affair was very cautious.

When Hojjat ol-Eslam Mahdavi went abroad, I asked Hojjat ol-Eslam 'Abdolreza Hejazi to discuss the matter with His Holiness Ayatollah Shari'atmadari. I gave the outlines of the plan, that is to say, the general basis of the plan, to Mr Hejazi. Mr Hejazi told me he discussed it with Ayatollah Shari'atmadari.

Mr Hejazi informed me that he said that he could not do anything prior to the implementation of the plan, but he said: I will endorse him and will act after the plan is carried out.

This event passed and one again I had a discussion with Mr Hejazi, and Mr Hejazi went again. When he came back the second time he said that the discussion was identical but Ayatollah Shari'atmadari was badly scared. This event, which occurred 1 1/2 months ago, passed.

Then Ayatollah Mahdavi came back. I again told Mr Mahdavi and he upon his return [from Qom] said that his [Shari'atmadari's] views were the same and if the overthrow took place he would endorse it and would act. One or two days later Mr Mahdavi gave me some money, around 500,000 tomans and said that he got the money from Ayatollah Shari'atmadari to buy a house. This was the only money I received. These were the extent of the contacts. As I said, I was not in contact with him and I did not speak to him except through these two mediators, but he was aware of the course of action.

Question: Was Mr Abbasi also aware of these actions?

Qotbzadeh: I personally have not seen Mr Abbasi for nearly a year, but I presume from what these gentlemen said that during their meetings Mr Abbasi was probably also present.

Question: What is Mr Abbasi's relationship with Mr Shari'atmadari?

Qotbzadeh: Mr Abbasi is Ayatollah Shari'atmadari's son-in-law. And whether Mr Abbasi was in contact or not should be asked of these two gentlemen because they know whether he was in the meeting or not. However, as I have not seen Mr Abbasi or Ayatollah Shari'atmadari, I cannot say if he was there or not. Those gentlemen will clarify whether he was in contact or not. Anyway, this is the situation and these are the problems that I now face. I previously have said that I will receive the punishment most willingly.

Question: When was the last meeting that Seyyed Mehdi Mahdavi had with Shari'atmadari and what was its result?

Qotbzadeh: About a week before my arrest. As there was not enough time and I did not see him for more than a few minutes, what he told me briefly, as I previously told you, was that if there was an action he [Shari'atmadari] would totally endorse it after its victory. May peace, mercy and the blessing of God be upon you.

KHOMEYNI'S OFFICE ISSUES MESSAGE OF THANKS

LD011234 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 1 May 82

[Statement issued by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni's office on 1 May]

[Text] In His exalted name. Following the discovery of the coup plot hatched by a group which had sold itself to the arch-Satan, a great many telegrams and letters condemning the plot have been received by this office and brought to the attention of His Holiness Imam Khomeyni -- may his lofty shadow grow. We hereby wish to extend the thanks of his holiness to all those who sent telegrams, and various personages and institutions and we apologize for not being able to reply to all separately due to our immense tasks and problems and beseech Almighty God to grant success and victory to all the combatants on the fronts and those who are sacrificing themselves along the path of Islam and Muslims.

Death of Algerian Foreign Minister

Algerian Foreign Minister Mohamed Seddik Ben Yahia was killed in a plane crash near the Iranian-Turkish border while on an official visit to Iran to review ways to end the Iran-Iraq war, Tehran radio reported early on 4 May. All 15 persons aboard the plane apparently perished, according to AFP.

Iranian Majlis Speaker 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani told the Majlis that Iraqi planes had chased Ben Yahia's plane before it crashed, IRNA reported. He said Iran will release taped conversations with the plane recorded by the Iranian control tower that will reveal Iraqi President Saddam Husayn's part in the incident.

Announcing the crash, Algiers radio said that when the aircraft failed to arrive in Tehran as scheduled on the evening of 3 May, Iranian officials informed the Algerian ambassador that the plane had landed at Damascus. However, since the Syrian authorities denied that the plane had landed there, Algerian officials maintained contact throughout the night with the authorities in Iran, Turkey, Syria and elsewhere to ascertain the fate of the aircraft. Iraq was not among the radio's list of countries contacted.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

More than 7,000 Iraqis have been killed or wounded since the start of the "Jerusalem operations," according to a Guards Corps and armed forces communique carried by Tehran radio. During an Iraqi attack west of the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr road, 17 Iraqi tanks were destroyed and a large number of Iraqis were killed or injured, the communique reported. One Iraqi unit was also surrounded and completely destroyed during this clash. An Iraqi attack on the Salehabad front was repulsed by Iranian forces as fighting continued on most of the western fronts, according to another military communique carried by the radio.

A total of 16,530 Iranians have been killed and 138 Iranian tanks, 14 helicopters and 4 planes have been destroyed in the fighting since 30 April, INA reported. According to another INA report, an Iraqi military source denied Iranian claims that Iranian forces control parts of the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr road. He asserted that Iraqi forces are in full control of the road and that all Iranian attempts to seize it were foiled. Iranian troops were forced into a disorderly retreat in the Taheri-Halub bridge area west of the Karun River, according to a military communique carried by Baghdad radio. An Iraqi military spokesman denied Iranian claims that 12 Iraqi planes had been shot down in recent battles and noted that only 1 plane had been lost, INA reported.

Iran

More than 50 members of the Mojahedin-e Khalq were killed or arrested during a security operation, according to a joint communique by the Public Relations Office of the Guards Corps and public prosecutor's office carried by Tehran radio. Ten key Mojahedin activists, including two Majlis candidates, were among those killed. Documents, money and jewelry were seized and more than 10 safehouses were destroyed during the operation. According to AFP, roadblocks were set up at major intersections in Tehran following armed clashes between authorities and unidentified dissidents.

Israel

Begin Speech -- After the interim period of Palestinian autonomy specified in the Camp David agreements, Israel will take action toward realizing its "right of sovereignty over Judaea, Samaria and the Gaza District," Prime Minister Menahem Begin told the Knesset in a speech broadcast by Jerusalem radio. When Israel applies its national sovereignty to these areas, it will maintain and observe full autonomy for their Arab inhabitants, he announced. Begin said the autonomy negotiations must take place in the capitals of the three nations participating in the talks. It is unthinkable for Israel to accept the boycotting of Jerusalem as one of the three venues for the negotiations, he emphacized. Stating the government's view that the autonomy arrangements are a guarantee that under no circumstances will a Palestinian state be established in the areas of western Eretz Yisra'el, Begin said the government will strengthen and expand the Jewish settlements program. In any future peace negotiations between Israel and its neighbors, Israel will reject any suggestion that Jewish settlements be removed, the prime minister affirmed.

Earlier in his speech, which marked the opening of the Knesset summer session, Begin said Israel will never accept any violations of the peace treaty and Camp David accords and if they are not honored, this will lead to the "appropriate, swift reaction" in accordance with international law. President Husni Mubarak has given explicit commitments to prevent the smuggling of war material from Egypt into Israel and to faithfully adhere to security arrangements in the demilitarized and "thinning-out" zones, Begin noted.

Peres Speech -- In his reply speech, broadcast by the radio, Labor Party Chairman Shim'on Peres said Begin's announcement that Israel will reject any proposal to remove Jewish settlements stems from a guilty conscience about the evacuation of the Sinai settlements. The Alignment rejects settlement in densely-populated Arab areas because the annexation of hundreds of thousands of Arabs against their will could turn Israel into a binational state in which Arab-Jewish conflicts would increase, Peres said. Affirming that an Alignment government would conclude the autonomy negotiations, Peres said it will be impossible to come to an agreement with Egypt unless both sides make several compromises. He reaffirmed the Alignment's desire to negotiate with Jordanian King Husayn, asserting that the Alignment would offer Husayn a compromise, although not on matters of security.

Sharon U.S. Visit -- Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon will visit the United States in about 2 weeks, Jerusalem radio reported.

Lebanon

An explosion completely destroyed the Syrian intelligence center in the southern township of Shihin, wounding three persons, according to a 4 May Voice of Lebanon radio report. Earlier, the radio reported clashes in Beirut between the Amal movement and leftist factions.

KARMAL RECEIVES SYRIAN PARTY OFFICIAL

LD301644 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1430 GMT 30 Apr 82

[Text] Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and chairman of the DRA Revolutionary Council, this morning at the Revolutionary Council headquarters received a Syrian delegation led by Ahmad Qablan, member of the Syrian Socialist Ba'th Party Central Committee and head of the Damascus city party committee.

At this meeting, also attended by Zohur Razmjo, member of the PDPA Central Committee and secretary of Kabul city party committee, talks were held in a friendly and sincere atmosphere on subjects of mutual interest between the two countries.

CSSR NATIONAL FRONT DELEGATION ARRIVES

LD032228 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1600 G[illegible] 1 May 82

[Text] A delegation of the Czechoslovak National Front Central Committee, composed of representatives of social organizations and led by Miloslav Vacik, deputy chairman of the National Front Central Committee and chairman of the Solidarity Committee of that country, arrived in Kabul this afternoon at the invitation of the National Fatherland Front [NFF] National Committee.

The delegation was welcomed at Kabul airport by Najmoddin Khawiani, member of the PDPA Central Committee and deputy chairman of the NFF National Committee; the secretary of the NFF National Committee; the deputy minister of information and culture responsible for publicity; the deputy chairman of the Afghan-Czechoslovak Friendship Society; representatives of a number of social organizations; the representative of the Foreign Ministry; and the Czechoslovak ambassador and members of the CSSR Embassy in Kabul.

The BAKHTAR correspondent reports that the delegation brought with it gifts and goods-in-aid from the CSSR to the DRA's NFF National Committee, the DRA Democratic Women's Organization and the Democratic Youth Organization, Afghan trade unions, the Red Crescent Society and the national olympic committee. The delegation handed over the relevant documents to the representatives of various organizations.

TRADE UNION CENTRAL COUNCIL LAUNCHES PUBLICATION

LD020510 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 1 May 82

[Text] The first issue of LABOR GAZETTE, the organ of the Central Council of Afghan trade unions, was launched today, International Labor Solidarity Day. The front page of the GAZETTE contains a message from Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and chairman of the DRA Revolutionary Council, marking the first issue of this organ, the message of the PDPA Central Committee issued on the occasion of May Day and a statement on the role of the LABOR GAZETTE, as well as photos of the PDPA demonstration on May Day, the International Labor Solidarity Day celebrated in 1981 and the ceremony during which the Khorshyd-e A'zadi medal was presented to Babrak Karmal.

In his message marking the first issue of the LABOR GAZETTE, Babrak Karmal said:

This organ of the DRA trade unions is of great importance, is forging ahead successfully with firm steps and is daily improving the lives of the toiling people. Millions of our country's toilers have rallied round the banner of the revolution and are progressing toward the realization of the aspirations of our party and government.

In another part of his message, Babrak Karmal mentioned that the LABOR GAZETTE must support the lofty objectives of the revolution and explain to the working class and other toilers of the country the need to undertake this honorable duty.

He also said in the message that the LABOR GAZETTE must play a part in raising the general standard of knowledge of the toilers. The education of the toilers must be based on positive social principles, the spirit of patriotism and international revolutionary solidarity.

The interior pages of the GAZETTE contain the congratulatory message sent by the chairman of the Central Council of Afghan trade unions to Babrak Karmal on the occasion of his receiving the Khorshyd-e A'zadi medal, his May Day speech and a series of news items and articles about the fourth anniversary of the glorious April Revolution and about May Day.

Page 8 of the GAZETTE contains statements about the unity in our era between workers and the heroic armed forces and [words indistinct] defense of the productive institutions is the duty of every patriotic worker.

SPOKESMAN COMMENTS ON SINAI WITHDRAWAL

LD040620 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0436 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] Kabul, 3 May (BAKHTAR) -- The spokesman of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan in an interview to BAKHTAR correspondent about the so-called withdrawal of Israel from Sinai said:

The imperialist and Zionist propaganda is making hue and cry about the so-called "withdrawal" of Israel from Sinai and the "return" of it to Egypt. But in the opinion of the Government of the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan this well staged show and well orchestrated propaganda campaign does not bring the peace in the Middle East one inch nearer and the world, the Arab world in particular, is as far away from the comprehensive settlement in the Middle East as before.

As it was consistently maintained by the DRA Government, the crux of the matter of the Middle East comprehensive settlement is the realization of the inalienable national rights of Palestinians, including their right to have an independent sovereign state, and a complete unconditional withdrawal of Israeli troops and administration from all occupied Arab lands. These paramount goals remain unaccomplished and until they are achieved there will be no just and lasting peace in the Middle East. No farce like that staged on the Sinai a few days ago can help because it amounts to nothing else than the substitution of the American occupation for the Israeli occupation.

It is exactly for this reason that the DRA Government has always categorically stepped out against the separate Camp David deals. These deals have been and still are an outright betrayal of the just cause of our Arab brothers. We are painfully aware that millions of Arabs are still being ruthlessly oppressed by Israeli occupation forces on Golan Heights, Gaza Strip, West Bank of the River Jordan and in Jerusalem and these territories are still illegally occupied by Israel in flagrant violation of the well-known resolutions of the UN Security Council and the General Assembly.

The only just and realistic way to the lasting and equitable peace in the Middle East is a convocation of an international conference with the participation of all the sides concerned including the Palestinian Liberation Organisation, the sole and authentic representative of the Palestinian people.

The DRA Government expresses its solidarity with heroic Arab brothers fighting with the Israeli occupation and aggression and will continue to support their holy struggle until the realisation of their just cause.

POLICE ARREST 106 AFTER ATTACK ON SECT MEMBERS

BK020351 Hong Kong AFP in English 1306 GMT 1 May 82

[Text] New Delhi, 1 May (AFP) -- Police arrested 106 people in night-long raids in two adjacent suburbs of Calcutta, scene of yesterday's grisly incident in which 17 members of the fanatical Hindu sect Anand Marg (path of bliss) were battered to death, the PRESS TRUST OF INDIA (PTI) reported today.

The death toll remained unchanged and the condition of six sect members admitted to city hospitals with serious injuries was improving, the agency quoted Deputy Police Chief of West Bengal State S. Bindra as saying. Anand Marg sect leaders claimed yesterday that one more person had died in hospital. Mr Bindra said post-mortem examinations had been completed and added that the bodies would be cremated in the presence of sect members today.

The Anand Marg is a militant spiritual-political sect founded by P.R. Sarkar, a onetime railway clerk. Reports in recent years have linked it to international terrorism.

Meanwhile, a Marg delegation today met West Bengal Governor B.D. Pande, demanding the dismissal of the Marxist state government and the arrest of the local legislator, also of the ruling party.

Retaliation Threatened

BK031633 Hong Kong AFP in English 1020 GMT 3 May 82

[Excerpt] New Delhi, 3 May (AFP) -- Tens of thousands of saffron-robed members of the fanatical Hindu organization Anand Marg have vowed to avenge 17 of their members who were lynched and burnt to death in West Bengal last week, an organization source disclosed today.

A confrontation is developing in this Marxist-governed east Indian state between the Marxists, who have been accused of the killings, and the Hindu organization.

The row has blown up as the state of 55 million people prepares for assembly elections which will decide the fate of the Marxist government. State police and federal-controlled intelligence units in West Bengal have been alerted to the possibility of trouble.

Anand Marg, or "the path to eternal bliss", claims three million members in India and 66,000 followers in the United States, Australia, Canada, West Germany, Japan, Philippines, Taiwan, Mexico, Nepal and Argentina. The federal government however, has cast doubts on these membership claims.

DPRK PREMIER COMMENTS ON TALKS, DEPARTS

BK301314 Karachi Overseas Service in Urdu 0800 GMT 30 Apr 82

[Text] Premier of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea Yi Chong-ok has fully supported Pakistan's desire to establish peace. He told Radio Pakistan's representative in Islamabad this morning, prior to his departure for home, that his meeting with President Mohammad Ziaul Haq in Rawalpindi yesterday was of great importance. The DPRK premier expressed the hope that the relations between the two countries would continue to grow.

SAUDI INFORMATION MINISTER CONCLUDES VISIT

BK301316 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 30 Apr 82

[Text] Saudi Information Minister Mr Muhammad 'Abduh Yamani and Federal Minister for Information and Broadcasting Raja Mohammad Zafarul Haq have expressed the desire of their countries to increase cooperation in all fields and to work in unison at all international forums. They were talking to newsmen at the Islamabad airport today before the departure of the Saudi information minister at the conclusion of his official visit to Pakistan.

The Saudi Arabian information minister described his visit and talks with the federal information minister as very fruitful and encouraging. He was confident that the outcome of his visit will have a great bearing on the future relationship between the two countries, particularly in the field of information. They explored many fields of cooperation and it was their desire to present a joint stand on all matters concerning the Muslim world at international forums.

About his meeting with the president, he said he was glad to see that Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq was courageously leading his country toward the Islamic path.

About the Afghanistan tragedy, he said it has been created because of the Soviet intervention in that country and expressed optimism about the forthcoming talks at Geneva on this problem. He said serious efforts were required to seek a political solution of this problem so that the Afghan refugees were able to go back to their homes.

The federal minister for information and broadcasting, when asked to comment on the visit of the Saudi Arabian information minister, described as very [words indistinct] complete agreements between the two countries on all issues and it was their desire to cooperate with each other in international activities.

Raja Mohammad Zafarul Haq said the agreement signed between the two countries for cooperation in the radio, television and national agencies would help direct exchange of programs and information between them. These would continue to serve as the basis for their mutual cooperation and it was not one step but several steps forward in strengthening such cooperation.

FOREIGN MINISTER LEAVES FOR MOROCCO, GULF STATES

BK030240 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1700 GMT 2 May 82

[Text] Foreign Minister Sahabzada Yaqub Khan left Karachi tonight on a 12-day visit to Kuwait, Morocco, Saudi Arabia and a couple of Gulf countries. During his 2-day visit to Kuwait, the foreign minister will hold talks with his Kuwaiti counterpart. In Morocco, he will attend the emergency meeting of the foreign ministers of the organization of Islamic countries and the meeting of the Al-Quds Committee being held at Fes. On his way back from Fes, the foreign minister will pay a 2-day visit to Jidda. He is also expected to visit Bahrain and Abu Dhabi.

Radio Pakistan's diplomatic representative says the visit to the Gulf countries signifies the importance that Pakistan attaches to these countries. The foreign minister is also expected to visit some other Gulf countries in the near future.

JASARAT WARNS AGAINST 'SINISTER' PLAN

GF031418 Karachi JASARAT in Urdu 30 Apr 82 p 3

[Editorial: "The Red Sedan"]

[Text] Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan has returned to his country. During his 5 years or so of self-exile, the red shirt leader paid a visit to India a few months ago. In India he met with the prime minister, Indira Gandhi. When anybody returns home after many years he usually gets a warm welcome. Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan was also given a very emotional welcome when he entered the homeland. At the border town of Torkham, he was received by family members, political leaders and workers. Earlier, his son Khan Abdul Wali Khan had returned from Kabul after meeting his father there. Abdul Wali Khan was also warmly received on his return from Kabul. The Pakistan Government had given him special permission to visit his father. The government also offered the services of a helicopter to bring his father back. However, Ghaffar Khan declined the offer, as usual; the helicopter sent by the Pakistan Government had to come back empty.

The expressions of emotion by the relatives of Ghaffar Khan and his fans this side of the border was nothing unusual and was a natural phenomena. However, what happened on the other side of the border was indeed unusual. In his farewell speech, the Afghan minister said something ominous: "We will soon meet you at your homes. Whatever steps you may take in the way of revolution, we will be with you."

However, the farewell speech by Ajmal Khattak [self-exiled dissident from Peshawar] was even more exceptional. He reminded his listeners: "I promised you in a speech at Chawk Yadgar [well-known square within Peshawar] that when I come back to you I will come with a red sedan [in which a bride is brought home; also means a good gift]. That red sedan is now visible," he announced.

Generally such talk coming from opponents is dismissed as propaganda. However, the recent changes that have come in Afghanistan have political implications and are very basic in nature. Afghanistan is now a heaven for dissident elements from Pakistan and a stronghold for people of different shade and color. It is also the center of Soviet ideology in the region and a springboard for its future plans. In this background, if Ajmal Khattak begins to see the "red sedan," it may symbolize the maturity of some sinister plan or design. This is threatening to the ideological and territorial borders of Pakistan. The whole nation and the defense forces of Pakistan must take notice of such talk and slogans being raised at the borders and must take measures against them to the best of their capability. In this matter a little indolence might bring great loss or damage.

PLANE CARRYING ALGERIA'S BEN YAHIA CRASHES

GF040627 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, following the plane crash of the Algerian foreign minister and his accompanying delegation, who were on their way to Iran for an official visit, our country's Foreign Ministry has issued the following statement:

From God we come and to Him we return. Most regretfully we have been informed that the plane carrying the foreign minister of our brother country Algeria, and the delegation accompanying him, who were on their way to pay an official visit to our country at the invitation of our country's foreign minister to expand and strengthen bilateral relations between the two countries and to review ways to end the Iraqi-imposed war against Iran, has crashed near the Iranian-Turkish border. Unfortunately, Mr Ben Yahia and the rest of the plane's passengers were martyred.

Following this tragic accident, the search teams of the Gendarmerie and the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran departed for the site of the crash to review the cause of the accident. The president's special representative, along with the deputy foreign minister and the president of the country's civil aviation, left for the Iranian-Turkish border last night at 2300 to follow this up and to present up-to-date reports and news to the officials of the country. The investigation and search continue.

The Foreign Ministry of the Islamic Republic of Iran, extending condolences to the government and nation of the brother country Algeria and asking God's remission for the martyrs of this tragic accident, announces that there are indications that the crash of this plane was a premeditated act by the Iraqi Ba'thist regime. Details of this will be made public later.

Rafsanjani Blames Iraq

LD040928 Tehran IRNA in English 0914 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 4 May (IRNA) -- Iraqi planes were chasing the plane carrying Algerian Foreign Minister Ben Yahia before it crashed, announced Majlis Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani in the open session of Majlis this morning. The Majlis speaker also said that conversations from the plane recorded by the Iranian control tower bases will be released. Hashemi-Rafsanjani added that these tapes will reveal Saddam's part in such a crime, and he expected all peace-seeking people to follow the event carefully.

The aircraft crashed last night near the Iran-Turkey border martyring the Algerian foreign minister as well as others, who were en route to pay an official visit to Iran. Iranian authorities immediately dispatched investigation teams to the area.

AFP Report

NC040756 Paris AFP in English 0736 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 4 May (AFP) -- Algerian Foreign Minister Mohamed Ben Yahia and at least four other persons were killed when a plane taking Mr Ben Yahia on an official visit to Iran crashed late yesterday near the Turkish-Iranian border, it was reported today.

Villagers located the wreckage of the Grumman-G2 early today, and found four bodies, according to reliable sources here. There was no indication of any survivors among the 15 persons aboard the plane.

The Algerian news service confirmed the crash, but said efforts were continuing to find any survivors.

Meanwhile, Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani, the speaker of Iranian Parliament, said the plane was being pursued by an Iraqi fighter shortly before it crashed.

"The conversations between the Iranian control tower and Mr Ben Yahia's aircraft shows clearly the role played by Saddam Husayn in this accident," Hojjat ol-Eslam Rafsanjani said during a Parliament debate. Mr Husayn is president of Iraq, with which Iran is at war.

Informed Iranian sources said Iranian rescue teams had not yet arrived early today at the crash scene. An Iranian-Algerian official delegation, which included Algerian Ambassador Abdelkarim Ghraieb, was reported to be headed for the area.

The Iranian Foreign Ministry, which announced the death of Mr Ben Yahia, who was 50, in a statement that was broadcast by Tehran radio, also blamed the accident on "a plot by the Iraqi Ba'thist regime."

"Documents exist on this subject," the ministry said. Mr Ben Yahia was headed for Tehran to seek to mediate an end to the 19-month war. He visited Baghdad on April 17, where he gave Mr Husayn a message from Algerian President Chadli Bendjedid.

His death came less than a year after he was seriously injured in another plane crash in Mali on May 31, 1981.

That crash, which happened a few kilometers (miles) from the Bamako airport, was caused by heavy thunderstorms. Mr Ben Yahia's plane was to make a stop at Bamako en route to an Organization of African Unity meeting in Freetown, Sierra Leone.

Early reports announced Mr Ben Yahia's death, and Algerian officials put flags at half-staff and interrupted normal television program with readings from the Koran.

Mr Ben Yahia was later found with a multiple fracture of his thigh bone. Three other survivors were found, and three persons were found dead.

DEFENSE MINISTER COMMENTS ON WAR'S PROGRESS

[Interview with Defense Minister Col Mohammad Salimi by a Voice and Vision correspondent in Tehran on 3 May -- recorded]

[Text] [Question] Colonel Salimi, recently some foreign radios have tried to refute the recent victories gained by our country's military forces on the battlefront and in some cases they even try to portray the opposite. As the minister of defense how do you view this matter?

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. You know that psychological warfare, which consists of rumors, lies and false statements, always forms a main part of the battle; that is, through psychological warfare the combatant tries to conjure up his wishes.

Today the deadly and repeated blows which our combatants have dealt the enemy on the operational theater have weakened the enemy on the battlefront and he does not know how to use his troops. In the field of psychological warfare he does not know what to say. Whatever he can think of, he broadcasts from his mass media.

This matter is obvious to us and we expect to hear such things; America, this giant monster of imperialism, has received such a terrifying blow from us, our revolution, our leader and our nation that we are always expecting its retaliation; we expect it to react. These rumors are part of the reaction. It wants to change the opinion of the people of the world and spread rumors that such victories have not been achieved by Iran. The response to such rumors is the POW's; the response to them is our operational zones. Fortunately, the war operations headquarters has invited foreign news agencies to come to the area and see from themselves.

[Question] As the minister of defense could you tell us what measures you are going to take regarding these issues?

[Answer] The war is the main issue, as mentioned by our great commander and leader. The Ministry of Defense, which is part of the great forces of this nation and a section of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, has placed this issue before any other duties. As a result, through its round-the-clock efforts the use of its thinkers and experts in defense industries and the blessed and strong muscles of the workers of the Defense Ministry, it has managed to supply the requirements of our combat brothers on the fronts; in addition to the fact that these requirements are being supplied by the forces themselves from the spoils of war they have seized, which reduces our requirements to a minimum.

Regarding other work, the Ministry of Defense today feels itself being guided by this noble Koranic verse: "Against them make ready your strength to the utmost of your power, including steeds of war, to strike terror into the hearts of the enemies of God and your enemies." Our enemies are known; they are the world's superpowers and their children and their satellites who are around us. Therefore, we prepare ourselves until the combat power of our army has reached a stage where all the enemies of God are terrified by this power, as today Iraq is terrified by our force and military power.

The Ministry of Defense has based its strategy on the idea that it must enhance its combat power to the point where the enemies of God take this power into account and do not think about waging war against the territory of Islamic Iran.

JOINT STATEMENT 7 REPORTS ON IRAQI LOSSES

LD031806 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 3 May 82

[Joint statement No 7 of Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. In the triumphant Jerusalem operations, the victorious combatants of the forces of Islam continue their relentless fight against the agents of world blasphemy, deal continuous blows at the dying forces of the American Saddam and strengthen their positions. They are advancing toward their ultimate goal trench by trench.

This morning, the brave combatants of the army of Islam -- in response to a feeble enemy move west of the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr road -- were able to kill or injure a large number of the aggressors and inflict considerable damage to their equipment. During this operation, 17 enemy tanks were destroyed by the victorious and proud forces of Islam, in addition to which a large number of their vehicles and personnel carriers were destroyed as the result of fire by our powerful forces. During this operation one complete enemy unit was surrounded by the forces of Islam and was totally destroyed.

On Hill No 182, situated near the Fakkeh border, the fast-flyers of the army air corps destroyed six enemy tanks and killed a group of the aggressors.

According to the latest statistics, the number of enemy killed and wounded since the start of the victorious Jerusalem operations now exceeds 7,000; the burial of the remaining enemy bodies in the liberated areas continues in a number of cemeteries selected for this purpose. Among the 4,000 POW's who have so far been transferred behind the fronts, were 122 Iraqi officers. [passage indistinct giving the names of eight colonels] The capture of each of these senior officers of the so-called the Ba'thist Army of Iraq means the destruction of their respective units by the combatants of Islam, shouting "God is great" and consisting of young boys and men aged up to 80, alongside other combatants of Islam today, in whose arms strength has been manifested. [sentence as heard) Therefore, the criminal United States and its puppet agent Saddam should know that with these proud (?victories) of the forces of Islam and these shameful captures of the anti-Islamic forces of Saddam, they can no longer cover up these great victories with Zionist propaganda.

At present, the combatants of Islam -- relying on the infinite power of God, the blessings of the dear imam and the martyr-nurturing nation of Islam -- who have always been the means of God's invisible blessings and help to the forces of Islam -- are dealing their blows at world blasphemy, headed by the great Satan and its subordinate and aggressive agents.

In the hope of final victory by the combatants of Islam and the liberation of Jerusalem from the claws of the occupier Zionism, with God's assistance victory is nigh.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 880

LD032248 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 2030 GMT 3 May 82

[Communique 880 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] During the past 24 hours the exchange of artillery and other heavy-weapon fire continued on most of the western fronts, and the results of the operations in various fronts were as follows:

On the Salehabad fronts enemy attacks were repulsed and some casualties were inflicted upon the forces of Saddam.

On the Sumar front, two communication centers were destroyed and five of the forces of blasphemy were killed.

On the Sar-e Pol-e Zahab front, a number of supply centers were destroyed, and the supply lines of the Iraqi forces were smashed.

On the Marivan front, enemy positions in Tutmal and (Diareh) came under heavy fire from our artillery units and one 120-mm mortar and five of their heavy-weapon bunkers were set on fire and destroyed. More than 10 of the forces of Saddam were killed or wounded.

In the Hargineh and Valiabeh regions, considerable losses and damage were inflicted upon the enemy.

The heroic forces of the gendarmerie in the Bansheyan region of Ilam Province managed to destroy four heavy-weapon bunkers of the enemy with their mortar fire and killed a number of enemy forces.

During the exchanges of fire on the Nowsud and Shur-e Shirin fronts, the heroic forces of the gendarmerie responded to the enemy fire over the positions of the forces of Saddam and silenced the enemy fire and killed or wounded a number of their personnel. They also destroyed two group bunkers with all their crews on the Shur-e Shirin front.

On the Khorramshahr and Abadan fronts, the brave forces of the navy opened fire over enemy positions and destroyed two 106-mm guns and a number of the bunkers of their light or heavy weapons. They also killed or wounded a number of enemy personnel.

Also on these fronts the heroic forces of the gendarmerie destroyed an 82-mm mortar, 2 RPG-7's, 2 machineguns, an ammunition dump, an enemy assembly point and 16 trenches and foxholes of`the forces of Saddam and killed or wounded a number of enemy personnel.

SUCCESSES AGAINST IRAQIS, REBELS IN WEST NOTED

LD031206 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 3 May 82

[Text] According to IRNA, the valiants of Islam stationed in the Marivan region brought enemy positions in Tutman, (Diareh), Hargineh and Savoji under their crushing blows yesterday. During these operations, 10 Iraqis were killed or injured, 1 120-mm mortar and 5 enemy bunkers were set on fire and 1 vehicle was damaged.

According to an IRNA correspondent, battles on the Sar-e Pol-e Zahab, Gilan-e Gharb and Sumar fronts are continuing with exchanges of heavy-artillery fire, with our forces maintaining their superiority.

Our forces, having brought the enemy's supply routes and positions under fire, denied the Iraqis any movement and destroyed a few enemy [word indistinct]. In the Gilan-e Gharb region, the brave tribesmen on patrol operations succeeded in levelling an Iraqi concentration point and inflicting losses on the enemy.

In the last 24 hours, the valiants of the gendarmerie stationed in the regions of [word indistinct] Nowsud and Sheykhan destroyed one heavy truck, several armored [word indistinct] and enemy bunkers and killed a number of Iraqi personnel.

The same report indicates that following their recent victories in the strategic regions of Kamyaran, Marivan, Sar Dasht and Baneh and Mahabad, the combatants of Islam prevented activities by the outlawed armed minigroups in these regions.

NATEQ-NURI INTERVIEWED ON POW RELATIVES ISSUE

LD031028 Tehran IRNA in English 0932 GMT 3 May 82

[Text] Qom, 2 May (IRNA) -- The Baghdad government has martyred some of the Iranian prisoners of war and is therefore killing time in negotiations for the proposed exchange visits by the relatives of the POW's, according to an Iranian official in Qom today.

The Iranian interior minister, Hojjat ol-Eslam Nateq-Nuri, said that Iraq had said that a number of the Iranian POW's in Iraq just "do not want to meet with their relatives," whereas the International Red Cross had not verified Baghdad's claim in this respect. Said he: "We demanded that a list of the Iranian POW's as Baghdad claimed, who did not want to see their relatives, be provided to us through the International Red Cross, but the ruling regime in that country denied our demand."

He said also that since there was no guarantee of Baghdad's safe conduct with the relatives of the Iranian prisoners of war, the Iranian negotiators had suggested that the visiting group be also accompanied by a group of 20 Islamic revolutionary guards or other guards, but that Baghdad had also rejected the stipulation in the agreement.

Minutes before his interview with IRNA the Interior Ministry official had met with Ayatollah Montazeri here.

SHARI' ATMADARI ASKS FOR FORGIVENESS ON TV

LD031106 Tehran IRNA in English 0905 GMT 3 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 3 May (IRNA) -- In an interview broadcast by Iranian TV last night, Kazem Shari'atmadari asked for forgiveness for not reporting the recent foiled coup plot even though he was aware of it and pledged not only not to repeat such acts but to fight against them in the future.

Prior to the broadcast of the interview, the judge of the army revolutionary courts, Hojjat ol-Eslam Reyshahri, said that during the interrogation Shari'atmadari rejected to given sound replies. Under the pretext of being ill, Shari'atmadari answered only written questions, reading them from a note, with the consultation of his son-in-law, Abbasi, Reyshahri added. Such an action, he noted, was merely to save Shari'athadari from making contradictions.

Reyshahri stressed that power-seeking ambitions would not allow people like Shari'atmadari to fulfill what they wanted and that only the person whose lust was subordinate to God's orders could be the leader of society.

Shari'atmadari, being interviewed by Reyshahri, said that from the early current Iranian year (starting on March 21) he had been informed of the plot through what he heard from Mahdavi-Kani (a mass prayers leader in northern Tehran). Further elaborating on the plot, Shari'atmadari said that during the past year he had heard about Qotbzadeh (former foreign minister) joining the ranks of opponents.

Asked about matters discussed during his meetings with Mahdavi-Kani, Shari'atmadari said that as far as he could recall in the last meeting Mahdavi-Kani had spoken about Qotbzadeh's opposition to the government and that by gathering some people around himself, he was going to stage demonstrations and thus raise a tumult. Referring to Mahdavi-Kani's tour abroad, Shari'atmadari said that during the same meeting Mahdavi-Kani flatly denied that he had claimed to be Shari'atmadari's representative abroad. Mahdavi-Kani added that his first destination was Syria and then Germany, where he met some German officials and told them of an alleged bad situation in Iran claiming suppression there, Shari'atmadari noted.

He said Mahdavi-Kani mentioned that he also told German officials that Iranians were very dissatisfied with the government and authorities. Mahdavi-Kani said that he then went to Saudi Arabia where he met Amir 'Abdallah (the brother of the Saudi king) and told him the same things he had told German officials. [Words indistinct] Mahdavi-Kani had asked him not to stay in his own house any longer since his life would be threatened. Shari'atmadari said that he had made no response to such a request. Referring to Mahdavi-Kani's talks with Amir 'Abdallah of Saudi Arabia, Shari'atmadari said that Mahdavi-Kani had asked him that if Shari'atmadari planned to leave the country would Saudi Arabia accept him and Amir 'Abdallah had said that there was no objection but his coming to Mecca or Medina to reside there would be useless.

Asked why he had not reported the plot to officials, Shari'atmadari said that since the implementation of such a "vicious" attempt seemed impossible in a short period of time and since he thought the government was informed of it, he decided not to report it and thus not to involve a number of other people. But, he added, the case was soon disclosed.

Shari'atmadari then repented for not reporting the plot to officials and asked for forgiveness. He undertook not to repeat such acts in the future and, moreover, fight with them. In conclusion Shari'atmadari requested Imam Khomeyni to prevent adverse propaganda of the mass media regarding himself since it would cause insecurity and would endanger his life.

WAKH: SHARI'ATMADARI, QOTBZADEH TO BE EXECUTED

GF040937 Manama WAKH in Arabic 0921 GMT 4 May 82

[Excerpt] Kuwait, 4 May (WAKH) -- Citing opposition sources in Paris, the Kuwaiti newspaper AL-ANBA today reports that Ayatollah Shari'atmadari and Qotbzadeh will be executed on 17 May.

AL-ANBA says that the Iranian opposition received definite information from Tehran that the appearance of Shari'atmadari on television on 2 May was aimed to create a psychological justification and to confirm the accusations leveled at him of involvement in the coup attempt.

The opposition sources say that Shari'atmadari and Qotbzadeh have been moved to an unknown destination as a prelude to bringing down the curtain on their affair, with their execution taking place in complete secrecy.

EVIDENCE ON ATTEMPTED COUP DISCOVERED IN MASHHAD

GF021323 Tehran JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI in Persian 22 Apr 82 p 34

[Text of announcement issued by Public Relations Office of the Mashhad Islamic Revolution Committee -- date not given]

[Excerpts] In His exalted name. The vigilant and arisen omnipresent people of Mashhad are hereby informed that once again, with the selfless cooperation of the 36-million-strong intelligence organization, one more counterrevolutionary safe house and nest of corruption has been unearthed. The aforementioned safe house, which is located in the area at the north end of Shahid Motahheri Avenue, was surrounded by the fearless and valiant guards of the Islamic Revolution Committee of Khorasan, Mashhad Center, at 2300 last night. After a 30-minute clash, one of the fraudulent leaders of the hypocrites was killed and three other active members of the militant U.S. minigroup were arrested.

Confidential documents and manuscripts were seized which pertained to the organization linked with the recent coup attempted by the deceitful Qotbzadeh. The results and followup will be released to the martyr-nurturing nation in Mashhad.

It should be mentioned that not one of our brother guards was hurt in the skirmish.

RAFSANJANI DISCUSSES COUP PLOT, REVOLUTION

LD011242 Tehran IRNA in English 0926 GMT 1 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 30 Apr (IRNA) -- The Majlis speaker, Hojjat ol-Eslam Rafsanjani, referring to the recently foiled coup plot, said that Shari'atmadari's connection with this plot should not be taken lightly since he, backed by his foreign and domestic allies as well as his wealth, could have made real trouble and mischief for the Islamic revolution of Iran.

Speaking to the Tehran preachers' association on Wednesday he said there were two distinct stands in Iranian society, a rightful one headed by Imam Khomeyni and a corrupt one backed by domestic counterrevolutionaries and U.S. imperialism. Talking on the attraction of the Islamic revolution for the world's awakened people he quoted Ahmed Sekou Toure, the Guinea president, who said there had been no revolution as the Islamic revolution of Iran in the last 400 years. He also quoted the Soviet ambassador who said there had been no revolution so humane or so popular in the course of history.

The Majlis speaker then analysed the unique aspects of the Islamic revolution of Iran and added that no other country had begun to establish the Islamic principles as a basis for a government.

AFP: ARMED CLASHES REPORTED IN TEHRAN 2 MAY

NC030914 Paris AFP in English 0822 GMT 3 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 3 May (AFP) -- Roadblocks were set up at major intersections in Tehran today, following reliable reports of several armed clashes yesterday between authorities and unidentified dissident groups.

No mention was made of the clashes either in official circles or in Tehran newspapers. But witnesses said several houses in middle-class residential sections had been attacked by authorities -- a check by an AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE correspondent confirmed damage to the houses.

There was no means of estimating casualties, but the witnesses said they had seen several ambulances leave the area, which had been surrounded.

The witnesses said revolutionary guards, police and members of the revolutionary committee fired rockets at the houses. The clashes with the occupants generally took place with light weapons, according to the witnesses.

The witnesses speculated that the dwellings could have been safe houses for groups such as the People's Mojahedin, an outlawed Muslim leftist group.

Early today, the authorities had set up a large number of roadblocks in Tehran, and were searching cars and checking their occupants' papers.

ASSASSINATION ATTEMPT REPORTED IN TABRIZ

GF030845 (Clandestine) Voice of Iran in Persian 0330 GMT 1 May 82

[Text] In Tabriz, clergyman Mehdi Karrubi, director of the Martyrs' Foundation and the stooge representative of 'Aligudarz in the mullahs' Majlis had a narrow escape.

The Voice of Iran correspondent from Tabriz reports that on Thursday evening, Mullah Mehdi Karrubi, who had gone to the city to address the political exhibition of last Friday [the Friday congregation] was attacked by three Azarbayjani youths, but his guards and armed revolution guards saved him.

Our correspondent adds: The Azarbayjani youths, while shouting anti-Khomeyni and anti-mullah slogans and intending to kill Mehdi Karrubi, suddenly attacked the clergyman who had just gotten out of his automobile. Out of sheer fright, the clergyman hid behind his guards and reentered his automobile for shelter.

One of the youths was critically injured due to blows from the butt of a rifle but the lackey revolution guards arrested him in this condition, along with the two other Azarbayjani young men and took them to the detention center of the revolution guards in Tabriz.

According to the Voice of Iran correspondent, the cities of Azarbayjan, especially Tabriz and Reza'iyeh, are tense, and a noticeably large number of armed revolution guards is evident. I wish to add that this news is being broadcast for the first time from the Voice of Iran.

'KEY' MEMBERS OF OPPOSITION GROUP KILLED

LD031152 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 3 May 82

[Excerpts] A joint communique issued by the Public Relations Office of the Central Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the state public prosecutor's Public Relations Office announces the discovery of several safe houses and the seizure of important documents and evidence from important elements of the hypocrites organization as well as the arrest and killing of a number of the organization's members.

This was a tremendous blow against the world-devouring mercenaries in the country. Today's blow was truly a warning lesson to Reagan, Saddam and other oppressors, who by supporting and assisting such lowly elements as Qotbzadeh, Bani-Sadr, Rajavi and Bakhtiar, are awaiting to see the instability of a revolution which relies on God and whose owners are martyrs and Hezbollahi.

The following are details on the operation:

A. The destruction of more than 10 centers and main bases of the hypocrites, seizing from them some military documents and spoils as well as considerable sums of cash and jewelry. They were taken away from the desperate American mercenaries in the country. A fuller version will be reported in a more detailed interview;

B. The arrest or killing of more than 50 elements of the organization;

C. The killing of key cadre personnel of the central hypocrites organization, including:

1. Mohammad Zarefi, a member of the central cadre. He was a member in the organization and was responsible for the social section;
2. Fazlollah Tadayyon, a member of the central cadre and the hypocrites' candidate for the Majlis;
3. Qasem Baqerzadeh, a member of the central cadre and responsible for the social section;
4. Hamid Jalalzadeh, a member of the central cadre and responsible for the supply section;
5. Hamid Khademi, a member of the central cadre and their candidate for the Majlis;
6. Hasan Sabet, a senior member of the central cadre;
7. Fereshteh Asadi, an active member, an official of the organization and wife of the dead Hamid Khademi;
8. Nosrat Ramezani, an active member and wife of Mohammad Zarefi in the central cadre;
9. Taqi Yusefi, an active member and spouse of Baqerzadeh in the central cadre;
10. Hasan Rahimi, an official of the organization and a senior member.

Further information will be subsequently made available to the public.

MAJLIS FOREIGN AFFAIRS OFFICIAL INTERVIEWED

LD011300 Tehran IRNA in English 0908 GMT 1 May 82

["Iran Soon To Become Centre of Islamic Movements" -- IRNA headline]

[Text] Tehran, 1 May (IRNA) -- The Islamic Republic of Iran, with its recent victories over the Iraqi regime, will soon become a centre for new movements of Muslim nations to liberate Palestine and Al-Quds, said head of the Foreign Affairs Commission of the Majlis, Mohammad Khatami, in Tehran Friday.

Speaking in an interview with IRNA, Khatami denied rumours on the sale of oil to the U.S., stressing that Iran did not have and would not have any relations with the United States since at present such a world-devouring superpower was the Islamic revolution's greatest enemy.

He attributed the rumours to attempts to discredit the Islamic revolution after some documents revealed Kazem Shari'atmadari's connection with the U.S. Khatami noted that since the establishment of the Islamic Republic many imperialistic propaganda plots had been engineered against Iran and the latest one would be the last.

Asked about the intensified attack of counterrevolutionaries on Muslim students abroad, the head of the Majlis commission said that such attacks were proof of the rightfulness of Iran's stance. If such counterrevolutionaries had any base in Iran they would not have left the country, Khatami remarked.

Commenting on the Zionists' withdrawal from the Sinai, Khatami said that replacement of the Zionist forces by NATO forces was merely to stabilise foundations of Zionist rule and that it made no changes in the stand of the Zionist rulers. He stressed that such a movement was an insult to the Muslim Egyptian people as well as all the oppressed in the world. He noted that due to the recent victories of the Islamic Republic over the Iraq regime, the Zionist regime would possibly attempt to annex or occupy more Arab and Muslim lands. He emphasised on the reliance on the power of faith and military forces as the only means to fight with Zionists and reactionary regimes, who in reality supported the Zionists and hindered the achievement of Palestinian aspirations.

Asked about the coincidence of the attack of pro-Iraqi leftists on the Shi'a people in southern Lebanon, Khatami said that Iraq had in practice showed that it was moving in the line of preserving Zionists' interests, therefore it would attack any power which posed a potential threat to imperialism and Zionism.

Since the Shi'as of southern Lebanon were moving in the path of the Islamic revolution, they would be attacked by the Zionist regime and all the anti-Islamic and antipopular forces in the region, he added.

Referring to a number of contracts recently signed between Iran and some neighboring countries, Khatami said that efforts should be made to further expand relations with neighboring, especially Muslim, ones. These contacts, he added, should be studied to find out to what extent spiritual and material interests of the Islamic Republic had been preserved. However, he stated, in order to curtail any dependence on big powers, economic and commerical ties with Third World, especially Muslim, countries should be strengthened. But such relations should not imply that Iran accepted what was politically going on in those countries, Khatami said.

RADIO-TV CHIEF RETURNS FROM FOREIGN TOUR

LD281802 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 28 Apr 82

[Excerpts] According to IRNA, Mr Mohammad Hashemi, supervisor of the Voice and Vision of the Islamic Republic of Iran, returned to Tehran this morning from a visit to Yugoslavia, West Germany, Libya and Algeria during which he studied mutual cooperation with various radio and television stations.

Mr Hashemi had fruitful discussions with high-ranking Algerian officials, including the ministers of education and information and the head of the Central Committee [as heard] of the Algerian National Liberation Front. In an interview with the IRNA correspondent in Algeria, the supervisor of the Voice and Vision spoke of the purpose of this trip, saying:

Our main aim is to evaluate the technical equipment which may be of use to us in various countries, as well as to purchase some of the items needed by the Voice and Vision of the Islamic Republic of Iran. He added: Our other aims are to exchange television and cinema productions with friendly Muslim countries, as well as with countries of the Nonaligned Movement, to coordinate our views on international radio and television conferences and to coordinate purchases with these countries.

The supervisor of the Voice and Vision of the Islamic Republic of Iran said: Another important matter discussed was making use of Algerian radio transmitters to strengthen the Voice of the Islamic Republic of Iran, so that in this way we can send the message of the Islamic revolution in Arabic to those countries that do not receive the Voice of Iran.

LIBERATION FRONT MEMBER VIEWS TRIAL IN BAHRAIN

GF030610 Tehran ASH-SHAHID in Arabic 21 Apr 82 pp 20, 21

[Interview granted to ASH-SHAHID correspondent in Beirut by the representative of the Bahraini liberation front in Lebanon -- date not given]

[Excerpts] Question: Are you still optimistic?

Answer: More than ever before because all that is happening in Bahrain serves the interests of our Muslim masses, foremost of which is the struggling Islamic movement, whether in the long run or on the short-term tactical level. The ruling authorities have contributed to the great progress of the existing revolutionary situation among the masses.

Question: Do you mean to say that the trial which has just started benefits the "defendants"?

Answer: Yes, certainly. The trial has been postponed four times so far. This implies that what is taking place is ultimately for the benefit of the believing youth and not the court committee, which represents the will of the ruling authorities.

Question: The authorities say that the postponements were made at the request of the defense lawyers.

Answer: The lawyers are not convinced they can defend the defendants under the present circumstances because their appointment is a formality by virtue of the article in the constitution which says a defendant must be accompanied by a lawyer if he is unable to appoint a lawyer of his own. In this case, the defendants were not allowed to appoint their own lawyers. Following the court's refusal to allow the lawyers to meet their clients, some of the lawyers withdrew. Afraid that the rest of the lawyers might also withdraw, the court agreed to allow them a 30-minute meeting with their clients. The lawyers protested that this was too short but the court decided it was sufficient and said it would not reconsider its decision.

Although most of the lawyers were appointed by the authorities, heavy pressures were imposed on them to the extent that some of them thought of withdrawing. They have little room to move and feel they are not even doing the minimum they are expected to do.

The mujahidin are still continuing their steadfastness against and challenge of the regime. They have expressed their protest and rejection of the secrecy of the trial. This has caused disorder in the hearings and the authorities have decided to divide the mujahidin to be tried into groups of four.

Our Muslim masses in Bahrain have filled the walls with slogans denouncing the regime and threatening revenge.

PRESS SILENCE OVER BAHRAINI CAUSE QUESTIONED

GF021535 Tehran ASH-SHAHID in Arabic 7 Apr 82 p 23

[Unattributed article]

[Excerpt] I do not know exactly why the press is afraid to discuss the Bahraini people's cause. Is it because Bahrain is unknown to the press? This is unlikely because the press recently took a great deal of interest in Bahrain and reported on it from one point of view -- the regime's.

Moreover, the Al Khalifahs of Bahrain are not the type who pay a lot of money to the press -- not because they do not like to be praised for what they have not done, like all tyrants, but because they are preoccupied with their pleasures and leave this task to the perhaps more fortunate Saudi regime. Furthermore, the Al Khalifahs do not enjoy any political presence in any country in the world. This is because the regime's leaders have much narrower interests. Their presence in London, for instance, is seen through the sex gangs. They have stopped visiting Beirut because the war has robbed them of what used to attract them to the city.

Therefore, what prevents the press from responding to the Bahraini people's cause -- although there does not appear to be any political, diplomatic, terrorist or financial pressure to prevent such interest?

I believe that the GCC was a well-studied U.S. plan to give a semblance of "order" to the chaos that rules the Gulf countries that are led by temporary pleasures and lusts. The GCC, which is not part of the government institutions dominated by a tribal and nomadic mentality, has brought together various types of modern expertise. It is capable of asserting the presence of these regimes abroad, regimes that used to drown in counterrevolutionary media. Even the Information Ministries in these countries are ruled by a tribal mentality. Apparently efforts to modernize these ministries through the supervision of foreign experts over the information ministers -- who lack understanding as well as expertise and creativeness in the information field -- have failed. The information minister, Tariq al-Mu'ayyad, got his job because of his family. He is a member of the Al-Mu'ayyad family which belongs to tribes that came to Bahrain from southern Iran 200 years ago. In Bahrain they are called Al-Hawlah and they played a big role in helping the Al Khalifah family seize Bahrain and settle in it.

DETERIORATION SEEN IN PLO-IRAN TIES

NC301149 (Clandestine) Voice of Iran in Persian 1805 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Text] A Voice of Iran correspondent reports that following the PLO's agreement for the resumption of Egypt's membership in the OAU, relations between Khomeyni's regime and the Palestinians have once again deteriorated.

Our correspondent adds: A Palestinian official announced officially that the PLO sees no obstacles in Egypt's return to the OAU. Following these remarks, the PLO representative in Tehran was summoned to the clerical Foreign Ministry to give some explanations on this matter.

Commenting on this, a Palestinian official in Beirut said: The Islamic Republic has no right to intervene in the PLO's policy. The Palestinian movement has not reached a point where it should learn about politics from Khomeyni's regime.

FBIS DAILY REPORT

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

5 MAY 1982

Further on Ben Yahia Air Crash

Iraq firmly denied Iranian claims that Iraqi fighters shot down the plane carrying Algerian Foreign Minister Mohamed Seddik Ben Yahia, according to an Iraqi statement cited by Amman television. The statement accused Iran of shooting down Ben Yahia's plane in order to put an end to Algerian efforts to mediate the Iran-Iraq war. Iraqi President Saddam Husayn sent a cable of condolences to Algerian President Chadli Bendjedid, Baghdad radio reported. Baghdad radio and INA reported the crash without comment.

An Iranian Foreign Ministry statement carried by Tehran radio said that according to information received at Tabriz Airport, two Iraqi planes chased Ben Yahia's plane in Turkish airspace near the Iranian border. The Tabriz control tower instructed the plane to divert its route toward Ankara but at this point lost contact with the plane. A Lufthansa plane was likewise attacked by Iraqi planes in the same region but managed to change course in time, the statement asserted. Iranian fighters then arrived on the scene, forcing the Iraqi planes to flee. The Iranian statement accused Iraq of launching this "savage and mad attack" as a reprisal for its defeats on the southern fronts. Promising Algeria that Iran will avenge the blood of Ben Yahia and the other Algerians who died in the crash, the statement called on Turkey to condemn such acts and to provide security for civilian aircraft flying in its airspace to Iran.

According to APS, the Algerian president decided to set up a commission of inquiry into the causes and circumstances of the crash.

A Damascus television commentary accused the Iraqi president of assassinating Ben Yahia and said Husayn would kill anyone who tried to mediate a halt to the Iran-Iraq war.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Iranian forces to the west of the Karun River have almost completely collapsed and thousands of Iranians are surrendering to Iraqi forces, INA reported citing an Iraqi military commander. Earlier, an Iraqi military communique carried by INA reported that Iraqi planes and helicopters had raided Iranian positions to the west of the Karun River and had inflicted heavy casualties and equipment losses. The communique added that one Iranian plane was shot down over the Bostan sector. Iranian losses from 30 April-4 May amounted to 21,788 killed, while Iraqi losses were set at 621 during this period, the communique claimed.

Two Iraqi planes were shot down in the southern sector of Abadan, according to an armed forces communique carried by Tehran radio. Iranian planes bombed Iraqi troop concentrations in Fakkeh while fighting continued on the western fronts, the communique reported. Iraqi fortifications around Khorramshahr were heavily bombarded by Iranian planes, Tehran radio said. According to another radio report, 300 Iraqis from the 12th Brigade were killed during Iranian operations near the Hoseyniyeh station axis.

ACTIVITIES OF CSSR DELEGATION REPORTED

LD042354 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1530 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] Dr Saleh Mohammad Ziray, Politburo member, secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and president of the National Fatherland Front [NFF] National Committee, met with the CSSR National Front Central Committee delegation this afternoon in his office at the revolutionary party headquarters.

At the meeting, which was attended by members of the NFF National Committee and the CSSR ambassador, talks were held in a friendly atmosphere about topics of interest, in particular the expansion of cooperation between the two sides.

The delegation of the CSSR National Front, comprising representatives of social organizations of that country and led by the deputy chairman of the CSSR National Front Central Committee and chairman of the solidarity committee, have come to Kabul for a friendly visit at the invitation of the DRA NFF.

According to another report, the DRA NFF National Committee gave a dinner in honor of the delegation at the Intercontinental Hotel.

Members of the executive board of the NFF National Committee; Najmoddin Khawiani, official in charge of the organization department of the PDPA Central Committee; the secretary responsible for the NFF National Committee; and the CSSR ambassador in Kabul took part in the dinner.

AFP: MUNITIONS DUMP BLOWN UP BY REBELS

BK041648 Hong Kong AFP in English 1604 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] Islamabad, 4 May (AFP) -- A munitions dump blew up in a Soviet camp south of Kabul during a Moslem resistance attack early Saturday, a Western diplomatic source said here today.

Casualties and material damage could not be estimated, the source said, but after the Camp Kala-i-Kag explosion, heard in Kabul toward 4 a.m. local, a series of other explosions were heard for more than two hours.

The Afghan press blamed the blast on a mistake by a worker at the dump, but diplomatic (?sources said) it was the result of a "lucky shot" from a mujahidin rocket.

ERSHAD RETURNS FROM SAUDI ARABIA 4 MAY

BK041722 Dacca Domestic Service in English 1705 GMT 4 May 82

[Excerpt] Chief Martial Law Administrator [CMLA] Lt Gen H.M. Ershad has said that his visit to Saudi Arabia has been very fruitful and (?useful). The CMLA was talking to newsmen at the Zia International Airport on his return home tonight.

General Ershad said he apprised King Khalid of the national objective and the measures being taken to realize them.

The Saudi king highly appreciated the efforts of Bangladesh of reducing dependence on foreign aid and building itself into a self-reliant nation. King Khalid himself assured liberal Saudi assistance and cooperation in building Bangladesh a self-reliant country.

ADMINISTRATION REVIEW COMMITTEE ORGANIZED

BK031645 Dacca THE BANGLADESH OBSERVER in English 30 Apr 82 p 1

[Text] The chief martial law administrator [CMLA] has constituted a seven-member committee to examine the present system of civilian administration and recommend an appropriate and effective system of administration for the country, says a press information division handout issued on Thursday.

Headed by Rear Admiral M.A. Khan, DCMLA and adviser-in-charge of the Ministry of Communication, as its chairman, the committee comprises Mr A.Z.M. Obaidullah Khan, adviser-in-charge of the Ministry of Agriculture; Mr M.M. Zaman, secretary, Cabinet division; Brigadier Mahmudul Hasan, director of military operations, army headquarters; Dr Anisuzzaman, Prof. of public administration, Chittagong University; Mr. Maqsood Ali, director-general, national institute of public administration; and Dr. Shawkat Ali, member-director, Bangladesh agriculture development corporation, who will act as member-secretary of this committee.

The terms of reference of the committee will be —

(1) To review the structure and organization of the existing civilian administration with a view to identifying the inadequacies of the system for serving the people effectively; and

(2) To recommend an appropriate, sound and effective administrative system based on the spirit of development and the objective of taking the administration to the people.

If necessary, the committee will be able to co-opt other members and will submit its report by May 30, 1982.

FORMER DEPUTY PREMIER FOUND GUILTY OF CHARGES

BK010934 Dacca Domestic Service in Bengali 1700 GMT 30 Apr 82

[Text] The special martial law tribunal has found former Deputy Prime Minister Jamaluddin Ahmed guilty of charges in the third case brought against him under Clause 11 of Martial Law Regulation 1 and convicted and sentenced him to 7 years imprisonment with hard labor and to pay a fine of 1 million taka or in default to serve another 2 years of imprisonment with hard labor. The verdict was unanimous. The court heard the arguments of the prosecution and defense lawyers for about 5 hours.

Of the 10 persons involved in the case, Haji Salauddin and Safi Allam were found guilty and convicted. Haji Salauddin was sentenced to 4 years' imprisonment with hard labor and to pay a fine of 800,000 taka or in default to serve another 2 years of imprisonment with hard labor. Safi Allam was sentenced to 2 years' imprisonment with hard labor. The remaining eight persons were found not guilty and were acquitted.

[Text] India and China will hold discussions on bilateral matters, including the border issue, from the 17th of this month. The talks will continue till the 21st. This was disclosed by an official spokesman in New Delhi today. Talking to newsmen he said the Chinese delegation, led by their vice foreign minister, Fu Hao, will be arriving in New Delhi on the 15th. The Indian side to the talks will be led by Secretary in the External Affairs Ministry Eric Gonsalves.

Other subjects which are likely to come up during the discussions are trade and commerce, cultural relations and cooperation in science and technology. India's ambassador to China, K.S. Bajpai, is expected in New Delhi on the 9th of this month for consultation.

RAO INTERVIEWED ON REGIONAL, DOMESTIC ISSUES

PM041015 Algiers EL MOUDJAHID in French 23-24 Apr 82 p 12

[APS interview with External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao in New Delhi: "A Milestone in Bilateral Relations -- date not given]

[Text] New Delhi -- In a statement given to the APS special envoy, Indian External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao discussed Algerian-Indian relations, the development of South-South cooperation, the situation in the South Asian region, the situation in the Nonaligned Movement and the economic situation in India.

Questioned on what "impact President Chadli Bendjedid's visit to India will have on the future of political and economic relations between Algeria and India," the minister said in particular that:

"The Algerian president's visit promises to be a milestone in Algerian-Indian relations. It will give us the opportunity to further strengthen our relations and our similar views on many problems. Our efforts will also be aimed at exploring new paths for economic cooperation between the two countries.

"We are convinced that closer economic and technical cooperation between our developing countries would make a broad contribution to the solidarity and collective self-sufficiency of those countries. In that context it is useful to recall that the Indian initiative which made it possible to hold the recent New Delhi negotiations was supported by our Algerian friends. As regards bilateral relations, we are very optimistic about the positive result of our joint efforts with a view to strengthening and diversifying economic cooperation between our two countries.

Asked to describe the situation in the region and to explain the role which India is playing in safeguarding peace and security, the minister said:

South Asia is experiencing great difficulties, but there is reason for hope. The difficulties stem from the fact that the cold war has moved from Europe to our continent and also from the fact that the superpowers have increased their presence in the Indian Ocean. Hope rests in the fact that the countries in the region are actively seeking ways and means of strengthening their mutual cooperation. As for us, our relations with most of the countries in the region are excellent and characterized by cordiality, mutual respect and cooperation for the benefit of the countries concerned. We want to live in peace and friendship with all our neighbors.

"At the subregional level we are taking an active part in discussions on the promotion of cooperation among the countries in our region. This proposal has generally been well received, and it is now only a question of time before that type of cooperation is established by all the countries concerned: India, Pakistan, Nepal, Bhutan, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka and the Maldives. India is very optimistic on this subject.

On the Nonaligned Movement's situation and the way in which India views the forthcoming conference in Baghdad, the Indian minister stated:

"The Nonaligned Movement's importance is still increasing. It now comprises around 100 countries and, contrary to some allegations, has lost none of its vitality or raison d'etre since it is a voluntary union of various states. Although differences exist on some problems, they do not necessarily mean that the movement is weaker. Quite the reverse; there is a broad consensus on many crucially important questions. It is in that spirit that we view the movement's forthcoming conference."

Questioned on the economic difficulties which India is now experiencing and which are reflected in major social distortions, Mr Rao stated:

"We were one of the first countries in the world to undertake our country's economic development through a process of systematic planning. It is an experiment now regarded as a precondition for a country's economic liberation from the depredations of imperialism and neocolonialism, giving real meaning to political independence.

"We have succeeded in many spheres, although problems still remain. It would be surprising if that were not the case. Some problems still exist in all countries whatever their stage of development. Our success lies in the fact that India's grain production, for instance, is 139 million tons per year, in other words 4.5 times what it was when we achieved liberation in 1947.

"During 35 years of independence we have emerged as one of the 10 most industrialized countries in the world, with the third-largest reserve of skilled labor after the United States and the USSR. Life expectancy has doubled. The man in the street now knows by experience that he can improve his living conditions from year to year. No such hope existed during the colonial period.

"We are working actively to solve the problems which still exist. In that context the prime minister," the external affairs minister explained, "announced a new 20-point program 2 months ago aimed at emancipating all sections of Indian society, especially the most underprivileged, in the economic and social spheres. The process of planned development combined with this program is aimed at securing for the Indian people industrial development, social justice and political stability."

PURCHASE OF SOVIET MIG-27'S BEING CONSIDERED

BK041534 Hong Kong AFP in English 0832 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] New Delhi, 4 May (AFP) -- A leading Indian news magazine today confirmed reports that New Delhi was going for the Soviet MiG-27 advanced tactical strike aircraft for the country's air force. "INDIA TODAY" fortnightly said in its latest issue that a batch of Indian Air Force pilots, who had been flying the earlier version of MiG aircraft, were currently in the Soviet Union for a three-month training programme on the new aircraft.

The magazine quoted informed sources as saying the training was mainly on the MiG-27 Flogger-D aircraft.

"India may eventually settle for the MiG-27 which has the advantage of being able to operate from unprepared or under-prepared runways," the magazine added.

The Indian Defence Ministry refused to comment on the report.

The strike power of the 113,000-strong Indian Air Force is currently mainly based on various versions of MiG aircraft, in addition to the latest Jaguar deep penetration aircraft. The air force has over 620 combat aircraft. India also recently announced a multi-million dollar deal with France for the purchase of advanced Mirage-2000 aircraft.

HAQ STRESSES NEED FOR DEFENSIVE CAPABILITY

BK041126 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq has said it has always been the policy of Pakistan to extend its hand of friendship to its neighbors but it will not accept the supremacy or hegemony of any country. He was addressing the officers and troops at the installation ceremony of Lt Gen K.M. Arief as colonel commandant of the 11th Cavalry in Kharian Garrison this morning.

He said Pakistan believed that every country has the undeniable right to strengthen and consolidate its defense requirements. In fact, he said, this is the undisputed and sacred right of every sovereign country. The government is fully aware of this responsibility and, though its resources are limited, it is making every effort to meet the country's defense requirements in view of the changing conditions around Pakistan. He said it is a matter of satisfaction that hopeful developments have taken place in this behalf.

He said when we talk of increasing our defensive capability we obviously mean defending the territorial integrity of the country. Pakistan is a peace-loving country and wanted to live in an atmosphere of peace and tranquillity. He said Pakistan respects the independence and sovereignty of others and rightly expects that others would also abide by this principle by playing their role in maintaining peace in this region. He said Pakistan wished to have friendly relations on the basis of mutual respect and equality with all countries of the world and particularly with its neighbors.

The president said it has been our endeavor to spend all our resources for strengthening the national economy so that agriculture and industries promoted to enable us to improve the condition of our masses. For this purpose peace is inevitable and maintenance of peaceful condition must be backed by defensive capability. He said the government is making endeavors to achieve both the principles. But, he said, side by side with making efforts for peace we should always be ready for defense which is the biggest guarantee for peace.

Emphasizing the need for striving for perfection he said it is essential that with the acquisition of latest weapons we must also undergo intensive training and keep ourselves abreast of the scientific and technological progress in this field. He impressed upon the armed forces the need for continuous improvement in their professional efficiency as there is always room for improvement.

He said the nation had great confidence in the armed forces and they must be prepared to fulfill these expectations. For this purpose they must be prepared to make sacrifices in future as was done by them in the past.

Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq called upon the armed forces to transform their lives in accordance with the Islamic values and always abide by them.

The president reiterated that Islam is the religion of peace and according to this cardinal principle, Pakistan has made its solidarity and integrity as well as that of its neighbors as its basic policy.

INDIA ASKED TO PREVENT DISSEMINATION OF BOOK

FURTHER DETAILS ON CRASH OF ALGERIAN PLANE

Foreign Ministry Statement

LD041024 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0925 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] The Foreign Ministry made a second statement available to the Central News Unit:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Following the first statement released by the Foreign Ministry of the Islamic Republic of Iran concerning the tragic incident of the crash of a private plane carrying the Algerian foreign minister and his entourage, this is to announce that according to the tape recording made at Tabriz Airport's control tower with the Algerian pilot, and in accordance with a report by the investigative team from the Tabriz radar units, two Iraqi planes chased the Algerian plane in Turkish airspace near the Iranian border. The Tabriz control tower then instructed the plane to divert its route toward Ankara in order to avoid any attack by Iraqi fighters. The pilot then decided to change his flight. It was at this point that the connection between the control tower and the Algerian foreign minister's plane was cut off.

Immediately afterwards Iranian jet fighters chased the Iraqi planes. The tape and other evidence pointing to the plot hatched by the Baghdad criminal regime will be made available to the Algerian Government and nation as well as to world public opinion.

Furthermore, it was learned this morning that a Lufthansa passenger liner, flight No 600, flying at 37,000 feet, was attacked by Iraqi planes near the Turkish-Iranian border. Fortunately, having been alerted by the Tabriz control tower, the pilot of the passenger plane altered his route in time toward Ankara. Following the sortie by Iranian jet fighters, the Iraqi attackers were forced to flee.

The big crime of shooting down the plane carrying the Algerian foreign minister and his entourage, who were coming to Iran at the official invitation of our country in order to expand bilateral relations, once again exposes the criminal and ostensibly peace-loving face of Saddam to the world; it proves to the world that Saddam's [so-called] peace offensive is nothing but deception.

This savage and mad attack, launched in reprisal for the recent disgraceful defeats suffered by the Iraqi forces on the southern borders, once again showed the violent nature of the Ba'thist Baghdad regime against the supporters of Iran's just stance.

We assure the Algerian Government and nation that we shall avenge this shedding of the innocent blood of our Muslim Algerian brethren by the infidel Saddam.

Moreover, considering this irreparable crime committed by the Saddam regime and the attack launched by the Iraqi fighters on the Lufthansa passenger aircraft in Turkish airspace, we call on our Muslim and neighboring country of Turkey to condemn such savage acts which are taking place contrary to all human and international principles, and exert all its efforts to provide security for civilian and passenger aircraft flying to Iran.

'Azizi on Investigation

LD041918 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] Deputy Foreign Minister Ahmad 'Azizi, who had gone to Urumiyeh to study how Iraqi fighter planes attacked the civilian plane carrying the Algerian foreign minister and his entourage, returned to Tehran this afternoon.

Our colleague from the Voice and Vision of the Islamic Republic of Iran in Urumiyeh has sent us a report to which we draw your attention:

[Begin recording] [Correspondent] Mr 'Azizi, deputy foreign minister of the Islamic Republic of Iran, who went to Urumiyeh this morning at the head of a team of Iranian experts, accompanied by the ambassadors from the Muslim and friendly countries of Algeria, Syria and Libya, in order to investigate the downing by encroaching Iraqi aircraft of the plane carrying the Algerian foreign minister and an accompanying delegation, returned to Tehran this afternoon with those accompanying him.

Before leaving Urumiyeh the deputy foreign minister related his observations of the place where the accident took place and told the correspondent of the Central News Unit in Urumiyeh [passage indistinct].

[Correspondent] How many were in the plane?

['Azizi] There were definitely 14 people in the plane. The names announced by Algerian Government officials included the foreign minister of that country, a few directors general of the Foreign Ministry of that country and a number of officials from the Oil and Commerce Ministries as well as some from the news agencies of that country.

[Correspondent] Have Algerian sources been involved in the investigations, and will these investigations continue and (?which groups will be involved in this investigation)?

['Azizi] Experts are busy investigating the various aspects. The investigation is still in the preliminary stage. The issue will be investigated by teams of experts and probably some delegations will be sent to Iran, so that they can also see the dimensions of this crime and investigate the way this accident took place and present it to the Algerian people. The Algerian ambassador and the ambassadors of the friendly countries of Libya and Syria came and were informed of the investigations. [end recording]

Khamene'i Sends Condolences

LD041942 Tehran IRNA in English 1631 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 4 May (IRNA) -- President Khamene'i today cabled a message of condolences to President Chadli Bendjedid of Algeria, on the occasion of martyrdom of the Algerian foreign minister, Mohamed Ben Yahia and a number of other high ranking Algerian officials, in a plane crash near the Iran-Turkey border on Monday night. The Algerian mission was on the way to Tehran on Monday night when the plane carrying them was attacked by two Iraqi planes.

In his message the president of the Islamic Republic of Iran said that he received with deep sorrow the news of the crash of the plane carrying Mohammad Ben Yahia and his companions who were coming to Iran as a humanitarian effort for the sake of peace. The air pirates who deceitfully were talking about peace, in revenge for their defeat in the war, directed their attacks on the defenseless passengers of a plane which belonged to a progressive Arab Muslim country carrying the message of peace and reconciliation, he added.

The president further said that with this flagrant violation against the international security, the criminal nature of the Iraqi regime and the baselessness of Iraqi claims (?to defend) the Arab cause and peace, became clear. This was a bitter and sorrowful incident which had taken place with the intention of creating a state of fear and insecurity in the world, and it was the duty of all freedom-lovers in the world to condemn those behind it, he stressed.

At the end of his message, President Khamene'i on his own behalf and on behalf of the government and the Muslim nation of Iran, expressed his condolences on this great disaster to President Bendjedid, the revolutionary Government and nation of Algeria and especially the families of the wronged victims of this incident.

Meanwhile, the governor of the Central Bank of Iran, Mohsen Nurbakhsh, sent a message of condolences to his Algerian counterpart on the same occasion.

Musavi Sends Condolences

LD041214 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, following the crash of the plane carrying Algerian Foreign Minister Mohamed Seddik Ben Yahia, which resulted in the martyrdom of the foreign minister and his entourage, the following message of condolence was sent by Prime Minister Musavi:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. It is with deep regret and sorrow that the martyrdom of our eminent brother Mohamed Seddik Ben Yahia, the Algerian foreign minister, and of his entourage is announced following the crash of his plane. The dear brother's efforts and struggles for the liberation of the Algerian people from French colonial domination have proved very valuable. The course of his active life was marked by his attempts to strengthen fraternal relations between the Algerian and Iranian peoples. He lost his life while heading for our country as a result of a dastardly plot hatched by the criminals ruling Iraq.

No doubt, his pure blood and that of his entourage will create a firm bond between the two Muslim and fraternal Algerian and Iranian nations which will result in the disgrace of the lackeys of the big powers throughout the world. Our government and nation will certainly avenge most severely the pure blood of this noble son of Algeria. On behalf of the Islamic Republic's Government and of the Iranian nation, I express my profound condolences and sympathies to the Algerian Government and people and declare a 3-day public mourning period as of tomorrow, Wednesday, 5 May 1982, until Friday, 7 May 1982, to commemorate his and his entourage's martyrdom.

I pray to God Almighty for him and for all Islamic martyrs.

[Signed] Prime Minister of the Islamic Republic of Iran Mir-Hoseyn Musavi

MUSAVI SUBMITS 'IMPORTANT' REPORT TO KHOMEYNI

GF040945 Tehran International Service in Arabic 0900 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] During his meeting today with Imam Khomeyni, the leader of the revolution and founder of the Islamic Republic, Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi submitted to his eminence an important report on current issues in the country.

KHOMEYNI ADDRESSES WORKERS ON LABOR DAY

LD011846 [Editorial Report] Tehran Domestic Service in Persian at 1030 GMT on 1 May carried a report on an audience granted by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni to a "group of workers" on the occasion of Labor Day, 1 May, and a 43-minute recorded speech by Ayatollah Khomeyni at the meeting, poorly monitored due to accoustics.

Khomeyni begins by congratulating all workers on Labor Day and says that the Prophet Mohammad had great respect for workers.

In his speech he asks how long will workers be dependent on America or the Soviet Union and says that we must instill ourselves with the idea that we are self-sufficient and independent.

He says that workers should compare the communist countries' attitude to workers with the attitude of Islam to workers. Khomeyni says that the communist countries treat workers like animals and feed them like animals, and that the capitalist countries deceive the workers.

Khomeyni concludes by citing the virtues of the martyred Ayatollah Motahhari.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 882

LD041926 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 4 May 82

[Communique 882 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. While offering congratulations on the occasion of the birthday of the ninth Shi'ite imam, Mohammad Taqi, may peace be upon him, we bring to your attention part of the results of operations carried out by the combatants of Islam:

On the vast bloodstained plain of Khuzestan, the brave combatants of the monotheistic front continue firing at the Saddamist invaders' positions and crushing their last resistance. All units taking part in the victorious Jerusalem operations, while guarding and consolidating their own positions, are carrying out mopping-up operations in the newly recaptured sectors. Our forces are continuing the task of collecting and evacuating arms and equipment captured as booty; and while maintaining their domination and superiority, our forces are vigilantly defending their own positions.

Today, too, fighter planes of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran guarded the airspace of the operational sectors and, while providing air cover for our combative ground forces, helped their victorious brothers and downed two more aggressive Iraqi planes in the southern sector of Abadan at 1503 and 1539.

Our fighter planes also bombed an enemy concentration point in (Fakkeh) at 1800.

Exchange of fire continued on various western fronts of the country. The following blows were delivered at the enemy during the past 24 hours:

On the Gilan-e Gharb and Sar-e Pol-e Zahab axes, zealous tribal warriors, while guarding the sectors under their own protection, opened fire on enemy positions and destroyed seven heavy vehicles, one command jeep and one fuel tanker of the Iraqi troops.

Our combative units on one of the western fronts succeeded in destroying one tank, three vehicles, several piles of equipment and one command post of the enemy. At least 50 Saddamists were either killed or wounded.

Exchange of artillery and mortar fire continued in the Meymak, Gilan-e Gharb and Ilam sectors. Several enemy tanks and vehicles, one artillery piece, one machinegun and several trenches and observation posts were set on fire and destroyed in these sectors. The invaders were prevented from moving any supplies or troops. Several Iraqis were killed.

In the Biarreh and (Kani Skan) sectors, artillery fire of the Ground Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran silenced enemy fire and destroyed one enemy tank, one drilling machine, one vehicle and several trenches. One enemy mortar was also damaged.

In the Toveyleh sector, one vehicle and some ammunition of the Saddamists were destroyed.

IRAQI COMMANDER, 300 SOLDIERS KILLED

LD041110 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 4 May 82

[Excerpt] According to Central News Unit correspondents dispatched to the southern fronts, captured Iraqi soldiers and officers report that Col Muhammad Alwan, commander of the Qadisiyah Battalion of the 12th Armored Brigade of the 3rd Division of the Ba'thist regime of Iraq, was killed 2 days ago on the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr road, following the audacious operations of the combative brothers.

According to the same report, during the operations of the past few days on the Hoseyniyeh station axis, the 300 personnel of a mechanized battalion from the 12th Brigade were all killed.

IRAQI POSITIONS AROUND KHORRAMSHAHR BOMBED

LD042016 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] Dear listeners: Please pay attention to a report which we have just received: Eight of the high-flying eagles of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran at 1800 today, during some coordinated and daring operations, brought the enemy positions, fortifications and armored equipment around Khorramshahr under heavy bombardment.

According to the IRNA correspondent's report, transmitted from the region only a few moments after this operation, the smoke resulting from repeated explosions of enemy equipment can be seen from a long way off.

According to the same report, the self-sacrificing personnel of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran, who during their triumphant Jerusalem operations repeatedly smashed the positions of the impotent enemy, have safely returned to their bases.

AFP: FORCES BREAK THROUGH IRAQI LINES

NC051139 Paris AFP in English 1124 GMT 5 May 82

[By Bernard Estrade]

[Text] Ahvaz, southern Iran, 5 May (AFP) -- Iranian forces have broken Iraqi lines along 25 kms (16 miles) of the southern front in oil rich Khuzestan Province and set up advance positions along vacated Iraqi barricades along the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr road.

Yesterday, the fifth day of the "holy city" offensive on the southern front, Iranian troops crossed the Karun River to the road -- the only north-south route through marshy ground -- virtually splitting the Iraqi front.

A senior Iranian officer told foreign correspondents touring the battle front that the Iraqis counter-attacked yesterday but that "all their efforts were in vain".

The five-metre (yard) barricades captured from the Iraqis are about halfway between Ahvaz and Khuninshahr (formerly Khorramshahr).

A general staff major said at a briefing that Iranian forces now controlled the road "from kilometre 60 to kilometre 110."

He said the first stage of operation holy city had freed some 800 square kms (some 300 sq. miles) between the Karun -- formerly the front line -- and the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr road.

The major said that yesterday's advance cut right through Iraqi forces, some 60,000 men in seven divisions.

This correspondent saw two Iranian bridges across the Karun, but an officer said that "five or six" had been slung across the river, bringing supplies and reinforcements to the new Iranian front line.

In the regained stretch, for some 10 kms (six miles) west of the river, Iranian forces have set up ammunition and fuel dumps. Armoured and mechanized infantry units are sheltered in the rare clumps of vegetation, while the tips of heavy artillery pieces showed over earth ramparts.

Fighting was intense late yesterday morning, but hundreds of Iranian soldiers were visible on the abandoned Iraqi ramparts, seemingly unconcerned by heavy Iraqi fire.

One Iranian officer told the correspondents that only one km away (less than a mile) five or six Soviet-built T-62 tanks captured from the Iraqis awaited orders to advance.

The feeling at the front was that this offensive will be a long one. "This time we are going to finish the Iraqi Army", one colonel pledged.

IRNA INTERVIEWS 'HIGH-RANKING' IRAQI POW

LD042346 Tehran IRNA in English 1626 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] Ahvaz, 2 May (IRNA) -- One of the high ranking Iraqi commanders recently captured by the Islamic combatants on the Tarrah front today when interviewed by IRNA said that Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Kuwait and other reactionary countries of the region produced aid for damping the economic crisis overwhelming in Iraq [as received]. He also said that the Iraqi Army was expecting the upcoming offensive of the Islamic forces, being well equipped in this respect. However, in the first hours of the offensive it sustained heavy blows in which many were killed or wounded. Hinting at the abortive attempts of the Iraqi regime in this war, he said that the commander in chief of the Iraqi Army and the head of the Iraqi information office inspected this unit trying to give morale to soldiers while they themselves lacked it.

The Iraqi commander asked not to be identified since his relatives might be in danger in Iraq also said that though there were no foreign soldiers in his unit, but he had seen a 400-man Egyptian unit, settled in Khuninshahr. [sentence as received]

Another Iraqi captured in the recent operation, a sergeant major called Jassam Ahmad, also interviewed by IRNA, expressed his satisfaction for being captured by the Islamic forces. He also said that he had intended to surrender himself to the Islamic army beforehand. While he was leaving his relatives, his brother wished him to be captured by the Islamic combatants, he added.

OIL RESOURCES DISCUSSED AT CABINET SESSION

LD021734 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 2 May 82

[Excerpts] The Central News Unit reports that the Cabinet of the Islamic Republic of Iran held a session this morning.

During today's Cabinet session Petroleum Minister Mr Gharazi stressed the need to support the world oppressed, saying: The world devourers, who have been frightened by the fatal blows dealt by the Islamic revolution to the corrupt bodies of their agents in the region, are trying to show that Iran would turn off the oil taps for the world and would destroy the world industries, whereas we do not say this.

The petroleum minister added: The Islamic revolution considers itself obliged to place its resources, that is, its oil resources, at the disposal of the oppressed nations of the world. In this connection he made a few proposals.

MINISTRY OFFICIAL ON OIL, GAS EXPLORATION

LD041426 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 4 May 82

[Interview with Mr Kheramand, deputy minister of petroleum; date and place not given -- recorded]

[Excerpts] [Question] Iran's Ministry of Petroleum has announced that new excavations have led to the discovery of new gas deposits in Sarakhs in northeast Khorasan. More important, Iranian experts have started trial operations on the new deposits without any help from foreigners. Mr Kheramand, the deputy minister of petroleum, is here. I now ask him to give us some explanations about the new excavations.

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. In connection with the excavation and production of petroleum products, the Ministry of Petroleum's (?new) policy is basically to make priority use of joint border oilfields, whether they are onshore or off. For this reason, the ministry experts are doing certain work in the Persian Gulf. This activity on oil and gasfields has also been carried out on land.

A gasfield has been discovered in Sarakhs. It is called the Kangiran field, and an (?adjacent) field has recently been added to it. As was stated previously, this field is in the exploratory stages, but the (?information) received so far is satisfactory and encouraging. (?The upper layer) of this deposit is sulphur-free gas with a capacity of about 40 million cubic feet per day. This gas could be used for industrial purposes and for gas conversion in Mashhad and its suburbs, in neighboring provinces such as Mazandaran, and especially for the Neka powerplant. For the compatriots' further information, I will say that a refinery will supply the Neka powerplant with gas and the discovery of this [word indistinct] field would give more credibility to the plan and would give the necessary guarantee for the expansion of industries -- that is, the industries could use these gas resources.

[Question] It has been said that Iran has one of the largest gas deposits in the world. Would you give us some statistics on this matter?

[Answer] It is perfectly true. Our country has the second largest gas resources in the world. We have 400 to 450 trillion cubic feet of proven gas resources. I would say that this country is in a very favorable position as far as oil resources are concerned. There are 50 to 60 billion barrels of proven oil resources in the country.

[Correspondent] Thank you.

GHARAZI ON TURKEY GAS PIPELINE PROJECT

NC031522 Paris AFP in English 1459 GMT 3 May 82

[Excerpt] Paris, 3 May (AFP) -- Iran has enough reserves of natural gas for several big export projects including the building of gas pipeline through Turkey to Europe, according to Iranian Oil Minister Mohammad Gharazi.

In an interview published in the latest issue of the specialist magazine ARAB OIL AND GAS, Mr Gharazi said the proposed pipeline had been specifically mentioned in a recent oil and gas accord signed by Iran and Turkey.

He added in the interview that Iran had not agreed to its oil production limit of 1.2 million barrels a day set at the special meeting of the Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) in Vienna in March.

Mr Gharazi said all countries were potential oil clients of Tehran except for the United States, South Africa, the Philippines and Israel. He added that eastern bloc countries had boosted their trade with Iran since the Iranian revolution.

LIBYAN TEAM ARRIVES TO SELECT OIL EXPERTS

LD031158 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 3 May 82

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that a five-man Libyan delegation has arrived in Tehran to choose the Iranian oil experts who have volunteered to be sent to Libya.

Members of the Libyan delegation will negotiate in Tehran with 180 Iranian oil industry experts and specialists who have declared their readiness to help the Libyan oil industry in defiance of U.S. conspiracies and of the American oil companies. Those who are needed in Libya will be chosen.

The report states that Iran has already sent a team of senior oil industry experts to Libya in order to identify Libya's needs for oil specialists and experts. They have carried out studies and held talks with Libyan officials to prepare for the dispatch of the required Iranian specialists and experts to Libya.

Referring to Iran's long record in the oil industry, the Iranian Oil Ministry officials announced that the Islamic Republic of Iran is able to help Libya and any Muslim and friendly oil-producing country requiring Iranian experts.

NEW MINISTRY OF HEAVY INDUSTRIES ESTABLISHED

LD032310 Tehran IRNA in English 1555 GMT 3 May 82

[Text] Esfahan, 3 May (IRNA) -- By the establishment of the Ministry of Heavy Industries, these industries would no longer be part of the Ministry of Mines and Industries, said the minister of labour and social affairs, Ahmad Tavakkoli, here. He further added that the law for the formation of the new ministry has been approved by the Majlis and the Council of Guardians. Tavakkoli, who is also the government spokesman, hoped that the creation of the ministry would provide opportunities for a better use of human resources. If necessary, assistance would be sought from those countries which were in harmony with the general policies of the Islamic Republic of Iran, which assistance would not result in any political side-effects, he said.

Tavakkoli, who was interviewed by IRNA today, praised efforts of the committed Iranian workers, technicians, engineers who all have been striving towards increasing the production level in the factories and decreasing ties of dependence on foreign countries. For instance, as a result of efforts of the Iranian Muslim workers, he said, the parts for the Esfahan cement factory which used to be repaired by West German workers were now being repaired by the Iranian staff of the factory.

IRNA CITES SOVIET OFFICER ON LOSSES IN DRA

LD291754 Tehran IRNA in English 1724 GMT 29 Apr 82

[Text] Quetta, Pakistan, 29 Apr (IRNA) -- Over 25 Soviet MiG's and 13 helicopters have been smashed in 3 attacks launched by Afghan mujahidin on the Baghram airbase, northern Kabul. Stating this, Captain Aleksandr Petrovich, the commander of one of the tank units of the Soviet Army in Afghanistan captured by the Muslim mujahidin, added that he was commanding 25 tanks at the time of the attack and 80 of his soldiers were killed by the mujahidin.

He stressed that there currently exists some chaos in the Soviet Army stationed in Afghanistan, attributing it to the lack of incentive on the part of Soviet troops to go to Afghanistan.

Iran-Iraq

Iraqi forces succeeded in destroying Iran's forward defense lines in the (Taheri)-(Halub) bridge area, according to a military communique carried by INA. Iranian forces were forced to retreat and suffered heavy casualties and equipment losses, it added. In other action, a military spokesman announced that an Iranian plane had been shot down in a dogfight with an Iraqi plane in the southern sector, Baghdad Voice of the Masses reported.

Iraqi troops were forced to retreat in the area west of the Karun River following a "last ditch" attack on Iranian forces, leaving behind a large number of dead and wounded, Tehran radio reported. Iranian troops continued to reinforce their positions in this area, the radio said. According to AFP, Iranian forces have broken Iraqi lines along 16 miles of the southern front in Khuzestan Province and have set up advance positions along the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr road. Iranian troops repelled a 14-hour counterattack in Garm Dasht resulting in heavy Iraqi casualties, IRNA reported. An Iraqi offensive in the Hoseyniyeh area was completely smashed and Iraqi forces in Fakkeh suffered heavy casualties from Iranian air attacks, according to a military communique carried by Tehran radio.

Iraqi forces are currently using Soviet-made MiG-25 planes and T-72 tanks on the fronts, IRNA reported citing Guards Corps Commander Mohsen Reza'i.

Iran

All the leaders and members of the Peykar organization in Bandar-e 'Abbas have been arrested and jailed, Bandar-e 'Abbas radio reported. Over 40 people were arrested and 7 safe houses were discovered during an operation by the Guards Corps. In Tehran, the Mojahedin-e Khalq attacked the office of the imam's relief committee killing five staff members and wounding several others, Tehran radio reported.

Israel

West Bank, Gaza Situation -- Four West Bank youths were killed when a mine they were handling exploded, according to Jerusalem television. Meanwhile, the 12-year-old girl from the 'Arrub refugee camp who was wounded by an Israeli civilian on 2 May died in the hospital, Jerusalem radio reported. Two youths from the Jabalyah refugee camp in Gaza were injured when IDF soldiers fired at demonstrators. ITIM reported disturbances in various parts of east Jerusalem.

Autonomy Negotiations -- Prime Minister Menahem Begin told World Jewish Congress representatives that the autonomy talks must be held in Washington, Jerusalem and Cairo and whoever opposes holding the talks in Jerusalem will shoulder the responsibility, Jerusalem radio reported. If the talks are not held in Jerusalem, then they will not be held at all, he affirmed. U.S. representative to the autonomy talks Richard Fairbanks will arrive in Israel and Egypt next week in an attempt to settle Israeli-Egyptian differences over the location of the talks, the radio noted.

Egypt

Opposition to Settlements -- Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali told an EC delegation headed by EC President Leo Tindemans that the establishment of Israeli settlements in the occupied Arab territories is illegal, contravenes all international conventions, is null and void and constitutes a breach of the Camp David accords, MENA reported.

Tabah Dispute -- noting the return to Cairo of the Egyptian delegation which has been holding talks with Israeli officials on the Tabah border dispute, MENA said the two sides have agreed to go ahead with negotiations to reach agreement. Meanwhile, Foreign Minister 'Ali gave the Israeli ambassador a message for Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhaq Shamir on the application of the peace treaty to the demarcation of disputed border areas, according to Cairo radio.

Relations With Arab World -- Although the Israeli paper MA'ARIV reported that Morocco had decided to appoint an ambassador to Egypt, INA quoted Moroccan Minister of State for Foreign Affairs M'hamed Boucetta as saying that the issue of restoring relations with Egypt is an Arab issue requiring an Arab decision. Boucetta said his forthcoming visit to Egypt is within the framework of the OAU and has nothing to do with restoring relations between Morocco and Egypt. Arab diplomatic sources in Rabat likewise revealed that no Arab state will unilaterally resume relations with Egypt, according to KUNA.

President Husni Mubarak and Foreign Minister 'Ali left on a visit to Khartoum for talks with Sudanese President Ja'far Numayri, MENA reported.

Jordan

The fact that Egypt has not given up any Arab territory during its efforts to regain the Sinai is to its credit and is an example and principle which must be applied to all occupied Arab territory, King Husayn said in an interview with AL-AHRAM cited by MENA. The king expressed the hope that Egypt will constitute the heart of the Arab world as it has always done. Husayn said Egyptian President Mubarak represents the great hope for the future of Egypt, the Arab world and the unified Arab march. He noted that the initiatives and measures Mubarak has adopted since assuming office were those only a "genuine Arab" could take. Calling Egypt's aid to Iraq in its war with Iran a noble Arab stand, Husayn said the Iraqi Government has sent an invitation to Egypt and Mubarak to attend the nonaligned summit conference in Baghdad in September.

Saudi Arabia

Saudi Arabia will adhere to its policy of diversifying its arms sources and will not confine its arms procurement to one country, Defense and Aviation Minister Prince Sultan ibn 'Abd al-'Aziz declared in a statement to AL-YAMAMAH cited by SPA. Commenting on the AWACS deal, the defense minister said Saudi Arabia would continue to use the four AWACS now in the country on a lease-only basis. He said these aircraft will not form part of the aircraft deal sought by the kingdom because they are not as sophisticated as the ones agreed upon in the deal.

In response to a question on the fate of the Tiran and Sanafir Islands, Prince Sultan said in an interview cited by SPA that the two islands are on loan to Egypt and their return to Saudi Arabia is a matter which concerns the Saudi Government.

PDRY-YAR Relations

PDRY leader 'Ali Nasir Muhammad arrived in Ta'izz for talks with YAR President Col 'Ali 'Abdallah Salih, San'a' radio reported. Colonel Salih said the main aim of the meeting was to discuss the security, peace and stability of the Yemen, which is a pressing demand of the Yemeni people, especially since the regime is in a state of tension.

The meeting follows further reports of fighting between YAR Government troops and rebels of the PDRY-backed National Democratic Front (NDF). YAR troops recently launched a major offensive against the NDF, killing large numbers of rebels, AFP reported, while a 2 May NDF communique said government forces had lost eight tanks in the fighting.

TROOPS REENLIST AT DISCHARGE CEREMONIES

LD060626 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 5 May 82

[Text] A meeting was held today in Kabul operational battalion command to encourage and appreciate the troops of the above battalion.

The chief commander of revolution defense, political head of this command, commander and deputy political head of the operational battalion spoke at this meeting on the lofty objectives of the April Revolution.

Speaking on behalf of the operational battalion troops who have succeeded in obtaining discharge certificates, Mera-Jan, a volunteer soldier, then spoke and expressed every readiness to defend the gains of the April Revolution.

According to another report discharge certificates were given today and yesterday to those sarandoy troops of Kabul International Airport and the third security ward of Kabul city who had completed the term of the sacred military service.

The sarandoy commander of Kabul airport and head of the third security ward spoke at this meeting about the role of the patriotic youth for the defense of the homeland and revolution and wishes the success of the conscious and patriotic youth for the realization of the objectives of the party and government.

The BAKHTAR correspondent adds that gifts were also given to the troops along with discharge certificates.

A number of the troops of Kabul Airport and the third security ward of Kabul city volunteered not to accept discharge certificate until the hand of the traitors to the homeland and revolution is cut off from the revolutionary Afghanistan.

Those troops of sarandoy command, Fariab Province, whose term of military service has been completed, have also received their discharge certificates in the course of a ceremony.

The sarandoy commander of Fariab Province and the political head of this command shed light at this meeting on the role of brave soldiers for safeguarding security and gains of the April Revolution, in particular its new development stage, and wished them success in realizing the lofty objectives of the party and government.

The ceremony ended by giving gifts and discharge certificates to the troops of sarandoy command.

According to another report, those troops of sarandoy command and operational battalion of Ghowr, Baghlan and Kapisa Provinces who have completed term of the sacred military service -- 2 and 1/2 years or more -- were discharged in the course of separate meetings where gifts were also given to them.

In the meetings which were held on this occasion in the sarandoy command headquarters of Ghowr, Baghlan and Kapisa Provinces, a number of soldiers recalled with appreciation the bravery and heroism of those troops of the above provinces who, during the term of their service, have displayed heroism against the enemies of the homeland and defense of the national and democratic April Revolution, in particular its new development stage, and wished further victories for these conscious youth for the prosperity and well-being of the toiling people of the county and construction of the flourishing society in the revolutionary Afghanistan.

According to the reports of the above provinces' sarandoy commands, a number of these brave and courageous troops who have successfully completed their term of military service once again volunteered not to lay down their weapons until the complete elimination of the counterrevolutionary bands and to continue the sacred military service in their respective units.

COMMUNIQUE ISSUED ON ALGERIAN PRESIDENT'S VISIT

PM051541 Algiers EL MOUDJAHID in French 26 Apr 82 p 12

[APS report: "Need To Strengthen Collective Autonomy Among Developing Countries"]

[Text] Algiers -- At the end of the 4-day official visit to India by President Chadli Bendjedid, president of the republic and secretary general of the FLN [National Liberation Front] Party, an Algerian-Indian joint communique was issued yesterday, the text of which is as follows:

At the invitation of Mr Neelam Sanjiva Reddy, president of the Republic of India, Mr Chadli Bendjedid, president of the Democratic and Popular Republic of Algeria, made an official visit of friendship to India from 22 through 25 April 1982.

President Chadli Bendjedid's talks with President Reddy and Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi took place in a warm and cordial atmosphere which illustrates the ties of deep friendship and solidarity which unite the Algerian and Indian peoples and reflects the two countries' common attachment to the ideals of freedom, justice and peace.

These talks were attended on the Algerian side by: Mr Mohamed Ben Yahia, Political Bureau member and foreign minister; Mr Sliman Hoffman, Central Committee member and chairman of the party's External Relations Commission; Mr Saleh Goudjil, Central Committee member and minister of transportation and fishing; Mr Abdelhamid Brahimi, Central Committee member and minister of planning and national development; and on the Indian side by: External Affairs Minister P.V. Narasimha Rao, Planning Minister and Planning Commission Vice Chairman S.B. Chavan and Parliamentary Affairs Minister Bhisma Narain Singh.

During these talks the two sides made a close examination of bilateral relations between the two countries and had a detailed exchange of views on the international situation. In examining bilateral relations the two sides noted with satisfaction the constant development of their economic cooperation.

Exemplary Cooperation

They agreed to step up and diversify their trade by encouraging the signing of long-term agreements on the basis of mutual interest and reciprocal advantage. They affirmed their determination to strengthen their cooperation on a stable and lasting basis in the economic, industrial, scientific and technical spheres and especially in the transfer of technology.

The two sides agreed to make every effort to give their bilateral relations an exemplary character, which confirms their desire to promote cooperation among the developing countries based on solidarity in keeping with the principles and objectives of South-South cooperation. In that context they adopted a joint statement on the development of economic cooperation between Algeria and India.

In carrying out a detailed analysis of the international situation, the two sides noted that the aggravation of international tension stems from the growing use in international relations of the policy of force in all its forms which is demonstrated in opposition to the completion of the decolonization process, persistence in denying peoples under colonial and foreign domination their inalienable right to determine their future, and in the resumption of imperialism's activity, the rising spiral of the arms race, the search for spheres of influence and domination, the growing use of the policies of interference and intervention, the stepping up of bloc rivalry, the reactivation of military bases and new strategic arrangements.

Strengthening the Nonaligned Countries' Cohesion

The two sides express their conviction that tensions can only be eased by transforming and democratizing all international relations. They stress the vitality of nonalignment which, as an autonomous factor outside the blocs, continues to be a more essential and irreplaceable element of international life than ever.

They also stress that the Nonaligned Movement can only fully fulfill its responsibilities by continuing to play its role in the liberation of peoples, the consolidation of national independence, the promotion of equitable international cooperation, the establishment of real peace and security in the world, the democratization of international relations and the advent of a new international economic order.

They express their conviction that the new concept of international relations inherent in nonalignment is still the only alternative to the state of world crisis.

The two sides stress the Nonaligned Movement's need to increase its cohesion, its solidarity and its capacity for action in order to assume its historic mission.

The two sides reaffirmed their determination to work relentlessly together with the other nonaligned countries and on the basis of strict respect for the principles and objectives of the nonalignment policy to ensure that the movement can make a decisive contribution to settling international problems.

The two sides express their desire to continue, in keeping with the Havana summit decisions, to make efforts in the framework of preparations for the seventh nonaligned countries' summit and stress the need to ensure that conference's success.

The two sides particularly stressed the need to mobilize the nonaligned countries in the struggle against colonialism, neocolonialism, racism and apartheid and they reaffirm their full and complete solidarity with peoples under colonial and foreign domination in their legitimate struggle to attain their rights to self-determination and independence.

Full Support for the Palestinian and Saharan Peoples

The two sides examined the Middle East question and expressed their concern at the dangerous situation prevailing in the region as a result of the persistence of the Zionist entity's policy of aggression which they strongly condemn.

They stress that the Palestinian problem is at the heart of the Middle East crisis and reaffirm that no just and lasting settlement can be achieved without the PLO's full and complete participation and without complete withdrawal of the Zionist occupation forces from all the occupied territories, including Jerusalem.

They reaffirm their full support for and complete solidarity with the Palestinian people who are struggling under the leadership of the PLO, their sole legitimate representative, for the restoration of their inalienable rights, including the right to create a Palestinian state.

The two sides examined the situation in southern Africa and reaffirmed their support for the peoples of the region in their struggle to destroy colonialism and oppose apartheid.

They reaffirmed their full support for the Namibian people struggling under the leadership of the South-West African People's Organization -- their sole legitimate representative -- to attain their inalienable right to self-determination, freedom and independence. They strongly condemned the Pretoria regime's persistent acts of armed aggression against the frontline states.

With regard to the West Sahara, the two sides stress that the solution to that problem should be based on the West Saharan people's exercise of their right to self-determination in keeping with the UN, OAU and Nonaligned Movement's resolutions.

For a Detente Policy

The two sides expressed their great concern at the constantly growing escalation of the superpowers' military presence in the Indian Ocean region despite the will expressed by the states bordering on the Indian Ocean and the states in the hinterland. They expressed the view that such demonstrations of large-scale military presence by the superpowers and the acquisition of new facilities and the strengthening of the Diego Garcia base aggravate local tensions and are likely to lead to new conflicts. They reiterated the need to step up efforts to rapidly implement the declaration on the Indian Ocean as a zone of peace in keeping with the UN General Assembly [UNGA] resolution.

The two sides examined the situation in the Mediterranean and expressed their concern at the aggravation of tensions and the redeployment of forces foreign to the region which threatens the security and independence of the Mediterranean countries. They stress the need to urgently make as much effort as possible to overcome this situation and turn the Mediterranean into a zone of peace and cooperation.

The two sides stress the need for a policy of detente and of easing international tension to have an international and global character so as to cover all regions of the world and all aspects of international relations.

They expressed their grave concern at the stepping up of the arms race which is a serious threat to international peace and security. They particularly stressed the importance of the second extraordinary UNGA session called on the initiative of the nonaligned countries and the need to try to promote initiatives and proposals by the nonaligned countries for the success of that session and the start of a real disarmament process.

The two sides had a detailed exchange of views on the state of international economic relations and expressed their concern at the continued lack of progress.

They deplore the lack of political will in the industrial countries for the establishment of a new international economic order. In that respect they stress the urgent need to launch global negotiations.

The two sides particularly stressed the need to strengthen collective autonomy among the developing countries. In this context President Chadli Bendjedid expressed his appreciation of the Indian prime minister's initiative on the developing countries' New Delhi meeting and the positive results of their consultations.

The two sides welcomed the results of the visit which took place in an atmosphere of friendship, mutual respect and understanding. The two sides noted that the visit is a new and major contribution to the continued promotion of relations and cooperation between the two countries at all levels.

The two sides noted that their talks confirmed broadly identical views on the questions examined. They asserted their desire to further develop cooperation between the two countries at the bilateral and international levels, in particular in the framework of the Nonaligned Movement. The Algerian side expressed its deep gratitude to the Indian Government and people for the warm welcome and friendly hospitality shown to it during its visit to India.

The president of the Democratic and Popular Republic of Algeria invited the Indian president and prime minister to make an official visit to Algeria. Those invitations were accepted with pleasure and the dates will be fixed later through diplomatic channels.

HAQ ON ELECTIONS, DOMESTIC 'DIFFICULTIES'

BK051027 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 5 May 82

[Text] Talking to newsmen on arrival in Lahore this morning, the president said the government was examining various possibilities for holding the elections in the country.

In reply to a question as to whether the elections would be held on a non-party basis, he said he was not yet in a position to give out the decision of the government. They were currently examining various possibilities.

Asked whether the possibility of holding elections on a non-party basis also existed, the president replied in the affirmative and said it was very much a possibility.

President Mohammad Ziaul Haq described the law and order situation in the country as good. He, however, added that there were weaknesses which would be overcome. Every society and country has some difficulties. We have our own difficulties. The law and order situation is not what it should be. It would improve further gradually.

When pointed out that teachers' and doctors' strikes are on, the president said these are part of the game and expressed the hope that all will play the game according to the rules.

Replying to a question, the president said that Pakistan felt concerned over the anti-Muslim riots in India and hoped that this being an internal matter India will resolve it herself.

The president said that he had received an invitation to visit the United States and that he had accepted it. The visit would take place at the end of the year.

KUWAITI OIL MINISTER ARRIVES FOR TALKS

BK040540 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 1500 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] Kuwait's oil minister, 'Ali al-Khalifah al-Adhbi as-Sabah, has said that his country will welcome joint projects with Pakistan in oil exploration and other sectors.

Talking to newsmen at the airport on his arrival in Islamabad this afternoon on a 3-day visit to Pakistan, he said Pakistan-Kuwait friendship is very deep and that the two countries enjoy cordial relations. He said the purpose of his visit is to further strengthen the friendly relations between the two Islamic states.

Rao Farman Ali, federal minister for petroleum and natural resources, welcomed the Kuwaiti oil minister at the airport.

The Kuwaiti oil minister called on President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq in Rawalpindi soon after his arrival in Islamabad.

SRI LANKA

FOREIGN MINISTER RETURNS FROM TALKS IN USSR

BK041136 Colombo International Service in English 1045 GMT 4 May 82

[Text] Foreign Minister A.C.S. Hameed, who was in the Soviet Union on a 5-day official visit, returned to Sri Lanka yesterday. He had talks with Soviet Premier Nikolay Tikhonov and Foreign Minister Gromyko. The three-round talks were described by both sides as free, frank and friendly.

The two delegations agreed that they had held similar positions on the crucial issue of preserving world peace but also conceded that there were certain differences in their evaluation of some developments in the international situation.

On the situation in the Middle East, Sri Lanka and the Soviet Union agreed that a comprehensive and just settlement of the conflict could be reached only on the basis of an unconditional withdrawal of all Israeli troops from all Arab territories occupied in 1967.

Both countries expressed support for the efforts of the United Nations and the Nonaligned Movement for political settlement of the conflict between Iran and Iraq.

The ministers devoted particular attention to the situation in the Indian Ocean area. The Soviet Union reaffirmed its support for the Indian Ocean peace zone declaration and its readiness to cooperate in the problem with all interested countries.

The ministers also discussed the situation in Asia.

ALGERIAN DELEGATION ARRIVES TO INVESTIGATE CRASH

LD051230 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 5 May 82

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, a delegation from the Democratic and Popular Republic of Algeria headed by Mr Saleh Goudjil, Algeria's minister of transportation, arrived in Tehran a few moments ago to follow up on the Iraqi regime's fighter planes' shooting down the plane carrying the Algerian foreign minister and his delegation and martyring all of its passengers. The delegation was welcomed by the minister of roads and transport, an under secretary in the Foreign Ministry, a representative of the president, a number of Majlis deputies and a group of other officials.

According to this report, the delegation has come to Iran to inspect the scene of the crash and to return the bodies of the martyrs of that tragic incident to the friendly and brother country of Algeria.

MISSILE SPECIALISTS BLAME IRAQ FOR CRASH

GF060614 Tehran International Service in Arabic 2000 GMT 5 May 82

[Text] A committee including missile specialists from Iran and Algeria, accompanied by officials from the Algerian Embassy in Tehran, arrived in Urumiyeh this afternoon after studying and investigating the wreckage of the Algerian plane that was carrying Algerian Foreign Minister Ben Yahia and his aides who were martyred when their plane was downed by the Saddamist regime's fighter planes on the Iranian-Turkish border.

The leader of the Iranian committee told our correspondent that, following the investigation and after viewing the remnants of the missile which was fired at the plane, and in light of the evidence provided by eyewitnesses among the people in the area, there can be no doubt, even among nonspecialists, that this crime was committed by the Iraqi regime.

EYEWITNESSES CONFIRM PLANE DOWNED BY IRAQIS

LD051924 Tehran IRNA in English 1724 GMT 5 May 82

[Text] Ankara, 5 May (IRNA) -- The Turkish daily GUNESH today confirmed that the Algerian airplane was shot down by the Iraqi air fighters, quoting eyewitnesses. The airplane crashed in Iranian territory near the Iran-Turkey border on Monday night when it was carrying the Algerian foreign minister and his colleagues to Tehran. These Algerian officials were all killed in the crash.

TAVAKKOLI CONDEMNS MEDIA COVERAGE OF CRASH

LD052308 Tehran IRNA in English 1921 GMT 5 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 5 May (IRNA) -- The government spokesman, Ahmad Tavakkoli, speaking about world coverage of the crash of the Algerian plane carrying the Algerian officials, in an area near the Iran-Turkey border on Monday night, said that if some of the world media were fair, they would have covered the incident as it was.

Tavakkoli, speaking after a Cabinet session this morning, commenting on the captivity of a number of youths who were fighting in the Iraqi imposed war and the recent statement of Saddam that he was willing to release these POWs without asking anything in return, said that ever since the outbreak of the imposed war, Iran said that people ranging from young children and aged men have been fighting against Iraqi aggression and added that the Islamic Republic of Iran was proud of these people. He further said that this move of Saddam was nothing more than a deceit. If the Iraqi regime valued what it said, it would have followed up the issue of the exchange of visits between the POWs and their families. However, the whole world knew that the Iraqi regime refused to do this, the government spokesman added.

The Cabinet session was presided over by Prime Minister Musavi and the latest political and social developments of the country were discussed in the meeting.

During the session the foreign affairs minister, 'Ali Akbar Velayati, gave an extensive report on the crash of the plane of the Algerian foreign minister. Velayati told the Cabinet that all the evidence was indicative of the crime committed by Saddam. The government spokesman stressed that the Iraqi regime did not observe and respect international laws and even attacked planes flying on international routes.

Tavakkoli further said that during the session allocation of some 2 billion rials for the expenditure of the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps was approved.

JOINT COMMUNIQUE 8 REPORTS MILITARY SUCCESSES

LD051808 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 5 May 82

[Joint communique No 8 of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. In the name of God, the crusher of the oppressors. "Muhammad, the prophet of God, and those who are with him are harsh toward the infidels, but are merciful among themselves." [Koranic verse]

Muslim and martyr-nurturing nation of Iran: The fighters of Islam, these true apostles in the school of the Koran, continue their battle against the aggressors who have attacked the Islamic homeland and against their criminal masters, continue delivering blows upon the enemy by trusting upon God, and are safeguarding their great earlier victories. The defeated enemy, contrary to its claims that it will not allow the forces of Islam to advance even an inch, in order to cover up its defeats in the Jerusalem operations and its loss of the west side of the Karun River and the important, strategic Ahvaz-Khuninshahr highway, has engaged in futile propaganda efforts.

This morning, thanks to the vigilance of the forces of Islam, an enemy offensive which tried to get near the forces of Islam based in Hoseyniyeh was completely smashed.

By encircling the enemy forces, our forces succeeded in destroying five of their tanks and setting fire to one of their trucks carrying ammunition. In this clash a large number of the aggressive forces were killed or wounded and a number of them were captured. After these operations a number of Iraqi soldiers who had come to realize the truth of the forces of Islam took refuge with the process of Islam together with one tank and one personnel carrier; the tank and personnel carrier were put at the disposal of the forces of Islam.

The high-flying pilots of the Airborne Division in a brave offensive operation on the Fakkeh axis yesterday flew 13 sorties over enemy positions and inflicted heavy losses and casualties upon them. In these successful operations our heroic pilots succeeded in destroying six enemy tanks and five light and heavy vehicles of the aggressive forces. Also, a number of enemy mortar positions and all their equipment were destroyed during these operations and a large number of enemy forces were killed or wounded.

During the operations carried out during the last few days by the high-flying pilots of the Airborne Division against the aggressive forces of Saddam, one of our helicopters was involved in an accident and its heroic pilot and copilot, First Lieutenant Harra and Lieutenant Nasir Radfar, were martyred. We wish to express our gratitude for the heroism and self-sacrifices of these brave children of the forces of Islam.

This afternoon, during operations west of the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr axis, the fighters of Islam succeeded in destroying seven enemy tanks and capturing three other tanks intact.

During these operations, a large number of enemy forces were killed or wounded and a few others were captured. Once again, we ask our martyr-nurturing nation to pray for greater victories for the forces of Islam and the destruction and defeat of the enemies of Islam, and to beseech God Almighty's assistance for the final victory of the fighters of Islam. Looking forward to the final victory of the fighters of Islam and the liberation of Jerusalem from the hands of usurping Zionism. With God's assistance victory is near.

IRAQI COUNTERATTACK REPELLED AT GARM DASHT

LD052234 Tehran IRNA in English 1940 GMT 5 May 82

[Text] Ahvaz, 5 May (IRNA) -- Iraqi infantry and artillery troops suffered heavy casualties as their counterattack against the Islamic troops in Garm Dasht was repelled.

The 14-hour counterattack of the invading enemy troops cost them also seven tanks and personnel carriers. The aggressor troops were pushed back to their former position at the end of the encounter.

In other news the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran pounded enemy targets in Istgah-e Hoseyniyeh and Garm Dasht, and inflicted heavy damages on them. The sound of Iraqi ambulances was heard in the area for several hours after the encounter.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 883

LD051834 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 5 May 82

[Communique 883 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Intense battles and exchanges of fire continue on the southern fronts. The self-sacrificing forces of Islam, who attacked the Ba'thist invaders during the Jerusalem operations, continue to guard their own defensive positions. Our forces are maintaining their fire superiority and are consolidating their positions. They are continuing their relentless battle with full superiority. Our forces continue inflicting loss and damage on the enemy by foiling their counteroffensives and opening fire on enemy positions and units.

Exchanges of fire continue on the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts. Activities of the brave combatants of the gendarmerie on these fronts include the silencing of enemy fire and the destruction of two observation posts, several trenches and foxholes, one mortar and one 106-mm gun of the Saddamists. A considerable number of enemy troops have either been killed or wounded.

On 4 May residential areas and installations of Abadan came under the long-range artillery fire of the Saddamists which resulted in some loss and damage.

Thanks to the artillery fire of our ground forces on enemy positions on the Salehabad front, several assembly points were destroyed.

In the Meymak sector, the self-sacrificing warriors of the ground forces and the Guards Corps launched a series of joint operations against the Saddamist forces. The combatants destroyed one ammunition dump and several positions of the Iraqi forces. The combatants also damaged several enemy tanks and killed a number of enemy troops.

In the Mehran sector, our forces destroyed 1 supply center, 3 bunkers and 1 command post of the Iraqi forces; 40 of their troops were either killed or wounded.

On the Sumar, Gilan-e Gharb and Sar-e Pol-e Zahab fronts, the combatants of our grounds forces opened intense artillery and mortar fire and prevented any movement of the Saddamist forces.

Our forces destroyed two trucks, two ammunition depots and several trenches of the enemy. They also damaged the Iraqi forces' supply road.

Intense exchange of fire continues in the Dar Ballut, Sar-e Pol-e Zahab and Bazi Deraz sectors between the enemy and our brave warriors. Our forces have fire superiority on all the axes.

On the Sheykhan, Nowsud and Band-e Kabud fronts, our brave gendarmerie combatants, while maintaining full fire superiority, returned the Saddamists' fire and, by launching a series of surprise operations, destroyed several troop bunkers and emplacements of the Iraqi forces. Several enemy troops were either killed or wounded.

As announced in the previous communique, on 4 May the fast-flying heroes of the Air Force and air defense units of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran repulsed air-raids of the Iraqi Ba'thist forces and were able to down two of the Iraqi fighters. The rest of the enemy's aggressive planes were forced to flee.

REZA'I ON SUCCESSES AGAINST IRAQIS, MOJAHEDIN

LD051956 Tehran IRNA in English 0916 GMT 5 May 82

[Text] Ahvaz, 5 May (IRNA) -- Iraqi forces were currently using Soviet made MiG-25 planes and T-72 tanks in the warfronts, said the commander of the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps [IRGC] Mohsen Reza'i here yesterday afternoon.

Speaking to IRNA on the Bayt al-Moqaddas operations and on the recent blow dealt to the MKO [Mojahedin-e Khalq Organization] terrorist group, Reza'i said that on the first day of the Bayt al-Moqaddas operations, starting on April 30, Islamic combatants liberated 800 sq kms of Iranian territory and that so far about 4,000 Iraqis had been captured and 50 of their tanks had been seized undamaged. Moreover, he added, several Iraqi tanks and personnel carriers had been destroyed and Brigades 605 and 417 had been totally smashed while Brigades 6 and 8 of the 3rd Division had suffered fatal blows.

Reza'i noted that the Iraqi POWs mentioned that Saddam's forces had been mobilised to respond to Iran's offensives and that Iraqi officers and soldiers had stayed in the warfronts for fear of being executed.

Commenting on the recent blow on the MKO, the IRGC commander said that the recent operation on May 3, in which 10 hideouts were discovered, were much more important than the previous ones since they smashed 90 per cent of the social division of the MKO.

He added that some of the MKO members had confessed that after the killing of Musa Khiabani, the MKO No 2 man, on Feb 8th, their organisation had planned to launch a series of explosions which recent operations put to an end. Reza'i called on the remnant MKO sympathisers to be awakened and join the nation in the warfronts to expel the intruder enemy from Iranian territory as swiftly as possible.

FOREIGN CORRESPONDENTS TOUR SOUTHERN WAR ZONES

LD042022 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 4 May 82

[Summary] According to IRNA, a Japanese correspondent said after visiting the liberated areas in the south of our country and west of the Karun River today: What we saw today perfectly and fully corresponds with the contents of Iranian military communiques.

The correspondent of the ASAHI newspaper was visiting the newly captured areas together with other reporters from France, Japan, Canada and Britain.

In an interview with IRNA, he said: Today I saw for myself the position of the Iranian forces after pushing out enemy forces from west of the Karun River and capturing the vast region of Sa'd Seyyed 'Abud, next to the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr road; and it made me believe in superiority of the forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Another foreign reporter praised the high morale of the Iranian forces and said: With such morale and ability of the Islamic Republic forces, I predict that we shall receive invitations from Iranian authorities in the near future to visit Khorramshahr.

Referring to the baseless claim of Saddam's armed forces that they had pushed back forces of Islam to their original positions, he said: Our presence here shows that Saddam's claims are baseless; and Saddam, with this absolute lie, is trying to deceive the nation of Iraq.

The foreign correspondents returned to Tehran this evening after visiting bombed civilian areas of Ahvaz and meeting with some of the Iraqi POW's captured during the recent victorious Jerusalem operations.

OVER 3,000 IRAQI POW'S ARRIVE IN TEHRAN 5 MAY

LD051724 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 5 May 82

[Excerpt] According to a Central News Unit report, following the great advances of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran on the fronts to the west of the Karun and Ahvaz-Khorramshahr axis, more than 3,000 of the defeated Iraqi forces who were captured by the victorious Iranian forces arrived in Tehran this morning. From Tehran railroad stations they were sent to various POW camps.

MOJAHEDIN KILL 5 IN ATTACK ON RELIEF COMMITTEE

LD051332 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 5 May 82

[Excerpt] While the brave armed forces of Islam are daily creating a fresh epic at the battlefronts of truth and falsehood and cleansing the soil of our Islamic country of the filth of the Ba'thist infidels, IRNA reports that yesterday the American Mojahedin-e Khalq engaged in yet another horrendous crime and with an armed attack on the office of the interest-free loan fund of the imam's relief committee on Ostad Motahhari Street [Tehran] martyred five Muslim and committed brother Hezbollahi and wounded several others.

World arrogance's hireling terrorists, having entered the office of the interest-free loan fund building, riddled several Muslim and Hezbollahi staff with bullets and, after cowardly martyring five of them and wounding several others, fled the scene. Those wounded in the incident were immediately rushed to hospitals and underwent treatment.

A funeral ceremony for the victims of this demonic act was held today in the presence of tens of thousands of Muslim and committed citizens of Tehran.

REVOLUTION COMMITTEE WARNS AGAINST IMPOSTORS

LD052116 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 5 May 82

[Text] The Public Relations Office of the Central Islamic Revolution Committee has announced: Lately it has been noticed that suspect armed elements, bearing false orders from revolutionary institutions, have been in the habit of visiting government or private organizations for the purpose of attacking various people. This has resulted in the martyrdom or wounding of a number of citizens. Therefore, the esteemed brothers working in such places are hereby informed that before allowing such visits to take place they should contact the responsible centers and obtain confirmation of the orders.

In order to receive confirmation of such orders they should telephone 310001-9.

PEYKAR GROUP 'CRUSHED' IN BANDAR-E 'ABBAS

GF051434 Bandar-e 'Abbas Domestic Service in Persian 1330 GMT 5 May 82

[Excerpt] According to the Central News Unit of Bandar-e 'Abbas, in the past few days, due to the persistent efforts of the brother members of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps of Bandar-e 'Abbas, and with the cooperation of the 36-million-strong intelligence organization, the organizational division of the warring minigroup Peykar was discovered and crushed in the province.

The following communique has been issued by the Bandar-e 'Abbas revolution guards in this connection: In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. While witnessing the immense and miraculous victory of the combatants of Islam, the true soldiers of the lord of the ages -- we offer him our soul -- these true followers of the imam of the nation, the great Khomeyni, who in the Jerusalem operations have brought us the good tidings of the final victory of the victorious armies of Islam over the infidel enemy, and following the destruction of the Bandar-e 'Abbas division of the U.S. puppet organization of the hypocrites, our always-aware Hezbollahi nation also witnessed the destruction of another event directed by the East and the West in the internal front.

The organization of the deviant, mercenary and terrorist Peykar minigroup -- the so-called organization fighting for liberation of the working class, whose criminal hands have been stained with the blood of tens of sons of the self-sacrificing nation in Kordestan; who, hand in hand with the other infidel groups who are the puppets of the East and West, such as Komeleh and the Democrats, are waging war against the Islamic Republic -- was discovered and destroyed in Bandar-e 'Abbas with the help of the Almighty, the continuous effort of the brother guards and the cooperation of the 36-million-strong intelligence organization. In the successful effort, the entire leadership of the Peykar organization in Bandar-e 'Abbas, regional leaders, elements responsible for enticing schoolchildren, those responsible for organizing prisoners, publication officials and all other members, down to the last member of the organization, were arrested and sent to jail. According to the same report, the following individuals are among those arrested:

1. Ahmad Kazemi, son of (Adis), using the alias Mojtaba: the representative for the radical front in the organization in Bandar-e 'Abbas.

2. Jamshid Mahmudi, son of Yar Mohammad, using the alias 'Ali: the main leader of the organization in the leadership cadre of Bandar-e 'Abbas.

3. Mokhtar Kazemi, son of Hoseyn, using the alias Bahram: the main leader of (Dal Dal) group.

4. Pari Ahmadi, daughter of Hoseyn, using the aliases Mahin and Farzaneh: a former member in charge of organizing the prisoners; a main member of (Dal Dal).

5. Vida Pashang, daughter of Gholamreza, using the alias Sa'ideh: candidate for (Dal Dal) membership.

6. Zahra Tavakkoli, daughter of 'Ali, using the alias Sediqheh: main organizer of prisoners; a former leader of the regional organization.

7. Gholam Hoseyn Baqeri, son of Hasan 'Ali, using the alias Bahman: a former member [as heard]; one of the Bandar-e 'Abbas leaders in charge of publications and one of the main regional leaders.

All the publication, financial, supply and mechanized facilities also fell into the capable hands of the Islamic revolution guards of Bandar-e 'Abbas.

In the operation over 40 were arrested, 7 organizational dens of iniquity containing books and interorganizational documents were discovered, and a number of cars, motorcycles, copying equipment, typewriters and other printing equipment were taken as booty. The details of the operation will be announced for the benefit of the martyr-nurturing nation in later communiques and interviews.

NVOI: EDUCATION POLICY WESTERN-ORIENTED

TA030854 [Editorial Report] The clandestine National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran at 1730 GMT on 2 May carried a commentary entitled: "Implementing a Policy of 'Neither Eastern but Western' in Affairs of Education and Higher Learning Is to the Benefit of the Great Satan." It said that in view of the imam's repeated emphasis on reopening universities and institutions of higher learning, fortunately preliminary steps are being taken toward expediting this matter. However, simultaneously with this issue we are also facing another issue, and that is the problem of Iranian students abroad.

Prior to the revolution we had about 100,000 students in the United States and in several West European countries. According to figures presented by the minister of higher education himself even in the year 1359, 1 year after our nation's revolution, 8,000 students left for Western countries to study. During the second and third years of the revolution, too, the rush of our youths to study in the United States and West European countries continued. As we are aware this took place with the official permission and agreement of the concerned officials of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Imam Khomeyni and his other sincere followers have repeatedly expressed their frank view on the necessity of putting an end to the influence of Western culture in the universities, institutions of higher learning and the culture of the country.

"However, unfortunately, it must be said that the policy of the concerned officials in respect to tens of thousands of students who are engaged in studying abroad has never been and is not in line with implementing the demand of the imam and the committed government figures of the Islamic Republic of Iran. We state that we want to put an end to the ominous influence of Western culture in affairs of culture and higher education. Is closing the universities and implicit agreement with sending tens of thousands of students to the West, particularly to the United States, the way to achieve this goal? Without doubt the answer to this question is negative. It is no exaggeration if we say that in the issue of sending students abroad one can clearly observe the implementation of the "Neither Eastern but Western" policy by some of the authorities. Under conditions in which tens of thousands of Iranian students have been sent to study in the United States, West Germany, Britain, France and other Western countries -- these centers of plots against the Islamic Republic of Iran -- the number of our students in Eastern countries does not even reach 100."

Simultaneously with the reopening of universities and expanding the university networks, an end should be put forever to the "Neither Eastern but Western" policy in affairs of education and higher learning.

AFGHAN FIGHTERS BREAK SOVIET BLOCKADE IN HERAT

LD060110 Tehran IRNA in English 2012 GMT 5 May 82

[Text] Zahedan, 5 May (IRNA) -- Some 90 Soviet and Afghan soldiers were killed and 10 Soviet tanks destroyed during the 48 hours preceding Wednesday when the Afghan Muslim mujahidin broke the blockade of Herat making the enemy to pull back, said IRNA quoting the Afghan mujahidin. The Soviet forces barraged the western part of Herat by long range artillery while they were withdrawing, causing destruction in that part of the city.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Iranian troops have advanced to the international border west of Hoseyniyeh station, liberating 17 km of the border along an area covering 300 square km, according to announcements by Tehran radio early on 7 May. Many Iraqi troops were killed or captured, the radio said, and the enemy was forced to retreat inside Iraq. Earlier, Iranian military communiques broadcast by Tehran radio had claimed further successes in the Fakkeh region, where over 700 Iraqis were reported captured. The Iranian Air Force downed an Iraqi plane and bombed an Iraqi command headquartersin the Salamcheh region, according to one communique. It said 19 Iraqi tanks had been destroyed and 600 Iraqis killed or wounded.

Iraqi forces have contained the new Iranian attack, according to a military spokesman's statement broadcast by Baghdad Voice of the Masees radio on 7 May. Asserting that Iran is using the last of its exhausted units in its "desperate offensive," the spokesman said Iraqi troops have encirlced some enemy units and inflicted heavy losses on them. The Iraqi Air Force has begun intensive attacks on Iranian positions west of the Karun River, according to a related INA report. A 6 May Iraqi military communique carried by Baghdad radio claimed that Iraqi forces had tightened their grip around besieged Iranian forces in the (Taheri-Halub) Bridge area and were continuing to advance east of the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr highway toward the Karun River. The communique said 10 Iranian tanks had been knocked out and that an Iranian plane and a helicopter had been downed in the (Jananah) area, where Iraqi forces thwarted an Iranian attack designed to relieve pressure on forces besieged in the (Taheri-Halub) Bridge area.

Egypt

Mubarak Sudan Visit, Comment on Peace Process -- President Mubarak held talks in Khartoum with Sudanese President Ja'far Numayri, MENA reported. The two men subsequently held a press conference reported by MENA, in which Numayri revealed that he and Mubarak had agreed on taking clear practical steps toward Sudanese-Egyptian integration. Whenever Egyptian and Sudanese leaders meet, Numayri said, they will give momentum to this work.

Mubarak affirmed that there is no alternative to the Camp David accords, which are an inescapable, established fact. Any initiative to resolve the Palestinian question must receive Israel's approval, he asserted. After returning to Cairo, Mubarak said Egypt will not change its view regarding the holding of the autonomy talks in Jerusalem, Cairo radio reported.

A 7 May AL-AHRAM commentary reported by MENA criticized the Israeli Knesset's vote against the dismantling of Jewish settlements, asking why the Israeli Government has tied its hands in this matter while it is about to enter into diplomatic negotiations that require free movement and complete flexibility.

Opposition Indictment, Threat to Mubarak -- AL-AHRAM reported that authorities will shortly announce the indictment of 299 leaders and members of the Al-Jihad organization, who are accused of participating in the terrorist acts that followed the assassination of Anwar as-Sadat, MENA reported. Meanwhile, the Athens paper RIZOSPASTIS reported that a "military tribunal" of the opposition Al-Aqsa organization has condemned Mubarak to death.

Israel

Reaction to U.S. Announcement -- Israel has expressed reservation over a U.S. State Department announcement noting that after 5 years of autonomy there exists a possibility of setting up an independent Palestinian state in Judaea, Samaria and the Gaza district, just as there exists a possibility of Israel extending sovereignty over these territories, MA'ARIV reported. According to the paper, political sources in Jerusalem said the announcement must be examined with concern to see if it reflects a shift in U.S. Middle East policy.

However, the prime minister's office regards the announcement as an acceptance of Israel's interpretation of the Camp David accords, Jerusalem television reported, citing the prime minister's adviser Uri Porat. Ever since the Camp David accords were signed the United States has been confirming that as part of the negotiations to be held after 5 years of autonomy, Israel would be able to demand sovereignty over Judaea, Samaria and the Gaza district just as the Palestinian inhabitants would be able to demand the establishment of their own country, Porat said.

West Bank, Gaza Situation — Four Ramallah area mayors have refused to meet with the civil administration in Ramallah, Jerusalem radio reported.

Jordan

Jordan is entitled to ask the United States to supply it with weapons, but if the United States closes the door on its request, Jordan will seek arms from other sources, King Husayn declared in an interview with AL-AHRAM carried by MENA. While noting that Jordan has concluded an arms deal with the Soviet Union, Husayn said Jordan is now trying to stay away from the superpowers and is turning to Western Europe as a source of arms.

Asked about Egypt's future role in light of the Baghdad conference resolutions severing diplomatic relations and freezing economic relations with Egypt, Husayn said it is hoped that things will return to the way they were before the conference, with Arab unity restored so Egypt can play a major role in the interest of the Arab nation. Asked whether he would soon visit Cairo, Husayn said he hoped circumstances would permit him to hold meetings on all levels.

Commenting on the Iran-Iraq war, Husayn noted that there are Arab states helping Iran in contravention of the Arab League Charter and the joint Arab defense treaty. Husayn went on to criticize Iran for exporting its revolution to other Islamic states.

PDRY-Omani Relations

The PDRY and the Sultanate of Oman have reached a six-point agreement to settle their differences, KUNA reported citing Kuwait's AL-ANBA'. The agreement, which follows visits to Aden and Muscat by the foreign ministers of Kuwait and the UAE, provides for the establishment of diplomatic relations between Oman and the PDRY and for each country to prevent the use of its territory for operations against the other. AL-ANBA' also said the two countries will hold a high-level meeting in the near future. Gulf sources cited by Qatari newspapers said the mediation efforts of Kuwait and the UAE had produced good results and that a PDRY-Omani reconciliation meeting may be held in Kuwait shortly, according to QNA.

Libya

Libya will supply Ghana with 360,000 tons of crude oil over 6 months as part of an agreement signed by Staff Maj 'Abd al-Salam Jallud during his 3-day visit to Ghana, Accra radio reported. Libya is ready to stand by Ghana to deepen and strengthen its revolution, Jallud said, according to an earlier radio report.

EXPRESS VIEWS INDO-U.S. RELATIONS, GANDHI VISIT

BK051345 Delhi INDIAN EXPRESS in English 28 Apr 82 p 6

[Article by S. Nihal Singh: "A First Step"]

[Text] India is of marginal interest in American strategic thinking and planning for two reasons. It acquires relevance, in Washington's view, only insofar as it impinges upon primary U.S. interests in relation to the other superpower or the sea lanes or West Asia. Besides, it tends to be considered an adversary, not on its own but in combination with the Soviet Union.

With his usual perspicacity, Dr Henry Kissinger has decreed that India is too big and its leadership, principally Mrs Gandhi, too proud to be a mere satellite of the Soviet Union. Ironically, this assessment has encouraged recent American administrations to adopt an attitude of benign neglect of a nation whose potential, if not its present capabilities, cannot be ignored.

Coming in as the Reagan administration did on a wave of hurt national sensibilities, its focus was on coping with the Soviet Union and the perceived threat from it. Pakistan was high on the priority list by virtue of it having become a "frontline state," with the Soviets having dug in in Afghanistan. The generous economic and military aid package, as also the decision to sell Pakistan F-16's on a cash and carry basis, flowed from this primary American concern.

The Americans were no doubt familiar with the consequences the arming of Pakistan would have on their relationship with India. But they were prepared to pay the price because this relationship had become a subsidiary one and, in any case, many in the U.S. administration had lost patience with India's posturing on world issues, mostly on the Soviet side.

Against this background, the promptness with which Mrs Gandhi accepted President Reagan's invitation to visit the U.S.A. brings out one central fact: India needs U.S. friendship more than the other way round. This is dictated by the facts of life. Though no longer as strong as it was in relation to the other superpower, the U.S.A. is still the most powerful nation on earth and continues to exercise great influence in many parts of the world. Secondly, the only real balancing power in the context of the Indo-Soviet relationship remains the U.S.A.

Mrs Gandhi's efforts to reduce India's dependence on the Soviet Union, symbolised by a treaty which served its purpose 10 years ago but is an embarrassment today, predate her defeat in the 1977 elections. She sent an ambassador to Beijing to indicate her interest in beginning the long process of reconciliation with China. And India's deliberate decision to diversify its arms purchases has yielded fruit in the Jaguars, West German submarines and, most recently, Mirage 2000. The new cordiality and content in Indo-French relations as also the strengthening of links with Britain are again facets of a policy of using the European Economic Community as a counterweight of sorts against the Soviet Union.

Even apart from President Reagan and his administration's preoccupation with the Soviet Union and American strategic interests, Indo-American relations have seldom been happy or smooth for long.

There were Nehru's non-alignment policy and its anti-West orientation; his refusal to be part of a policy of containing communism; the inevitable problems of a donor-recipient relationship; India's growing links with and orientation towards the Soviet Union; the consequences of a U.S.-Pakistan arms relationship; and the Sino-U.S. rapprochement.

When Mr Reagan was installed president, there was little prospect or hope for better relations with India. Republican administrations in the U.S. have traditionally been considered less sympathetic towards India and President Reagan in particular became identified with larger defence spending, an obsession with negotiating from a position of strength, an illiberal approach to the poor at home and the Third World at large.

But largely unnoticed in India, Mrs Gandhi had nevertheless become discreet in criticising the U.S.A. more than she felt was necessary. In sharp contrast to the days before she lost power when she found a CIA hand behind every bush, her criticism of the American administration was muted and, but for specific issues, concentrated on the broader North-South problems and those of war and peace.

This policy was determined by the need to keep the door to better relations open as well as the apprehension that the new administration was bloody-minded enough to react to Indian invectives in kind. And it was also realised in Delhi that President Reagan's bark was worse than his bite. The more extravagant declarations had been moderated in implementation and, as every new administration finds out in time, it has to cope with reality, not its vision of the world.

Indo-American problems fall into two categories: international and bilateral, although they often tend to merge. India looks askance at the Reagan philosophy of negotiating with the other superpower only from a position of strength and is totally out of sympathy with his approach to the Third World in trade and aid. Bilaterally, the principal problems are the arming of Pakistan and Tarapur. On the American side, there is particular irritation with India's voting record in the United Nations -- Delhi's compulsions in voting with the Soviet Union, and against the U.S.A., even on issues of marginal interest to India.

The agreement on Tarapur is dead and the only difference is over how to give it a decent burial. India has made its point on the arming of Pakistan; so has the U.S.A., by ignoring Indian objections. The process of an Indo-Pakistani rapprochement, which the Americans wish to encourage, can only be a halting and long-drawn-out one, in view of the legacy of history. An agreement with China, even on the border issue, is possible although its timing is hard to determine.

Which brings us to the central question: Why did President Reagan invite Mrs Gandhi? There are many in the American establishment, even outside the Democrats' fold, questioning the policy of neglecting India, benignly or otherwise. The essence of their arguments is that India, as the pre-eminent power in the subcontinent, can be ignored only at the cost of U.S. interests. Pakistan might be a front-line state and hence worthy of American military aid and support, but its policy is essentially unstable.

And the Reagan administration is not unaware of recent shifts in Indian policies in the economic field and Delhi's constant endeavour to increase its diplomatic options. Although the present U.S. administration might not wish to proclaim from the housetops India's pre-eminent position in the subcontinent, or rather in South Asia, for fear of annoying the Pakistanis, Washington recognises it.

President Reagan's invitation to Mrs Gandhi is a recognition of some encouraging trends in Indian policies, despite the serious differences between the two countries on Pakistan and the wider world. It would not serve American interests to let the Indo-U.S. relationship deteriorate further in a complex world of changing equations.

Given the background of the two leaders and their policies, the first meeting they had at the Cancun North-South summit in Mexico ended on a somewhat more pleasant note than anticipated. And although the personal chemistry between two leaders does not determine relations between their countries, it influences them, particularly in view of the power of U.S. Presidency and Mrs Gandhi's pre-eminence in her country.

The result of Mrs Gandhi's visit can hardly be dramatic, but it is a necessary first step in repairing a relationship which has a more central position in Indian policy, but could also benefit the U.S.A.

RAO ON RELATIONS WITH PAKISTAN, PRC, BHUTAN

BK020907 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 2 May 82

[Text] External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao has said India will resume negotiations with Pakistan about no-war pact after the atmosphere becomes congenial. Addressing a news conference in Gangtok today, he pointed out that the negotiations had to be temporarily suspended because the atmosphere got vitiated following Pakistan's persistent attempts to raise the Kashmir question on various occasions.

Replying to a question, he reiterated that India wants to normalize relations with China. The forthcoming talks with an official Chinese delegation visiting this country this month will cover the border question and commercial and cultural matters.

Rao denied that Bhutan has violated the 1948 treaty with India. He, however, added that mutual consultations are held to consider any decision taken by the Bhutan Government.

SERVICES CONTINUE DESPITE ASSAM STRIKE

BK061638 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 6 May 82

[Text] Despite a 24-hour Assam bundh [strike] since 0500 this morning, all essential services and major industrial establishments worked normally. The air and train services functioned as usual. The Assam state transport corporation operated its long distant bus services and city services.

Adviser to the Assam Governor R.V. Subramanian told the All-India Radio Gauhati correspondent that oil drilling, pumping and refining operations were maintained at normal level. He said that coal, fertilizers and tea factories continued their normal production.

Subramanian said that the response to the bundh had been lukewarm. It had no impact in Cacher, North Cacher and most parts of Kabri Anglong District.

The adviser said that the overall situation in the state has remained peaceful and under control. There were, however, three incidents of bomb explosion and a few cases of assault. In a bomb explosion in the compartment of a shuttle train last night at Maligaon near Gauhati one person was killed and three injured.

Subramanian said that in all 262 people have been arrested as a preventive measure. He said that attendance in the state secretariat was almost normal and it was over 80 percent in several offices of deputy commissioner.

FAST BREEDER REACTOR 90-PERCENT COMPLETED

NEW ENGINE FOR JET FIGHTERS -- New Delhi, 30 Apr (AFP) -- Indian scientists have developed a new engine for jet fighters which significantly improves their performance in hot climates, official sources said here today. The new engine, coded GTX, is a high performance turbine model to be fitted to the present generation of fighter planes like the MiG-21-B's -- the improved version of the Soviet MiG-21 -- which will remain in Indian Air Force service for at least another decade, irrespective of the Mirage-2000 and the Jaguar deep penetration aircraft which are being inducted into the air force, the sources said. A prototype of the GTX was tested recently and has been approved for general production and is expected to be ready for use within 5 to 6 years. The engine incorporates unique technology to compensate for the loss of power in hot climates. The power loss at an atmospheric temperature of 30 degrees centigrade in conventional engines can be as high as 20 percent. This is reduced to just 4 percent in the GTX and gives it considerable additional thrust and a decisive advantage in combat, the sources said. The engine is also likely to be improved further for the advanced MiG-23 and even MiG-27 if their manufacture is decided upon. Talks on this are in progress with the Soviet Union. IRANIAN TROOPS PUSH TO BORDER IN NEW OFFENSIVE

Joint Communique No 9

LD061224 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 6 May 82

[Joint communique No 9 issued by the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps]

[Excerpt] In the continuation of the overall Jerusalem operations, the Muslim and combative Islamic nation started another attack against the deceived enemy at 0200 this morning in the Fakkeh border area. In the first hours of these operations, which were started with the aim of destroying or capturing the aggressive forces and mopping up the area, our combatants managed to break the enemy's defense lines and capture their bunkers. Our forces then continued their advance. The forces of Islam used artillery fire and heavy- and medium-weapon fire in these successful operations to capture the areas of Sheykh Hadi and Abu Qorayab, all of the region's sensitive heights and a large part of the important and strategic Hasan Qandi-Fakkeh road.

The defeated enemy, who could not resist the combatants of Islam, retreated and fled at about 1000, leaving behind his dead and wounded and a large quantity of ammunition and armored equipment. As of 1200 today, 706 enemies had been taken prisoner and moved behind the frontlines.

In these successful operations the quick-flying eagles of the army were able to destroy 13 enemy tanks and inflict numerous losses on the enemy. In addition, eight quick-flying fighter aircraft of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran bombed enemy positions in the Fakkeh area at 0630 this morning and returned safely to their bases.

Last night the defeated enemy, who has been pushed west of the Karun River, desperately tried to approach our defense lines on the important and strategic Ahvaz-Khorramshahr road, which is under the control of the forces of Islam. However, it was faced with the unique vigilance and heroism of the brave heroes of the army of Islam. The enemy lost 18 tanks, personnel carriers and vehicles before retreating. A large number of the Saddamists were killed and a number of them were taken prisoner in these operations.

Following the enemy's shameful retreat and defeat, the tank-hunting platoons of the army of Islam used RPG-7's to chase the enemy for a long distance. Our forces destroyed another 20 enemy tanks before returning safely to their bases.

We hereby ask the Muslim and oppressed Iraqi people not to be deceived by Saddam's malicious and Zionist propaganda, not to allow this mercenary of America and Zionism to play with their fate any more, and to cleanse this distainful stain from their homeland. With the hope for the final victory of the combatants of Islam and the liberation of Jerusalem from the paws of invading Zionism, help from God and victory will come soon.

Iraqi Counteroffensives Fail

LD061158 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 6 May 82

[Summary] According to Central News Unit correspondents, at 0230 Iranian forces staged a sudden attack against the enemy, in the Fakkeh (Bonghaziyeh) sector, liberating a number of kilometers and capturing hundreds of Iraqi personnel. According to the latest reports, enemy communication with the Fakkeh axis has been cut. The Iranian forces also captured several tanks, personnel carriers and vehicles.

At 2100 last night, using the 63d Division, the 28th Brigade, two armored battalions, several cannon, tanks and personnel carriers, the enemy attempted a feeble counteroffensive in the Hoseyniyeh Navard and the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr road sector. But, the counteroffensive was repelled and the Iraqis were forced to retreat. During the clash, which lasted until this morning, hundreds of Iraqis were killed and dozens captured. Also, 25 enemy tanks and personnel carriers were destroyed and their crews were killed. One of the military commanders told an IRNA correspondent that the Iraqi casualty toll is very high, but despite heavy enemy fire Iranian casualties are very low.

Last night, Iranian forces repelled an enemy offensive in the Garm Dasht sector, killing 200 Iraqis, destroying 20 tanks, capturing more than 70 Iraqis and forcing the rest to retreat.

An IRNA correspondent reports from west of the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr road that during last night's enemy counteroffensive which was completely foiled, hundreds of Iraqis were killed and dozens were captured.

Further Details

LD061848 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 6 May 82

[Text] According to IRNA, the enemy launched three counteroffensives last night in the Garm Dasht and Hoseyniyeh sectors. During these offensives, a large number of Saddamist troops were killed and 90 were taken prisoner, among whom are 30 rangers from Saddam's special company. During these operations, the enemy also lost 20 tanks and personnel carriers.

On the basis of the same report, which was communicated from the frontline at 1415 by an IRNA correspondent, last night's counteroffensive was launched from three directions and continued until this morning. However, the feeble enemy suffered heavy losses and damage and was forced to retreat. A large number of corpses of the Saddamist forces were left behind after the failure of the enemy counteroffensive.

Joint Communique No 10

LD061834 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 6 May 82

[Joint communique No 10 of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps]

[Text] In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. In the name of God, crusher of the oppressors, enemy of the tyrants and helper of the oppressed.

Yes, this is the call of the lord of the heroes and leader of the fighters and imam of the faithful, 'Ali ibn Abu Talib, who ordered you to be the enemy of tyrants and helper of the oppressed, so that the faithful should never accept misery and degradation and as long as there is oppression they should fight it.

With congratulations on the birthday of Islam's great man, His Eminence 'Ali ibn Abu Talib and greetings upon all the world's oppressed people, especially the nation of Islam, here is a report concerning the victorious operations carried out by the sons of Islam against the world oppressor and Saddam's mercenaries.

In the course of the successful Jerusalem operations which started at 0200 today in the border region of Fakkeh, the combatants of Islam succeeded in inflicting another great defeat upon the aggressor mercenaries. In these operations, the combatants of Islam captured the regions of Sheykh Hadi and Abu Qorayab and a vast section of the strategic Hasan Qandi-Fakkeh road. Our forces established and consolidated their positions in the regions' important and strategic heights.

During these successful operations heavy blows and damages were inflicted on the Iraqi 426th Infantry Brigade as well as the Iraqi 51st and 34th Armored Brigades and the 27th Mechanized Brigade from the Iraqi 1st Division. The division had recently been reconstructed.

According to the latest figures, the known total of enemy POW's in this region is 765. The POW's include 19 officers, including one major from the Iraqi 426th Infantry Brigade.

The combatants of Islam also succeeded in capturing 38 serviceable tanks and personnel carriers, while 32 tanks and personnel carriers were destroyed. In addition, 54 serviceable vehicles were seized by the forces of Islam. Tanks and other equipment taken as the spoils of war went into operation immediately against the enemies of the Islamic homeland.

This afternoon, the fast-flying fighter aircraft of the Islamic Republic's Air Force launched a daring and surprise attack during which they succeeded in bombing the enemy's main command headquarters in Salamcheh region. Despite the existence of heavy antiaircraft defense in the region, our aircraft returned safely to their base.

Also today, the brave pilots of the Airborne Division inflicted heavy damage on the aggressor Saddamists. They succeeded in destroying 19 tanks, 9 heavy and light vehicles and a large number of enemy personnel.

In the course of today's successful operations, 1 aggressor Iraqi aircraft was shot down by our air force in the Fakkeh area and 600 enemy troops were killed or injured. Among the dead is a colonel of the Iraqi Army.

The Jerusalem operations which were launched under the codename of 'Ali ibn Abu Talib will, with the blessing of God and the prayers of our dear imam, the great Khomeyni, as well as those of the hero and martyr-nurturing nation, bring greater victories to Islam and the Muslim people. Until the final victory of Islam's combatants and until Jerusalem's liberation from the occupying Zionist regime, we will be assisted by God and our victory is near.

Forces Reach Border

GF070812 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 7 May 82

[Text] IRNA has reported from Ahvaz that a while ago victorious Islamic warriors and troops, in the second phase of the Jerusalem offensive, succeeded in stationing entire Islamic units on the international boundaries between Hoseyniyeh station and border post of (Shalam Shir) and raised the glorious Iranian Islamic Republic's flag on the border of holy Islamic country. The report adds that the second phase of the Jerusalem offensive coincides with the eve of the birthday of the pious imam and the offensive codenamed 'Ali ibn Abu Talib.

The offensive began at 2215 yesterday within an area 15 km from (Shalam Shir) and 12-15 km from the border lines. The Islamic Republic defenders are stationed along the border. The enemy was forced to retreat on the other side of the border.

The latest reports received early this morning in Tehran indicate that a great number of aggressors were killed and many others were captured. The Islamic warriors captured great amounts of weapons and destroyed major enemy units.

One of the victorious commanders of Islam, in an interview with an IRNA correspondent, said that the enemy had intended to reinforce his damaged forces last night, but all the reinforcing and damaged troops were either killed or captured.

He added that the Islamic forces firmly intend to free all the occupied lands from the enemy. We will advance until all enemy soldiers are cleared from our holy land.

The report added that our Islamic forces have stabilized all reoccupied areas.

Joint Communique No 11

[Joint communique No 11 issued by the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps]

[Text] In the name of Almighty God, the merciful, the compassionate. In the name of the crusher of tyrants. Muhammad is the messenger of God and those who are with him are hard against the disbelievers but tender among themselves. "We shall slap the faces of Saddam and the Ba'thists who can never arise" -- Imam Khomeyni.

God is great, for our warriors. God is great, for our fighting men. God is great and He is the crusher of tyrants.

On the occasion of 'Ali ibn Abu Talib's birthday, according to the command and Joint Staff of the revolutionary guards and armed forces, the second phase of the Jerusalem offensive, codenamed 'Ali, started at 2200 yesterday.

The Islamic troops, while chanting "God is great," attacked enemy positions and, in the first hours of the attack, succeeded in storming enemy strongholds and marched toward the border on the axis of Ahvaz-Khuninshahr road after severe battles. The armed forces and revolution guards participated jointly in the battles and inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy aggressors.

After destroying several tanks and armored vehicles, they were able to reoccupy and clear a large amount of Islamic land and advanced on the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr road. Our forces were able to reach the international boundaries.

300 Square Km Liberated

LD070926 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0855 GMT 7 May 82

[Unscheduled announcement]

[Text] Dear listeners: Please pay attention to a report which we received a few minutes ago:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Continuing last night's victorious operations by the fighters of Islam, 17 km of the border along an area covering 300 square km has been liberated by the powerful fighters of Islam. In this way, since the beginning of the Jerusalem operations and with the help of God, 1,100 square km of occupied territory has been cleased of the filthy existence of the forces of Saddam.

After 19 months the green flag of "God is great" has been raised on the southern international border of our Islamic homeland.

This morning, Saddam warned his units that this battle is the battle of destiny and if any of his officers or soldiers withdraw they will be immediately sent to the firing squads. We hereby announce to all our Muslim Iraqi brothers: Come to the forces of Islam so that you may find refuge in the embrace of Islam and the Islamic Republic and so that you may be saved from the treachery and crimes of Saddam and his masters.

Iraqis Offered Safe Conduct

GF070902 Tehran International Service in Arabic 0700 GMT 9 May 82

[Text] Dear brothers: Here is the text of the safe conduct issued by the Islamic army to personnel of the Iraqi Army:

In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. The safe-conduct:

Oh Muslim Iraqi soldiers and officers who have been coerced by Saddam and his executioners to fight against Islam and Muslims: Is it not time you asked your conscience for what and for whom you are fighting? Will you not admit the great defeats which the Islamic forces have inflicted upon the Saddam army in the sectors of Abadan, (Al-Batatin), Shahdab, western Gilan, Tavilah, Shush and Dezful, where more than 25,000 Iraqi soldiers have been killed and another 15,000 captured?

Oh Iraqi soldier! Think a little of why Saddam sends you with the Iraqi Army into a devastating war against the Islamic Republic of Iran and does not do the same with the Israeli enemy, the usurper of Arab territory, the aggressor against holy Jerusalem. Doesn't this show Saddam's agentry on behalf of the United States and Israel? Then why do we find that the ones who defend Saddam are agents of the United States and Israel -- the likes of Egypt's ruler, the shah of Jordan, and so on -- those who killed the Palestinians and betrayed the Palestinian cause and the Muslim peoples of the region? Weren't Saddam and his executioners the ones who violated the Iraqis, killed their youths, executed their scholars and destroyed their country? Why then do you fight against your Muslim brothers and obey the orders of Saddam and his mercenaries against Islam and Muslims?

Oh Iraqi soldier! Understand that you have only one way. Join the forces of Islam and give yourself up to them because they will treat you well in a fraternal Muslim fashion like the rest of the Iraqi soldiers who have given themselves up to the forces of Islam. They now live comfortably and peacefully. They spared themselves from the woes of war and death. Join us as thousands of Iraqi Army personnel in the Shush and Dezful sectors have done recently.

Save yourself before you die for the sake of the devil and go to the blazing fire of hell. Join us lest you be doomed to be killed by the fire of the soldiers of Islam and then sent to hell. And what a woeful destiny it is! Join the forces of Islam. Put your hands up, give yourself up to the forces of Islam and declare your surrender to righteousness and Islam.

"Oh you who believe! Respond to God and the messenger when he calls you so that he may give you life." [Koranic verse] Peace be upon whoever follows guidance.

[Signed] The Islamic revolution guards

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 886

LD061850 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 6 May 82

[Communique 886 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Blessed be the birthday of the imam of justice and justice lovers, supporters of the meek, and oppressed, amir of the believers and the lord of virtuous, 'Ali -- peace be upon him -- to all believers. The Iranian Armed Forces, these self-sacrificing combatants on the path of justice, by following the ideology of that holy imam and his honorable son -- Hoseyn -- peace be upon him -- and in order to fight against symbols of blasphemy, have delivered decisive and crashing blows on Saddamist warmongers and every moment have increased their efforts to destroy the disintegrating forces of blasphemy.

Justice-seeking warriors of Islam, in continuation of their brave and heroic assault during the Jerusalem operations, today also cleansed other parts of the sacred territory of the dear Islamic homeland from the filth of the invaders and killed or wounded a large number of Saddamist forces and captured some of them.

Today, as on previous days, heroic and fast-flying air force pilots and army aviation units provided air cover for units of the ground forces.

The valuable role played by the brave personnel of the navy in backing the Jerusalem operations is also highly appreciated and praised.

Now, all our victorious combatants in the newly captured areas, while continuing their assigned missions, have full control and superiority over the enemy forces. Our combatants are also defending their own positions on other southern fronts by returning the Saddamists' fire.

In the Abadan sector, valiant gendarmerie personnel opened fire on enemy positions and destroyed 1 enemy ammunition depot, 20 trenches and 4 observation posts of the aggressors. At least 60 Iraqi soldiers were killed. Also in the same sector, navy combat units opened fire and destroyed a communication tower at Al-Faw port.

During the past 24 hours, Saddam's feeble army opened intense fire on the residential districts of Abadan, destroying several residential units and killing or wounding several of our dear compatriots.

Our heroic warriors continued their operations on various fronts in the west with exchanges of artillery and mortar fire. Our patrol groups in the Meymak sector, with the backing of artillery units, penetrated enemy positions in order to destroy their troops. This group set fire to and destroyed 1 machinegun, 1 ammunition tent and 5 trenches, killing or wounding several enemy troops.

In the Sumar sector, three equipment stockpiles, one ammunition dump and one vehicle of the Iraqi forces were destroyed and eight Iraqis were killed.

In the Sar-e Pol-e Zahab sector, our forces pounded the enemy's supply road with heavy-weapon fire and destroyed four trenches.

Exchanges of artillery fire continued on the Marivan and Paveh fronts. Thanks to our fire, enemy positions in (Valiabeh), Biarreh, (Shaneh Dari), Toveyleh and (Shushmir-e Bala) sectors were destroyed, artillery fire from the Iraqi forces was silenced and the construction of new trenches was halted.

INVESTIGATORS: ALGERIAN PLANE DOWNED BY IRAQIS

LD062052 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 6 May 82

[Excerpt] A delegation of experts of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran, headed by Col Bahman Forqani, has visited Urumiyeh to investigate the tragedy of the Iraqi fighter aircraft attack on the civilian aircraft carrying the Algerian foreign minister, which resulted in the martyrdom of the minister and his entourage. The delegation was accompanied by the charge d'affaires of our brother country Algeria and the military attache of that country.

At the end of the visit, Colonel Forqani, the delegation leader, and Major Siamak, one of the delegation members, explained the incident. We draw your attention to their remark:

[Begin recording] [Forqani] Our investigations revealed the following: A check of the dialogue tape from the Tabriz control tower made it clear that while the Algerian aircraft was moving toward Iranian airspace from Turkey, two fighter aircraft took off from a base in Iraq. Our radar recorded this exactly. The two fighter aircraft took off to clash with the Algerian aircraft. [passage indistinct]

If you study the flightpaths carefully, you will notice that this plot had been hatched in advance so as to meet this particular aircraft at that particular point. In accordance with their designed plan, the fighters took off from their airbase and attacked the Algerian aircraft before it entered our airspace.

Our radar warned the Algerian pilot to change direction for Ankara immediately. The radar station told the pilot several times that two MiG's were attacking him and that he must return to Ankara. However, it seems that the pilot was not a military pilot and was not well informed on military matters; thus, he insisted that he was carrying several very important persons and that he must go to Tehran. He had said that he could not, thus, go back to Ankara. He argued for approximately 2 minutes with the person in charge of our radar station. Finally he was convinced that he should return toward Ankara. But, unfortunately, at this point, when the aircraft had turned 120 degrees toward Ankara, that is, when it was facing about 300 degrees [as heard], it was hit by missiles fired by one of the Iraqi aircraft. The Algerian aircraft was hit exactly when flying over the border strip. It was hit by missiles on its tail, which broke off, and the left wing was also badly damaged and broke off. It was no longer possible to control the aircraft and it crashed.

We saw the Iraqi missile, its guiding and control sections, and its rocket motor. We even found the other part of the missile, the explosive head. It had exploded, but we found pieces inside the aircraft's fuselage. What other proof is needed?

[Siamak] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. In confirming the remarks made by His Excellency Colonel Forqani, I would like to complement his explanation by pointing out we have some undeniable documentary evidence. We are always ready to verify this for anybody or any official. They can come and see the evidence for themselves.

Fortunately, it was the will of Almighty God that electronic fragments of the missile and its rocket motor were left some distance from the aircraft after exploding. We have shown you these parts. The missile exploded, some pieces of the missile entered one side of the aircraft's fuselage and came out the other. This was clear. We showed the holes to all and to our Algerian brothers. They saw everything in detail and with care. We fully and expertly investigated the incident from a technical point of view, there is no doubt -- and all the existing documentary evidence indicates that two Iraqi aircraft chased the Algerian passenger aircraft bringing our Algerian brothers to Iran, and attacked it with missiles. There is no room for denial, as from a technical point of view we carefully investigated all aspects.

The places that the missile fragments hit are clearly visible -- on the wing and on the tail, where the main explosion took place, breaking them from the aircraft. The aircraft then lost control and after travelling for some distance, it hit the foot of a hill and, unfortunately, caught fire. Here we can show you pictures. [end recording]

ALGERIAN TEAM, VELAYATI DISCUSS CRASH

LD061544 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 6 May 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, the Algerian delegation headed by Mr Saleh Goudjil, Algeria's minister of transportation, met and conferred with our country's minister of foreign affairs last night. The delegation is in Tehran to investigate the crash of the Algerian minister of foreign affairs' aircraft, caused by the Iraqi Ba'thist regime's fighter aircraft, and to take the martyrs' bodies home. Mr Nezhad-Hoseyniyan [name as heard], the minister of roads and transport, members of the high-ranking delegation who had gone to the crash site on the first night to study and investigate, and several technical specialists attended the meeting.

Mr Velayati expressed his condolences on the tragic martyrdom of Brother Ben Yahia and his delegation. He talked about his memories of his visit to Algeria and his meeting with Ben Yahia. He noted the memory of his useful and effective meeting in Kuwait with the martyred Algerian minister and that martyr's friendliness. Mr Velayati added: It was during these visits that he was invited to visit his second country [Iran]; Brother Ben Yahia accepted this invitation with pleasure.

The president's special representative, the deputy minister of foreign affairs, the supervisor of civil aviation and members of the investigating team, who had all gone to the crash site on the first night of the incident, gave their observations to the Algerian delegation. One of the members of the investigating team said: The aircraft crashed in an area 2 km from the Iranian-Turkish border. The aircraft was almost totally destroyed by fire. Eyewitnesses report that the attack against the Algerian aircraft was carried out by two intruding aircraft and that the Algerian aircraft caught fire following the attack.

Then one of the technical experts used a map to describe how the attack was launched and the distance and location of the enemy aircraft from the Algerian aircraft. The text of the taped conversation between the control tower at Tabriz airport and the Algerian pilot was read out and a copy of the tape was given to the Algerian delegation.

According to the report, Mr Saleh Goudjil, the Algerian minister of transportation who is heading the 28-man delegation, made a speech at this meeting in which he referred to this painful incident as the common problem of the two Muslim countries of Iran and Algeria. He emphasized the increasing firmness of relations between the two countries. On his own behalf and on behalf of the Algerian Government, council and nation, he deeply thanked the representatives of the government and the Muslim nation of Iran for their sincere feelings. It was also agreed that the technical experts in the Algerian delegation would visit the crash site today to obtain firsthand information on the ruling Baghdad regime's foul crime.

CEREMONY HELD FOR BEN YAHIA IN TEHRAN 6 MAY

LD061240 Tehran IRNA in English 1040 GMT 6 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 6 May (IRNA) -- A massive funeral procession was held here this morning for the Algerian foreign minister, Mohamed Ben Yahia, and thirteen other Algerians who were martyred on Monday night in a plane crash near the Turkish border while en route to Tehran.

The ceremony which was held in front of the Majlis, was attended by the Algerian minister of roads and transport, Saleh Goudjil, who arrived in Tehran yesterday heading an Algerian mission to investigate the crash. The funeral was also attended by the Majlis Speaker, Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani, Majlis deputies, members of the Guardian's Council, Ministers of Roads and Transport Hadinezhad-Hoseyniyan and officials from the Foreign Affairs Ministry as well as a large number of people.

The plane carrying the Algerians who were on a peace mission effort to Tehran crashed in an area near Iran-Turkey border when it was attacked by the Iraqi fighters. The crowd who gathered in front of the Majlis chanted slogans against Saddam for having committed such a savage crime and praised Ben Yahia. The coffins of the martyrs, covered with the Algerian national flag, were carried by the military cadets. The bodies were then taken to Tehran Mehrabad Airport to be flown to Algiers.

Majlis Deputy Hasan Rohani, addressing the crowd talked about the Iraqi plot to kill the Algerian mission. He said there were strong evidences that the Iraqi fighters attacked the Algerian plane. He further added that by this action the Iraqi Government proved to the world that it was not after peace but rather was scared of it.

The Algerian roads and transport minister then addressed the crowd and on behalf of the Algerian nation thanked the heroic people of Iran for their sympathy shown in this disaster. He also thanked the Iranian officials for their continuous efforts in collecting information and documents about the incident and for arranging funeral services.

Speaker Rafsanjani hoped that soon the Iranian people would make Saddam and his masters kneel down and would expel them from its territories.

Later Iranian and foreign dignitaries gathered at Tehran Mehrabad Airport to pay tribute to the late Ben Yahia and his companions. It included Foreign Affairs Minister 'Ali Akbar Velayati; General Zahirnezhad, chief of the Joint Staff command; minister of roads and transport; and diplomats from embassies of Sweden, France, People's Democratic Republic of Yemen, Brazil, Bangladesh, Palestine, Yemen Arab Republic, Austria, India, Zaire, Soviet Union, People's Democratic Republic of China [as received], People's Republic of Bulgaria and Arab Saharan Democratic Republic.

The plane carrying the bodies of the Algerian officials took off at noon.

VELAYATI INTERVIEWED BEFORE LEAVING FOR ALGIERS

LD061910 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 6 May 82

[Text] Before leaving for Algeria, our country's foreign affairs minister, Mr 'Ali Akbar Velayati, spoke to our correspondent at the airport. We draw your attention to this interview:

[Begin recording] [passage indistinct] [Question] Could you tell us the latest outcome of investigations into the crash and if the Algerian officials have commented on the issue?

[Answer] We have no doubt whatsoever that Iraq is behind this tragedy and have no doubt that the plane carrying the late Ben Yahia and his entourage was attacked by Iraqi aircraft. However, in order to clarify the issue, and for our Algerian brothers to come to the same conclusion as ours, it is necessary for the Algerian team which has come to Iran to continue with their investigation and to see for themselves all the proof and documents, and later to make comment.

[Question] You held a meeting last night with the Algerian delegation, which is headed by the Algerian transportation minister. What topics did you discuss?

[Answer] Our Algerian brothers who came to Iran headed by the Algerian transportation minister wished to learn about the issue. They asked us to brief them on what had happened and to provide them with any documents at our disposal. Our meeting with them last night covered this issue. We told them what we knew and put at their disposal the documents which we had. We told them of our willingness to cooperate with them in order to facilitate their investigation. [end recording]

The Iranian delegation is planning to visit several other Latin American countries.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

10 MAY 1982

Lebanon

Israeli Raid, Palestinian Reaction -- Israeli planes bombed targets in southern Lebanon during the afternoon of 9 May, the clandestine Voice of Palestine radio reported. Jerusalem radio said the airstrike hit three Fatah bases, one south of the Az-Zahrani River, another south of Ad-Damur and a third on the outskirts of Sidon. It said the planes encountered sparse antiaircraft fire during their attack, which was ordered by the Israeli Government in retaliation for "grave violations" of the cease-fire, including the planting of mines in southern Lebanon and inside Israel, the injury of two people by a bomb on a Jerusalem bus and the planting of a bomb near the Ashqelon school. The Voice of Lebanon radio reported that the planes destroyed a missile dump in Ad-Dubbiyah and a radar station in the Ad-Dalhamiyah area. Five people were killed and 12 were wounded in the raids, according to Beirut radio. Sixteen planes took part in the attack, which lasted about 2 hours, YEDI'OT AHARONOT reported.

Shortly after the raid, Palestinian gunners in southern Lebanon opened fire across Israel's northern border, Jerusalem radio said. The Palestinians fired shells and Katyusha rockets into the Galilee panhandle, western Galilee and Maj Sajd Haddad's border enclave during the evening, according to Jerusalem television. While the television said the IDF had not returned the fire, Voice of Lebanon spoke of an Israeli-Palestinian artillery duel along the border. Galilee residents spent the night in bomb shelters, but quiet prevailed along the border during the night, according to Jerusalem Radio. IDF radio said Prime Minister Menahem Begin has promised the Metulla local council head to do everything to ensure that quiet is maintained along the border in the future. Jerusalem radio noted that although 100 shells were fired, there were no casualties. The Israeli Cabinet held a 4-hour meeting on 10 May to discuss the situation in the north, according to IDF radio. Military chiefs attended the meeting.

Reacting to the Israeli air raid, the Voice of Palestine warned that the joint forces will not stand "with hands tied before these continuous Zionist aggressions." The Israeli Government will pay a "very heavy price," whose effects will not be confined to one specific part of the conflict and confrontation area, but will spread on a large scale, the radio said. The PLO Executive Committee, which met in Beirut after the raid, accused Israel of "blatant and repeated violations" of the ceasefire, according to a subsequent radio report.

Tripoli Clashes -- Gunmen from rival factions in the northern city of Tripoli engaged in violent clashes throughout the weekend, according to Beirut radio reports. The radio spoke of fierce shelling between the At-Tabbanah and Ba'l Muhsin quarters and noted that Syrian Arab Deterrent Forces came under attack. It said 5 people were killed and 52 were wounded 7-8 May and that another 8 were killed and 38 were wounded in renewed clashes on 9 May. Former Prime Minister Rashid Karami's efforts to arrange a cease-fire did not succeed.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Military Situation -- Iranian forces have liberated the Shalamcheh area, completing the siege of Khorramshahr and surrounding two Iraqi brigades, Tehran radio's Arabic service announced early on 10 May. The third phase of the current offensive started the previous night, the radio said. Earlier, military communiques and reports broadcast by Tehran radio said the Iranians had recaptured Hamid, Hoveyzeh and Jofeyr in western Khuzestan, near the Iraqi border. Iraqi missile bases in Jofeyr, which were targeted on Ahvaz, had fallen. Before fleeing, Iraqi troops destroyed Hoveyzeh and Hamid, according to IRNA.

An Iraqi military spokesman announced that Iraqi forces have withdrawn from positions west of Ahvaz and Susangerd in order to reinforce Iraqi units in the south, INA reported on 8 May. The Iraqis have reinforced their presence in Khorramshahr to confront any possible Iranian attack there, he said. The main task of Iraqi forces is not to preserve Iranian territory, the spokesman said, but to inflict heavy losses on the Iranians in order to exhaust them and force Iran to recognize Iraq's rights to land and water.

Despite the admission of withdrawal, Iraq continued to report military successes over the weekend. Military statements reported by Voice of the Masses radio on 8 May claimed the Iranians lost 3,500 killed and suffered large tank losses on the southern front. Iraqi fighter planes and helicopters attacked Iranian positions in the (at-Taheri)-(Halub) Bridge area on 9 May, according to a communique carried by INA. The Iraqis shot down one Iranian plane over Bostan on 10 May and two others in the southern front on 8 May, according to reports by Baghdad radio and Voice of the Masses. On the other hand, a communique carried by INA on 7 May admitted the loss of two Iraqi fighters over Iran. An Iranian communique carried by Tehran radio said Iranian fighters and antiaircraft fire had downed six Iraqi planes, including two Mirages on 7 May.

Egyptian Warning to Iran -- Egyptian Foreign Ministry First Under Secretary Dr Usamah al-Baz has warned Iran that there would be "grave consequences" if the Iranian Army crossed the Iraqi border, MENA reported. Egypt is opposed to a widening and escalation of aggressive acts, and the situation must be contained, Al-Baz said.

Iran

Embassy Destroyed -- A bomb exploded in front of the Syrian Embassy in Tehran on 9 May, destroying the embassy building and wounding 16 passersby, Tehran radio reported. The Syrian envoy to Iran noted Iraq's involvement in similar acts and linked Iraq with the explosion, the radio added. However, an Iraqi Government spokesman ridiculed the Syrian ambassador's allegations and said it is ridiculous that Iraq should be held responsible for protecting the Syrian Embassy in Tehran, Baghdad radio reported.

Religious Leader Convicted -- A religious leader and three revolution guards have been convicted and sentenced for their part in a plot to overthrow Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni, AFP reported citing ETTELA'AT. The religious leader, Sheykh Ebrahim Moharrer, was sentenced to 10 years exile in Qom, while the other three received 10-year prison sentences.

Israel

Autonomy Talks -- The Cabinet has proposed to resume without delay the negotiations between Egypt, Israel and the United States on full autonomy for the Arab inhabitants of Judaea, Samaria and the Gaza District, while also asserting that these talks would be held in the capitals of the three countries involved, Jerusalem radio reported. The Cabinet determined that it was inconceivable that Israel should agree to the boycott of Jerusalem as one of the three capitals in which the autonomy talks were to be conducted. Prime Minister Menahem Begin made it categorically clear that he will not allow an Israeli delegation to leave for Washington for talks if talks are not later held in Jerusalem as well, IDF radio reported. Meanwhile, Dr Butrus Ghali, Egyptian minister of state for foreign affairs, said the differences between Egypt and Israel on holding the Palestinian autonomy negotiations in Jerusalem are merely procedural difficulties for which a solution can be reached, Cairo radio reported.

Security Situation -- Six Druzes in the Golan Heights village of Buq'ata were wounded when police fired at demonstrators who tried to attack a police patrol car, Jerusalem radio reported. However, the villagers maintained that nine people had been wounded, according to a later radio report. A woman and an 8-year-old girl were injured when a bomb exploded on a bus in the 'Ezrat Torah quarter of Jerusalem, according to another radio report.

West Bank Municipalities' Communique -- West Bank municipalities said in a joint communique that they will continue to boycott the civil administration in reaction to the Israeli occupation and the administration's harming of unarmed Arab inhabitants, Jerusalem radio reported. The municipalities said they would continue to provide essential services to the inhabitants, although the dismissed Palestinian mayors had previously proposed stopping all services. According to a later radio report, the municipalities retracted the joint communique and decided to make a symbolic suspension of services to the inhabitants.

Egypt

Qabus Visit -- Omani Sultan Qabus ibn Sa'id departed Muscat on 8 May for a 4-day state visit to Egypt to hold talks with Egyptian President Husni Mubarak, WAKH reported. According to MENA, the two leaders met for talks on 9 May. Foreign Ministry First Under Secretary Dr Usamah al-Baz said the talks between the two leaders, which lasted over 2 hours, dealt with developments in the Iran-Iraq war, Gulf security, the Palestinian issue and relations between Egypt and Oman, MENA reported. Commenting on the Iran-Iraq war, Al-Baz said there was agreement between the two leaders that these military operations should stop in view of their grave consequences, which go beyond the two countries. Regarding whether Sultan Qabus had contacted Arab states about restoring relations with Egypt, Al-Baz said the Omani leader is carrying out various contacts and that Arab leaders had made several visits to Muscat. However, Al-Baz denied that Qabus' visit to Egypt was made under an agreement with members of the GCC.

In a dinner speech broadcast by Cairo radio, Qabus urged Arab leaders to forget the past and to restore relations between the Arab states and Egypt in order to complete the rebuilding of Arab solidarity. Mubarak, in his dinner speech also carried by the radio, praised the Omani leader for standing by Egypt in the past. In a reference to the Iran-Iraq war, Mubarak said Egypt would not accept any infringement on the security of the Arab Gulf states and actions aimed at jeopardizing the rights of these states. Mubarak also noted the need to create a proper atmosphere for the inclusion of the Palestinians in the Middle East peace process. He said this requires a halt to acts of suppression and violence, the avoidance of extremism and incitement and a halt to the building of settlements in Arab territory.

Egyptian-Arab Relations -- Iraqi President Saddam Husayn is considering normalizing relations with Egypt, according to a Saudi press report cited by AFP. The London paper ASH-SHARQ AL-AWSAT reported that the Iraqi president is preparing to send a senior representative to Cairo. Meanwhile, Bahraini Foreign Minister Muhammad ibn Mubarak Al Khalifah, in an interview with the Lebanese weekly AN-NAHAR AL-'ARABI WA AD-DUWALI cited by MENA, said the Arabs want Egypt back in the Arab fold and that Bahrain is trying to achieve this. He added that efforts to remove the gap between Egypt and the Arabs will begin within days or weeks. Sudanese President Ja'far Numayri called for an Arab summit with Egypt invited to attend, SPA rpeorted citing a Numayri interview with 'UKAZ and AL-MADINAH.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali has said Arab solidarity is inevitable and that Egypt welcomes any efforts aimed at consolidating the solidarity of Arab states, Cairo radio reported.

Mubarak Interview -- Egypt will leave it to the Arab states, each as it sees fit and in its own time, to resume relations with Egypt, President Mubarak declared in an interview with Omani journalists carried by MENA. Noting that he did not wish to embarass them, Mubarak said Egypt had taken no steps toward a rapprochement with the Arab states. Asked to appraise Egyptian-Omani relations, Mubarak confirmed that relations are "excellent." Regarding the restoration of Arab territory still under Israeli control, Mubarak said this could only be achieved through negotiation. Mubarak said he does not agree with Syria that liberation can be achieved by force. Asked about the Iran-Iraq war, Mubarak said the Iraqi president is prepared to reach an agreement with Iran and to withdraw to the prewar border. Mubarak called on Iran to agree to this.

Executions Demanded -- The state supreme security prosecution has demanded the execution of 299 defendants in the case of the Al-Jihad organization, MENA reported. The defendants, who are accused of attempting to overthrow the government, will be the first to stand trial out of the 1,200 persons accused in the case, MENA noted.

Yemen

PDRY-YAR Relations -- Unity will remain the prime objective between the YAR and PDRY, and the two countries will not hesitate to use any means to achieve it, 'Ali Nasir Muhammad, secretary general of the YSP Central Committee, and YAR President Col 'Ali 'Abdallah Salih declared in a press statement carried by Sana'a' radio. During their 3-day meeting in Ta'izz, the two leaders agreed to overcome the "instability" and "difficulties" obstructing reunification.

YAR Envoy to USSR Recalled -- The YAR is believe to have recalled its ambassador to the Soviet Union because of Soviet support for Yemeni dissidents, AFP reported citing Arab diplomatic sources. The Soviet ambassador had been warned several times by the YAR Foreign Ministry against Soviet interference in YAR affairs, the source noted.

Saudi Arabia

Petroleum and Mineral Affairs Minister Shaykh Ahmad Zaki Yamani has denied that Saudi Arabia's oil production has fallen to 5.5 million barrels per day, SPA reported.

MAJ GEN ABDOL QADER INTERVIEWED ON SECURITY

LD092312 Budapest Domestic Television Service in Hungarian 1700 GMT 9 May 82

[Laszlo Benda interview with Maj Gen Abdol Qader, vice president of the Revolutionary Council of Afghanistan and "minister of defense," following a military parade held in Kabul to mark the Afghan revolution anniversary -- date not given -- Qader's responses are in Russian with superimposed Hugarian translation]

[Text] [Question] You have three important posts: You are vice president of the Revolutionary Council, minister of Defense [as heard] and a head of department at the party Central Committee. Which one of these are you concentrating on most?

[Answer] I work most at the Ministry of Defense. My work as head of the Justice and Defense Department in the Central Committee is connected with this. I also have tasks in my post as vice president of the Revolutionary Council.

[Question] How would you characterize Afghanistan's current internal security situation?

[Answer] I must remind that an undeclared war is being waged in our country at present. However, the military initiative is unequivocally in our hands. We have succeeded in liquidating the majority of the counterrevolutionary gangs. This is why these forces have resorted to new tactics: the use of terrorist methods.

[Question] How can you respond to these tactics?

[Answer] The situation in our country is normal.

[Question] Yes, but I was asking you about tactics, that is, the tactics of those resisting.

[Answer] We are taking the necessary countermeasures.

[Question] What kind of measures, for instance?

[Answer] For example, we send small groups, reconnaissance units to various localities. We study the data we receive about the rebels. Our reconnaissance units in the air and on land are operating along the length of our borders. In a word, we are keeping an eye on them.

[Question] Are there at present any dangerous regions in Afghanistan?

[Answer] There are no dangerous areas in this country.

[Question] In your view, then, there is complete security?

[Answer] Yes.

[Question] Even so, a general mobilization was ordered in the course of the past few months. Do you think the size of the Afghan Army can be successfully stabilized?

[Answer] Naturally. During the past few days, as you may have heard, we announced that we would demobilize those soldiers whose tour of duty had come to an end, that is to say, those who have finished their tour of duty. We are, of course, recruiting new soldiers to replace those demobilized.

[Question] And are these measures adequate?

[Answer] Yes, because on the one hand we are recruiting and mobilizing new men and thus building up the army, while on the other hand, we are demobilizing those whose tour of duty has come to an end.

[Question] Could you give us a few concrete figures about the number of rebels captured in the course of the past year?

[Answer] Well, during the past year, or more precisely, during the 4 or 5 months since I became minister of defense, [as heard] we have succeeded in capturing more than 3,000-4,000 counterrevolutionaries.

[Question] And what about weapons?

[Answer] In the course of last year we captured more than 5,000 weapons, yes, 5,000 weapons.

SECURITY FORCES ARREST 73 COUNTERREVOLUTIONARIES

GF091813 Kabul International Service in Arabic 1700 GMT 9 May 82

[Text] Aided by the masses, the security forces and party members have crushed a number of counterrevolutionaries who used to disturb the security of the toiling masses in Maranjan, Helmand Province.

In a report by the BAKHTAR news agency correspondent in Maranjan, in Helmand Province, the armed forces have captured 73 of these counterrevolutionaries, including their known leaders. The BAKHTAR correspondent adds that the armed forces have demolished three caches belonging to these traitors of the homeland and the revolution and have seized the vehicles which these counterrevolutionaries forcibly took from the toiling masses. They also captured various kinds of weapons and hundreds of antitank missiles and documents [words indistinct] of these bands.

The BAKHTAR correspondent reports that thousands of toiling citizens of Maranjan and its outskirts in Helmand Province have hailed the crushing of these counterrevolutionaries and acknowledged the armed forces' struggle to cleanse the country of these bands. They took part in a great march held on this occasion, raising national flags and [word indistinct] and shouting slogans against the enemies of the homeland and the revolution who are opposing humanity and (?Islam).

COUNTERREVOLUTIONARIES IN WARDAG, JOWZJAN CAUGHT

LD052022 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1600 GMT 5 May 82

[Text] As a result of the courage of security force and revolution defense groups 12 people connected with counterrevolutionary elements were crushed in Zarqol Village, in the suburbs of Maydan Shahr, Wardag Province. Five more of these enemies of the peace and prosperity of our toiling people were captured.

A spokesman for the province's security force reported that these traitors to the homeland and revolution annoyed and caused suffering for our toiling people by intimidating and robbing them along the Kabul-Maydan highway. The spokesman added that nine assorted weapons, ammunition and handgrenades were seized from these counterrevolutionary elements.

According to a report from the capital of Jowzjan Province, a group of counterrevolutionary elements who had endangered the peaceful life of the people of Shor Tepa village, Qarqin District, Jowzjan Province, together with their ringleaders Mohammad Morad and Mohammad Zaher, were crushed on 2 May by the security forces and revolution defense group.

Assorted American and Chinese weapons and a large quantity of ammunition were seized from them.

In a unanimous judgment yesterday morning, they were found not guilty and acquitted of charges in this case.

AFP Report

BK081458 Hong Kong AFP in English 1000 GMT 8 May 82

[Text] Dacca, 8 May (AFP) -- Bangladesh's former deputy prime minister, Jamaluddin Ahmed, facing trial for the third time in a martial law tribunal, was today unanimously acquitted on charges of corruption and misuse of power while he was industries minister.

However, in two judgments recently under the martial law regulations, which carry a possible death penalty, he was sentenced to 7 years of hard labour and a fine of 1 million takas and to a day of rigorous imprisonment and a fine of 350,000 takas.

Eleven others, mostly traders and licensing officials, who were accused of aiding and abetting, were also acquitted today and ordered to be freed.

Mr Ahmed is expected to appear before another martial law tribunal next week on similar charges of corruption and misucs of power.

A second special martial law tribunal was set up last week under Brigadier Abdus Salam. It is expected to start trying cases against former ministers and others next week.

The first to appear before it is to be former Housing Minister and Mayor of Dacca City Abul Hasnat, who was one of eight former ministers arrested following Army Chief Lt Gen Ershad's military takeover here on March 24.

HAQ ON POSSIBILITY OF ELECTIONS, ADVISORY COUNCIL

BK081036 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 8 May 82

[Text] Talking to newsmen, the president said while formulating the future political structure for the country, which has been receiving constant thought, they must see what is good for the nation, its consolidation and integration with its Islamic ideological base. About the holding of elections on non-party basis, he said the idea was put forward in order to ascertain public views. This was only one of the proposals before him. The idea was put forward in view of the very large number of political parties and if this was put into practice it might help in reducing the number of parties. As, and when two or three major parties emerged in the country, the political activities would be allowed.

President Ziaul Haq said the establishment of the Majlis-I-Shoora [Federal Advisory Council] was a step in the direction of political activities. In reply to a question, he said the recommendations of the Islamic ideology council about various laws will be presented to the Majlis-I-Shoora as and when they are submitted by the council. He told a questioner that for the remaining members of the Majlis-I-Shoora, and as announced by him in Dera Ghazi Khan, he had decided to give representation to the tribal area of that division. In reply to another question, he has allowed Dr Israr Ahmed to resign from the Majlis to enable him to puruse his religious preaching. All the members of the majlis were nominated after ascertaining their consent and if anyone was to leave it there was no bar.

HAQ FAVORS ROLE FOR ARMY IN FUTURE POLITICAL SETUP

GF100747 Karachi DAWN in English 7 May 82 pp 1, 20

[Excerpt] Multan, May 6 -- President Mohammad Ziaul Haq said here today that he favoured a role for the army in the future political setup of the country to forestall repetition of martial laws. Talking to newsmen at the Multan airport on his way from Dera Ghazi Khan to Rawalpindi this evening, he said it was his firm belief that such a role for the army was essential in an ideological state like Pakistan.

The army, he said, was responsible for the protection and defence of the country and being a disciplined and organised force was capable of protecting the geographical frontiers of the nations. He said that any further setup would envisage a higher command council to take decisions on vital and important issues. The command council, he said, should include the president, the prime minister, the defense minister and the three chiefs of the army. He said it was all the more necessary to have such high command council to avoid conflicting decisions regarding the country's foreign and domestic policies.

He said that by virtue of the importance of the armed forces in the defence of the country it was imperative that they were informed of the national and international issues facing the country. He said had there been a balance between the powers of the president and the prime minister under the 1973 constitution, the president would have taken a decision to pull the country back from the crisis of 1977. The involvement of the army, he said thus would have been excluded.

HAMID, HOVEYZEH TAKEN: OTHER SUCCESSES DETAILED

Joint Communique 12

LD071306 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 7 May 82

[Joint communique No 12 of the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. In the name of God, the crusher of the oppressors. Mohammad, the prophet of God, and those who are with him are harsh with the enemy but merciful among themselves.[Koranic verse] "Greetings to dear Iran and the noble people, who have such powerful fighters, such lovers so immersed in divine beauty and such soldiers who regard martyrdom as their ultimate goal and self-sacrifice in the path of their beloved as their basic aspiration" -- Imam Khomeyni.

In the second stage of the extensive Jerusalem Operations [bayt al-moqaddas], the fighters of Islam continue to advance to the west of the Karun River and are inflicting fresh blows upon the defeated enemy. In these operations, which started at 2215 last night with the codename Lord of the Faithful, the fighters of Islam, with divine assistance, attacked the enemy and at 2252 occupied the first enemy bunker. Then by attacking the heart of the enemy positions, our brothers set fire to a large number of tanks and armored personnel carriers. Following this offensive by the fighters of Islam, a number of enemy soldiers to the west of Hoseyniyeh surrendered to the forces of Islam and turned over 18 personnel carriers. At 0030 this morning the enemy's 1st Armored Battalion and one tank battalion from their 12th Armored Brigade were completely surrounded by the fighters of Islam and were smashed. At 0100 the enemy, which could no longer resist and confront the heroic forces of Islam, began to flee and withdraw. At 0115 the headquarters of the 6th Armored Brigade of the 3d Iraqi Division was surrounded by the fighters of Islam, and all the guards and personnel of the headquarter were killed.

Continuing their clashes with the enemy, the powerful and heroic fighters of Islam succeeded in completely smashing the 6th and 12th Armored Brigades of the 3d Iraqi Division this morning. Following that, the fighters defending the Islamic revolution in a victorious operation succeeded in inflicting heavy blows upon the enemy's 8th Mechanized Brigade. Under the crushing blows of the forces of Islam, the aggressive enemy forces suffered a large number of dead and injured and left behind a very large quantity of their armored equipment while fleeing.

In one of the canals that the enemy was constructing to protect the southwest side of the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr road, more than 30 tanks have been left behind intact. At the moment, a large number of charred tanks and demolished personnel carriers can be seen throughout the region, and a large quantity of weapons and ammunitions of the forces of Saddam have been captured intact by the forces of Islam. The job of collecting and counting them is still going on.

During these operations, which were carried out under the codename Lord of the Faithful, Ya 'Ali ibn Abu Talib, on the eve of his blessed birthday, more than 300 square km of the holy land of the Islamic revolution were cleansed of the aggressive enemy. Thus, since the beginning of the Jersualem Operations, more than 1,100 square km of our Islamic homeland to the west of the Karun River have been liberated.

At the moment, the fighters of Islam are stationed along 17 km of the international border and are busy consolidating the positions they have won. During today's operations two enemy planes were downed by the fire from fighter planes and antiaircraft guns of the fighters of Islam. At this stage of the extensive Jerusalem Operation, a large number of aggressive enemy forces were killed or wounded and a large number of tanks, personnel carriers, vehicles and a large quantity of weapons and ammunitions were captured by the forces of Islam. However, due to the extensive nature of the operation, no accurate satistics are yet available about the number of enemy losses, the equipment destroyed or the booty seized.

At the moment, the enemy-crushing fighters, the noble children of the Islamic nation, the heroic soldiers of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, the self-sacrificing members of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, the devoted members of the reconstruction crusade, the hard-working relief workers of all the fighters who are working for the fulfillment of divine aspirations, as well as our combative and aware clergy, who side by side with our fighters chant verses concerning the Islamic jihad for the children of Islam, are standing firm and strong in their eternal covenant with their lord. They express their congratulations for these great victories, which are the result of their unity and their reliance on Almighty God and His secret assistance to his holiness, the remnant of God [the hidden imam], may our lives be a sacrifice to him and to his vice regent, the great Khomeyni. May these great victories add to the faith, devotion and steadfastness of our martyr-nurturing nation. With hope for the Islamic combatants' final victory and the liberation of Jerusalem from usurping Zionism. With the assistance of God, victory is near.

[Signed] The Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran

Joint Communique 13

LD071816 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 7 May 82

[Joint communique No 13 of the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. In the name of God, the crusher of oppressors. "Glory to the combatants who have [words indistinct] the war fronts by their meditations and prayers to their creator." [quotation from Khomeyni]

The victorious combatants and the proud conquerors of the (?land) of salvation, these enthusiastic followers of Hoseyn's Karbala and sincere warfarers on the path of the Koran, are tirelessly continuing their war against world oppression and its criminal servants.

As a part of the second phase of the overall Jerusalem Operation[bayt al-moqaddas], which began with the codename Ya 'Ali ibn Abu Talib, west of the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr axis and during which powerful combatants succeeded in reaching the border, our forces dealt repeated and crushing blows to the weakened and deteriorating enemy forces.

In this part of the operations, our combatants succeeded in crushing the 6th and 12th Brigades of the 3d Division of the Iraqi Army, destroying their positions and inflicting heavy casualties on their 8th Mechanized Brigade. They also surrounded the positions occupied by the 24th Brigade of the enemy's 10th Division and completely destroyed it.

The commander of this brigade, Yunes Mohammad Rushid, was wounded during this operation.

During this operation, codenamed 'Ali ibn Abu Talib to coincide with birthday anniversary of this superman of Islamic history, our combatants lulled a large number of aggressors and captured some of them. Some 482 POW's were evacuated in the second phase of the operation, west of the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr road.

This morning, the fast flyers of the Iranian Air Force and the eagles of the airborne division began bombing the enemy assembly points and positions in various regions within the operational zone, destroying a large number of tanks, artillery pieces and vehicles.

In today's operations, six enemy planes including two Mirages, were downed by our fighters and the fire of our antiaircraft units. One enemy helicopter was also downed by our powerful fire.

In general, today's operation west of the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr Road, which resulted in our combatants reaching the international borders, was another great lesson for the duped Saddamists and should make them realize that the army of Islam takes its power and force from God and therefore standing up to it only means defeat, destruction, abjectness and indignity.

Therefore, we ask all the remaining Iraqi forces not to act according to the evil and criminal whims of Saddam and to place themselves in the safe shelter of the Islamic Republic of Iran by joining Islam. With hope for the Islamic combatants' final victory and the liberation of Jerusalem [bayt al-moqaddas]. With the assistance from God, victory is near.

[Joint communique No 14 issued by the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Proud and heroic people of Iran: Your brave sons, by relying on the undiminishing power of God in continuation of the second phase of the Jerusalem Operation [bayt al-moqaddas], succeeded in recapturing the important and strategic Hamid garrison, which has been under the claws of the Ba'thist invaders for 19 months. Our forces fully captured the enemy positions in this region. The brave warriors of Islam also succeeded in cleansing the northern sector of the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr road of the filth of the invaders; the enemy was forced to retreat and flee.

The feeble enemy, who has lost its ability to resist, is leaving behind many dead and wounded and a large amount of destroyed equipment. The brave combatants of the army of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the self-sacrificing personnel of the Guards Corps continue to deliver blows to the enemy.

According to the latest information, the forces of Islam are about to liberate the strategic Hoveyzeh.

During these epicmaking moments, we must continue to beseech God Almighty to grant great victories to the corps of Islam; with the assistance of God, victory is near.

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. In the name of God, the crusher of the oppressors. Mohammad, the prophet of God, and those who are with him are harsh with the enemy but merciful among themselves. [Koranic verse]

The sacred atmosphere of the Islamic homeland is fragrant with the life-giving scent of the grace of God. The epic acts of the fighters of Islam -- these forces who open the gates of the salvation of all the oppressed people of the world and who sing the song of victory -- have bestowed a divine grandeur upon the oppressed people who are fighting on the battlefronts between truth and falsehood. Unbounded praise to Almighty God, who alone should be worshipped. God be glorified, for He bestowed upon us the honor of following and safeguarding the faith proclaimed by His messenger, Mohammad -- may God's grace and blessings be upon him -- and his kin, and who have brought degradation, defeat and fear upon his enemies.

The powerful fighters of Islam, continuing the second stage of the Jerusalem Operation [bayt al-moqaddas], under the codename Ya 'Ali ibn Abu Talib, today, after first capturing the important and strategic Hamid garrison and raising the flag of the Islamic Republic of Iran, and after completing mopping-up operations in the northern part of the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr road, continued their advances and succeeded in liberating Hoveyzeh -- this city of fighting believers and self-sacrificing monotheists and the lovers of martyrdom -- from the hands of the enemies of God and people and thus returned the region to the embrace of the Islamic homeland. Hoveyzeh -- this land of martyrdom of devoted martyrs and the battlefield of the epic-making fighters of Islam -- was liberated by the victorious forces of Islam. During today's victorious advances, extensive parts of the Islamic homeland were liberated from the hands of the Ba'thist aggressors. Some of the liberated areas included the Susangerd-Hoveyzeh road in the Tarrah region, and also (Nabard), (Forsieh), (Seyyed Jaber) and many other villages. These areas were liberated during today's operations and are now under the complete control of the powerful forces of Islam. As a result of the advances of the forces of Islam, the hero-nurturing city of Ahvaz and the city of unknown martyrs, Susangerd, are now out of the range of artillery fire from the criminal enemy.

Since the beginning of the second phase of the extensive Jerusalem Operation, heavy losses and casualties have been inflicted upon the aggressive enemy but due to the extensive nature of the operation, no accurate statistics are yet available.

The high-flying eagles of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the heroic pilots of the airborne division today carried out numerous sorties and, while providing air cover for the areas in which operation took place, inflicted heavy blows and damage to the aggressive enemy forces. One aggressive enemy aircraft was hit by antiaircraft fire of the fighters of Islam and was downed to the west of Karun.

May God's assistance continue to vouchsafe the followers of truth, and may the victorious fighters of Islam be granted patience and steadfastness, and may the prayers of the great imam of the Islamic ummah, the idol-crushing Khomeyni, as well as the prayers of the martyr-nurturing and revolutionary nation come to the aid of the fighters of Islam, and may they augur future victories for them. By relying upon the undiminishing power of Almighty God, the fighters of Islam continue to create new epic tales and move forward, with hope for the Islamic combatants' final victory and the liberation of Jerusalem from usurping Zionism. With the assistance of God, victory is near.

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. In the name of God, the crusher of the oppressor. Mohammad, the prophet of God, and those who are with him are harsh with the enemy but merciful among themselves. [Koranic verse]

On the permanent battlefield of the Islamic umma against the world oppressor and its servants, the valiant sons of the Koran school, with their bravery and martyrdom, are about to inflict their final and crushing blows upon the Satanic powers and their mercenaries, these enemies of faith and Islam, to bring to the world oppressed the final and extensive victory.

Combatant and Muslim umma of Iran: Following the successful Jerusalem operation [bayt al-moqaddas] which was launched under the codename Ya 'Ali ibn Abu Talib, the combatants of Islam continue to inflict crushing blows on the enemy. Following the liberation of the strategic garrisons of Hamid and Hoveyzeh, as well as the Susangerd-Hoveyzeh road and north of the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr road, our warriors succeeded this morning in recapturing completely the supply and communications region of Jofeyr and clearing this region of the dirty existence of the Ba'athist regime's aggressors. In continuing these operations, the Islamic warriors relying on God's endless energy and with love for victory or martyrdom, have continued with their assault and attacks against the world oppressor and Saddam's deceived mercenaries and are advancing toward the city of honor and epic, the city of blood and martyrdom, the city of faith and dedication, heroic Khorramshahr. The warriors of the Islamic army, these selfless sons of the umma of Islam, are continuing with their advance for the complete surrender of the city; thus by destroying and crushing the aggressor enemy forces, to liberate and clear Khorramshahr, this city of blood, from the Saddamists and aggressors.

Yes, city of blood and city of martyrdom, city of resistance, we are coming to clean your body of the black oppression and teach a final lesson to the American Saddam and the Saddamist Americans. We are coming with our umma's blessings and their prayers to Almighty God, to present Islam and the nation of Islam with greater victories. With hope for the Islamic combatants' final victory and liberation of Jerusalem from occupying Zionism. With the assistance of God, victory is near.

[Excerpt] Oh combative Islamic umma, the third phase of the victorious Jerusalem Operation [bayt al-moqaddas] began at 2245 last night under the codename Ya 'Ali ibn Abu Talib, when the Islamic valiants, relying on the boundless divine might, launched an extensive attack against the enemy.

The Islamic combatants succeeded in smashing the first enemy embankment south of the Ahvaz-Khuninshahr road at 2315. During a battle against the weakened enemy, our forces continued their advance. During these operations, the valiant Islamic fighters smashed the enemy forces, which had been reinforcing their fortifications, tanks and mechanized forces for the past few days in the northwest and west of Khorramshahr and inflicted heavy losses and casualties on them. A considerable number of the aggressive troops are dead and a considerable quantity of enemy tanks, personnel carriers, vehicles and equipment has been destroyed by the Islamic combatants. While engaged in heavy fighting against the weakened enemy, the Islamic forces continued their advance to recapture Shalamcheh, its supply road and then annihilate the enemy forces in the Khorramshahr area. Further details of the operations will be announced later.

Meanwhile, during the second phase of the Jerusalem Operation, which culminated in the liberation of a vast area west of the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr Road, Hoveyzeh, Hamid garrison, Jufeyr and the Susangerd-Hoveyzeh road, more than 2,600 km of the Islamic homeland were cleared of the aggressive enemy. Thus, since the beginning of the Jerusalem operation over 3,400 sq km of the occupied territory have been recaptured from the invading enemy and fully liberated. With hope for the Islamic combatants' final victory and the liberation of Jerusalem from occupying Zionism.!

[Communique No 890 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. We wish ultimate victory for all Islamic warriors and send our greetings to the souls of our martyrs in the battlefield where good is combatting evil. As we have already informed the dear Muslim nation of the victories achieved by Islamic combatants during the Jeruslaem Operation [Bayt al-Moqaddas] in our earlier communiques, so we announce the results of efforts and self-sacrifices made by other self-sacrificing combatants in the Islamic republic's armed forces in other battlefields, they have not ceased their efforts to annihilate the Saddam forces.

In the course of an exchange of fire on the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts our naval heroes, having returned the enemy's fire and silenced it, destroyed a number of enemy positions as well as a large communications tower in Fao Port. During this operation a number of enemy troops were either killed or wounded. Our gendarmerie heroes also succeeded in destroying 10 enemy trenches and foxholes as well as several observation posts on the same fronts and inflicting some damage to the Fao jetty.

Yesterday, fighting continued on most fronts in the western sector, with our artillery fire and ground forces units stopping Saddam's troops in every sector. During these operations three enemy tanks were rendered useless and two ammunition dumps were destroyed; also a number of enemy emplacements and their personnel were destroyed.

Heavy artillery fire is continuing against Saddam's forces in Biyarah, Hargineh and Towayleh, causing considerable losses and casualties to the enemy troops. In the Biyarah area an antiaircraft gun together with its ammunition was destroyed; in the Hargineh area several observation posts and in the Towayleh area a number of enemy trucks were destroyed and set ablaze.

[Unnumbered communique of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name, thanks and gratitude in an honorable and proud manner to the generous God and the most exalted creator for His honorably advancing Islam and the combatants of Islam, who under His blessings and divine help against the blasphemous enemy and the unbelieving aggressor makes Islam's relentless and blasphemy-fighting battle eternal.

Simultaneous with the glad tidings of victory and conquest achieved in the Jerusalem Operation [bayt al-mozaddas], the self-sacrificing combatants of the ground forces do not spare a moment to deal blows at and destroy the aggressive Saddamists or to deal blows at the falling body of the enemy. In an area stretching from Salehabad to Sar-e Pol-e Zahab they killed or wounded a number of the Iraqi forces and silenced their fire, set fire to three trucks, one of which was carrying ammunition, and destroyed two mortars and several heavy and light weapons positions of the Saddamist forces.

On the Marivan fronts, the enemy positions on the other side of the border came under the intense fire of the combatants of Islam and losses and casualties were inflicted upon the enemy, including the destruction of a number of the Saddamists' vehicles together with their occupants.

On the Abadan fronts the heroes of the gendarmerie brought the positions of the Iraqi forces on the other side of the Arvand Rud under the intense heavy weapons fire and were able to set fire to and destroy one fuel tanker, one mortar, three heavy machinegun emplacements and eight trenches of the Saddamists. Approximately 50 of the Ba'thist mercenaries were killed or wounded.

At 1523 today, an intruding aircraft of the aggressive Iraqi Army was shot down by the air defense unit of the Air Force of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran on the Abadan front. [Tehran IRNA in English at 0955 GMT on 9 May notes the aircraft was a MiG]

Yesterday, the enemy's scattered positions in the western zone in Khorramshahr came under the fire of the heroes of the navy, and three observations posts and several trenches of the enemy were destroyed, and six Saddamist forces were killed.

Hoveyzeh Leveled; Hamid Hit

LD090954 Tehran IRNA in English 0919 GMT 9 May 82

[Text] Ahvaz, 9 May (IRNA) -- The city of Hoveyzeh, recently liberated by Iranian forces, was levelled to the ground by Iraqi forces after all the houses of the city were exploded.

Hoveyzeh, some 30 kms from the international border southwest of Susangerd, which was liberated after 19 months' occupation on Saturday, was completely destroyed by Iraqi aggressors. The bridge of Hoveyzeh and the fresh water reservoir were also destroyed by enemy troops. The Iraqis left only two buildings' walls standing before they fled the town.

Meanwhile, the Hamid garrison, 40 kms from Ahvaz on the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr road, which was also liberated on Saturday, was partly destroyed. Members of the reconstruction jihad have already started repair work on the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr road after a gaping hole was made by the fleeing Iraqis. On both sides of the road embankments, strongholds of the enemy could be seen. For several kms around the Ahvaz-Khuninshar road and railway thousands of mines were neutralised by the Islamic combatants.

PRESIDENT URGES IRAQI MUSLIM TROOPS TO REBEL

LD091354 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 9 May 82

[President Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i's message addressed to Muslim soldiers of the Iraqi Army -- date not given]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Muslim soldiers of the Iraqi Army, now that the last positions of Saddam's aggressive forces are being conquered by the army of Islam, now that the towns of the Islamic land of Iran are being liberated from the occupation by the forces of blasphemy, now that the victorious soldiers of Islam are freeing every inch of their Islamic homeland from the grip of invading forces and now that the forces of Islam are preparing themselves for the final victory and liberation of Jerusalem [bayt al-moqaddas] after almost 2 years, it would be fitting to ask yourselves why and for what reason Saddam has sent you to the Islamic homeland of Islam for more than 19 months and used you to shed the blood of the best children of Islam and the Koran and to demolish well developed and pleasant towns in the occupied regions of Iran such as (Diryasin), as a result of which thousands of families were forced to leave their homes and tens of thousands of people now mourn the loss of their husbands, fathers or sons. Is there any reason other than the fact that in Iran the Islamic regime has been established by the heroic, brave and Muslim nation of Iran, and this regime has mobilized all its might to liberate occupied Palestine and Jerusalem [bayt al-moqaddas] and has begun a ceaseless war with U.S. imperialism on all fronts.

Muslim soldiers of the Iraqi Army, Saddam has committed treason not only against you and the Iraqi people but against all Arab nations. The aggression launched by him against Iran, which made even the Zionists look good, was part of the treacherous Camp David plot to destroy the bud of the Islamic revolution throughout the region, establish the Zionists' rule over the Al-Aqsa Mosque and attack the lives and property of Muslims, especially the Arab nation. Thus a strong and direct bond has been created between Jordan, Egypt and other pro-American subservient regimes and Saddam and a strong, secretive and indirect bond has been created between America, Israel and the Ba'thist regime of Iraq founded by Michel Aflaq.

Muslim soldiers of the Iraqi Army, if you do not rise for God, if you do not aim and shoot at Ba'thist commanders with your rifles and if you continue your silence toward this bloodthirsty regime, tomorrow you will be used to crush your compatriot and Muslim brothers and sisters in Baghdad, Karbala, Samarra, Kazemin, Najaf, Amarah, Musel and Kirkuk, who have had enough of Saddam's oppression. Once Saddam's regime is toppled you will be disgraced and you will be answerable to the Iraqi nation for this great treason. Wake and rise, form revolutionary centers and guerrilla groups and stage armed rebellion against this corrupt regime. Put an end to the last days of this corrupt mercenary of Israel and rest assured that Saddam is finished. Be aware and do not allow him to be replaced with another pawn through tricks and phoney coups. Use your weapons to guard your parents, your brothers and sisters, your wives and children and to protect the honor of your nation. Aim at the Ba'thist commanders and shoot them. Form revolutionary groups and help your nation to use all its power to make the Islamic revolution victorious and to bring about the rule of the oppressed in Iraq. Know that God's promise is near and victory is within your reach. The Muslim nation of Iran is awaiting your victory and the honor of your nation with love and enthusiasm so that by defeating American and Israeli mercenaries in your country, the path to the liberation of Jerusalem [bayt al-moqaddas] will become smoother. Go forward in reliance on God, and with unity and courage.

[Signed] Your Brother Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i, president of the Islamic Republic of Iran

MAJLIS SPEAKER ON IRAQI LIABILITY FOR WAR COSTS

GF090645 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0502 GMT 9 May 82

[Speech by Majlis Speaker Hasemi-Rafsanjani delivered prior to the start of the debate of the Majlis open session -- live]

[Excerpt] In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. I thank the self-sacrificing and heroic warriors on behalf of the esteemed Majlis representatives and heroic and martyr-nurturing people of the Islamic Republic of Iran. With their bravery and sacrifice they have brought the war to the verge of absolute victory and have forced the enemies of Islam to flee and suffer the shame of retreat. I pray the Almighty will give them and the people who supported the war behind the fronts [word indistinct] happiness and health.

It is worth noting that according to reports last night, Mr Saddam, in a speech, thanked the heroic Iraqi Army for its timely retreat. This is the same Saddam who about 2 years ago thanked the Iraqi Army for the creation of the new Al-Qadisiyah and stated that he is the hero of the new Al-Qadisiyah. We have nothing to do with what Saddam wishes to say. He has the right to speak. What concerns us is actions and the result of the war.

The retreat of the Iraqi forces under the pressure and machinegun fire of our ground forces is not an ordinary escape. They left behind a great deal of destruction in our country. What the Saddamists did to Hamid garrison and Hoveyzeh and to Khorramshahr, Qasr-e Shirin, the roads, railways, bridges and other areas under their control, even the lampposts, are not things that can easily be forgiven. The Israelis certainly did not commit such criminal acts in Qunaytirah. They returned it to the Syrian Government in state of destruction, but it was certainly nothing compared to what Iraq has done to our country, cities and roads. Of course, they think they are injecting us with their last drops of venom. They are mistaken in thinking that the Iranian people will pay for the destruction. No, we will include all these in our list of war damages and in Saddam's account.

Therefore, another page is added to Saddam's criminal actions and to that of the Iraqi [word indistinct] Ba'thist party. They will have to answer to the Iraqi and Iranian nations, the Islamic nations and the oppressed people of the world. Whether Iraq can pay for these damages or not is another matter. However, Saddam and the Ba'th Party will have to answer to the Iraqi nation and the entire world. When the Iraqi escapees enter Iraqi soil again, what will they tell the Iraqi people? What gifts will they take back for their people from Iran? These are matters which have to be discussed. The Iraqi people will have to face them. They cannot expect us to easily forgo Saddam's actions. We ask our armed forces to increase their pressure on the Ba'thists so that the just rights of the Iranian people can be obtained.

EXPLOSION DESTROYS SYRIAN EMBASSY; IRAQ BLAMED

LD091240 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 9 May 82

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that at 0730 this morning, 40 lbs of TNT exploded in front of the Syrian Embassy in Tehran, destroying the four-story Syrian Embassy and damaging several other buildings and cars. The report adds that the explosion did not result in loss of life and that only 16 passersby, including several children, were injured. This explosion, which coincides with the notable victories of the forces of Islam and follows the stance taken by the brother country of Syria toward the war imposed by Iraq on Iran and the attack by the treacherous Iraqi regime's fighter planes on the plane carrying the Algerian delegation, was carried out by the agents of the world-devoring United States and occupying Zionists.

According to Central News Unit correspondents, those injured in the explosion were immediately taken to hospitals by brother members of the local revolution committees.

The bomb was planted in a Blazer car that was parked in front of the Syrian Embassy. At the time of the explosion, none of the Syrian Embassy employees or officials were present at the embassy. A bomb disposal expert told our correspondent that the bomb weighed 30-40 lbs.

Following the explosion, Syrian Ambassador to Iran Ibrahim Ahmad al-Yunis went to the embassy to inspect the damage. He told a Voice and Vision correspondent that the explosion was carried out by the agents of imperialism and Israel and is nothing out of the ordinary, since anyone who tries to fight imperialism is subjected to attempts on his life. This is an honor for us. The Syrian ambassador referred to the role played by Iraq in the explosion and noted that Iraq has a long record of such acts. He said: Our view on this explosion is the same view expressed by the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

RAFSANJANI: IRAQ RESPONSIBLE FOR BEN YAHIA DEATH

Remarks to Majlis

LD072214 Tehran IRNA in English 1940 GMT 7 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 7 May (IRNA) -- In the open session of the Majlis Thursday, Speaker Hojjat ol-Eslam Rafsanjani, talking about the disastrous crash of the plane carrying the Algerian foreign minister and other Algerian officials, expressed his condolences to the Algerian people. He added that he had been hoping that the Algerian foreign minister, Mohamed Ben Yahia, who in the past three years had always taken a firm stand in favour of the Islamic revolution of Iran, would this time bring a message of peace and take a righteous stance towards the Iraqi aggression. However, the aggressor regime of Iraq and the Iraqi Ba'thist Party, which claimed to be in favour of peace, did not allow the Algerian mission to fulfill its responsibility. The Iraqi Ba'thist Party proved that it would fight against any one who was after [words indistinct] peace.

The Majlis speaker hoped that the conscientious minds of the world would expose the fascist nature of the Iraqi Government.

The first deputy who spoke in the session was Tehran Deputy Hadi Ghaffari who referring to plots of the world oppressors said that the Iranian people through their resistance proved that the plots were useless and added that fortunately now the Islamic revolution of Iran was politically established in the world. He further added that some small countries of the region opposing the Islamic revolution of Iran, have now realised that such an attitude was useless. He called on the governments of the region to join the blessings of the Islamic revolution of Iran. At the end Ghaffari stressed that the Islamic Republic of Iran relied neither on the West nor the East and would neither be blackmailed or conduct such an act.

In this session the Majlis continued its debate on the bill concerning the nationalisation of foreign trade and another 16 articles of the bill were approved. The session ended at noon and the next session will meet on Sunday.

Friday Prayers Sermon

LD072122 Tehran IRNA in English 2014 GMT 7 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 7 May (IRNA) -- The temporary Friday prayers leader of Tehran, Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani, said to an audience of hundreds of thousands in Tehran today that the ruling regime in Baghdad had martyred the Algerian foreign minister, Ben Yahia, because "it was sure that upon his return from Iran, the Algerian minister would say things against the interest of the Baghdad regime." He said Ben Yahia's clear cut stand vis-a-vis the imposed war and the Islamic revolution in Iran, and his express verbal support for Iran in a conference in Germany last year had panicked Saddam Husayn and that he had a foreboding that Ben Yahia's mission to Iran would precipitate his doomed fall from power. He said Saddam was evidently conscious of his diminishing power and his dwindling resources for continuing the war against the Islamic Republic. He said as a rule, in the last days of any dictator's life, he would tend to become more and more "ferocious," and that that was why Saddam Husayn was waging a war against the Islamic Republic.

He recalled that a taped radio communication between the pilot of the ill-fated Algerian jet, and the control tower in the Iranian city of Tabriz, together with eye-witnesses all verified the fact that Ben Yahia's plane had been hit by Iraqi fighters. He noted also that the missile which had hit the Algerian plane and whose scrap still remains in Iran was of the type that could be launchdd by MiG's only (the usual aircraft used in Iraq's Air Forces), a fact which further corroborated expert testimony.

The Friday prayers leader of Tehran also said that tens of embassies of various countries throughout the world such as those of the Saudi Government were bribing the local press and news media to hush up the news of the air crash, so that the world would remain uninformed of the crime by the Baghdad regime.

He concluded that the military capability of the Islamic Republic had developed to a level as to have reduced the country to being capable only of "puerile behaviour". [sentence as received]

During this trip he conferred with Algerian and Syrian leaders.

REGIME TAMPERED WITH PLANE CRASH EVIDENCE

GF081144 (Clandestine) Voice of Iran in Persian 0330 GMT 8 May 82

[Text] The regime's agents have tampered with the evidence and the orginal documents of the downed Algerian airplane in the [name indistinct] area of western Azarbayjan.

The Voice of Iran correspondent in Reza'iyeh in his second special dispatch from the scene of the crash of the airplane which was carrying the murdered foreign minister of Algeria says: According to the residents of the area and the local villagers, a brown-colored jeep with four passengers was seen heading toward the debris of the airplane about 2 to 3 hours after the crash.

According to these eyewitnesses, another jeep of the same description joined them a few hours later, but after a short while, the sound of shots was heard. This lasted for a few minutes and then both the jeeps hastily left the place. Later, 3 or (?4) gendarmes arrived at the spot, but no shooting took place. Our correspondent, continuing his report, adds: The residents of the village of (Kanakur), north of (?Shapur) in west Azarbayjan, said that during the past (?few days) 4 persons, whose identity could not be ascertained, had been interred in the (?heights) in the vicinity of this village. The important point is that a jeep resembling the previous one was seen in the same place in the same conditions. Our correspondent continues: The [words indistinct] who were killed in the area of (Kanakur) were the same persons who had arrived on the scene a few (?minutes) after the crash of the plane carrying the Algerian (?delegation) and had approached the plane. It is possible that they had disturbed the evidence [word indistinct] and the real evidence of the cause of the crash and had created a misleading picture. It is possible that the same persons had planted shrapnel from Soviet missiles, which they had obtained in abundance from the battlefield, in place of the actual explosives, and after completing their (?criminal act), had been murdered by another group of the regime's agents so that the details of this operation could not be revealed.

This report added that the villagers of (Kanakur) had informed the regime's guards of the internment of 4 persons in the mountains surrounding the aforementioned village, but until Thursday, the day of the (?dispatch) of this report, they had not made it known.

According to the free Voice of Iran reporter, on Friday morning, when 'Ali Akbar Velayati, the foreign minister of the regime, arrived at the Algiers airport along with his entourage, about 50 persons, among whom were two Algerian writers, shouted anti-Khomeyni slogans. These persons held portraits of the Algerian foreign minister, Ben Yahia, who had been killed in the crash, and shouted that Khomeyni's regime was responsible for the killing of Ben Yahia.

Our correspondent adds: The airport security guards cordoned off the area and took the demonstrators to an unknown destination. It may be recalled that 'Ali Akbar Velayati is leading a delegation to attend the last rites for Algerian Foreign Minister Ben Yahia and his companions; he arrived in Algiers on Friday morning.

Meanwhile, the Algerian newspapers have refrained from mentioning Iraq in connection with Ben Yahia's death. [passage indistinct] The Voice of Iran correspondent adds: To investigate the (?actual events) surrounding the plane crash, the Algerian Government will (?send its inquiry commission) to Iran. Informed circles and ordinary people in Algiers say that despite the claims of Khomeyni's regime, the mullahs of the ruling regime had a hand in this heinous crime.

SHEYKH MOHARRER CONVICTED IN ANTI-KHOMEYNI PLOT

NC081634 Paris AFP in English 1622 GMT 8 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 8 May (AFP) -- An Iranian religious leader, Sheykh Ebrahim Moharrer, and three revolutionary guards have been convicted and sentenced for their part in an alleged plot to overthrow Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni, the Tehran newspaper ETTELA'AT reported today.

Sheykh Ebrahim Moharrer, from Naqadeh in western Azerbayjan Province, in northwestern Iran, was sentenced to ten years' exile in the holy city of Qom, 160 kms (120 miles) south of Tehran, the paper said citing a revolutionary court official from the province.

The other three accused, who "infiltrated the revolutionary guards" received sentences of 10 years' imprisonment, the paper said.

Today's article is the first reference to a trial of those implicated in the plot, uncovered on April 10, which has implicated former Foreign Minister Sadeq Qotbzadeh and Ayatollah Shari'atmadari, second in the Iranian Shi'ite religious hierarchy.

The conspirators were allegedly preparing to topple Ayatollah Khomeyni and seize power. A public trial is scheduled, but a date has not so far been announced.

GHARAZI ON OIL POLICY, INSTALLATIONS REBUILDING

LD091344 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 9 May 82

[Text] Minister of Petroleum Mohammad Gharazi was received this morning by Imam Khomeyni, the leader of the revolution and the founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran, to whom he presented a report on his ministry's performance.

After his audience with the imam of the nation, the petroleum minister spoke to a Central News Unit correspondent on Iran's oil policy. He said the previous regime was a tool of the United States and Israel. Following the victory of our revolution, Iran's policy has been to use the oil weapon to establish the rule of the oppressed throughout the world. Therefore, we support such countries as Syria, which has been fighting Israel for more than 3 years and which has been able [words indistinct] in Palestine and the neighboring countries. We are ready to fight side by side with it. [words indistinct] Therefore, we have established oil ties with Syria.

The minister added that during his meeting with the imam, he told him that since His Eminenance Ayatollah Montazeri has declared 8 June the day of the oppressed, the Cabinet has been discussing the idea of using oil to promote Iranian policy for the oppressed. He said the imam's reply was an expression of hope.

In view with the liberation of the occupied lands, our correspondent asked about the Petroleum Ministry's plans for the reconstruction of these areas. The minister replied that we share oil resources with Iraq in most of these areas, especially in the (?Meymak) area. Before the war we were prepared to exploit these resources, but as a result of the war, a number of installations have been destroyed. The minister added that his ministry's first task is to get exploitation of these resources underway quickly. Our production will then return to prewar levels. The speedy reconstruction of the oil installations in Khorramshahar, Susangerd, Shush, Dehloran, (Naft Shahr) and Qasr-e Shirin is also planned. These installations have been destroyed as a result of the war.

Concluding his remarks, the minister said: Of course, reconstruction of the Abadan oil refinery is a major project, and that has be to be decided independently.

NEWSPAPER REPORTS TERRORIST EXECUTION IN HAMEDAN

GF100442 Tehran JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI in Persian 25 Apr 82 p 8

[Text] Hamedan -- A member of the apostate minigroup who was involved in the murder of a police official and the unsuccessful attempts on the lives of Hojjat ol-Eslam Ma'adikhah and the late Ayatollah Rabbani-Shirazi was hung in full view of thousands of the faithful people of Hamedan on the order of the Hamedan Islamic Court.

According to the IRNA correspondent, before the hanging took place, the shari magistrate of the Islamic Revolution Court of Hamedan, Hojjat ol-Eslam Abol Hasan A'lami, introduced the convicted person as Mahmud Sa'idi son of Zainollah during his speech after the recitation of the holy Koran. The guilty person had been active in the Forqan group, and used the aliases of Mohammed and 'Ali. The magistrate then mentioned the charges as: membership in the Forqan group; complicity in the abortive attempted assassination of Ayatollah Rabbani-Shirazi and the unsuccessful attack on Hojjat ol-Eslam Ma'adikhah in a clash with two police officials of Hamedan, which terminated in the martyrdom of the chief guard, Hasan 'Azizi, and the wounding of another policeman on the 20th of Ramazan last year; the identification of certain employees of the French Embassy for purposes of assassination; armed holdups of banks; living in a communal house; forging of identity cards and seals; soliciting members for the Forqan organization and participation in the preparation and distribution of literature.

The Shar' magistrate added: The accused has admitted to the above charges explicitly in court and has proclaimed his guilt during the trial. The report adds that following the statement of the Shar' magistrate, the accused was hanged.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

An Iraqi military communique broadcast by Baghdad radio reaffirmed that Iraqi forces completely defeated an Iranian attack north of Khorramshahr early on 11 May and also claimed that Iraqi troops had earlier launched a successful attack in the same region. Altogether the Iranians lost 6,722 dead and 106 tanks, the communique said, while Iraq lost 214 men on 10-11 May and 48 tanks between 5-11 May. Without mentioning Iran's claim to have captured Shalamcheh, INA reported that the Shalamcheh area, which consists of two border posts, is currently to the rear of Iraqi forces and far behind the battlefronts.

A Guards Corps and Armed Forces joint communique carried by Tehran radio claimed that Iranian forces tightened their siege around Iraqi forces in the Khorramshahr region, where the enemy is reinforcing "in a desperate attempt to save himself from certain destruction." Iranian forces advanced up to 5 kilometers from Khorramshahr, it said. The communique admitted that the Iraqis had launched an attack west of Khorramshahr on the night of 10 May but said the Iranians forced the enemy to flee and destroyed eight Iraqi tanks. Five more Iraqi aircraft were shot down on 11 May, according to the communique.

Autonomy Talks

Before departing Israel for Egypt, U.S. envoy to the autonomy talks, Richard Fairbanks said he will return to Israel if he succeeds in making some progress in Cairo regarding the dispute over the venue for the Palestinian autonomy talks, IDF radio reported. Israel has thus far neither accepted nor rejected Fairbanks' proposals, the radio said. "Well-placed" Israeli sources consider that the problem of the venue for the autonomy talks is likely to be solved only when Prime Minister Menahem Begin meets with President Ronald Reagan and Secretary of State Alexander Haig in the United States next month, according to the Jerusalem POST.

Commenting on Israel's insistence that Jerusalem be a venue for the autonomy negotiations, an AL-AHRAM editorial cited by MENA said Israel wants to put obstacles in the way of the discussions. The paper added that by these "distasteful" actions, Israel supplies new fuel for those in the Arab world who believe Israel is not serious about the negotiations.

Israel

Eytan on Cease-Fire; Radio Comment -- Chief of Staff Lt Gen Refa'el Eytan said that following the latest "terrorist" operations, culminating in the recent shelling across the northern border, it is doubtful that the cease-fire still exists, Jerusalem radio reported. Eytan nevertheless assured the inhabitants of settlements along the northern border that no war of attrition in the style of July 1981 would recur.

Reporting on divisions within the Cabinet over Israeli policy toward terrorist attacks, Jerusalem television said the possibility cannot be dismissed that if there is any further escalation on the northern border, there will be no alternative to a confrontation with the "terrorists."

Golan Protest -- Thousands of Druzes opposed to accepting Israeli identity cards demonstrated in the Golan Heights village of 'Ayn Gunyah, Jerusalem radio reported.

Egypt

Mubarak-Qabus Joint Statement -- President Husni Mubarak and Omani Sultan Qabus ibn Sa'id appealed to Iran and Iraq to accept a cease-fire and to seek a peaceful settlement of their existing differences, according to a joint statement by the two leaders broadcast by MENA. In the statement, which was issued at the end of the talks between the Egyptian and Omani leaders, Qabus noted the importance of Egypt's Arab role and its positive effect on the process of joint Arab action.

Egyptian-Iraqi Relations -- Egypt and Iraq have resumed direct contacts following preparatory efforts by Sultan Qabus, according to Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali, AFP reported.

In a related development, MENA reported that Iraqi Airways has resumed its regular flights between Baghdad and Cairo.

'Ali Speech -- In a speech to several Peoples Assembly committees, reported by MENA, Foreign Minister 'Ali condemned Israeli excesses against the Palestinians and said the escalation of these excesses does not work toward a solution of the Palestinian problem.

Jordan

Omani Sultan Qabus arrived in Jordan at the invitation of King Husayn on a private visit to last several days, Amman radio reported.

Lebanon

Tripoli experienced a calm night following 5 days of violent clashes, Beirut radio reported on 12 May. Earlier, the radio noted that the situation had improved considerably after the implementation of a cease-fire. Following a meeting of the supreme coordination committee and the supreme security committee, former Prime Minister Rashid Karami announced the formation of a joint force to supervise the cease-fire, the radio said. According to Karami, the joint force will be formed from the Lebanese internal security forces, all the national parties, the Palestinian resistance and the Syrian deterrent forces.

Syria-Saudi Arabia

Syrian Chief of Staff Gen Hikmat ash-Shihabi paid a short visit to Saudi Arabia, where he delivered a message from President Hafiz al-Asad to King Khalid ibn 'Abd al-'Aziz, SPA reported. According to Jerusalem radio, Syrian sources linked Ash-Shihabi's visit with Syrian preparations for a possible Israeli military action in Lebanon.

HAQ WANTS AFGHAN SOLUTION BASED ON PRINCIPLES

BK111141 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 11 May 82

[Text] President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq has said that Pakistan is endeavoring for a political solution of the Afghan problem, but there can be no compromise on its principled stand as enunciated in the resolutions of the Islamic Conference, the United Nations and the Nonaligned Movement. Addressing a news conference in Quetta this morning at the conclusion of his 3-day visit, the president said that Pakistan had neither the power nor the desire to seek a military solution of the problem. He said the problem did not concern Pakistan alone. It was a global problem. The entire world is conscious of the freedom struggle being waged by the valiant Afghan people and the influx of refugees into Pakistan.

He said one out of every four Afghans had taken refuge in Pakistan. The president said that Pakistan was in touch with Iran about the initiation of dialogue to solve the Afghan problem under the aegis of the personal representative of the UN secretary general.

He said Iran, which had refused to participate in the talks at the foreign minister level, would be kept informed of the progress of the talks scheduled to be held in Geneva on the 15th of next month through a special representative or its ambassador there. Iran had agreed to this in response to Pakistan's request.

The president said that Pakistan's stand had always been to insure Iran's participation in talks on the Afghanistan problem. As for Afghanistan, they had made it clear that Pakistan did not recognize the government there and and was willing to talk only to the representative of the political party in power in that country.

Replying to a question whether the Soviet Union had made any offer of talks to Pakistan to solve the Afghan problem, the president said he was not aware of any such offer having been received in Pakistan. However, he had been in frequent contact with the Soviet ambassador in Pakistan. He had told both the present and previous ambassadors that the key to the problem lies in Moscow because the problem had come about as a result of its intervention in that country. He said one thing was quite clear: that the forthcoming talks in Geneva were being held with the blessings of the Soviet Union, which had in the past once vetoed the UN resolution in this regard.

INDUSTRY MINISTER PRAISES RELATIONS WITH IRAN

GF100812 Karachi DAWN in English 6 May 82 p 6

[Text] Islamabad, May 5 -- Federal Minister for Industries Mr Elahi Bux Soomro has said that Pakistan values relations with the brotherly neighbouring country, Iran. He was talking to the visiting Iranian Deputy Minister for Labor Mr Faridun Siamak-Nezhad who called on him here on Tuesday [4 May].

Mr Soomro said that as brotherly Muslim countries Pakistan and Iran have centuries-old relations and expressed the hope that these ties will be further expanded in the days to come.

He said, Pakistan is appreciative of the problems of the people of Iran who had to start from scratch after the revolution.

Recalling the visit to Pakistan of Iranian minister for industries on the eve of the conference of ministers of industries of Islamic countries, Mr Soomro said Iran made a positive contribution toward the fulfillment of the objective of the conference.

The Iranian deputy minister for labour paid rich tributes to President Mohammad Ziaul Haq for the efforts being made in Pakistan for ushering in Islamic order. He lauded the steps being taken for the Islamisation of the society in Pakistan.

Mr Faridun said that his country desires to have close and friendly relations with all the Muslim countries and Pakistan, in particular. He said, the relations between the two countries were close and expressed the hope that these will expand with the passage of time.

The Iranian deputy minister for labour said that after an initial period of isolation after the revolution, his country has now started participating in all international conferences and forums. -- APP.

OIL PRODUCTION TO INCREASE TO 16,500 BARRELS

GF111208 Karachi DAWN in English 8 May 82 p 4

[Text] Muzaffargarh, May 7 -- Pakistan will be producing about 16,500 barrels of crude oil per day by June 1982, an official of petroleum and natural resources told this correspondent here the other day.

He said that a target of 14,500 barrels of crude per-day had been fixed, but by the grace of almighty Allah it was expected to reach 16,500 barrels a day. The present production was 13,000 barrels per day, he added.

To a question, he said that Pakistan was meeting nearly 12 per cent of its total oil requirements from her own resources. Pakistan's total oil requirement was about one lakh barrel per day and the capacity to meet oil need from its own resources was increasing every year on an average by six per cent, he added.

He said that enormous production of gas at various fields was meeting 10 per cent of country's energy requirements from its own resources. Production of natural gas alone was preventing further import of one lakh barrels of crude per day, and thus the country was saving Rs. 1200 crore in foreign exchange per day. He concluded. -- PPI.

BALUCHISTAN TELECOMMUNICATIONS PROJECTS -- Minister of Communications Mohyuddin Baluch announced at a press conference in Quetta today that more than 2,000 telephone lines will be installed in the province and 42 small telephone lines will be installed in the province and 42 small telephone exchanges will be set up with 600 lines each by the end of the current fiscal year. Public call offices will also be set up in the rural areas. About 126 new post offices will go into operation by the end of the year. [Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 1500 GMT 8 May 82 GF]

SEIGE ON KHORRAMSHAHR TIGHTENS; OTHER BATTLES

Joint Communique No 19

LD111842 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 11 May 82

[Joint communique No 19 of the Central Headquarters of the Revolution Guards Corps and the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Our self-sacrificing sons are continuing the third phase of the Jerusalem Operation [bayt al-moqaddas] and are continuing their battle against the aggressive enemy.

In severe clashes with the enemy on the western and northwestern Khorramshahr axes, our heroic combatants advanced to specified targets and inflicted losses and casualties on the enemy and captured a number of the Saddamists. As of this evening, 253 of the deceived have been evacuated from the front.

The enemy knows he is dying and being annihilated. He is gathering and strengthening his forces on these axes in a desperate attempt to save himself from certain destruction. The strong combatants of Islam, by relying on the Almighty and with complete coordination, are tightening the siege on enemy forces in the Khorramshahr region.

Last night the enemy launched an offensive west of Khorramshahr. The forces of Islam resisted this offensive and destroyed eight tanks, eight personnel carriers and several vehicles of the enemy. The hopeless enemy was forced to flee from the battlefield.

Today more of those deceived by the Iraqi Army, who realized the truth of the Islamic forces, joined the army of Islam. An officer and 33 of his soldiers surrendered on one of the battle axes and joined Islam's front. They were warmly welcomed by our brothers.

During today's operations the heroes of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran together with the vigilant combatants of the air defense units shot down five intruding enemy aircraft. Thirty enemy aircraft have been downed since the beginning of the Jerusalem Operation [bayt al-moqaddas].

The combatants of the army of Islam have advanced up to 5 kilometers from the heroic city of Khorramshahr. The operations are still continuing to consolidate positions and reach specified targets.

With hope for the Islamic combatants' final victory.

Joint Staff Communique

LD111804 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 11 May 82

[Unnumbered communique of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The results of the operations and self-sacrifices of the combatants of the armed forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the situation on the battlefronts of the imposed war to the west and south of the country are brought to the attention of our dear compatriots.

Exchanges of artillery and heavy weapons fire continued on the western fronts during the past 24 hours. The results of the exchange of fire on these fronts are as follows:

Enemy fire was silenced on the Salehabad and (Meymak) fronts. Twelve Saddamist troops were killed and several of their assembly points were destroyed. On 9 May combatants of the ground forces launched a series of surprise and strike [zarbati] operations against the Saddamist mercenaries and destroyed three observation posts and three emplacements for machine-guns and missile launchers. Several of the enemy troops were also killed.

Several positions and assembly points of the Iraqi forces were destroyed on the Sumar front and 20 Saddamists were killed.

Intense artillery fire of the ground forces pounded enemy positions on the Sar-e Pol-e Zahab front and destroyed several of their assembly points and observation posts. Enemy installations and communication centers were also severely damaged and a number of enemy troops were either killed or wounded.

The brave tribesmen of the irregular forces continue their missions in sectors to the west under their protection. These warriors control all enemy movements and neutralize enemy activities by returning their fire.

Thanks to the fire of the combatants of Islam on the Dezh Shapur front on positions of the Saddamists, one cannon was destroyed and its crew was killed in the (Valiaveh) sector. Our combatants also destroyed several bunkers and two observation posts of the Saddamists in the (Hargineh) and Panjwin sectors and killed a number of the Ba'thist mercenaries. The enemy was prevented from carrying out any movements.

Sporadic exchange of fire continued on the Paveh fronts. The mortar fire of our brave gendarmerie forces on the Emam front killed several Iraqi troops and destroyed six slit trenches, six foxholes and one ammunition tent of the Saddamists.

The brave warriors of the gendarmerie on the Abadan front opened fire on enemy positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud preventing movements of the Saddamist troops and destroyed several ammunition depots and killed several of their personnel. Military installations in Fao were also damaged.

TAVAKOLI: U.S., AGENTS TRYING TO MAINTAIN SADDAM

LD111224 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 11 May 82

[Excerpts] The Central News Unit reports that government spokesman Mr Tavakoli, minister of labor and social affairs, has taken part in a press conference and answered questions on various issues put to him by domestic correspondents.

Commenting on the foreign policy of the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran toward countries of the region and the security of the Persian Gulf, Mr Tavakoli said the Persian Gulf and its security is separate from other issues. We want to establish security in this region, but we believe it should not be secured by the superpowers but by the people of the region, and it is in the interests of the countries of the region to realize what is good for them and to refrain from taking the path which will bring them to an end like that of the shah, the late As-Sadat and Saddam, who will soon be annihilated. The governments of the region should return to their nations and their religion, since their internal independence and honor depends on this. Naturally if any one chooses to follow criminals like Husni Mubarak, King Husayn, Qabus and King Hassan of Morocco, he chooses a fate like that of Saddam and will soon suffer the same hardship that Saddam is suffering now. I advise all the countries of the region to return to Islam and to nations which love Islam and to be sure that relying on God and God's people will bring them more honor than relying on superpowers.

The government spokesman referred to America's next moves to maintain Saddam's disintegrating regime and said that, bearing in mind the internal currents in Iraq, the recent disgraceful defeats they have suffered and the stands adopted by Iraq, it is quite clear that the Iraqi regime has become a part of the U.S. sphere of influence. It would be difficult therefore to keep Saddam among the Arab nation. Saddam's fall would frustrate all the American dreams for the region, since none of its mercenaries would agree to suffer the same blow that Saddam has received from the combatants of Islam. He added that nevertheless everything possible will be done to keep Saddam. All the U.S. agents in the region have already begun their moves.

PRIME MINISTER: IRAQI LEADER 'ABOUT TO DIE'

LD111134 Tehran IRNA in English 0914 GMT 11 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 11 May (IRNA) -- Prime Minister Musavi yesterday said that Saddam was about to die and that he could not be saved by the U.S. lackey's propaganda. The prime minister, talking in an interview with the daily JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI, said that regional countries had to arrive at the conclusion that peace was not accessible while Saddam existed.

Speaking on the venue of the Non-Aligned Movement conference in Baghdad, the prime minister announced it would spell out the annihilation of the Non-Aligned Movement's goals in the long-run.

He continued that Iran's condition for ending the Iraqi imposed war had not changed in the least and that Iran was at present achieving one of those conditions, i.e. the return to previous geographical norms. The prime minister, referring to Iraq's military tactics and its policy of killing time, said Iran would not be harmed twice in the same fashion, and would do anything it deemed suitable to defend itself.

Speaking on the West's propaganda campaign against Iran, the prime minister noted that contrary to what was held, Iran was not after war mongering in the Persian Gulf, and that their efforts to portray Iran as such were only aimed to make Persian Gulf countries unduly petrified of Iran. He then stated that this propaganda was mostly carried out by U.S. lackeys in the region and that they could not save Saddam from his hapless position.

Commenting on the Iraqi regime's deeds, the prime minister said they were similar to those of an insane person who had lost his senses and merely attacked anything he saw in his way. He cited attacks on Syria, and the Algerian aircraft carrying the Algerian foreign minister, Ben Yahia, as examples of Saddam's dementia.

When asked about Iran's friends, the prime minister said that the less dependent countries were, the more they backed Iran, its Islamic revolution. He went on to say that regional countries were gradually appreciating realities and hence coming in line with the Islamic revolution of Iran.

He then reaffirmed once again that Iran's struggle was only for peace, and that Saddam's mere existence was the impediment to peace and might set the region afire. He then proclaimed that Saddam at first had said he respected the Algiers accord's land borders, but he wanted to negotiate on the Arvand Rud borders with Iran, however he later attacked the foreign minister's plane of the mediating country, i.e. Algeria and martyred its passengers, hence violating his ballyhooed peace stances.

In conclusion, he said Iraq's reestablishment of ties with the Egyptian regime attested to Mubarak's efforts for saving himself and another U.S. lackey in the region to keep a lid on the escalating awakening of the Egyptian people, manifested in the uprising of the martyred Khaled al-Istanbul.

MOJAHEDIN DENY HAND IN SYRIAN EMBASSY EXPLOSION

GF111710 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 11 May 82

[Text] The Free Voice of Iran correspondent reports from Tehran: Khomeyni's remarks addressed to the information unit of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps yesterday are being interpreted as significant in political circles. In these utterances, which were repeatedly broadcast by Khomeyni's propaganda machinery, Khomeyni exhorted the revolution guards to refrain from disputes and to end animosity and antagonism among various revolution guard groups. Khomeyni said in his speech: In Iran and abroad, the sharp edge of attack is aimed at the revolution guards, and if the present differences among the guards continue, this corps will be destroyed.

The Mojahedin-e Khalq organization has attributed the explosion outside the Syrian Embassy to these very differences that have been created among the administrators of the regime and the opposition of the leaders of the revolution guards. A communique issued in this connection by the Mojahedin-e Khalq organization said: The statement by 'Ali Akbar Velayati regarding the participation of members of the Mojahedin-e Khalq in the explosion in the Syrian Embassy in Tehran should be categorically denied. The Mojahedin believe in diplomatic immunity. The aim of Khomeyni's government in attributing this incident to the Mojahedin is to instigate Syrian elements to attack Mojahedin installations outside the country, particularly in Paris.

According to the Mojahedin-e Khalq organization, the conflicting trends within the regime, especially within the revolution guards, are the cause of events such as the crash of the airplane carrying the Algerian foreign minister and the explosion of a bomb near the Syrian Embassy. The Mojahedin-e Khalq had no hand in the bomb explosion near the Syrian Embassy in Tehran, it said.

[Excerpt] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The open session of the Majlis began this morning under speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani with some verses from the holy Koran. The meeting dealt with the remaining clauses of a bill on the nationalization of foreign trade. Suggestions made by some MP's were discussed with regard to each clause. In this connection Commerce Minister Habibollah Asgar-Owladi-Mosalman explained the bill. Afterwards, with the passage of the remaining five clauses of the bill, the bill on the nationalization of foreign trade was unanimously passed.

NESTS OF 'HYPOCRITES' DISCOVERED IN MASHHAD

GF091330 Tehran JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI in Persian 25 Apr 82 p 4

[Text] Mashhad -- According to a report by the Public Relations Office of the Revolution Guards of Zone 4 of Khorasan last Thursday [22 April], our daring brother Islamic Revolution Guards of Mashhad succeeded in discovering a nest of the hypocrites' minigroup in an armed conflict.

In this clash, which took place between the brother guards and some persons posted outside the team nest, one of the high-ranking pawns of the hypocrites' organization was killed and three were arrested. One G-3, one Colt and some cartridges, cyanide pills, forged identification cards and confidential documents of the organization were seized.

Last week with the help of the 36-million strong intelligence and some penitent persons, two team nests of the defunct hypocrites' organization were unearthed in Asadi and Taleqani Avenues in Mashhad from which nine U.S. lackeys were seized and arrested and six Colts, one G-3, some explosives, one wireless set, some cyanide pills and secret documents pertaining to the organization were discovered.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Military Situation -- Iraqi forces killed 980 Iranians on 11 May during an Iranian attack on Iraqi positions north of Khorramshahr, according to a military spokesman cited by Baghdad radio. Earlier, a military communique carried by the radio reported that the attack had been repulsed and that the Iranians had been forced to retreat. The communique also said the Iranians suffered "grave losses" on 12 May when Iraqi planes and helicopters raided Iranian positions west of the Karun River and north of Khorramshahr throughout the day. It noted that one Iranian plane was shot down west of the Karun River in a dogfight.

Meanwhile, an Iraqi military commander said Iraqi forces are tightening their control over Khorramshahr, INA reported.

According to an armed forces and Guard Corps communique broadcast by Tehran radio, Iranian troops are continuing to besiege Iraqi forces on the Khorramshahr axis. The communique said Iranian forces destroyed an Iraqi outpost northwest of Shalamcheh and recaptured another outpost southwest of Jofeyr. It noted that over 4,000 sq km of Iranian territory had been liberated during the Jerusalem Operation (bayt al-moqaddas).

GCC Meeting -- The GCC foreign ministers will hold an emergency meeting on 15 May to discuss developments in the Iran-Iraq war, KUNA reported citing Kuwaiti newspapers.

Iraq

Jordanian Prime Minister Mudar Badran discussed the latest developments in the Iran-Iraq war with President Saddam Husayn during a short visit to Iraq, Amman radio reported.

Iran

Revolution Guards dealt a "final blow" to the Peykar group in Shiraz, arresting more than 70 members in a crackdown against 10 hideouts, according to a Guards Corps statement broadcast by Tehran radio.

Lebanon

Fighting erupted in Tripoli when artillery and rocket exchanges took place between rival factions in several areas of the city, Voice of Lebanon radio reported. These exchanges were followed by sniper fire, the radio said. According to Beirut radio, two security committee members were wounded when they came under sniper fire in the Bab at-Tabbanah area of Tripoli.

Egypt

Official talks between the United States and Egypt to advance the autonomy negotiations and surmount the procedural obstacles that are impeding their resumption opened in Cairo, MENA reported. The Egyptian side is led by Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali and the U.S. side is led by special envoy Richard Fairbanks. In the initial discussions the Egyptian side emphasized the need for Israel to adopt measures to change the political atmosphere and to cease taking measures against the Palestinians so as to motivate them to participate in the negotiations, Cairo radio noted in a later report. The radio said the Egyptian and U.S. sides discussed the procedural matters that are still in dispute between Egypt and Israel, particularly the venue for the tripartite talks. The U.S. and Egyptian sides also dealt with subjects concerning the formation of a Palestinian authority which is to supervise the transitional period in the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Israel

A book entitled "Two Minutes Over Baghdad" says Israel, South Africa and Taiwan are apparently developing a cruise missile that will be able to deliver a nuclear warhead from Israel to any point in the Arab world and to the southern part of the USSR, HA'ARETZ reported. The two Israeli authors of the book speculate that Israel and South Africa are also developing a neutron bomb.

Libya

Libya has assured Great Britain that it has supplied no arms to Argentina, the LONDON PRESS ASSOCIATION reported. The British had contacted Libya after reports that Argentina was seeking to buy more Exocet missiles.

KARMAL IN USSR FOR BRIDGE COMPLETION CEREMONIES

For Moscow reportage on the visit to the USSR by Babrak Karmal, PDPA Central Committee general secretary and Revolutionary Council chairman, to mark the 12 May opening of the Amu Darya bridge in Termez, including his remarks to a TASS correspondent on Afghan-Soviet relations and his speech at the ceremony, see the South Asia section of the 11 May and subsequent issues of the Soviet Union DAILY REPORT.

KESHTMAND SPEAKS IN NEW CITY OF HAIRATAN

LD130636 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0443 GMT 13 May 82

[Text] Kabul, 12 May (BAKHTAR) -- Our people call the magnificent bridge, (on Amu River) built in a short span of time, as the Afghan-Soviet friendship bridge, said Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand, member of the Politburo of PDPA Central Committee, chairman of the Council of Ministers of the DRA at the ceremony for laying the foundation stone of the new city of Hairatan port after the inauguration of the motor-railway bridge over Oxuz [Amu Darya River].

Keshtmand said that this bridge was really an objective product of the long-standing friendship between the peoples of Afghanistan and the Soviet Union.

"This friendship has a shining and long history and has been developing since the first years of the establishment of the Soviet Union as a result of the Great Socialist October Revolution and achievement of independence by Afghanistan".

Recalling the Soviet assistance to Afghanistan Keshtmand said: "The great land of the soviets has rendered tremendous help to our country in the construction of modern factories, reclamation and utilisation of tens of thousand of hectares of arid land, construction of motor roads and transmission lines, in training of national cadres and in many other fields." The construction of the motor-railway bridge on the Oxus River and modern port installations was another example of the all-sided, brotherly and selfless help of the Soviet Union to our country, he added.

He pointed out that the Soviet Union was the greatest importer of Afghanistan's traditional export commodities while it also supplied a number of goods vitally needed by our people such as wheat, sugar, petroleum products, equipment and machine tools.

In the past year, Keshtmand said, the Soviet Union's quota in the imports and exports of our country was respectively 56.5 and 59.8 percent. "Thus it can be said with confidence that all endeavours of our vowed enemies who try to emasculate or retard by creating economic difficulties the process of development of the DRA and realisation of the national and democratic transformations in our country, are doomed to failure and defeat."

In addition to the building of the friendship bridge and the port structures, the laying of the foundation stone of Hairatan new city testifies to the fact that the words of our party are in accord with our actions and are being carried into effect. We are determined to put an end to our economic backwardness and to insure a speedy growth of the productive forces in Afghanistan, Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand pointed out.

"The city whose foundation is being laid today in this glorious and auspicious ceremony by Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the Central Committee of the PDPA and president of the Revolutionary Council of the DRA, will have a prideful position among the future structures of the country and will be a symbol of unbreakable and eternal friendship and brotherhood with the people of the great Soviet Union and a symbol of hope for a new and blossoming future society of Afghanistan," Keshtmand added.

AFP REPORTS MUSLIM GUERRILLA ACTIVITIES IN KABUL

BK120115 Hong Kong AFP in English 0052 GMT 12 May 82

[Text] Islamabad, 11 May (AFP) -- The Afghan interim defence minister's driver and three non-identified persons were killed by Muslim guerrilla fighters in Kabul on May 6, Western diplomatic sources reported here today. Citing reliable Afghan sources, the diplomats said the four were killed in an early morning attack which took place as they were on their way to work. It was not known whether the rebel attack was aimed at interim Defence Minister Major General Abdol Qader.

The diplomats added that at least two members of the ruling Afghan People's Democratic Party (PDPA) were assassinated in Kabul last week.

They reported that heavy fighting also took place near the airport in the Afghan capital on the nights of May 6 and 8, but had no further information on the incidents.

The sources also confirmed reports of four successive explosions on April 30 in a Soviet munitions depot north of Kabul and said they believed they were due to sabotage inside the camp.

The joint Afghan and Soviet Army troop effort during the last months to take control of Paghman, some 20 kms (12 miles) north of Kabul, and the surroundings has apparently progressed, with government troops now moving more freely around the area and reports of a group of rebels encircled and killed.

Another 15 rebels reportedly fell further north in Shamali, in Parwan Province, during a clash on May 5.

Rebel forces are operating openly in Kandahar, the country's second city, which is only defended by some 1,000 Afghan troops at night, while the majority of Soviet troops have camped out in the city's perimeier, the sources said.

JOINT COMMUNIQUE ISSUED ON PDPA-GREEK CP TALKS

LD130717 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 12 May 82

[Text] Here is the joint communique of the PDPA and the Greek Communist Party issued at the conclusion of the Greek Communist Party delegation's visit and [word indistinct] at Kabul Airport by Anahita Ratebzad, member of the PDPA Central Committee Politburo and chairman of the DRA Peace, Friendship and Solidarity Organization, and Roula Koukoulou, member of the Greek Communist Party Central Committee Politburo, before the delegation left for home:

A Greek Communist Party delegation led by Roula Koukoulou, member of the party Central Committee Politburo, who was accompanied [words indistinct] member of the Greek Communist Party Central Committee, paid a friendly visit to the DRA from 5 to 12 May 1982 at the invitation of the PDPA Central Committee.

During this visit the Greek Communist Party delegation was received by Babarak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and president of the DRA Revolutionary Council. It also met and exchanged views with some members of the PDPA Central Committee Politburo. The Greek Communist Party delegation members visited various party, social and mass organizations and familiarized themselves with the gains of the April Revolution.

The Greek Communist Party delegation inspected industrial, educational and cultural centers and became acquainted with the social life of the people of Afghanistan.

During the meetings between the representatives of the two parties, which took place in an atmosphere of friendly mutual understanding, a broad and all-round unanimity of views was noted on the most important current international issues.

The PDPA and the Greek Communist Party expressed their [words indistinct] for the warmongering and aggressive policy of imperialism, led by U.S. imperialism with the collaboration of Beijing hegemonism. They expressed support for the principled, responsible and peace-loving policy of the USSR and the socialist countries.

Both parties expressed their active and relentless solidarity with all progressive and liberating national and social forces who are struggling for peace, national independence, progress and [words indistinct].

Both parties emphasized the need for security and peace in the Mediterranean and Indian Ocean regions and supported the Soviet proposals in this respect.

The PDPA and Greek Communist Party expressed their solidarity with the struggles of the Cypriot people for the just solution of the Cyprus issue in accordance with the UN resolutions.

The Greek Communist Party declared its resolute solidarity with the Afghan people, their revolution and the PDPA in their just struggle against imperialism, reaction and hegemonism. It expressed full support and [words indistinct] for the rational and constructive proposals of the DRA Government for normalizing the situation and securing peace in the region.

The PDPA announced its support for the outstanding and principled role of the Greek Communist Party in the defense of the workers' interests, national independence, democracy and social progress in Greece and of international peace and security.

The two parties expressed their [word indistinct] interest in the continuation of fraternal relations between the (?parties).

According to another report, Roula Koukoulou and his delegation left for home today. They were seen off at the Kabul Airport by Dr Anahita Ratebzad, member of the PDPA Central Committee Politburo and chairman of the DRA Peace, Solidarity and Friendship Organization; 'Abdol Majid Sarbuland, member of the PDPA Central Committee and deputy prime minister; some members of the party Central Committee International Relations Department; and the deputy chief of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs Protocol Department.

MOSCOW REPORT ON ISRAELI ADVISERS 'MALICIOUS'

BK121041 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 12 May 82

[Text] Official sources in Islamabad have described as malicious and totally concocted a report broadcast by Moscow radio saying that Israeli military advisers have arrived in Pakistan to train what it says are the Afghan counterrevolutionaries. The radio has quoted the Indian weekly BLITZ as the source of the report.

The Islamabad sources said the sole objective of publishing and broadcasting this canard is to malign Pakistan. There is no truth to it whatsoever and it is a totally unfounded and baseless concoction.

HAQ: 'NO POSSIBILITY' OF EARLY ELECTIONS

BK121046 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 12 May 82

[Text] President Mohammad Ziaul Haq has said he was in search of such persons who could be helpful in bringing about an Islamic democratic system in the country and who would be able to take Pakistan along the path of Islam in the future.

Talking to newsmen in Islamabad today, he said that there have been a lot of reporting and comments about elections in the newspapers during the last week or so. This subject should now be closed for the time being as there was no possibility of elections in the near future. When the time comes, the issue will be reopened. Before that we must consider whether the results of the elections would be positive or negative. He again made it clear that they would hold elections only when positive results would be ensured.

352 LBS OF HEROIN SEIZED NEAR AFGHAN BORDER

BK120855 Hong Kong AFP in English 0830 GMT 2 May 82

[Text] Islamabad, 12 May (AFP) -- Pakistani customs authorities have seized 160 kilograms (352 pounds) of pure heroin -- worth an estimated $1.6 billion in the international market -- in the area bordering Afghanistan, it was reported today.

The amount seized was double the largest previous such capture in Pakistan. It was also the largest reported seizure since May 1981, when Iranian authorities said they had confiscated 420 kilograms (924 pounds) of heroin.

The heroin was being transported in a small bus to Baluchistan, southwestern Pakistan, for shipment abroad when Pakistani customs officials raided it. They found refined heroin in specially made cavities in the bus.

The driver of the vehicle, an Afghan national identified as Samar Gul, was arrested, according to the reports.

In February, customs authorities seized 80 kilograms (176 pounds) of refined heroin from the same area. That had been the record haul in Pakistan until the seizure reported today.

An anti-drug campaign during the past 10 months has resulted in the seizure of about 700 kilograms (1,540 pounds) of heroin in Pakistan.

Much of the heroin comes from the northwestern area of Pakistan, in tribal territory beyond the government's administrative control. The government has sought to encourage farmers to cultivate crops other than opium.

MILITARY COMMUNIQUES REPORT CLASHES WITH IRAQIS

Joint Communique 20

LD121822 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 12 May 82

[Joint communique No 20 of the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. In the name of God, the crusher of oppressors. Mohammad, the prophet of God, and those who follow him are harsh with the enemy, but merciful among themselves. [Koranic verse]

In continuation of the third phase of the Jerusalem Operations [bayt al-moqaddas] which began under the codename Ya 'Ali ibn Abu Talib, our brave warriors have liberated more than 4,000 square km of the occupied territory of our homeland and succeeded in cleansing an area larger than all the areas liberated during the past 19 months of filth of the aggressive forces.

Our valiant combatants are continuing to besiege enemy forces on the Khuninshahr axis and fight a victorious battle to destroy the invading forces. The criminal enemy, who during the 19 months they occupied territories of Islamic Iran did not refrain from committing all sorts of crimes and from violating the rights of the Muslims and innocent human beings by bombing residential areas and demolishing cities such as Hoveyzeh and Qasr-e Shirin, is going to suffer a shameful defeat at the hands of our brave warriors.

Also in continuation of the third phase of the operations brave sons of the corps of Islam succeeded in liberating the (Shabhabi) post southwest of Jofeyr from the claws of the Saddamist occupiers. This post is now under the full control of our warriors. Our combatants also smashed the (Bobian) post in Iraq northwest of Shalamchen. The forces of blasphemy in this post suffered considerable losses.

In view of the heavy blows dealt to the enemy, several more misled troops of the Iraqi Armed Forces who realized the criminal nature of the Iraqi Ba'this regime, surrendered to the combatants of Islam and asked for asylum.

This morning our ever-vigilant air defense units and the fast-flying eagles of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran combined to down three more aggressive enemy planes. So far, more than 33 aggressive enemy planes have been downed since the start of the Jerusalem operation.

With hope for the Islamic combatants' final victory and liberation of Jerusalem from occupying Zionism. With the assistance of God, victory is near.

[Communique No 902 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The brave battle and the advances of the victorious forces of truth and the dastardly flight and declining fortunes of the aggressive forces of falsehood continue on all the southern and western fronts of the country.

The epic acts undertaken, the steadfastness demonstated and the brave battles fought by the victorious forces of the Islam during the extensive Jerusalem Operation [bayt al-moqaddas] have amazed the world. Our powerful forces rely on the weapon of faith and are resolutely continuing their efforts to expel the aggressive forces of Saddam and crush them.

Their heroic and fighting brothers on the western fronts of the country are firing on enemy tank, infantry and fortified positions. They are neutralizing Saddam's forces and preventing all enemy movement. Artillery fire by the ground forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran leveled at enemy positions in the Meymak Region destroyed a 106mm gun of the Iraqi forces and killed its crew. A number of enemy ammunition dumps were destroyed in the Sumar region and eight of Saddam's soldiers were killed. Exchanges of fire continued in Sar-e Pol-e Zahab as a result of which a number of enemy vehicles were set on fire. In this region the heroic forces of irregular tribal unites infiltrated enemy positions and inflicted casualties. They also captured a number of Iraqi soldiers, including one officer.

As a result of the fire from our artillery units, two 130mm guns, a 106mm gun and an enemy vehicle were destroyed and about 30 of Saddam's forces were killed or wounded in the Qal'eh-ye Sheykhan Region. Also as a result of our forces' fire on enemy concentrations in the (Tutmal), (Biareh) and (Hargineh) regions, 12 ammunition dumps and a number of trenches were destroyed. Also, a gun emplacement was destroyed and all of its crew was killed in (Seyyed Sadeq).

CORPS NAMES PEYKAR MEMBERS ARRESTED IN SHIRAZ

LD121216 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 12 May 82

[Statement issued by the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. With God's consent and the help of the lord of the ages, may God speed his auspicious advent, and with the leadership of the imam of the umma, the great Khomeyni, the commander in chief, and with the self-sacrifices of you, the combative umma, the blood-soaked soil of Khuzestan is being cleansed of the filthy presence of the aggressive Ba'thist forces, and our combatants are about to deal the final blows to the feeble enemy. The last centers and dens of iniquity of the minigroups who have waged war against God are disintegrating, thanks to the efforts of the sons of you, the alert umma.

Following the efforts of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, aided by the cooperation of the 36-million strong intelligence organization, the final blow was dealt to the remnants of the Peykar minigroup in Shiraz. This minigroup's center and its members were, with God's blessings, identified and arrested. In this connection, all the centers and supply facilities together with forged documents were discovered and confiscated. More than 70 remaining members of that minigroup were identified and arrested in connection with the discovery of 10 communal dens.

The names of some of the arrested are as follows:

1. 'Ali A'ineh-Varzani, alias Mojtaba, member of the Peykar organization center in Shiraz and in other towns under its jurisdiction, including Bandar 'Abbas: in charge of intelligence supplies sections and student organizations;

2. Hoseyn Rahmani, alias Behruz, member of the Peykar organization center in Shiraz and in other towns under its jurisdiction, including Bandar 'Abbas: in charge of the workers and the provincial section;

3. Mehrangiz Mahmudian, alias Susan, member of the organization center in Shiraz and in other towns under its jurisdiction: in charge of the magazines, publicity and training section;

4. Morteza Sharafi, alias Ahmad Jamali, alias Rasul, member of the former Central Committee of the Peykar organization in Shiraz and in other towns under its jurisdiction in the southern region and member of the main workers group of the organization in Shiraz and the towns under its jurisdiction in the southern region;

5. Mahnaz Mahmudian, alias Nasrin, formerly in charge of students organizations in Shiraz and town under its jurisdiction in the southern region;

6. Gholam Hasan Reza'iyan, alias Yusof, principal member of the former Command Council for the Peykar organization in Shiraz and the towns under its jurisdiction in the southern region, and principal member of the workers section of the Peykar organization in Shiraz and the towns under its jurisdiction in the southern region;

7. Fariborz Najafi, alias Arshad, member of the main workers group of the organization in Shiraz and towns under its jurisdiction in the southern region;

8. Hasan A'ineh-Varzani, the new person in charge of printing;

9. Mokhtar Dashti-Moqaddam, alias Mas'ud, in charge of the organization's finances;

10. [Name indistinct] A'zam Zamani-Pur, alias Fatemeh, in charge of printing and forging documents for the organization in Shiraz and the towns under its jurisdiction in the southern region.

It is hoped that, with God's blessings, those few deceived ones who have not yet returned to the bosom of Islam, will return by going to the authorities.

ASSASSINS OF AYATOLLAH DASTGHEYB SENTENCED

GF121745 Shiraz Domestic Service in Persian 1530 GMT 12 May 82

[Text] All of the agents responsible for the assassination of martyr Ayatollah Dastgheyb have been arrested. According to a report by the Central News Unit correspondent quoting the Public Relations Department of the District 9 Islamic Revolution Guard Corps, 15 hypocrites were recognized and arrested in their communal dens in connection with the dastardly assassination of the former Shiraz Friday imam. They were delivered to the Islamic Revolution Court of Shiraz.

The 15 were arrested following the martyrdom of Ayatollah Dastgheyb with the immense efforts of the brother guards and the aid of the hezbollahi umma. Seven of them were sentenced to death and the other eight to long prison terms. The executions have been carried out.

We remind you that martyr Ayatollah Dastgheyb, the imam's former representative in Fars Province and Shiraz Friday imam, was martyred together with 12 of his assistants on 11 December while leaving for the unifying Friday prayer location by a powerful bomb hidden under the veil of a girl hypocrite by the name of Gohar Adab Aqa. The deceived girl was also the victim of the inauspicious [words indistinct].

CABINET DISCUSSES OIL FACILITIES, RECONSTRUCTION

LD121128 Tehran IRNA in English 1038 GMT 12 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 12 May (IRNA) -- The latest victories of the Islamic forces in the war fronts and social and political issues of the country were discussed in the Cabinet session this morning.

The government spokesman, Ahmad Tavakoli, speaking to IRNA reporter after the session said that one of the issues discussed was the oil installations in the Persian Gulf and the continental shelf. He said that in the past these installations were run by some 230 foreigners, including American and Canadian experts. However, after the victory of the Islamic revolution they are now being run by committed Iranians. It was decided that a number of Cabinet members would visit the installations so that measures would be taken to eliminate problems, Tavakoli said.

As for reconstruction of war striken areas, the government spokesman said that the issue was now being discussed in a session with the presence of the prime minister so that ways of reconstructing these areas could be decided. As for the composition of the council for reconstruction of war striken areas, he said that it would be composed of revolutionary and government organisations and that budget would be provided, half by the government and half by the people.

ALBANIAN TRADE DELEGATION CONCLUDES VISIT

LD121150 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 12 May 82

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, the Albanian deputy foreign trade minister who visited our country at the head of a trade-economic delegation, left Tehran this afternoon. Before leaving Tehran, the delegation met with Commerce Minister 'Asgar-Owaldi-Mosalman. At this meeting Asgar-Owladi-Mosalman told the Albanian delegation: We regard the Iranian and Albanian nations as close and believe our relations should be very good.

The Albanian deputy foreign trade minister thanked the Iranian nation and government for their warm welcome, and said: Our talks with Commerce Ministry personnel were extremely fruitful, and we achieved positive results. He expressed hope for further successes for the Islamic revolution in connection with the war Iraq has imposed on Iran and said: The Albanian Government and nation, since the start of the war, have declared that Iraq committed naked aggression against Iran. We have declared that this aggression helps international imperialism.

In conclusion, he said: In the talks we held with Iranian officials we reached the conclusion that we would be able to exchange goods between our two countries and establish firmer economic ties. According to the report, the goods to be exchanged between the two countries include traditional, industrial and food products. The final agreement on this will be signed in Tirana by a delegation from our country which will soon leave for Albania.

NVOI: U.S. USING SAUDI ARABIA AGAINST OPEC

TA111423 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 10 May 82

[Unattributed commentary: "The Assault of Oil Monopolies"]

[Summary] During its October session in Geneva OPEC fixed the minimum price of oil at $32 per barrel. Until that time differences over fixing the oil price was a tool in the hands of the oil monopolies to undermine OPEC's unity. Following the OPEC decision, the international oil cartel started a new assault against the oil-exporting countries. The international oil agency, which acts in accordance with U.S. orders, decided to deal an indirect blow to OPEC countries and to force them to retreat from their antimonopolist line. The international oil agency began to implement this plan by creating strategic oil reserves by increasing the oil output of Saudi Arabia and the UAE. Thus, America once again showed its neocolonialist face to the oil-exporting countries of OPEC.

At the March session of OPEC in Vienna the situation brought about as a result of the oil monopolies' blackmail was discussed. With the exception of Saudi Arabia, the OPEC countries decided to temporarily lower their oil production by 12 percent as of 1 April. Of course the Saudi regime did not agree with this decision and promised it would unilaterally decrease only 5 percent of its oil production. However, it is hard to believe that the Saudi regime will be able to reduce its oil output even by this insignificant amount, for the Saudi regime's military, political and economic dependence on the United States precludes the adoption of any decision by the Saudis.

The sale of U.S. arms to Saudi Arabia must be viewed within this context. The aim of the Americans is to have Saudi Arabia confront the Islamic Republic and to force it to participate in the imposed war on our country in support of the Iraqi regime. In OPEC, Saudi Arabia continues to be a weapon in the hands of the oil cartel and the United States to exert pressure on the countries of this organization. However, what is certain is that through unity of word and action the oil-exporting countries can terminate the destructive and plundering domination of the oil cartel and world-devouring America.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

17 MAY 1982

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Military Situation -- Iraqi forces suffered heavy losses on 16 May during intense fighting along the border from Kushk to the northwest of Khuzestan, according to an armed forces communique carried by Tehran radio. Iranian forces destroyed five Iraqi tanks and a large number of heavy weapons, the communique said. A later military communique carried by the radio claimed that four Iraqi airplanes were shot down over the weekend, bringing the total number of Iraqi aircraft downed since the beginning of the Jerusalem Operation [bayt al-moqaddas] to 37.

Another communique broadcast by the radio said that on 14 May Iranian forces repelled an Iraqi attack on the Khorramshahr front and forced the Iraqis to retreat. The communique said that 50 Iraqis were either killed or wounded and an ammunition dump was destroyed when the Iranian Navy and the Gendarmerie opened fire on Iraqi positions on the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts. A 14 May military communique carried by Tehran radio reported that 5,124 Iraqis have been captured since the beginning of the Jerusalem Operation.

According to an Iraqi military communique carried by Baghdad radio, 915 Iranians were killed and 8 tanks were destroyed when Iraqi forces launched an attack on the (Ash-Shihabi) police post on 14 May. Two Iranian helicopters were shot down in this area the next day, the communique asserted. A subsequent INA report said Iraqi forces foiled two Iranian attacks on the police post on 15 May.

Another communique broadcast by Baghdad radio reported that on 16 May 23 Iranians were killed when Iraqi forces attacked Iranian positions north of Khorramshahr. The communique also claimed that two Iranian naval vessels were sunk in the Kur-e Mush area.

Khomeyni, Musavi Remarks -- If the countries of the region act subversively and cooperate with Iraq, "they can be sure that, not being stronger than Saddam, they will suffer the same fate," Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni warned in a speech carried by Tehran radio. Earlier in the speech Khomeyni said Iran has nothing against countries which are not corrupt, and he declared that Iran does not have its eyes on other territories. Noting that the material world is not highly regarded by Iranians, Khomeyni said Iran would not start a war with Muslim countries for materialistic reasons.

During a press conference reported by IRNA, Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi declared that Iran does not intend to invade Iraqi territory or any other territory. Musavi said the condition for the establishment of peace in the region is the overthrow of the Iraqi president, according to a later IRNA report. He declared that Iran would never accept an imposed peace in its war with Iraq. According to an AFP report on the press conference, Musavi warned that the sending of Egyptian troops to Iraq could set the whole region ablaze and bring down the Egyptian president.

Gulf Concern Over War -- GCC foreign ministers held an emergency session in Kuwait on 15 May to discuss the latest developments in the Iran-Iraq war, KUNA reported. Saudi Foreign Minister Prince Sa'ud al-Faysal said after the meeting that no final statement had been issued because the ministers will hold further contacts over the next 2 weeks before resuming talks in Riyadh on 30 May, Kuwait radio reported. The GCC ministers will seek to crystalize a unified stand toward the Iran-Iraq conflict, the foreign minister said. On the same day, SPA reported that Saudi newspapers expressed confidence that the GCC ministers would be able to devise a "workable formula" to settle the Iran-Iraq war.

In its 15 May press review, Riyadh radio announced that the Arab states had informed Iran that they will implement the joint Arab defense pact if Iraqi territory is subjected to aggression. The radio gave no further details of this warning. Meanwhile, Saudi Defense and Aviation Minister Prince Sultan said in an interview with Kuwait's AL-ANBA' that the Soviet Union will soon declare open and direct support for Iran, KUNA reported. Sultan warned that the Gulf region could become a theater of Soviet-U.S. conflict as a result of the Iran-Iraq war.

Egyptian Comment -- MENA reported that AL-AKHBAR called on Gulf officials to courageously face the explosive situation in the area, taking a candid stance and facing matters realistically instead of resorting to formalities that do not place things in their true perspective. AL-AKHBAR opined that the Soviets were behind the recent Iranian offensive, basing their plan on fomenting chaos in order to provide an opportunity for intervention in the area.

Iran

Four people were injured when a bomb exploded on 15 May inside the reception office of the Imam Khomeyni Mosque in Tehran, IRNA reported. The bomb exploded just prior to the weekly meeting of the Islamic Association of Bazaar and Guildsmen. According to an AFP report, that same day in Tehran an Islamic clergyman was wounded and his bodyguard and a passerby were killed when gunmen attacked the clergyman's car.

Israel

Policy on Cease-Fire -- The Cabinet decided during its 16 May meeting that Israel will under no circumstances accept the "arbitrary and distorted interpretation" of the cease-fire given by the terrorist organizations, according to a government spokesman's announcement broadcast by Jerusalem television. Noting that Prime Minister Menahem Begin told the Cabinet that Israel has behaved with atypical restraint, the television said Jerusalem circles believe that the entire world, including critics in Israel, should understand that Israel is not looking for a pretext for action. According to Jerusalem radio, the Cabinet agreed that the terrorists should no longer be allowed to operate against Israel anywhere while their concentrations in Lebanon enjoy immunity under the cover of the cease-fire agreement.

Before the Cabinet meeting, Begin held consultations on security policy with the Alignment leaders, according to radio and television reports. The television said it was agreed that Israel will continue to show restraint in everything connected with its activity on the northern border provided the terrorists do not continue to violate the cease-fire.

Aid for Lebanese Christians -- Prime Minister Begin told visiting Italian Foreign Minister Emilio Colombo that Israel has given the Lebanese Christians weapons and ammunition worth $100 million, Jerusalem radio reported on 14 May.

Security Situation -- A bomb exploded in Bet Guvrin on 13 May and another bomb was dismantled in Jerusalem the following day, according to Jerusalem radio reports. An Arab youth was injured in Nabulus on 15 May when IDF soldiers opened fire at demonstrators, ITIM noted.

Relations With Egypt -- Tourism Minister Avraham Sharir said the government will never give up Tabah, according to a 15 May radio report. MENA subsequently noted that Egyptian Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali had sent a letter to his Israeli counterpart Yitzhaq Shamir, calling for international arbitration on the Tabah border problem as soon as possible.

Relations With African States -- Foreign Minister Shamir said in a 16 May Jerusalem radio interview that Zaire's decision to renew diplomatic relations with Israel is extremely good news and that other African states are certain to follow suit. Gabon is now expected to resume relations, according to the radio.

A Zairian presidential envoy said in remarks broadcast by IDF radio that his country's embassy will be situated in Jerusalem.

Lebanon

A Lebanese Army communique broadcast by Beirut radio on 15 May announced that men of Ahmad al-Khatib's Arab Army of Lebanon had ambushed three Lebanese Army jeeps on the Sidon-Beirut road, killing one soldier and wounding nine others. Later the same day, two men were killed by gunfire in Sidon, according to the radio. Further clashes between armed organizations erupted in the city on 16 May, the radio noted. Voice of Lebanon radio said the clashes were between Nasirites and Palestinian groups.

PLO

Plans for Lebanon, Cease-Fire Policy -- In a 15 May meeting the PLO's Supreme Military Council adopted contingency plans to counter a potential Israeli threat to southern Lebanon, the clandestine Voice of Palestine reported. The radio also reported that PLO Deputy Military Commander in Chief Khalil al-Wazir said in an interview with the Beirut weekly MONDAY MORNING THAT the PLO wants to keep the cease-fire in southern Lebanon but this does not mean it will restrict its struggle against the "Zionist occupation inside the occupied homeland and across other borders.

Visits -- PLO Political Department Chief Faruq Qaddumi may visit the United States in mid-June at the invitation of a group of congressmen, AFP reported citing Lebanon's AN-NAHAR. Meanwhile, Delhi radio noted that PLO Executive Chairman Yasir 'Arafat will visit India on 21 May.

Steadfastness and Confrontation Front

Syrian President Hafiz al-Asad arrived in Algeria on 15 May for talks with President Chadli Bendjedid, Algiers radio reported. The two leaders discussed the convening of a Steadfastness and Confrontation Front summit conference in the near future, Damascus radio said. In a press statement on their talks broadcast by Damascus television, Al-Asad and Bendjedid announced that front foreign ministers will meet in Algiers before the end of May. The statement also called on all Arab states to adhere to the Baghdad summit resolutions and to stop any attempt to restore relations with Egypt since the causes for severing those relations still exist.

Earlier, Al-Asad held talks in Tripoli with Libyan leader Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi on ways to confront attempts to "Arabize" the Camp David conspiracy, according to Damascus radio. Among the Libyans attending the discussions with the Syrian delegation was Armed Forces Chief of Staff Brig Mustafa al-Kharrubi, Tripoli radio noted. SPA and SUNA had previously reported that Al-Kharrubi was recently wounded in an abortive coup attempt.

Libya

A PRC delegation arrived in Tripoli on 16 May, Tripoli radio reported. The delegation leader said the visit is designed to "enhance" Chinese-Libyan cooperation.

Egypt

Arrests -- Interior Minister Maj Gen Hasan Abu Basha announced that on 14 May police arrested the leaders of a new branch of the Society of Repudiation and Renunciation (Takfir), MENA reported.

New Governors -- President Husni Mubarak has issued a decree appointing seven new governors, according to MENA.

Sudan

President Ja'far Numayri appointed new ministers for agriculture and irrigation and education and guidance and also replaced the governor of Al-Jazirah, SUNA reported on 15 May.

Pakistan

The eight-party Movement for Restoration of Democracy called for the release of political prisoners including retired Air Marshal Asghar Khan and Benazir Bhutto, AFP reported on 16 May.

INDIAN DELEGATION HOLDS TALKS IN KABUL

Meeting With Karmal

LD161924 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1530 GMT 16 May 82

[Text] Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and chairman of the DRA Revolutionary Council, this afternoon received Mr Natwar K. Singh, deputy foreign minister of India, at the Revolutionary Council headquarters and talked to him about various aspects of the friendly and traditional relations between the two countries.

During the meeting, which was held in an atmosphere of sincerity, the Indian deputy foreign minister delivered a message from Mrs Gandhi to Babrak Karmal and conveyed Mrs Gandhi's cordial greetings and best wishes for the prosperity and development of the DRA and the people of Afghanistan.

During the meeting, Foreign Minister Shah Mohammad Dost, Indian Ambassador in Kabul J.N. Dixit, and [name indistinct], the political director at the Indian Foreign Ministry, were also present.

Joint Commission Meets

LD160650 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0536 GMT 16 May 82

[Text] Kabul, 15 May (BAKHTAR) -- Shah Mohammad Dost, minister of foreign affairs of the DRA, received Natwar Singh, deputy minister of foreign affairs of India, in his office today.

They discussed matters of mutual interest and issues related to the work of the Indo-Afghan joint commission.

The joint Indo-Afghan commission on economic, technical and commercial relations held its first session at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the DRA here today.

At the outset, Sakhi Daneshjo and Natwar Singh, the heads of the delegations of the DRA and India respectively, spoke on the Afghan-Indian traditional friendships and consolidation of these relations after the April Revolution, particularly in its new evolutionary phase.

Afterwards working committees were formed to assess the various subjects.

The working groups will continue their sessions in the coming days.

The Indian delegation later attended a dinner party hosted by Shah Mohammad Dost, minister of foreign affairs of the DRA, at the reception hall of Afghan Foreign Ministry.

Attending the party were Dr. Khalil Ahmad Abawi, deputy-chairman of the Council of Ministers of the DRA, and Mohammad Khan Jalalar, minister of commerce of the DRA, a number of deputy ministers and high-ranking officials of the ministries as well as members of the staff of the Indian Embassy in Kabul.

Dost on Indian Stand

BK160719 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0240 GMT 16 May 82

[Text] Afghan Foreign Minister Shah Mohammad Dost has expressed satisfaction over the Indian understanding of the situation in and around his country. In an interview with the Soviet daily IZVESTIYA, he said India has always taken a very clear position on the issue within the Nonaligned Movement and international forums.

BAKHTAR COMMENTS ON AFGHAN-INDIAN RELATIONS

LD160848 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0454 GMT 16 May 82

[Text] Kabul, 15 May, (BAKHTAR) -- Commenting on the friendly relations between the DRA and India and resumption of the activity of the joint commission for economic and technical cooperation between the two countries, the political observer of BAKHTAR information agency writes:

The relations of friendship between Afghanistan and India have deep historical roots. And the historical and cultural similarities between the peoples of the two countries have played a valuable role in continuing and developing these relations. However, with the lapse of time these relations have been consolidated then ever before. [sentence as received]

The joint struggle of the two peoples against imperialism and reaction, defending the cause of peace and security in South and Southwest Asia and all the world have brought the peoples and the Governments of Afghanistan and India more closer than at any other time.

Afghanistan and India who are among the founders of the Nonaligned Movement, from the very inception of this powerful movement till now have carried on a struggle for the cause of peace and security.

Both countries have made a valuable contribution in raising the prestige of the powerful Non-Aligned Movement.

The Afghan-Indian relations are a constant struggle towards establishment and consolidation of peace and security in the [words indistinct] the world, non-interference in the affairs of each other and mutual understanding, have been transformed into a powerful factor in the region.

In contrast to our Eastern and Western neighbours who have taken a hostile stand against our victorious revolution India has invariably expressed its positive understanding towards our irreversible revolution.

Proposals of May 14, 1980, and August 24, 1981, of the DRA which form the wise basis for settling the issues around Afghanistan by peaceful means, met with positive response and understanding on the part of the friendly people of India.

The constructive proposals put forward by the DRA are a step towards ensuring peace in the region. The peoples of Afghanistan and India on the basis of friendly and historic relations and common struggle against world imperialism and reaction of the region, these common enemies of the working people of the two countries are in solidarity with each other in defending the just cause and ideas of each other.

The common struggle of the peoples of the DRA and the Republic of India against their common enemy has a deep and unbreakable link with the growth and the development of their relations in all spheres of social life.

The all-sided and durable cooperation between the two countries will no doubt make a worthy contribution to the question of development, social progress, and in ensuring peace and stability in the region.

The atmosphere of mutual understanding between Afghanistan and India will help considerably in the accomplishment of the common tasks that the two countries are trying to fulfil, and make a valuable contribution to the resolution of similar economic and social problems of the two countries.

The endeavours of our people for repelling and eliminating the undeclared war of aggression of American imperialism and Chinese hegemonism against our country have met with a positive response on the part of the Indian people often as they themselves had often been the victim of the hostile intrigues of these devilish forces.

The reactivation of the joint commission on economic and technical cooperation between Afghanistan and India is not only a vivid example of the good amicable relations between the peoples of the two countries, but is also an important factor towards ever-increasing development of these relations, expecially economic cooperation.

The visit of the Indian delegation to our country to participate in the sessions of the joint commission on economic and technical cooperation between Afghanistan and India is another important event in the history of relations between the two countries.

The joint commission will explore and study the problem of expansion of cooperation between the two countries in the fields of small scale industries, public health and agriculture.

The activity of the joint commission on economic and technical cooperation will no doubt serve the interests of both countries and the fruitful outcome of the activities of this commission will help to further consolidate and deepen the relations between the peoples of Afghanistan and India.

Our government and people always welcome friendly and amicable relations with the people of India and spare no effort in developing and expanding these relations in all spheres of life.

Welcoming the reactivation and revival of the activity of this joint commission we take it as a glad tidings in the relations between the two countries and look forward to its fruitful results.

IRAQI ENVOY DELIVERS HUSAYN MESSAGE TO KARMAL

LD151530 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1430 GMT 15 May 82

[Text] Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and chairman of the DRA Revolutionary Council, this morning received 'Abd al-Qadir Izz ad-Din Hammadi, special envoy of Iraqi President Saddam Husayn, and spoke with him in a friendly atmosphere about subjects of mutual interest. The Iraqi president's special envoy handed the message from Saddam Husayn to Babrak Karmal at this meeting.

Foreign Minister Shah Mohammad Dost and the Iraqi charge were present at this meeting.

According to another report the Iraqi president's special envoy left Kabul this afternoon. At Kabul airport he was seen off by Yaqubi, minister of education and training, deputy foreign minister, director of the International and UN Relations Department and deputy head of the Protocol Department of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs; by Hassan Ibrahim al-Ozma, Iraqi charge in Kabul, and a number of the members of this embassy in Kabul.

COTTON SALE CONTRACT SIGNED WITH PRC 14 MAY

LD140543 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0425 GMT 14 May 82

[Text] Kabul, 13 May (BAKHTAR) — A contract for the sale of 2000 tons of ginned cotton was concluded between the Ministry of Mines and Industries of the DRA and the office of commercial councillor of People's Republic of China here today. Under this contract, the Bost Cotton Enterprise will deliver 1000 tons of ginned cotton of the first grade and 1000 tons of the second grade at a total price of two millions and 750 thousand dollars to the Chinese side by the end of August, 1982.

GONSALVES STATEMENT ON UPCOMING TALKS WITH PRC

BK150855 Delhi ISI Diplomatic Information Service in English 0831 GMT 15 May 82

[Text] The following is a statement by Eric Gonsalves on 14 May 1982:

"We are looking forward to the visit of His Excellency Fu Hao, special envoy of the PRC, and his delegation. The discussions we will be having are in continuation of the talks already held in Beijing in December last year as decided by our foreign ministers when they met in June 1981.

"We will address ourselves to all bilateral matters, including the resolution of the boundary question and exchanges in various fields. It would be impossible for me to spell out our precise position on these matters in advance of our actual discussions. It would also be premature to forecast the results. To us the normalisation of relations and indeed the enhancement of relations with a great neighbour like China has a high priority. This requires an honourable and mutually acceptable solution of problems such as the boundary. We will certainly continue our efforts to attain this goal.

"I would only add that we were received in Beijing in the most friendly and cordial manner which it is our hope to be able to reciprocate. We believe that both delegations are approaching the forthcoming talks in a positive and constructive attitude so that we will be able to make progress."

Gonsalves however did not expect any breakthrough on the boundary issue during the forthcoming talks. He pointed out that the boundary question is difficult and complex. It is central to the relationship between the two countries. He said it is not possible to isolate this central issue from others. We can build up our relations in other fields but if this main question is left unresolved it will have its reflections elsewhere.

Replying to a question about Sikkim, Gonsalves said we regard this matter as settled.

BK141424 Delhi General Overseas Service in English 1330 GMT 14 May 82

[Text] Secretary in the Ministry of External Affairs Eric Gonsalves expressed the hope that both the Indian and the Chinese delegations will approach the forthcoming official-level talks in a positive and constructive manner so that they are able to make progress. Addressing pressmen in New Delhi today he said the talks beginning next Monday [17 May] will cover all bilateral matters including resolution of the boundary issue. The official Chinese delegation led by special envoy of the People's Republic of China Fu Hao is arriving in New Delhi tomorrow.

Gonsalves said India attaches high priority to building up of relations with a great neighbor like China. He reiterated the Indian stand that the border question is central to our relationship. Unless an honorable and mutually acceptable solution to this problem is found it will have its reflection on other facets of our relations.

Gonsalves did not rule out fresh Chinese proposals to solve this problem. He recalled the statement made by the external affairs minister in Parliament and said that there were very wide differences between perceptions of the two sides during the first round of official-level talks. Although both the sides will be continuing their efforts to narrow down this gap, no breakthrough may occur during the present round either, Gonsalves added. However, he expressed the hope that the talks will be held in most friendly and cordial atmosphere.

TALKS WITH PRC DELEGATION BEGIN IN NEW DELHI

Report on Delegation's Arrival

BK160711 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0240 GMT 16 May 82

[Text] An 11-member Chinese delegation has arrived in New Delhi for the second round of official-level talks with India. The delegation is led by special envoy of the People's Republic of China Fu Hao.

The talks, which begin tomorrow, will cover bilateral matters including the boundary issue. The Indian side for the 4-day discussions will be led by Secretary in the External Affairs Ministry Eric Gonsalves. The first round of official-level talks was held in Beijing in December last.

Talks Begin

BK170800 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0730 GMT 17 May 82

[Text] Talks between India and China on bilateral relations and other matters began in New Delhi this morning. The Indian delegation is led by the secretary in the External Affairs Ministry, Eric Gonsalves, and the Chinese delegation by the special envoy, Fu Hao. The talks are slated to last 4 days.

Delegation Feted at Dinner

BK170320 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0240 GMT 17 May 82

[Text] Official-level discussions between India and China begin in New Delhi today. The tone for the discussions was set at a dinner last night hosted by Eric Gonsalves, secretary in the External Affairs Ministry, in honor of the Chinese special envoy, Fu Hao, and the Chinese delegation.

In the dinner speeches, representatives of both the countries expressed their determination and sincere desire to work for resolving the boundary issues, which they both agree were crucial to the bilateral relations.

Gonsalves expressed India's determination and sincerity to resolve the outstanding boundary problems. Fu Hao said that he has come to New Delhi for a full and frank exchange. He expressed gratitude for the warm reception accorded to the Chinese delegation on arrival.

Fu Hao pointed out that India and China account for vast areas of the globe and their population is one-third of mankind. Everybody in the world understands the weight and significance of the population of the two countries. The Sino-Indian friendship, therefore, is not only in the interest of the two people, but also vital for world peace and stability, he added.

Earlier in the evening, Gonsalves and Fu Hao had an informal meeting for about 30 minutes.

PAKISTAN'S YAQUB KHAN REJECTS FRIENDSHIP TREATY

BK141607 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 14 May 82

[Text] Pakistani Foreign Minister Yaqub Khan has rejected India's proposal for a friendship treaty. The offer was made by Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi for creating an atmosphere of understanding and cooperation between the two countries. The news agency UPI quotes Yaqub Khan as saying in Abu Dhabi that the friendship treaty can be a second step to a no-war pact. He, however, expressed his government's readiness to discuss the establishment of a joint commission as suggested by India.

Further Details

BK161616 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 16 May 82

[Text] Diplomatic observers today expressed surprise at Pakistan's persistent refusal to even acknowledge India's proposal of the friendship treaty, let alone respond to it. The latest indication of Pakistan's attitude came from two statements last night -- one by President Ziaul Haq and the other by Foreign Minister Sahabzada Yaqub Khan. Both of them sought to convey the impression that the friendship proposal was not a formal one.

General Zia told newspaper editors in Rawalpindi that Mrs Gandhi had only casually mentioned the friendship treaty while replying to a question of a Pakistani journalist.

Pakistani Foreign Minister Sahabzada Yaqub Khan said the same thing on his return from a tour of West Asian countries.

Diplomatic observers note that the statements are contrary to facts as reported by then Foreign Minister Agha Shahi on return from New Delhi after talks with his Indian counterpart, Narasimha Rao.

The official news agency of Pakistan, ASSOCIATED PRESS OF PAKISTAN, while reporting Agha Shahi's news conference at the Lahore Airport had quoted Shahi as having said that Mrs Gandhi's offer of a friendship treaty was referred to by the Indian side during the talks.

GANDHI: PAKISTAN NOT ADHERING TO SIMLA ACCORD

BK151640 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 15 May 82

[Text] The prime minister has said that Pakistan is not adhering to the Simla accord after its present military rulers came to power. Mrs Gandhi said India sincerely wants friendship with Pakistan, but it has to be forged with dignity and honor. She said on the one hand Pakistan is talking of a no-war pact with India, but on the other it has been acquiring sophisticated offensive weapons.

Speaking at a number of public meetings in Himachal Pradesh today, Mrs Gandhi paid compliments to the brave sons of the state who are serving the army and are always ready to defend the country. Mrs Gandhi said the people should think of stable governments so that the country's integrity and sovereignty can be defended and it can be moved rapidly toward economic self-sufficiency.

Mrs Gandhi said all the efforts of her government are directed at mopping up the entire resources for development. She called for the preservation of forests in the interest of maintaining ecological balance and for the beauty of the hills. She said afforestation of the Himalayas is of great importance for tourists as well as for checking soil erosion. The planning commission has been advised to give greater attention to the development of these areas.

Mrs Gandhi criticized the Bhartiya Janata Party for creating communal disharmony in the country.

TEAM LEAVES FOR JOINT COMMISSION TALKS IN KABUL

BK141011 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0730 GMT 14 May 82

[Text] The Indian team for the India-Afghan joint commission meeting left New Delhi for Kabul this morning. The team, which includes officials of the Ministries of External Affairs, Commerce, Industry and Health, is led by the secretary in the Ministry of External Affairs, Natwar Singh. The joint commission starts its 3-day meeting in Kabul.

Natwar Singh is carrying a personal message of Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi for Afghan President Babrak Karmal.

IRAQI ENVOY ON HOPES FOR CEASE-FIRE WITH IRAN

BK170641 Hong Kong AFP in English 0621 GMT 17 May 82

[Text] New Delhi, 17 May (AFP) -- Iraq is hopeful that its war with Iran would end before the Baghdad non-aligned summit in September, an Iraqi presidential envoy told the Indian news agency UNI here today.

'Abd al-Qadir Izz al-Din Hammadi, Iraqi education minister [as received] and special envoy, said that Iraq was ready for a cease-fire since it has no territorial ambition.

We are willing to vacate Iranian territory if our frontiers were guaranteed [word indistinct], he was quoted as saying.

Mr Hammadi stopped over here on his way to Nepal from Pakistan on a South and South-East Asian tour.

Asked whether Iraq would allow Iran navigation rights in the Shatt al-'Arab waterway, he said Iraq had sovereignty over the waterway.

However, he emphasised that a cease-fire must precede any negotiation to settle the dispute.

He said his government was going ahead with last-minute preparations for holding the non-aligned summit conference. More than 50 countries have already confirmed their participation.

BRIEFS

UK-AIDED POWERPLANT -- The National Thermal Power Corporation and the Northern Engineering Industries -- a British consortium -- signed an agreement in New Delhi on 15 May for installation of the 1,000-megawatt superthermal power station at Mirzapur in Uttar Pradesh. The matter, which was under consideration for some time, was agreed to in principle during the prime minister's visit to the United Kingdom. Under the agreement, the British firm will supply, erect and commission all equipment systems of the power station. The British credit for the purpose is estimated at over 4,150 million rupees. The loan will bear a lower rate of interest and is to be repaid in 15 years. The first 500-megawatt unit is expected to be commissioned within 5 years. DESTROYED WHEAT CROPS -- New Delhi, 16 May (AFP) -- An estimated million tonnes of the wheat crop have been destroyed by recent heavy rains in north India, Indian newspapers said today quoting several food experts. About 10 percent of the crop has been lost in the northern Punjab and Haryana states where the rain fell. The two states produce about 11 million tonnes of wheat. However an official quoted in the FINANCIAL EXPRESS said "it is too premature to say" whether India will have to make up the difference with wheat imports, contrary to reports. Despite the loss, India is expected to produce around 36.5 million tonnes of wheat this year, a record so far. [Text] [Hong Kong AFP in English 0627 GMT 16 May 82 BK]

INCIDENTS OF LABOR UNREST, STRIKES -- New Delhi, 16 May (AFP) -- Inter-union rivalries in India have helped to create a climate of "distrust and indiscipline adversely affecting" industrial production in the country, according to an Interior Ministry annual report for 1981-82. Incidents of labour unrest and strikes involving violence increased from 3,028 in 1980 to 4,182 in 1981. Strikes involving violence accounted for 18.9 percent of all incidents of labour unrest in 1981 as against 17.9 percent during the previous year, the report said. While recorded incidents of labour unrest were as high as 6,258 in 1977 and 6,666 in 1978, there were comparatively fewer strikes involving violence during these years. YAQUB KHAN COMMENTS ON RELATIONS WITH INDIA

[Excerpts] Foreign Minister Sahabzada Yaqub Khan has expressed the confidence that the interests of India and Pakistan will be best served by an early conclusion of the proposed nonaggression pact. Talking to newsmen at Karachi airport this evening on his return after a fortnight's tour abroad, he said the grounds can be effectively prepared to this effect for the promotion of mutual friendship and cooperation.

He said the idea of a treaty of peace and friendship between Pakistan and India was mentioned by Mrs Indira Gandhi to the Pakistani journalists during the course of a discussion on the nature and scope of the Indo-Soviet treaty of 1981. However, this matter was not pursued as it was realized that such a treaty was premature.

He said the principal objective of the nonaggression pact was to create an atmosphere of mutual trust and confidence. He said the statement by the Indian side in the joint communique issued after the Indian prime minister's recent visit to Saudi Arabia that India has proposed a treaty of peace, friendship and cooperation with Pakistan has not altered the factual position.

Referring to the proposal about the establishment of a joint commission, the foreign minister said there is no element of doubt or amiguity about this. Pakistan had welcomed the proposal in principle and was prepared to discuss the terms of reference, composition and other aspects of the commission at a mutually convenient time. The discussion on the proposal is therefore an ongoing process and as agreed by foreign ministers of the two countries in the joint statement issued on 1st of February last the officials of the two countries are to meet in Islamabad to continue exchanges on the substance of the proposal. The foreign minister made it clear that there is no controversy or confusion on that point.

Sahabzada Yaqub Khan described his visit as successful. He said he attended the Al-Quds Committee meeting in Morocco and later visited Jidda and some of the Gulf countries to establish personal contacts.

Further Details

BK161643 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 1500 GMT 16 May 82

[Text] Foreign Minister Sahabzada Yaqub Khan has said that as far as Pakistan is concerned our stand on relations with India is clearly evident and nobody should have any doubts or suspicions about this. Talking to newsmen at the Islamabad airport this evening, he said that only yesterday he had made a detailed statement on Indo-Pakistan relations on his arrival in Karachi after his visit abroad.

The foreign minister made this observation when his attention was drawn toward the statement of Indian Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi in which she had alleged that the present Pakistani Government was not observing the Simla Agreement. He said he did not know which aspects of the Simla Agreement the Indian prime minister was referring to. He said he would not be able to say anything on this matter until he had received the official text of Mrs Gandhi's statement through Pakistan's ambassador to India.

In reply to a question whether he expected any significant progress at the Geneva talks on the Afghanistan problem, the foreign minister said that it was in itself an indication of progress that the talks on this issue were being held. He said that the agenda of the Geneva talks included the withdrawal of foreign troops from Afghanistan, the return of the refugees to their homes in dignity and with safety, noninterference in the internal affairs of others and international guarantees in this regard.

KHOMEYNI WARNS NATIONS AGAINST ASSISTING IRAQ

LD161340 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 16 May 82

[Speech by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni on 16 May at Hoseyniyeh Jamaran to a group of religious students and personnel of the Islamic Propaganda Supreme Council -- recorded, duration 20 minutes]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The question of propaganda is a question which has been stressed ever since the dawn of Islam. At present, too, it has a special priority.

All the revolutions that have occurred in the world have either been inclined to the right with the support of rightists and opposed by leftists, or they have been inclined to the left. But because Islam is neither inclined to the West nor to the East and follows the straight path, and because the Islamic Republic has also been based on this interpretation of Islam, leftists oppose it because it does not favor the left and the rightists oppose it because it does not lean to the right. That is why, as you have noted, almost all the big mass media of the world are directly or indirectly opposing this Islamic principle and Islam. They devote many hours of the day and night to crushing the Islamic Republic. On the other hand they support people like Saddam.

Ever since the beginning, when I lived in the holy city of An-Najaf, I declared that he was a dangerous man. I said then that there is a strange obsession in this man which makes him drown all nations of the world in their own blood for his own satisfaction. I convinced them to oppose him and attack him. Even now that, with the help of God Almighty, the fate of the war is being determined and Saddam, and God willing, the Ba'thist Party's downfall is imminent, the mass media cannot accept that Iran has made progress and therefore have begun a new kind of poison spreading. They say that even if the republic succeeds in defeating Iraq and the Iraqi regime, there will still remain the question of what they are going to do about the region and the sheykhdoms and other regimes of the region and Iran's behavior towards them. This is being rumored and spread by the mass media in order to make these countries do something against Iran and the Islamic Republic.

I would like to declare the following point so that it will go down in history: The Government of Iran and the nation of Iran do not have anything against nations and organizations which are not corrupt. From the beginning we announced that we do not have our eyes on other territories and, in fact, land, nature and the material world are not highly regarded by us. Therefore, we would not start a war with Muslim countries for these materialistic reasons.

These are plots hatched by those opposing Islam, rebels of the world and their bosses. They believe that all the oppressed people of the world should be crushed in order to come to power. Islam condemns such an approach and since we follow Islam and since our nation is committed to Islamic principles we would never go against the teachings of Islam. We announce that these governments of the region or other governments outside the region should note that they are being forced into abjectness to secure the interests of the United States or some other countries.

We have repeatedly warned them that they are becoming puppets in the hands of the superpowers and that they are being used. They are told that if they do not cooperate with Saddam, such and such will happen and Iran will treat you in such and such a way. The superpowers would like the countries of the region to remain as puppets and follow their will, cooperate with Saddam and fall into the same trap that Saddam fell into.

These countries should realize that if Saddam is victorious and powerful he will not show his appreciation for the support he has received. Saddam is the sort of man who would follow his own ambitions and would wage war against all those who cooperated with him, in order to destroy them if possible.

I, together with the government and the nation of Iran, announce that if these countries do not cooperate with Saddam, if they treat us according to the holy Koran and treat other nations the same way, the government and the nation of Iran will treat them as brothers and will support them. But if, God forbid, they act subversively and fall into that trap, they can be sure that, not being stronger than Saddam, they will suffer the same fate, and they will see what will become of other countries like the Government of Egypt which want to help them. I advise them not to embark on this experiment, not to push innocent young people to their deaths.

Those who stay awake at nights to pray and meditate will, of course, become victorious in the war. You can rest assured that Saddam and his followers are drawing their last breaths. I hope Islam will show its brilliant face everywhere and that God Almighty will assist our forces and add to their power. Our people are behind our forces and support them; our clergy support them too. With their pure hearts and strong arms they should continue their work. God willing, victory is near.

We beseech Almighty God to help us and make our armed forces and our nation victorious. May all of you succeed in shining the light of Islam everywhere. We hope you gentlemen will succeed in your work. Peace be upon you all.

KUWAIT WILL SUFFER 'DAMAGE' FOR AIDING IRAQ

LD170934 Tehran IRNA in English 0900 GMT 17 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 17 May (IRNA) -- Prime Minister Musavi in his press conference yesterday said that Iran would never accept an imposed peace in the Iraqi imposed war and as long as Iran did not achieve its due rights the war would continue. He said the condition for the establishment of peace in the region was Saddam's overthrow.

The prime minister continued that Iran had always announced its desire for establishing peace and security in the Persian Gulf region.

He concluded that Kuwait still continued to grant aid to Iraq and its mass media still distorted war reports and as result he said it would suffer damage because of its hostility with Iran and with the great Islamic revolution.

FOREIGN MINISTRY STATEMENT ON GCC SESSION

LD150928 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0330 GMT 15 May 82

[Statement issued by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Islamic Republic of Iran -- date not given]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. With the great victories of the combatants of Islam on the battlefronts of the Iraqi-imposed war upon Iran, world arrogance, headed by America, fully exploiting the imperialist and Zionist mass media, is trying to end Egypt's self-imposed isolation from other Arab countries, brought about after the completion of the first phase of the disgraceful Camp David accord, by providing overall Egyptian support for the disintegrating Iraqi regime and ultimately is trying to halt the great movement of the Muslim masses toward Jerusalem [bayt al-moqaddas]. Second, by inciting the fear that after Saddam's fall instability will spread in the region, it is trying to provoke the countries of the region into total confrontation against Islamic Iran in order to legitimize its presence and the presence of its associates in this important part of the Islamic world.

In this connection, the GCC countries, who will meet in emergency session in Kuwait to coordinate their policies, intend to review the recent changes in the region and the latest outcome of the Iraqi war against Iran. On the eve of this meeting the Foreign Ministry of the Islamic Republic of Iran deems it necessary to emphasize and stress the following points:

1. The Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran, as it has announced many times before and has emphasized during its contacts with the leaders of some of the friendly countries in the GCC, believes that it is up to the nations of the region to make any decision about their countries; on this basis Iran rejects any sort of interference in the affairs of these countries.

2. Saddam's regime, because of its anti-Islamic and anti-people's nature, is the cause of continued tension in the region and is doomed. If the governments which have helped to prolong this regime and its crimes against the Islamic nation in Iran and in the region through their overall support do not sever their links by the logical analysis of the situation and if they do not dissociate themselves from it as soon as possible they will undoubtedly suffer.

3. The thundering victories achieved by the combatants of Islam and the disgraceful defeat and surrender of Saddam's mercenaries are clear signs of the superiority of faith over equipment and indicate the great power of the Islamic revolution. It is appropriate for the countries of the region to recall the historical examples of disgraceful defeats inflicted upon the massive machine of world arrogance by the Islamic and popular movements and to realize that it would not be possible to guarantee real stability for the region without taking this power into account.

4. The Muslim nation and the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran value every righteous step, no matter how small, taken by any country of the region in the direction of standing with the Islamic Republic of Iran for the restoration of stability and security and for the purpose of practical struggle against imperialism and Zionism, and they will take any such step into account in future relations with these governments. Similarly, it will decisively react against any wrong move undertaken.

MUSAVI COMMENTS ON ARAB VIEW OF GULF WAR

LD162240 Tehran IRNA in English 2021 GMT 16 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 16 May (IRNA) -- Prime Minister Musavi said here today that the reason for the defeat of the conference of the Persian Gulf Cooperation Council in Kuwait was "the imposition of realities" which he said stemmed from the victories of the Islamic combatants in the warfronts forcing the countries in the region to adopt separate decisions in keeping with their national interests. This is why, added Musavi, they had not reached a common [word indistinct]. Speaking in a press conference here Mr. Musavi referred to the important role played by Arab countries friendly to Iran and said that the steadfastness front which was a strong opponent of Zionism and imperialism was standing alongside the Islamic Republic. Speaking about the efforts of certain reactionary Arab countries to return Egypt to the (?Arab fold), the prime minister said the most basic role in this connection was played by Saudi Arabia's mass media before the convening of the conference that the danger of the Islamic revolution was more important than the one of the Zionist regime. [sentence as received] Therefore, concluded the prime minister, it was no surprise [words indistinct] see these countries acting in the interest of (?Iraq) which was an ally of the Zionist regime.

Referring to the intervention of Jordan and Egypt in the imposed war, the prime minister said that this intervention was a part of the intervention of the superpowers in the imposed war, adding that the propaganda of the world mass media clearly showed that the superpowers also were playing a role in the war. He said that presently in the Eastern bloc it was said that the war was in the interest of the US and vice-versa which the prime minister said showed that the Iraqi imposed war was to the disadvantage of the world's superpowers, particularly because it was a demonstration of the righteousness of the Islamic combatants of Iran in the international scene. In another part of the interview the prime minister reiterated that the Islamic Republic of Iran did not intend to invade Iraqi territory or any other territory.

MUSAVI ON EXTENDING GULF WAR, EGYPTIAN ROLE

NC162222 Paris AFP in English 2212 GMT 16 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 16 May (AFP) — Iranian Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi tonight did not rule out the possibility that Iranian forces might invade Iraq, as peace in the Gulf war could only be ensured by the fall of Iraqi President Saddam Husayn.

In a televised news conference Mr Musavi said Iran could not accept a peace "imposed by the super-powers or their agents in the region who seek to save the Saddam regime."

Asked whether the war would end when Iranian troops reached the international frontier with Iraq, the Iranian premier said: "If the region wants peace, the Saddam regime must disappear. We will do whatever Islam considers to be defence."

He said Saturday's meeting of foreign ministers of the Gulf Cooperation Council (grouping Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates, Oman and Qatar) had been "a setback" as recent Iranian victories had changed the region's politics, causing the council's members to act in their national interests rather than reach a common position.

Mr Musavi renewed Iranian warnings to Kuwait against stubbornly continuing to aid Iraq, which he said would have "negative consequences" for Kuwait and other countries which helped Baghdad.

On Egyptian aid to Iraq, the prime minister said that sending Egyptian troops to Iraq could not only set the whole region ablaze but could bring down Egyptian President Husni Mubarak.

He added that an extension of the Gulf war was "in the interest of our revolution and the Islamic revolution in the whole world."

Asked whether Iran and Syria might cooperate to pursue the war, Mr Musavi replied: "We have a coordinated foreign policy against imperialism and Zionism, but there is nothing more than that."

RAFSANJANI SUGGESTS PLAN TO LIBERATE PALESTINE

LD162026 Tehran IRNA in English 1918 GMT 16 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 16 May (IRNA) -- An organised volunteer army comprising forces from various Islamic countries could serve to liberate Palestine, said Majlis Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani. The speaker, who was speaking in an interview with the IRGC [Islamic Revolution Guards Corps] magazine, PAYAM-E ENQELAB, suggested a volunteer force be mobilised to free Palestine, in addition to the Golan Battalion formerly suggested to be made up of Iraqi POWs in Iran volunteering to fight for the Palestinian goals. He said each Islamic country such as Iran could include its volunteers in the force to be mobilised in one place.

Speaking on the liberation movements, the speaker of the Majlis [words indistinct] was a very delicate issue since they had to (?be backed) and at the same time, government policies had to be abided by. He added that various liberation movements could grow following the path of revolutionary Iran. He said the reason the section pertaining to the liberation movements had been omitted in the IRGC Charter was because the Majlis needed a more specific bill in that connection and that more time had to be spent to clarify pertinent issues before the Majlis, so that Iran would back only sound movements.

He announced a separate section should deal with the liberation movements, instead of discussing the issue in the IRGC Charter in several clauses.

When asked why Iran had relations with countries which were not completely independent, the Majlis speaker said Iran could not find another country in the world which was totally independent, and even if they were, they were not sufficient to meet Iran's needs. He said Iran always abided by the dictum "Neither East nor West," but added that this did not exclude establishing relations with various countries but only ruled out entering into alignment. Majlis Speaker Rafsanjani then said following that line, Syria, Libya and Algeria were the closest Arab countries to Iran for which Iran held the deepest respect.

When asked about Iraq's future in light of the Iranians' recent victories bringing the war almost to a close, the speaker said the most important matter for Iraq was for it to have a popular government in the future accepted by the Iraqi nation.

He then said plans were underway to meet Iran's need for almost 2 million housing units in light of Iran's capacity of building 300,000 housing units per year with each measuring 100-150 sq. metres.

IRANIAN OFFICIAL, PDRY ENVOY DISCUSS EGYPT

LD161830 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 16 May 82

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, the PDRY ambassador in Tehran this morning met and conferred with Mr Sheykh ol-Eslam, Foreign Ministry political under secretary.

During this meeting, Sheykh ol-Eslam, referring to the plots by the great Satan to strengthen the usurper Zionism by plotting to include Egypt in the Arab League, the Camp David plots and the rumors of Egypt's direct intervention in the war imposed by Iraq against Iran, said that in our view Saddam is finished, although it is very hard for America to accept this. Numbers and equipment can no longer save Saddam. We declare that Egypt's entry into the war would only cause greater turmoil in the region and would have no effect on the outcome of the war, which is the victory of the forces of Islam. He then asked the advanced Arab countries to cooperate more with Iran to foil this plot by the great Satan.

According to our correspondent, the PDRY ambassador, agreeing with the comments of the Foreign Ministry political under secretary, said: We in the PDRY believe that the invitation to Egypt to return to the Arab League is illogical and incompetent, because of Camp David. He added: In our view, for countries like Jordan and Morocco to revive the Arab summit is an attempt to encourage the reactionary and American direction of the region aimed at extending Camp David and at plundering more of the region's wealth. Accepting the challenge to fight against these moves, he said: The present is the best time to unite the view of the progressive regimes of the region to confront such treacherous efforts.

OFFICIAL, LIBYAN ENVOY DISCUSS EGYPT, WAR

GF160557 Tehran International Service in Arabic 2000 GMT 15 May 82

[Text] Sa'd Mujbir, secretary of the Libyan People's Bureau in Tehran, met today with Hoseyn Sheykh ol-Eslam, political under secretary for the Iranian Foreign Ministry.

Explaining the plot by imperialism and agent Arab regimes to return Husni Mubarak's regime to the Arab world, Sheykh ol-Eslam said: With Egypt's joining Iraq in its war imposed on Iran and through the Arab regimes' aid to Iraq, the United States wants them to drop the Zionist entity from memory -- because it is the Arabs' main enemy -- and to engage Iran, which is the biggest ally of the Arabs, in another war. He expressed hope that the Steadfastness and Confrontation Front will decisively confront and resist the new plot together with the treacherous Camp David plan.

In explaining the war situation Sheykh ol-Eslam said: Saddam has not benefited the Arabs but has been a shame for them. He expressed Iran's support for the Arab Deterrent Force and described its role in preserving Lebanon's sovereignty and unity as very important.

In a reply speech Sa'd Mujbir described Iraq's war imposed on Iran as an indication of Saddam's agentry. He said: If only half of the aid that has been given by the agent regimes to Saddam had been given to Syria in its struggle against the Zionist entity, the situation would be different. By joining Saddam, the agent regimes want to free the hand of the Zionist entity to commit new acts of aggression and expansionism.

VELAYATI CONGRATULATES ALGERIAN COUNTERPART

GF160755 Tehran International Service in Arabic 0700 GMT 16 May 82

[Text] Foreign Minister Dr 'Ali Akbar Velayati has sent a cable to Ahmed Taleb Ebrahimi congratulating him on his appointment as Algerian foreign minister. Dr Velayati expressed his wishes for success for his new Algerian counterpart in expanding and enhancing ties of cooperation and friendship between Algeria and revolutionary Muslim countries and in the struggle against imperialism, Zionism and their agents. In this context he lauded the role which martyred Foreign Minister Ben Yahia played in enhancing ties of friendship and cooperation between the Iranian and Algerian Muslim peoples. He wishes the new foreign minister success in fostering these ties.

GROUND FORCES COMMANDER INTERVIEWED ON WAR

LD141658 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 14 May 82

[Text] According to IRNA, Colonel Seyyed-Shirazi, the commander of the Ground Forces of the Islamic Republic, granted an interview to an IRNA reporter at the Karbala' headquarters. In the interview, he expressed his own views on the Jerusalem operation [bayt al-moqaddas] and on the role that theocratic rule, the clergy and propaganda play in the war.

At the beginning of the interview he analyzed the results of the three phases of the successful Jerusalem operations and said: We have mopped up the filth of the Ba'thist invaders' existence in all of the areas and cities of Khuzestan except Khorramshahr. With the succor of God, we are going to end the imposed war in this region of our country.

God willing, we are going to make Saddam's government so shaky that we will be able to obtain our just rights from the Ba'thist invaders, who have ruined our cities and villages and have turned our people into refugees through their imposed war. He added: What Saddam's army did to our villages and cities was worse than what the Mogul army did. We will continue our operations until we regain our just rights and punish Saddam's usurping government.

Commenting on the composition of the forces of Islam during the historic Jerusalem operations, Colonel Seyyed-Shirazi stated: We used a sacred composition of combatants from the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic, the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, the Mobilization forces of the Guards Corps and other popular forces. Throughout the operations, this composition was at the height of perfection.

Colonel Seyyed-Shirazi then referred to the committed clergy's role in the war and their presence on the frontlines, and said that the learned clergy's presence on the battlefronts mobilized the spirit of the rule of belief and spirituality in our warriors. [sentence as heard]

Commenting on the role of the commander in chief of the armed forces in the progress of the war, the commander of the Ground Forces of the Islamic Republic said: At the start of the movement, the unity and solidarity of the combatants of Islam was purely inspired by the instructive remarks of the imam of the Islamic nation, the commander in chief of the armed forces, who always emphasizes the need for unity among the forces of Islam. We have felt the effects of the instructions of the imam of the Islamic nation throughout the war.

About the role of propaganda in the war, the commander of the ground forces said: Fighting for God's way does not depend solely on training and technique; there is also a need for a growth of culture and propaganda. There has been some tangible progress in this area. By gaining experience and learning from the facts, our clergy, the armed forces, the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and those in charge of propaganda affairs are able to take very effective action in order to increase our warriors' spiritual understanding.

JOINT COMMUNIQUE 21 ON RECENT OPERATIONS

LD161120 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 16 May 82

[Joint communique No 21 of the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. In the name of God, the crusher of the oppressors. The epic heroes of the blood-red homeland of the Islamic revolution and the virtuous and steadfast combatants continue their battle against worldwide blasphemy and its criminal agents on the battlefronts, leaving glorious scenes of courage, bravery, selflessness and love on the golden pages of the history of the Islamic revolution.

Oh Muslim and martyr-nurturing nation: In the continuation of the victorious Jerusalem operations [bayt al-moqaddas] which began with the codename 'Ali ibn Abu Talib -- peace be upon his soul -- as a result of which crushing blows were dealt to the corps of the weakened enemy, this morning the combatants of Islam in an intense battle with the invading enemy forces inflicted heavy losses and casualties along the border zone of Kushk to the northwest of Khuzestan.

In these operations, the forces of Islam smashed enemy positions and equipment, destroying 5 tanks, 14 vehicles and a large number of heavy weapons. A considerable number of the aggressive enemy forces were killed or wounded.

In the successful operations today an enemy aircraft was downed by our forces' fire in the border region to the north of Khuzestan at 0830. Its pilot was killed. The number of enemy aircraft downed since the start of the Jerusalem operation amounts to 34.

Also in today's victorious operations the fast-flying eagles of the Airborne Division succeeded in downing two enemy helicopters on the border zone of Kushk. The pilots of the above-mentioned helicopters were also killed.

Hoping for the final victory of the combatants of Islam and the liberation of Jerusalem from the claws of occupying Zionism. Seek assistance from God and victory is near.

DIPLOMATS, MAYORS INVITED TO INSPECT HOVEYZEH

GF171000 Tehran International Service in Arabic 0700 GMT 17 May 82

[Text] Following the destruction of Hoveyzeh by the Saddamist forces, and in the wake of its liberation from these aggressors by the Islamic forces during the Jerusalem operations [bayt al-moqaddas], a special committee was set up yesterday by the Foreign Ministry's military information council under the title: the Committee To Study and Expose Saddam's Crimes in Hoveyzeh.

An invitation has been extended to world circles to see the detestable crimes of the Saddamist regime firsthand. The above-mentioned committee, in its first statement, in which it exposed Saddam's crimes, called on foreign ambassadors in Tehran and world mayors, particularly mayors of the Arab towns in occupied Palestine, to visit Hoveyzeh in order to see the injustice to which its citizens were subjected as well as Saddam's crimes in order to extend their observations to the entire world's population.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 905

LD141740 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 14 May 82

[Communique No 905 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Continuing their just battle against the mercenary Saddam, the Islamic combative forces, while giving maximum impetus to battlefronts and maintaining their initiative, are keeping up their operations against the enemy.

Having reinforced and fortified their defensive positions in the southern sectors, our forces are maintaining control over enemy positions by continuing their fire. In the occupied sector of Khorramshahr, our navy destroyed one ammunition dump, four bunkers and one observation post and damaged one antiaircraft gun.

Yesterday, Iraqi troops and criminals brought several residential areas in Abadan under heavy and long-range fire and destroyed them. As a result, a number of our countrymen were martyred or wounded.

The total number of Iraqi POW's already evacuated in the course of the Jerusalem operations [bayt al-moqaddas] yesterday reached 5,124. They include 168 officers, 863 NCO's and 4,093 soldiers.

In the western sectors of the country our epic-making combatants dealt more blows to the enemy. In the Marivan area, an Islamic combative unit, supported by artillery fire, penetrated the enemy position in Khormal and, during an offensive, killed, wounded or captured a number of Iraqi troops. Our brave fighters are at present laying seige to an enemy garrison in the same area. A considerable quantity of weapons, including mortars, heavy machineguns, Kalashnikov rifles, ammunition and antipersonnel mines of various types were captured intact by our forces during these operations.

Exchanges of heavy fire continued in Meymak and Konjancham. The exchange of fire, being in our favor, resulted in the destruction of two enemy tanks as well as setting fire to several enemy supply areas and killing a number of aggressors.

In the Sumar area, following artillery fire on enemy positions and bunkers, several supply areas, one munition depot and one Iraqi heavy machinegun with a number of enemy troops were killed.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 906

LD151746 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 15 May 82

[Communique No 906 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The results of courageous efforts and sacrifices of the combatants of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the situation at the fronts of the imposed war are hereby brought to the attention of the dear compatriots: The disintegrating enemy embarked on a series of futile operations on one of the Khorramshahr fronts yesterday afternoon. The powerful forces of Islam repelled these operations and forced the aggressive forces to retreat. Our forces captured a number of tanks, personnel carriers and vehicles belonging to the enemy.

In the exchange of fire on the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts, the combatants of the navy and gendarmerie opened fire on enemy positions and destroyed a number of positions, some trenches, a truck, an ammunition depot and an 82-mm mortar launcher belonging to the Saddamist forces. More than 50 enemy soldiers were either killed or wounded.

Fighting and exchange of fire continued sporadically yesterday on the western fronts and on the Sumar front. The powerful fire of the ground forces' artillery set on fire and destroyed three tanks, an ammunition depot, several light- and heavy-weapons positions as well as observation posts belonging to the Saddamist forces. A number of their forces were killed.

Our forces destroyed a number of the Saddamists' supply points in Sar-e Pol-e Zahab and Gilan-e Gharb, killed some enemy soldiers and destroyed one of their construction vehicles.

On the Salehabad and Meymak fronts, the intense fire of the ground forces' artillery units destroyed some enemy positions and inflicted casualties on the enemy.

On the Marivan front, our artillery fire crushed Iraqi positions in the Halabcheh region and destroyed a number of their trenches.

During the past 24 hours all of the Iraqi forces' violations of the Iranian airspace in the south and west of the country were foiled by our forces antiaircraft units; the enemy planes were forced to flee.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 908

LD161800 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 16 May 82

[Communique No 908 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Strong in spirit like those who fought alongside Imam Hoseyn, the combatants of Islam are bravely standing firm against the mercenary enemy and are ready to sacrifice their existence for Islam and the Islamic homeland. Thank God for helping the combatants of Islam with His boundless blessings and for giving them victory over the forces of blasphemy through His divine help.

According to a report by the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran, today another three enemy aircraft, with the cooperation of air defense units, were downed by this force's fighter aircraft in the southern sector of the country. One of the aforesaid aircraft came down at 0805 today, and the body of its pilot was discovered in the crash area; the other two aircraft were destroyed simultaneously at 1203, and their pilots were captured alive.

At 1315 and 1415 today several of our fighter aircraft, in the course of successful operations, bombed the Al-Umayyah and Al-Bak jetties and returned safely to their bases.

At 1225 yesterday one aggressive Iraqi aircraft was downed by air defense fire in the Susangerd area. Therefore, a total of 37 enemy aircraft have been downed since the beginning of the Jerusalem operations [Bayt al-Moqaddas].

In the southern areas of the country our victorious combatants continued their missions and vigilantly neutralized all enemy movements. Having the initiative, they are defending their positions.

In the Abadan area, the combative personnel of the Gendarmerie of the Islamic Republic of Iran returned enemy fire and destroyed one vehicle carrying fuel, one mortar emplacement and seven slit trenches and foxholes of the aggressors, and stopped enemy movements on the other side of the Arvand Rud.

Yesterday Saddam's army opened heavy-weapon fire and destroyed several residential areas in Abadan, which resulted in the injury of our Abadan compatriots.

Exchanges of fire continued in the western operational areas of the country. A group of our combatants penetrated enemy positions in the Tutman area and opened fire, destroying one command base and several vehicles and slit trenches of the enemy, inflicting damage on the Saddamist forces' tanks and killing a number of their servicemen.

In the Meymak, Sumar, Salehabad, Sar-e Pol-e Zahab and Gilan-e Gharb areas, exchanges of artillery and mortar fire continued between the forces of Islam and Saddam's forces. The fire of our artillery units destroyed several ammunition piles, two vehicles and one tank.

In the Nowsud and Shushmir-e Bala areas, a quantity of ammunition and several supply ponts of the Saddamists were destroyed and a group of them were killed or wounded.

May God's help be with those who walk in the path of truth and God.

KHOMEYNI 'HAS NOT ALLOWED' ADVANCE INTO IRAQ

LD141054 Tehran IRNA in English 0921 GMT 14 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 13 May (IRNA) -- Iranian forces can easily advance inside Iraqi territory but Imam Khomeyni has not allowed it, according to General Zahirnehzhad, chief of the Joint Staff of the Iranian Armed Forces. Speaking in an interview with a reporter from the Victoria daily AGE, the Iranian commander also said that even though at the beginning of the war Iranian forces were not fully mobilised they were assured of a long term victory.

Speaking on Iran's military tactics he said that a three stage strategy was adopted: halting enemy advance, local attacks on the enemy and expulsion of invading forces from Iranian territory.

Stressing that Iranians were only defending their territory and revolution, he said that Islamic combatants had tried to take prisoner or wound Iraqis rather than kill them and he pointed to the massive numbers of POWs as testifying to this. The Iranian commander also referred to Iraqi brutality towards POWs in comparison with Iranian behaviour towards Iraqi captives.

EXPLOSION IN SOUTH TEHRAN MOSQUE INJURES 4

LD151042 Tehran IRNA in English 0955 GMT 15 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 15 May (IRNA) -- A bomb exploded at 8.00 am today inside the reception office of the Imam Khomeyni Mosque, south Tehran, injuring four people slightly.

The bomb, which was planted in a handbag, exploded just prior to the weekly meeting of members of the Islamic association of bazaar and guildsmen which is made up of some 500 committed bazaar members, including Amanti, the Tehran Majlis deputy. Windows of the mosque, where masses of people at Friday nights hold special prayers were broken.

Past experience has shown that any time a victory is achieved in the warfronts counter-revolutionaries carry out such futile activities in a vain attempt to distract the Muslim people's attention from these achievements.

Bomb 'Response to Regime'

GF170718 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 16 May 82

[Excerpts] According to the Free Voice of Iran reporter, there have been quite a few bomb explosions in the cities of our country of which the [word indistinct] bomb explosion in the Shah Mosque of Tehran was the most (?destructive). It probably injured some of the progovernment bazaaris.

So far none of the groups or organizations has officially claimed responsibility for the explosion. From the night pamphlets being circulated in Tehran, however, it may be deduced that an armed group called "the Movement of the Followers of Shari'at" claimed involvement in the explosion.

In the night pamphlets the Shari'at Movement announced that followers of Khomeyni, particularly the hojjati (?Phalangists) and the garbage called followers of his line, the guards, committee members and so-called Islamic organizations will be wiped out. If necessary, because of the despotic conditions, the movement says it will continue its armed campaign and explosions of bombs in the beehives of Khomeyni.

Under these circumstances it is obvious that in light of the present atmosphere in Iran and the barbaric rage of the mullahs' regime there is no solution but to fight [word indistinct] and the massacre of elements of the groups of tyranny and oppression. This bomb is the first response to the regime, a response that will continue.

CLERGYMAN ATTACKED, BODYGUARD KILLED IN TEHRAN

NC151435 Paris AFP in English 1405 GMT 15 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 15 May (AFP) -- An Islamic preacher was wounded and his bodyguard and a passer-by were killed when three armed men disguised as guardians of the revolution attacked his car, it was reported here today.

Hojjat ol-Eslam Hasan Kafi, a well known clergyman, was attacked this morning while riding in his car in Tehran, the evening newspaper ETTELA'AT said.

His bodyguard and a passer-by were killed and a child injured. He was reported to be in satisfactory condition.

His attackers stopped another car and used it to escape.

SOVIET 'BOMBING ERROR' IN AFGHANISTAN NOTED

LD162032 Tehran IRNA in English 1926 GMT 16 May 82

["Soviet Bombing Error" -- IRNA headline]

[Text] Mashhad, 16 May (IRNA) -- The occupying Soviet forces in Afghanistan mistakenly opened artillery fire on a concentration centre of the Afghan Government's intelligence service near Herat Province last week, destroying the centre and killing a number of soldiers. This was announced by a reliable source close to the Afghan mujahidin. The source further added that the Soviet military forces have kept silent about this and no reaction has been shown by the ruling Afghan Government.

Meanwhile, in another report from Mashhad, in the past two weeks Soviet fighters bombed several villages in Herat Province, martyring some 55 innocent and defenceless villagers and destroying a number of houses.

Israel

IDF and Jerusalem radios provided live coverage of the 19 May Knesset debate on Labor Party Chairman Shim'on Peres' motion of no confidence in the Likud government. Peres opened the debate with a sharp attack on the government's economic policies. Finance Minister Yoram Aridor then replied for the government.

Earlier, Jerusalem radio reported that Prime Minister Menahem Begin will not resign before the no-confidence vote, even if he learns that the government will be defeated. Nor will he resign in the event of a tie, according to IDF radio. Jerusalem television disagreed however, saying Begin will resign if it becomes clear to him that the coalition will not obtain a majority. Jerusalem radio said the Tehiya faction would vote against the government; IDF radio said that if the government is defeated, the National Religious Party, TAMI and Agudat Yisra'el will favor holding early elections.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

On 19 May Iraqi forces launched a "widescale attack" on Iranian positions north of Khorramshahr, inflicting "grave losses" on the Iranians and forcing them to retreat, according to an armed forces communique carried by Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio.

An earlier military communique carried by Baghdad radio reported 112 Iranians killed during fighting in the same area on 17 and 18 May. The communique also claimed that one Iranian plane was shot down in a dogfight over the Ash-Shihabi area.

Iranian forces continued to exchange gunfire with the Iraqis in the western operational sectors of Iran and consolidated their positions in the southern operational sector, according to an armed forces communique carried by Tehran radio.

Iraq-Saudi Arabia

Bilateral relations and the way Arab leaders should confront the dangers threatening the Arab nation were among the subjects discussed at a meeting between Saudi King Khalid ibn 'Abd al-'Aziz and Iraqi Deputy Prime Minister Tariq 'Aziz, SPA reported. In a statement to SPA at the end of his visit to Saudi Arabia, 'Aziz said that during the meeting he acquainted the king with Iraq's position in its conflict with Iran.

Lebanon

Security Situation -- The joint command of the Lebanese Nationalist Movement and the PLO has decided to withdraw armed men from the center of Sidon and to arrest all those who disguise themselves behind the banner of the Nationalist Movement and the Palestinian revolution to distort the purpose of bearing arms, the clandestine Voice of Palestine radio reported. The radio said the people of Sidon responded to the joint command's call to close businesses and participate in the funeral of Nasirite popular organization member Rafiq Bashashah. However, Voice of Lebanon radio said the people of Sidon were striking to denounce the recent bloody incidents in the city and have refused to bury Bashashah unless his murderers are arrested.

Noting the public concern about recent factional clashes in Sidon, Tripoli, Beirut and elsewhere, the Voice of Palestine said the Palestinians and Lebanese nationalists must admit to having made mistakes, must revise their problem-solving methods and promote better relations with the masses.

Syria

Relations With PLO -- President Hafiz al-Asad received PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat and Political Department Chief Faruq Qaddumi in Damascus, according to Damascus radio. The talks focused on strengthening the Steadfastness and Confrontation Front, on convening a front summit conference in the near future and on the situation in Lebanon.

Denial of Paris Incident -- Syria's Paris Embassy issued a statement strongly denying accusations that Syria was responsible for the explosion outside the AL-WATAN AL-'ARABI offices in April and condemning the wave of anti-Syrian campaigns in France, Damascus radio reported.

Egypt

Military Integration With Sudan -- Defense Minister 'Abd al-Halim Abu Ghazalah met in Khartoum with Sudanese President Ja'far Numayri for talks on "issues of integration" between the Sudanese and Egyptian Armed Forces, including the intention to unify the two armies' military terminology and insignia, SUNA reported. Numayri and Ghazalah decided to set up technical committees to consider the possibilities of integration and cooperation in certain military-economic projects.

Tabah Dispute -- The Egyptian-Israeli committee for settling the Tabah dispute decided to invite the Sinai multinational peacekeeping force and observers to move to the Tabah area during the transitional period before arbitration is carried out on the demarcation dispute, MENA reported.

Arab Ties With Zaire, Costa Rica

Calling Zaire's decision to resume diplomatic relations with Israel a regrettable one, Saudi Arabia announced it had decided to sever relations with Zaire, according to a Foreign Ministry statement carried by Riyadh television. The statement said the Zairian decision contravenes the resolutions of the OAU and the Afro-Arab conference. It added that the reasons which originally led Zaire to sever its relations with Israel still exist. A Kuwaiti National Assembly statement called the Zairian decision "hostile and irrational," KUNA reported.

Meanwhile, Islamic Conference Organization (ICO) Secretary General Habib Chatti, in statements to 'UKAZ and AL-MADINAH, called on Zaire to rescind its decision, SPA reported. According to Riyadh radio, the secretariat general of the ICA addressed a memo to its members drawing their attention to the gravity of Zaire's action. Chatti is expected to meet with African ambassadors in Saudi Arabia on 19 May to hand them a statement from the organization, the radio said.

In other developments, the ICO called on its members to sever relations with Costa Rica for transferring its embassy from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem, Riyadh radio reported. The ICO secretary general addressed a letter to Costa Rica asking it to reconsider its decision, the radio said.

PDRY-Omani Relations

The first direct official contact between the PDRY and Oman, to discuss the issue of restoring relations between the two countries, will take place at a meeting in Kuwait on 29 May, INA reported citing the Kuwaiti paper AL-WATAN.

Afghanistan

A bomb exploded in the Soviet residential area of Kabul on 16 May killing 5 to 10 Afghan guards, AFP reported. Meanwhile, on 15 May Afghan rebels reportedly killed 275 Soviet soldiers in an ambush near Barikot, according to the Karachi newspaper DAWN.

AFP: BOMB EXPLODES IN SOVIET RESIDENTIAL AREA

BK181433 Hong Kong AFP in English 1424 GMT 18 May 82

[Text] New Delhi, 18 May (AFP) -- A bomb exploded on Sunday [16 May] in the Soviet residential area of Microrayon in Kabul, killing 5 to 10 Afghan guards and damaging part of the complex, Western diplomatic sources said here today.

The bomb, planted in a maintenance room, was apparently set by Moslem insurgents opposing the Soviet-backed Babrak Karmal regime.

Microrayon, situated near the Kabul international airport, was built after the Marxist coup in April 1978 and was finished after Soviet troops had marched into Afghanistan in December 1979.

The complex had been the target of several Moslem rebel attacks in the past.

Diplomats here gave reports on two other insurgent attacks in the Afghan capital over the past two weeks.

On May 8, a bomb exploded at a government textile officer's residence in the Qala-i-Fatullah-Khan District, killing the officer Saved Serajuddin and his protege Serajuddin, a member of the ruling People's Democratic Party of Afghanistan [PDPA].

Three unidentified occupants of the house were also seriously injured while the target of the attack, a young officer working in the Afghan secret police, KHAD, was however not present when the explosion occurred, the sources said.

On May 11, Moslem insurgents killed two party workers in broad daylight in front of the KHAD central office in the Darul-Uman District.

Meanwhile, the Afghan Government is conscripting more men for military service. On May 15, young Afghans in the streets were reportedly forced to board army trucks and taken to a nearby army office for enlistment.

REBELS REPORTEDLY KILL 275 RUSSIAN SOLDIERS

GF181104 Karachi DAWN in English 16 May 82 p 12

[Text] Peshawar, May 15. The mujahidin of Afghanistan are reported to have killed 275 Russian soldiers in an ambush which they carried on a paratroop camp and a radar station near Barikot.

According to reports reaching here from across the border, the radar station was completely destroyed during the action.

In retaliation the Russian jet fighters bombed the surroundings of Nurestan which resulted in the killing of dozens of innocent citizens, most of them women and children. A mosque in (Gawardesh) area was reported to have been demolished by the bombardment.

According to another report, the Russian forces led by armoured units have captured Panjsher Valley after a week-long fierce fighting. As many as 500 mujahidin are reported to have been martyred and several others injured during this heavy fighting.

Meanwhile, under the directives of Maulana Mohammad Afzal, prime minister of the newly formed horse-riding guerrilla mujahidin, a contingent of 2,000 mujahidin has been sent towards Tupkhana Road to capture the Tupkhana Road which is for the last six months under the Russian control.

SUPREME DEFENSE COUNCIL HOLDS SESSION

LD182116 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 2030 GMT 18 May 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, the Supreme Defense Council held a session tonight chaired by President Khamene'i, president of the Supreme Defense Council.

The session was attended by Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani, the speaker of the Islamic Consultative Assembly and the imam's representative on the Supreme Defense Council; Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi; Brigadier General Zahirnezhad, chief of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran; Defense Minister Colonel Salimi; Sham'khani, the deputy commander of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps; Hojjat ol-Eslam Seyyed Ahmad Khomeyni; Foreign Minister Velayati; and Kamal Gharazi, chief of the War Publicity Staff.

The session reviewed the latest reports from the battlefronts and debated and exchanged views, whereupon decisions were made about future war plans.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 911

LD181744 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 18 May 82

[Communique No 911 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The forces of Islam achieve valuable successes every day with the blessing of the unity, sincerity and faith of the self-sacrificing children of Islam and the blood shed by the combatants of the armed forces, the self-sacrificing Guards Corps, the Mobilization forces of the Revolution Guards Corps, the militant clergy, the hardworking members of the reconstruction crusade, the brave gendarmerie warriors, the combatants of the police, the Muslim Kurdish pehmerga, the zealous tribal warriors, the devoted popular forces, the relief forces and supporting forces of the revolutionary establishments, private and public organizations -- of all those who deliver their powerful blows against the disintegrating bodies of the Saddamists.

During the past 24 hours, combatants of the battlefields, apart from liberating another part of the occupied areas in the Kushk sector and destroying the invader's war equipment, opened artillery fire on enemy positions on the other side of Arvand Rud, destroying one tank, four trenches and several Iraqi observation posts. Several Iraqi troops were also killed.

In other operational sectors in the south of the country the combatants of Islam, while continuing the task of consolidating their own positions, defended the areas under their protection and, by opening intense fire, prevented the enemy from moving.

Yesterday several residential districts in Abadan were demolished by the enemy's long-range weapon fire and several of our compatriots were wounded.

Gunfire continues to be exchanged in the western operation sectors of the country with our forces having firepower superiority. In the Meymak and Sumar sectors, the forces of Islam destroyed two engineering vehicles, several trenches and foxholes and one 106-mm gun of the enemy.

Along the Sar-e Pol-e Zahab and Gilan-e Gharb axes, our combatants opened fire on enemy positions, inflicting effective losses and damages on the invading forces and silencing their fire.

Exchanges of fire in the Marivan sector continued.

The forces of Islam fired on the Biarreh garrison, destroying enemy equipment, trenches and foxholes and setting the Sayyid Sadiq garrison gas station on fire. Buildings in the Sayyid Sadiq garrison were also damaged.

Thanks to our forces' fire, some enemy ammunition dumps and several assembly points were destroyed in Shushami-ye Bala and the Nowsud heights and several of the Saddamists were either killed or wounded.

ZAIRE WARNED AGAINST RELATIONS WITH ISRAEL

LD181744 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 18 May 82

[Statement issued by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Islamic Republic of Iran -- date not given]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. After the fanfared withdrawal of the Zionist forces from the Sinai Desert and the handing over of this Islamic-Arab land to the NATO forces, simultaneous with the struggles of the reactionary Arab regimes to return to the Arab world, the abject government of Husni Mubarak, that follower of As-Sadat's treacherous policies, the conspiracy of establishing diplomatic relations with the Zionist regime is underway by the other known servants of the world oppressors.

In the opinion of the Islamic Republic of Iran, the establishment of any diplomatic relations with the Zionist regime by any government and under any pretext is a treacherous prelude to legitimize the criminal and usurping regime of Israel.

We warn the Zairian Government, which is reported to have established diplomatic relations with the regime occupying Jerusalem, that it should draw a lesson from the fate of As-Sadat the traitor and the mercenary Egyptian regime and to beware the consequences of this improper measure, as today is the day of nations, and nations hate the usurping Israel.

LAVASANI, KAMYAB DEPART FOR AFRICAN TOURS

LD142112 Tehran IRNA in English 2017 GMT 14 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 14 May (IRNA) -- The political director general for African and Asian affairs, Mr Lavasani, and the international affairs deputy in the Foreign Ministry, Mr Kamyab, left Tehran for eleven African countries for strengthening and expansion of economic and political ties on Friday afternoon.

Mr Lavasani, who will visit Nigeria, Guinea, Sierra Leone, Ghana, Tanzania, Senegal, said that in his twenty day tour he would explain the positions of the Islamic Republic of Iran concerning the venue of the Nonaligned Conference with the officials of those countries. He added that Baghdad was not a true non-aligned country, but was completely aligned and with the outbreak of the war it had paved the way for more penetration by the superpowers in the region.

He also added that in his tour he would talk with local officials on establishing embassies of the Islamic Republic in each's country. Iran already has embassies in Ghana and Nigeria.

Meanwhile, Mr Kamyab, on his tour to Ethiopia, Kenya, Mozambique, Congo, Zimbabwe said that Iraq, by martyring the Algerian Foreign Minister Ben Yahia and by its aggression against the Islamic Republic of Iran, had shown contempt for the principles of non-alignment and thus cannot be eligible for hosting the conference. So he would talk on the change of venue of the conference with the African officials.

He added that during his fourteen day tour he would also talk about opening Iranian embassies in those countries and expanding mutual political and economic ties.

PETROLEUM MINISTER COMMENTS ON OIL PRICE PROBLEM

LD181132 Tehran IRNA in English 1058 GMT 18 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 8 May (IRNA) -- Determining the oil price was a political matter, according to Oil Minister Gharazi, speaking prior to his trip to take part in the OPEC session in Quito, Ecuador. He said he hoped the lot of the oil producing countries would improve, so that they would be able to determine oil prices themselves and would put a halt to the Saudi regime's efforts. Mr Gharazi, speaking at Mehrabad Airport, prior to his departure, said for 20 months now extensive campaigns had been launched by superpowers to break oil prices in order to buy oil for 28 dollars a barrel, 6 dollars less than the official OPEC price. He noted the U.S., British and Zionist banks aimed to cut the oil price using their dollar reserves.

The oil minister stated that the Saudi Oil Minister Zaki Yamani, has been ordered to push for OPEC's maximum oil production, but he did not see discussing this with Iran as being to his benefit. He added that he hoped to put a halt to Saudi efforts, with the help [words indistinct] and the strivings of the Islamic combatants in the war fronts so that oil producers themselves would determine oil prices.

He refuted claims of an oil glut on the international oil market, but he warned that a push to decrease OPEC's oil price should not be repeated.

Gharazi concluded by saying that the oil market was currently thriving since for 3 weeks now, the oil price has reached and even surpassed that of OPEC's.

NATIONALIZATION OF FOREIGN TRADE URGED

GF181355 Tehran JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI in Persian 8 May 82 p 9

[Editorial: "The Nationalization of Foreign Trade: A Great Change on the Way]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. Last week the bill for the nationalization of foreign trade went in front of the Majlis for deliberation. Thirty-eight articles were approved. The nationalization of foreign trade is one of the very important and fundamental articles of the Constitution of the Islamic Republic which, if implemented, will cause immense changes in the economic makeup of the country.

With the implementation of this law it would no longer be the private gain of some profiteers which would determine the type, make of imported goods, the foreign dealer or the price for the purchaser. The government would have control over imports, and would base it on its popular policies. The government can thus eliminate the economic, political and cultural control of international plunderers over the Muslim people of Iran and also avoid reliance on one political and economic pole.

Another one of the aims which should be pursued following the approval of this bill would be granting priority to the expansion of commercial ties with the Muslim and oppressed nations of the world. In other words, the government, in order to realize the will of the martyr-nurturing people of Iran, which is the support of the Muslims and oppressed of the world, should, as much as possible, grant priority to such countries in the purchase of needed goods. These countries then would not be forced to sell their goods to international companies at lower prices and thus be exploited, nor would we have to purchase our needed goods at high prices from such plundering companies. Furthermore, when goods are imported for the sole profit of private importers, then similar goods produced at home cannot be competitive with the imported ones. This is because the domestically produced goods may be of lower quality and higher price due to lack of experience [in production]. They can only survive if they are completely protected by the government. With the nationalization of foreign trade the government can decisively stop the import of similar foreign goods no matter how superior in quality they are over the domestic ones and thus protect the domestic production.

The other important aim which can be pursued following the nationalization of foreign trade is the change of the consumer pattern and the adoption of Islamic values for these patterns. Prior to the victory of the Islamic revolution, the Western culture had rooted among our people to such an extent that no one wanted to use domestic goods. Everyone wanted to purchase the well-known foreign brands. The calamity had reached such proportions that the use of luxury goods had become a status symbol and people's characters were judged on the basis of the brand of their clothes, perfume or after shave!

Fortunately, following the victory of the Islamic revolution, such values have collapsed and the people are well adapted to a change of consumer patterns. Therefore, it is the duty of the government to implement such a change on the basis of Islamic values by taking over the import sector so we will attain economic self-sufficiency as fast as possible.

Up to now whenever there has been any reference to the nationalization of foreign trade, the main assumption has been the import sector. However, the more important aspect of this act is concerned with the export sector. So long as our exports are based solely on one item, oil, economic independence is not attainable. This is because an embargo on oil purchases by the superpowers may put us under pressure.

However, if the government can expand exports through better marketing -- this has fallen off since the victory of the Islamic revolution -- not only will the amount of our foreign currency earnings expand but it will also greatly help the economic independence of the country.

With the implementation of the bill for the nationalization of foreign trade the government can stop the big swindles that have so far taken place with respect to the return of currency earned by exports and also end the export of national wealth abroad for (?the benefit of the majority).

SHIPBUILDING DEAL CONCLUDED WITH YUGOSLAVIA

LD161956 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 16 May 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, a Yugoslav shipbuilding delegation, which is currently visiting Iran at the invitation of the Iranian Government, continued talks today with the managing director of Islamic Republic Shipping and the Yugoslav ambassador in Iran.

At this meeting, which led to the signing of a contract between Iran and Yugoslavia for various ship purchases and their repairs in Iran and Yugoslavia, the managing director of Islamic Republic Shipping discussed the close and friendly relations between the two countries and emphasized that the Iranian Government was interested in increasing economic relations between the two countries, in particular in the shipbuilding industry.

In this connection, it was agreed that if Yugoslavia could offer a suitable time of delivery and suitable prices, Iran would order (?auxiliary) ships and two edible-oil container ships. Meanwhile, the Yugoslav Government has announced its readiness to repair the 40 merchant ships presently possessed by Iran. Also, in order to establish a passenger service in the Persian Gulf, Iran reviewed the possibility of purchasing two roll-on roll-off ships in addition to the 12 ships on order.

According to the managing director of Islamic Republic Shipping, these purchases, which are to be done on a barter basis, are worth $250 million, which is paid through the sale of oil to Yugoslavia.

The Iranian official said: Following final approval and agreement by the Iranian Government with the 7-year plan offered by this company, the number of Iran's merchant ships will increase from 50 to 86, increasing cargo capacity from 2.5 million to 8.5 million tons.

IRNA REPORTS BARTER AGREEMENT SIGNED WITH GREECE

LD131106 Tehran IRNA in English 0900 GMT 13 May 82

[Text] Beirut, 13 May (IRNA) -- According to a barter agreement signed between Iran and Greece, Iran will export crude oil to Greece and in return will import oil production and ships. The report indicated that following some discussions between the two countries, Greece will cooperate with Iran in the field of ship keeping [as received], petrochemical and fishing industries.

NVOI ASSAILS IRANIAN COVERAGE OF AFGHAN EVENTS

TA182051 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 18 May 82

[Unattributed commentary: "Being in Harmony With Ziaul Haq's Regime Is Beneath the Dignity of Our Islamic Republic"]

[Text] Dear compatriots: Certain measures have been adopted by our country's Islamic government toward leading foreign policy in a correct anti-imperialist direction, and this has the endorsement of our homeland's people. However, the fact cannot be ignored that our country's official policy in some instances, for example with respect to the Afghan problem, is not only unrealistic, but is precisely in the direction desired by the foes of the Iranian revolution. For instance, when we pay attention to the reports about Afghanistan that are disseminated by the Voice of our Islamic Republic, regrettably we see that reports in this connection are the exact reports selected by Western news agencies and which are fed to the people as reliable news.

At a time when all observers in Afghanistan are witnessing the stabilization of the situation and the successes of the people of that country in connection with the construction of a new society, suddenly one hears from the Voice of the Islamic Republic of Iran reports fabricated by Western news media, for example about so-called clashes in the center of Kabul and similar cases. Naturally, this development cannot but arouse the concern of our homeland's people.

Indeed it is a matter for deliberation as to which factors have caused our Islamic Republic to pursue an anti-imperialist approach on the one hand and, in some instances, for example in the Afghan problem, to be in harmony with imperialist circles on the other hand.

Afghanistan is a democratic and liberated country whose people, as a result of the revolution's victory, have taken their destiny in their own hands and have terminated the rule of the arrogant. The popular system ruling over Afghanistan, from the viewpoint of its nature and its popular and anti-imperialist characteristic, is the natural ally of our revolution and Islamic Republic, and the leaders of the democratic government of that country also have repeatedly reiterated this. One of the reasons for the wrath and indignation of imperialist circles and the region's reaction toward democratic Afghanistan is this very fact. Consequently, it is not a secret to our country's officials that U.S. imperialism and the region's reaction have an identical and hostile approach with regard to emancipated Iran and democratic Afghanistan.

The fact that Ziaul Haq's regime -- which is dependent on the United States -- has transformed Pakistan into a base against democratic Afghanistan, and which is acting against revolutionary Afghanistan from this base through the Afghan counterrevolutionary forces, is something obvious. The fact that Pakistan is the base of Mohammad Zahir Shah, the major capitalists and landowners, heroin peddlers and various smugglers, different pro-American wings, including pseudoleftist groups, the fifth column of U.S. imperialism, namely, the Chinese Maoists, is something comprehensible.

World-devouring America -- this sworn enemy of nations -- is implementing its satanic plans with respect to Afghanistan by means of Pakistan, namely, the very thing that it is implementing with regard to our emancipated country by means of Turkey and Pakistan.

Now, the just question posed is: Why should the policy of our Islamic Republic in this connection be in the same line with the policy of Ziaul Haq -- the U.S. agent? Why should the propaganda organization of our revolutionary homeland feed the people as reliable news false reports fabricated by U.S. or British broadcasting stations?

Those who in Pakistan are acting against the people and Government of Afghanistan under the protection of the Ziaul Haqs and the control and leadership of U.S. experts are the very dregs of the toppled monarchical regime, the very major landowners and dependent capitalists, the very fugitive Afghan Oveysis and Azharis, who under the guise of Islam want to return once more to Afghanistan and to impose the rule of the feudals and the landlords over the people of that country.

Our homeland's people do not want to and cannot be in step and in harmony with the Afghan Bani-Sadrs, the Mojahedin, the Ranjbaris, the Peykaris and the Komelehs, and justly condemn their criminal activities which are carried out in the name and under the guise of Islam.

The Iranian people support and back the struggles of the Afghan people to foil the joint plots of imperialism and reaction, to stabilize the situation in the country and to build a new society based on social justice and democracy. Our homeland's people want the Islamic government to adopt a realistic policy with respect to the Afghan problem, to dissociate itself from the Ziaul Haqs, the Khalids, the Qabuses and the U.S. subservient regimes with regard to democratic Afghanistan, to warmly clasp the hand of friendship which has been and is being extended by the democratic Government of Afghanistan toward our nation, and to establish good neighborly and fraternal relations with this emancipated, anti-imperialist and popular country.

RADIO IRAN ON TEHRAN, KARMAL REGIME COOPERATION

GF171710 (Clandestine) Radio Iran in Persian to Iran 1330 GMT 17 May 82

[Text] The regime of the highly Islamic republic of Ruhollah Khomeyni has handed over another 150 Afghan refugees to the Soviet puppet regime in that country. These 150 Afghans, who were part of the opposition to Babrak Karmal's regime and were fighting the occupying Soviet force, took refuge in Iran around 2 weeks ago.

Khomeyni's Islamic revolution guards delivered these brother Afghans -- all of whom are Muslims -- to the agents of the Karmal regime and soldiers of the Red Army at the Eslam Qal'eh border post in handcuffs. According to dispatches, these individuals were taken to Pol-e Charkhi prison in Kabul for questioning. This is not the first time that Khomeyni's cronies have arrested Afghan freedom fighters and delivered them to the Soviets or their puppets in Afghanistan. Thousands of Afghan refugees have previously been returned to Afghanistan in this manner.

Many Afghan refugees have fled Iran following the cooperation of the Islamic republican regime of Khomeyni and that of Babrak Karmal and the Soviet occupying forces in the arrest and return of Afghan freedom fighters and refugees. They have escaped Khomeyni's Islam and have taken refuge in Pakistan, India and Germany [as heard].

RADIO IRAN ON TREATMENT OF RELIGIOUS MINORITIES

GF151242 (Clandestine) Radio Iran in Persian to Iran 1330 GMT 14 May 82

[Unattributed commentary]

[Excerpts] With the execution of another group of Baha'is by the mullahs, the bloody suppression of religious minorities has once again become the topic of the day.

So far, about 300 Baha'is have been executed on orders from the mullahs. A large number, especially in Shiraz, under pressure from the guards, have been forced to pretend they have changed their religion and become Muslim. [passage indistinct]

Accused of being agents of imperialism and Zionism, Baha'is are facing the firing squads. Obviously, travel to Israel is just an excuse, because even those Baha'is who have not traveled to Israel are not safe from the aggression of mullahs and guards.

All Baha'is have been fired from government offices and institutions and factories affiliated with the government. Their children are not allowed to attend schools and they are prevented from leaving Iran. This year, when the identity cards are changed to Islamic ID's, religion will be included in the identity cards. Identity cards will not be distributed to Baha'is, and without ID cards, they will not be able to receive food ration coupons. Even now, they can only obtain their goods from the black market.

Therefore, if Khomeyni's regime stays in power, a black death awaits all the Baha'is. So far, the Islamic guards have kidnapped a large number of Baha'i children and have forced them into Islam. The parents are not allowed to visit these children. According to remarks made by Mullah Rabbani-Amlashi, Baha'is are not subject to the protection of law.

But, the Zoroastrians, Jews and Christians, who are supposedly protected by law and are officially recognized by the constitution of Khomeyni's regime, are no better off than the Baha'is.

In Yazd, a number of Zoroastrian girls have been kidnapped by guards and Hezbollahi ruffians and their parents have been told that their daughters have become Muslim and married this or that guard or committee member. When the parents insist on visiting their daughters, they are told that they are not allowed to meet with a Muslim woman. Khomeyni supporters not only kidnap girls, they also kidnap married women and [words indistinct]. For some time, the Yazd Zoroastrians have not been allowing their daughters and women out of the house and they are never allowed out alone.

The situation of the Jews is far worse than that of the Zoroastrians. They are not only prevented from going out of Iran, they are also forced to chant slogans against the only Jewish state -- Israel -- and call for Israel's destruction. Mullahs and guards are forcing the Iranian Jews to attend anti-Israel marches and to support the Islamic Republic's policy on destruction of all the Jews in Israel and the establishment of an Islamic and Arab republic in that country.

So far, a large number of Jews and Baha'is have been executed on baseless charges of spying for Israel, even though Israel does not need to endanger the lives of these oppressed people to get information on what is going on in Iran.

Armenians and Assyrians, who are for the most part engaged in technical and agriculture work, are facing less economic pressure, but culturally and socially, their situation is no better than that of the Jews and Zoroastrians. They also are forced to respect the Islamic laws, and their houses are not safe from the attacks of guards.

Lately, thousands of communist Armenians have been imported from the Soviet Armenian SSR. These people are showing that they are so fond of the living in the Islamic Republic, that they have returned from the Soviet Union. The Soviet Union, which does not allow its citizens to go abroad even as tourists incidentally, has become democratic and has granted exit visas to these people and thousands of Azerbaijan communists. Their mission is to help the expansion of [words indistinct].

PROSECUTOR GENERAL ON OPPOSITION, COURTS

GF181150 Tehran JOMMURI-YE ESLAMI in Persian 4 May 82 p 12

[Report on "exclusive" interview granted by Prosecutor General Rabbani-Amlashi to JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI correspondent on 4 May -- place not given]

[Excerpts] Forty of the ringleaders of the hypocrites minigroups have been killed. Ayatollah Mohammad Mehdi Rabbani-Amlashi, speaking to the JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI correspondent in an exclusive interview, added: I am sure you realized what happened after hearing the sounds of shooting from various places during the past few days. Praise be to God, a large number of safe houses were discovered yesterday (2 May); 40 persons were killed in those clashes and about 20 were arrested. Among those killed, four or five have been identified as ringleaders of the group's central cadre.

He then talked of the anticorruption court: The anticorruption court has been highly effective in preventing corruption and will be even more effective in the future. In an Islamic republic we cannot permit individuals to do as they like, but you will notice that the anticorruption court is not concerned with what the people do secretly, that is, it is not there for inquiry or investigation. However, it does interfere in and tries to prevent obscenities which are openly committed in the Islamic Republic of Iran, which has as its law the holy Koran, because this is a legal and Islamic obligation.

He continued: All our revolutionary organizations did not [at first] have the facilities which were established later. It was later that we gained experience. We plunged into everything without experience or facilities and made some mistakes, but we are confident that all of them, or at least most of them, were not intentional.

The state prosecutor general then spoke about the courts and the Islamic revolution courts. We have a definite need for Islamic courts because our country is Islamic and our law is Islamic. There can be no doubt that our courts and judiciary should conform to Islamic norms.

HORMOZGAN GOVERNOR GENERAL ON BUDGET ALLOCATION

GF121250 Bandar-e 'Abbas Domestic Service in Persian 1330 GMT 12 May 82

[Interview with Hormozgan Province Governor General Kohzadi by Bandar-e 'Abbas Central News Unit correspondent; date, place not given -- recorded]

[Excerpts] [Question] Brother Kohzadi, there was a governors general seminar in Tehran in which you participated. Please tell us about the results of the session and decisions made on the administrative division of the country.

[Answer] In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. The session was held in the Interior Ministry to discuss the new plan for the administrative division of the country. Since there are a large number of provinces and since some new provinces will be added, and due to the concentration of all work at the center causing a shortcoming in looking into problems of the provinces, [a plan has been worked out] similar to that of the revolution guards dividing the country into districts.

For example, two small provinces form a state and this state will be under the control of a state governor [vali]. The state governor has powers like those of the interior minister. The decisions will be taken there and thus the need for appealing to the center and the associated administrative problems will be eliminated. General policies will be decided upon at the center under the auspices of the representatives of the Majlis and the Cabinet members who would authorize the state to perform administrative procedures.

For instance, Khorasan Province itself becomes a state, but Hormozgan, Kerman, and Sistan va Baluchestan Provinces will be combined as one state, having three governors general under one state governor. The state governor has approximately the same administrative powers as the interior minister for solving difficulties.

[Question] Has the budget for 1983 been allocated? How much is it and what are the priorities in the budget?

[Answer] Yes, fortunately 90 percent of last year's budget has been absorbed. This province was one of the successful provinces in implementing its projects. The only difficulty we were encountering was the lack of manpower and technical skills in this province. Luckily, with God's grace, we were able to bring committed people and put them in charge and make the Hezbollahi responsible.

I have the pleasure to inform our dear listeners that next year's budget allocation is 450 million tumans which is allocated by the government for Hormozgan. Fourteen million tumans has been allocated for the facilities of urban institutions such as the construction of flood prevention dams. Seventy-two million tumans is for the education department, of which 48.3 million is for the equipment and construction of new primary schools, 15.8 million for intermediate schools and renovation or construction of buildings, and 8 million for secondary schools and for equipment, construction and renovation. The public health directorate of the province gets 58.7 million tumans. Eight million tumans of this is allocated for health services, 12.7 million for rural hygiene and treatment, and 38 million for environmental hygiene and supply of drinking water to rural areas.

Forty-four million tumans is the allocation for the housing and urban development department and 2.5 million tumans will be used for the construction of government buildings. Some 1.965 million tumans will be used for the construction of sports stadiums in the rural and district areas for use by and training of the youth. Four million tumans is allocated for the construction of preventitive facilities of cities such as flood dams and so on. Thirteen million tumans is allocated for construction of houses in southern ports due to the large number of employees. Another 13 million will be spent for living quarters and houses for technical employees in order to attract them for the reconstruction of the province. Six million tumans is allocated for the construction of low-cost houses to sell to the people; 3.825 million tumans is for post offices in urban and rural areas; 32 million tumans is the budget for the agricultural departments; 2 million tumans of this will be spent for rural drinking water projects. Nineteen million tumans will be allocated for rural institutions, 11 million for the expansion of agriculture and cattle breeding projects which will mainly be spent on Minab area projects. Some 4.4 million tumans is the budget for forestry.

Some 12.66 million tumans is allocated for small industries. This will be used to establish an industrial area in Bandar-'Abbas. The budget of the road and transportation department of the province is 121.8 million tumans, out of which 80 million will be used for expansion of secondary roads in rural areas; 3.5 million tumans will be spent for the maintenance or roads; 2 million tumans for the expansion of airports and construction of terminals and other buildings at small airports; 36.3 million tumans will be spent on construction of new rural roads. We have a total of 121 million allocated for the roads department.

The water authority in the province has a budget allocation of approximately 47 million tumans, of which 2.7 million is allocated for small water projects and 44.53 million for the water facilities in cities.

The regional power authority has a budget of 40 million tumans for this year.

The entire budget will be spent for the electrification of villages -- that is, the entire budget of the electricity authority has been allocated by the committee for planning and use for the expansion and electrification of our dear villages. This totals 445.86 million tumans of the province's budget.

[Question] How does the budget figure you mentioned compare to last year's?

[Answer] It is nearly the same as last year's. In addition around 280 million tumans has been allocated by the government for expansion of the fishing industry. This has been progressing well. Agreements have been signed for construction of facilities and the allocation will be spent on the construction of a freezing tunnel [as heard], cold storage facilities and other facilities which can take the fish from the fishermen and also serve them. You can ask our brother Mr (Qaddad), who is the managing director of the fishery department. Thus if you add the two figures we have approximately around 720 million.

There are also some national projects underway in the province. I do not have the statistics for them but it is a considerable sum.

BRIEFS

ARMS, TRANSCEIVER DISCOVERIES -- Quchan antinarcotics squad personnel arrested 'Ali Hasan Azadeh for possession of two transceivers with a range of 12 kilometers. Pol-e Dokhtar revolution guards in six missions arrested 8 hypocrites and discovered the following arms: 144 various types of light weapons, 13,432 rounds of ammunition, 14 Kalashnikov magazines, 13 G-3 magazines and a quantity of camping equipment. [Tehran JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI in Persian 1 May 82 p 5 GF]

TRADE WITH PAKISTAN -- Tehran, 15 May (IRNA) -- The volume of commercial exchange between Iran and Pakistan will amount to 500 million dollars by next year, announced Ghulam Ishaq Khan, the Pakistani commerce and finance minister on Saturday in Islamabad. Ishaq Khan further stated that this was only a portion of a short-term agreement recently concluded between Iran and Pakistan when a Pakistani mission paid a visit to Iran. On the basis of another Iran-Pakistan agreement, Pakistan is to import 10,000 barrels of Iranian crude daily and or 500,000 barrels during the next year. [sentence as received] According to a short-term commercial agreement, Iran will import several items of goods including textiles, chicks, rice, iron and steel, fertilizer, sugar, meat, and fish from Pakistan. Iran will further export to Pakistan sulfide, raisins, saffron and zinc. [Text] [Tehran IRNA in English 1053 GMT 15 May 92 LD]

TRADE WITH BULGARIA -- According to the Central News Unit, the Bulgarian ambassador and the director general of the Bulgarian Foreign Trade Ministry met this morning with the deputy minister of commerce in charge of foreign trade to discuss the possibility of expanding the commercial relations between the two countries and of increasing the amount of barter exchanges taking place between them. MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

Israel

No-Confidence Motion -- The Knesset defeated the Alignment's no-confidence motion by 58 to 57 votes, Knesset Speaker Menahem Savidor told MK's in an announcement broadcast live by IDF radio. The two Telem MK's and one Tehiya MK abstained, according to the roll call of the vote broadcast by the radio. The government will not attempt to coopt Tehiya and possibly Telem into the coalition, the radio said. Jerusalem radio said that in previous contacts with the government, Tehiya had demanded that Jerusalem should not be an issue for discussion in any negotiations and that the settlement program in Judaea and Samaria should be accelerated.

In his speech, which concluded the debate and was broadcast live by the radio, Prime Minister Menahem Begin accused the Alignment of "dirty tactics" but predicted that the government would not fall. After the vote, Begin said Labor Party Chairman Shim'on Peres' political career is now coming to an end since the Labor Party will not forgive him for failure, the radio reported. However, in an IDF radio interview, Peres denied the Alignment had failed to obtain its objective. The Alignment had succeeded in its aim of raising the economic issue, Peres said, and had never expected to win the no-confidence vote.

Location of Embassies -- Prime Minister Begin has appealed to all democratic nations to follow Costa Rica's example and establish their embassies in Jerusalem, the Jerusalem POST reported. Meanwhile, Zaire's ambassador in Brussels disclosed that his country's embassy will be situated in Tel Aviv and criticized whoever had announced it would be located in Jerusalem, according to Jerusalem radio. Following the Zairian decision to resume ties with Israel, Tunisia has recalled its ambassador in Kinshasa for consultations, AFP noted.

Relations With U.S. -- In a reply message to Prime Minister Begin, U.S. Secretary of State Alexander Haig expressed understanding for Israel's position on the cease-fire along the northern border and praised Israel's restraint, Jerusalem radio reported.

Tel Aviv's YOMAN HASHAVU'A claimed that the U.S. consul in east Jerusalem has been negotiating with PLO supporters in Judaea and Samaria and has boycotted moderate Palestinian leaders who have reservations about the PLO.

PLO-Lebanon

VOP on Cease-Fire -- A commentary by the clandestine Voice of Palestine radio said the forthcoming visit to the Middle East of U.S. envoy Morris Draper is aimed at introducing Israel's arbitrary interpretation of the cease-fire in south Lebanon. When the PLO responded to UN calls for a cease-fire in July 1981, it was clear this commitment to cease fire would not be applied outside the southern border of Lebanon and would not limit the PLO's inalienable right to resist occupation and exercise legitimate struggle, the radio said. If Israel abides by the correct interpretation of the cease-fire, the PLO will continue to adhere to it without this affecting the PLO's right to resist the enemy on all levels, particularly in the occupied homeland, the radio concluded.

Mines in Border Strip -- A militia patrol in Maj Sa'd Haddad's southern border enclave discovered two newly-laid antitank mines near Marj 'Uyun, Jerusalem radio reported on 20 May.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Iranian troops repulsed a "last-ditch" attack by Iraqi forces along the northern Khuzestan border and inflicted heavy losses on armored and mechnized units of Iraq's 12th and 9th Divisions, Tehran radio reported. A later radio report claimed that 45 Iraqi tanks and personnel carriers were destroyed during the attack. According to a military communique broadcast by Tehran radio, three Iraqi planes were shot down near Abadan on 18 May and another three were shot down in the Khorramshahr region on 19 May.

An Iraqi military spokesman, in a statement carried by INA, claimed that 658 Iranians were killed and 18 tanks were destroyed during an Iraqi attack on Iranian positions north of Khorramshahr. An Iraqi commander disclosed that the Iranians have pulled back their armored units from the frontlines west of the Karun River and north of Khorramshahr, INA reported. Since 30 April, 35,793 Iranians have been killed and 480 tanks and 31 planes were destroyed, according to a report by the weekly magazine ALIF BA' cited by INA.

Saudi Arabia

The Gulf countries warn Iran against the consequences of taking any action against them and warn it that any such step "will cost it dearly," a Riyadh radio commentary declared. The commentary said the Gulf countries understand the meaning of collective responsibility when a GCC member is threatened. It added that the Iranian leaders are fooling themselves if they believe the GCC states fear them or if they believe the GCC will wait for Iran to start implementing its threats against them.

Iran

Revolution Court Prosecutor General Hoseyn Musavi-Tabrizi revealed that former Foreign Minister Sadeq Qotbzadeh and a number of other persons will be tried before the end of June for their alleged involvement in a plot to kill Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni and seize power, AFP reported citing ETTELA'AT. The defendants will appear before a revolution court presided over by a military judge. Meanwhile, the clandestine Voice of Iran radio reported that Qotbzadeh tried to commit suicide on 15 May.

Egypt

Syrian Airlines Delegation -- A Syrian Airlines delegation is now in Cairo to discuss the resumption of flights between Damascus and Cairo, the Jordanian paper AL-'UFUQ AL-IQTISADI reported. Monitored Egyptian media have not reported the presence of the Syrian delegation.

'Ali Remarks -- Egypt wants a prompt end to the Iran-Iraq war, Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali declared in an interview with the London paper ASH-SHARQ AL-AWSAT reported by MENA. 'Ali added that Egypt views the Gulf states as its first strategic line of defense and considers these countries essential to its security. Asked what Egypt could do in the event Iran defeats Iraq, 'Ali said Egypt can give Iraq a lot of assistance if requested. The report did not specify the nature of the assistance.

Return of AL-AHALI -- PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat sent a message to Khalid Muhyi ad-Din, secretary general of the Egyptian National Progressive Union Group, and to the editorial staff of the Egyptian newspaper AL-AHALI congratulating them on the paper's reappearance, Voice of Palestine radio reported. 'Arafat said the PLO had looked forward with hope to the reappearance of "our struggling newspaper" as a weapon added to the arsenal of the Arab liberation forces.

Sudan

First Vice President 'Umar Muhammad at-Tayyib has called for an Arab summit conference to discuss Arab problems, above all the liberation of the occupied Arab territories and the achievement of Palestinian rights, MENA reported citing a statement by At-Tayyib to the Egyptian paper AL-AKHBAR. At-Tayyib said Sudan is conducting serious contacts with the Arab states with a view toward convening an Arab summit conference, that would be attended by Egypt, as soon as possible.

KESHTMAND CHAIRS COUNCIL OF MINISTERS SESSION

LD171716 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1430 GMT 17 May 82

[Text] Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand, chairman of the DRA Council of Ministers, chaired a general Council of Ministers session this morning at the Council of Ministers headquarters. The session began with the playing of the DRA national anthem.

According to the Council of Ministers' previously prepared work program and agenda, Dr Khalil Ahmad Abawi, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers and president of the State Planning Committee, presented a report on the economic and social development plan for 1981-1982. The report was positively evaluated. Then Dr Mehraboddin Paktiawal, general director of the DRA State Bank, gave a report on the currency situation in the country. The Council of Ministers approved the report.

Assistant Attorney General Mohammad (Akram 'Abqari) presented a Ministry of Justice report on the draft of laws, provisions and charters. The Ministry of Justice presented the general session of the Council of Ministers with the drafts for 24 paragraphs of laws and appendices to laws as well as the drafts of provisions and charters. The drafts have been prepared and organized in accordance with the joint cooperation of the relevant ministries, the DRA Basic Principles, the law of the DRA Council of Ministers, other laws of the country and the instructions of the PDPA and with consideration to the decrees of the Revolutionary Council Presidium.

After consideration, it was decided that, in accordance with Article 47 of the DRA Basic Principles, the draft of the relevant laws and their appendices would be submitted to the DRA Presidium for final approval and instructions; the draft laws and provisions approved were sent to the OFFICIAL GAZETTE for publication.

Appropriate decisions were made concerning topics discussed in the general session of the Council of Ministers. A number of provisions which had previously been decided on in the Executive Committee of the Council of Ministers were approved.

In addition, the Council of Ministers approved the appointment of Dr Asadollah Habib as rector of Kabul University.

The session ended around noon with the playing of the DRA national anthem.

RELATIONS WITH GDR, KARMAL VISIT LAUDED

GF200525 Kabul in Urdu to South Asia 1330 GMT 19 May 82

[Untitled commentary]

[Excerpt] At an invitation from high-ranking party and government officials of the German Democratic Republic, Babrak Karmal, the secretary general of the People's Democratic Party of Afghanistan and chairman of the Revolutionary Council of the DRA, is currently paying a friendly and official visit to Berlin.

The visit of the official Afghan delegation led by Babrak Karmal is an important landmark in the history of friendship between the two countries. Afghanistan has traditionally had friendly relations with the GDR. However, soon after the April Revolution in Afghanistan, Afghan-GDR relations were expanded through nonresident ambassadors. Later, when the government of the toilers was established in the DRA, these relations entered a new phase. Soon after, diplomatic relations were not only upgraded, but the ruling parties in both countries further developed their international relations greatly.

Today, the complete solidarity of the GDR with the Afghan people's struggle against international imperialism led by the United States, Chinese hegemonism and regional conservative regimes engaged in undeclared war against the people of Afghanistan is a matter of extraordinary importance. During its second session, the joint DRA-GDR economic commission, which is a symbol of friendly and fraternal relations between the two countries, paved the way for greater cooperation among the toiling people, social organizations and governments of both countries in the economic, scientific and technology fields.

Now, the peoples of both countries consider that their cooperation promotes amity in the interest of peace and international security, and they also believed that the present visit of the high-level party and government delegation of the DRA to the GDR is a very important landmark in the history of friendly relations between these two countries.

TALKS WITH PRC DELEGATION CONCLUDE IN DELHI

Second Day of Talks

BK181400 Delhi Overseas Service in English 1330 GMT 18 May 82

[Text] The four working groups of the official-level talks between India and China had further discussions for the second day in New Delhi today. A spokesman of the External Affairs Ministry told newsmen that one of the features of some of these groups is that they visited a few ministries and organizations concerning their subjects of discussion. He said the groups on border, trade and economic affairs, science and technology and culture will be meeting for the next 2 days. Discussions at these working groups will be reviewed at a plenary at the end of the talks.

The spokesman also confirmed that the special envoy of China, Fu Hao, will be meeting External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao on Thursday.

Third Day of Talks

[Text] The four working groups at the official-level talks between India and China continued their discussions in New Delhi for the third day today. An official spokesman of the External Affairs Ministry told newsmen that the working group on border issue discussed it indepth and in businesslike manner. He said that it is expected that the talks will conclude tomorrow.

Talks End 20 May

BK200859 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 20 May 82

[Text] The bilateral official-level talks between India and China ended in New Delhi this morning. The two sides met in plenary to review the 4-day discussions of the working groups on border, trade and economic affairs, science and technology and culture. Immediately after the plenary, leader of the Chinese delegation Fu Hao met External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao. He was with him for about 1/2 hour.

Asked by newsmen whether there has been any breakthrough on the boundary questions, Fu said everything has worked according to plan.

Leader of the Indian side, Eric Gonsalves, told the Akashvani correspondent that the two sides will be meeting in the afternoon for a brief wrapup session.

EXPRESS VIEWS GANDHI'S UPCOMING U.S. VISIT

BK191702 Delhi INDIAN EXPRESS in English 14 May 82 p 6

[Editorial: "Mission to Washington"]

[Text] Mrs Gandhi's decision to visit the USA towards the end of July, after the confusion caused by the sudden postponement of her trips to the two super power capitals, is to be welcomed for more reasons than one. It will give Mrs Gandhi and President Reagan their first opportunity to discuss frankly the problems that are at the heart of Indo-U.S. differences. (Their earlier meeting at Cancun was hardly in the nature of an in-depth discussion of problems). Secondly, the very fact that the two leaders will be meeting in Washington implies some interest on the American side to try to respect Indian sensitivities up to a point.

It would be futile to expect dramatic results from Mrs Gandhi's visit. Its usefulness will lie in clearing the air and a deeper understanding by each side of the other's views.

It is characteristic of Indo-U.S. relations that Washington's relationship with third countries impinges on the bilateral equation to a considerable degree. The Americans can make the same point in India's case. The value of the Washington meetings will, therefore, lie in how frankly the two leaders detail their assessments of the region and the world. One of the sore points with Americans is that however much India disagrees with U.S. policies, it should not doubt Washington's motives.

Mrs Gandhi has stopped using the USA as a whipping boy for some time, election rhetoric apart. Indeed, her recent criticism of U.S. policies has been on the general plane, often coupled with sorrow that India was misunderstood. There is no guarantee that the ruling party's politicians will not revert to their earlier form, but the alacrity and speed with which Mrs Gandhi accepted President Reagan's invitation would suggest a measure of eagerness to put across Indian views to the U.S. establishment at the highest level.

Since Indo-Pakistani relations, as also the Pakistan-U.S. equation, will inevitably figure in Mrs Gandhi's talks in Washington, it would be reasonable to assume that the stalled talks between Delhi and Islamabad will be resumed before the end of July.

INDIAN ROLE IN NONALIGNED MOVEMENT VIEWED

BK191525 Delhi INDIAN EXPRESS in English 13 May 82 p 6

[Editorial: "India and the World"]

[Text] There are overriding compulsions to go ahead with the summit meeting of the nonaligned in Bahgdad in September, despite the Iranian objections. Locked as Iran is in a war with Iraq, a war in which the Khomeyni regime has done surprisingly well against the background of an unfinished revolution at home, Tehran has objections to going to the capital of the "enemy" for the summit. But the better part of the Nonaligned Movement has other reasons for sticking to the Baghdad date, principally to bring to an end Cuba's presidency. The Nonaligned Movement is divided on ideological lines as well as by the historical and regional quarrels of its members. But there is overwhelming majority for the view, shared by India and Yugoslavia, that the effectiveness of the movement and its credibility are destroyed by having a Soviet proxy as its current titular head.

India's reported bid for hosting the eighth summit has to be viewed against Mrs Gandhi's interest in putting India back on the world map. This is apparent from her new enthusiasm for the Commonwealth as also for using the United Nations forum to greater advantage. The rationale behind the new Indian interest in world fora lies in the belief that in an increasingly dangerous world, the country has no option but to participate in multilateral organisations' deliberations with greater verve to be able to influence decisions up to a point. Therefore, it stands to reason that the Nonaligned Movement, co-founded by India, should gather in Delhi for a summit.

What other forms this more assertive role in world affairs will take remains to be seen. But one likely result will be greater Indian independence from the Soviet view of the world. India has been careful to respect Soviet sensitivities, on Afghanistan as on other issues, but it will obviously be easier for New Delhi to strike up a more independent posture on world problems if it also expresses the views of other nonaligned countries.

South-South deliberations, in the political and economic fields, are an essential part of the North-South question. To the extent the developing countries can agree among themselves, to that extent will they be able to make their points effectively.

FOREIGN POLICY ON FALKLANDS ISSUE ANALYZED

BK200700 Delhi INDIAN EXPRESS in English 12 May 82 p 6

[Article by S. Nihal Singh on "Winds of Change in Foreign Policy"]

[Text] The crisis over the Falklands, which has involved Britain, Argentina, the United States of America and, in a manner of speaking, the Soviet Union, provides an interesting case study of the evolution of Indian foreign policy. Far from shouting from the housetops about imperialist Britain trying to retain a colony by force, the Indian reaction has been muted and, officially, India went to the extent of expressing "regret" over the initial Argentinian action which provoked the crisis.

There are, of course, special circumstances which helped India adopt a somewhat detached attitude to the South Atlantic drama. Few would disagree with the proposition that Britain has no right to be in the Falklands in perpetuity merely because it conquered them nearly 150 years ago. But the overwhelming proportion of its tiny population is of British descent, although now in the category of second class British citizens.

On the basis of continuity, Argentina would seem to have greater claim to the islands, a claim recognised by the non-aligned world. But the Argentinian action in seizing the islands by force behind Britain's back as it were, without the microscopic local population showing any interest in union with Argentina, seemed to most countries totally unjustified and a rather unnecessary exercise in one-upmanship.

There were also other factors influencing India. Mrs Gandhi had just returned from a successful visit to Britain before the crisis broke and was loath to sacrifice a deepening Indo-British relationship for striking up postures over a crisis involving a remote part of the world. Besides, the nature of the Argentinian regime has not endeared itself to most of the world. And to reinforce these points, British diplomacy has been particularly successful in presenting Whitehall's case.

Given this setting the Indian response is nevertheless remarkable for making a departure from a standard reaction to a quarrel involving a non-aligned country and an old imperialist power. To an extent, India has shown that it can assert its interests, in this case linked to not identifying itself with the Argentinian action, even though it would arouse the ire of a section of the non-aligned world (non-alignment, of course, comes in many shades and colours). Besides, New Delhi no longer feels the compulsion to pronounce its wisdom on every conceivable issue in the world.

This does not mean that India intends to give short shrift to non-alignment. It is in the practice of it, rather than adherence to the creed, that is the touchstone of Indian policy. Non-alignment has, in any case, proved a sufficiently flexible policy to encompass a country's interests of the permanent or more immediate variety. In the early phase of Mrs Gandhi's present tenure she and her foreign minister sought to justify the country's special relationship with the Soviet Union by declaring that nonalignment did not imply equidistance from the two super powers.

The trend towards a more hard-headed foreign policy has not come about suddenly. There have been straws in the wind -- in the unhurried progress towards better relations with China, in not taking differences with the Reagan administration to a point that would preclude a happier relationship in the future. There have been aberrations too. No official Indian spokesman has offered a convincing explanation of India's recognition of the Heng Samrin regime in Kampuchea and Indian reactions to Pakistani moves are still tinged with emotional overtones.

But the Falklands issue is something of a symbol of the crystallisation of an evolving Indian policy. It represents the jettisoning of a part of the Nehru baggage in foreign policy though Indian spokesmen will continue to swear by the Nehru legacy; particular interest groups like the communists have naturally a purpose in doing so.

It stands to reason that in a changing and evolving world, a country's foreign policy cannot remain stationary. It is difficult to act on this maxim in India for several reasons. Given the comprehension and knowledge of foreign affairs of our legislators, they feel more comfortable in chanting the mantras of a bygone age. Besides, against the historical background of the birth of nonalignment, the communists and those promoting foreign powers' interests find India a fertile soil in which to cultivate an anti-West, particularly anti-American, orientation.

To suggest that there is a change in Indian foreign policy is not to equate it with an anti-Soviet stance. Relations with the Soviet Union remain close while differences with the United States of America are many and varied. The significance of the shift in New Delhi lies in the recognition that divergent as Indian and US perceptions are, Indian objectives will be helped, rather than hindered, by engaging Washington in frank discussions.

If the primary objective of Indian foreign policy is to keep the region and, if possible, the Indian Ocean free of super power presence, it is a receding goal. Russian troops are digging in in Afghanistan, the United States of America has a new arms relationship with Pakistan and never has the Indian Ocean seen so many warships of the super powers in peacetime. And there is the American base at Diego Garcia which has lost some of its emotive power in India.

The point to determine is what diplomatic goals India should set itself to try to rectify a discouraging picture. Merely blaming one side for all the ills of the region and the world would serve little purpose. Although Indian compulsions to make gestures to Soviet sensitivities are understandable up to a point, they do not provide the answer to the Indian dilemma.

Besides, the Russians have demonstrated by marching into Afghanistan that their strategic interests in the region can diverge from India's. This should come as no surprise because a super power follows its own compulsions, even if they go against the interests of friends and allies. If the United States of America is less than sympathetic to India because the latter is not part of its strategic consensus, Russian action can also harm India.

There are no easy answers to these problems, except to clear the fog of emotion and cliches to view them as they are. The Indian reaction to the Falklands crisis is an indication that on occasion Indian policy-makers are clear-headed enough to set aside emotion and slogans to address themselves to the country's interests.

Ironically, in this instance, the British policy-makers, particularly Mrs Margaret Thatcher, can be faulted for giving way to emotionalism. True, the Argentinian surprise seizure of the Falklands touched a tender nerve of the aging British lion, but it is the task of a country's leadership to temper jingoist emotions, rather than to stoke them. And Britain has in the process lost a good foreign secretary, apart from military material in the South Atlantic.

On the Indian side, the handling of the Falklands issue is no guarantee that there will be no bouts of emotionalism and downright bungling in the pursuit of foreign policy goals. But it does hold out some promise of a more realistic policy tailored to India's needs, despite the omniscient "foreign hand" that seems to be the answer to politicians' prayers, particularly at election time.

If preaching is in the Indian tradition, the less of it our policy-makers do, the better it will be for the country.

USSR TO SUPPLY CRUDE; AGREEMENT SIGNED IN MOSCOW

BK191622 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 19 May 82

[Text] The Soviet Union is to supply 2.5 million tons of crude to India during this year. An agreement for this has been signed in Moscow. The Soviet Union has already agreed to supply 1.5 million tons of kerosene and 670,000 tons high speed diesel under another agreement.

India is also likely to sign an agreement with Saudi Arabia for import of crude soon.

MODERATE-TO-HEAVY POLLING IN ELECTIONS

BK191317 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1230 GMT 19 May 82

[Text] Moderate-to-heavy polling has been reported in the elections to the four state assemblies and byelections to 15 assembly and 6 Lok Sabha seats.

In West Bengal, 50 to 55 percent of about 300,000 voters are estimated to have cast their votes by late this afternoon. The polling was reported to be by and large peaceful.

Akashvani's correspondent, who visited several polling booths in Calcutta and 24 Paragana districts, reports that the polling has been peaceful. However, in East Calcutta two bombs were thrown at a booth this evening injuring one person. The incident, however, did not affect the polling.

According to the police at least four persons were injured in three violent incidents in Calcutta during the day.

In the rural areas of West Bengal, women voters turned out in large numbers.

Nirmal Sen Gupta, an independent candidate of Durgapur 1 assembly constituency who had been reported missing since Sunday [16 May] night, has been traced.

In Kerala, polling to the 140 assembly constituencies ended this evening without any major incident. According to reports 70 to 75 percent of the 13 million voters had exercised their franchise. The heaviest polling was reported from Nemom where former Chief Minister Karunakaran is involved in a seven-corner contest. Voters in the Peravur constituency in the state had the first opportunity of using electronic device.

In Himachal Pradesh, according to initial estimates 55 to 60 percent of the voters are reported to have cast their votes today.

In Haryana, 35 percent of votes have been cast by midday. No untoward incident has been reported from any polling station.

Chief Election Commissioner S.L. Sakhdhar has said that polling went off peacefully in all the states. He told newsmen in New Delhi today that more than 50 percent of votes were cast till this afternoon. He said he had received a report about one untoward incident in Hissar, Haryana. Ten booths were affected but normalcy was soon restored in eight of them. In the remaining two a repoll will be held.

Sakhdhar also said that despite a call for boycott given by some Naxalite elements in Krishnagar in West Bengal, polling went off smoothly there. Some armed miscreants had snatched the polling material from a booth in (Jhauguri) last night but it was promptly replaced and voting took place today.

CABINET MEETS TO DISCUSS DEVELOPMENTS AT FRONTS

LD192030 Tehran IRNA in English 1947 GMT 19 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 19 May (IRNA) -- The latest developments in the warfronts and social issues of the country were discussed in the Cabinet session this morning. The session was chaired by Prime Minister Musavi. The government spokesman, Ahmad Tavakkoli, speaking to an IRNA reporter after the meeting said during the session minister of defence, Colonel Mohammad Salimi, gave a report of the situation in the warfronts and achievements of the Islamic forces during the bayt al-moqaddas operations and said that some 4,000 sq. kms of Iranian lands have been recovered. Colonel Salimi also praised the high morale of the families of the martyrs.

The foreign affairs minister, 'Ali Akbar Velayati, also reported to the Cabinet about the situation of the region and the Persian Gulf Cooperation Council, and the division that has been created among the members of the council. The foreign affairs minister hoped that with the victories of the Islamic Republic's forces in the warfronts, Iran would become successful in the foreign policy theatre.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 912

LD191738 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 19 May 82

[Communique No 912 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. We hereby inform the dear and Muslim compatriots about the outcome of the battles and self-sacrifices of the fighters of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the conditions on the battlefronts of the war imposed upon Iran:

The self-sacrificing and heroic pilots and the aware and vigilant personnel of the anti-aircraft units of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran during the last 24 hours performed their functions to the utmost by destroying and repulsing the violating planes of the aggressive Iraqi Armed Forces and by establishing complete air superiority in all the skies of the war zones, giving full support to the fighting units of the ground forces and carrying out logistic missions and air transport.

At 1422, 1440, and 1703 yesterday they downed three intruding Iraqi planes around Abadan. At 1121, 1132 and 1214 today they also downed three more planes of Saddam's mercenary armed forces in the Khorramshahr region.

During the past 24 hours, fighting and exchange of fire continued along the western fronts of the country, especially in the Salehabad, Sumar, Gilan-e Gharb and Sar-e Pol-e Zahab regions. The heavy-artillery fire of the ground forces over the positions of the forces of Saddam stopped their activities and operations and destroyed one command post, one tank, one antiaircraft gun, one 106-mm gun, one 82-mm mortar, one truck and a number of supply depots. More than 20 of the Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries were killed or wounded.

In the Panjwin region in Iraq, the fire of our powerful forces inflicted considerable losses and casualties upon the forces of Saddam.

On the Abadan front, the heroic forces of the gendarmerie opened fire over the positions of the forces of Saddam on the other side of the Arvand Rud and succeeded in silencing enemy fire, destroying five of their trenches and fuel depots in the Al-Faw region and killing a number of the aggressive Iraqi forces.

During the past 24 hours, the mercenaries of Saddam continued their brutal activities and brought the residential parts of Abadan under the fire of their long-range artillery.

IRANIAN FORCES STOP IRAQI 'LAST-DITCH MOVE'

LD191158 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 19 May 82

[Text] According to the latest report just now received from the Karbala' central headquarters, the joint command headquarters of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, following the last-ditch move by the disintegrating forces of Saddam's Zionist regime at 0530 today on the 8th and 19th fronts along the northern Khuzestan border belt, valiant combatants of Islam, accomplishing a vigorous stopping action, succeeded in inflicting heavy losses and casualties on the defeated enemy and in giving yet another lesson to the hirelings of international arrogance.

In these victorious actions, the Islamic army's warriors succeeded in inflicting heavy losses and casualties on the 46th Mechanized Brigade and 38th Armored Brigade of Iraq's 12th Division, as well as on the 14th Armored Brigade of Saddam's 9th Division. In addition, at least 30 tanks and armored personnel carriers belonging to the aggressors were set ablaze and destroyed.

In this morning's operations, which lasted until 1030, many members of the said brigades were killed. So far 100 of them have been counted. In these operations our victorious troops succeeded in capturing intact three enemy armored personnel carriers. In addition, many Iraqi troops were taken prisoner by Islam's mighty forces. So far a group of them has been evacuated behind the lines, while evacuation of others is continuing.

We wish to inform our martyr-nurturing nation that as soon as we receive further reports or a joint communique from the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, we shall make it available to the Islamic nation.

FOREIGN DIPLOMATS TAKEN ON TOUR OF HOVEYZEH

LD192118 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 2030 GMT 19 May 82

[Excerpts] According to IRNA, foreign ambassadors, charges d'affaires and attaches today toured Hoveyzeh and viewed the evidence of Saddam's savage crimes. The envoys were warmly greeted by the inhabitants of Hoveyzeh. They arrived to the cheers of a large group of people who chanted the slogan "Death to America" and burned an American flag.

The diplomatic delegation which toured Hoveyzeh included ambassadors, charges d'affaires and attaches of the Embassies of Syria, Libya, North Korea, the Saharan Democratic Arab Republic, Yugoslavia, Lebanon, France, Switzerland, Portugal, Denmark, Mauritania, Pakistan, West Germany, East Germany, Brazil, Bulgaria, Holland, Japan, North Yemen, Sweden, Hungary, Algeria, the Philippines, Italy, India, the Soviet Union, Romania, Colombia and Indonesia.

The diplomats were accompanied by the deputy foreign minister.

COUNCIL OF EUROPE'S JERUSALEM SESSION CONDEMNED

LD200922 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 20 May 82

[Statement issued by the Foreign Affairs Ministry; date not given]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Despite the strong reaction and the repeated protests of the Muslims and liberated people of the world against the provocative and dubious political decision of the Council of Europe Political Committee to hold its session in occupied Jerusalem, the representatives of world arrogance, in order to renew their convenant with Zionism and in order to openly and directly insult the sanctities of 1 billion world Muslims eventually held their committee session in the first qiblah of the Muslims.

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Islamic Republic of Iran, while strongly condemning the Council of Europe's provocative decision which has been made purely in order to encourage the Zionist regime to continue its policies of aggression and expansionism, with disregard for the undeniable rights of the Palestinian people, asks all Muslim nations to counteract such shameful acts with vigilance and with understanding of their Islamic responsibilities using all their capabilities.

They should make the participants in that meeting held in the usurped Jerusalem understand that their actions directed toward supporting the Zionist regime will not be left unanswered.

JAPANESE COMPANY TO RESUME OIL PROJECT TALKS

LD192050 Tehran IRNA in English 1937 GMT 19 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 19 May (IRNA) — The Japanese-Iran Chemical Development Company (ICDC) has decided to send a team to Tehran for further negotiations with officials of Iran's national petrochemical company in the continuation of the dispute for the completion of the petrochemical project in Imam Khomeyni Port, southern Iran.

This will be the fourth attempt to come to a settlement over the Iran-Japan petrochemical project [words indistinct] Japanese company several times illegally abandoned the project, most recently under the pretexts of the Iraqi-imposed war. The project, 85 percent of which is completed which was originally to be operational by January 1980, was initially arranged by the defunct shah back in April 1973.

However, the Japanese firm, taking advantage of events in Iran, tried to get out of the contract when it realised it would not reap the extravagant benefits enjoyed during the former regime, such as cheap labour from the Philippines, as Iran exerted its just rights in the already grossly over priced project.

Despite this Iran wanted the Japanese company to complete the project and was even willing to grant low interest loans to meet the additional capital of the investment in return for a guarantee for completion of the project.

However the last round of talks in February resulted in a stalemate as the Japanese partner refused to accept Iran's terms.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS OFFICIAL LEAVES FOR MOSCOW

TAVAKKOLI, BANGLADESH ENVOY DISCUSS LABOR ISSUES

LD181720 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 18 May 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, the Bangladesh ambassador this morning met with Minister of Labor and Social Affairs Mr Ahmad Tavakkoli at the ministry building and talked about the expansion of relations between the two countries on labor issues. On the question of manpower, the minister of labor and social affairs referred to the expulsion of foreign experts from the country after the victory of the Islamic revolution and said that in this short period we have tried to provide our manpower through the use of training of the God-given abilities of our workers, technicians and engineers. In this we have been relatively successful.

However, at the same time, we still need the cooperation of foreign experts in certain fields; nevertheless, we prefer, until we achieve self-sufficiency, to provide for our needs in the first instance from Muslim countries, and in the second instance from the Third World countries.

The minister of labor and social affairs added that we are currently drawing up plans for the next 20 years so that we can achieve self-sufficiency, first in agriculture in the first instance and then in industry, and we are attempting to attract people's investments so we can create productive work for our youths.

The Bangladesh ambassador expressed the readiness of his country to provide Iranian manpower needs in the fields of jute industries, paper, fisheries, electricity, agricultural research, health and hygiene. He also expressed Bangladesh's readiness to use Iranian experts and experienced technicians in the fields of oil industry and craft trades. He asked for the expansion of mutual relations in the field of labor and workers issues and the drawing up of a protocol in this regard.

CLANDESTINE ON DISCONTENT OF IRANIAN WORKERS

GF180741 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 17 May 82

[Text] For our listeners in Pakistan, Turkey and other regions near our country who wish to get more news of Iran, we broadcast special reports:

The Free Voice of Iran correspondent reports from Tehran that a wave of discontent exists among government employees and workers in factories that are still open. According to this report, the regime's oil minister has ordered the purging committee to purge the oil industry workers. Following the purge they would be retired or [word indistinct] and be replaced by those who are followers of the line.

The report adds that industry workers and government employees do not have job security. Cutting off food ration coupons and (?housing allowances), creating an atmosphere of suffocation among the employees and workers, the continuing high cost of living and reduction in fringe benefits of low-income workers are some of the reasons for the discontent of Iranian workers and employees who have not lost their sense of understanding and notice the cheating and violations by the antinationalist regime of the mullahs.

In the Pars electronic factory the workers' (?food ration) has been cut. In southern custom offices 150 employees have been fired. Production has declined in industrial units compared to previous months. The cut of the annual bonus for exceptional workers of the Tehran Bus Company has caused also severe protests.

During the past few months a number of factories have been closed because of a lack of raw materials and the future of their employees and workers is not clear.

Our correspondent adds that the Ministry of Labor of the so-called Islamic Republic has refused to help the unemployed workers and the workers of those factories that have been closed or going to be closed very soon. The Ministry of Labor, arguing that the government's treasury is empty, meanwhile allocates a huge budget for investigating believers, spying and purging of aware intellectual and nationalist workers. All these actions have caused discontent among workers and employees.

At a time that our compatriots are using every opportunity to write antiregime slogans on the walls of the cities of our country -- such as "Death to Khomeyni," "(?Mullahs are condemned)," "Down with the Islamic Republic" and so on -- Tehran municipality recently asked the people of the capital to cooperate with the municipality to clean those so-called deviational and [words indistinct] cities. But the people of Tehran refused to cooperate with the municipality.

According to the Free Voice of Iran correspondent in Tehran, following the people's refusal, Tehran municipality started cleaning of some parts but the people, especially the youths, once again wrote antiregime slogans on the walls. One of the interesting slogans written on Tehran's Shah Reza Avenue is: "Cooperation with the regime is cooperation with the United States. People, chant more slogans."

REYSHAHRI BRIEFS KHAMENE'I ON QOTBZADEH PLOT

LD181112 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 18 May 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, Mohammad Reyshahri, chief of the Islamic Revolution Military Tribunal, met President Khamene'i this morning. During the meeting Reyshahri briefed the president on the recent attempted plot perpetrated by former Foreign Minister Qotbzadeh with the blessing of Ayatollah Shari'atmadari. President Khamene'i then made some comments on the matter.

REPENTANT PRISONERS AMNESTIED BY KHOMEYNI

LD181738 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 18 May 82

[Text] According to IRNA, 391 repentant prisoners from the minigroups in Tabriz, who have expressed regret for their past deeds and have returned to the warm embrace of Islam following guidance from the officials of the Islamic Revolution Court of Tabriz, were covered by the decree of amnesty by the imam of the nation. This afternoon, 75 of them were freed from prison in a special ceremony and the rest of them had their sentences commuted.

CLANDESTINE REPORTS ON SECRET EXECUTIONS

GF160858 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 15 May 82

[Text] According to a Free Voice of Iran correspondent, secret executions of the opposition continue in the prisons of Khomeyni's regime. In the past 10 months the number of those executed or killed in the streets has reached 15,000.

According to our correspondent, hundreds of prisoners in Shiraz and Tehran were executed in the past few days. The Khomeyni regime has only announced the names of 18 of them. The report adds that on 12 and 26 March respectively 70 and 90 individuals were executed secretly in Evin Prison. Most of those executed were supporters of the Mojahedin-e Khalq. Amir Siavoshi, a student, and Gholam Reza Safari were among them. The 70 executed on 12 March were given 1 week to make a television appearance expressing their remorse. However, the group refused and the regime subsequently sent them to firing squads.

According to a statement published by the Mojahedin-e Khalq, around 400 have been executed in Mashhad and another 1,000 are about to be executed.

NVOI: OFFICIALS VIOLATING CONSTITUTION

TA181449 [Editorial Report] The clandestine National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran at 1730 GMT on 17 May carried a commentary entitled: "Acts Which Damage Cohesion and Harmony Must Be Terminated."

It stated that Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani, speaker of the Islamic Majlis, has said that it is this very cohesion and harmony that has led the enemy to abjectness. This is an undeniable fact. What has raised the hope of the true forces of the revolution and of every citizen is the constant reiteration of this fact by the leaders of the revolution and the high-ranking government figures of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

However, a painful fact which cannot but arouse the concern of the struggling Iranian people is nonimplementation by some of the Islamic Republic's Government figures of their own statements and beliefs. For example, one of the issues that aids in the consolidation of unity among the true forces is the self-same issue of the establishment of the rule of law. The violation of many of the Constitution's indisputable principles pertaining to the people's political, social and trade union freedoms is still continuing. The offices of the true revolutionary parties are still being occupied by a handful of unauthorized individuals, and pressure is still being exerted over the members of these parties and organizations. One can still see in many of our homeland's prisons innocent members of these parties and organizations that are faithful to the imam's and the revolution's popular and anti-imperialist line. An end has not been put to the dismissal of the members and followers of these parties and organizations from government organizations, and even from industrial and educational institutions. These acts cannot but cause damage to the unity, cohesion and harmony of the people.

When certain hands in the government's upper echelons do not allow the government figures' promises, pertaining to the maintenance of the indisputable freedoms of the people and the true revolutionary parties and organizations, and the establishment of the rule of law, to be implemented, it is natural that this situation cannot but undermine the people's confidence toward the authorities, and harms the people's cohesion and harmony. The fact is that one of the main elements that is very effective in undermining the nation's unity and cohesion is this very violation of the principles of the Constitution and lack of the rule of law in the country. The people expect the Islamic authorities to exert all their efforts toward putting an end to acts that are contrary to law and regulations.

AFP: BLACK BOX FROM BEN YAHIA PLANE FOUND

NC181702 Paris AFP In English 1655 GMT 18 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 18 May (AFP) -- The pilot's black box from the plane that crashed on May 3 near the Iranian-Turkish border, killing Algerian Foreign Minister Mohamed Seddik Ben Yahia and 13 others, has been found, reliable sources here said today.

Algerian experts immediately took possession of the box, which records the pilot's conversations and is considered vital in determining the cause of the crash, the sources said.

Certain Iranian newspapers had affirmed that the box was found shortly after the crash, but reliable sources here denied those reports.

Iranian authorities have accused Iraq of shooting down the plane, but Iraq has denied those accusations.

An Iranian commission of inquiry and information from diplomatic sources has established that the Grumman G2 plane was shot down by a missile while Mr Ben Yahia was heading to Tehran in attempts to end the Iran-Iraq war.

Meanwhile, a team of Algerian experts which had been sent to Iran to investigate the crash found missile fragments, bearing both Cyrillic and English writing. The team left Tehran a number of days ago for Turkey to continue the investigation. Algerian authorities have refused any comment until the investigation has been completed.

Today, the Iranian daily ETTELA'AT said that identification of the "perpetrators' of "this crime" was "very important for Iran and will show that the war imposed by Iraq was not a war between Persians and Arabs, but a war between Islam and heresy."

Adding that the crash had been denounced by both Syria and Libya, the paper said, "it is now the turn of the brother country of Algeria to affirm its position, since it has witnesses and documents and this problem concerns it directly."

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

21 MAY 1982

Israel

Sharon Visit to U.S. -- Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon departed for the United States to confer with U.S. Secretary of State Alexander Haig and Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger, Jerusalem radio reported. During his meetings Sharon will discuss the autonomy issue, Palestinian terrorism, the supply of U.S. weapons to Arab countries and the memorandum of understanding. MA'ARIV said that during the visit Sharon will also express Israel's willingness to strengthen political-security coordination and cooperation with the United States. However, a senior official cited by the paper said Israel will oppose any U.S. proposal for defense cooperation that would prevent Israel from being able to act freely against the terrorists in Lebanon.

Shamir on Jerusalem -- Israel "would be losing" the autonomy negotiations before they started if it ceased insisting that Jerusalem be a venue for the atonomy talks, Foreign Minister Yitzhaq Shamir told immigrants in a speech reported by Jerusalem radio. Criticizing Egyptian obstinacy over the issue, he said no international resolution will change the fact that Jerusalem is Israel's capital.

Security Situation -- A molotov cocktail was thrown at an Israeli car east of Jerusalem, injuring the driver, Jerusalem radio reported.

Arab Relations With Zaire

Qatar has decided to sever diplomatic and economic relations with Zaire, Qatari Foreign Affairs Minister Shaykh Ahmad ibn Sayf ath-Thani disclosed in a statement reported by WAKH. Branding Zaire's decision to resume relations with Israel "an act of aggression" against Arab and Islamic countries, the shaykh said Qatar's decision is in line with Arab, Islamic and African resolutions concerning countries that resume relations with Israel.

Meanwhile, according to a Foreign Ministry announcement reported by APS, Algeria has recalled its ambassador in Kinshasa.

Egypt

Arab-Egypt Reconciliation Document -- Jordan is currently working with some moderate Arab states on a joint document defining the basic principles to which Egypt should be committed in order to return to the Arab fold, Monte Carlo radio reported, citing Jordanian sources. A reliable source cited by AFP said the document would not be a "series of conditions" for Egypt to fulfill but a memorandum on "minimum requirements" for the reestablishment of full Arab-Egyptian relations. Arab moderates are seeking a consensus with Egypt over the issue of the Palestinians, the Israeli-occupied territories and the inter-Arab military defense treaties, the source said. He added that Egypt's readiness to furnish aid to Iraq and the Gulf countries is seen as a positive factor toward an Arab rapprochement with Egypt. However, the source also noted that the moderate Arab states want Egypt to show the same determination in reacting to an eventual Israeli aggression. Neither the radio nor the press agency report identified which Arab states other than Jordan are involved in drafting the document.

Munitions Production -- Egypt is about to complete "two huge modern projects" for the production of arms, heavy equipment and rocket engines, Minister of State for War Production Jamal ad-Din as-Sayyid Ibrahim stated in an interview with AL-AHRAM cited by MENA. Ibrahim said Egypt has been able to meet all ammunition requirements for its armed forces and is now completely self-reliant.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Iranian forces killed more than 300 Iraqis and destroyed 58 tanks and armored personnel carriers during a 19 May Iraqi offensive in the border region west of Hoseyniyeh, according to an armed forces and Guard Corps communique carried by Tehran radio. It said the Iranians destroyed the 3d Iraqi Tank Battalion and completely surrounded the 388th Iraqi Infantry Battalion. During the clash the Iraqis brought new tanks into the area, only to be forced to retreat after losing the tanks and suffering heavy casualties, the communique reported.

A military communique carried by Baghdad radio said only 39 Iraqis were killed during fighting on 19 and 20 May in the area north of Khorramshahr and in the Gilan-e Gharb area. The communique reiterated a previously reported claim that 658 Iranians were killed during the Iraqi offensive north of Khorramshahr on 19 May.

Fourteen key members of the minority faction of the Feda'iyan-e Khalq guerrillas in Khuzestan have been arrested, according to a Tehran prosecutor's office statement carried by Tehran radio. The main safehouses of the group, along with its printing house, were discovered during operations by the prosecutor's office, the statement added.

Lebanon

Christian militiamen in southern Lebanon opened fire on five terrorists belonging to the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine who had planted mines on a road near Marj 'Uyun, IDF radio reported citing a Christian militia spokesman. The radio added that a UNIFIL helicopter was fired on from a terrorist position in the western sector of southern Lebanon.

PLO

Executive Committee member Ahmad al-Yamani confirmed the existence of an official invitation to Political Department head Faruq Qaddumi to visit Washington, Monte Carlo radio reported. The radio said the invitation was issued by U.S. Senator Charles Percy and Congressman Lee Hamilton. Al-Yamani said he advised Qaddumi on 17 May, during a meeting of the Executive Committee, to reject the invitation.

Jordan

King Husayn will visit the USSR in June, Monte Carlo radio reported citing informed Jordanian sources. Monitored Jordanian sources have not reported on Husayn's visit to the USSR.

DELHI REPORTS ON OUTCOME OF TALKS WITH PRC

BK201624 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 20 May 82

[Text] India and China have agreed to meet again to reach a commonly agreed basis for dealing with their differences on the boundary in all its sectors.

At the end of the 4-day official-level talks in New Delhi today, the spokesman of the External Affairs Ministry told newsmen that during the present round of talks each side presented its ideas on the principles and methods which should guide them in the search for a solution of the border question. He said while differences on this problem are still wide, both sides wish to continue their efforts to narrow them. The spokesman reiterated that the boundary issue is essential to our relations with China and during the present session both the delegations addressed themselves to the key aspects of this issue.

The spokesman said India will send three delegations to China in the near future. They will be on oil, railways and agriculture.

From China three delegations will visit India within the next few months. Two will study wheat breeding, dairy development and the third delegation will consist of scientists. Delegations will also be exchanged to study the lacquer industry in the two countries.

On the cultural front, it has been decided to have exchanges of cultural troupes, television and broadcast materials, films and academicians.

Press Briefing

BK201451 Delhi ISI Diplomatic Information Service in English 1428 GMT 20 May 82

["Following is the agreed basis for briefing the press on the India-China talks. Please note this is not a joint press statement or communique" -- ISI note]

[Text] The second round of official-level talks between India and China were held in New Delhi from May 17 to 19.

Several aspects of bilateral relations between the two countries were discussed with due regard to the recognition by both sides that the boundary question is central to their relations.

The boundary question was discussed by the leaders of the delegations and in working groups led by the heads of the respective departments concerned in the two foreign ministries.

The talks were conducted in a friendly and cordial atmosphere. The discussions were free, frank and wideranging.

In this session of talks both sides addressed themselves to the key aspects of the boundary question and specifically focused on the considerable differences between them. While their differences are still wide both sides wish to continue their efforts to narrow them.

To this end each side presented its ideas on the principles and methods that should guide the search for a solution and agreed to meet again with a view to reaching a commonly agreed basis for dealing with their differences on the boundary in all its sectors.

During the visit discussions were also held on cultural, scientific and technical exchanges. The preliminary programme of exchanges discussed in Beijing last December was discussed and developed.

STATE ASSEMBLY ELECTION RESULTS REPORTED

BK201617 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 20 May 82

[Text] The Congress-I-led United Democratic Front [UDF] has been voted to power in Kerala. According to Doordarshan [Television India] sources the UDF has secured 77 seats in the 140-member assembly. The Communist Party of India-Marxist [CPI-M]-led Left Democratic Front [LDF] has secured the remaining 63 seats.

The final position of the constituents of the UDF is: Congress-I 20, Congress-Anthony group 15, Indian Union Muslim League 14, Kerala Congress-Mani group 6, Kerala Congress-Joseph group 8, National Democratic Party 4, Janata-G 4, Socialist Republican Party 2, Revolutionary Socialist Party-S 1, Democratic Socialist Party 1, independents and others 2.

The position of LDF partners is: CPI-M 26, CPI 13, Congress-S 7, Revolutionary Scoialist Party 4, Janata-A 4, All-India Muslim League 4, other and independents 5.

Among the four chief ministers who contested the election, K. Karunakaran, E.K. Nayanar and C.H. Mohammad Koya have been returned. Karunakaran has been declared elected from two constituencies.

The CPI leader and the former chief minister, P.K. Vasudevan Nair, was defeated from Alleppey by an independent candidate. Two former ministers belonging to the CPI, P.S. Srinivasan, Chandrashekharan Nair, were also defeated. The former home minister, T.K. Ramakrishnan of the CPI-M, also lost the election.

The Bhartiya Janata Party which had sponsored 70 candidates, including its party chief, O. Rajgopal, drew a blank.

No clear picture has yet emerged in the three states — Haryana, Himachal Pradesh and West Bengal. In Haryana only 30 results have been declared so far. Of them, 13 have gone to the Congress-I, 10 to the Lok Dal and 1 to Bhartiya Janata Party [BJP], 2 to Congress-J and independents have won 4 seats.

In Himachal Pradesh 10 results have been declared so far. BJP has secured 8 seats and Congress-I the remaining 2. The former forest minister, Hardayal, was defeated by his BJP rival Ramchand by over 3,300 votes.

In West Bengal, where counting was taken up today in 140 constituencies, only 8 results have come in so far. The Left Front has secured six seats and Congress-I one and independent one.

Commenting on the Congress-I-led UDF victory in Kerala, Congress-I General Secretary G.K. Moopanar said in New Delhi that the elections have proved the government's commitment to democratic values.

In spite of rumors floated by some vested interests that the elections would be postponed, Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi ensured free and fair elections. Kerala State Congress-A President A.K. Anthony has hailed the UDF victory in the elections. In a statement in Cochin, he said the decision of his party to pull out of the then left democratic government has been fully vindicated.

Two more results have come from West Bengal. The two seats have been shared by the CPI-M and the Congress-I.

Here is the latest result from Himachal Pradesh. BJP leader and former Chief Minister Shanta Kumar has been declared elected from Sulah constituency. The latest party position in Himachal Pradesh is: results declared so far 13, Congress-I 2, BJP 11.

Results Updated

BK210652 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0630 GMT 21 May 82

[Excerpts] With only eight more results still to be declared in Haryana, no single party is in a position to obtain an absolute majority in the 90-member State Assembly. After the eight more results received this morning, the Congress-I has bagged 32 seats, the Lok Dal, which is in close race, has got 30, the Bhartiya Janata Party [BJP] 4, the Congress-J 2 and independents 13.

Out of the 131 results declared in West Bengal, the Communist Party of India-Marxist [CPI-M] led left front has got 97 and the Congress-I alliance 28. The remaining six seats have gone to independents and others.

The party-wise position in West Bengal is: CPI-M 69, forward block 18, Democratic Socialist Party 7, CPI 3, Congress-I 27, Congress-S 1.

In Himachal Pradesh, out of the 20 results declared, so far 13 have gone to BJP and 6 to Congress-I. One seat has gone to independent.

CONGRESS-I SAYS WEST BENGAL POLLING 'NOT FAIR'

BK191649 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 19 May 82

[Text] The chief election commissioner has received a telegram from Energy Minister Ghani Khan Choudhury alleging booth capturing in the Satgachia constituency from where Chief Minister Joyti Basu is contesting. A spokesman of the election commission said that they have asked for a report from the chief electoral officer.

While the ruling left front in West Bengal claimed that the polling was peaceful all over the state, the Pradesh [state] Congress-I has alleged that the polling was not fair and free. Pradesh Congress Committee-I President Ananda Gopal Mukherjee has alleged that in Calcutta alone there were 35 major incidents and over 30 minor incidents.

Chief Electoral Officer of West Bengal M. Krishnamurti said that he has received complaints from different districts relating to booth capturing, intimidation and harassment to workers. The complaints have been looked into.

Chairman of the left front Promod Das Gupta, however, claimed that the polling in Calcutta and other parts of the state was by and large peaceful. He denied allegations of rigging and forcible capturing of booths by his partymen.

The All-India Communist Party has, however, expressed doubts about the fairness of the election.

ENVOY SAYS USSR READY FOR 'CONSULTATIONS'

BK190331 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 0200 GMT 19 May 82

[Text] The Soviet ambassador to Pakistan, V.S. Smirnov, has said that the Soviet Union is ready to welcome a Foreign Ministry delegation from Pakistan for formal consultations on international affairs. Addressing the Pakistan foreign relations association in Karachi last evening, he said the Soviet Union attaches great importances to its relations with Pakistan. He said the Soviet representatives cooperate with Pakistan's representatives at the UN and other international forums.

The Soviet ambassador said that USSR-Pakistan relations have come under some pressure due to developments around Afghanistan. He said that there will be no change in the present political structure of Afghanistan.

COOPERATION AGREEMENT SIGNED WITH IRAQ

BK210815 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1700 GMT 20 May 82

[Excerpt] Pakistan and Iraq have agreed to step up the present level of bilateral, commercial, economic and technical cooperation to the mutual benefit of their two peoples. An agreement to this effect was signed by Pakistan and Iraq at the conclusion of the second session of Pak-Iraq joint ministerial commission in Islamabad tonight. Federal Minister for Finance Ghulam Ishaq Khan and Iraqi Irrigation Minister Abd al-Wahhab Mahmud, who led the respective sides of the commission, signed the agreement.

Expressing satisfaction over the growing volume of their trade, both sides agreed that there were vast prospects and opportunities for its future expansion. Both sides apprised each other of their needs, discussed in detail items which could be beneficially traded by them and agreed to work out the details in this regard.

Iraqi Minister for Irrigation 'Abd al-Wahhab Mahmud, who led a 10-member delegation to the second Pak-Iraq joint ministerial commission, called on President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq in Rawalpindi this evening. He discussed with the president matters of mutual cooperation concerning socioeconomic development of the two countries. The federal finance minister was present during the meeting.

The Iraqi minister earlier called on Foreign Minister Sahabzada Yaqub Khan in Islamabad today. He expressed his satisfaction at the constructive progress already achieved in the current round of talks between the two countries.

Welcoming the Iraqi delegation, the foreign minister said it symbolized the desire of both the countries to improve the present level of economic collaboration in the interest of increasing the socioeconomic progress of both the people as well as toward attaining the goal of collective self-reliance by the Islamic nation. Earlier, the Iraqi minister discussed the avenues for further collaboration between the two countries, particularly in the fields of education and power, with Federal Minister of Water and Power Raja Sikandar Zaman.

JOINT STAFF, GUARDS COMMUNIQUE ON BATTLES

LD201834 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 20 May 82

[Communique issued by the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. "Mohammad, the prophet of God, and those who follow him are harsh with the enemy but merciful among themselves." [Koranic verse]

Muslim and heroic nation of Iran: Your self-sacrificing children on the battlefronts, relying upon the undiminishing power of God, are defending and guarding every inch of the Islamic homeland and the newly-gained victories and continue their merciless combat against the puppet enemy which is dependent on the arch-Satan.

Following the victories achieved during the first, second and third phases of the overall Jerusalem Operation [bayt al-moqaddas], which began under the codename of Ya 'Ali ibn Abu-Talib, the mercenary enemy who sees itself on the threshold on final death and destruction launched a last-ditch move in the border region west of Hoseyniyeh, between fortresses No 8 and 19 in the border strip yesterday. The forces of Islam resisted, confronting the enemy with intense fire. The enemy suffered heavy losses and damages.

During this clash, which started at 0430 yesterday morning, heavy losses and damages were inflicted on the 46th Mechanized Brigade and 37th Armored Brigade from the 12th Division and the 14th Armored Brigade from the Iraqi 9th Division. The combatants of Islam killed a large number of the Ba'thist invaders, succeeding in fully destroying the 3d Tank Battalion from the 14th Mechanized Brigade of the Iraqi Armed Forces. All the equipment and weapons of this battalion were either destroyed or taken as booty. In addition, the combatants of Islam fully besieged the 388th Infantry Battalion from the Iraqi 9th Division at 1100 yesterday morning. Personnel of this battalion were either killed or taken prisoner.

Among those killed or captured there are 18 officers, including one staff colonel and one major in command of the operating forces. These commanders were killed by the powerful hands of the army of Islam.

During yesterday's clashes, the enemy was desperately trying to approach our earthworks. The enemy had brought some new tanks into this sector but each time it was forced to retreat and flee the arena after losing several tanks and personnel carriers and suffering heavy casualties. The enemy troops were forced to retreat despite threats and encouragement from the commanders of the abovementioned brigades who had told their defeated soldiers not to flee. More than 300 enemy troops were killed and a large number were wounded. Nevertheless, the enemy was not able to move forward even one inch.

During these operations, the tank-hunting groups of the corps of Islam, with their remarkable efforts and activities and backed by our artillery fire, succeeded in setting ablaze and destroying 58 tanks and armored personnel carriers of the Ba'thist invaders.

The fast-flying combatants of the Airborne Division also inflicted heavy losses and damages on the aggressive enemy. They set fire to a large number of their trenches, foxholes and ammunition dumps, destroying them. A large number of enemy troops were also killed.

During these operations, the warriors of the corps of Islam captured a large number of the Saddamists. So far, large numbers of the POW's captured during yesterday's operations have been taken behind the battlelines. There are several officers among these POW's.

According to statements from the POW's who were captured by the forces of Islam yesterday, Saddam, this mercenary element and puppet of imperialism, has recently formed execution groups among his misled army units. Members of these groups, who are identified by their red armbands, are members of the hated Iraqi Ba'th Party. These (?groups) are commissioned to shoot on the spot or execute immediately anyone who retreats or flees during the operations.

The American Saddam should know that he cannot prevent his certain disintegration and destruction by resorting to such last-ditch and savage deeds. The misled Armed Forces of Iraq should also know that as it has been proved to them so far. Resistance against the armed forces of Islam will bring them nothing but death, destruction and divine wrath. The best way for them to free themselves from Saddam's misery-giving domination is to destroy him and to join the army of right, to remain under the protection of these forces which are defending the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Right now the combatants of Islam, the self-sacrificing Guards Corps, the Mobilization forces of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the brave heroes of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, in full coordination and by relying upon God, are going to deliver the last blows to the disintegrating body of Saddam. This is the way for them to please Almighty God. With hope for the Islamic combatants' final victory and liberation of Jerusalem from occupying Zionism.

[Signed] The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE 913

LD201746 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 20 May 82

[Communique No 913 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Our congratulations to the master of the era and his regent Imam Khomeyni, to the Muslim and struggling nation of Iran and to the world Muslims on the occasion of the mission of the prophet of Islam, Mohammad Mustafa, peace upon his soul.

In the conflict between Islam and blasphemy, in the battle or right against the devil and in the course of the war between light and darkness, all the combatants of Islam, relying wholeheartedly on God Almighty, with unity and brotherhood and pursuing the common objective of defending their Islámic homeland of Iran as well as destroying the enemies of Islam, are making great strides toward triumph.

The public is hereby informed of some of the operations carried out in the last 24 hours by the forces of Islam:

At 1233 yesterday another invading Iraqi aircraft was shot down by the Islamic Republic of Iran's fighter aircraft in the Abadan region. Thus, the number of enemy aircraft lost since the start of the Jerusalem Operation has reached 46 aircraft.

In the Abadan region, the combatants of the Islamic Republic of Iran's Gendarmerie mounted fire on the enemy positions, thus preventing enemy movement on the Al-Faw-Basrah road. Eight trenches, two tanks and one enemy vessel were destroyed along with their occupants.

As a result of heavy fire mounted on Abadan by the forces of Saddam, a few positions in Abadan were demolished and a number of inhabitants were injured.

Exchanges of fire continued on most of the western fronts. In the Meymak, Sumar, Sar-e Pol-e Zahab and Gilan-e Gharb regions, our forces mounted fire on the aggressors' positions and destroyed two enemy vehicles, one fieldgun, and one 106-mm gun and set fire to a number of Saddam's [word indistinct].

As a result of the artillery fire mounted by the Islamic Republic of Iran's Ground Forces on the enemy positions in the Nowsud, Susgan and [name indistinct] regions, a number of enemy personnel were killed or injured and the enemy was prevented from digging new trenches.

Yesterday and today 26 Iraqis, both civilian and military, crossed the western frontiers into Iran and asked for political asylum. These include a number of engineers and undergraduates and one university professor.

[Signed] The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran

FEDA'IYAN-E KHALQ LEADERS ARRESTED IN KHUZESTAN

LD201700 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 20 May 82

[Excerpts] According to a Central News Unit report, the following statement has been issued by the Public Relations Office of the prosecutor's office of the Central Province in connection with the arrest of 14 main members of the Feda'i group [Feda'iyan-e Khalq] -- the minority wing -- in Khuzestan Province:

Simultaneously with the Jerusalem Operation and the victory of the divine army over the army of blasphemy, once again God's help was granted. All the main members and the central cadre of the minigroup of the Feda'iyan-e Khalq guerrillas -- the minority wing -- in Khuzestan Province were arrested and this area of our Islamic homeland, like the other areas, was cleansed of the blasphemous and heretic elements.

During a series of operations brothers of the Tehran Islamic revolution prosecutor's office, who had discovered the existence of numerous safe houses of the minority wing in Khuzestan after investigations and persistent pursuits, were dispatched from Tehran to Ahvaz. With the sincere cooperation and coordination of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps of region 8 of the country, the main centers and safe houses and the minority wing's printing house, together with its duplicating machines and printing facilities, were discovered. With the help of God and with the cooperation of Khuzestan's Muslim people, the members of the minority wing in Khuzestan were arrested. Those main members who were arrested are:

1. Asghar Samimi, son of 'Ali, in charge of the minority wing in Khuzestan Province and member of the Feda'i guerrillas -- minority wing.

2. Mohammad Hoseyn Bahrami, alias 'Ali, member of the central cadre in Khuzestan Province and in charge of the minority wing in Ahvaz.

3. Sa'id Bahrami, alias Hamid 'Alavi, member of the central cadre of Khuzestan and in charge of the publication department of the minority wing in Ahvaz and the liaison between the Borujerd and Khuzestan central cadres.

4. Batul Soleymani, alias Akram Hoseyni, member of the central cadre of Khuzestan and member of the publication committee of the minority wing in Ahvaz.

5. Mohammad 'Udian, member of the Khuzestan central cadre and in charge of the minority wing organization in (?Dezful).

6. Naser Sarrafan, member of the minority wing in the medical aid section and the organization's candidate from Shushtar for the Islamic Consultative Assembly.

7. Kiumars Qolivand, alias Bizhan Mohammadi, member of the central cadre of Khuzestan and in charge of the minority wing organization in Masjed-e Soleyman.

8. Khosrow Kianvash, alias Reza, member of the minority wing and in charge of publications and printing in Masjed-e Soleyman.

9. 'Ali Morad Iranpur, alias Mohsen, member of the minority wing and member of the publications committee in Masjed-e Soleyman.

10. Hormoz Derakhshan, alias Jamshid, member of the minority wing and member of the publications committee in Masjed-e Soleyman.

11. Kiumars Soltani, alias Mohammad, member of the minority wing and in charge of Masjed-e Soleyman's districts.

12. Parivash Bakhshandeh, member of the minority wing and in charge of the pupils' section in Masjed-e Soleyman.

13. Shahla Owzhang, member of the minority wing in the pupils' section in Masjed-e Soleyman.

14. Nahid 'Alipur, member of the minority wing in the pupils' section in Masjed-e Soleyman.

The Islamic revolution prosecutor's office in Tehran, while warning again, advises the leaders of minigroups to give up their lunatic and desperate actions and to know that they will eventually have no fate but total fall and destruction. Those who sympathize with these minigroups are also advised to return to the bosom of Islam and the Muslims before they suffer the fate of their leaders.

NVOI SCORES U.S. SUPPORT OF 'COUNTERREVOLUTION'

TA210610 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 20 May 82

[Unattributed commentary: "Haig's New Plots Against Our Emanicpated Homeland"]

[Text] Dear compatriots: U.S. Secretary of State Haig met and conferred with Turkey's Government officials in Ankara. During this meeting Haig announced America's material and moral support for Turkey -- a country in which the domestic policy of its military leaders during the last two years have even been strongly criticized by its NATO allies. At the same time, Haig informed Turkey's military leaders of the Reagan administration's decision to grant $465 million in military aid to General Evren's regime.

Haig was also pursuing another main objective from his visit to Turkey, that being meeting secretly with the representatives of the Iranian counterrevolutionaries in Ankara, which was accomplished. As we are aware, following the defeat of America's futile attempt to crush the Iranian revolution through an economic boycott, Washington engaged in a series of plots to overthrow the system ruling our emancipated homeland. Among other things it formed the so-called Azadegan organization on Turkish soil by the hands of CIA officers and leaders of the former Imperial Army, and engaged in equipping and training its members. For some time now the subversive and terrorist bands of this organization have been infiltrating into Iran and preparing a base to start an armed rebellion againt our Islamic Republic.

At the end of last year Haig and U.S. Vice President Bush reached agreement with the leaders of Azadegan over details of the plan for armed rebellion. Among other things they assured (?Nazemi), former general of the accursed shah, that he will enjoy America's enormous financial and military aid in organizing and implementing terrorist and subversive activities.
This time Haig reviewed with the representatives of the Iranian counterrevolutionaries the particulars of the plot against the republic's system. Thus, Washington has elevated the export of the counterrevolution to the level of the government policy of the United States.

The Reagan administration, by exporting the counterrevolution to revolutionary Iran, is in fact itself directly and overtly engaged in mounting a direct military attack against the Islamic Republic of Iran. It should be noted that this attack is part of a series of plots by world-devouring U.S. imperialism against the liberation movements of nations.

The Reagan administration is overtly and directly continuing the undeclared war against democratic Afghanistan. The United States, China, Egypt, Saudi Arabia and similar regimes provide financial and military aid to the mercenary Afghan counterrevolutionaries who have transformed Pakistani territory into a base of military aggression and subversion against the revolutionary Government of Afghanistan. Washington is arming Pakistan -- which has been transformed into a transit area of aggression into our emancipated homeland and democratic Afghanistan -- with the utmost speed.

With the utmost impudence America's military officials have given all-out support to the South African racist terrorists who sow the seeds of death and destruction in the territory of Angola. The Reagan administration does not neglect to escalate military aid to El Salvador's military blood suckers who are trying to drown this country's national liberation movement in blood. In order to support the counterrevolution, Washington has formed a 200,000-man army by the name of Rapid Deployment Forces. Some parts of these forces are stationed in the Sinai Desert, and advancing toward the oil resources of the Persian Gulf region and seizing the oil wells is considered one of their main tasks.

Washington is rapidly engaged in establishing new military bases in wide areas of the Persian Gulf region and the Indian Ocean for the permanent deployment of U.S. military forces. New U.S. warships are also on the verge of nearing these areas.

The outcome of Washigton's provocative measures in various parts of the world is the creation of new areas of tension in which at every moment the potential for military clashes exists.

The violation of international laws and regulations has been transformed into a normal and routine matter on the other side of the ocean. They believe in Washington that if international regulations and laws prevent the promotion of hegemonistic goals of America's leaders, the United States is free to violate them. The imperialists want very much for everything to be according to their own desire. However, the opinion and desire of nations is completely another thing. The captive and liberated nations of the world, like the free Iranian nation, are engaged in relentless struggle against international imperialism, headed by world-devouring America. Our Islamic Republic is at the forefront of anti-imperialist struggles, and considers U.S. imperialism -- the great Satan -- as the main enemy of the revolution.

However, as regards the attitude of the Islamic government to, for example, the Afghan events, it should be said that unfortunately our Islamic Republic, willingly or unwillingly, in the problem of democratic Afghanistan is in the rank of countries such as China, Britain, Pakistan, Israel and Saudi Arabia, Egypt and other countries which enjoy the support of U.S. imperialism. Under such conditions it is very clear that maintaining the victory of struggle against the number one enemy of the Iranian nation's popular and anti-imperialist revolution -- namely, world-devouring America -- is not possible. Our revolutionary homeland's ever-on-the-scene people demand from the responsible officials of the Islamic government that our country's foreign policy in all spheres be planned and implemented on the basis of the imam's anti-imperialist line. Only in such conditions is the crushing of the plots of the revolution's foes possible.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Military Situation -- Thirty thousand Iraqi troops stationed in Khorramshahr have completely surrendered, putting up very little resistance, IRNA reported on 24 May. The report said the city is now on the verge of complete liberation, with those Iraqis who have not surrendered fleeing in all directions. An earlier military communique carried by Tehran radio reported that Iranian forces had completely surrounded Khorramshahr. It also noted that the Iraqi commander of the city had been killed. Announcing that Iranian forces had taken up positions on the eastern side of the Shatt al-'Arab, the communique claimed that all strategic roads entering the city, including the Khorramshahr-Shalamcheh and Khorramshahr-Ahvaz highways, are under Iranian control. The communique called on Iraqi soldiers in Khorramshahr to surrender or face annihilation.

Over the weekend, Tehran radio carried a military communique announcing that Iranian forces had launched an offensive on the evening of 22 May in order to liberate the Kushk region and the areas west and northwest of Khorramshahr. The radio later reported that Iranian forces had captured the Pol-e Now bridge and thus were able to reach the Shatt al-'Arab.

During the offensive the Iranians "totally destroyed" Iraqi forces in the Kushk region and captured the border garrison of Kushk, according to a Guards Corps and armed forces communique carried by Tehran radio. Thirty-five tanks and personnel carriers were destroyed and "very heavy casualties" were inflicted on three Iraqi border guards brigades and a special forces brigade, the communique said. It also claimed three Iraqi planes were shot down in the Abadan and Khorramshahr sector on 23 May. Tehran radio later reported that 2,650 Iraqis had been captured during the offensive.

Iranian forces, together with Iraqi mujahidin, occupied the Iraqi town of Halabcheh, according to another Tehran radio report. The radio claimed that an army information and security organization building was damaged and a number of Iraqis were killed during the operation.

According to an Iraqi Armed Forces communique carried by Baghdad radio, on the evening of 22 May Iranian forces attempted to enter Khorramshahr from the north but suffered heavy losses when they were intercepted by Iraqi troops. Following this effort, the Iranians attempted to storm Khorramshahr using two military columns. The communique said Iraqi forces confronted the Iranian columns and inflicted "grave losses."

Iraqi Denial -- An authoritative Iraqi spokesman dismissed reports that there are regular Arab forces in Iraq, INA reported. However, he reaffirmed that volunteers from Jordan and the YAR are in Iraq with the consent of their governments. Iraq considers any Arab country's readiness to participate in the battle against Iranian aggression as being consistent with the joint Arab defense pact, the spokesman added.

Iraq

Whenever Egyptian President Husni Mubarak takes one step toward the Arabs Iraq will take two steps toward him, President Saddam Husayn declared in an interview with the Kuwaiti paper AS-SIYASAH cited by INA. Calling Egypt's stand on the Iran-Iraq war an "indisputably good" one, Husayn added that Egypt has promptly responded to all of Iraq's requests. He said the current Arab stand on the war augurs well and noted that this is evident by the volunteers from all Arab countries who are stationed on Iraq's border, "despite the fact that some of their heads of state are either overtly or covertly working against Iraq." Husayn declared that if the Egyptian Army comes to Baghdad, Iraq will open its doors for it.

Iran

Approximately 50 members of the Mojahedin-e Khalq were either captured or killed during a series of coordinated operations undertaken by the Tehran prosecutor's office and the Islamic revolution committees, according to a statement by the prosecutor's office carried by Tehran radio.

Lebanon

Bomb Explosions -- At least 12 people were killed when a car bomb exploded outside the French Embassy in western Beirut early on 24 May, AFP reported. The dead include a French paratrooper and a number of people who had been lining up for visas. An anonymous telephone caller told AFP that the "Holy War" organization is responsible for all explosions that have taken place and will take place to avenge the murder of its people in Tripoli and southern Beirut.

Earlier, Beirut radio reported that 10 people had been killed and 25 injured by 3 bomb explosions in western Beirut on 21 May. Cairo radio said the Front for the Liberation of Lebanon From Foreigners claimed responsibility for the explosions that struck targets associated with late Egyptian President Jamal 'Abd an-Nasir.

Draper Mission, Situation in South -- U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Morris Draper met with Lebanese officials in Beirut on 21 May, Beirut radio noted. In remarks broadcast by the radio after his meeting with Draper, Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan said the discussions had covered the general situation in the area, particularly various interpretations of the cease-fire. Al-Wazzan also revealed that UNIFIL had informed the Lebanese Government of a reduction in Israeli forces along the Lebanese border. However, the clandestine Voice of Palestine radio reported extensive Israeli military maneuvers in the eastern sector of southern Lebanon 19-20 May and subsequently claimed that the IDF had strengthened positions in Bint Jubayl with tanks, artillery and radar.

Draper subsequently met with Syrian Foreign Minister 'Abd al-Halim Khaddam in Damascus and then arrived in Jordan, where he held talks on the Lebanese situation with King Husayn, according to reports by Damascus radio and Amman television.

Political/Security Affairs -- At a meeting in Damascus, the Higher Coordination Committee decided to implement new security measures soon in Beirut, Sidon, Tripoli and elsewhere, Beirut radio reported. The committee, which comprises Lebanese, Palestinian and Syrian representatives, agreed to close all armed offices in the national areas, to prevent the carrying of arms outside Palestinian camps except in urgent cases requiring the confrontation of Israeli attacks and to hand over security tasks to Syrian Arab Deterrent Forces and internal security forces. Meanwhile, in an interview with MONDAY MORNING, Amal movement leader Nabih Birri revealed that during recent factional clashes in Lebanon, the Syrians warned Amal, the Nationalist Movement and the PLO that if the fighting were to continue, Syria would withdraw Arab Deterrent Forces from Beirut and other conflict areas. Syrian Defense Minister Mustafa Talas visited Arab Deterrent Forces units near Tripoli on 23 May and subsequently met with former President Sulayman Franjiyah in Zgharta, according to reports by Damascus and Beirut radios.

Meanwhile, the Nationalist Movement announced its decision to unite all its parties and factions into a single front, Voice of Palestine radio reported.

Israel

If the United States decides to provide "Jordan-Iraq," the enemies of Israel, with sophisticated weapons it will endanger Israeli security, Prime Minister Menahem Begin said in remarks broadcast by Jerusalem radio on 24 May. During the 23 May Cabinet meeting, Begin described as misleading U.S. Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger's announcement that the United States must supply advanced weapons to Jordan because the Jordanians are pressured between Syria and Iran, the radio said. Begin asserted that the real cause for the Jordanian request for U.S. weapons is neither Syria nor Iran, but Israel. Dismissing the "lip service" the United States pays to upholding Israeli military superiority, Begin said the supply of modern Soviet weapons and of the speediest and most sophisticated U.S. weapons to Jordan poses a direct and immediate danger to Israel. Israel is launching an information campaign against the sale of sophisticated U.S. arms to Jordan, according to a related radio report.

Jordan

Consultative Council President Sulayman 'Arar will visit the Soviet Union on 24 May, AFP reported citing informed sources in Amman. Meanwhile, the Paris magazine AL-MUSTAQBAL said King Husayn's forthcoming visit to the USSR has been postponed because of the latest developments in the Iran-Iraq war.

Egypt

Agreement With Jordan -- Egypt will increase the number of its diplomats in the Egyptian interests mission in Amman, and Jordan will likewise increase its staff at the Jordanian mission in Cairo, MENA reported citing the weekly paper MAY. MAY also noted that some other Arab states are contacting the Egyptian Foreign Ministry regarding an increase in their diplomatic staffs in Egypt.

Al-Baz Interview -- Egypt is working to reactivate the autonomy talks, although no agreement has been reached on a date for resuming the talks or on their venue, Foreign Ministry First Under Secretary Dr Usamah al-Baz stated in an interview with Egyptian journalists following a meeting between President Husni Mubarak and his advisers, MENA reported. Asked about the steps taken to give impetus to the talks, Al-Baz said the subject was discussed at the meeting in light of recent contacts and the conclusion of the mission of U.S. Middle East envoy Richard Fairbanks. Al-Baz noted that the Iran-Iraq war and possible trends in the coming weeks were also discussed at the meeting. He said Egypt is studying all political and military aspects of the war and is watching developments closely in view of Egypt's concern for the strategic security of the Arab nation.

Mubarak Remarks -- There is a big gap between Egypt and Israel on the autonomy talks, but Egypt must continue to pursue them to the end of the course, President Mubarak said during a meeting with Egyptian journalists on 23 May, MENA reported. Regarding speculation about the convening of an Arab summit to which Egypt would be invited, Mubarak said Egypt will not participate in any Arab summit conference unless there is a common background and sound diplomatic relations between Egypt and the Arabs. Commenting on domestic issues, Mubarak declared that the National Democratic Party would "witness certain changes in the next few days."

Bahrain

The High Court of Appeals in Bahrain sentenced 73 defendants accused of involvement in a sabotage network that was uncovered in Bahrain in 1981, WAKH reported. Three of the accused received life sentences while the remaining 70 defendants received sentences of 15 years or less. The defendants belonged to a Tehran-based organization called the "Islamic Front for the Liberation of Bahrain," the Saudi paper AL-YAWM reported. The paper noted previous reports that the accused had been trained in sabotage camps in Iran. The Iranian news agency IRNA reported the sentencing of the defendants without comment.

Libya

Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi, in a statement carried by Voice of Arab Homeland radio, called on Muslims everywhere to liberate the holy mosque in Mecca and the Al-Aqsa Mosque in Jerusalem. He also called for placing Mecca and Al-Madinah under an Islamic administration comprised of all Islamic nations. Al-Qadhdhafi asserted that it is not permissible for the holy mosque to remain under the political control of one country. He urged action be undertaken immediately to end Saudi political domination of the mosque, even if this must be accomplished through a jihad.

Steadfastness and Confrontation Front

The foreign ministers of the Steadfastness and Confrontation Front will meet in Algiers on 24 May, Algiers radio reported.

Arab Relations With Zaire

Libya has decided to close its people's bureau in Zaire because of the decision by the Zairian regime to reestablish relations with Israel, Voice of Arab Homeland radio reported. According to a WAKH report, the UAE has also decided to sever its relations with Zaire. Iran announced that it had recalled its charge d'affaires in Zaire to protest Zaire's "hostile act" of restoring relations with Israel, Tehran radio reported citing a Foreign Ministry spokesman.

PLO'S 'ARAFAT PAYS 3-DAY VISIT TO NEW DELHI

Talks With Gandhi, Reddy

BK211610 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 21 May 82

[Text] Chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization Yasir 'Arafat today apprised Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi about the situation in West Asia. He also gave her his assessment of the Israeli action and intentions and the continuing Iran-Iraq war. He met Mrs. Gandhi shortly after his arrival in New Delhi on a 3-day state visit to the country. 'Arafat was with the prime minister for about 75 minutes. He also called on President Reddy.

During the official-level talks between the PLO and the Indian delegations, the need for a better cooperation between India and the Arab world was underlined. A spokesman of the External Affairs Ministry said that during the official-level talks the two sides expressed deep concern at the continuing Iran-Iraq conflict. The PLO representatives expressed their happiness at the positive outcome of Mrs Gandhi's visit to Saudi Arabia.

VOP Report

NC220820 (Clandestine) Voice of Palestine in Arabic 0645 GMT 22 May 82

[Text] Brother Commander Abu 'Ammar [Yasir 'Arafat] is continuing his official visit to India. A second round of talks will begin today between a Palestinian delegation led by Brother Abu 'Ammar and an Indian delegation led by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi to continue discussions on the topics that were dealt with at the meeting which was held behind closed doors at midday yesterday.

During yesterday's 90-minute meeting, the Palestinian and Indian sides expressed great concern over the increasing U.S. military strength in the Indian Ocean, the Gulf and the Mediterranean and called on the states concerned to confront this threat to South Asia and the Middle East.

Brother Commander Abu 'Ammar lauded India's efforts within the Nonaligned Movement to put an end to the Iraqi-Iranian war. Both sides expressed concern over this dispute and called for the need for the Good Offices Committee to resume its efforts to stop the war between the two countries.

Afterward, Brother Abu 'Ammar visited the Indian Foreign Ministry, where he met with Minister of External Affairs Narasimha Rao. An official source has said that the talks were thorough and that they dealt with all aspects of the current situation in the Middle East.

Yesterday afternoon, Brother Commander Abu 'Ammar and his delegation met with Indian President Sanjiva Reddy. Discussions centered on current Arab and international developments and on several issues of mutual interest.

Last night, Mrs Indira Gandhi gave a dinner in honor of Brother Commander Abu 'Ammar and his delegation. During the dinner, Mrs Gandhi affirmed the support of India and the nonaligned countries for the just struggle of the Palestinian people to restore their usurped rights. She opined that the visit of Brother Abu 'Ammar, who represents a people who are aspiring for freedom, is a key factor for strengthening Indian-Palestinian friendship and Indian-Arab friendship.

Banquet Speeches

BK220728 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0240 GMT 22 May 82

[Text] India and the Palestine Liberation Organization have voiced their concern over the increasing arms induction in the Asian region, creating an atmosphere of insecurity in the area. At a banquet in honor of the visiting PLO chairman, Yasir 'Arafat, in New Delhi last night, the prime minister, Mrs Gandhi, and the PLO leader agreed on the need for the countries in the region to come together to face the threats. Mrs Gandhi said the big powers are using the Iran-Iraq war and the unresolved West Asia crisis as convenient excuses.

The PLO chairman criticized the United States for its West Asia policy which he said was helping Israel in its continued aggression against the Palestinians.

AFP Report

BK220126 Hong Kong AFP in English 0018 GMT 22 May 82

[Text] New Delhi, 21 May (AFP) -- Prime Minister Indira Gandhi tonight voiced India's concern over the large scale induction of armaments and increased foreign pressures in the entire Asian region by super powers using political developments and unresolved crises as convenient excuses.

Speaking at a banquet she (?hosted) in honour of visiting Palestine Liberation Organisation Chairman Yasir 'Arafat, Mrs Gandhi said such actions were not conducive to security but added to insecurity by encouraging suspicion and confrontation.

Greeting Mr 'Arafat as the "symbol of a people afire with the spirit of freedom" and as a "gallant fighter for a just cause," Mrs Gandhi said the plight of the Palestinian people "constitutes a challenge to human dignity." She expressed India's strong opposition to the "organised repression" of the Palestinian inhabitants of the West Bank. Mrs Gandhi said that support to the Palestine cause was a plank of India's foreign policy. India and the entire Non-aligned Movement had supported the PLO's heroic fight. The denial of the rights of any people, she indicated, was an affront to the rights of all others.

The prime minister described the PLO leader's visit as a major event in the growth of Indo-Palestinian and Indo-Arab freindship -- "a friendship which we value and want to nurture and which we are determined to expand."

In reply, Mr 'Arafat pointed out that the U.S. policy in the region is the "most dangerous challenge." He accused the United States of continuous attempts to "pull back the world" to the period of "military pacts." He also said that the U.S. policy found its "concrete expression" through total adoption of the Zionist policy of occupation of Palestinian homeland and continuous aggression against Palestinian people and the Arab nations.

The PLO leader called for sincere efforts to consolidate with important role of the Non-aligned Movement in defence of peoples' interest and their just cause.

Honorary Degree

BK230803 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0240 GMT 23 May 82

[Text] Chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization Yasir 'Arafat has said the Nonaligned Movement is needed now more than ever before to avoid global conflicts and to resolve disputes among its member countries. He was speaking in Hyderabad yesterday after receiving the honorary degree of doctor of laws at the Usmania University in special convocation.

'Arafat called for an end to the arms race and said it has not only resulted in offsetting the regional balance but also widening the gap between the rich and the poor nations. 'Arafat emphasized the need for greater cooperation between India and the Arab world.

Press Conference

BK230903 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 23 May 82

[Text] Chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization Yasir 'Arafat today thanked the people of India and Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi for all their help. Addressing a press conference in New Delhi, 'Arafat expressed gratitude for the strong and firm stand taken by India in support of the Palestinian movement.

He said India and the PLO, as members of the Coordinating Bureau of the nonaligned, are working hard for the nonaligned cause. He said the Iran-Iraq war is not only bad for West Asia but also for the Nonaligned Movement. The PLO and India are trying their best through the good-will mission to solve the conflict, he added.

Asked whether he will discuss Indo-Pak relations during his forthcoming talks with Pakistan President Gen Zia, 'Arafat said he is not here as a mediator. However, he will discuss some issues concerning the nonaligned summit with him.

'Arafat said it was an honor to receive the degree of doctorate of law conferred by the Usmania University.

Describing the Camp David agreement as a conspiracy, he said the United States is refusing to realize the realities by denying the Palestinians their right of self-determination.

Departs for Islamabad

BK231421 Delhi General Overseas Service in English 1330 GMT 23 May 82

[Text] The chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization was given an affectionate and ceremonial sendoff when he left New Delhi for Islamabad this evening after a 3-day visit. Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi, several of her Cabinet colleagues and heads of diplomatic missions were present at the airport to bid him farewell.

The PLO chief inspected an interservices guard of honor before boarding a special aircraft.

Joint Communique Issued

BK231425 Delhi General Overseas Service in English 1330 GMT 23 May 82

[Text] India has reiterated that its doors will be kept open for continuing the dialogue with Pakistan on the proposal for a no-war pact of friendship treaty. The joint communique issued at the end of PLO Chief 'Arafat's 3-day official visit to India says this assurance was given by the prime minister to him.

The communique said 'Arafat has expressed his appreciation of India's policy of promoting friendly relations with Pakistan.

The two sides expressed deep concern over continued Israeli aggression against Palestinian people in the occupied territories. It reiterated that a comprehensive settlement of the West Asian problem can be achieved only on the basis of complete withdrawal of Israel from all occupied Arab and Palestinian lands, including Jerusalem.

'Arafat expressed deep appreciation of India's consistent support for the Arab and Palestinian cause.

On the continuing Iran-Iraq war, the PLO called upon the two warring nations to resolve their differences peacefully and immediately.

UPCOMING GANDHI VISITS TO U.S., USSR ANNOUNCED

BK221605 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 22 May 82

[Text] Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi will be visiting the United States at the end of July and the Soviet Union in September. She will have talks with President Reagan on 29 July in Washington where she is scheduled to be on the 30th as well.

The exact dates of her Soviet visit have not yet been finalized. Details of Mrs Gandhi's U.S. program are being worked out.

The prime minister's visits to the two superpowers were officially announced in New Delhi today. Her visits to Denmark, Norway and Finland, which were to have taken place next month are being rescheduled at India's request. Fresh dates are being fixed through diplomatic channels.

Mrs Gandhi's official visit to the United States, which is at the invitation of President Reagan, is expected to last 4 to 5 days. Besides Washington, she will go to New York and some other places as well where she is likely to have a number of engagements.

Mrs Gandhi will discuss with President Reagan the entire range of bilateral relations and other matters of mutual interest. This will be their second meeting. The two leaders first met at the Cancun summit last October.

Mrs Gandhi last visited the United States in 1971 at the time of the Bangladesh crisis when Nixon was the president.

During her visit to Moscow in September, Mrs Gandhi will have discussions with President Brezhnev and other Soviet leaders. Her last official visit to the Soviet Union was in 1976.

Informed sources said in Islamabad today that Pakistan has received a favorable response for its candidature. It was expected that it would have overwhelming endorsement of the Arab and other Islamic countries.

HAQ LAUDS PRC AID IN FACTORY CONSTRUCTION

GF211225 Karachi DAWN in English 19 May 82 p 1

[Excerpt] Peshawar, May 18 -- President Mohammad Ziaul Haq today lauded Chinese co-operation and assistance in the establishment of the Rs. 10.40 crore sheet glass factory near Nowshra, and termed it a living symbol of friendship between Pakistan and the People's Republic of China.

Speaking at the inauguration of the factory, the president said that Pakistan and China had a "model" friendship which had established new standards in the international relationship.

He expressed confidence that these ties between the two countries would further expand with the passage of time.

He expressed his appreciation for the warm sentiments of friendship expressed by the Chinese charge d'affaires in Pakistan in his address at the function earlier, and said that the people of Pakistan took these sentiments in a positive manner, because those were based on sincerity.

He also lauded the co-operation extended by China in the setting up of the factory and in the installation of the machinery by experts from the great neighbour.

The president hoped that the factory, established by the national police foundation, would be run on commercial basis and would play a vital role for the welfare of the retired and serving police personnel and their families.

The president noted with satisfaction that the factory, which was the biggest glass unit in the country, would help save foreign exchange, now spent on the import of sheet glass. It would provide employment opportunities to the people and would thus augur well for the national economy, he said.

NEW OFFENSIVE LAUNCHED IN KHORRAMSHAHR REGION

Joint Staff Communique 915

LD211744 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 21 May 82

[Communique No 915 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. As the dear compatriots are informed, during the past few days fighting and exchange of fire has continued intensely in the Jersusalem Operation [bayt al-moqaddas] regions. The powerful combatants of Islam have bravely and with force foiled all the futile efforts of the Iraqi forces. By crushing the forces of blasphemy and dealing effective blows on them our forces have achieved considerable victories and have total control of the region. The Saddamist mercenaries have been forced to flee and leave their positions after each effort, having suffered heavy losses and casualties and some being captured.

During the past 24 hours, fighting and exchange of fire continued sporadically in Salehabad, Sumar, Sar-e Pol-e Zahab and Gilan-e Gharb. According to reports, the losses and damage suffered by the enemy include the destruction of one of their ammunition depots and several trenches and foxholes, together with the respective crews.

On the Marivan front, the exchange of artillery and heavy-weapon fire continued between our powerful forces and the Saddamist mercenaries.

The combatants of Islam crushed enemy positions in Biarreh and (?Khorman), halted enemy activities, destroyed several foxholes and trenches, observation posts and a helicopter pad belonging to the Saddamists. Our forces inflicted considerable damage and casualties on the enemy. We have no precise information regarding the number of enemy dead and wounded except for one region in which, as reports indicate, the number of casualties is 10 soldiers. On the [name indistinct] front a series of surprise attacks and strikes by our forces resulted in the death or injury of a number of enemy forces.

Gendarmerie forces on the Sheykhan, Nowsud and Shur-e Shirin fronts returned enemy fire, succeeded in silencing their fire and inflicted casualties on the Saddamist forces.

On the Abadan front, the gendarmerie combatants opened fire on enemy positions and destroyed 9 heavy- and light-weapon emplacements and 2 construction vehicles, and halted the Iraqi Ba'thist forces' vehicular traffic on the Al-Faw-Basrah road, killing 20 blasphemous soldiers.

The warriors of the navy on the Khorramshahr front opened fire on Saddamist positions in the occupied part of Khorramshahr, destroying two observation posts and three heavy-weapon emplacements of the Iraqi forces and killing or wounding a number of their personnel.

During the past 24 hours, residential areas in the city of Abadan came under enemy artillery fire.

Yesterday a number of aggressive Iraqi planes which intended to violate the airspace of several southern and western border towns of the country were forced to flee by the antiaircraft defense units of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Joint Staff Communique 916

LD221758 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 22 May 82

[Communique No 916 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Fighting on the fronts of the battle between right and wrong is the greatest prayer by any person. The powerful combatants of Islam, these fulfilled lovers and selfless wayfarers, have answered the call of their great imam. Relying on the power of faith and their own steadfastness, they are carrying out this religious duty, this war against the enemies of Islam, and will continue their battle until the enemies' complete destruction. A part of the efforts of the forces of Islam during the past 24 hours are hereby brought to your attention:

Yesterday, in the operative regions of the Jerusalem Operation [bayt al-moqaddas] an exchange of fire continued and our combative units consolidated and fortified their positions while defending the territory under their control. Using their heavy-weapon fire, our forces prevented the movement of Saddamist forces. The combatants of the Navy of the Islamic Republic of Iran opened fire on enemy positions in the occupied parts of Khorramshahr and on the banks of Arvand Rud destroying eight entrenchments and three observation posts of the enemy while killing and wounding a number of Saddam's soldiers.

The courageous personnel of the Gendarmerie of the Islamic Republic of Iran opened fire on Saddamist positions and set fire to several points in Ziyadiyah inside Iraq, destroying 3 observation posts, 2 construction vehicles and 2 entrenchments of the Iraqi forces while killing more than 20 Saddamists.

Yesterday a number of our dear Abadani compatriots were martyred or wounded by the heavy-weapon fire of Saddam's army. Also, several residential houses were destroyed in this city.

In Meymak, Salehabad, Sumar, Sar-e Pol-e Zahab and Gilan-e Gharb, exchanges of fire continued sporadically. Due to our forces' fire, three tanks, one ammunition depot, several combat supply depots, one digging vehicle and a number of entrenchments of the enemy were set on fire and destroyed and their artillery fire was silenced. Exchanges of fire on the Sheykhan and Nowsud fronts continued and as a result one mortar and several supply points of the Saddamists were destroyed and several Saddamists were killed or wounded. Our artillery and mortar fire demolished the enemy headquarters building in Toveyleh. Our combatants also opened fire on enemy positions in Panjwin, destroying five entrenchments and killing their personnel.

[Text] Islamic combatants and Iraqi mujahidin took control of Halabcheh in Iraq for a certain period. According to an IRNA correspondent, members of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps in Javanrud, enjoying the cooperation of our Iraqi mujahidin brethren, launched a penetrating operation inside Iraq and entered Halabcheh. The brave combatants damaged the Ba'thist army information and security organization building as well as the governor's office. They also killed or wounded a number of Saddam's security forces.

The same report adds that the alert and Muslim inhabitants of Halabcheh gave full support to the Islamic fighters during these operations and then staged widescale demonstrations in the town in their support.

The IRNA report further adds that during the second stage of these operations the Iraqi [name indistinct] garrison was raided by the Islamic fighters; six Iraqis were either killed or wounded. Our fighters returned safely to their base.

POW's Transferred to Tehran

[Text] The joint headquarters for first aid and donations for battlefronts in Hormozgan Province has announced that the southern fronts need the cooperation of doctors, nurses and brother first aid volunteers. Those interested in being dispatched to the front should report to this headquarters on Imam Khomeyni Avenue near the city park.

Forces Approach Khorramshahr

GF230740 Tehran International Service in Arabic 0700 GMT 23 May 82

[Excerpt] We have received the following from the Karbala' operations headquarters in the south:

At 2230 yesterday and under the codename of Ya Mohammad ibn 'Abdollah, the fourth stage of the Jerusalem Operation [bayt al-moqaddas] was initiated. As they advanced toward the center of Khorramshahr, the Islamic forces liberated other sensitive regions of the Islamic homeland, thus tightening the grip of its seige around Khorramshahr. The Islamic forces are in full control of the Khorramshahr-Shalamcheh and Khorramshahr-Ahvaz-(Al-Muhaymin) highways. The defenders of the Islamic revolution also cut off all waterways in front of the Saddamist aggressors and took complete control over the new bridge of Pol-e Now.

In this way all means of retreat have been blocked before Saddam's forces, and the Iraqi Army is completely besieged by the soldiers of Islam.

Since the early hours of this morning, the victorious Islamic forces have continued their rapid advance toward Khorramshahr and have succeeded in crossing beyond the village of Vali-e 'Asr and Khorramshahr public reservoirs and have imposed a full siege around the Iraqi forces.

With this successful attack and during the operations carried by Islam's soldiers in the Kushk axis yesterday evening, they were able to destroy 35 tanks belonging to Saddam's aggressive army in addition to inflicting heavy losses in life on the Iraqi aggressors.

God is great, God is great, God is great.

[Joint Communique No 24 of the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Excerpts] Muslim and combatant nation, heroic Iranian people: In continuation of the third phase of victorious Jerusalem Operation [bayt al-moqaddas] which began in the capable hands of your pure children in the southern fronts under the command of the central headquarters of Karbala' -- the headquarters of operations of the Army of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps -- and has so far led to the liberation of occupied areas and important strategic bases of our Islamic homeland to the extent of over 4,500 square km, in continuation of the all-out third phase of the Jerusalem operation, the self-sacrificing forces of Islam last night at 2230 began their attack under the codename Ya Mohammad ibn 'Abdollah on the orders of the central command of Karbala', chanting "God is great" and "There is no god but God."

In these operations, which were carried out in order to destroy enemy forces and cleanse the area in the border region of Kushk in western Khuzestan and the west and northwestern regions of Khorramshahr and to reach predetermined targets, the Islamic braves were able to break enemy lines in the first hours of attack and inflict heavy casualties against the deceived mercenaries of Saddam's army.

The capable braves of Islam, the armed nobles and entrenched devouts are now engaged in a heavy clash with the aggressors of the Zionist Iraqi regime in the southern part of the holy soil of Khuzestan and are inflicting heavy casualties and damage on the aggressive enemy.

The infidel-fighting braves of the victorious army of Islam have either killed or wounded a considerable number of the Saddamist aggressors and have destroyed a considerable number of armored vehicles, tanks and personnel carriers. They have also captured some equipment. A large number of the deceived Ba'thist forces have been captured by our capable braves.

The news of the victories of our sacrificing braves will be carried in future communiques for the information of you, victorious nation. In the hope of the final victory of Islam's braves and the liberation of Jerusalem from the claws of the occupying Zionism. With the assistance of God, victory is at hand.

Khorramshahr Surrounded

LD230856 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0815 GMT 23 May 82

[Unscheduled announcement]

[Text] Dear listeners: Please pay attention to a report just received:

Khorramshahr [Khuninshahr] is completely surrounded in the third phase of the Jerusalem Operation [bayt al-moqaddas] and now the combatants of Islam are consolidating the liberated positions in this region.

According to the report received from Karbala' headquarters, Pol-e Now, situated 5 km to the west of Khuninshahr on the road between Khuninshahr and Shalamcheh has come under the control of the corps of Islam. In addition to consolidating their positions, our combatants continue their efforts to capture the southern part of the road reaching Shatt al-'Arab.

This morning, the combatants of the Islamic revolution have, in the continuation of their operations codenamed Ya Mohammad ibn 'Abdollah, smashed the enemy in his fortified positions. The road between Pol-e Now and Shalamcheh is under the control of the corps of Islam and Khuninshahr is completely surrounded.

[Joint communique No 25 of the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Oh brave combatants of Islam, glory be your victory. Oh you who sacrifice yourselves for the path of Mohammad ibn 'Abdollah, the prayers of our imam, Ruhollah Khomeyni and our Hoseyni nation be with you. Oh those who go toward Jerusalem, God's blessings on your relentless struggle. While relying on the endless divine powers and seeking the assistance of the auspicious prophet and the founder of the world Islamic revolution, you are bent on bringing the glad tidings of the weakness and destruction of world oppression and its bankrupt agents to all the world Muslims and oppressed people. Oh brave and combative nation of Islam; Oh victorious and patient nation of Iran. In continuation of the third phase of the Jerusalem Operation [bayt al-moqaddas], which started last night with the codename Ya Mohammad ibn 'Abdollah, with reliance on the great God and His assistance, and with the backing of prayers of the dear imam of the nation, the great Khomeyni, and our ever-wakeful and martyr-nurturing nation, the combatants of the forces of Islam are advancing and dealing horrific blows to the dying forces of Saddam, that Zionist agent.

Oh combative nation: The victorious forces of Islam captured the border garrison of Kushk in the Kushk region at 0230; they also totally destroyed or captured the enemy forces in that region. They destroyed more than 35 enemy tanks and armored personnel carriers and set alight a large ammunition dump of the Saddamites.

In the west and northwest of Khuninshahr, after crushing the enemy's first, second and third defensive lines, the triumphant forces of Islam continued advancing; at 0415 this morning they captured the important communication and strategic bridge Pol-e Now [New Bridge] over the (Arajez) River and by completely consolidating their positions they were able to crush any feeble enemy attempts.

At 1048, 1117 and 1159 today, three aggressive aircraft of the aggressive Iraqi Army were downed by the fast flyers and antiaircraft units of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran in the Abadan and Khuninshahr sectors.

The forces of Islam, while shouting "God is great," enjoyed artillery support and were able to inflict very heavy casualties on the 9th Brigade of the border guards, the 10th Brigade of the border guards, the 33d Brigade of the special forces and the 238th Brigade of the border guards, destroying military equipment, killing a large number of the enemy and capturing many of them.

According to the latest statistics, so far 1,264 of the Saddamite deceived ones have been transferred behind the fronts. Among the POW's are many high-ranking officers of the Ba'thist, Zionist Iraqi Army.

The names of some of the high-ranking officers are as follows:

1. Lt Col (Riaz 'Abdolrahman Hasan), deputy commander of the 10th Brigade of the border guards.

2. Lt Col (Yusof Ahmad Jasem), commander of 165th Battalion of 10th Brigade of the border guards.

3. Lt Col ('Abdolrahman 'Abbas Husayni), commander of the 2d Battalion of the 238th Brigade of the border guards.

4. Lt Col ('Abdolhamid Mohammad Halid), commander of the 178th Batallion of the 10th Brigade of the border guards.

5. Maj Ahmad Mohammad Husayn, of the 3d Battalion of the 22d Brigade.

6. Maj (Amjad 'Abdolqadir Esma'i), commander of the 10th Battalion of the 33d Brigade of the special forces.

7. Maj (Qasim Sulayman Yahya), commander of the 179th Battalion of the 10th Brigade of the border guards, and dozens of other captured officers.

Now the remnants of the disintegrating and deceived army of Saddam should know -- more than any other time -- and should have reached the conclusion that the outcome of its resistance and fight against the right-seeking forces of Islam will be nothing but death and destruction.

Once again we ask Iraqi soldiers to return to the bosom of Islam, before it is too late, and join the committed and pious forces of the Islamic Republic, and no longer aid the evil, Zionist aims of the traitor Saddam and his American masters.

With hope for final victory of the combatants of Islam and the liberation of Jerusalem from occupying Zionism. With the assistance of God, victory is near.

[Unscheduled announcement]

[Text] Dear listeners, attention: The combatants of Islam have achieved ablution in the waters of the Arvand Rud.

According to the latest report received from the central Karbala' garrison, the command headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, the victorious combatants of Islam, reached the important and strategic Pol-e Now, captured it, and were thus able to move toward the Shatt al-'Arab [as heard]. They reached it, and after routing the deceived Ba'thist forces, they achieved ablution in its waters.

With the establishment of the forces of Islam on the banks of the Arvand Rud, the siege of Khorramshahr, that city of blood and martyrdom, has been completed and the aggressive and deceived Iraqi forces in that sector are completely surrounded by the forces of Islam. According to the latest reports, the victorious forces of Islam have captured many Iraqi soldiers inside the besieged areas.

With the assistance of God, victory is nigh.

[Communique No 919 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] Dear compatriots: On the other fronts [as heard] of the imposed war the combatants of Islam bravely continue their battle to destroy the Saddamist aggressors; the results of this are brought to your attention:

Sporadic fighting and exchanges of fire continued yesterday on the Sar-e Pol-e Zahab, Gilan-e Gharb, Sumar and Salehabad fronts. As a result of the powerful fire of the ground forces' artillery, which enjoyed superiority in the area all the time, several supply points, foxholes and slit trenches of the Saddamists were destroyed and a number of the servicemen of the aggressive Iraqi Army were killed.

The brave combatants of the irregular tribal warfare units continue to bravely guard their defensive positions and areas and to return the enemy fire and have robbed the enemy of any movement.

In the Paveh area the enemy positions on the border came under heavy fire from the combatants of Islam and several light- and heavy-weapon emplacements and vehicles were destroyed and a number of the Saddamist forces were killed. Considerable losses and casualties were inflicted on the enemy positions and servicemen in the Tutman area in Iraq.

On the Abadan fronts the heroes of the gendarmerie continually pounded the positions of the Saddamist mercenaries and killed or wounded more than 20 of the forces of blasphemy and destroyed a number of their positions.

[Joint Communique No 26 of the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The message of the combatants of the Islamic Republic of Iran addressed to the Iraqi soldiers is as follows:

To the duped military personnel of the Iraqi Army: This is a message from the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran which is being conveyed to you. Our dear Khorramshahr is at present completely surrounded by the forces of Islam and the powerful forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran have formed a ring around the city of Khorramshahr, this city of blood and martyrdom.

The brave and courageous forces defending the Islamic revolution have now taken their positions on the eastern side of the Shatt al-'Arab in full strength. All the roads entering the city, including the important and strategic Khorramshahr-Ahvaz and Khorramshahr-Shalamcheh roads, have been cleared of the filthy presence of Ba'thist mercenaries by the powerful army of Islam and the entire region is now in the hands of the combatants of Islam.

You, the soldiers of the aggressive army of Iraq stationed in Khorramshahr, your resistance to and stance against the faithful forces of Islam is useless. Resistance and confrontation with the soldiers of the army of God will not result in anything but annihilation and death.

You can surrender to the forces of Islam in any way you choose, for example by raising a white flag. You can be sure that you will be sheltered in the secure shadow of Islam.

You are hereby informed that Col Ahmad (Zeydan), who commanded the aggressive Iraqi forces in Khorramshahr, was killed by the strong hands of the combatants of Islam last night and this is our message asking you to surrender to your Muslim brothers and save yourselves from certain death and annihilation. You are now completely surrounded by the combatants of Islam. Give yourselves up to our victorious forces and refuse to remain a slave of the Zionist Saddam's whims and to the false promises of his American bosses. Take shelter with the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran so that, side by side, we can fight against the common enemy of all the Muslims and the oppressed of the world, namely, the great Satan America and the occupying regime in Jerusalem. You, the military personnel of the aggressive Iraqi Army who have been surrounded in Khorramshahr, if you want to stay alive rather than be annihilated, surrender to the victorious forces of Islam and from [words indistinct] in this world and the next.

It is necessary to mention that up to now a large number of the duped military personnel of Iraq have surrendered to the victorious forces of Islam and have sought asylum in the shelter of the Islamic Republic. Among these people there are a number of officers from the Iraqi Army, including Maj (Mahmud Hemad Mohammad), the commander of the Iraqi Defa' al-Vajibat Battalion, and Maj Sahib 'Abd al-Reza Kazim, the commander of the 3d Company of the Defa' al-Vajibat Battalion.

Hoping for the final victory of the combatants of Islam and the liberation of Jerusalem from the claws of occupying Zionism, seek assistance from God and victory is at hand.

Troops Enter Khorramshahr

LD241112 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 24 May 82

[Excerpts] According to a report from Qareh Bolagh issued by the Joint Staff and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, the mighty Islamic combatants, continuing the third phase of the Jerusalem Operation, having completely beleaguered Khuninshahr and having completely cut off the supply line to the Iraqi aggressors stationed in Khuninshahr, this morning succeeded in liberating the township of Vali-e Asr on the western side of Khuninshahr, thus entering the city from the western route. Intense fighting is presenting going on between the Islamic forces and the remnants of the Iraqi Ba'thist Zionist forces and the enemy positions are being pounded.

So far, 3,000 POW's have been removed to behind the front. Together with those captured yesterday the number of captured prisoners of war exceeds 5,000. Moreover, two Iraqi MIG's were shot down this morning over Abadan by Iranian forces.

KHAMENE'I VIEWS IMPACT OF ISLAMIC VICTORIES

LD232144 Tehran IRNA in English 2009 GMT 23 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 23 May (IRNA) -- The successive victories of the Islamic combatants on the battlefields portend significant economic as well as political effects not only for the Islamic Republic of Iran and the progressive regimes of the region, but also Muslim nations all over the world, said President Khamene'i today. The president added that U.S. imperialism, the major enemy of the Islamic revolution and all its subservient agents, concerned as they were about the victories of the revolution, have been trying to, somehow, obstruct the progress of the Islamic revolution.

On the other hand, he further added, the progresssive regimes in the region as well as the world's Muslim nations, particularly the Muslim nation of Iraq, were celebrating these victories.

Speaking on the economic plots of Iran's enemies, he said that opponents of the Islamic revolution, while pursuing political goals under the cover of economic relations, intended to expand their economic relations with enemies of the Islamic government, thus isolating the Islamic Republic of Iran economically. Referring to recent unsuccessful session of the Persian Gulf Cooperation Council, the president reaffirmed that all the Persian Gulf countries were not of one political orientation, adding that some of them were realistic and had recognised that taking hostile measures against the Islamic Republic of Iran, a powerful country with 40 million people, was not to their benefit.

Referring to the efforts of world imperialism to misrepresent the Islamic Republic of Iran as a danger threatening the region's countries the president reaffirmed the friendly stands of the Islamic government towards those which sought peaceful relations with Iran.

Talking more on the Persian Gulf Cooperation Council, President Khamene'i said that the council's foundation was based on shaky grounds since Iran, having the longest coast along the Persian Gulf, was excluded.

In defending the security of the Persian Gulf and the region, the powerful Islamic country of Iran would play the most significant role, the president added, stressing that Iran was neither seeking war nor coveting any country's territory.

Talking on the aid granted recently to Saddam by the reactionaries of the region, he said that these measures could not change the fate of war any more than had happened in the past. Referring to the Egyptian regime's recently declared support for Iraq in its war against Iran, President Khamene'i called it a move to divert the attentions of Egyptian people from the conciliatory stands of the Egyptian Army in the Iraq-Iran war fronts. The Egyptian regime also sought to regain its honor in Arab world and to return to the Arab fold, but it would be welcomed only by reactionaries among the Arabs, the president added. He also predicted the imminent defeat of all these plots by the uprising of the Arab masses against the reactionary regimes.

Referring to the efforts made by the Foreign Ministry to make the Islamic Republic's foreign policy more dynamic, the president reaffirmed that the Islamic Republic of Iran was trying to seek peaceful relations with all countries which haven't taken hostile measures against it. He insisted this was especially true of the expansion of relations with neighbouring Muslim countries which he referred to as "the policy of establishing peace in the region."

RAFSANJANI ON WAR, GCC, ARAB-EGYPTIAN RELATIONS

LD211040 Tehran IRNA in English 0905 GMT 21 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 21 may (IRNA) -- Majlis Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani said here Thursday that the Persian Gulf states eventually realised that the Islamic Republic was not a threat to their stability and thus they had somewhat changed their attitude towards the Iraq-Iran war.

The hojjat ol-Eslam, who was speaking in an interview with the Voice and Vision of the Islamic Republic of Iran (radio-TV) here, said that the Islamic Republic did not mean to maintain the situation in the battlefronts as they were at the present moment but sooner or later would have to bring the war to an end by an all-out offensive.

He said the internal situation in Iraq was unstable but noted that the Islamic Republic could not very much count on instability inside Iraq, but would have to take an initiative to end the war without counting on the potential opposition forces inside Iraq. He said that as time went by, Iran's claims for war damages increased, while on the other Iraq was losing more and more in economic damage in the wake of the Syrian closure of the oil pipeline which conducted Iraq's oil to overseas countries. He said at the time being Iraq was suffering economically since it has access neither to Syria nor to the Persian Gulf for exporting its oil.

Hashemi-Rafsanjani said Egypt and other reactionary governments such as Jordan, Kuwait, North Yemen and Morocco, and "the governments which are devoted to promoting U.S. interests in the region" have aided the Baghdad regime in its aggression against the Islamic Republic but that "the foreign troops which come to Baghdad's aid in the battlefronts, always turn tail at the first offensive of the Iranian troops" and that this has been a weak point on the part of the enemy army.

The hojjat ol-Eslam said that Saddam Husayn had long turned into a tool in the hands of the United States and that however conscious he might be of his eventual destruction, he was now unable to do anything on his own initiative. Said he: "The United States dictates its own will to Jordan, Egypt and Iraq."

Hashemi-Rafsanjani further said "Iraq has been receiving aid of various kinds; therefore, in all probability Saddam Husayn has not sufficiently enough will power to reverse his course of action, unless they permit him to do so."

The hojjat ol-Eslam dismissed so-called penk [as received] efforts for bringing the Persian Gulf war to its end, as "attempts for maintaining the invading army inside Iranian territories and at the same time projecting the Islamic Republic as an enemy of the Arab nations." He said while the Islamic Republic was receptive to any initiative for ending the war it had to expose the hidden incentives of imperialism for publishing so much propaganda for diverting the attention of the Arab world from the main issue -- the regime occupying Al-Quds -- focusing their attention on Iran.

He said the aim of the foreign powers was to exploit the Iraq-Iran war as an excuse for straying the attention of the Arab world from the Zionist enemy and giving it a little more elbowroom while Iran had decided to exert pressure on Iraq and defeat it in order to prove to the Arab world that the Islamic Republic was their best supporter.

Commenting on the emerging relations between Egypt and the rest of the Arab world, the hojjat ol-Eslam said that in his judgment Egypt had never been (?saved) from the camp which it was going to return. He said ever since the advent of the Camp David accord Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Jordan had entered into an implicit agreement and that throughout the process the three had moved harmoniously towards one and the same goal.

He said as he viewed it the Arab world had not in reality severed its relations with Egypt but that the current move was one for "justifying" their relations, or rather the "[word indistinct] of their relations" with Egypt.

The Majlis speaker reaffirmed that Iran advocated peace but not one at the cost of "giving a perpetual weapon to Israel, the imperialists and the Zionists whereby they might keep forever divided the Arab and the Muslim world as they now are...."

RAFSANJANI: IRANIANS TRUE FRIENDS OF ARABS

LD211406 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 21 May 82

[Excerpts] On the auspicious and blessed anniversary of the prophetic mission of the great standard bearer of monotheism, the last apostle of God and the great prophet of Islam, His Great Eminence Mohammad ibn 'Abdollah, may God's benedictions and salutations be upon him and his scion, millions of our Muslim compatriots all over the country held the glorious Friday prayers. At the same time Tehran University, this rendezvous of followers of justice and lovers of God, witnessed the great mass of the ever-present people of Tehran taking part in the religious-political ceremonies of Friday prayers, this glorious Mohammadan tradition. Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani was the acting Friday imam at Tehran University.

During his second sermon, the acting Friday imam of Tehran referred to the propaganda conspiracies of imperialism and international Zionism against the Islamic revolution of Iran, saying:

[Begin recording] Two different moves are currently taking place throughout the region, directed by the United States and other Westerners. These two different moves are in fact two aspects of one current. One is the attempt to return Egypt superficially to the Arab world. The second is the effort to set Iran against the Arabs.

They are trying to magnify the danger Iran poses to the region and its oil resources in two ways: In Europe, they tell the Europeans that the oil will no longer come and they tell the Arab shaykhs in the region: Iran is provoking your nations against you and you will lose your thrones.

The overall aim is to set Iran -- and in fact Islam and the Islamic Republic -- against the Arabs and their reactionary elements through these two moves, which are in fact one. In fact, the situation is not as they are trying to present it. They are trying to reduce the Arab world's sensitivity toward Israel and transfer it to Iran. And you can see how wickedly they are doing this and how stupid are those who submit to it.

I believe that in the future Iran will be the most important center that can destroy Israel. Anyone who attaches hopes to countries other than Iran is in fact looking at a mirage. Certainly this will be one of our great tasks and Israel and America also know this. They are trying to show that this Iran will be a danger to the Arabs and that Israel is a friend of the Arabs.

How stupid for Egypt and the Arab world to listen to such nonsense. How stupid to see Egypt restore relations with Israel, exchange embassies and become its friend, while Islamic Iran, which kicked out Golda Meir's collaborator, who went to Egypt and died and was buried there, is classed as the enemy of Arabs. These are the forces that want to be with Islam. See how stupid it is, but the loudspeakers are so harsh that some might believe them. It is possible that they might close their minds and open their ears and believe these things.

I believe that Egypt has never been divided from the reactionary Arab world. That is, the day Egypt went for Camp David, all these shaykhs, or perhaps the majority of them, agreed with it. Jordan was in favor, so were Hassan, Sudan, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Oman and some of the shaykhs. They helped it and at the same time pretended they were hostile to it. What sort of hostility is this when you pay it to purchase arms? What kind of break is it when you move along the same front everywhere and make similar remarks, but from two different loudspeakers?

They were looking for an excuse to make friends openly and they found a good excuse. The powerful and revolutionary Iran, which is pushing its enemy out of its own territory by sacrificing the blood of its martyrs, is considered a good enemy. Now they are saying: Come on, let us unite with Egypt and fight against Iran instead of Israel.

This is the most absurd logic, but for a changed person who is rising because he has become rich, it is easy to accept. Some stupid people who have oil and arms accept this logic and start these currents.

We will be proud if a front is formed against us by some stupid people who cannot even understand the positions of Egypt, Jordan, Morocco and North Yemen. It is right to fight against these kinds of people. We must fight against them. We shall not leave them alone even if they give up. We must rid the Islamic world of their atrocities. [shouts from the crowd]

At this point, I clearly say for the umpteenth time that only these kinds of persons should be afraid of the Islamic Republic. The people of Iraq, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia must not be afraid. The pious shaykhs of the Persian Gulf should not be afraid. Those who are prepared to join the front of right should not be afraid. If we are tolerating this war, it is because of the stance we adopted in favor of the people of Iraq. If we had shaken hands with Saddam the first day by making friendly gestures and had invited him to visit Iran when he wanted to come, many of them would have spent a similar amount of money on us. We must put up with this war because we refused to sacrifice the interests of the nation of Iraq for the ambitions of the 'Aflaqite Ba'th. We shall put up with a similar war in Palestine for the same reason. If you give up your tricks and wisely join us to fight against Israel and against antipeople individuals, if you stop pouring the wealth of Islam and Muslims into the pockets of the American trusts and if you decide to live independently, then our hand of support will also extend to you and we will be with you. [end recording]

FOREIGN MINISTRY STATEMENT ON CONFRONTATION FRONT

LD232338 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 2030 GMT 23 May 82

[Statement issued on 23 May by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. On the eve of the conference of foreign ministers of the Steadfastness and Confrontation Front the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Islamic Republic of Iran considers it its Islamic duty to remind the countries taking part in this assembly of some points:

1. At a time when, with the increasing conspiracies of American imperialism, the region is facing a bleak prospect and the Zionist enemy is daily strengthening its political and military ties with American imperialism, and when with the signing of aggressive strategic pacts it declares the continuation of its hegemonist policy with a clear voice, the region is witnessing another dimension of the policy of the world-devouring America's policy -- a conspiracy whose materialiation will be considered a victory of the White House's policies in the region and the acceptance of the defeatist and abject Camp David peace by the Arabs and the establishment of the regime occupying Jerusalem.

After betraying the Islamic ideal of the Arabs and sitting at the negotiation table with the Zionist enemy, the treacherous and abject Egyptian regime now intends to return to the Arab world with the help of reactionary governments. In the opinion of the Islamic Republic of Iran, Egypt's return to the Arab world would be seen as Arab approval of the occupation of the lands of Islam and of the aggression and crimes committed by the Zionist enemy. It will be considered contrary to the resolution of the 1978 conference of Arab leaders in Baghdad.

2. Husni Mubarak's regime, in implementing its sinister plot, has supported Saddam's government in the aggressive war against the Islamic Republic of Iran. It is obvious that Egypt's participation in the imposed war, under the pretext of supporting the Arabs against the danger of the Islamic revolution, is a bridge constructed by America to establish communications between the Arab reactionaries and the Husni Mubarak regime and, consequently, the Zionist enemy.

The Islamic Republic of Iran, as it has said many times before, believes that America's aim in imposing this war through Saddam is to crush the Islamic revolution. In fact, America ordered Saddam's regime to commit aggression against our Islamic homeland's borders in order to crush the revolution whose strategic aim is the liberation of beloved Al-Quds and the destruction of the Zionist regime and which is chanting the slogan: "Today Iran, tomorrow Palestine."

3. The Islamic Republic of Iran considers it necessary to declare to the steadfastness front member states that Iran is the firmest and the most staunch ally of the Arabs in the struggle against the Zionist enemy, as it has been in the past; therefore, the governments who, under the vain pretext of the danger of the Islamic revolution, try to open the door to America in the sensitive and vital Persian Gulf region, must know that they will suffer a fate identical to that of As-Sadat. Basically, how can the Islamic Republic of Iran -- which at the first opportunity after the overthrow of the defunct shah transformed the Zionist regime's embassy in Tehran into the Palestinian Embassy and closed the oil taps to the regime occupying Jerusalem and the other regimes like it -- be the enemy of the Arabs? And how can the abject Egyptian regime, which in the course of the treacherous Camp David accord embraced the criminal Begin and established treacherous relations with the Zionist enemy, be the friend of the Arabs?

4. Once again we declare that we shall not rest until the complete liberation of occupied lands, in particular beloved Jerusalem, from the paws of Zionism. God willing, with the overthrow of Saddam we shall victoriously march toward beloved Jerusalem, waving the banner "There is no god but God," in order to begin the destiny-making war against the Zionist enemy alongside our Muslim and Arab brothers. "Peace be upon him who follows guidance." [Koranic verse]

MONTAZERI RAPS ATTEMPT TO RESTORE ARAB-EGYPT TIES

LD212246 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 21 May 82

[Excerpts] According to the Central News Unit, the participants in the non-Iranian clerical seminar in Qom met with Ayatollah Montazeri at the end of the seminar today.

Referring to the multidimensional attack by Western and Eastern colonialists against the Islamic revolution of Iran, Ayatollah Montazeri said: It is not only Iraq which is fighting against us; all subservient governments of the region and other parts of the world have declared war against Iran by helping the declining Saddam regime, by providing it with equipment and personnel on American and Zionist orders. However, thank God, epics are being made on the battlefronts every day with the faith, resistance, growth and awareness of our Muslim Iranian brothers and sisters. I assure you that, despite the abundant assistance provided by such countries as Egypt, Jordan, Morocco, Kuwait and other mercenary leaders in the Middle East and Europe, Islamic Iran will soon achieve final victory.

Commenting on the new U.S. plot in connection with making Egypt acceptable to the Arab world, a plot being implemented by Saddam, Ayatollah Montazeri declared that any compromise with Egypt in reality amounts to a compromise with Israel.

He continued: We warn all those who, on America's orders, are engaged in hatching plots against the Islamic revolution of Iran that if they fail to abandon their provocations and crimes, such as the attempt to return the Zionist Egyptian regime to the Arab fold, the supporters of Islam throughout the world will not remain silent. Under such circumstances, having sought permission from the imam of the nation, we shall be forced to call on them to confront and crush these plots.

Israeli-Syrian Air Battle

Israeli planes shot down two Syrian MiG's in a dogfight over Beirut, the IDF spokesman announced in a statement reported by Jerusalem radio early on 25 May. He said all the Israeli aircraft, which had encountered the MiG's while on a routine flight, returned safely to base.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Military Situation -- Iranian forces succeeded in completely recapturing Khorramshahr after advancing into the city through its western entrance, according to an armed forces and Guards Corps communique carried by Tehran radio. A Tehran radio report said the Iranians entered the city after liberating the township of Vali-e Asr on the western side of Khorramshahr. More than 12,000 Iraqis, including hundreds of officers, were captured during the liberation of the city, Tehran radio's Arabic service subsequently reported.

Meanwhile, IRNA reported that three Iraqi planes were shot down over the Abadan area bringing the total downed since 30 April to 52. In other action, Iranian planes bombed an Iraqi troop concentration inside Iraq to the west of Kut al-Zayn and inflicted great losses, according to an armed forces communique broadcast by Tehran radio.

In a statement carried by INA, an Iraqi military spokesman announced that on 25 May Iraqi forces completed their "withdrawal operations" from Khorramshahr in the direction of the international border. The spokesman added that the Iraqis had begun their withdrawal and evacuation on 23 May. He observed that the basic task of the Iraqi forces outside of Iraq has been to destroy the largest possible Iranian force in order to prevent them from continuing their expansionist schemes against Iraq. What is important, he noted, is that over the past 20 months Iraqi forces have inflicted huge losses on the Iranians that will lead in the future to the destruction of Iran's military, economic and political capabilities.

According to a subsequent statement by an Iraqi military spokesman, 2,711 Iranians were killed on 25 May during fighting north of Khorramshahr, Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio reported. The spokesman said Iranian forces launched a dawn attack on Iraqi units north of Khorramshahr but were forced to retreat after sustaining large losses. During their counterattack, the Iraqis managed to destroy most of the retreating Iranian force, the spokesman claimed.

Khomeyni Warning -- Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni, in a message to the nation carried by Tehran radio following the liberation of Khorramshahr, warned neighboring and regional states "not to do anything to force the blessed Koran to ordain an obligation to confront you and for us to treat you in accordance with God's command." Khomeyni said because they are smaller and weaker states, the superpowers would not provide them the same amount of assistance as they did for the Iraqi president. He also advised them that Egyptian President Husni Mubarak and Jordan's King Husayn would be of no benefit to them. Khomeyni further cautioned them that if they tried to revive either the Camp David or Fahd plans, "Islam would not allow us to remain silent."

Iraq

President Saddam Husayn has praised Egyptian President Mubarak for building a correct relationship with the Egyptian people. In a statement carried by the Cairo weekly MAY and reported by MENA, Saddam Husayn said patriotism, nationalism and wisdom demanded that Mubarak take the Sinai back because Egypt had "paid the price." The Sinai Multinational Force and Observers has become a fact, Husayn asserted, and is not a separate U.S. force because it is multinational. Paying tribute to the role and contribution of the 1.5 million Egyptians in Iraq, he welcomed cultural and economic exchange between Egypt and Iraq.

Syria

Ceausescu, Al-Faysal Visits -- Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu left Bucharest on an official visit to Syria, Bucharest radio reported early on 25 May. The previous day, President Hafiz al-Asad received Saudi Foreign Minister Prince Sa'ud al-Faysal who gave Al-Asad a message from King Khalid, Damascus radio reported.

Comment on Iraq -- The Iraqi people and army now have a golden opportunity to punish those who plunged Iraq into a war which serves the United States and Israel, according to an AL-BA'TH commentary reported by Damascus radio.

Steadfastness and Confrontation Front

At the end of their meeting in Algiers, foreign ministers of the Steadfastness and Confrontation Front issued a communique which called for the consolidation of relations with "the friendly Iranian revolution" and rejected all maneuvers aimed at enlarging the Iran-Iraq war and introducing other parties into it, Algiers radio reported. Such maneuvers are aimed at justifying the Camp David accords and involving the region in a deadly war which will only benefit the Zionist enemy and imperialist forces, the communique added. It called on Arab countries to remain loyal to the Baghdad summit resolutions, which pledged Arab countries to break off relations with Egypt following the Camp David agreements. Algerian Foreign Minister Ahmed Talib Ibrahimi likewise stressed the front's fundamental differences with the Camp David policy in a speech to the ministers broadcast by Algiers radio. He said the continuation of the Iran-Iraq war is an attrition of gigantic proportions and damages vast resources that should be deployed in the battle against Zionism and imperialism, which today are doubling their hostile activities in several areas of the Arab homeland.

PLO Political Department Chief Faruq Qaddumi revealed after the meeting that a Steadfastness and Confrontation Front summit conference will be held in June, AFP reported.

Lebanon

After the car bomb attack on the French Embassy in which 11 people died, the French ambassador said France will maintain its presence in Lebanon but will make "extremely important decisions" concerning the embassy, AFP reported. He described the explosion as an act of war which cannot be attributed to anyone. Meanwhile, Voice of Lebanon radio reported that a hitherto unknown organization called the "Free Nasirite Revolutionaries" contacted a news agency and claimed responsibility for the bombs in west Beirut.

Egypt

Minister of State for Foreign Affairs Butrus Ghali and National Democratic Party leader Mustafa Khalil will leave Cairo for Israel on 30 May to hold talks with Israeli Labor Party Chairman Shim'on Peres, MENA reported.

Libya

Libya will not interfere in the struggle taking place in Chad and will not send forces there, JANA reported citing a responsible source in the People's Bureau for Foreign Liaison. The source said Libya is committed to the neutral position it has adopted toward Chad.

KARMAL PAYS 3-DAY VISIT TO GDR, SIGNS TREATY

For East Berlin and Kabul coverage of Revolutionary Council Chairman Babrak Karmal's 3-day visit to the German Democratic Republic, including Kabul's text of the treaty of friendship and cooperation signed during the visit and an ADN report on the communique issued at the end of Karmal's visit, see the German Democratic Republic section of the 20 May Eastern Europe DAILY REPORT and subsequent issues.

KARMAL SPEAKS TO STATE INFORMATION SERVICE

LD241854 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1630 GMT 23 May 82

[Speech by Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and chairman of the DRA Revolutionary Council, at a 16 May meeting of the State Information Services also attended by Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand, Politburo member and chairman of the DRA Council of Ministers, other Politburo members and PDPA Central Committee members -- recorded]

[Text] Dear comrades, the respected staff of the State Information Services [KHAD]. First of all allow me to convey my sincere and hearty greetings to you, the participants of this grand meeting, and through you to all KHAD staffers; these heroic and courageous militants! [applause] Your meeting is being convened in a special time in the (?life) of the country which has historical importance for our people and our beloved homeland, revolutionary Afghanistan.

Exactly 3 months ago today the PDPA national conference, as a great event in the life of our party, state and people, was convened. The conference approved the party action plan after considering and profoundly assessing the realities of our society and on the basis of (?contemporary) thinking. All documents drafted in the conference and the PDPA action plan entrusted serious and responsible duties to our armed forces including the army, sarandoy and KHAD. The (?documents and the conference) assessed the present situation and circumstances and the future development prospects of society. Allow me to recount the general aspects of these tasks in connection with the present situation.

The revolutionary change in Afghanistan from backwardness to the paths of all-round progress is facing the lunatic and savage resistance of imperialism and reaction which are using all filthy and inhuman means, fighting against our revolution and interfering in our domestic affairs extensively. They have chosen the path of terrorism and aggression, support fratricidal war and do not spare any efforts to revive the sovereignty of exploiters and to deprive our people of the path of progress and prosperity. In spite of this, the people of Afghanistan, with the resolute support of the fraternal people of the great country of the soviets, are struggling against these heretic and aggressive forces, that is reaction and imperialism, in defending the gains of the April Revolution and the true freedom, independence and national sovereignty of the country with firmness and will bring victory in the epic struggle [word indistinct]. [applause]

On the other hand, the United States and its criminal collaborators continue to fan tension around Afghanistan. The Beijing (?fascists), with the active cooperation of Pakistan, send weapons and war equipment along with trained rebels to our soil to continue bloodshed and killing and to disrupt the peace and tranquility of our noble and toiling people. The CIA, the hellish espionage organization of the United States, this pioneer and most savage criminal of the capitalist world and No one enemy of the peoples throughout the world, has undertaken to supply deadly weapons to the criminal rebels under the so-called international assistance to Afghanistan.

At the same time, these criminal and warmongering forces, pursuing their sinister and plundering aims, throw up obstacles in the path of the political situation around Afghanistan which could be maintained only as a result of peaceful talks based on the proposals initiated by the DRA and by putting an end to every kind of aggression and imperialist interference in the domestic affairs of our country.

Briefly, the construction of a new life in Afghanistan, under the conditions of an undeclared war which has been imposed on us by internal and external counterrevolutionaries, is continuing. This situation required indefatigable and resolute struggle in all areas and fronts of the struggle. This situation demands that the PDPA and all state organs take resolute action to defend the gains of the April Revolution. Therefore, the PDPA action plan pays great attention to the decisive and effective defense of the homeland and the revolutionary gains of the people, their reliable consolidation and the resolute stopping of the (?forces of imperialism and reaction) who want to establish an exploitative and oppressive order in our country. At the same time, the action plan outlines a system of effective measures to comprehensively consolidate the revolutionary army, sarandoy and KHAD, enhancing the level of combat readiness and the professional and political consciousness of their ranks. Emphasis has also been laid on their links with the masses.

In the present conditions and circumstances the matter of defending the revolution and resolutely and completely crushing the counterrevolution constitute the major and very important front of the struggle. This is a front against counterrevolutionary actions, terror, armed resistance by the enemy, against the conspiracies of internal and external enemies, the servants of reaction and imperialism, in brief against all the forces who are trying in vain to prevent the progress of our revolution and people.

To implement this successfully, to win further victories and to safeguard these victories and our revolution, we need an organ that is active, powerful, united, disciplined and the servant of the people and that is able to expose in time the plans of the enemies and to display resolute and clear reaction in reliance and support of the masses against the subversions of reactionary and imperialist forces. [applause]

Comrades, various forms of aggression, ideological (?deviation), terror, subversion in economic areas, in transportation, agriculture and others forms of counterrevolutionary activities [words indistinct] once again proves this [word indistinct] which says that revolutionaries should not only take over political power but safeguard it, defend it and organize revolutionary forces in one high rank against the counterrevolutionary forces. In protecting the gains of the April Revolution and in maintaining the security of the DRA against subversion and reactionary and imperialist aggression, the security organs should (?unite) with the state organs and, in the course of their conscious struggle, utilize their expert means and methods to attain their lofty aims.

On the other hand, KHAD and all its departments are (?considered) political organs which implement all their tasks under the leadership and control of the party Central Committee. KHAD bears full responsibility before the party, state and the people for maintaining [word indistinct] and the security of our dear homeland, revolutionary Afghanistan. (?KHAD) and security organ, as an important organ, [words indistinct] which is dutybound, in accordance with the aims and talks of the revolution which is the manifestation of the aspirations of the broad masses of the people, to resolutely and reliably defend the revolution and the revolutionary gains of the people in the name and in the interest of the people. This clear and revolutionary stand will be able to attract the trust and support of the people.

By this practical activity, KHAD pursues and observes revolutionary legality based on the decisions and resolutions of the party Central Committee, Politburo, the party action plan and the DRA Basic Principles, the laws of the country and the resolutions of the DRA Revolutionary Council and the Council of Ministers.

The party Central Committee believes KHAD organs are completely loyal to the interests of the people and are capable of attaining further successes in foiling the attacks and conspiracies of the enemies and their complete annihilation and in maintaining completely the ideology of the democratic and popular order in our homeland. [applause]

Under the circumstances of the intensification of the subversive activities by imperialism, the responsibility of the security organs in defending the society and the homeland against the conspiracies and intrigues of international reaction and the internal counterrevolutionaries is being increased. The KHAD staff should with all seriousness and with a feeling of responsibility [words indistinct] and should neutralize the activity of the enemy that it will be convinced, more than ever before, of the vanity and uselessness of its efforts. The revolutionary process in the country is irreversible and we are ready to continue our righteous struggle against the enemy until victory. [applause]

The determination of the party and the people to end poverty and backwardness, which have been inherited from the past, and to maintain the prosperity and welfare of all the people is the guarantor of our victory. The all-round and fraternal assistance of the great USSR, the solidarity of all socialist countries and of the world's progressive forces with revolutionary Afghanistan is another guarantor to the successful development of the glorious April Revolution.

Comrades, the staff of KHAD who, because of their duties and mission are fighting the enemy in the first line of the struggle front, should always hold dear the noble name of the guardians of revolution, honor, namus and dignity of the people. [applause] I must add that, (?except for some) mistakes, the staff of our security organs have accomplished their duty. [applause] They must enhance their political awareness and accomplish their duties resolutely with courage and firm determination and be the servants of the people and the courageous guardians of their party. [applause]

Along with strengthening security organs, the Central Committee and revolutionary government has adopted necessary measures to prevent incidents emanating from deviation from the law and has created a [word indistinct] firm political and legal path toward maintaining revolutionary (?laws).

Esteemed comrades, a necessary and principle condition for the successful activity of all security organs and their leadership is (?entrusted) to the party Central Committee. Implementing this [word indistinct] principle in practice provides conditions for KHAD which will be able to succeed considerably in the struggle against the rebel bands, counterrevolutionary [words indistinct] and the intrigues of espionage organizations of the imperialist countries and their servants. The abovementioned activity should be organized extensively, effectively and actively. The foul face of imperialism and its servants should be exposed before the people and it should be shown to the people who are supplying weapons to bands of thieves and murderers.

KHAD personnel must set an example in accomplishing the party and revolutionary tasks and should display initiative in coordinating and organizing joint effort with the army, sarandoy, the party and state organs in the struggle against banditry and in maintaining state power. KHAD organs must have a direct part in forming the nucleus of state power, party committees, local organs, revolutionary defense groups and also in implementing the resolutions of the party and government, including the armed forces. The work of forming and strengthening new groups of patriots must be [words indistinct]. The personnel of KHAD in all provinces, districts and villages could carry out their tasks in maintaining security. The abovementioned groups must be established in all production establishments and residential places and act in such a way that the earth will be transformed into fire under the feet of rebels. [applause]

A complete and final victory against the counterrevolution can be maintained as a result of the coordinated and united activity of the organs of KHAD, the Afghan revolutionary army and the sarandoy.

The party Central Committee, the Revolutionary Council and the Council of Ministers pay constant attention to strengthening the armed forces and sarandoy. One of the major tasks of KHAD and sarandoy is to maintain security in the major production installation and transportation and at agricultural establishments. In organizing the task, (?shortcomings) have been noticed that must be eliminated. The strength of our revolutionary state lies in its use of existing possibilities for settling questions [words indistinct] of the broad masses of the people. Thus the security organs should take complete and effective measures to (?make it possible) for major industrial establishments, transportation and agriculture to work without interruption. This is what all our masses and revolutionary government (?expect).

Comrades, KHAD organs are dutybound to prevent the efforts and search of the enemies, who want to abuse the religion of Islam to attain their sinister aims and who want to turn the Afghan revolution from its main path. We should prove in our practical work that social and national progress is not against Islam but, on the contrary, the criminal actions of those who want to abuse the religion of Islam are in complete opposition to the Islamic religion. The successful development and changes [word indistinct] in our country depend, on the one hand, on internal conditions and, on the other hand, on international conditions. Thus our party and government try to provide suitable international conditions for carrying out these changes in the interest of our people. KHAD organs are dutybound to take up all necessary measures to implement the policy of the DRA in this area. The Central Committee will not allow KHAD organs to deviate from the path of [words indistinct].

And in the future, too, it will consistently follow this policy for the observation and strengthening of revolutionary legality. Unfortunately, incidents resulting from failure to observe the law are not unique. The Central Committee demands the questioning and punishment of those who have ignored the law, without consideration for their past services and their official and government ranks. [applause] Ignoring of the law and deviation from it by party and government personnel, including and in particular personnel of the security organs, should be considered a crime and a deviation from the principles and aspirations of the April Revolution. [applause] This kind of action is not in accordance with the noble title of party member or member of the noble personnel of KHAD. [applause]

KHAD personnel should always remember that they are the political troops of their party and, therefore, should assess and study the present situation, realize the necessary realities and take correct and timely measures according to them. In order to successfully accomplish this task they should further enhance the level of their ideology and profession. Loyalty to the people and party, proletarian internationalism, irreconcilability and struggle with the enemies of revolution, political awareness, heroism, observing legality, humanitarianism, comradeship and [word indistinct] should characterize every KHAD member. [applause] KHAD members have so far sacrificed themselves heroically, with epic actions. Pride and respect are due such martyrs and true strugglers of the homeland. [applause]

KHAD organs must be active on such fronts where their duty is not complete until the (?last) cease-fire is secured. We have witnessed the enemy daily making use of skillful and more cunning technology. KHAD personnel are dutybound to organize their tasks within the framework of their authority; they should behave in such a manner that the people of Afghanistan will very clearly believe that KHAD activity is in their interest and is defending their aspirations and they can say KHAD personnel are the true servants of the people and the homeland. [applause]

Loyalty to the party and homeland, profound political consciousness, constant political vigilance, combat readiness, [words indistinct], irreconcilability with the enemies of revolution, kindness and tolerance toward people are the characteristics KHAD personnel should strengthen and develop within themselves every day. [applause]

Comrades, the party Central Committee profoundly trusts its militant sociopolitical organ, that is the KHAD, and believes KHAD personnel will once again prove that KHAD organs will attain major victories in implementing their revolutionary tasks. [applause] The Central Committee Politburo Revolutionary Council and the DRA Government believe the DRA security organs have attained the lofty trust of the party and people and will accomplish their important tasks in eliminating the enemies and achieving complete victory. [applause]

Pride and respect to the DRA Armed Forces, including the heroic army, military sarandoy, heroic KHAD, militant KHAD, fighting KHAD. [applause]

KESHTMAND ADDRESSES PARTY STUDENTS' SEMINAR

LD250838 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0512 GMT 25 May 82

[Text] Kabul, 23 May (BAKHTAR) -- Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand, member of the Politburo of the PDPA CC and chairman of the Council of Ministers of the DRA, said today that patriotism and internationalism are unbreakably linked.

Speaking at a seminar for the students of the party courses held here, he added that revolutionaries loyal to the revolutionary theory and to the progressive ideology never ignore the interests of the working people of the world.

They have faith in the world working class movement. They fulfil in practice the major conditions of loyalty to revolutionary theory, keep in view the golden principle of democratic centralism and loyalty to internationalism in their ties with fraternal parties.

He added that our revolution and our country were facing the undeclared war waged by imperialism and reaction. "Thus, it is our duty to defend the revolution and the vital interests of our people. This task can not be accomplished without broad publicity and propaganda work among the militant ranks of our party and the working people of our country."

Recalling the significance of the PDPA countrywide conference, amendment of the Constitution and the programme of action of the PDPA, Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand said: The documents of the conference are in themselves a great source of learning for all. But the study of progressive and revolutionary works is important and necessary for the growth of political consciousness and learning and for understanding the experiences of the other countries and socialist fraternal parties.

The seminar was attended by the deputy heads of propaganda, publicity and learning department of the PDPA CC, secretaries of party committees of Kabul city and the instructors of the party courses.

NAWA-I-WAQT: KESHTMAND MARKED AS NEXT CHIEF

GF241201 Karachi NAWA-I-WAQT in Urdu 18 May p 1

[Text] Kabul, 17 May (PPA) -- The ruling Peoples Democratic Party in Afghanistan (PDPA), in expressing a lack of confidence in Babrak Karmal, has called for the appointment of Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand as head of state. Informed sources in Afghanistan believe the motion of no confidence was passed against Karmal through secret ballot at the recent convention of the party held in Kabul. The sources have said the leading party leaders, including Gholam Dastagir Panjshiri, have also exchanged views with Soviet advisers on the subject. The readers are reminded that for some time now a rumor has been rife in Kabul saying the Soviet leaders are dissatisfied with the performance of Babrak Karmal and would like him replaced.

SOVIETS BOMB QANDAHAR; MUJAHIDIN ATTACK

GF241215 Karachi NAWA-I-WAQT in Urdu 21 May 82 p 10

[Text] London, 20 May (AAP) -- Soviet planes on 13 May bombed three tractors in the Spin Buldak subdivision of Qandahar Province, killing 30 persons. Reports received in Pakistan reveal that the victims included 20 women and children. The government troops later arrested four persons, including the two tractor drivers, and sent them to the torture chambers in Spin Buldak prison. The debris of the destroyed tractors lies strewn about the Spin Buldak border post, while the dead have been buried in an unmarked mass grass nearby.

According to news reaching Peshawar and Paktia, the mujahidin attacked a government Peshawar from Paktis, the mujahidin attacked a government building at (Daragai) on 27 April when members of the ruling Communist Party were celebrating the fourth anniversary of the April Revolution. Using rocket launchers, the mujahidin destroyed a part of the building and killed 13 communists. The mujahidin had taken the precautionary measure of transferring the population in the villages around the spot to safe places in the hills to save them from air bombardment in case of government retaliation. However, because no Soviet soldier had been killed in the raid the Soviet troops in the area did not react.

The mujahidin in another attack on 3 May on the high school at Kotgay village forced the Karmal soldiers occupying the school to run away. The mujahidin captured four Kalashnikov rifles. There were no casualties on either side as the Karmal troops left in a hurry as soon as the firing began. They had been stationed at this spot to keep law and order.

MUJAHIDIN DOWN SOVIET HELICOPTER 2 MAY

GF241536 Karachi NAWA-I-WAQT in Urdu 17 May 82 p 1

[Text] London, 16 May (AAP) -- The mujahidin have downed a Soviet helicopter and its seven crewmembers were either burned or suffocated when the craft caught fire. The helicopter was one of the four Soviet helicopter which were bombing the (Babukhel) area on 2 May. The downed craft was hit by a 27.12-mm antiaircraft gun captured earlier by the mujahidin from the Soviets. The mujahidin recovered two expensive cameras and two binoculars from the wreck of the gunship and some documents.

According to reports, the mujahidin have foiled a Soviet attempt to capture Taloqan Pass in the Panjwai (Bazar-e Panjva'i) subdivision of Qandahar Province. During the operation on 4 May, some 20 Soviet helicopters attacked the pass and then landed 250 commandos at 0800 local time. The mujahidin resisted the attack and finally the attackers withdrew, leaving behind 70 dead.

INDIA'S RAO PAYS 2-DAY OFFICIAL VISIT TO DACCA

Report on Arrival

BK221223 Dacca Domestic Service in English 1205 GMT 22 May 82

[Text] Indian External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao arrived in Dacca this afternoon on a 2-day visit to Bangladesh.

In a brief statement at the airport, Narasimha Rao said: India believes in maintaining good relations with Bangladesh based on mutual respect with sovereign equality, and the whole range of bilateral issues between the two countries will be discussed. He expressed optimism about the good relations between the two countries.

The Indian minister was received at the airport by Adviser for Information A.R. Shamsul Doha. This is a return visit to the one made by the Bangladesh foreign minister in September last year.

Rao will call on Chief Martial Law Administrator Lt Gen H.M. Ershad in the evening. Bangladesh-India talks will begin tomorrow morning. Narasimha Rao will lead the Indian delegation while the Bangladesh side will be led by A.R. Shamsul Doha.

Meeting With Ershad

BK230800 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0240 GMT 23 May 82

[Text] Chief Martial Law Administrator of Bangladesh Lt Gen Ershad and External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao have confirmed their determination to solve all outstanding issues amicably. They expressed this view when Rao called on General Ershad in Dacca last evening. They were together for about 75 minutes. Akashvani's Dacca correspondent (Shrat Ghosh) reports that during the cordial, friendly, informal discussions bilateral matters and the international situation were reviewed. Formal talks between the two sides are opening in Dacca today. The Indian delegation led by Narasimha Rao includes Eric Gonsalves, secretary in the External Affairs Ministry and Muchkund Dubey, India's high commissioner in Bangladesh, and others. The Bangladesh side will be headed by the adviser of the Information Ministry, A.R.S. Doha.

Joint Statement, Departure

BK231317 Dacca Domestic Service in English 1205 GMT 23 May 82

[Text] Bangladesh and India have agreed to intensify efforts to expeditiously find a mutually acceptable solution to the problem of sharing the waters of the Ganges at Farakka and augmentation of its flow. This was stated in a joint statement issued in Dacca this morning following talks between the two countries. Both sides agreed that efforts should continue until a solution is found to their mutual satisfaction. For this purpose the two countries agreed to meet frequently and approach the matter in a spirit of good will, coordiality and good neighborliness. They agreed that all other outstanding issues, including the implementation of the land boundary agreement of 1974 and finalization of the terms and conditions of the lease [word indistinct] perpetuated of the Tin Bigha corridor, the question of South Talpatti Island and the delineation of the maritime boundary will be resolved peacefully through amicable negotiations as soon as possible. It was agreed that bilateral relations should be given further impetus through different consultations and exchange of visits at all levels to promote good will conducive to further consolidation and strengthening of their ties in the resolution of all outstanding problems.

The two sides agreed to set up a joint economic commission to further develop economic and technical cooperation.

Bangladesh and India also agreed to take all steps in close cooperation with other countries in the South Asian region to maintain the momentum of progress in the implementation of the proposals for regional cooperation among South Asian countries.

The talks, lasting about an hour, were held in an atmosphere of warmth, friendship and cordiality. Besides reviewing bilateral relations, the two sides also discussed regional and international issues of mutual interest.

The Bangladesh delegation at the talks was led by Adviser for Information A.R. Shamsul Doha and the Indian side by External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao.

Talking to newsmen at the state guest house today, the Indian external affairs minister said his visit to Bangladesh is ending with optimism and confidence. He said he had very cordial, constructive and fruitful discussions on various matters of mutual interest with Chief Martial Law Administrator Lt Gen H.M. Ershad in Dacca yesterday evening.

Replying to a question, Rao said he has brought from the Indian prime minister a message of good will and cooperation for the chief martial law administrator.

In reply to a question, Rao said they have to find out a mutually convenient time to invite Chief Martial Law Administrator Lt Gen H.M. Ershad to visit India.

Asked when India will be ratifying the 1974 land boundary agreement, which Bangladesh had done in the very year of its signing, and it is necessary to its implementation, Rao said once demarcation is completed, we will ratify the agreement. That is a constitutional requirement in India, he added.

Rao left Dacca this afternoon for home at the end of his 2-day visit to Bangladesh. Information Adviser A.R. Shamsul Doha saw him off at the Zia International Airport.

FOREIGN OFFICE SEVERS RELATIONS WITH ZAIRE

BK230722 Dacca Domestic Service in English 0145 GMT 23 May 82

[Text] Bangladesh has severed all political, diplomatic, cultural and economic relations with Zaire with immediate effect following that country's move to reestablish diplomatic relations with Israel.

A Foreign Office spokesman in a statement announced this (?decision) in Dacca yesterday. He said the decision of Zaire to reestablish diplomatic relations with Israel has come as a great shock to the government and the people of Bangladesh. This decision is clearly in violation of the resolutions of the United Nation, the Nonaligned Movement, the Organization of the Islamic Conference and the Organization of African Unity. It is most regrettable that the Government of Zaire has chosen to strike at the unity and solidarity of the nonaligned and Third World countries by their decision to reestablish links with Zionist entity. The statement said in view of Bangladesh's total commitment to the cause of the Palestinians and Arab brethren, Bangladesh has decided to sever diplomatic relations with Zaire. The Government of Bangladesh hopes that the universal condemnation such as Zaire's move has provoked will lead to the rescinding of the decision by Zaire.

The spokesman also said that the decision of the Government of the Costa Rica to shift its embassy to Jerusalem from Tel Aviv has come as a great shock to the government and the people of Bangladesh. This decision by Costa Rica is all the more inexplicable in view of Costa Rica's resolute support for national liberation movements and respect for human rights. Bangladesh, therefore, hopes that the Government of Costa Rica will reconsider its decision to shift its embassy to Jerusalem and refrain from doing something which can only be interpreted as a stab on the back of our Palestinian and Arab brethren.

CONGRESS-I CLAIMS HIMACHAL PRADESH LEADERSHIP

[Text] In Himachal Pradesh, Congress-I legislative party leader Ram Lal has been invited by Governor A.N. Banerjee to form the new government. He will be sworn in as the chief minister at 2130 tonight.

Earlier, Ram Lal called on the governor and stated the claim of his party to form the government. Bharatiya Janata Party [BJP] legislative party leader Shanta Kumar also met the governor and stated his party's claim.

A newly elected independent member of the legislative assembly Mansa Ram has joined the Congress-I. With this, the strength of the Congress-I in the 68 member house has risen to 33. The BJP has 29 seats, Janata Party: 2, and independent: 4.

According to a UNITED NEWS OF INDIA report from Bhopal, BJP President Vajpayee told a news conference that his party will have no objection to the Congress-I being invited to form the government in Himachal Pradesh. He said his party will play the role of the opposition for which it has been chosen by the people in last week's election.

CONGRESS-I-LED FRONT MINISTRY IN KERALA SWORN IN

[Text] In Kerala, a 19-member United Democratic Front ministry headed by Congress-I leader K. Karunakaran was sworn in at Trivandrum this morning. Governor Mrs Jothi Vencatachellum administered the oath of office and secrecy to the new Council of Ministers at a function held at Raj Bhavan [governor's house]. C.H. Mohammed Koya is the deputy chief minister. Present on the occasion were union Defense Minister R. Venkataraman, union Minister of State for Law A.A. Rahim and Pondicherry Lieutenant Governor K. Chandi.

BHAJAN LAL SWORN IN AS HARYANA CHIEF MINISTER

BK231617 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 23 May 82

[Excerpts] Bhajan Lal, the leader of the Congress-I legislative party, was sworn in as the chief minister of Haryana this afternoon at Raj Bhavan [governor's house] in Chandigarh. He will constitute his ministry later. Governor G.D. Tapase administered the oath of service and the secrecy to Bhajan Lal. He has been asked to prove his majority on the floor of the assembly by the end of next month.

Tapase later told newsmen that Bhajan Lal had submitted a list of 42 to 44 of his supporters and the Congress-I is the single largest party in the new assembly. He said Bhajan Lal has, therefore, a right to form a new government.

When asked about Lok Dal leader Devi Lal's claim to form the new Haryana ministry, the governor said Devi Lal had given him only a list of 35 supporters. When pointed out that Bharatiya Janata Party [BJP] had pledged its support to Devi Lal, Tapase said leader of the BJP Dr Mangal Sen had not submitted his list in this regard.

General Secretary of the All-India Lok Dal Rabi Roy along with some party colleagues met the governor and lodged a protest against his decision.

Lok Dal President Charan Singh has criticized the Haryana governor for inviting Bhajan Lal, the leader of what he called the minority Congress-I legislature party, to form the ministry. He said in New Delhi that the president should intervene in such a situation and ensure justice to the Lok Dal-BJP alliance.

BJP General Secretary L.K. Advani said the governor's decision is unconstitutional.

Janata Party Chief Chandra Shekar said that the governor's decision to invite Bhajan Lal is unjustified.

Three more results of the Haryana assembly have come in. Two have gone to the Congress-I and one to the BJP.

The latest tally is: total seats 90; results declared 89; Congress-I 36, Lok Dal 31, BJP 6, Congress-J 3, Janata 1 and independents 12.

Opposition Protests

BK240338 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0240 GMT 24 May 82

[Text] Haryana Governor G.D. Tapease has defended his decision to invite the Congress-I to form a new ministry. The leader of the Congress-I legislature party, Bhajan Lal, was sworn in as chief minister in Chandigarh yesterday. In a statement later, the governor said his action was in keeping with the time-honored conventions of parliamentary democracy embodied in our constitution.

Tapase pointed out that he has directed that a session of the state assembly must be convened by the end of June to prove that Bhajan Lal enjoys majority support in the house. He hoped with the process of democratic elections having culminated in the installation of a duly elected government, the elected representatives will get on with their job of working for the welfare of the state and the happiness of the people.

The governor said the authenticity and credibility of the list of suports of Devi Lal, the leader of the Lok Dal legislature party, was doubtful. Devi Lal had included the names of some Congress-I members of legislative assembly [MLA] in his list. The governor specifically pointed out that Mrs Sharda Rani, a Congress-I MLA,figured in Devi Lal's list.

Opposition leaders have accused the Haryana governor of having acted unconstitutionally. Five Lok Dal MP's, including party General Secretary Rabi Roy, have criticized the governor for installing what they called a minority government. The Bharatiya Janata Party [BJP] chief, Atal Bihari Vajpayee, said in Bhopal that the criterion of the single largest party forming the government will not apply to Haryana since the Lok Dal and the BJP had jointly contested the assembly elections. He pointed out the same criterion was not adopted in Kerala where the Communist Party of India-Marxist is the largest single party.

Congress-J President Jagjivan Ram said in New Delhi that Tapase's decision is against all democratic norms. Democratic Socialist Party leader Maniram Bagri, in a statement, has demanded an immediate session of the Lok Sabha to discuss the issue. Haryana Pradesh Congress-I President Harpal Singh has said that the governor has acted within the constitutional framework.

'Legal Consultations' Set

[Text] In Chandigarh, Lok Dal leader Devi Lal today presented a group of his supporters to Governor Tapase at the Raj Bhavan to reinforce his claim that he is in a position to form a new ministry. Bharatiya Janata Party leader Dr (Mangal Singh) and Congress-J leader Col Ram Singh were also present. They demanded that the assembly should be called immediately to ascertain the strength of the party. The Akashvani correspondent reports that the governor has agreed to have immediate legal consultations. The governor told the members of legislative assembly earlier that the assembly will be called by the 30th of next month.

Rao said the talks were held in a cordial atmosphere.

Radio Commentary

BK241524 Delhi General Overseas Service in English 1340 GMT 24 May 82

[Article by C.S. Pandit, Delhi Bureau Chief of AMRITA BAZAR PATRIKA]

[Text] The 24-hour visit of India's Foreign Minister P.V. Narasimha Rao to Bangladesh, apart from providing him an opportunity to get acquainted with the new leaders of that country after the recent change of government there, has yielded some tangible results on almost all the outstanding problems between the two countries, which have often acted as periodic irritance in their relations. Rao's 75-minute meeting with Chief Martial Law Administrator Gen H.M. Ershad soon after he reached Dacca on Saturday last [22 May], set the tone of the cordial, frank and friendly discussions in the official talks the next morning.

General Ershad, who also graciously agreed to meet the newsmen accompanying India's foreign minister at the conclusion of the talks, gave the impression of an upright man, determined to do for his people what his government feels has not been done in the last 10 years of the country's existence. He made no secret of his desire to have close, friendly relations with India based on a spirit of cordiality and good-neighborliness. He hoped that all the outstanding issues between the two countries, including the sharing of the waters of the Ganges and the augmentation of its flows at Farakka, the leasing of the Tin Bigha for direct access to Bangladesh enclave, the settlement of the question of the New Moore Island and the delineation of the maritime boundary could be resolved expeditiously through friendly negotiations.

This spirit of friendship and good neighborliness was adequately reflected in the joint statement issued after the official talks on Sunday [23 May]. It naturally emphasized the need to find a solution to the problems of the Ganges waters because the present agreement is due to expire in November this year without any settlement on the question of the long-term solution of the augmentation of the flows in the Ganges at Farakka.

In fact, the second review of the agreement was due to be held on 5 May, but it was postponed till the middle of June pending this visit of Narasimha Rao. The Bangladesh Government had been pressing him to undertake the visit by the end of April. But he could not find earlier dates convenient to him. In a way it was a follow up of his talks with the then Bangladesh foreign minister in September last. But, meanwhile, there had been change in the government in that country and, therefore, this visit assumed special significance.

As Rao himself put it on arrival in Dacca, the visit was more in the nature of getting acquainted with the new leaders and establishing a personal rapport with them. This he seems to have achieved in ample measure.

What is more heartening, however, is that he has also been able to agree on acceptable formulation in the joint statement on issues which have remained unresolved or defied amicable settlement. An indication of the positive outcome of the visit is that the two sides have also agreed to revive the joint commission for economic cooperation, which had ceased to function in 1975.

There is apparently a realization in the Bangladesh leadership that the country cannot preserve its sovereignty and dignity without achieving self-reliance. As General Ershad told Indian correspondent: A country cannot remain dependent on foreign aid for all times to come without losing its dignity. It is in that context that the revival of the joint commission to provide an institutional framework for economic cooperation between the two countries for mutual benefit assumes importance. This also reflects the Bangladesh leaders' support of the South-South cooperation as a means to achieving collective self-reliance. Both sides have also agreed to collaborate in pushing the idea of regional cooperation of South Asian countries originally mooted by late President Ziaur Rahman of Bangladesh.

PLO'S 'ARAFAT HOLDS TALKS IN ISLAMABAD

Report on Arrival

BK231627 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 1500 GMT 23 May 82

[Excerpts] Chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization [PLO] was accorded a warm welcome when he arrived in Islamabad today on a 2-day good-will visit to Pakistan. President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq received him at the airport.

Earlier, talking to newsmen, the president said that Pakistan has always, even before the establishment of Pakistan as a state, supported the stand of the Palestinian people. He said the visit of the Palestinian leader will further strengthen Pakistan's friendly and brotherly relations with Palestine in particular and the entire Arab world in general.

When asked whether he will discuss any particular issue with the Palestinian leader, the president said that there was no fixed agenda for discussions. However, matters of mutual interest, the Middle East situation, the latest situation in Al-Quds following the recent incident of sacrilege of Al-Quds Mosque and the situation in Lebanon will be discussed.

Banquet Remarks

BK240706 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 0200 GMT 24 May 82

[Text] Palestine Liberation Organization Chief Yasir 'Arafat has said that the Palestinians, relying on support from Pakistan and freedom-loving people throughout the world, will carry on their struggle until the establishment of their state with Jerusalem as its capital.

He was addressing a banquet hosted in his honor by President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq in Islamabad last night.

He said we will never forget the wholehearted support extended by the people and Government of Pakistan to the Palestinians. He expressed his gratitude for this support to the president and the valiant people of Pakistan, especially those Pakistanis who sacrificed their lives in struggle alongside the Palestinians. 'Arafat appealed for an immediate end to the Iran-Iraq war in the name of Jerusalem and the Al-Aqsa Mosque and said that the issue should be settled by brotherly understanding. He also appealed to President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq to expedite his efforts as a member of the Islamic peace committee and help in establishing peace in the region.

The PLO chief said that Islamic countries are facing a difficult situation and only untiring efforts can bring about peace in the region. He said that Islamic countries should realize that they will have to sit together to find solutions to their problems through mutual cooperation because they are facing a common enemy. 'Arafat said that, God willing, the day must come when I will invite the Pakistani president to visit independent Palestine.

Earlier, in his speech, President Mohammad Ziaul Haq said that the Pakistani people highly value the Palestinian freedom struggle, as do the Palestinians themselves. He recalled that the All-India Muslim League session which adopted a resolution in favor of a separate homeland for the Muslims of South Asia had also adopted another resolution in support of the rights of the Palestinians. The resolution was drafted by the founder of Pakistan Quaid-e-Azam Mohammad Ali Jinnah himself. Since that day Pakistan has always supported the rights of the Palestinian brothers.

Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq said that Palestinian leader Yasir 'Arafat is a great freedom fighter of the day, who keeps the flag of righteousness always high, never compromises with the wrong and dedicates his life for the stand on Palestine.

The president also referred to the efforts made by himself and Yasir 'Arafat as members of the Islamic peace committee to end the Iran-Iraq war. He said that if this war does not come to an end, it will have an adverse effect on the entire Muslim world. He said that Islamic countries cannot face their common enemy until they forge unity in their ranks. The Islamic countries should end all their disputes and differences and pave the way for consolidating their unity. We should sacrifice our personal and regional interests for the sake of the greater interest of the entire Islamic world. He said that the Islamic world enjoys the position of a great power in respect of its collective manpower and huge resources.

The president said that Pakistan has always made efforts to consolidate the forces of peace and end the possibility of differences, clashes and wars. Pakistan is also making efforts to create an atmosphere of peace and tranquility and remove the causes of tension in the region.

Pakistan is making efforts for a peaceful and honorable solution of the Afghanistan issue.

Similarly, it has also initiated a dialogue with the close neighbor India, which is aimed at reducing tension in South Asia and creating an atmosphere of mutual trust so that the people of the two countries can achieve progress and prosperity. He expressed the hope that the process of dialogue between the two countries will continue.

[Text] Formal talks were held between the visiting PLO Chief Yasir 'Arafat and President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq in Rawalpindi this morning. Radio Pakistan's diplomatic correspondent says that two leaders were closeted together for about an hour and held talks without any aides which mainly centered around the Middle East situation.

Simultaneously, members of Yasir 'Arafat's delegation held separate talks with Foreign Minister Sahabzada Yaqub Khan. Others present on the Pakistan side included Federal Ministers Sharifuddin Pirzada and Mohammad Ali Khan and the foreign secretary.

Later the president and the PLO chief were joined in their talks by their senior aides.

VOP Report

[Text] Brother leader Abu 'Ammar [Yasir 'Arafat] has called for finding an immediate solution to the Iraq-Iran war, which has been waged for more than 20 months, to preserve the unity of the Islamic states. He added, in a statement published today in Islamabad, that the problems between Iran and Iraq must be solved in a fraternal and cordial manner. He asked the Islamic Good Offices Committee, chaired by Guinea President Ahmed Sekou Toure, to intensify its efforts to establish peace between Iraq and Iran. Brother Abu 'Ammar affirmed that the Islamic states should realize that they have to sit around one table to find solutions for their problems, through joint cooperation, so they can fight their common enemy, Israel.

Brother Abu 'Ammar indicated in his press statement that the Islamic states cannot overcome their difficulties except through unity and cooperation. He affirmed that the Palestinian people will continue fighting until they restore their legitimate rights, including the establishment of a Palestinian state with Jerusalem as its capital.

Communique Issued

BK241643 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 1500 GMT 24 May 82

[Text] PLO Chief Yasir 'Arafat and President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq have emphasized the imperative need to take effective international steps to stop Israel from pursuing its aggressive and expansionist policies before the world is plunged into a catastrophic crisis. This is stated in a joint communique issued at the conclusion of the PLO chief's official visit to Pakistan.

The president and the PLO chief during their talks exchanged views in detail on various international issues, especially the latest situation in the Middle East. The talks were held in a very friendly and fraternal atmosphere which reflect the traditional ties between Pakistan and the PLO.

Both sides expressed serious concern at the deteriorating situation in the Middle East due to Israel's intransigence and stated that Israel's attitude has assumed dangerous proportions in recent months. Both sides also reaffirmed that the Middle East dispute could be solved only through a comprehensive settlement which guarantees the inalienable rights of the Palestinian people.

Both sides condemned Israel's occupation of Al-Quds and, describing this as an affront to the Islamic community, stressed that all Islamic countries should intensify their efforts to liberate Al-Quds, Palestine and all other occupied Arab territories. The president reaffirmed Pakistan's unflinching support to the Palestinian stand and said that the PLO should be included as a full and equal partner in any effort to find a just solution of the Middle East problem.

Both leaders pledged to spare no efforts to bring about an immediate cease-fire between Iran and Iraq.

The communique says that, during the talks, Pakistan explained its efforts for a peaceful settlement of the Afghan crisis. Both leaders noted that indirect talks will be held in Geneva next month on substantive issues and said that the principles enunciated by the Nonaligned Movement provide the basis for finding a peaceful solution of the issue.

The president also apprised the PLO chief of Pakistan's efforts to normalize relations with India. He expressed the hope that the dialogue on Pakistan's proposal for a no-war pact with India will be resumed soon, the conclusion of which will be an important step in creating a climate of mutual trust and confidence between the two neighboring countries and contribute to peace and security. Appreciating Pakistan's efforts in this regard, the PLO chief said his current visits to New Delhi and Islamabad have convinced him that both India and Pakistan sincerely desire peace and would be able to pursue their efforts to a successful conclusion which will benefit the people of the two countries.

The joint communique says that the two sides reviewed the security situation in the region, the Indian Ocean and the Gulf. They reaffirmed principles enunciated in the Mecca declaration that the preservation of the security of the Gulf is the exclusive concern of the Gulf states.

'Arafat expressed his heartfelt thanks to the president and the people of Pakistan for the warm welcome and hospitality extended to himself and his delegation and for the support and cooperation the Pakistani people have extended to the Palestinians in their just national struggle.

'Arafat was given a warm sendoff on his departure from Islamabad this afternoon at the end of his 2-day visit to Pakistan. On this occasion, a large crowd present at the airport raised the slogans: "Long live Pakistan-Palestine friendship," "Long live Yasir 'Arafat," "Long live President Mohammad Ziaul Haq." Yasir 'Arafat answered the slogans by waving his hand. A 21-gun salute heralded his departure. The national anthems of Pakistan and the PLO were played and a small child presented a bouquet to him. Federal ministers, councillors, diplomatic representatives and top military and civil officials were present at the airport to bid him farewell.

FOREIGN MINISTRY TEAM TO VISIT USSR ON UN AGENDA

[Text] A delegation of the Foreign Ministry will visit the Soviet Union to discuss the agenda of the next session of the UN General Assembly. Informed sources in Islamabad today clarified the statement made by the Soviet Union's ambassador in Karachi recently which stated that the Soviet Government has invited the delegation to visit the USSR. According to these sources, the two countries have been regularly holding bilateral consultations on the agenda of the UN General Assembly. For such consultations Pakistan's foreign secretary had visited Moscow in 1980 and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Firyubin had come to Pakistan last year.

SOVIET ENVOY VIEWS PAKISTANI TIES, OTHER ISSUES

GF211203 Karachi DAWN in English 19 May 82 p 1, 5

[Text] The Soviet ambassador in Pakistan, Mr Vitaliy S. Smirnov, said in Karachi last evening that his government was ready to receive a Pakistan Foreign Ministry delegation for holding regular consultations on international issues.

Speaking at the Pakistan institute of international affairs, Mr Smirnov said the Soviet Union gave significant attention to its relations with Pakistan. The Soviet Union had been taking steps to promote diversified ties with Pakistan. A number of major agreements on economic cooperation were concluded. He mentioned the recent commissioning of the Guddu thermal power station build with Soviet assistance. The Soviet Union was also helping Pakistan to build a big steel mill near Karachi and a tractor plant near Lahore.

Ten agreements and protocols on trade, shipping, science and culture concluded between the two nations in the last few years facilitated the expansion of Soviet-Pakistani relations, he added.

The ambassador said his country noted with satisfaction Pakistan's withdrawal from SEATO and CENTO. Pakistan's decision to join the Non-Aligned Movement was also a positive step. These circumstances opened up before the two nations fresh opportunities to promote bilateral contacts.

The ambassador said that Soviet representatives promote co-operation with Pakistani delegations in the United Nations and other international organisations tackling questions of peace, the struggle against colonialism and racism, the Middle East settlement and the establishment of a fair international economic order. The Soviet and Pakistani Foreign Ministries hold regular consultations on topical international issues.

The Soviet ambassador said: "We express satisfaction and thankfulness for the support rendered by Pakistan to the Soviet proposals at the UN General Assembly for preventing nuclear catastrophe and conclusion of a treaty prohibiting the emplacement of any arms in outer space."

He said in its co-operation with Pakistan, as with other developing states, the USSR does not attach political conditions.

The ambassador said the Soviet-Pakistani relations had lately been under some strain in connection with developments around Afghanistan. Unfortunately, there were forces which distort the development of the Soviet-Afghan relations and incorrectly interpret the Soviet aid to the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan, he added.

Earlier, Mr Justice (retd.) Qadeeruddin Ahmed, who presided over the meeting, welcomed the chief guest.

The Soviet ambassador said the present political structure in Afghanistan had come to stay and no change would be allowed in it.

Mr Smirnov said the Soviet Union would continue to furnish necessary assistance and aid to the people of Afghanistan so that they might (what he called) uphold the gains of their socialist revolution, defend their state sovereignty and end armed intervention in their internal affairs, encouraged and organised by foreign countries.

The ambassador said the countries which were really interested in a peaceful settlement should make appropriate contacts with the Kabul government. On reaching appropriate agreements, the question of the withdrawal of the Soviet troops from Afghanistan could also be settled, he added.

About Sino-Soviet relations he said there was no threat to the People's Republic of China from the Soviet Union.

"We have never supported and do not support now in any form the so-called "concept of two Chinas" and have fully recognised and continue to recognise the People's Republic of China's sovereignty over the Taiwan island."

He added: "We have not had and do not have any territorial claims (on China) and we are ready at any moment to continue talks on the existing border questions for the purpose of reaching mutually-acceptable decisions. We are also ready to discuss the question of possible measures to strengthen mutual trust in the area of the Soviet-Chinese frontier." -- APP.

SPOKESMAN ON COSTA RICAN, ZAIRIAN ACTIONS

BK221630 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 1500 GMT 22 May 82

[Text] Pakistan has called upon Costa Rica not to shift its embassy to occupied Jerusalem. It has warned if Costa Rica implements its decision, Pakistan will sever its diplomatic relations with it.

A Foreign Office spokesman said in Islamabad today that Costa Rica's decision has deeply grieved Pakistan and that it has violated the UN Security Council's resolution and the UN Charter.

Radio Pakistan's diplomatic correspondent says that in accordance with the decision of the Islamic Conference, it is obligatory on the part of all member countries of the organization to sever their diplomatic relations with countries who shift their diplomatic missions to Jerusalem.

Referring to Zaire's decision to reestablish relations with Israel, the Foreign Office spokesman said that this decision is contrary to the feelings of the African people and African nations' solidarity with Arab brethren. This type of decision will encourage Israel's expansionist and hegemonistic ambitions. The spokesman said that Pakistan hoped that Zaire would reconsider its decision and rescind it.

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. In the name of God, the crusher of the oppressors. Mohammad, the prophet of God, and those who follow him are harsh with the enemy but merciful among themselves. [Koranic verse] God's blessings to the great prophet of God, saviour of men and his glorious Be'that [date Mecca was captured]; God's blessings to the marty-nurturing and Muslim nation of Islam; God's blessings to Khorramshahr, this bloodstained city, the liberation of which is a prelude to the liberation of Jerusalem from the claws of the Zionist usurpers; God's blessings to the victorious combatants of the corps of Islam who with the love of God and following the commands of their leader Khomeyni, attack the enemy and bring victory and honor to Islam.

The courageous and Muslim nation of Islam, the much-suffered and steadfast people of Iran, greetings to you. Greetings to you the families of the martyrs, you legends of patience and persistence. Now your patience is bearing fruit and the glory and greatness of your martyrs is apparent.

After 20 months of hard work and effort against worldwide oppression and the aggression of the subservient mercenary, the Zionist Saddam, the nation of Islam, the champion nation of Iran, the combatants of the corps of Iran have succeeded in completely recapturing Khorramshahr, the city of martyrdom, the city of resistance and selflessness.

The self-sacrificing combatants of Islam have captured thousands of duped Ba'thists and, this morning, they continued their advance by moving toward the western entrance of Khorramshahr. After mopping up the western part of the city they finally succeeded in completely recapturing Khorramshahr, the city of legend and blood, this afternoon.

Our brave combatants said adhan [call to prayer] together in the congregational mosque of Khorramshahr and held thanksgiving prayers. At present, the victorious corps of Islam, shouting God is great, is moving through the streets and alleyways of the city and guarding and defending the city.

Blessed be the nation of Islam with God's benediction. Congratulations to the hidden imam and to his just deputy, the great Khomeyni, on this victory. Congratulations to the oppressed people of the world and to the nation of Islam on this victory. Congratulations to the souls of all the martyrs of the Islamic revolution. Congratulations to the dear families of the blood-drenched martyrs who gave their sweet lives to achieve this great victory for Islam.

The great nation of Islam, the champion people of Iran, your courageous children ask all the 36-million-strong nation to hold the dusk to dawn adhan tonight; together, wherever they might be, as a mark of thanks for this great victory and as a prayer to God Almighty. At 2100, after the thanksgiving prayers in the mosques we ask you to shout "God is great" from the rooftops. God is great, the enemies of Islam will be annihilated. God is great, Islam will be victorious.

With hope for the Islamic combatants final victory and the liberation of Jerusalem from the claws of occupying Zionism. With the assistance of God, victory is near.

[Excerpt] In His exalted name. Your Eminence Imam Khomeyni: Your selfless sons have created the greatest epic today on the front of right versus wrong. Oh imam! Today, after 20 months, the cry of victory resounds in Khorramshahr's skies and the high-flying banner of monotheism has been unfurled on this part of the soil of the Islamic nation.

Oh mentor and trailblazer of the combatants of Islam! Your sons today in the throes of complete victory have the greatest need for your prayers. You, who are yourself the leader of the caravan of these soldiers of the imam, may your eyes and heart be more and more enlightened with this victory and the future victories.

AFP Cites KEYHAN

NC241434 Paris AFP in English 1424 GMT 24 May 82

[Excerpts] Tehran, 24 May (AFP) -- Iranian troops entered Khorramshahr early today and liberated the southern oil port city, occupied 20 months ago by Iraqi forces, Radio Tehran said.

News that Khorramshahr had been freed was announced at 1300 GMT over loudspeakers from mosques throughout Tehran. People in the street immediately began shouting Allaho akbar (God is great), motorists sounded car horns and shots were fired in the air.

In Saturday night's attack the Iranians seized a strategic bridge over the Arayez River about five km (3.5 miles) to the west of Khorramshahr, and then established a base along the Shatt al-'Arab waterway between the town and the Iraqi border, military communiques said.

A bridge built by the Iraqis on the Arvand Rud (the Iranian name for the Shatt al-'Arab) came under heavy Iranian fire, press reports said. The KEYHAN paper's correspondent said the Iraqis were using the bridge to flee the Iranian advance. The bridge is the only link between Iraqi troops encircled in Khorramshahr and Iraqi territory.

The paper also reported that the Iraqis had placed thousands of mines and booby-traps around the city but that most of these had been neutralised by the Iranians.

The paper's correspondent said that on Sunday night Iraqi troops in the city were told over loudspeakers to surrender, otherwise they would be "wiped out."

Iraqi People Urged To Act

[Unattributed commentary]

[Text] Oh nation of Mohammad, may God have peace on him. A decisive round in the conflict between Islam and infidelity has ended with the victory of great Islam and the defeat of infidelity, and Satan and his surrogates. The city of Khorramshahr has been liberated and the banner of "There is no god but God" is flying high once again in the skies of Khorramshahr. Saddam of Baghdad and his masters have wagered a great deal on this city and viewed it as the beginning of their power and might. They threw most of their forces into the battle for the city and called on their devils in the region to come to Satan's rescue. However, Almighty God was awaiting them and their designs backfired. God has given His support to the believers.

Oh Muslims everywhere! Always follow reports of the victories forged by the soldiers of Islam, the soldiers of God's messenger, may God have peace on him. Spread the news of these victories and watch the suspect moves of the ruler of Egypt and the stooges of the United States which will use them to halt the escalating victorious Islamic tide. Be confident that these stooges are incapable of extinguishing God's light with their breath, and God will perfect His light, though the unbelievers be averse. [Koranic verse]

Oh Muslim peoples of the region! The stooges will try to make you believe that Islam is a threat to you [words indistinct] that the threat comes from the arch-Satan the United States. As for the victorious Islamic state of Iran, strength merely increases its respect for the rights of Muslims and its ability to defend these rights. The Islamic Republic is the state of the Koran, the state of God's messenger, may God's peace be upon him. Therefore, it protects every Muslim and does not inflict any harm on any Muslim.

Oh Muslim people of Iraq! It is time for you to arise [words indistinct], the devil, Saddam. Oh our kinfolk, know that if you do not act to express yourself, the arch-Satan, the United States, will impose on you another enemy, worse than Saddam. Declare your word, clear and resounding. Saddam must receive his just punishment. We only want the Koran's rule and the banner of Islam. It is a struggle until the devil, all devils, are overthrown.

[Text] Oh Muslims everywhere! Oh nation of Mohammad, may God have peace on him and his scion. God has favored us with victory in a new round in our conflict against infidelity. Khorramshahr has been freed from the desecration of infidelity, and the soldiers of Islam have entered it and held thanksgiving prayers to Almighty God in its congregation mosque. The soldiers of Islam are now tightening Islam's grip on the city. The chants of "God is great, victory for Islam" reverberate throughout the city.

Oh Muslims everywhere! The designs of the arch-Satan, the United States, and his plots against the Islamic state have not ended because he feels that his end is near. We see that the United States was compelled to expose some of its agents' cards when it revealed the close relationship between the agent Husni Mubarak and Saddam. This reveals the extent of the United States' exasperation in the face of the determination and steadfastness of the soldiers of Islam. Oh Muslims, be vigilant and foil the arch-Satan's attempts. Rest assured that Almighty God is with us, because the next round will be more painful to infidelity than this blow, God willing.

Victory comes only from God. God is great; God is great. Victory is for Islam.

12,000 Iraqis Captured

[Text] Khuninshahr, 24 May (IRNA) -- The number of Iraqi POWs captured in today's operation in the city has so far reached 12,000 as the Iranian combatants tighten their control on the city and are becoming closer to liberating the city. The enemy forces are surrendering themselves in large groups to the Iranian forces. Reports indicate that a large number of Iraqi tanks and modern vehicles have been taken intact by the Islamic forces.

Joint Staff Communique 922

[Communique No 922 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Oh God, You have fulfilled Your promise when You said, "if you assist God, God will assist you." [Koranic verse] At the moment, your triumphant and proud forces have raised the banner of Islam in Khorramshahr. Oh God, the fighters of Islam have found eternal honor and felicity in the light of jihad in the path of God and in the light of defending Islam. In order to safeguard the religion of Mohammad they will continue their jihad until they are able to release Islam from the bloody claws of world devourers and the archcriminals of the East and the West and until they are able to come to the assistance of your pure religion throughout the world.

Oh God, in the sparks which have been manifested as the result of our war against Saddam, we see the vile palaces of world arrogance which are trembling because of Islam. We are determined to hoist the banner of the Islam of Mohammad over those palaces. Oh God, in every step that we take we need Your assistance so that, like before, You may assist us with your divine assistance so that we may follow the path of truth and so that we may destroy falsehood.

Felicitations on the liberation of Khorramshahr, the city of blood and martyrdom, to the remnant of God [the hidden imam], may God hasten his glad advent, and to the imam of the nation, the great Khomeyni. Felicitations for this great victory to the pure souls of the martyrs of Islam, to all the heroic and struggling Iranian people and to all the oppressed and deprived people of the world.

Today, simultaneously with the great victory and the liberation of Khorramshahr, in addition to the ground operations of the heroic Islamic forces in this region, the brave pilots of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Airborne Division greatly assisted their fighting brothers by providing them with secure air cover. During today's operations three violating Iraqi planes were downed at 1023, 1027 and 1145 this morning by the fighter planes of the air force guided by the antiaircraft defense of the air force.

Also at 1330 today an enemy concentration position in the Iraqi territory to the west of Kut az-Zayn was bombed by our fighters and the enemy suffered a great deal of losses and casualties. At the moment all our victorious forces are taking up their new positions and are consolidating and strengthening those positions. The evacuation of a large number of Iraqi POW's still continues.

On other battlefronts, our powerful fighters are delivering repeated blows upon the forces of Saddam. The brave personnel of the Gendarmerie of the Islamic Republic of Iran opened fire upon [passage indistinct] of the forces of Saddam were and at least 30 of them were killed.

In the Marivan region, gunfire continues to be exchanged. The artillery fire of our forces stopped enemy movement in the Panjwin and Biarreh regions. Also a number of enemy trenches containing heavy and light weapons were destroyed.

May God's assistance come to the supporters of truth and those who tread the path of God.

Khomeyni Message

LD241908 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 24 May 82

[Message to the nation issued on 24 May by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni "on the occasion of the liberation of Khorramshahr" -- read by announcer]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Expressing my thanks for the telegrams which have been sent to me on the occasion of the liberation of Khorramshahr, I express my unbounded gratitude to Almighty God who has vouchsafed His grace and support for the Islamic country and its committed and self-sacrificing fighters and who bestowed a great victory upon us.

Fully conscious of the fact that "victory only comes from God" [Koranic verse] I thank the children of Islam and the heroic armed forces through whose sleeves the powerful hand of God has revealed itself and has liberated the country of the remnant of God [reference to hidden imam] -- may our lives be a sacrifice to him -- from the clutches of man-devouring wolves who are only tools in the hands of the superpowers, especially world-devouring America, who has also made the beloved Khorramshahr echo with the sound of "God is great" and who has unfurled the proud banner of "There is no god but God" over that verdant city, which was covered with blood at the hands of the archcriminals of the century, giving it the name of Khuninshahr.

Those fighters are above the expressions of gratitude by those such as me. Without doubt they will receive the praise of the savior of humanity and the founder of divine justice throughout the world. They are favored with the verse "you did not shoot when you shot, it was God who shot."

Felicitations, a thousand felicitations, upon you beloved ones and the apples of the eye of Islam for this great victory which was achieved with God's assistance with little loss, with limitless booty, with thousands of deceived POW's and with many wretched killed or wounded who were deceived and dragged toward destruction at the hands of Saddam at-Tikriti, this archcriminal of the world.

With great pride you brought eternal honor to Islam and the beloved homeland. Felicitations to the powerful commanders who commanded such self-sacrificing forces whose victories will shine upon the brow of history until the last day. Felicitations to the great Iranian nation for having such heroic, self-sacrificing children who have made thier names and the name of their country eternal. Felicitations to great Islam for having such followers who triumphantly fight on the two battlefronts, against the hidden enemy and the apparent enemies, and who succeeded in the test and brought honor to Islam.

Now, Oh offspring of the blessed Koran and the military, the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, the Mobilization corps, the gendarmerie, the police, the [Islamic Revolution] Committees, the tribes, the volunteer forces and the dear nation, be careful that the victories, stupendous and amazing though they are, do not make you lose sight of the presence of God, in whose hands lie success and victory, and that arrogance and victory do not lure you, for this is a grave plague and a dangerous trap which come to man with Satan's temptation and which bring destruction to man.

Although I have confidence in every one of you in terms of your commitment to Islam, I must not overlook recalling something of benefit to believers, just as I would not shrink from advising the neighboring and regional states. They know that today, with the conquest of the wronged Khorramshahr, our victorious government and nation are speaking from a position of strength.

I, with them [Iranian Government and nation], assure you that if you desist from blind obedience to America and its associates and treat us in accordance with the injunction of the blessed Koran and Islam you will not see from us anything but good will and support. You should know that the amount of support given by the superpowers to Saddam, this blind servant, will not be granted to you who are small powers and weak states. You have seen for yourselves the fate of this criminal and his criminal colleague, the deposed shah.

The big powers will not support you more than they have to to exploit you. They will drag you to your death in their own interests.

I advise you as a brother not to do anything to force the blessed Koran to ordain an obligation to confront you and for us to treat you in accordance with God's command. You can be certain that those like the Egyptian Husni Mubarak and Jordanian Husayn and their other fellow criminals will be of no benefit to you and that they would destroy your religion and your life on earth.

If in your meetings you try to revive the defunct Camp David or Fahd plans -- something which we regard as a grave danger to the Islamic countries, particularly the two noble shrines -- Islam will not allow us to remain silent.

I have fulfilled my divine obligation to the (?omniscient) God. I will now raise my hands in supplication and prayer toward the one and only creator, and pray for Islam's armed forces, those who are making sacrifices for the blessed Koran and for the dear homeland, Iran; I wish them happiness, health and success. Boundless greetings and salutations to the committed commanders, the armed forces, the selfless combatants and the grave nation and dear Iran. I am filled with happiness. Peace be upon the true servants of God.

Conditions for Peace Restated

LD242254 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 2030 GMT 24 May 82

[Interview with Foreign Minister 'Ali Akbar Velayati on 24 May -- recorded]

[Text] [question indistinct]

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. You know that recently American officials have repeatedly declared that Iran's victory in this war is not in America's interest. We know that the reason for calling together the members of the Gulf Cooperation Council last time was to confront the outcome and consequences of the probable victories of the Islamic Republic of Iran against the forces of Saddam's aggression. As you know, the last session met with defeat. If the motivation behind the convocation of that council is the same, it is clear that once again at America's orders these gentlemen have thrown themselves into a well with Saddam's rope and it is not clear whether they will be rescued from this well.

We recommend they stop these games and realize that America, which has provoked them, did not possess the ability to confront our Muslim people and left the scene in the early days of the revolution.

Saddam possessed the best equipped forces and had the best facilities and necessary capabilities for starting an aggression against Iran; but very soon it was made clear that he, too, did not possess the ability to confront our steadfast forces. Some of the member countries of the Gulf Cooperation Council did all they could during this war, hoping that Saddam might be saved and might be able to continue his aggression. They rendered him a great deal of assistance. Nevertheless, we know how the forces of Saddam are on the verge of destruction and how our forces have achieved great and considerable victories. Therefore, we urge them to be content with their past experiences and step up their actions and move toward the good and the well-being of all Muslims through the unified confrontation of all Muslims against America and Israel. They should know that their interest in the region lies in cooperation and understanding with the Islamic Republic of Iran.

[Question] In view of the considerable victories which have been achieved on the battlefronts by the combatants of Islam and in view of the reports which have been received that Saddam [words indistinct] what are your views on these reports?

[Answer] Ever since the beginning of the war we have often emphasized that in order to achieve peace and in order to end the war, three just conditions should be achieved:

1. The withdrawal of Saddam's aggressive forces from the occupied territories.

2. The payment of war reparations by Saddam to the Islamic Republic of Iran.

3. The punishment of the aggressor, so that in the future no one in the region will dare to start an aggression against someone else's territory.

From the very beginning our attempts have been directed at achieving these conditions. We have also told the mediation teams that if these conditions are not achieved through peaceful means and dialogue we have the ability to achieve these conditions through war. Saddam did not accept our just conditions. Thank God, as the result of the devotion and self-sacrifice of the forces of Islam, the Islamic Republic of Iran has succeeded almost 100 percent in achieving its first condition. We regard ourselves as justified in trying to achieve our other conditions.

The second condition is the payment of reparations by Saddam for the damages we have suffered. The destruction which has been caused by Saddam in the west and south of the country, including Hoveyzeh, has added to his burden for the reparation of damages. What he has done is contrary to all international laws and customs. You know that according to the Hague Convention and the Geneva Convention and in accordance with the practice of international courts such actions are regarded as war crimes. Therefore, the destruction of cities adds to Saddam's burden in the payment of reparations.

The actions he has undertaken against the Islamic Republic of Iran add to his guilt as a war criminal. This shows that our conditions, which are jsut conditions, are the conditions of a country which has been subjected to aggression and which demands that everything is restored to its original state. The whole world knows that we did not in any way start the aggression. Despite the fact that Iran is a powerful country, it has never acted aggressively toward neighboring countries, even very small countries; it has always sought cooperation and understanding with them. In our speeches and statements we have repeatedly stated to our neighbors that we desire good neighborliness.

We repeat that our position against Saddam is a position against an aggressor. In fact, we are defending our Islamic honor, dignity, character and sovereignty. What we are doing is nothing but defense, not an aggression or a violation. Once again, we invite the countries of the region to assist us so that the evil shadow of Saddam's aggressive regime is lifted from our brotherly country of Iraq and so that a government is keeping with and in accordance with the wishes of the Iraqi Muslim nation is established there. They should assist the Iraqi nation to decide its own destiny. They should not link their fate with the fate of the shaky Saddam, who is on the verge of collapse.

May God's peace and blessings be upon you.

Tehran: War Will Expand

GF241931 Tehran International Service in Arabic 1810 GMT 24 May 82

[Unattributed commentary]

[Text] Those who fear for Saddam should wait for the surprise. All doors are closed to him and there is no option left for him other than to escape or commit suicide, as the leader imam has said. We are not about to discuss the fate of this tyrant, for his fate depends on the fate of the war.

The results of the war have begun to become apparent and it has become easy for analysts to predict what awaits Saddam and his allies in the next few days. The soldiers of Islam are resolved to continue the holy war to the end. They have set for themselves a sacred goal for this war: the liberation of Jerusalem. This goal can only be achieved after the (?fall) of capitulatory plans and after the [words indistinct] of reactionary Arab rulers such as Saddam. The liberation of Jerusalem means above all the liberation of the Muslim nation from the shame of Camp David and also from its evil executioners.

Therefore, this war that is being waged by the heroic soldiers of Islam valiantly, and with a high sense of responsibility, is a war of principles. It is not a war for a few inches of land -- it is war against all the tyrants of the region. It is a war against the Camp David policy, against traitorous treaties and capitulatory plans. It is a war against recognition of Israel and against those who try to make themselves a road leading to Tel Aviv. It is a war against Israel and its agents that will only end in Jerusalem.

Today we have embarked on the fourth phase of the Jerusalem Operation. [passage indistinct] Rights can be retrieved only by force of arms. [sentence indistinct] With every day of the war our soldiers become braver, more confident and more determined to liberate every inch of our land. Our heroic people are growing with suffering and pain. Conspiracies make them more confident and optimistic. Wars make them braver and bolder. The ganging up of the evil forces against them make them more zealous and determined in pursuing the right path.

Such a people do not fear wars and do not fear those who support Saddam, but believe that the tax of their freedom and faith is to resist until they achieve victory. When Saddam launched his war against our people, the Imam Khomeyni said: There is good in what happened. It was good, thank God. [passage indistinct] The hope in toppling the tyrant Saddam has been achieved. The hope in recovering the first qibla [Jerusalem] and the third mosque [Al-Aqsa] has been achieved. It is only a matter of time for the fighters. Even time has become a weapon in the hands of [words indistinct]. With every operation [words indistinct] the countdown for Israel [passage indistinct]. Whenever a sword is unsheathed in a new operation the enemy [words indistinct] that this sword will not be sheathed until Jerusalem is liberated.

The flames of this war that was kindled by [word indistinct] Saddam 20 months ago will spread to Palestine. This is what the imperialist circles feared when they referred to the "expansion of the war" when they analyzed the results of the war's (?progress).

Yes, the circle will widen and the fire of war will expand [words indistinct]. It is a war of principles [words indistinct]. The fire that they have kindled will not be extinguished until it burns up all those who were responsible for kindling it.

Yes, the war will expand. This is what the Islamic revolution has decided. This is what our valiant soldiers, who are fighting in defense of principles, have decided. The war will expand to include all those who have supported and assisted Saddam. It will expand until no tyrant like Saddam who oppresses the people will remain. The war will expand to also include Israel and the parties to Camp David so that no shame will remain in the Islamic homeland. Saddam is asking the agents for help and support. This is the point of no return. They chose this path when they declared their treacherous aggression against the Islamic Republic. Everyone who helps this agent will be choosing the same path. The days are passing fast like nightmares for Saddam. The Iraqi Army is choosing the path of freedom in favor of the chains of enslavement to the rulers of Baghdad. It prefers captivity to the shame of [words indistinct] tyranny.

The road appears to be short. God is with the soldiers of Islam because they are fighting [words indistinct]. It is a picture of the usurped land returning to those who have lived on its soil. It is a picture of the return of Jerusalem to Islam. It is a picture of the fall of the stooge of imperialism, Saddam. These are not dreams. What is being achieved today by the heroes was a dream yesterday. Who would have believed that unarmed people could fight a mighty army armed to the teeth? [Words indistinct] let them have faith in the strength of this people, because this strength comes from God.

Capture Celebrated

LD251046 Tehran IRNA in English 0904 GMT 25 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 25 May (IRNA) -- Khorramshahr, the city of devotion and sacrifice, Monday was liberated after 40 days of fighting in a 20-month war between the army of truth with the forces of falsehood. The city embraced the first group of Islamic combatants amidst fire and smoke about noon on Monday.

The Iranian TV network broadcast every stage of the liberation of the city late last night and showed an enormous amount of Iraqi POWs who had surrendered themselves to the army of Islam and handed over their arms shouting "Allaho akbar" and "Islam is victorious".

The triumphant forces held a thanksgiving prayer at the city's jam' mosque at noon. Khorramshahr came under complete control of the Iranian forces in the evening but a number of areas, mine-planted by the Iraqi Ba'thists, were declared as prohibited zones.

The television also screened an Iraqi helicopter being downed by the fire of the Iranian Ground Forces.

A number of Iraqi troops drowned in the nearby Shatt al-'Arab river as they frantically tried to escape. Several bodies were found entrapped in the barbed wire in the river which they themselves planted. It is said that the number of Iraqi POWs captured during Monday's operations exceeded 11,000 and all available vehicles were used for their transfer.

Iraqi forces completely ruined the city's downtown and destroyed other parts during their 578 days of occupation.

The broadcast also included several reports on people's jubilation nationwide on the liberation of Khorramshahr. In Tehran hundreds of thousands of people marked the victory by holding a massive march through Tehran's streets shouting "Allaho akbar". Car horns were sounded and car head lights flashed as people offered each other candies and fruit. While shedding tears of happiness for such a great victory of the Islamic forces, people hoped to hold similar celebrations in Jerusalem.

Iranians residing in Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates and Qatar held celebrations on the same occasion shouting slogans such as "Death to the U.S." and "Death to Saddam".

Meanwhile the Lebanese press gave full coverage to Iran's victory in liberating Khorramshahr Monday. The daily AS-SAFIR wrote that Iraq had confessed on Iran's recent offensive and the intensity of the fight in Khorramshahr. [sentence as received] Another Lebanese newspaper, AN-NAHAR, reported that Iranian forces had reached Shatt al-'Arab and had said their afternoon prayers there.

Muslims residing in southern Lebanon, upon hearing the triumph of the Islamic combatants, distributed pamphlets on the recent developments of the Muslim forces in the Iraqi imposed war.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

26 MAY 1982

Lebanon

In a statement broadcast by Damascus radio, a Syrian military spokesman confirmed that two Syrian aircraft were hit in a dogfight with Israeli planes over Lebanon. One was downed over Kisrawan after intercepting an Israeli plane reconnoitering the Syrian SAM's in the Al-Biqa' Valley, according to Voice of Lebanon radio. However, Israeli Chief of Staff Lt Gen Refa'el Eytan denied that the Israeli aircraft had been overflying the missile sites. Speaking in an IDF radio interview, Eytan said the Syrians had not understood previous Israeli warnings that flights over Lebanon fulfill Israel's legitimate needs and that the Syrians will not prevent Israel from carrying out such flights.

The two Syrian pilots, who had parachuted onto the territory of the Christian Lebanese Front, were subsequently handed over to the Syrian military, according to Voice of Lebanon. In remarks broadcast by the radio, the front's military commander, Shaykh Bashir al-Jumayyil, said that since his forces have now twice returned Syrian pilots to their command, the Syrians should respond by releasing Lebanese youths who have been held in Syrian prisons for 5 years. The Lebanese Front will contact the Syrians to discuss the subject, he said.

Syria

Arrival of Ceausescu, Arkhipov -- Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu arrived in Damascus on an official visit at the invitation of President Hafiz al-Asad, Damascus radio reported. The radio said official talks began a few hours later. In a subsequent report, the radio noted the arrival in Damascus of Ivan Arkhipov, first deputy chairman of the USSR Council of Ministers, who is on a 3-day visit to Syria. Arkhipov, who is heading a USSR delegation, later held talks with a Syrian delegation headed by Foreign Minister 'Abd al-Halim Khaddam, Damascus television reported. The talks focused on the international situation and bilateral relations, the television said.

Al-Asad Speech -- The Arabs are facing increasing U.S. pressure to accept the "Zionist and colonialist invasion" in the region as a means of imposing U.S. hegemony, President al-Asad declared in a speech carried by Damascus radio. Speaking at a dinner held in honor of Romanian President Ceausescu, Al-Asad contended that the United States is trying to bring the region under U.S. military and economic control by surrounding it with U.S. bases and military forces. He said the United States is gradually becoming one of the direct parties in the Arab-Israeli dispute through its strategic cooperation agreement with Israel and by its efforts to impose the Camp David strategy on some Arab countries. While giving all kinds of assistance to Israel at the expense of Arab territories, the United States offers the Arab states only vague promises and ambiguous talk about its efforts for peace in the region, Al-Asad asserted.

Israel

Begin on Autonomy Talks, Iraqi Reactor -- The autonomy negotiations will take place in Jerusalem, Cairo and Washington -- "in that order," Prime Minister Menahem Begin said in remarks reported by the Jerusalem POST. If someone tries to boycott Jerusalem, Jerusalem will boycott him, and if someone tries to pressure us, we will pressure back, Begin added. According to Jerusalem radio, Begin also disclosed that Israel decided to destroy Iraq's nuclear reactor because the Iraqis had prepared three atomic bombs which could have killed 600,000 Israelis.

Sharon-Weinberger Talks -- After meeting with U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger in Washington, Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon announced that Weinberger will visit Israel later this year, Jerusalem radio reported. Noting that the memorandum of understanding on strategic cooperation had not been discussed, Sharon said he had raised three major problems facing Israel: Arab terrorism, the coalition of Iraq, Jordan, Saudi Arabia and Egypt, which may obtain U.S. support; and the supply of sophisticated weapons to Arab countries.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Military Situation -- Iranian artillery fire partially destroyed and set on fire Iraqi oil installations on the west bank of the Shatt al-'Arab, Tehran radio reported. According to an armed forces communique carried by the radio, three Iraqi planes were shot down in the Khorramshahr and Abadan area. The communique also said four Iraqi planes had been shot down on 24 May.

Majlis Speaker's Remarks -- Majlis Speaker 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani warned Muslim countries in the region that although Iran has no designs on their territory, it would not forego its rights at any cost, IRNA reported. He emphasized that Iran's greatest right is the overthrow of the Iraqi president.

Mubarak Denial -- In response to questions from foreign journalists, Egyptian President Husni Mubarak denied that Egypt has dispatched troops to Iraq, Cairo radio reported. Declaring that there are no Egyptian troops outside the country, Mubarak said Egypt is only providing ammunition to Iraq. He added, however, that Egypt is following the situation with interest.

Iraqi Radio Commentary -- Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio said in a commentary on the war that the duty of Iraqis is now to prevent the enemy from entering their territory. Claiming that Iraqi withdrawals and changes of position were not due to military defeat or losses but rather were linked to the objectives of the war, the radio said Iraq does not desire to remain in any particular position but seeks the best way to protect its soldiers. Flexibility in military movement, while safeguarding Iraq's territory, is an element of strength not weakness, the radio asserted. The commentary also claimed that Syria and Libya encouraged the Iranians to continue the war and provided Iran with military and economic support that has enabled it to continue fighting.

Iraqi Contacts With Jordan, PDRY -- Iraqi President Saddam Husayn praised Jordanian support for Iraq in a cable of congratulations to King Husayn on the occasion of Jordan's National Day, INA reported. Meanwhile, an Iraqi envoy arrived in Aden bearing a message for PDRY leader 'Ali Nasir Muhammad dealing with the dangers posed to the region, according to INA.

Afghanistan

Karmal in USSR -- The DRA delegation to the GDR returned to Kabul without President Babrak Karmal, who is staying in the Soviet Union for "medical treatment," Kabul radio's Urdu service reported.

No-Confidence Vote -- A motion of no-confidence was passed against Karmal at a recent PDPA meeting in Kabul, the Pakistani paper NAWA-I-WAQT reported on 18 May, citing informed Afghan sources. The paper said the PDPA called for the appointment of Prime Minister Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand to be head of state. It also claimed that Soviet leaders are dissatisfied with Karmal's performance.

Libya

At a meeting with African ambassadors in Tripoli, Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi warned that African states that resume relations with Israel will forfeit economic assistance and will be fought economically and politically, JANA reported.

KARMAL IN USSR FOR MEDICAL TREATMENT

GF251441 Kabul in Urdu to South Asia 1330 GMT 25 May 82

[Text] According to a news report, members of the Afghan delegation, which was led by Babrak Karmal, the secretary general of the People's Democratic Party of Afghanistan and chairman of the Revolutionary Council of the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan, and was visiting the German Democratic Republic, returned to Kabul today.

Babrak Karmal has remained in the Soviet Union for medical treatment.

NUR AHMAD NUR COMMENTS ON VISIT TO GDR

LD252210 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 25 May 82

[Text] The members of the high-ranking DRA party and government delegation who accompanied Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and chairman of the DRA Revolutionary Council, on an official and friendly visit to the GDR, returned to Kabul this afternoon. Babrak Karmal has stayed in the Soviet capital, Moscow, for medical tests.

The high-ranking party and government delegation was welcomed at Kabul International Airport by members of the Politburo and secretaries of the PDPA Central Committee, members of the PDPA Central Committee, members of the Council of Ministers, members of the Revolutionary Council, high-ranking state officials, the charge d'affaires of the GDR Embassy in Kabul and the minister plenipotentiary of the Soviet Embassy in Kabul.

Nur Ahmad Nur, member of the Politburo and secretary of the PDPA Central Committee, answered questions by a BAKHTAR correspondent on arrival. He said: During the visit to the GDR, Babrak Karmal and the high-ranking DRA party and government delegation were warmly welcomed by party and state officials and hundreds of thousands of that country's toiling people.

Nur Ahmad Nur added that during this official and friendly visit, the DRA delegation met and held useful talks with GDR party and government officials, visited a number of GDR organizations and got familiar with the achievements of the GDR under the leadership of the Socialist Unity Party of Germany [SED], and in particular Erich Honecker, general secretary of the SED Central Committee and chairman of the GDR Council of State.

Nur Ahmad Nur said: During this visit the high award of international friendship was presented to Babrak Karmal by Erich Honecker and at the end of their official meeting a joint communique and an agreement of friendship and cooperation were signed. The presentation of the award and the exchange of documents between the two countries is an important event in the strengthening of friendly relations between the parties, states and people of the two friendly countries.

Nur Ahmad Nur added: The warm and friendly welcome of the people of the GDR to the high-ranking DRA party and state delegation is a sign of deep friendship and internationalism in relations between the two parties, states and people and [words indistinct] respect of the GDR party, state and people for the DRA party, state and people.

BAKHTAR COMMENTS ON DELEGATION'S VISIT TO GDR

LD250912 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0459 GMT 25 May 82

[Text] Kabul, 23 May (BAKHTAR) -- Regarding the fruitful results of the visit of high-ranking party and state delegation of the DRA headed by Babrak Karmal to the German Democratic Republic, the political observer of BAKHTAR information agency writes:

The friendly and official visit of a high-ranking party and state delegation of the DRA headed by Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA CC and president of the Revolutionary Council of the DRA, to the German Democratic Republic and the rousing and historical welcome given to them testify to the fact that revolutionary Afghanistan enjoys a magnificent position among peaceful and progressive nations of the world.

GDR as one of the peace-loving and advanced countries of the world has traditional friendly and fraternal relations with the people of Afghanistan.

The Socialist Unity Party of Germany, the State Council and the people of GDR have expressed their decisive and fraternal solidarity with the people of Afghanistan for the safeguard of the gains of April Revolution and in the struggle against counter-revolutionary elements who have been armed to teeth by imperialism, hegemonism and the reaction of the region and who plunderously continue an undeclared war against the people of Afghanistan.

The results of the discussions of Babrak Karmal with Erich Honecker gave rise to the further development and consultation of the friendly and fraternal relations in various fields between the parties, governments and the people of the two countries, further enriched these ties and promoted it to a higher level.

At a reception in honour of the high-ranking delegation of the DRA in Berlin, Babrak Karmal said:

"Our visit to your country is a new step in the attainment and development of fraternal relations of the highest order between DRA and GDR which have begun with the victory of April Revolution, especially its new evolutionary phase.

This visit once again showed that both the countries have identical views and similar stances towards the most urgent task in the present epoch, that is, towards the struggle for the preservation of peace and against anti-peace forces.

Stressing upon the unshakability of relations, Erich Honecker [words indistinct] of Afghanistan, has supported and assisted it. He reiterated once more the consistent position adopted by the GDR towards Afghanistan. Erich Honecker in his speech strongly denounced the undeclared war waged by imperialism and other reactionary forces and stressed the need for the political solution of the conditions around Afghanistan, cessation of the armed interferences in the internal affairs of Afghanistan and the implementation of the peace proposals of May 14, 1980, and August 1981.

The identity of views of the two countries as regards ensuring peace and security and in the struggle against imperialism, hegemonism and reaction and all other factors endangering the cause of peace and stability in Asia, Europe and all over the world testifies to the fact that the DRA and GDR are placed side by side in the arena of international policy.

The signing of the treaty of friendship and cooperation between the DRA and GDR and the signing of several agreements on cooperation between the parties and governments of both the countries have raised the mutual relations of the two countries to a higher level. One can name here the agreement on cooperation between the PDPA and the Socialist Unity Party of Germany for the year 1982, the agreements on cooperation in industrial and economic spheres and the agreement on the practical programme of cooperation in the public health sector for the years 1982-1983.

These agreements undoubtedly provide the opportunities for the DRA to take advantage of the experiences and the friendly and (?disinterested) cooperation of GDR.

It should be pointed out that the relations between the two countries had begun to develop much earlier than the signing of these agreements.

The DRA and GDR had already signed a number of agreements after the April Revolution and especially in its new revolutionary phase for the training of party and state cadres, award of scholarships and other agreements in different fields the effects of which had already promoted the relations of DRA-GDR to a higher level.

The DRA holds in high esteem the assistance and the gratis aid extended by the GDR in the times of urgent need.

Babrak Karmal and Erich Honecker expressed their deep satisfaction for the positive results gained from their mutual discussions and stated that this visit had played a valuable and prominent role in further consolidating the friendly relations and close ties between the parties, governments and the peoples of the two countries.

The relations between the two countries which constitute an important factor for promoting peace will be ever further enriched as a result of the recent visit of the high-ranking party and state delegation of the DRA to GDR.

KESHTMAND ADDRESSES KABUL PARTY MEETING

LD240650 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 23 May 82

[Excerpt] A seminar for teachers of party educational courses opened this morning in Kabul.

Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand, member of the PDPA Central Committee Politburo and chairman of the Council of Ministers, addressed the meeting and said:

Our party, the PDPA, the party of martyrs, has always been directed by scientific and epoch-making progressive theory and has been founded on the basis of scientific theory; has developed and has organized its general and current policy on those bases, and after passing through ups and downs in the past has achieved several big successes.

Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand spoke about the properties of the revolutionary party in this new life, the importance of scientific and revolutionary theory and the organizational structure of a worker's party, and added: Revolutionary and progressive parties will base all different and difficult phases of the struggle on revolutionary theory, before and after victory. A working class party, in its prerevolution conditions of covert and semicovert struggle, and also after the victory for the construction of new society, will be directed on the bases of this theory.

The chairman attached importance to the role of propaganda and circulation of progressive ideas among the people and masses, and spoke about the ways of teaching revolutionary cadres, and militant members of the PDPA, in the conditions before the April Revolution and the importance of the Khalq and Parcham journals, the PDPA Central Committee organs, in the circulation of the progressive thinking of time. Khalq and Parcham journals, as propagators of revolutionary theory, have performed their important role.

Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand described the unbreakable link between patriotism and the party and said: Revolutionaries loyal to the revolutionary theory and with strict belief in progressive ideology will never forget the interests of the world's workers and are [words indistinct] to the workers' movement, observe in practice the important conditions of loyalty to revolutionary theory, take into consideration the golden principle of democratic centralism and loyalty to internationalism in relation with fraternal parties and are firmly loyal to it.

He added: Our revolution and homeland is faced with an undeclared war by imperialism and reaction; therefore, it is up to us to defend our revolution and the vital interests of our people. Of course, this work is not possible without extensive propaganda and publicity work among the party militants and the millions of toiling masses in our country.

Giving necessary advice to the instructors of party educational courses concerning publicity and propaganda among the ranks of the party and the masses of the people, Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand said: The truth of the April Revolution and its tasks and aspirations need to be described to the people. And, by way of publicity and propaganda work, attract the trust of the masses in building a new, prosperous and blossoming society.

Recalling the importance of the PDPA national conference and changes in the charter of the party, Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand added: The conference documents are, by themselves, a great source of learning for all. But, however, the study of progressive and revolutionary documents and the development of political awareness and political learning and the understanding of the experience of other countries and the socialist fraternal parties is an important and necessary matter.

PDPA'S RATEBZAD LEAVES FOR VISIT TO HUNGARY

LD231956 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 23 May 82

[Text] Dr Anahita Ratebzad, member of the PDPA Central Committee Politburo, chairman of the DRA Peace, Solidarity and Friendship Organization and chairman of the Democratic Women's Organization, left Kabul at the head of a delegation visiting Budapest at the invitation of the Hungarian Women's Organization.

Dr Anahita Ratebzad and the accompanying delegation were seen off at Kabul airport by Dr Najib, member of the PDPA Central Committee Politburo; Mahmud Barialay, candidate member of the Politburo and secretary of the PDPA Central Committee; Niaz Mohammad Momand, secretary of the PDPA Central Committee; members of the DRA Peace, Solidarity and Friendship Organization; and members of the Democratic Women's Organization.

During her stay in the People's Republic of Hungary, Dr Ratebzad will visit this country's women's organization and will hold talks with the respective authorities about broadening cooperation between the peace, solidarity and friendship organizations; and the Democratic Women's Organization with its counterpart organizations in Hungary.

ARREST OF BRITISH ARCHAEOLOGIST ANNOUNCED

LD251834 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1600 GMT 25 May 82

["Announcement by the DRA security authorities" -- date not given]

[Text] The April Revolution not only put an end to the rule of reactionaries in the country but also maintained the right of the people of our homeland to keep the natural wealth and the historical assets of their homeland as their rightful inheritors.

It is no coincidence that world-devouring imperialism and its local servants who for many years were in the habit of plundering the country's riches and treasures and transferring them to the galleries, banks and museums in the West, wholeheartedly opposed our revolution and tried to act against it with all means at their disposal, including waging an undeclared war and armed provocation and employing spies and their agents under various names, for the prupose of reviving and continuing their past privileges and plundering.

British subject Ralph Pinder-Wilson, who since 1976 has pretended to be an Afghanologist working under the so-called Afghan Studies Institute in Kabul but who served the interests of British imperialism, was arrested by the DRA security authorities on 23 March 1982 and charged with the unlawful transfer of valuable national historical treasures, activities contrary to his duties undermining the agreements which he himself signed and (?encouraging) people to escape from the country.

Making use of the diplomatic immunity of the British Embassy, Pinder-Wilson also sent to the British museum, illegally and without the permission of the DRA authorities, a number of historical [word indistinct] from excavations in Qandahar Province which were discovered as a result of the work of the archeological mission. In addition, Mr Pinder-Wilson illegally collected a number of relics of historical and cultural value with the cooperation of a citizen of another Western country, and transferred them abroad through a member of the aforementioned embassy by making use of his diplomatic immunity.

It is brought to the attention of our compatriots that the enemies of the prosperity and well-being of the people of Afghanistan interfere in our country's internal affairs by various means and methods; on one occasion Margaret Thatcher encouraged and instigated Afghan fugitives in Pakistan to engage in subversion and terrorism. On another occasion she sent her spies disguised as (?Islamologists) and archeologists for subversive activities against our dear homeland. We are confident that these kinds of vain efforts and subversions will not create the least problem and obstacle to the process of strengthening our national-democratic revolution.

GANDHI COMMENTS ON STATE ELECTION RESULTS

BK251609 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 26 May 82

[Text] In an interview with PTI Mrs Gandhi has said that the results of last week's elections to four state assemblies do not in any way amount to a defeat of the Congress-I as contended by opposition parties. She said that in many places the Congress-I has done much better than expected. While she is not entirely satisfied with the results, Mrs Gandhi said it should be noted that the opposition parties have combined with the sole aim of defeating a party.

Asked if she thought the election outcome was a vindication of the policies followed by her government, Mrs Gandhi replied that, unfortunately, voting in the state elections is not entirely on the basis of policies.

On the postelection developments in Haryana, Mrs Gandhi said that many candidates elected as independents originally belonged to her party and have rejoined it.

LEFT FRONT MINISTRY FORMED IN WEST BENGAL

BK260806 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0730 GMT 26 May 82

[Text] A five-member left front ministry in West Bengal headed by Jyoti Basu was sworn in this morning. State Governor B.D. Pandey administered the oath of office and secrecy to Basu and his four Cabinet colleagues to constitute the first batch of left front ministry. A large number of distinguished personalities, High Court judges, members of Parliament and members of diplomatic corps graced the ceremony.

The four ministers sworn in along with Basu are Krishna Pada Ghosh of Communist Party of India-Marxist, Kanai Lal Bhattacharyya of forward bloc, Jatin Chakravorty of Revolutionary Socialist Party, (Kanai Bhowmik) of Communist Party of India. The second batch of ministers will be sworn in next week.

AGREEMENT SIGNED ON SAUDI CRUDE OIL DELIVERIES

BK221612 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 22 May 82

[Text] India is to get 2 million tons of crude oil from Saudi Arabia between June next and December 1984. This was announced by Petroleum Secretary Navraj Kumar at a news conference in New Delhi this afternoon. He said this is the first long-term agreement with any oil-exporting country and is a direct result of the prime minister's recent visit to Saudi Arabia.

Kumar said that the agreement was signed in Riyadh today. Besides the long-term agreement with the Saudi Government, India will also import 1.4 million tons of crude in the current year from a U.S. company based in that country.

MOSCOW AGREES TO LAUNCH ANOTHER INDIAN SATELLITE

BK220935 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 22 May 82

[Text] The Soviet Union which put into orbit three Indian-made satellites during the past few years is to launch another Indian-built satellite in the mid-1980's. An agreement to this effect was signed in Moscow yesterday between a team of Indian experts led by Dr Satish Dhawan and a Soviet space agency.

NWFP COUNCIL CONSIDERS LAW, ORDER REPORT

BK241144 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 24 May 82

[Excerpts] Five hundred conciliation courts will be set up in the Northwest Frontier Province to provide speedy justice to the people at the local level. This was announced by Provincial Governor Lt Gen Fazle Haq while inaugurating the 4-day session of the provincial council in Abottabad today. He said powers of these courts would rest with the local councils.

A comprehensive report on the law and order situation in the province was submitted to the council. It stated that the law and order situation in the province was satisfactory and that there was only five detainees in the province including two whose movements were restricted to their residences.

The report says that the developments across the northwestern border had created problems in respect of the performance of the law-enforcing agencies. A good number of trained persons were sent from across the border for subversive and terrorist activities. In spite of practical difficulties, the government had been able to apprehend them.

About the murder of Arbab Sikander Khan Khalil, a former NWFP governor, the report stated that investigations in this case had been completed and its legal aspects were being reviewed. The investigation report would be submitted in the court of law soon. With the court proceedings, the report says, it is expected that all rumours about the case would automatically end.

Later, the council began discussion on the report.

BALUCHISTAN BORDER RESIDENTS TO RECEIVE ARMS

GF251300 Karachi DAWN in English 22 May 82 p 4

[Text] Larkana, May 21 -- The government will provide licences, arms and ammunition for the self-defence village scheme to the deserving people living near the borders of Baluchistan and hills, where culprits operate frequently. The divisional commissioner, Sukkur, Syed Mohibullah Shah, said in an open kutchery here at Warah recently that these facilities would be extended to people of good character who could help eliminate the menace of anti-social elements. Observing that incidents of crimes had declined, he, however, asked people to be vigilant.

He also gave an assurance that the girls school, Warah, would be upgraded. He asked people to give education to girls, and said local councillors could play a vital role in this regard.

Earlier, Syed Mohibullah Shah visited the police station, Warah, where he was shown the record of property of Ghazi Kohawar robbery.

He also inspected the rural health centre and gave an assurance for providing more medicines and facilities for the patients.

Later, the commissioner visited boys' primary school, Warah, and donated six water-coolers to the school. -- APP.

DAWN URGES RESUMPTION OF NO-WAR PACT TALKS

GF211216 Karachi DAWN in English 17 May 82 p 7

[Editorial: "First Thing First"]

[Text] The Pakistan foreign minister's statement on his return from his foreign tour confirms the government's continued interest in concluding a non-aggression agreement with India. Although Mrs. Gandhi's government has tried to place on Pakistan the onus of the breakdown in negotiations between the two countries, Islamabad's keenness to resume talks on a no-war pact is quite obvious. Ever since the officials-level talks scheduled for early March were called off at India's behest, Pakistan has repeatedly invited the Indian Government to send its representative for negotiations on the subject. It was only last week that Indian sources indicated that Mrs. Gandhi would soon be responding to Pakistan's offer. It is important that Islamabad and New Delhi resume their interrupted dialogue without a delay so that the process of normalisation of relations is continued and talks regarding a non-aggression agreement are revived.

The deteriorating political environment in South-West Asia adds urgency to the need for promoting an Indo-Pakistan detente. This is essential to remove the suspicions and misgivings which have vitiated relations between the two countries for nearly three decades and also to prevent new misunderstandings from cropping up. It is a matter of serious concern that the present communication gap between India and Pakistan has only helped to create fresh misunderstandings on issues which should have been amicably sorted out if the dialogue had not been discontinued.

The controversy over the interpretation of the Simla Agreement and the Kashmir dispute has already made its impact felt on the negotiating process. It could have aggravated tensions between the two countries had Pakistan failed to exercise restraint. Thus, Mrs. Gandhi's allegations that Pakistan has backed out of the Simla Agreement can hardly be described as being very helpful.

And now to emerge as a major issue is the treaty of peace and friendship, which was mentioned in passing by the Indian prime minister in her meeting with Pakistani journalists in January last. Mrs. Gandhi is seeking to create an impression as if she had formally proposed a treaty of friendship with Pakistan, when nothing of the sort actually came up for discussion between the two governments. Moreover, to talk of a treaty of peace and friendship at this stage is highly premature. Objective conditions for such a treaty do not exist as yet.

The no-war pact, if it is concluded, could create the necessary trust and confidence without which friendship agreements can only prove to be an exercise in futility. The non-aggression pact proposed by Pakistan would entail a commitment to renounce the use of force in settling disputes. This is central to a friendship treaty, too. Hence, a non-aggression pact can in effect be the first step towards a friendship treaty provided the two parties display the statesmanship and political will required to conclude such an agreement.

Without a resumption of the dialogue, it would not be possible for India and Pakistan to set up the joint commission proposed by Mrs. Gandhi, in which both have shown an interest. Last week, the Indian prime minister revived the idea of a joint commission and Sahabzada Yaqub's statement underlines Pakistan's interest in the proposal. It is to be hoped that the two governments will proceed to discuss the terms of reference, composition and frequency of meetings of the commission. But if the two sides decide to proceed with the establishment of the commission, there is no reason why the dialogue on the more important issue of a no-war pact should not be taken simultaneously. There has already been a meeting of minds between them on the need for concluding such a pact for regional peace and security. It is important to build on this initial measure of understanding that has already been arrived at, rather than dissipate it by allowing a meaningless controversy to develop over procedural and peripheral issues.

GROUND FORCE CHIEF DESCRIBES JERUSALEM OPERATION

GF251647 Ahvaz Domestic Service in Persian 1330 GMT 25 May 82

[Speech by Ground Forces Commander Colonel Seyyed-Shirazi, during thanksgiving ceremonies in Ahvaz, date not given -- recorded]

[Excerpts] The battle took place over more than 20 days, and the Almighty bestowed another blessing on the fighters of Islam against the forces of infidels. What was the blessing? It was something that we did not have up to then. We, until now, did not have the ability to fight more than a few days [at a time]. In this ceaseless battle which lasted for over 20 days, it was proved otherwise. At all points we attacked the enemy, we destroyed it. Where the enemy attacked us, in its counteroffensives, it was destroyed. We have repeatedly witnessed such scenes. We, those in charge of the war, have been so busy that we did not have the opportunity to send you more messages or talk to you a lot. Right now, we are anxious to return to our posts quickly. However, I wanted to talk about the entire operation for you brothers and sisters today.

The operation was in three great phases. During the first phase the greatest war technique was practiced. The world should study this technique for months if it wants to learn a lesson from it. It involved crossing a river which is over 200 meters wide; a river that was our obstacle in attacking the enemy. We crossed this river in one night. The Almighty again showed His glory to us, the glory of the road that, should we travel more purely, will lead us to greater victories. God willing, we shall become more pure every day on the road of battle for God.

Five bridges were used in the crossing as well as boats and flotillas -- purchased at very high prices during the idolatrous times; they were unable to use them and they were ordered back to Tehran during the time of the accursed Bani-Sadr -- we brought them from Tehran. These combatants of yours formed a company called Zafar in one week and immediately used the flotillas.

By morning over 20,000 people crossed the river, over 3,000 [interruption by the crowd chanting "God is great, Khomeyni is the leader," "Death to counterrevolutionaries," "Hail to Islam's braves," "Hail the martyrs," "Death to the United States," "Death to the Soviet Union," "Death to Saddam and hypocrites"]. Over 3,000 vehicles, 500 tanks and personnel carriers, and 200 tons of ammunition crossed the river to start with.

Please note that the average distance between the Karun banks and the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr paved road is from 14 to 25 km. The fighters covered the distance by the morning adhan [call to prayers] and destroyed the enemy on its way to the road. The enemy was so surprised that when we interrogated POW's later, one of them said that the commander of the division knew that we [the Iranians] were crossing but wanted to surprise us. However, he suddenly realized that he had lost everything. We thank God.

In the first phase we formed a bridgehead of over 800 square km. Such a bridgehead has had no parallel in history with respect to a river crossing. We followed this with another move, which was the second phase. We crossed the axis [Ahvaz-Khorramshahr road] and went as far as the border, crossing over into Iraq for 1 km, and recaptured the border area.

It was the first operation in which we had no intelligence reports on the enemy. The fighters of Islam only knew that they had to go forward and had no choice. They went forward and destoryed three enemy brigades in one night. [repeat of chants]

Following the completion of the second phase, and in the morning, we heard the imam's message.

You heard that two Iraqi divisions escaped from Karkheh Kur. They were retreating so fast that our forces north of Karkheh Kur could not catch up with them, no matter how fast they chased them! You Khuzestanis are well aware of the size of the scene. You know how wide the area of (?Susair), Hoveyzeh, Hami and Shohabi posts is. You know what plots the enemy had hatched in the area, how many fortified trenches they had there. When you look at it from the military point of view you realize that they would have been unmovable for years had they stayed there. A group of our braves who approached them from one channel lost 100 martyrs. They were so fortified behind the channel that they gunned down all the fighters within 20 meters of them. This is how they were lying in wait for us. We praise God that they escaped the scene thus because of the fear within them. Why? Because (?they feared for) Basrah. They wanted to retreat before they lost Basrah to us. They escaped.

The third phase of the operation began for the liberation of Khorramshahr and the mopping up of other areas of Khuzestan. You have heard of the operations which were carried out in (?Fakkeh) area. Your fighters have gone as far as the shores of (Zobeyrak) River. You heard how much they destroyed and how many prisoners they caught. Finally, in the third phase of the operation, which lasted several days -- we were forced to move cautiously as the imam decreed, to be cautious, to psych ourselves; this is different from bravery -- we asked for the help of the Almighty to use the best plan against the enemy.

The operation was carried out 2 months ago at 2200. It was the longest night of the operation. Your fighters were forced to attack and break the strongest portion of the enemy defenses. By the dawn adhan we were still worried, since the tone of the operation was that it had not progressed well, but by the morning breeze we began to smell victory. Your fighters moved toward the Arvand Rud in one direction and Khorramshahr in the other. At 1000 they were able to close the enemy support lines in the west and cleanse the rest of Khuninshahr-Ahvaz road from the filth of the enemy presence in the east, thus completing the surrender of the city.

You may have noticed that the surrender was slightly incomplete. In the southern part of the city, by the river, the enemy madly jumped into the river. Some drowned, others attempted to use boats. But since we were worried and did not want to let one of them go, our fighters continued their efforts and, the following day, they closed this part from behind, even though they were tired. As soon as we closed the shore, the speakers started and they heard the radio. We observed a line of prisoners coming which looked endless. [repeat of chants]

Our photographers had so much work that we were looking for a group to go with a helicopter and find the end of this line. When we asked the person in charge of the prisoners, telling him we wanted to tell the people about the number, he said that he had lost count. He said tell them that the line still continues. RAFSANJANI ON LIBERATION OF KHORRAMSHAHR [Text] Tehran, 25 May (IRNA) -- Various deputies in the open session of the Majlis this morning talked about the liberation of Khorramshahr which remained under Iraqi occupation for nearly twenty months. They all hailed courageous efforts of the Iranian combatants in clearing the city from Iraqi forces. Majlis Speaker Rafsanjani, speaking on this subject, said that liberation of the city was an important task. Historians and war experts could realise that what was achieved by the Iranian forces in the past two days was unprecedented in the world, for more than twenty thousand Iraqi troops with all their ammunition were shattered in such a manner in such a short period of time, he said.

He emphasized that the point was that Iranian youth, who had only brief military training, were able to batter the well-equipped and well-trained Army of Iraq. One thing, which may not happen in any war, was that there were long lines of enemy military personnel and officers who were impatiently waiting to surrender and be taken captive, he added.

However, the biased mass media was preventing the people of the world from becoming aware of these facts, he said, adding that last night the European mass media with all their advanced sattelites and networks were still saying "both sides of the war have made certain claims but the outcome of the battle of Khorramshahr was not yet known."

This, he said, was how the Western mass media were operating. At the same time, the reactionary leaders of some of the countries of the region close to Iran were refusing to inform their people of what has been happening in Iran. This was a great crime, the Majlis speaker said.

In the continuation of his speech Rafsanjani said that what was done in Khorramshahr was a remarkable achievement, for in a matter of a few hours some twenty thousand Iraqi military personnel who had prepared strongholds for themselves in the city during the past twenty months, gave up and surrendered. He further added that the occupation of Khorramshahr should not be compared with its liberation.

At time of its occupation for 24 days the Iraqi Armed Forces, utilising all their means, occupied Khorramshahr at a time when there were only about some 500 IRGC [Iranian Revolution Guards Corps] and marines defending it. The situation being like this, the Iraqi forces fought for 24 days and it was only after the treacherous order by Bani-Sadr for the evacuation of the city that the Iraqis were able to take the city.

At the time of the liberation of the city, the Iranian forces fought only for 24 hours and forced 20,000 Iraqis to surrender. These statements of the Majlis speaker met with approval of the deputies who were chanting "Allaho akbar" in support of his statements.

The conversation tapes of the Iraqis which has been recorded indicate that the Iraqi soldiers were asked to resist and the response of the soldiers was that they could not resist the high morale of the Iranian forces.

In another part of his speech the Majlis speaker warned supporters of Saddam not to give in to the plots and deceits of Saddam and the United States and not to exhaust the resources of the Islamic countries in this manner so that the Zionist regime would have a free hand.

He further warned these countries that Iran had no intentions against their lands but at the same time Iran would not forego its rights at any cost. "We will get the last bit of our rights and our greatest right is the toppling of Saddam who was committed so many crimes," he said.

Praising the remarkable efforts of the Iranian combatants and their high morale and their kind treatment of the captured Iraqi military personnel, Rafsanjani said that these human beings with such great values could have no intention of violating others' rights, and that they were only fighting for their rights. For such supreme values, he added, the Iranian military personnel deserved great praise.

He further called on U.S. stooges inside and outside the country, who are spreading baseless claims that Iran had given thirty thousand martyrs in the Bayt al-Moqaddas [Jerusalem] operation, to come to their senses.

Directing his remarks on the Iranian combatants, the Majlis speaker said that "if we ever forget God, we will face the same situation as Saddam did." He advised them to observe justice and in their behavior to follow Islamic principles.

The Khorramshahr deputy in the Majlis, Yunes Mohammadi, said that by the liberation of Khorramshahr the Iranian forces have created fear in the hearts of the devil's lackeys."

"This victory has marked the death of King Hassan, King Husayn, King Khalid and their American master Ronald Reagan and has marked the revitalisation of Islam and the oppressed masses," he said.

Commenting on the destiny of Saddam, Mohammadi said that following the great victory of the Iranian forces, no one could save him from his downfall...neither the Egyptian nor the American Army would be able to save him.

He further added that if Saddam resisted Iran's demands, then he must expect greater defeats. He said that the people of Iraq must now rise and overthrow Saddam who is a stooge of the U.S. and thus regain their dignity and prestige.

In today's session two bills were presented to the Majlis. The first bill was concerning a cultural agreement between the Islamic Republic of Iran and Libya and another concerning an economic, scientific and technical cooperation agreement with the same country.

MONTAZERI MESSAGE ON RECAPTURE OF KHORRAMSHAHR

LD252328 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 2030 GMT 25 May 82

[Text] Following the conquest of Khorramshahr, a message has been issued by Ayatollah Montazeri. His eminence's message states: I wonder whether the major Western and Eastern governments and their agents, who have so far given the criminal Saddam immeasurable military and material aid, with the liberations of Khuninshahr still have any faith in Saddam and the continuation of crime and instability in the region.

The Grand Ayatollah Montazeri warned the reactionary regimes in the region: Instead of arranging meetings for conspiracy, it would be a good idea to take the paternal advice of the great leader of the revolution, His Eminence Imam Khomeyni, may his blessings continue, and not subject yourselves to eternal domination and the shame of this and the other world.

The message also states: The Muslim nations of Egypt and Jordan should know that these mercenary regimes, which are attached to international Zionism, have brought shame and disgrace on them. How long must they tolerate this war and allow Husni Mubarak and his treacherous accomplices in the region and their Muslim and deceived troops to leave the usurping Israel alone, this enemy of Islam and the Arab nation of Iran, which are thinking of the progress of Islam and the honor of the Arab nation and are making provisions for a war against Israel, as the committed youths and the Muslim officers in Egypt and Jordan will never tolerate this shame and will not subject themselves to death for the sake of America, Israel and their own countries' treacherous leaders.

MUSAVI TOURS KHORRAMSHAHR, BRIEFED ON VICTORY

GF251552 Ahvaz Domestic Service in Persian 1330 GMT 25 May 82

[Text] Following the successful victory of Khorramshahr, the city of resistance and sacrifice, by the brave warriors of Islam, Mr Mir-Hoseyn Musavi, the prime minister of the Islamic Republic of Iran, arrived in Khorramshahr to visit the victorious combatants this morning.

Mr Musavi and his entourage, on arrival in Khorramshahr, went to the grand mosque of this city and addressed the gathering of the valiant victors of Islam who had congregated there. In his speech to the audience, while paying tribute to the sacrifices and selflessness of the Islamic fighters, he expressed the appreciation of the imam of the nation and the heroic nation of Iran for the lightning victory of Khorramshahr.

Afterwards, Mr Musavi visited the city and the destroyed houses of the people of Khorramshahr, the marks of Ba'thist-Zionist crimes.

Mr Musavi, after completing the tour of the city, left for the armed forces headquarters at the Khorramshahr battlefield amongst the chanting of Islam's warriors. At the headquarters, the map of the liberation operations of Khorramshahr was explained to him by the armed forces commanders.

Afterwards the noon and afternoon prayers were held with the participation of Mir-Hoseyn Musavi and his companions and the troops stationed at the headquarters. Between the two prayer ceremonies, Mr Musavi talked on the stand of the Islamic Republic of Iran on the countries of the region and world imperialism and on the victories gained by the Iranian Armed Forces and Islamic warriors.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 923

LD251834 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 25 May 82

[Communique No 923 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Following the repeated defeats of the deceived Iraqi Army and mercenary Saddamists, these miserable people of history have not yet come to their senses. They are still carrying out the orders of their criminal masters from the [word indistinct] positions on the banks of the Arvand Rud and other positions inside Iraqi territory they are continuing their desperate struggle. The mercenary Saddamists are increasing their crimes and are shamefully bringing Abadan's residential areas under heavy-weapon fire.

The heroes and combatants of Islam have been deployed on the new areas and positions on the Khorramshahr front and are honorably in control of the whole area.

In the great battle and conquest carried out yesterday by the combatants of Islam -- which is an eternal honor in the brilliant history of Islam and our beloved homeland -- it is fitting to thank the transport pilots of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran, who have played a main and effective role in logistics and in transferring the wounded, brave combatants. We thank these pilots in the same way as we thank all the combatants and victorious pilots of the fighter aircraft of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Dear compatriots: Following the downing of three intruding aircraft of the aggressive Iraqi Army -- which was announced in yesterday's communique -- at 1730 on 24 May a fourth intruding fighter aircraft of the Ba'thist Iraqi mercenaries was hit by the fire of the air defense unit in the Abadan area and downed; the enemy's airraids in the southern and western areas of the country were foiled.

At 1225, 1351 and 1423 today the air defense unit of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran in the Khorramshahr and Abadan areas opened fire on the Iraqi intruding aircraft and downed four of them.

In the past 24 hours on the Abadan front the heroes of the gendarmerie opened heavy-weapon fire on the Saddamists' positions on the banks of the Arvand Rud and destroyed 2 trucks, 2 tanks and 18 trenches; about 50 of the Saddamist forces were killed.

In the past 24 hours fighting and exchanges of fire continued on the country's western fronts. The strong combatants of the ground forces on the Salehabad, Sumar, Sar-e Pol-e and Gilan-e Gharb fronts maintained their fire superiority and destroyed several supply points, trenches and foxholes of the enemy while killing or wounding a number of enemy servicemen. Our victorious forces control the enemy's movements in these areas.

The heroes of the irregular tribal warfare units, carrying out penetrating strike operations, also dealt effective blows at the Iraqi forces in the west of the country and destroyed several vehicles, 15 trenches and 1 minefield of the enemy. During a 2-hour clash with the patrols of the Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries, the tribal forces killed a number of the enemy and destroyed all their equipment.

Fighting and exchanges of fire continue on the Paveh and Baneh fronts.

[Signed] The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran

15 IRAQIS KILLED, WOUNDED BY ARTILLERY FIRE

LD251742 Tehran IRNA in English 1620 GMT 25 May 82

[Text] Urumiyeh, 25 May (IRNA) -- Activities of the units of the Iraqi Ba'thist forces were halted yesterday when the enemy positions in the Iraqi regime of Tamarchin were subjected to the artillery fire of the Iranian combatants. In these operations more than 15 Iraqi soldiers were killed or wounded and 5 enemy group bunkers and dug-outs were demolished.

IRNA REPORTS ON FIGHTING ON WESTERN FRONTS

LD251740 Tehran IRNA in English 1622 GMT 25 May 82

[Text] Bakhtaran, 25 May (IRNA) -- Movements of Iraqi vehicles were halted Monday as the enemy vehicle columns came under the heavy-artillery fire of the Islamic combatants in the Bakhtaran region of Gilan-e Gharb.

Exchanges of fire continued in the western fronts of Meymak, Gilan-e Gharb and Sar-e Pol-e Zahab over the past 24 hours. In these operations, 42 Iraqi soldiers were killed or wounded when the Iranian forces smashed 1 bulldozer and several trenches and logistical depots of the Iraqi aggressors.

ARTILLERY ATTACK ON IRAQI OIL INSTALLATIONS

LD251712 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 25 May 82

[Text] According to an IRNA report, with the heavy-artillery fire of the fighters of Islam this morning, part of the Iraqi oil installations on the west bank of the Arvand Rud were destroyed and set on fire. Thick smoke rising from the fire could be seen until 1500 today. According to the same report, in continuation of the unceasing battle of the heroic forces of Islam against the Ba'thist aggressors today, enemy positions on the west bank of the Arvand Rud came under the fire of the long-range artillery of the forces of Islam as the result of which some losses and damage were inflicted upon the aggressors.

NVOI: RUMOR OF EXPORTING REVOLUTION SLANDEROUS

TA241041 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 22 May 82

[Unattributed commentary: "Let Us Foil World-Devouring America's New Plot Through Unity of Word and Action"]

[Text] Dear compatriots: With the increase in the hope that finally the war imposed on our homeland's people and the Iraqi people is nearing its end, imperialist circles headed by the United States have exerted their efforts to render an international aspect to this war and to involve the region's reactionary regimes in battle against emancipated and revolutionary Iran.

There is no doubt that the war imposed on our homeland's people -- which has been going on for about 20 months -- was and remains in the interest of world-devouring imperialism only.

The nations of both Iran and Iraq have suffered great material and human losses due to this war. The prolongation of this destructive war is merely a weapon in the hands of the imperialists to escalate their military presence in the region by using the war as a pretext, and to aggravate tension and the acceleration of the arms race by frightening the conservative reactionary regimes of the region.

As stated, one of the excuses by which the imperialists have resorted in order to try to fan this imposed war is to constantly frighten the region's regimes with the alleged expansionist aims of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the so-called export of the Islamic revolution of Iran to the countries of the region. It is in response to such rumors and nonsense by imperialist circles that Imam Khomeyni has rightly called their claims about the danger that is allegedly aimed by the Islamic Republic of Iran at the countries of this region as totally false and slanderous.

There is no doubt that the first condition for the termination of combat activities is the withdrawal of all aggressive forces from Iranian soil. Reports from the battlefront herald the good news that finally with the cleansing of our country's soil from the filthy presence of the aggressors the necessary conditions are being brought about for ending the war, and the efforts of all should be exerted toward this end.

Under such circumstances we are witnessing that an enormous effort is being exerted by imperialist circles, first and foremost the Americans, and particularly by imperialist and Zionist mass media, in order that this war will continue and that other countries of the region will also take part in military operations against revolutionary Iran.

In the midst of all this one also cannot ignore the fact that in our own country too some of the superficial authorities and a number of newspapers are raising the issue of the impact of our homeland's popular, anti-imperialist and Islamic revolution in captive and dependent countries in such a manner as to be always exploited by imperialist circles. They are projecting revolutionary and emancipated Iran in the international arena as a country that allegedly has expansionist aims and which allegedly intends to export the Islamic revolution to other countries by force, whereas the fact is otherwise.

Both the leader of the revolution and the other realistic officials of our country have expressed this with total frankness. As the leader of the nation has repeatedly emphasized, the Iranian Government and people have no design whatsoever on the territory of other countries, and have never pursued the aim of interfering in the internal affairs of other countries and of installing in those countries a system that they desire; this is the task of nations themselves to determine their own fate and to bring to power a government which they themselves favor.

What in the first instance is vitally important to our homeland's people is the liberation of our homeland's sacred soil from the filthy presence of the aggressors, the maintenance of independence and territorial integrity, and the establishment of peace and security in the region. This is the just wish of the Iranian nation, and our ever-on-the-scene nation is implementing this at the expense of enduring numerous sacrifices, and with selflessness and self-sacrifice.

It is very obvious that the United States, by instigating its subservient and dependent regimes in the region into forming an alliance or military pact against the Islamic Republic, and by involving them in the war theater in favor of Iraq, is in fact calling into question the existence of these same subservient regimes, and is arousing the increasing hatred of nations against these regimes. The main objective of the United States from these attempts and plots is to escalate its military presence in the region and to tighten the chain of dependence of reactionary regimes. However, the nations of the captive countries of our region have recognized well the ugly and criminal face of the United States, and are becoming aware of the fact that only through a united struggle can they terminate the life of the sinister domination of imperialism, headed by the United States.

KHOMEYNI ADDRESSES KERMAN FRIDAY IMAMS

LD251134 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 25 May 82

[Excerpts] Kerman Province Friday imams were received this morning by Imam Khomeyni, the leader of the revolution and founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran. The meeting began with a report by the Friday imam of Kerman to the imam of the nation. Then Imam Khomeyni, addressing the imams, said the following:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. I thank the gentlemen for having troubled themselves to come here. I pray for you all. I also thank the inhabitants and ulema of Kerman as well as the province's congregational imams, may God protect them all.

I should like to reiterate a point I have already mentioned. Try to maintain your unity, unity amongst yourselves, unity between yourselves and officials and between yourselves and the people. As you see, all the efforts made by the hypocrites organization and corrupt elements, both inside and outside the country, are aimed at sowing discord between people. This, in itself, is the best possible reason for us to maintain our unity.

This great victory achieved by our combatants, which resulted in the expulsion from our homeland of the big-power-affiliated forces, is due to our unity. Nowadays, all the media are trying either not to report our victory or, if they do, immediately to sound alarm bells over the threat of this victory to the region. They shout, warning that should Iran triumph, then they fear what is going to happen to the region, to the Gulf states.

A certain gentleman was telling me that he had witnessed a 12- or 13-year-old boy on one of the warfronts who, having lost an arm, had without any hesitation picked it up and headed for the battlefront. Listen carefully, what are we to do under such circumstances? It is quite clear that we all bear a very heavy responsibility. If, God forbid, we err, then those whose interests are threatened shall exaggerate our mistakes inside and outside the country and then resort to propaganda against us. Try to take care of what you say in your sermons.

I do hope that Islam will be promoted by you as a preamble for the reappearance of the imam mahdi. I wish you all success. God bless you.

KHOMEYNI MEETS WITH JUDICIAL OFFICIALS 24 MAY

LD241140 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 24 May 82

[Text] This morning Imam Khomeyni, leader of the revolution and founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran, received Messrs Musavi-Ardabili, Rabbani-Amlashi, Javadi-Malayeri, [name indistinct] Qomi and Moqtada'i, who are members of the Supreme Judicial Council; Mr Musavi-Tabrizi, the prosecutor general of the Islamic revolution; Mohammadih Gilani, the chief of the Islamic Revolution Courts in Tehran; Lajevardi, the prosecutor of the Islamic revolution in Tehran; and a number of judicial officials.

Problems of the judicial branch and the general situation regarding the courts were discussed at the meeting.

Mr Musavi-Tabrizi, the prosecutor general of the Islamic revolution, told the Central News Unit correspondent at the end of the meeting that the imam said that the revolution courts and the offices of the prosecutors of the Islamic revolution should maintain their individual powers and should not merge.

IRNA REPORTS SENTENCES IN BAHRAIN COUP TRIAL

GF231652 Tehran IRNA in English 1638 GMT 23 May 82

[Text] Tehran, May 22, IRNA -- According to reports, the Higher Court of Appeal of Manama, capital of Bahrain, today convicted and sentenced 73 Arab Muslims arrested in last December on charges of trying to overthrow the Bahraini regime.

According to reports from the Persian GULF NEWS AGENCY [as received], 3 accused persons were sentenced to life imprisonment, 60 others to 15 years imprisonment and the remaining 10 persons, less than 18 years old, to 7 years in jail.

The Bahraini prosecutor had demanded execution for all the defendants. The same report said that the three persons sentenced to life imprisonment were a Bahraini, an Omani, and a Saudi national. The 10 condemned to 7 years term were subjects of Saudi Arabia.

Also some of the accused in addition to their jail terms were condemned to pay 1,000 Bahraini dinars for possession of weapons.

A few days after arresting these Muslims, Nayif ibn 'Abd al-Aziz, the Saudi interior minister, went to Bahrain and signed a common security compact with Bahraini leaders. The Saudi Kingdom and Bahrain are members of the Persian Gulf Cooperation Council and the other members are Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates, Qatar and Oman.

CLERGYMAN, PEDESTRIAN KILLED BY 'HYPOCRITES'

GF221455 Tehran JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI in Persian 16 May 82 p 3

[Excerpts] News service: A group of American hypocrites killed a clergyman and wounded another who was an imam near one of Tehran's mosques when they shot at a passing automobile. A sister Hezbollahi pedestrian was also martyred in this shooting.

According to a correspondent of the news service, in this incident, which took place at 0730 on Azarbayjan Avenue in Rashidieh Square, an automobile carrying clergymen was attacked by four American terrorists while crossing the above square. One of the clergymen, Hoseyni, who was the driver of the vehicle, was killed on the spot while another was badly injured and taken to the hospital. According to the same report, a sister pedestrian carrying her child in her arms who was on the way to buy bread was martyred after being hit by the hypocrites' automobile.

After this, the hypocrites sped away from the scene of crime, injuring many persons en route. All members of the group were later killed by brother revolution guards.

18 GUARDS SAID KILLED BY SARBEDARAN GROUP

GF250607 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 24 May 82

[Text] According to our correspondent from Mazandaran, the combatants in the northern forest of Iran, said to be the armed members of the Sarbedaran group, have killed 18 of the regime's guards, including the Sari guards commander.

The Sarbedaran group in a statement has said that the Sarbedaran task force foiled a guards attack when the guards landed in a helicopter at their headquarters.

After firing upon the regime's guards the task force left via the escape route through the forest, in order not to commit mass murder against these deceived people.

The mass media of the mullahs' regime have not reported the defeat of the guards by the Sarbedaran group.

NURBAKHSH SUMMARIZES ISTANBUL BANKING CONFERENCE

LD232034 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 23 May 82

[Excerpts] Central Bank Governor Mr Mohsen Nurbakhsh, who led a delegation to Istanbul to take part in the fifth assembly of the Central Bank governors of Islamic countries, on his return to our country today gave an interview to a Central News Unit correspondent.

[Begin Nurbakhsh recording] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. As you know, the fifth conference of the Central Bank governors of Islamic countries was held for 3 days in Istanbul. The issues raised at the conference mainly consisted of reviewing the possibilities of financial and monetary cooperation among Islamic countries in order to expand trade exchange, the possibility of an increase in cooperation among merchant banks, the methods of the supply of capital market among Islamic countries and finally the issue of the possibility of the investment of Islamic countries among themselves.

The clear proposals which we made, together with the proposals made by others, which attracted the attention of the participants, concerned financial liquidity and methods of capital production in Islamic countries and the flow of this capital from the Islamic countries and putting it at the disposal of such organizations as the IMF and the World Bank or the industrial countries, which are not under the control of Islamic countries.

We suggested that, instead of putting this capital at the disposal of industrial countries or international financial organizations which are not under our control, it should be put at our disposal or at least a minimum of these resources should be distributed among Islamic countries.

For example, from 1974 through 1981 about $200-billion-worth of surplus capital of the Islamic oil-producing countries was put at the disposal of industrial countries, the IMF and the World Bank. This suggestion was welcomed by the Islamic countries, particularly by those who had problems in their balance of payments, and was mainly supported by these countries, and it was agreed that the technical committee will work on this issue.

The second suggestion made by us concerned the framework of the method of payment in international trade -- we suggested that it should be carried out more within the framework of barter contracts so that the Islamic countries' reliance on and need for free foreign currency sources could be reduced to a minimum. Of course, we offered our suggestion in this way: We consider this a beginning for changes in the customs regulations of an Islamic common market.

This issue of an Islamic common market raised in our country was questioned there and the participants asked for some information about it. In my opinion it could be an axis for the unity of Islamic countries in the future and I hope we shall be successful in this matter. [end recording]

In his interview Mr Nurbakhsh said that Saudi Arabia alone has supplied more than 20 percent of the resources required by international financial organizations; on the other hand, poor Muslim countries such as Bangladesh, Indonesia, Pakistan and African Muslim countries in obtaining financial aid have no alternative but to apply to international financial organizations which are under America's domination and rule.

Regarding the reaction to Iran's suggestion for preventing the flow of the surplus capital of Muslim countries to the resources of Western capitalist countries, Mr Nurbakhsh said in his interview today that this suggestion was warmly welcomed by Muslim countries, in particular those countries in need, and it is to be studied by the assembly's technical committee.

[Text] IRNA reports that our deputy minister of commerce, who is in Syria at the head of a delegation, met the Syrian minister of economy and foreign trade and discussed the implementation of a trade protocol signed by Iran and Syria and the possibility of expanding trade exchanges between the two countries.

The Iranian delegation also had talks with the Syrian deputy minister of economy and trade about the exchange of goods and coordination of programs and also had talks with the deputy minister in charge of exhibitions and the expansion of experts [as heard].

Our deputy minister of commerce also met with the Syrian minister of state for planning affairs.

Commenting on the outcome of the delegation's trip to Syria, the deputy minister of commerce said: During this trip our officials were assured of the wish to implement the trade protocol between the two countries and we hope to be able to buy some of the goods needed by our country from Syria and sign contracts in various fields.

IRANIAN, JAPANESE OFFICIALS HOLD OIL TALKS

LD222304 Tehran IRNA in English 1929 GMT 22 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 22 May (IRNA) -- The deputy oil minister for petrochemical affairs, Taheri Najafabadi, in an interview with IRNA today explained the reason behind the trip of the Japanese petrochemical officials to Tehran. A mission made up of the manager's of the petrochemical industries of Japan arrived in Tehran on Thursday to resume the fourth round of negotiations with Iranian officials on the Iran-Japan Bandar-e Imam Khomeyni petrochemical project in southern Iran.

The oil minister official said that due to the complexity of the issue and the participation of private Japanese companies on the one hand and the Iranian Government owned national petrochemical industries as the other side of the contract as well as various mutual agreements, careful studies were needed so that the rights of the oppressed nation of Iran would not be ignored.

On the other hand, Najafabadi added, the insistence of the Japanese partners to change the agreements signed in the past and their withholding further investment, were the reasons for holding three rounds of negotiations.

These talks were held in line with the general policy of the Islamic Republic and with the objective of preserving the interests of the Iranian people, with due respect to agreements and obligations between the national petrochemical industries and its Japanese counterparts and with the object of resuming the project within the framework of these agreements.

He further added that during past negotiations efforts were made to make the Japanese counterpart understand these views and as a result the difference of opinion was bridged to a certain degree and both sides views have become closer.

Taheri Najafabadi, who is the head of the Iranian team in the fourth round of the talks which started today, said that this time in addition to financial issues and investment, the completion of the preliminary works of the project would also be brought up.

Therefore, he added, while continuing the negotiations, first of all ways of investment and deciding the maximum budget limit would be discussed as well as the preliminary works of the project, such as technical maintenance of the equipment, which at present was being done by committed Iranians. This work would also cover investigations on the amount of damage inflicted by the Iraqi imposed war.

Following this, talks would centre on placing orders for replacing damaged equipment and ways of implementation of the project with the consent of the Japanese counterparts. Taheri Najafabadi hoped that in this round of talks, the Japanese partners would cooperate properly and that the great amount of the investment, which is now sitting idle and is in the process of getting ruined, would not be wasted.

When asked about the date expected for the completion and utilisation of the project he said that due to limits and shortages which need time to be solved and due to the scale of the project, given an Iranian victory in the near future and on the basis of extent plans it could be predicted that the first unit of the project would be utilised about two years from now and other units one to two years thereafter. As for the investment needed for completion of the project, he said that if necessary Iran was ready to provide the Japanese partners with low-interest loans to be reimbursed from the production of the project once it begins production. The third round of talks were held the end of last February.

EXILED DIPLOMAT ON KGB INFILTRATION, TUDEH

PM241521 London THE DAILY TELEGRAPH in English 24 May 82 p 8

[John Bulloch report: "KGB 'Use Islamic Revolution To Spread Disruption'"]

[Text] An Iranian diplomat who is seeking political asylum in Britain claimed yesterday that the KGB is using the Islamic revolution to spread disruption throughout the Muslim world.

Mr (Mehdi Baratzadeh), 29, said that during the five months he spent as Iranian charge d'affaires in San'a, North Yemen, he sent 50 Yemenis to Tehran for training.

Other Iranian agencies recruited Egyptians, Syrians and nationals of many other Muslim countries for courses in Iran.

"There are two categories of recruits," Mr (Baratzadeh) explained. There were the ones chosen by the embassy to go to Iran for ideological training and Islamic indoctrination, who were always Shia Muslims.

"The others are chosen by Iranian intelligence men who infilrate existing Islamic groups among nationals of one Muslim country working in another. Thus Egyptians, Syrians, Palestinians and Yemenis, who all go abroad to work, are prime targets.

Mr (Baratzadeh) said that people in this group were given military training courses lasting from three to six months in a number of camps near Tehran.

Almost all the instructors were either members of the Tudeh, the Iranian communist party, or KGB agents sent into Iran.

"Hundreds of KGB men are now in Iran," he claimed.

"Most of them are Farsi speakers from the Soviet provinces bordering Iran. Some have been infiltrated by clandestine means, others arrive as 'technicians' sent by East bloc countries."

The former diplomat, who fled to London when two Iranian security men were sent to take over the San'a Embassy from him, said the West was making a mistake if it thought the Khomeyni regime in Iran was a bulwark against communism.

"Eighty per cent of that government is now under the control of communist party," he declared.

Speaking at the secret London headquarters of the Iranian resistance movement in exile, Mr (Baratzadeh) said that the central policy of the Khomeyni regime was to export the Islamic revolution.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Military Situation -- More than 16,500 Iraqis were killed or wounded and 19,000 captured during the Jerusalem Operation, according to a Guards Corps and armed forces communique carried by Tehran radio. The communique noted that over 5,480 square km of Iranian territory had been liberated. Meanwhile, another military communique broadcast by the radio reported that Iranian forces repulsed an Iraqi offensive in the Shalamcheh region. It added that 60 Iraqis were killed when Iranian artillery units fired on Iraqi forces in the Toveyleh and Tutmal regions and on the Biarreh garrison. The communique also claimed that one Iraqi plane was shot down over the Abadan area.

According to an Iraqi military communique carried by Baghdad radio, 238 Iranians were killed when Iraqi forward units pounded Iranian positions in Khorramshahr with all kinds of weapons. The communique said a large number of Iranian tanks and vehicles were destroyed by Iraqi airraids in the Khorramshahr area and in the area west of the Karun River.

Arab Reaction to War -- Egypt believes Iran will stop at the international border with Iraq because the Iranians realize that any border violation means disturbing the network of regional, international and Arab interests, Egyptian President Husni Mubarak stated during an interview with the Kuwaiti paper AS-SIYASAH, KUNA reported. Mubarak noted that Egypt is closely watching the situation and warned that a change in regime in Iraq would not be in the interest of the region. He also cautioned the Iranian leadership against putting forward illogical demands as a result of elation following its army's progress.

The London paper ASH-SHARQ AL-AWSAT, citing "highly-placed" Arab sources, reported that several Arab countries have officially warned Iran that they will not stand idly by, regardless of the consequences, if Iranian forces cross the Iraqi border.

In an interview with the Saudi paper AR-RIYAD cited by SPA, Crown Prince Fahd stressed that the continuation or extension of the war would be at the expense of the region's stability and safety.

Iran

The war with Iraq will end only when Iran's legitimate demands have been met, government spokesman Ahmad Tavakkoli declared at a news conference reported by Tehran radio. He warned that Iran would take whatever steps are necessary to safeguard the security of its borders. Tavakkoli said the war cannot be considered ended while Iraq, in desperation after the capture of 40,000 of its troops, continues to attack Iranian cities with long-range artillery.

Commenting on Iran's relations with other Islamic countries, Tavakkoli said Iran wishes to live as a brother with the countries of the region under the banner of Islam and not under the American banner. He added that Iran would not remain silent if some countries in the region wish to act in accordance with American orders, including the return of Egypt to the Arab fold.

Israel

Relations With U.S. -- A joint U.S.-Israeli military committee will meet soon to discuss cooperation involving Israeli military industries, Jerusalem radio revealed in a report on the outcome of Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon's talks with U.S. officials. The United States will buy Israeli equipment, the radio said, and the Defense Ministry will be able to spend some U.S. aid on purchasing Israeli-made arms. The radio also said Pentagon officials had confirmed that the United States will sell Israel 75 advanced F-16 fighter planes for around $2.5 billion. Meanwhile, Foreign Minister Yitzhaq Shamir told the Knesset in remarks broadcast by the radio that in light of proposed U.S. arms sales to Jordan, Israel is worried by the contradictions in U.S. policy. Israel will not be able to put up with these moves and cannot afford to wait until Jordan accumulates offensive power sufficient for an attack on Israeli population centers, he declared. In a similar vein, Sharon said in remarks broadcast by the radio that he had expressed concern to the Americans that any addition of sophisticated weapons to Arab countries puts Israel in a difficult situation. While Israel has stopped the arms race, Sharon contended, the Arabs are advancing their arms procurement at full speed.

Arms for Iran, Ecuador -- In an interview with NBC-TV, Sharon disclosed that Israel has supplied Iran with a small quantity of arms and ammunition, Jerusalem television reported. Meanwhile, Ecuadorean officials confirmed that Israeli-made arms found in an Ecuadorean cargo plane by Kennedy airport customs officials were intended for the Ecuadorean Government's exclusive use, according to Jerusalem radio reports. Noting that U.S. officials are investigating whether the arms were intended for Argentina, the radio said the Israeli Foreign Ministry has again assured the British ambassador that there is no truth in any report that Israel is shipping arms to Argentina. Prime ministerial adviser Uri Porat likewise denied that the aircraft detained in New York is carrying arms for Argentina, the radio noted.

Mine Explosion -- A fuel truck was damaged by an antivehicle mine on a dirt road in the Beersheba District, ITIM reported.

Syria

President Hafiz al-Asad held talks with Ivan Arkhipov, first deputy chairman of the USSR Council of Ministers, Damascus radio reported. The talks dealt with Syrian-Soviet relations and the results of Arkhipov's discussions with Syrian officials in Damascus. According to earlier radio reports, Arkhipov also held talks with Foreign Minister 'Abd al-Halim Khaddam and Prime Minister 'Abd ar-Ra'uf al-Kasm.

Lebanon

French Premier Pierre Mauroy visited Beirut briefly for talks with Lebanese leaders and to attend a requiem for the victims of the recent explosion at the French Embassy, Beirut radio noted. In statements reported by the radio, Mauroy said France will remain firm in facing these "criminal, cowardly actions; will not give in to blackmail through violence and will not change its stand because of threats or crimes."

AFP: FORMER OFFICIALS SENTENCED IN DACCA

BK221717 Hong Kong AFP in English 1411 GMT 22 May 82

[Text] Dacca, 22 May (AFP) -- A former mayor of Dacca and a minister in deposed President Abdus Sattar's Cabinet was today sentenced to eight years' hard prison term by a Special Martial Law Tribunal for corruption and misuse of official position.

The five-member tribunal, headed by Brigadier Abdus Salam, which tried the mayor, Mr Abul Hasnat, in two cases of corruption, delivered its unanimous judgements today as the accused stood in silence in the dock of the guarded court room. In illegal sharing of business with "a favourite lady friend" in the Dacca municipal corporation, Mr Hasnat was given five years' rigorous imprisonment and a fine of taka 500,000 and in default to suffer another two years' prison. He was given a prison term for another three years in the second case involving illegal allotment of a government house to his lady friend Kohinoor Begum at an exceptionally low rent depriving two other genuine claims."

The second sentence will begin on conclusion of the first five-year term,.the tribunal chairman announced.

The tribunal, which includes two civilian judges, will meet again on May 25 to try more cases against the convicted mayor.

Meanwhile, another Special Martial Law Tribunal, headed by Brigadier Mashahed Chowdhury, which is trying a former Deputy Prime Minister Jamaluddin Ahmed on similar charges of corruption and abuse of official position will deliver judgement on Monday.

In the fourth case against him, Mr Ahmed was sentenced to a day's imprisonment and a fine of taka 350,000. He was acquitted in the second case and given five years hard labour and a fine of taka 1,000,000 in another.

ADVISER REPORTS ON FOOD DEALS WITH U.S., JAPAN

BK250418 Dacca Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 24 May 82

[Text] Adviser for Food Air Vice Marshal (rtd) A.G. Mahmood has said the government has made arrangements for the procurement of over 400,000 tons of food grains from abroad. Briefing newsmen in Dacca today, the advisor said things will be much easier with the arrival of foodstuff by July-August next.

Reiterating General Ershad's assertion that there is adequate food reserve in the country, he said we are going to effectively handle the food situation and there will be no crisis. Emphasizing the government's determination to ensure that food is available to all sections of the people throughout the country, Air Vice Marshal Mahmood expressed his confidence that food situation will be properly tackled.

The adviser returned home last week from the United States and Japan concluding food deals. He said the United States committed to provide Bangladesh with an additional food aid of 105,000 tons, including 35,000 tons of rice, during the current year. This will be in addition to 273,000 tons of food grain agreed earlier under the public law 480 and is expected to arrive within the next 2 to 3 months. The United States promised to closely watch the food situation in Bangladesh and, if necessary, it will provide more.

The food adviser said the Japanese Government has assured him of supplying 100,000 tons of rice under a long-term soft loan. Besides this, Japan has also agreed to provide food grants of nearly 30,000 tons of rice. The Japanese consignment is expected by August.

He said the government has recently made a cash purchase of 100,000 tons of wheat. Besides, the Indian Government has offered 100,000 tons of wheat to Bangladesh. The terms and conditions of the offer are under negotiations. Negotiations are also going on with Burma for additional supply of rice of the tune of 85,000 tons.

CHINESE PRESS DELEGATION CONCLUDES VISIT

BK221724 Hong Kong AFP in English 0016 GMT 22 May 82

[Text] Dacca, 21 May (AFP) -- A five-member Chinese press delegation has concluded its week-long visit to Bangladesh today during which it had met with new military ruler, General Ershad, and other government and journalist leaders.

Leader of the delegation, (Jiang Yuanchun), is deputy director of the leading Chinese newspaper -- the PEOPLE'S DAILY.

During an interview with Bangladesh news agency, BSS, Mr Jiang said that the upholding of national independence and building the economy were of vital importance to developing countries.

"Without economic independence, national sovereignty cannot be consolidated," he said before leaving for home today.

General Ershad, who met with members of the delegation yesterday, described the present relations between Bangladesh and China as "excellent."

A Bangladesh press delegation is expected to visit China soon.

HERALD CRITICIZES 'SHADOWBOXING' OVER NO-WAR PACT

BK251624 Delhi INDIAN EXPRESS in English 19 May 82 p 6

[Editorial: "India and Pakistan"]

[Text] The shadow boxing being indulged in by India and Pakistan over the nonaggression pact and the basis of the next round of talks between the two countries merely underlines how long and arduous the ascent to the summit of amity is likely to prove. The attitudes of the leaders of the two countries towards each other are tinged with suspicion, and the clean sweep of the top echelons of the Pakistan Foreign Office has coincided with changes in the External Affairs Ministry in New Delhi, leading to an inevitable delay in picking up the threads of negotiations.

Pakistan has been reacting to the friendship treaty offer precisely as India initially did to the no-war pact proposal by Islamabad. It would be simple enough to transform the treaty proposal from an "informal" to a formal one, but that will hardly change the character of the statements and counter-statements from the two capitals.

New Delhi still seems unconvinced about the motives of the Pakistan military regime, principally General Ziaul Haq, in making the original proposal. The fact that Pakistan's new foreign minister, Sahabzada Yaqub Khan, seems to enjoy the general's trust in a larger measure than his predecessor did should, however, be an advantage in clearing the lines of communication between the two countries.

Apart from the informal nature of the treaty proposal Pakistan is objecting to, Islamabad's view is that the nonaggression pact idea should hold primacy in talks and it has seemingly relegated the joint commission proposal, which was accepted by Mr Agha Shahi in New Delhi to a secondary position. Whatever its official stance, Pakistan seems to look upon the treaty idea as an act of Indian oneupsmanship to neutralise the propaganda advantage initially derived by Pakistan in broaching the no-war idea. The joint commission, one would have imagined, was an eminently sensible mechanism to sort out irritants while debating the merits of the two proposals. The former Pakistan foreign minister had stated that the no-war pact would neither subtract from nor add to the Simla Agreement.

Since one of the Indian suspicions is that Islamabad is seeking to sidetrack the Simla Agreement, a categorical assurance by the new Pakistani foreign minister would help. But if the whole point of the exercise in holding talks is to ally suspicions and assure each side of the other's bona fides, what is to be gained by quibbling over discussing one proposal, rather than the other, first? Why not discuss the two together if the two sides are serious about better relations?

2 SRI LANKAN 'TERRORISTS' ARRESTED IN INDIA

BK211117 Colombo International Service in English 1045 GMT 21 May 82

[Text] The Sri Lankan Government has been officially informed by the Indian Government about the arrest on Wednesday [19 May] night of two wanted Sri Lankan-born terrorists. The two terrorists -- Pravakaran, alias Karatikalan, and Shiv Kumar, alias Raghavan -- according to the PRESS TRUST OF INDIA, were arrested by the Indian police with unlicenced revolvers in a busy market area in south Madras while they were allegedly attacking two other Sri Lankans.

The report said that the arrest of the persons had revealed during interrogation by the Indian police that they belonged to the Sri Lankan underground extremist group -- Liberation Tiger.

A government spokesman said early today that they are exploring the possibilities of negotiating with the Indian Government to bring the arrested terrorists to Sri Lanka once the case in which they have been arrested is disposed of at the other end.

GUERRILLAS LINKED TO TRAINING CENTER IN LEBANON

BK260950 Colombo SUN in English 18 May 82 p 1

[Text] Intelligence units of the armed forces yesterday made a major breakthrough in their investigations into the clandestine West Asian link that urban guerrillas of North Lanka have established.

Army operatives took into custody one of the lead contacts who is believed to be the recruiting officer for specially selected young militants to be trained as commandos in a guerrilla training centre in Lebanon.

The suspect, known as Anthonipillai, alias Alegiri, was on the wanted list of the security forces for some time for alleged terrorist activities.

He is believed to be a front liner of the "Liberation Tigers" movement which is demanding a separate state of Eelam.

"SUN" reliably learns that the army operatives stumbled on the new link following intensive questioning of another suspect known as "Elando," who was taken into custody recently.

This man too is believed to be a frontline commando of the radicals and was responsible for local guerrilla training programmes that have been conducted in the jungle areas surrounding Jaffna. He has already been trained in this field abroad, probably in West Asia by professional guerrillas.

According to intelligence sources, at least five other radicals have returned after training abroad and a manhunt for them is on.

"Elando" was arrested at the residence of a militant trade unionist in Jaffna who died recently.

Meanwhile, the Defence Ministry has directed an immediate probe into the West Asian link. Officials suspect that some radical organisation which believes in world revolution is giving a helping hand to the northern guerrillas.

They are trying to ascertain the degree of financial and other material assistance provided so far.

MILITARY DENIES SECRET MILITARY ACCORD WITH U.S.

[Excerpts] Minister of Finance and Planning Ronnie de Mel has invited the Finnish foreign trade association to send a delegation of Finnish businessmen to Sri Lanka to have a close look at the opportunities for investment. He was speaking in Helsinki at a seminar on investment which was organized by the foreign trade association in that country.

At a news conference arranged by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Finland, De Mel was questioned as to whether Sri Lanka had entered into a secret military agreement with the United States and had offered bases to the United States. The minister vehemently denied that there was any such agreement and stressed that Sri Lanka followed strictly nonaligned policy in its foreign relations.

TAVAKKOLI WELCOMES STEADFASTNESS FRONT'S SUPPORT

LD261930 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 26 May 82

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that Mr Tavakkoli, minister of labor and social affairs and government spokesman, at noon today took part in a radio and television news conference and answered reporters' questions on various issues.

While expressing his congratulations on the recent victories of the Islamic combatants he referred to the stance adopted by the steadfastness front in support of the Islamic Republic of Iran in the war imposed by Iraq upon Iran, saying: As the course of events has always proved the truth of our claims, once again it has been made clear that the Islamic Republic of Iran is not confronting the Arabs and that such claims are baseless. He said: Iran's aim is to fight against imperialism, America and Zionism, and Saddam is an American agent. Nevertheless, despite these facts and despite our repeated remarks, warnings and advice some Arab countries still pay no attention to these facts and attack the brothers from the steadfastness front for supporting the truth.

Concerning the policies of the Islamic Republic of Iran vis-a-vis the countries of the region the government spokesman said: We wish to live with all the countries of the region as brothers under the banner of Islam, not under the American banner. We clasp hands with all the countries of the region which accept the truth of the Islamic revolution; and at present we have very good relations with several of these countries. We thank those who have supported the correct position of the deprived Iranian nation. He added: We will in no way allow America to draw up plans for the region. We wish to act independently; and if some of the countries of the region wish to act in accordance with American orders in the region, including restoring the disgraced regime of Husni Mubarak to the Arab camp, the Iranian nation will not remain silent.

As regards the necessary defensive measures for the areas recaptured from the Iraqi Ba'thist Zionist regime, Mr Tavakkoli said: The war will end only when all our legitimate conditions are met. The end of the war does not mean the expulsion of an agressor who, in desperation and disgrace after having suffered the capture of more than 40,000 of its forces by the Islamic combatants, continues to fire at our cities with long-range artillery. We do not consider the war to be finished thus and will take any necessary steps to safeguard the security of our borders. We regard it as our right and as the right of the Iraqi nation to save the region from such a criminal [presumably Saddam Husayn].

Concerning the assistance given to Iraq by the Egyptian regime and the attempts of the reactionary Arab countries to join with Egypt, the government spokesman said: As a result of the Decisive position adopted by the Arab brothers, members of the steadfastness front, and as a result of the heroic actions by our combatants on the fronts of the imposed war this plan has been defeated. At a time when America sees that it is losing Saddam, it is no longer prepared to involve its mercenaries in a war about whose future it has no clear picture.

Mr Tavakkoli also made some remarks on the attempts being made to establish peace and a cease-fire following the recent victories by Islamic combatants and on the steps taken for the formulation of a new administrative constitution for the country.

JOINT STAFF, GUARDS COMMUNIQUE 28 ON SUCCESSES

LD262104 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 26 May 82

[Joint communique No 28 of the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. In the name of God, the crusher of the oppressors.

Noble Iranian nation: During the triumphant Jerusalem Operation [bayt al-moqaddas], the heroic forces of Islam, depending of the boundless power of God and with the unseen help of the pure and holy soul of the seal of the prophet, Mohammad ibn Abdollah -- may God's peace and felicitations be upon him and upon his kin — and the lord of the pious Imam 'Ali ibn Abu Talib -- may God's peace be upon him -- and relying on the support of the heroic nation, have succeeded in inflicting heavy losses and casualties on the aggressive forces of Saddam.

They have liberated Khorramshahr, Hoveyzeh, Zofeyr, the important Hamid garrison, the Pol-e Now bridge, extensive areas in Fakkeh and the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr ahd Khorramshahr-Shalamcheh axes. They have liberated more than 5,480 square km of the Islamic homeland from the occupation forces of the criminal Saddam. They have achieved complete control over 170 km of the border and have hoisted the proud banner of the Islamic Republic.

During these operations the fighters of Islam killed or wounded more than 16,500 captive [as heard] personnel of Saddam's aggressive forces. They have destroyed important brigades of the Iraqi Armed Forces, including the 90th, 417th and 605th Brigades, and completely captured the 48th and 45 Infantry Brigades of the 11th Division and the 9th, 10th and 20th Brigades of the border guards of Saddam's Ba'thist forces.

During the Jerusalem Operation the brave sons of the heroic nation captured a large number of aggressive Ba'thist forces. The total number of enemy POW's taken in these operations has reached 19,000. It should be noted that among the Iraqi POW's of the American Saddam there are 70 high-ranking officers of the aggressive Iraqi Armed Forces, some of whom were captured by the brave youths of the Mobilization units of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps.

[Communique No 924 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. May 27 is the birthday of (?the greatest heir) of the glorious Koran and of beloved Islam, His Holiness Hoseyn ibn 'Ali, may peace be upon him, and is also Revolution Guards Day. We offer our congratulations on this day to the lord of the age, may God hasten his glad advent, and his true vice regent, Imam Khomeyni, to the Muslim and combative Iranian nation and to all the oppressed and deprived people of the world. May this day be blessed for all the self-sacrificing guards brothers, the inheritors of the blood of Hoseyn, the disciples of Ashura, and the self-sacrificing fighters against blasphemy who responded to Hoseyn's call "is there anyone to come to my assistance," and who by sacrificing their blood are safeguarding his mission.

At 1307 today a violating Iraqi plane was hit by a fighter aircraft of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran over Abadan and was downed. Following the operations for the liberation of Khorramshahr, our fighting units are consolidating their positions and continue mopping up the liberated areas.

Yesterday morning the fighters of Islam succeeded in occupying the bridge over the (Kholyan) River and have consolidated their defensive positions. During that operation a number of Iraqi tanks were captured by the forces of Islam. Also, at 0730 yesterday morning the enemy began an offensive in the Shalamcheh region but they were forced to retreat after suffering losses and casualties.

Exchange of fire continued on the banks of the Arvand Rud and by firing on enemy positions in the other side of the Arvand Rud our forces halted the movement of Saddam's forces on the Al-Faw-Basrah road. They destroyed one mortar, one vehicle and a number of enemy emplacements containing light and heavy weapons and killed or wounded a number of Iraqi forces.

Yesterday as the result of the enemy heavy-weapon fire, some parts of Abadan were set on fire and a number of our compatriots were martyred or wounded.

During the exchange of fire on the battlefronts in the west of the country, in the Meymak, Sumar, Sar-e Pol-e Zahab and Gilan-e Gharb regions, two tanks and a quantity of enemy ammunition were destroyed.

As a result of our units' artillery fire on the forces of Saddam in the Toveyleh and Tutmal regions and on the Biarreh garrison, 60 of the Iraqi forces were killed and 2 artillery pieces, 3 mortars and a quantity of their military equipment were set on fire.

As a result of our forces' fire on enemy positions in Cheshmeh-e Bala heights more than 30 of the enemy forces were killed or wounded.

[Signed] The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran

[Text] The Central News Unit has announced: According to reports received from the central Karbala' garrison, the joint operational headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, the evacuation and counting of the POW's captured during the victorious Jerusalem Operation continues.

According to the latest count, the number of the evacuated POW's has so far reached 18,190; the counting of the rest of the POW's continues.

BAHRAINIS CELEBRATE VICTORIES OF IRANIAN FORCES

GF261825 Tehran International Service in Arabic 1730 GMT 26 May 82

[Excerpt] The Muslim masses in Bahrain have celebrated the victories of the soldiers of Islam who had liberated the brave city of Khorramshahr. A report from Manama has said that the masses of Bahrain went to the roofs of their houses and shouted "God is great" out of joy over the victory of the soldiers of the compassionate and the defeat of the aggressor Saddam regime. Commercial shopkeepers offered sweets to those celebrating the occasion.

CLANDESTINE REPORTS GUARDS EXECUTED, ASSASSINATED

GF231327 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 22 May 82

[Text] During the past 2 months, forces opposing the mullahs regime have killed at least 200 guards, committee members, mullahs and other Khomeyni gang members. Reports from various parts of the country indicate that many of the dead were individuals who participated in arrests, torture, interrogation and executions of the regime's opponents. The same reports indicate that eight guards were targets of revolutionary executions during the attack by the opposition on headquarters No 3 of the District 9 committee in Shush Square and Darvazeh Qar.

In an attack against a unit of the revolution prosecutor's office on Sohrvardi Avenue, three of the regime's executioners who were being shadowed were shot dead.

During the past 2 months a task force of resistance forces also killed an Evin Prison interrogator who had tortured opposition members. This destroyed interrogator of the Islamic regime was called Davud (?Majles Chavoshi).

In another attack by armed combatants against a patrol unit of the guards of Ayatollah Khomeyni's regime, three guards were killed on the spot. The mullahs regime did not announce the "sad" incident of these three guardians of Islam. The incident occurred on Vanak Parkway. Three other guards were killed on Tehran's Jolfa Avenue while defending Ayatollah Khomeyni's regime.

Our correspondent adds: Armed antiregime fighters and nationalist members of the resistance forces in Tehran and other cities are recognizing and carrying out revolutionary assassinations of mercenaries of Ayatollah Khomeyni's Islamic regime every day and on the basis of a precise centralized plan.

In a clash in Mohseni Square which occurred in Farvardin [month beginning 21 March] between guards and the opposition, the bodies of two guards were [words indistinct]. Five guards from two patrol units were destroyed on Tehran's Pars Avenue.

On 14 May in an armed clash two members of the antiguerrilla headquarters of the Tehran regime were killed in the northern sector of Zhaleh Square. Three others were wounded. No report has been received about their condition. The vehicle of the antiguerrilla headquarters personnel was destroyed during the operation by the antiregime guerrillas.

The Free Voice of Iran correspondent, quoting a spokesman of the Mojahedin-e Khalq organization, reports that police personnel avoid carrying out missions against the regime's opposition as much as possible. However, the antinationalist regime has put a number of guards in police uniforms in order to soil the name of the conscientious police personnel. The same individual added that the record of the honorable police personnel is different from the guards, committee members and mercenary agents of the regime.

Our correspondent adds: On 11 and 12 May many clashes occurred in Tehran. A guard unit opened fire on an opposition group on 11 May on Hashemi Avenue, but the antiregime forces carried out revolutionary executions of three guards in the same incident with the help of passersby. The next day guards and armed combatants clashed on Fereshteh Avenue. The Islamic regime lost two guards in this clash. Two grenades thrown by the opposition created this "tragic" event for the regime of ayatollahs.

In Vanak Square on the same day an even more "tragic" event occurred. Four "self-sacrificing" guards were decimated by machinegun fire.

Bahar Avenue in Tehran was the scene of the revolutionary execution of two guards at the hands of the armed antiregime combatants on 12 May. Forces opposing the Tehran regime killed a criminal mullah and his guard on 15 May on Azarbayjan Avenue in [name indistinct] Square.

According to our reporter, following the brave execution carried out by the resistance forces against the Islamic regime in Lavizan District, which resulted in the deaths of number of Ayatollah Khomeyni's guards, 36 agents and officials of SAVAMA in charge of files who were surrounded in a nine-floor building were arrested and taken to an undisclosed destination, blindfolded, by armed combatants. Some of the individuals are still alive and their interrogation continues. A number of them were sentenced to revolutionary execution in their courts and the sentences were carried out.

According to the same report, during the recent attack against Lavizan garrison, the office housing the local political-ideological branch was destroyed in an explosion. Even though the news was not reflected in the regime's media, Ayatollah Reyshahri, chief of the military tribunals, admitted the event.

It is noteworthy that the names of some of the regime's agents, such as Colonel Khorsand, who were killed in the Lavizan attacks were announced as war martyrs.

At the end of his report our correspondent points out that the so-called Islamic regime of Khomeyni has not published anything related to these fatalities.

'ARMED COMBATANTS' KILL 2 GUARDS IN TEHRAN

GF221718 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 22 May 82

[Text] We continue our newscast with a news item just received at the center of the clandestine transmitter of the Free Voice of Iran:

This morning two guards of the regime, Taqi Zain 'Ali and [name indistinct], were attacked by armed combatants on Rey Avenue and succumbed to their injuries before reaching the hospital.

The Free Voice of Iran correspondent in Tehran adds that it appears that these two persons were killed as they (?were returning) after completing their patrol duties. The report adds that the successful killing of these guards is definitely linked with the killings in Tehran during the past few days. It is said that the bodies of these guards were conveyed by a driver of a trailer who was [words indistinct] engaged in [words indistinct] to the guards.

VELAYATI, CUBAN ENVOY DISCUSS TIES, NONALIGNED

LD261802 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 26 May 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, the Cuban ambassador to Tehran met and conferred this morning with Foreign Affairs Minister Mr 'Ali Akbar Velayati. During the meeting the Cuban envoy stressed the importance of expanding mutual ties. The envoy also pointed to the forthcoming nonaligned foreign ministers meeting in Havana and the nonaligned summit meeting in Baghdad, and asked our country's foreign ministers for Iran's views.

In reply, Mr Velayati explained Iran's views with regard to the Nonaligned Movement and Iran's objections to holding the forthcoming nonaligned summit meeting in Baghdad.

SOVIET MARITIME OFFICIAL COMMENTS ON TALKS

LD262208 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 2030 GMT 26 May 82

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, the head of the Soviet maritime delegation who participated in the 13th annual shipping and harbors affairs and maritime transportation conference between Iran and the Soviet Union, has ended his tour of Iran. Before ending this trip to Iran the Soviet official said his discussions with officials of Iran's shipping and ports organization were very positive and constructive.

He added: Increasing the unloading capacity of Bandar-e Anzali and Nowshahr were among the topics discussed. Some decisions were taken.

He said the Iranian Islamic revolution has had a positive effect on the two nations' economic relations. In this context he cited the increased volume of trade between Iran and the Soviet Union through the two ports of Anzali and Nowshahr following the revolution.

NVOI URGES REVIVAL OF 'DEATH TO AMERICA' SLOGAN

TA240811 [Editorial Report] The clandestine National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran at 1730 GMT on 23 May carried a commentary entitled: "According to Ayatollah Meshkini, the Chant of 'Death to America' Is a More Pious Act Than Prayers."

It stated that the response of our struggling and independence-seeking nation to those who, in the garb of the ignorant friend and wise enemy, are always striving to negate the great Satan and to concoct imaginary foes for the Islamic Republic of Iran and divert the course of the popular and anti-imperialist revolution, is this statement by Imam Khomeyni: Direct all your shouts and demonstrations against America.

What is important to our homeland's revolutionary forces is that certain individuals, whether in the Islamic government or in revolutionary institutions, have exerted and are exerting all their efforts in the garb of the friends of the revolution and the Islamic Republic of Iran to negate world-devouring America. Were we to pay sufficient attention we would see that again these days the joint effort of the foes of the revolution and the so-called friends of the revolution in negating America has to some extent been effective.

The slogan of "Death to America" has been heard less for some time now, but on the other hand insults are hurled at the Soviet Union and socialist countries -- these true friends and supporters of the revolution and the Islamic Republic of Iran -- both from the Voice and Vision of the Islamic Republic of Iran and at some gatherings.

At the Friday prayer in Tabriz Ayatollah Meshkini declared chanting "Death to America" is a more pious act than praying. Yes, those who in one way or another, by resorting to various ploys and ruses, try to negate America can never be the friends of the revolution and have faith in the imam's line, and can under no circumstances be in the imam's line and are not true Muslims or Muslims who are against arrogance and in favor of the oppressed.

An Iranian recognizes world-devouring America well, and is very much aware of the nature of this foe of humanity. Tens and hundreds of thousands of struggling Iranians have never forgotten the slogan of "Death to America" because they have well understood and understand that all our misfortunes and tragedies are due to the United States.

In order to safeguard the gains and perpetuation of our nation's revolution, and despite the futile attempt of the liberals and other agents and mercenaries of the great Satan and of the so-called friends of the revolution, we must aim all our chants against America, and adorn all our meetings, ceremonies and gatherings with the slogan of "Death to America."

NVOI SCORES PRC'S POLICY TOWARD ASIA, MIDEAST

TA211947 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 21 May 82

[Unattributed commentary: "Beijing Is the Foe of Revolutionary Iran"]

[Text] Dear compatriots: In connection with the discovery of scores of safehouses in Shiraz during recent days and the arrest of 70 members of the terrorist group of the Maoist Peykar organization, the issue that becomes a matter for consideration is the problem of interference by Beijing's leaders in our homeland's internal affairs.

As we are aware, since the outset of the popular, Islamic and anti-imperialist revolution of our homeland's people, the Chinese hegemonists have risen in hostility toward it.

Such a stance by Beijing is indicative of a hegemonistic policy that China is pursuing toward many Asian governments, and including the governments of the Middle East countries. Which aims are the Chinese hegemonists pursuing by establishing their spy dens in the Middle East, particularly in revolutionary Iran, and by inciting and arming them against the Islamic Republic's system?

We are all aware that Beijing's leaders have unfounded territorial claims on almost all countries that are adjacent to it. However, Beijing's hegemonistic goals are not only aimed at countries that are the direct neighbors of China, but include other areas in Asia, including the Persian Gulf region. It is not accidental that Beijing's multifarious emissaries have sprouted in this region. For example, only during the past year several of Beijing's government and military delegations visited Pakistan.

During his latest visit to Islamabad the Chinese foreign minister confirmed that the reason for his presence there was to offer a so-called spirit of sincere friendship to the Near East. In fact, Beijing's leaders intend to establish in this region their special sphere of influence which did not exist up to now, with the exception that now instead of the so-called silk route they have constructed a paved route in the form of a highway over the mountains in Karakorum.

Everyone is aware of the basis on which aims China has constructed this several-thousand-km highway. Minute planning and the construction of this highway are proof that it has been built for military purposes. Currently extensive work has started to extend and modernize this highway. The new highway will give a series of political and strategic superiorities to China. This road will be mainly used for the transport of military equipment. Currently thousands of tons of military equipment and arms are being sent to Pakistan over this highway.

Since Beijing does not conceal its intentions in connection with interference in the internal affairs of the governments of Western Asia and the Persian Gulf region, this non-silk route is a serious threat to the security of the countries of this region. The experience of recent years is indicative of and in fact exposes the real hegemonistic aims of China's leaders -- aims that expose the national interests of the Middle East governments to serious dangers. The extensive subversive activities and the terrorist activity of Beijing's agents in our Islamic Republic as well are a confirmation of this fact.

For a long time now Beijing's hegemonists have been striving to infiltrate politically into the areas of Western Asia and Iran. In recent years, in connection with this attempt, they have repeatedly talked in Beijing about the so-called ancient silk route from China to the Near and Middle East, and have portrayed it as the so-called symbol of ancient friendly ties with the countries of this region.

In fact such a route existed which was built in the second century B.C. in a number of countries, including Afghanistan and northern Iran. This route was built at the cost of the tears and blood of the people and the characteristic brutality of the Chinese. It was constructed at the expense of a sea of blood of many of the nations residing in the areas through which this so-called silk route of friendship was built. The Chinese emperors used this route not only for commercial purposes, but also as a means for political infiltration to the West, and foremost of all to the Near East, the Persian Gulf region and the Indian Ocean.

The rulers of the great empire -- a title which China had at that time -- were pursuing farfetched domineering goals. Much evidence confirms that they wanted to attack Iran and to reach the shores of the Persian Gulf and the Indian Ocean. Beijing's current rulers, who are heirs to the dominancy-seeking hegemony of the founders of the so-called silk route are pursuing those very aims.

Iran-Iraq Conflict

Military Situation -- Iranian artillery fire killed 147 Iraqis on the Iraqi side of the Shatt al-Arab, IRNA reported. According to an armed forces communique carried by Tehran radio, Iraqi forces sustained considerable losses during fighting on the Khorramshahr front.

An Iraqi military communique carried by Baghdad radio said Iraqi forward units struck at Iranian positions in the Khorramshahr area, killing 47.

Islamic Good Offices Committee Meeting -- The Islamic Good Offices Committee will meet on 6 June to discuss the Iran-Iraq war, Islamic Conference Organization Secretary General Habib Chatti said upon his arrival in Jordan, Amman radio reported.

Upcoming Majlis Decision -- The Majlis will decide shortly on the possibility of escalating the fighting against Iraq with a view to advancing into Iraqi territory, the London paper ASH-SHARQ AL-AWSAT reported. The paper added that an Iranian Foreign Ministry source, who confirmed this report, said there is opposition to such a decision. According to the source, some Iranian officials believe Iran should stop at its borders and be satisfied with regaining its territory. He also noted that the atmosphere with regard to the Islamic Good Offices Committee "has become more suitable than ever before."

Egyptian Comment, Denial of Meeting -- Judging from recent Iranian threats, Iran wants to cast its shadow over the Gulf and other parts of the Middle East, an AL-AHRAM editorial reported by Cairo radio opined. Warning that the Iranian leaders are adopting the same tone uttered by leaders who were so intoxicated by their strength that they brought destruction upon their countries, AL-AHRAM said Iran would do better to absorb the lesson of history and start searching for an honorable settlement based on right and justice. Iran can achieve its demands by diplomatic means now that it has proved its military strength, the paper added. According to MENA, AL-AHRAM also expressed concern that the Iranian forces will push toward Basrah and deploy on Iraq's borders with Kuwait and Saudi Arabia.

Meanwhile, an official Egyptian source denied the London magazine AL-MAJALLAH's report that President Husni Mubarak recently met Crown Prince Reza Pahlavi for discussions on the Gulf war, MENA noted.

Iran

The Iraqi president and Iraqi Ba'th Party will have no fate except downfall and death, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni declared in a message carried by Tehran radio on the Guards Corps anniversary. Were it not for the commitment of the Iranian forces to protect the innocent and their fear of destroying Iraqi property, "a fact which still inhibits them," they would have taught the Ba'th Party such a decisive lesson that none of the "deviated" governments in the region would ever consider opposing Iran, Khomeyni said. He warned those countries in the region which are trying to confront Iran by returning Egypt to the Arab fold that they are making a big mistake. Khomeyni added that even if, after Iran's final victory over Iraq, these countries repent and change their un-Islamic behavior, it is not certain Iran could accept their repentance. He urged them to stop conspiring against and confronting Iran before it is too late.

In another part of his message, Khomeyni warned the Arab governments of the region that by submitting to the Camp David agreements and the Fahd plan, they will bring upon themselves the lasting enmity of Iran. Advising them against being deceived by the rulers of Egypt, Jordan, Morocco and Oman, he asserted that if the Egyptian and Jordanian Governments had courage and consideration for human and Arab dignity, they would have saved themselves from the bondage of Israel.

Reaction to Haig Statement

Egyptian Welcome -- An AL-AKHBAR editorial reported by MENA welcomed U.S. Secretary of State Alexander Haig's recent statements on the Middle East, asserting that Haig used the logic of facing up to the major challenges confronting the United States in the region. Haig's tone means that the United States is aware of the grave dangers in the Middle East and feels the need for a change in the course of events in the area, AL-AKHBAR asserted.

PLO, Iranian Hostility -- The clandestine Voice of Palestine radio said that by presenting through Haig new peace initiatives to solve all the problems in the Middle East, the United States "exceeds the minimum limit of logic" because it bears responsibility for "pushing the situation in the area to the brink or to the state of permanent explosion." The U.S. administration suffers from the illusion that its peaceful proposals can conceal the reality of its aggressive role in the region and make the ugly American face acceptable to Middle East states and peoples, the radio continued. The Palestinians, whose comprehensive rejection of the Camp David autonomy proposals has closed all doors in the face of that "plot," will continue to be the painful thorn in the U.S. side, the radio contended.

Linking Haig's announcement that the United States will play a more active role in ending the Iran-Iraq war with recent Saudi diplomatic activity and with UAE and Kuwaiti media comment, IRNA said "U.S. imperialism is doing its utmost to fan the flames of war through its hired agents."

Syria

Several agreements between Syria and the USSR were signed by Ivan Arkhipov, first deputy chairman of the USSR Council of Ministers, and Foreign Minister 'Abd al-Halim Khaddam, Damascus radio reported. The agreements will consolidate and develop cooperation between Syria and the USSR in all fields, according to a SANA correspondent cited by the radio.

Libya

Galtieri-Al-Qadhdhafi Messages -- In a message to Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi carried by Tripoli radio, Argentine President Lt Gen Leopoldo Galtieri thanked the Libyan leader for Libya's "sincere and brave stance" regarding the "unjust war" being waged against Argentina. Galtieri said the struggle for liberation urgently requires spiritual solidarity to confront imperialism and materialism.

In a message to Galtieri on the occasion of Argentina's National Day, carried by Tripoli Voice of Arab Homeland, Al-Qadhdhafi expressed Libya's full support for the Argentine people's struggle against British colonialism.

Jallud in Moscow -- During the course of his current visit to the Soviet Union, Staff Maj 'Abd as-Salam Ahmad Jallud met with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, JANA reported. Jallud handed the Soviet leader a message from Colonel al-Qadhdhafi, JANA said, and also held a separate meeting with Soviet defense chiefs.

DACCA REPORTS ON FUGITIVE SURVEY PLANE, CREW

BK270421 Dacca Domestic Service in English 0145 GMT 27 May 82

[Text] The attention of the Government of Bangladesh has been drawn to reports in the West Bengal [India] press about the Cessna 402 aircraft which had been flown to Calcutta from the Dacca international airport without clearance of the Bangladesh authorities.

The government has issued a handout to give a factual account of the circumstances surrounding the case. The Bangladesh space research and remote sensing organization took up a program for infrared color aerial photography of the whole country. Accordingly, an aerial survey company of Canada was engaged to carry out the project which has been aided by the UNDP grant. Before the project could be completed, the Canadian company was liquidated and its assets in Bangladesh -- including the aircraft -- reportedly became the property of another Canadian firm. The Bangladesh Government was informed by the FAO that the aircraft, along with equipment, would remain in Bangladesh until the next winter season when the photography could be completed. Representatives of the new Canadian firm arrived in Bangladesh to release the aircraft. While discussions were in progress, representatives of the new firm took off the aircraft illegally on Tuesday morning and proceeded to Calcutta.

The handout said the contractual obligations to Bangladesh for carrying out infrared aerial photography had not been fulfilled. Moreover, the company has to pay civil aviation and airport fees apart from fuel bills. Personnel of the new company have also violated the country's import-export and immigration laws.

Allegations that Bangladesh has asked them to carry out espionage activities over South Talpatti Island are baseless, totally fabricated and a mischievous attempt to rationalize illegal action. The Government of Bangladesh is in touch with the Indian authorities on this matter.

SRI LANKA

TAMIL SECESSIONIST GETS 15-YEAR JAIL TERM

BK271549 Hong Kong AFP in English 0911 GMT 27 May 82

[Text] Colombo, 27 May (AFP) -- Uma Maheswaran, the leader of the banned militant Tamil secessionist group "Liberation Tigers", who was arrested in Madras on Tuesday [25 May], has a 15-year prison term awaiting him here.

Maheswaran and a fellow militant, Sellappa Nagarasa, were tried in absentia and found guilty of the attempted murder of a ruling party parliamentarian, C. Canagaratnam, nearly 4 and 1/2 years ago, observers recalled.

Mr. Canagaratnam, who won an Eastern Province seat as a candidate from the Tamil United Liberation Front at the 1977 general election, later crossed over to the ruling United National Party.

The High Court judge who heard the case said that a document found at the scene indicated that Mr. Canagaratnam's defection was the motive for the attempt on his life.

The parliamentarian was shot at and wounded one evening opposite his Colombo residence. He spent some months in hospital, and later died of natural causes.

Meanwhile Sri Lanka's Deputy Defence Minister T.B. Werapitiya has asked local police chief Rudra Rajasingham, now in New Delhi with other police officers involved in the arrest, to thank the Madras police for their assistance, police sources said.

The Madaras police have not only arrested Maheswaran, the Tamil secessionist heading the wanted list, they earlier apprenended Velupillai Prabhakaran, another leading Tamil separatist who heads a rival militant group.

Prabhakaran and an associate were arrested when they fired at Maheswaran and his colleagues, wounding one of them.

A reward of 500,000 rupees (25,000 dollars) had earlier been offered for the arrest of these two leading militants who had been evading the police for several months.

The sources said that the Madras police would now be entitled to the reward money.

Meanwhile the widows of some of the policemen believed to have been killed by these militant leaders have cabled Tamil Nadu's Chief Minister M.G. Ramachandran to ask for the maximum penalty for the arrested Sri Lankans, the government-owned daily MIRROR said today.

REVOLUTION GUARDS DAY MARKED IN TEHRAN

AFP Report

NC272310 Paris AFP in English 2252 GMT 27 May 82

[By Pierre Taillefer]

[Text] Tehran, 27 May (AFP) -- Revolutionary Guards Day was celebrated here today by many thousands of movement members marching through the streets in a demonstration of their force.

The guards were formed in the earliest days of Iran's Islamic revolution three years ago, and this armed organization of the disinherited, as it has been called, now numbers an estimated 120,000 according to diverse sources. They are considered the most dedicated defenders of the revolution's cause. And today they marched by sections representative of the movement's various functions. The guards are dedicated to the defense of the revolution against enemies both inside the country and outside.

In the march, the more seasoned militants led the very young and the very old from the movement's local committes, all armed with the most disparate weapons, collected at the time of the overthrow of the shah's regime. Some youngsters seemed hardly taller than their rifles.

In the first ranks of the parade, some 40 clergymen with carnations in the barrels of their guns tried hard to keep up the pace. They were followed by special guard units charged with the protection of public personalities. Made up of middle-aged men mostly, they passed in groups of 50, or rode the powerful Japanese motor cycles they alone in Iran are authorized to use.

Then followed other units back from the front of the war with Iraq, a band around their foreheads bearing the name of Allah, and chanting "The pasdaran (guards) are ready to sacrifice themselves for you."

Young people swarmed around the fighters, carrying photographs or portraits of guards who died in battle.

Up to 500 girls, all wearing black veils, the chador, and carrying Soviet Kalashnikov guns, closed the parade, which was watched by only sparse crowds.

In a message read by his son Seyyed Ahmad, religious leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni renewed his warning to Arab countries in the area that persist in opposing the Iranian Islamic Republic.

"Return to Islam and your people while it is not too late," he urged them, and "cease the plots and calumnies against powerful Iran." "Join the people and Government of Iran against Israel and the enemies of Islam," the ayatollah added, concluding that those who were not heeding his counsel were "digging with their hands -- in fact the criminal hands of the United States -- their own tombs."

The high point of the day came with a parade of a few tanks and armored vehicles taken from the Iraqis. They are now part of the revolutionary guards' heavy equipment, which its military arm has been specially eager to obtain.

Khomeyni Message

[Excerpts] According to a Central News Unit report, on the occasion of the birthday of the great guard of Islam, His Holiness Hoseyn -- May God's peace be upon him -- this afternoon glorious celebrations marking Guards Day were held in Imam Hoseyn Square.

The celebrations were attended by Messrs Mahdavi-Kani, member of the Council of Guardians; Taheri-Khorramabadi and Mahallati, representatives of the imam in the Islamic Revolution Guards Crops; Brigadier-General Zahirnezhad, chief of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran; Mohsen Reza'i, commander in chief of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps; Colonel Hejazi, head of the national police; and a group of self-sacrificing figures of the Islamic revolution. The clergy, military personnel, various groups of Muslim people of Tehran and Islamic revolution guards, chanting revolutionary and Islamic slogans, marched in unified and solid ranks from Tehran University through Taleqani Street to Imam Hoseyn Square and gathered in that square. There, after chanting some verses from the glorious Koran, various units from the Air Force, the Navy and the Ground Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran marched past the glorious Koran and the portrait of Imam Khomeyni, the leader of the revolution and the founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Then Hajj Seyyed Ahmad Khomeyni read a message from the imam of the nation on the occasion of Guards Day. We draw you attention to this message:

[Begin recording] Message of the illustrious leader of the Islamic revolution, His Great Eminence Imam Khomeyni, on the occasion of Islamic Revolution Guards Day:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. As the result of the great and repeated victories, especially the Jerusalem victory, which was one of the great and rare victories in the history of wars, today for us marks the victory of truth over falsehood and the army of God over the army of Satan; thus, it is more blessed and meritorious. The Guards Corps, which is a major pillar in the history of the Islamic revolution, by following in the footsteps of the master, the lord of the wronged ones -- may God's peace and blessings be upon him -- has saved the Iranian nation and beloved Islam from the dark and dim nights of monarchical tyranny. They have been and are a solid pillar and an effective means in guarding the revolution and its goals.

On the battlefronts of the holy defense of Islam and the Islamic homeland, with complete unity and solidarity with the esteemed armed forces, the beloved Mobilization, the respected gendarmerie and tribes and the other military, security and popular forces, the Guards Corps have remained as steadfast as an iron dam and a solid foundation and have disgracefully expelled the enemies of Islam and humanity from the battlefronts. They have earned for themselves, for Islam and the esteemed Iranian homeland honor which history will never forget and which will not be overlooked by his holiness the remnant of God -- may our souls be sacrificed at his footsteps.

Today, the treacherous Saddam has realized that he will not be able to escape the trap which has been placed in his path. He and the infidel Ba'thist Party of Iraq will have no fate except downfall and death. Therefore, despite all his boastful words and empty claims of being the commander of the Qadisiyah and beating an empty drum claiming to be a revolutionary and to be an irreconcilable foe of Israel, today he has taken refuge in the lap of the government which is a lackey of America and which is a friend and ally of Israel, and has stretched a begging and supplicating hand toward the enemies of the Arabs and Islam, in the hope that they might first of all save him from this deathtrap which he has laid for himself, and second that they might divert attention from the great enemy of Islam; and the usurper of their lands and might implement the shameful Camp David agreement by returning Husni Mubarak to the Arab community, or implement the Fahd plan, which is a source of disgrace to the Arab nation and, more importantly, to Islam.

I warn the Arab governments in the region that, by submitting to such plans, in addition to putting themselves in a position of bondage to America -- or, even more shameful, to Israel -- they will also bring upon themselves the lasting enmity of the people, the government and the powerful Armed Forces of Iran. If you do not return to the embrace of Islam today, tomorrow it will be too late.

Do not be deceived by the deceits of America and by the nonsensical talk of Husni, Hasan, Hoseyn and Qabus who are truly in need of a guardian and who mistreat the youths of their country and the weapons and ammunition of their armed forces which should be used for the sake of saving themselves from the clutches of Israel. Let them not incite you to engage in hostility against an Islamic country which sent to hell the destroyed shah with all his satanical nature and the assistance which he received from bigger or smaller Satans and Saddam, who is even more criminal than the destroyed shah. Do not allow your press and your mass media to spread poison, to engage in accusations and false rumors against a country and order which desires to behave in a brotherly and good neighborly fashion with all the Muslims and the governments of the region.

You have daily witnessed how the esteemed president and the Iranian Government and Majlis have repeatedly advised you and called you to friendship, how they wish to place alongside you the great power of Islamic Iran in order to repulse the countries who have cast a greedy eye upon your resources and how they wish to save you and your resources from the hellish throat of the world devourers in the interest of the noble and wronged nations of the region.

At the beginning of the revolution, when the armed forces and the Guards Corps and the rest of our armed forces did not possess sufficient readiness, Saddam suddenly attacked Iran from the land, air and sea with all his weapons and with the treason of some of the elements who were in power, and in a surprise attack occupied a large part of our country. As soon as the believing forces and the self-sacrificing youths learned of this they blocked their path and the high-flying eagles of the air force smashed military positions throughout Iraq.

Were it not for their Islamic commitment and their desire to protect the innocent and their fear of destroying property belonging to the brotherly Iraqi nation -- a fact which still inhibits them -- they would have taught the Ba'thist Party such a decisive lesson that none of the deviated governments of the region would any longer harbor the ambition of fighting against a nation which regards martyrdom as a divine bounty.

Now that, with the grace of Almighty God and divine assistance and with the nation's unbounded love and faith, our armed forces, the Guards Corps, the Mobilization units, the tribal units and popular forces and military and security forces and revolution committees and the rest of the forces are armed with all the weapons and equipment, their call for martyrdom and "War, war until victory" has shaken not only Iran but the whole world, and from a position of great strength they stretch their powerful and blissful hands for friendship and Islamic brotherhood towards all Muslims, especially the neighboring nations and governments. I advise them that it is not in their interest -- either in this world or in the next -- to conspire every day or, with the futile hope of support from Egypt and Jordan and other traitors to themselves and to beloved Islam to wish to implement the conspiracies of world-devouring America.

If the Egyptian and Jordanian Governments had any guts and if they had any thought for their human and Arab dignity they would have saved themselves from the bondage of the Zionist regime of Israel, rather than try to recognize Israel or, through the enslaving Camp David plan, strengthen the bonds of their own bondage and degradation. Those who with their futile imagination are trying to confront the Islamic Republic by returning Egypt to the Arab fold are making a big mistake. They are digging their own graves with their own hands, which is (?the criminal hand) of America.

If after the final victory which, God willing, is only a few steps away, they turn away from their un-Islamic and un-Arabic behavior and repent -- even if the officials accept their repentance -- it is not certain that our wronged and bereaved nation would also accept it. If the nation does not accept it, none of the Iranian Government officials would have the ability to do anything, because in the Islamic Iran the nation makes the final decisions on all issues.

Therefore, before the opportunity is lost and before it is too late, they should return to the embrace of Islam and their own nations and stop conspiring against and confronting the powerful Iran. They should join with and cooperate with the Iranian Government and nation against Israel and other enemies of Islam and humanity; for in this lies their interest in this world and in the next. At the moment, the door of salvation is open to them.

Finally, I humbly thank the Iranian nation which has joyfully endured the inevitable difficulties of wartime. It even encourages the officials, and in addition to presenting its beloved ones to Islam it is active behind the fronts and with its very valuable assistance it supports the self-sacrificing forces and the government which is at their service. It has brought honor to the great Islam and its beloved homeland. Indeed, were it not for this Islamic and human attitude, the government would have reached an impasse in its very first steps.

May the blessings of God and His prophet be upon the martyrs and the wounded of the war imposed by Iraq upon Iran. May God's felicitation be upon the fathers, mothers and wives and all the families of the glorious martyrs of the beloved Islam and Iran. May the greetings and felicitations of the Iranian people be upon those who have been injured in the war. May death and curses be upon the superpowers, especially the criminal America, whose filthy hands are responsible for most of the troubles perpetrated in the region. May God's blessings and greetings be upon you.

DEFENSE COUNCIL MEETS, BRIEFS KHOMEYNI

LD271156 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 27 May 82

[Text] Supreme Defense Council members President Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i; Hashemi-Rafsanjani, speaker of the Islamic Consultative Assembly; Brigadier Zahirnezhad, chief of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran; Colonel Salimi, the defense minister; Foreign Minister Velayati; Colonel Seyyed-Shirazi, commander of the ground forces; Mohsen Reza'i, commander of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps; Sham'khani, deputy commander of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps; and Kamal Gharazi, official in charge of the War Publicity Staff, met this morning at Imam Khomeyni's residence.

At their meeting, which was also attended by Hojjat ol-Eslam Hajj Seyyed Ahmad Khomeyni, certain decisions were adopted regarding the latest developments and events related to battle victories.

The Supreme Defense Council was later received by Imam Khomeyni, the leader of the Islamic revolution and commander in chief of the armed forces. They reported to him on the outcome of their meeting. In conclusion they held congregational prayers, led by Imam Khomeyni.

RAFSANJANI RESTATES CONDITIONS FOR END TO WAR

GF271352 Tehran International Service in Arabic 1100 GMT 27 May 82

[Text] On the eve of the beginning of the Majlis' third year of functioning, Majlis Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani spoke to our correspondent about the current conditions set by the Islamic Republic of Iran to end the imposed Iraqi war.

He said: We are not the aggressors; we have always been defending ourselves. Since the war was imposed on us and our rights were violated, we have announced our conditions as follows: the withdrawal of aggressor forces from Iranian soil, the imposition of fines against the aggressor for damages we have sustained, the investigation of Saddam's crimes and the return of Iraqi deportees to their homes.

The Majlis speaker added that the aggressor forces, instead of responding to our demands, have persisted in being obdurate and in remaining [in Iranian territory]. However, our competent combatant forces were able to liberate a large part of the Islamic homeland from the presence of aggressors. The other conditions are the fine that should be paid to us and the investigation of Saddam's crimes. In that regard, the Majlis speaker said: The Saddam regime, after all the crimes it perpetrated against the nation of Islam, cannot survive. He added: We will prosecute Saddam as a criminal of war, within the right given to us by international norms. Hashemi-Rafsanjani affirmed that the Iraqi deportees should return to their homes.

Referring to the involvement of imperialist media in secret devious machinations and conspiracies and their allegation that Iran poses a danger to the Arab countries, the Majlis speaker said: These are desperate and futile attempts they make with every great victory we achieve. Since the strike this time was more devastating and the victory greater, resulting in the capture of 19,000 of Saddam's soldiers and the loss of the morale and physical capability of Iraq to maintain resistance against the strikes of our forces, Saddam's masters have started to instigate the reactionary Arab countries to give more support to Saddam, which is a likely prelude to a more obvious U.S. interference in the region.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 926

LD271840 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 27 May 82

[Communique No 926 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Dear compatriots: The dedication and sacrifices rendered by the combatants of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, those followers of the path adopted by the master of freedom-seekers and the lord of the martyrs, Hoseyn ibn 'Ali -- peace be upon his soul -- will perpetuate Islam and the Muslims' supremacy on the battlefronts of the war between truth and falsehood over the infidel mercenary Saddamists.

The situation at the war fronts, and the results of fighting and exchanges of fire yesterday between Islam's warriors and the mercenary enemy are as follows:

Exchanges of fire and fighting continued yesterday on the Khorramshahr fronts, and our able and triumphant forces, further consolidated their established concentrations and defensive positions, inflicted constant and effective blows on the Saddamist forces. The enemy sustained considerable losses and casualties.

On the Abadan front, the gendarmerie stalwarts returned fire on the enemy positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud and prevented enemy movements on the Al-Faw-Basrah axis. During these operations around 80 Iraqi forces were either killed or injured and a considerable number of Iraqi light- and heavy-weapon positions and troop assembly areas were destroyed.

Fighting and sporadic exchanges of artillery and other heavy-weapon fire were in force on the western fronts between our triumphant forces and the mercenaries of Saddam. Mounting heavy-weapon fire on the enemy positions, the combatants of the ground forces blocked the Saddam forces' movement and destroyed a number of Iraqi supply posts and two tanks. During these operations, our forces set a number of Iraqi bunkers on fire, killing their occupants.

In the regions west of the country where the stalwarts of the irregular tribal warfare units and the combatants of the gendarmerie are stationed, constant and sporadic exchanges of fire were in force.

On the Marivan front, the ground forces' fighters mounted artillery and heavy-weapon fire on the enemy positions in the regions of (Hami) Garmaneh and Saft Tavalan, inflicted certain losses and casualties on the enemy and destroyed enemy supply posts.

On the Paveh front, as a result of fire mounted by our selfless combatants, 12 Iraqi Ba'th forces were killed and damage was inflicted on the enemy positions and equipment.

As a result of heavy-weapon fire mounted yesterday by our air force's air-defense units, all the Iraqi air encroachments in the war regions of the south and west of our country were repulsed.

Parts of Abadan's residential quarters and installations were the targets of enemy artillery and heavy-weapon fire yesterday.

IRAQI LOSSES IN ARVAND RUD FIGHTING REPORTED

LD272114 Tehran IRNA in English 1704 GMT 27 May 82

[Text] Ahvaz, 26 May (IRNA) -- Fire exchanges continued over the past 24 hours between the Islamic combatants and the Iraqi aggressors along the maritime borders of the Arvand River leading to the smashing of the mast of an Iraqi ship. An Iraqi munitions carrying vehicle, two RPG-7 positions, a watch post, a mortar launcher, two artillery positions and a group bunker, located beyond the Arvand River in the Iraqi territory, were also smashed by the fire of the Islamic combatants and 147 Iraqi soliders were killed or wounded.

Following the liberation of Khorramshahr and the sweeping out of the Iraqi aggressors the southern warfronts are now limited [words indistinct].

IRAQI ARTILLERY ATTACKS KHORRAMSHAHR MOSQUE

LD271724 Tehran IRNA in English 1601 GMT 27 May 82

[Text] Khorramshahr, 27 May (IRNA) -- The ja'me mosque of the liberated Khorramshahr, the sight of massive prayer gatherings, became the target of revenge of the enemy of Islam. In the course of an artillery attack against this stronghold of resistance, 11 combatants were martyred. According to latest reports a few other Islamic defenders were wounded due to this criminal attack and were transferred to hospitals. Since the liberation of Khorramshahr, Iraqi troops moved their artillery to the other side of the Shatt al-'Arab and frequently hit the half ruined city, causing the martyrdom of a number of Islamic combatants. Similarly since the seige of Abadan was broken in September, it has also been the target of long- and middle-range artillery attack.

2 IRAQI AIRCRAFT DOWNED NEAR ABADAN 28 MAY

[Text] According to the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, two aggressor Iraqi aircraft were shot down at 1021 and 1023 today by the air defense units and fighter aircraft of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran in the vicinity of Abadan.

TEHRAN REPORTS ON STATUS OF IRAQI POW'S

LD271254 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 27 May 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, following the liberation of Khuninshahr -- the city of blood and uprising -- this morning 3,000 Iraqi POW's, who had been taken prisoner by the powerful forces of Islam in Khuninshahr, arrived in Mashhad in three trains and after evacuation were transferred to the POW camps by bus.

According to this report, Hojjat ol-Eslam Hakim, who together with the other representatives of liberation movements, has gone to Mashhad at the invitation of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps of Khorasan in order to take part in the "Guards Day" ceremonies, attended a meeting of the POW's at the hall of the Mashhad railway station.

In a speech he explained to the POW's the gains of the Islamic revolution of Iran, the recent victories achieved by the combatants of Islam in Khuninshahr and the capability of the fronts. The Iraqi POW's chanted the slogan "Death to Saddam" and, confirming his speech, expressed their revulsion of Saddam and the Ba'thist regime in Iraq.

TEHRAN SCORES SHARON REMARKS ON ARMS SUPPLIES

GF280410 Tehran International Service in Arabic 1730 GMT 27 May 82

[Unattributed commentary]

[Excerpts] Nobody has volunteered to save the Saddam regime except Ari'el Sharon, the Zionist minister of defense, who while in Washington decided to throw a life preserver to Baghdad in order to prolong the collapsing regime's life for a few more days. What has Sharon done and what is the impact of his deed on the future of this regime?

Sharon, in his campaign of falsehood, finished the scenario of the rescue of the Saddam regime during the darkest period of its flimsy reign. Within this preset scenario, Sharon was asked: Have you supplied aid to Iran? Yes, a little aid, Sharon answered, thinking that he had finished the task assigned him by U.S. imperialism.

More than a score of times, Israel has said that it has given military aid to the Islamic Republic. Not once did it provide proof of this allegation. It is easy to unbridle the tongue, especially if it is like Israel's, but it is difficult for Israel to provide one single piece of evidence of its allegations. The only evidence is the Saddam regime's need for such talk so that Israel can express how patriotic and pan-Arabist [qawmi] the Baghdad rulers are.

Every time Israel found its ally, Saddam, in a dire quandary, it made such a statement, once by Eytan and again by Sharon. The speakers are several, but the talk is the same and the objective behind it obvious. It is certainly the rescue of the original ally, Saddam, and his regime.

Amid his talks with his U.S. masters on reviving the strategic agreement, Sharon found out that his debt was to be paid off that very day. The debt of Al-Qadisiyah was to be repaid through newspapers and magazines. Therefore, he made these statements that were resented by everyone, overlooking the fact that the main enemy that he fears is the victorious Islamic revolution and the wonderful victories achieved by the soldiers of Islam.

Sharon and other members of the gang of aggression realize that the soldiers of Islam are marching toward them and that the war of Jerusalem will not end until the liberation of Jerusalem. Therefore, Sharon hurried to Washington and knelt before his masters, asking them to implement the strategic agreement out of the belief that it will save him from the Islamic danger which has almost entered Palestine and abutted Jerusalem.

Sharon's journey to Washington and Haig's statement that the victories by the Islamic forces will threaten U.S. interests in the Middle East are further evidence of Israel's fear of the new equation produced by the liberation operations in the usurped land in Khorramshahr and Hoveyzeh. The U.S. interests that Haig spoke about are the Zionist presence in the Middle East, which is threatened and doomed to destruction by the Islamic forces. Therefore, the strategic cooperation between Washington and Tel Aviv was established and 75 F-16 jet fighters worth $2.5 billion were offered to the Zionist enemy.

These facts cannot be attributed to anything but the dazzling victories achieved by the heroes of Islam on the war fronts. As for what Sharon said about the alleged Iraqi threat, it is nothing more than blowing a broken trumpet. Sharon had to speak up so that the Baghdad rulers would hear him and that he would placate them even in the last days of their life.

OIL OFFICIAL ON NEGOTIATIONS WITH JAPAN

LD271900 Tehran IRNA in English 1648 GMT 27 May 82

[Text] Tehran, 26 May (IRNA) -- A delegation is to estimate shortly the damages inflicted upon the Imam Khomeyni petrochemical complex and the expenditures for the project's suspension period as well as the investment ceiling. Announcing this the Oil Ministry undersecretary in petrochemical affairs, engineer Taheri Najafabadi, who headed the Iranian delegation in talks with Japanese delegation, hoped that the executive operation of the complex would soon start.

In an exclusive talk with IRNA, he said that the fourth round of negotiations were completed between the Iranian and Japanese delegations regarding the petrochemical complex of Imam Khomeyni Port, on the Persian Gulf. During these talks they reviewed the legal, financial and technical issues with regard to the contracts and undertakings of the two sides.

He stated that the petrochemical industries [word indistinct] believed that the former contracts, agreements and undertakings should remain valid until the complex was completed and had started operations.

On the other hand, the Japanese contractors announced that they could not supply the needed surplus capital due to financial problems. Yet, they were ready for any technical cooperation until the completion of the complex.

Engineer Taheri stated that Iran has announced that the executive offices of the complex should be opened as soon as possible and agreements have been reached in this regard between the two sides.

The engineer further said that if the prepared programmes were approved by the Iranian petrochemical authorities, the Iranian company, while preserving its rights, would accept financial assistance for executive affairs for six months so that along with the constructional activities and negotiations of Japanese contractors with Japanese governmental and banking authorities, some ways would be found to solve the financial problems. He also said that if the Japanese contractors needed the assistance of Iranian technicians, Iran was ready to meet this demand.

Engineer Taheri continued that the Japanese delegation was informed that the former undertakings should be completely (?observed and) the new investment, predicted to be more than 3.5 billion dollars, would be supplied by Iran as a low-interest loan which would be repaid from the profits of the complex after it has started operations.

PETROLEUM MINISTER MEETS SYRIAN PRESIDENT

[Excerpts] According to a Central News Unit report, Petroleum Minister Gharazi today met and conferred with President Hafiz al-Asad in Damascus. Iranian ambassadors to Syria and Kuwait, Messrs Mohtashemi and Ardakani, as well as Majlis Deputy Fakhreddin Hejazi, also attended the meeting.

NVOI WARNS OF DANGER POSED BY PAKISTAN, TURKEY

TA262003 [Editorial Report] The clandestine National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran at 1730 GMT on 26 May carried a commentary entitled "Let Us Not Pursue Superficiality and Blind Fanaticism in Connection With the Sworn Enemies of the Revolution."

It stated that some of the officials and authorities of the Islamic Republic of Iran are trying to portray Pakistan and Turkey as the friends and defenders of our nation's anti-imperialist and Islamic revolution and of the Islamic Republic of Iran in the international arena, although most probably these gentlemen themselves are well aware that the regimes ruling over Pakistan and Turkey are the puppets of world-devouring America and are the implementors of the orders of the CIA. For this reason they cannot be the friends and supporters of our Islamic Republic.

The true forces of the revolution have repeatedly drawn the attention of the Islamic Republic's committed and far-sighted government figures to the indisputable fact that a great and serious danger is aimed by the subservient Pakistani and Turkish regimes at the existence of our homeland. Member countries of the Gulf Cooperation Council, Pakistan, the United States and Britain are actually engaged in extensive cooperation against revolutionary Iran, without being allied in a single pact. At the same time all of Turkey's affairs are being run by the Americans who have 28 military bases in Turkey.
